NOTICE. U. S. Land Office Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 30, 1877. Complaint having been entered at this office by Lysander Denham against Bill Dench for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7218, dated Oct. 15, 1875, upon the n½ of Section 32, Township 34 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register. PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

13

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 17 1877. Complaint having been entered at this office by Martin R. Pratt, against Henry Couch for abandoning his Homestead Entry No 1165, dated June 21, 1876 upon the n ½ and s e qr of Section 2, Township 33 North of Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 17 day of Oct., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register. PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Notice.

A young daughter of the residence of A. R. Dougherty.

Carpenter & Bartholomew have some very fine grapes, and they are cheap. Try some of them.

Capt. Dunnett, says the Purington was not tied up in Chicago last week and we take it back.

Mr. Gray is first mate on the propeller Fontaine City.

For trimming valance go to Carpenter & Bartholomew's. They have a nice assortment.

Sutters—Osborn and Wilson of Norwood settled their difficulty, and our Justice Court lost the case.

Plenty of Phelps, Dodge & Palmer Custom made boots and shoes at See & Washburn's.

New goods. Good goods cheap goods and lots of them at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Groceries at as low figures as they can be bought for in town at See & Washburn's.

If you want to get a good hat go to See & Washburn's.

Personal.—M. J. Stockman, Esq., went to Buffalo on the Fountain City, on Friday.

L. D. Bartholomew returned from Cleveland Friday.

Miss Jennie Martin, formerly a teacher in our public schools, is in town.

Misses Hattie and Irene Butters, sons and daughters of Avelon Butters of this place, arrived from Port Austin on Friday.

Mrs. H. H. Van Norman and son Frank spent a few days in town last week.

The Upper River.—The tug Sparks, of Grand Rapids, arrived at Pinconning on Friday, and is now engaged in towing a boom of logs down the river to Saginaw.

New goods this week at See & Washburn's.

Marine Accident.—The three-masted schooner Bay View, went ashore while going out of the harbor on Friday morning last. The vessel had in tow one of the steamer Purington, which was lying at the ice bridge. The Purington had two 50-fathom ropes on board, and the port bow of her spritsail yard carried away, leaving her two ropes short. The vessel lay here for several days waiting for a tow, but proceeded on her way to Chicago.

Men's coats and vests, pants to order. Come and see the goods and prices before purchasing elsewhere. See & Washburn's.

The Fair.—The steamer Van Buren will run as follows during the week of the fair: Monday and Tuesday will make trips as usual. Wednesday will leave Little Traverse at two a. m. touching at Petoskey, Charlevoix, Norwood and Torch Lakes, arriving at Elk Rapids at 6 p. m. for Little Traverse and other Pacific ports. One full fare for the round trip going and returning.

Beautiful pure calcimine, and the White Lily Bleaching Powder, at See & Washburn's.

The River Dyke.—An examination of the shore recreation of the South pier will at once be interesting, and convince anyone of the efficacy of that kind of work, and the masterly skill of Inspector Burke. The inside line of the work is about five feet back of the inside line of timber cribs. When the work is completed a row of piles 8 feet apart will be driven in line with the timber pier, and facing the dyke. As the dredging progresses the outer row will settle, unevenly perhaps down against the piles. This will matter not, as new brush work will be built up from the uneven surface to a correct line or the top. When completed this will consolidate and make as solid, substantial and lasting as solid timber and stone. One hundred and seven feet of this work has been built, ten cost of about $600. Mr. Burke will put a quantity of brush in the outside angles of the South pier, and also inside around the projecting point; to prevent its further extension into the channel.

Ice Bar.—On saturday, H. H. Van norman, of Norwood, thinking perhaps an arrangement might be made whereby Lamphear, the county prisoner might be released, visited the County Clerk's office with that end in view. County Clerk Upright, who has the prisoner in charge, brought Lamphear to the office to talk the matter over, and while the negotiations were progressing, the prisoner managed to get out doors without being noticed, and immediately started at a rapid rate up the County road. Mr. Upright discovered the fugitive through the window, and immediately gave him pursuit. After a lively run of about three rods Lamphear was overtaken and carried back. When questioned by Mr. Upright as to why he made the attempt, he said he "wanted to get away." Mr. Upright locked the prisoner in one of the iron cells, and says he will see that he stays there hereafter.

Notice!

New goods, new goods, good goods, and plenty of them at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Remember the Pacific Ball to night A verified test race between Sensation, Surprise and Flora Temple will take place. Admission 25 cts.

New goods, new goods, good goods, and plenty of them at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

FOREIGN.

LISBON dispatches of the 31st say the Turks have adopted the line of Tchadaldja in their recent assaults upon Schipka. It was stated that Suleiman Pasha had abandoned all efforts but its occupying.

THE Turks evacuated Sukum-Kaleh, on the Black Sea, on the 5d.

EX-PRESIDENT THIERS died quite suddenly, at his residence near Paris, on the evening of the 3d.

AN official statement places the Russian losses at Schipka at 1,200 killed and 3,000 wounded.

SEVEN KALEH has been occupied by the Russians. The Abchasian coast is clear of Turks, and the rebellion in the interior has been suppressed.

THE Turkish parliament has been convoked for Nov. 13.

A ROAD has been constructed up Schipka Pass, by the Russians, for the passage of troops into Roumelia.

ADVICES to a telegram from the Turkish Commander at Kochliwa of the 8th, he had defeated the Russian Twelfth Army Corps, near that place and driven them back over the mountains 3,000 strong and wounded. The loss to the Turks was 300 killed and 500 wounded.

A FOREIGN force of 2,000 Montenegrins are massed a village near Pereliin, recently, intending to get cattle and grain. During the night, a fresh band arrived, which the first party supposed to be Turks, and a fierce struggle ensued, with a loss of 50 killed and a great number wounded. Not until morning was the mistake discovered.

THE deficit of the Turkish Treasury for the current year is calculated at 1,125,000 Turkish pounds.

IT is said that the Pope has definitely decided to re-establish the Roman hierarchy in Scotland.

THE Army of the Emir of Bokhara has been placed on a war footing, because the Emir considers that Russia is warring against the Mohammedan religion.

THE Battle of Kizilitape, which cost the Turks 430 killed and 1,600 wounded, resulted in the Russians being driven from their position at Kizilitape, on the 10th.

A FURTHER issue of 6,000,000 piasters of Turkish paper money has been made.

NICOSIA, according to a special from Cattaro of the 9th, has practically surrendered. The place had nineteen guns. The garrison were permitted to withdraw to Gaitsche. The Montenegrins secured several commanding positions on the heights surrounding the citadel, and this fact precipitated the surrender.

THE release from imprisonment of the Russian bankrupt speculator in railways, Br. Stroussberg, is announced.

THE Emperor of Brazil sailed for home on the 9th.

THE funeral of ex-President Thiers, at Paris, on the 8th, was conducted with imposing ceremonies, 500,000 people being in attendance, together with all the diplomatic corps. The Minister Washburne attended, with U. S. Minister Noyes.

CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE the Egyptian obelisk, was afloat in deep water, inclosed in a caisson, on the 8th, and would be towed at once to London.

THE reported capture of Plevna by the Russians is discredited by a London despatch of the 9th. The latest intelligence, up to the evening of the 9th, reported that for nearly two days the fighting had been progressing; that the Turks still held Plevna, but the Russians had secured a line of Turkish redoubts, and a Turkish retreat was thought to be imminent. The storming column was led by the Rumanian forces, and their numbers are sadly depleted.

ON the 6th, a battle was fought with the right wing of the Rasgrad Army, and continued all day, without any apparent advantage to either side. The losses were extensive on both sides. A telegram from the Turkish Commander announces the retreat of the Russians.

ACCORDING to a Constantinople telegram of the 10th, the whole of Suleiman Pasha's Army had passed north of the Balkans.

THE moment Servia takes part in the war, the Turkish forces on the frontier have been ordered to enter that Principality.

A DEFIANTE agreement, according to an Athens special of the 10th, had been made between Greece and Russia, and it was said the former would soon issue a declaration of war against Turkey.

LAYARD, the explorer, has been granted a firman by the Sultan, authorizing excavations at Nineveh.

THE Khedive, having given England the right to search vessels in Ottoman waters, supposed to be engaged in the slave trade, the Porte has protested against this action.

DOMESTIC.

A CASE of undoubted yellow-fever occurred in New York City on the 4th. The patient, who was a sailor from a Gulf port, died. Efficient steps have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

ON the 4th, while endeavoring to kindle a fire in a kitchen stove with kerosene, Mrs. Edwin C. Fisher, of West Lebanon, N. H., was fatally burned.

AT Red Cloud Agency, on the 4th, considerable excitement prevailed, caused by the avowed determination of Crazy Horse and others to leave the reservation, and a large party did leave the reservation; but after the arrival of the troops they were captured and brought back, with the exception of Crazy Horse, who escaped.

COUNTERFEITERS, according to the secret-service reports, were never so numerous in the country as at present. Upward of a hundred of bad dollars are displayed at headquarters, any one of which is calculated to deceive. During the last half year each month has averaged about sixty arrests.

ON the 5th, Crazy Horse, the belligerent Indian, was captured at Spotted-Tail Agency, and lodged in the guard-house at Camp Robinson. On his way there he drew a knife and tried to murder his guard. Crazy Horse was badly wounded in the struggle.

WM. M. TWEED, on the 6th, appeared before the New York Aldermanic Committee on the investigation of Ring Frauds, and gave testimony regarding his connection with the frauds of 1868-70. He said that a Democratic Hall, Comptroller Connolly, Street Commissioner McLean and himself constituted that Ring.

THE Army of the Tennessee held its reunion at St. Paul on the 5th and 6th. It was decided to hold the next at Indianapolis. The attendance was good. Gen. Wm. T. Sherman was elected President, Col. Dayton, Secretary; Gen. Force, Treasurer, and Col. Vilas, Orator.

THE outgoing Treasurer of Auglaize County, Ohio, named Louis Mayers, on the evening of the 6th, while on his way home, at Wapakoneta, was seized, gagged and taken to his office, where four masked men made him surrender up the keys of his safe, which they robbed of $37,000. Mayers was found next morning, nearly bound and gagged, and nearly dead from exhaustion and fright.

ON the 7th, President Hayes was present at the reunion of Union and Confederate ex-soldiers at Marietta, Ohio. He spoke briefly in response, and was warmly received.

ESTIMATES, published on the 7th, show that the wheat crop of this year will aggregate 325,000,000 bushels, leaving a surplus of 111,000,000 bushels for export.

THE Milwaukee physician, Dr. Orton, who, some months ago, was indicted for counterfeiting, was arrested, on the 9th, at Fort Wayne, Ind., where he had examined the issue of Chambers, and was practicing medicine.

THE guilt of the $31,000 check forgery on the Union Trust Company of New York has been traced to and fas cued upon two clerks, one in the Union Trust and one in the New York Life Insurance Company.

IN Iowa and Illinois the corn crop is said to be beyond any danger from frost.

FOR the murder of Mary Ann Whitby, in May, 1873, Thomas F. Corley was hanged in Boston, Mass., on the 10th.

HENRY BURLAGE murdered his brother at Baltimore, on the 10th, and then killed himself. The deed resulted from a quarrel over business matters.

THE Hartford Common Council has discovered a deficiency of over $45,000 in the accounts of the late City Collector, John Francy.

ON the morning of the 10th, the vicinity of Mount Holly, N. J., experienced a shock of earthquake, and houses were shaken and crockery broken.

AT Fernandina, Fla., on the 10th, there were two fatal cases of yellow-fever, quarantine the eg-liest that place has been established in the various Floridian towns, and a large number of people are leaving the State.

PERSONAL.

MRS. IRENE HOUSE, who shot her husband, a noted divorce lawyer, some years ago, and was acquitted on a plea of insanity, was released from the New Jersey Insane Asylum, on the 4th, cured.

IT is announced that Anderson, of the Louisiana Returning Board, has been appointed Deputy Collector of the Port of New Orleans.

CHIEF HOUSE, the Indian Chief, who was wounded while assaulting his guard, according to a Camp Robinson dispatch of the 5th, died from his wounds at midnight of the preceding day.

THE freedom of the Cities of Dundee and Aberdeen has been voted to ex-President Grant, by their respective Town Councils.

AS Turkey have been so many eminent men about the nationality of Osman Pasha, the Turkish fugleman at Washington has issued the announcement to be made that that distinguished officer is of Mussulman parentage, born in Asia Minor.

THE Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Rappe, who was consecrated in 1847, and ordained in 1872, died at St. Alhanson on the 9th, aged seventy-seven.

THE well-known publisher of New York City, Frank Leslie, has made an assignment.

THE late Minister to France, Hon. E. B. Washburne, has sailed for this country.

SENATOR MORTON, according to a Richmond (Ind.) despatch of the 10th, was not improving as much as his friends had hoped, and it was feared that his death might take place at any time.

POLITICAL.

ON the 5th, the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee met at Harrisburg, and nominated, for Supreme Judge, J. P. Sterrett; for Treasurer, Wm. H. Hart; Auditor General, J. S. M. Paramore. The platform adopted declares that "while we recognize and respect the differences of opinion as to the course of the President during the South, we are hearti ly in accord in honoring the patriotic motives which have guided him;" that the wisdom of the Democracy are childlike and foolish; asks members of Legislatures and Congress to adopt measures which will assist in the return of prosperity to the country; opposes the grant of more than 100 acres of land to any person or corporation; deprecates the release of pardons; demands the repeal of the act demonetizing silver and the restoration of the double standard; indorses the administration of Rev. Hartranft; favors economy, and indorses the resort of forts to suppress disturbances in the State, etc.

THE Greenback Convention of Massachusetts met at Boston, on the 5th, and nominated Wendell Phillips for Governor, D. H. Lane for Lieutenant Governor, Nathaniel Clark, Jr., for Secretary of State; H. M. Bemis for Auditor, W. F. Whitney for Treasurer, and Israel W. Andrews for Attorney-General. The resolutions declare that greenbacks are the only desirable currency; that they should be interchangeable with 3-65 bonds; that the interest on private capital should be kept at the minimum by competition; that savings banks should be supervised; that the Resumption act should be repealed, etc.

IN the election in Wyoming Territory, according to a Cheyenne special of the 8th, the Democrats had secured a majority in both the Council and House of that Territory.

THE State Central Committee of the Independent free-block party of Minnesota met at St. Paul, on the 8th, and nominated for State Auditor, Wm. L. Banning; for Governor, Wm. Meighan or Ignatius Donnelly; Lieut. Governor, Isaac Staples; for Treasurer, A. E. Rice; for Secretary of State, S. L. Pierce; for Attorney-General, Thos. Wilson. The convention, representing the farmers and workingmen, also adopted this ticket.

ACCORDING to a dispatch from San Francisco of the 7th, the Democrats have elected ten Senators and fifty-seven Assemblymen, and the Republicans ten Senators and twenty-three Assemblymen. With those who hold over, the Democrats have ninety-eight majority on joint ballot.

A THOROUGH change in the management of the New York Custom House is regarded for the good of the service by the President and Cabinet, and when Congress meets that change will be made.

AT Harrisburg, Pa., on the 10th, the State Labor Convention met. The nominations were: For Supreme Judge, Wm. L. Smith; Auditor-General, John W. Davis; State Treasurer, James L. Wright. In the platform they call for the abolition of the National banking system; the repeal, unconditionally, of the Specie Resumption act; insist that eight hours be a day's work, and favor legal penalties for violations; favor the sanitary inspection of all conditions of labor, etc.; the enactment of Protective Tariff laws; the establishment of Bureaus of Statistics in the States, as well as by the National Government; equalization of taxes; the abolition of the contract system in State, National and municipal work; condemn the leasing of railroads; favor reserving land for actual settlers; the establishment of courts of arbitration to settle all disputes arising on employers responsible for injuries to employes; the abolition of conspiracy laws; gratuitous education, etc.

THE Maine election, on the 10th, passed off quietly, and the vote was light. Conner (Rep.) was believed to have received a plurality of between 4,000 and 5,000 votes. The Legislature is strongly Republican in both branches.

Popular Superstition in Rome.

The superstitions of the people are endless. They not only believe in those which are common, in the United States, such as the evil omen of spilling salt, of breaking a looking-glass, of the cries of nocturnal birds, of having thirteen persons at table, and of undertaking any enterprise on Friday, but they believe in the evil eye. This is a superstition which was common to the Romans, and which was placed at the doors of their houses figures of reptiles, a wolf's tail, or an onion, and worn on their persons amulets made of goats' horns and of coral, which was considered a powerful protection against lightning. Amulets and charms are still worn. They are blessed by the priest and hung round the necks of children, who sometimes continue to wear them all their lives. Their material varies according to the condition and means of the parents: some are of gold, others of silver, brass or copper, and many are nothing but tinsel, covered with a little silk embroidery. Figures of the Madonna of course are represented upon them, and they are supposed to be a talisman against accident or misfortune. The crook of a person is sold at Naples and Rome, and so much worn here, are imitations of the goat's horn and are lighted at dusk to ward off the evil eye. This is the ancient superstition preserved in its original form.

Not long ago, in the excavations made at Rome, a little gold bell of a peculiar shape was found, upon which were engraved several words, the interpretation of which is that the bell was a talisman against the evil eye and was to be hung round the neck of a child. The original bell was presented to the Princess Margaret, and innumerable imitations have been made of it, so that it is now one of the most familiar ornaments of ladies and children.—Rome Cor. N. Y. Evening Post.

SPEAKING of cookery, the attention of American ladies who are piling for a vacation is respectfully called to the fact that, while food material here is more abundant and varied than in any other country, the average of the cookery is the poorest that could easily be found. They throw freely of spices, which tend to destroy physical strength; though not the same time the whole mass seemed composed of bone, for there was very little muscle to cover it. The color of its great coarse face was of unnatural whiteness, and the rigid immobility of the features favored the idea that the man was really dead than alive. There was altogether something so remarkable in his looks that I could with difficulty turn my eyes from him. My fixed gaze, I imagine, aroused some cuiollous within him, for he returned my scrutiny with a determined and terrific glare. If I forced myself to turn away my head for a moment, round it would come again, and there were his

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

JAMES KANE, a well-to-do farmer of the Township of Algonda, was struck by lightning while at work in one of his fields, on the 31st ult., and instantly killed.

THREE Marquette tradesmen recently shipped 100 "ustons of knick-knacks in one day, when they had bought for 4,500 on bucket within the twenty-four hours previous.

A MORMON missionary is proselyting in Michigan.

THE southern tier of counties is suffering from log-cholera.

HERMAN BAER, at Reed's Lake, was burned a few days ago. Loss, $1,200.

THE 3-n. little Jake was struck by lightning, on Saginaw Bay, on the night of the 30th ult.

ON the afternoon of the 3d, a young woman named Kate Stoddard, while drunk, went from Detroit to Hamtramck, and, sadying auburn, drowned her six-year-old child, hurled it in the sand, and returned to Detroit with her three-year-old child. She was arrested

A PRISONER, sentenced to the House of Correction, while on route from Muskegon, on the 3d, jumped from the train, at Nunica, and escaped.

CHAS. HOFFENBECH, of Grand Haven, committed suicide in his shooting on Main street, on the night of the 3d, by cutting an artery in his right arm with a shoe-knife. He was a respectable German, about sixty years of age, and had resided in Grand Haven twenty years. He leaves a wife and four children. The cause was pecuniary trouble.

REPORTS from 1,100 counties in Northern Michigan show that, with a single exception, corn and potatoes are a full average crop. The latter average about forty bushels to the acre, and what about twenty the

ON the 3d, at Sebewaing, on the east shore of Saginaw Bay, a man named Baker was killed by runaway horses.

THOMAS LEWIS, brother of Mayor Lewis, of Detroit, was thrown from his carriage, on the 5th, and fatally injured.

JOHN BOSANQUET, of Midland City, was arrested, on the 6th, upon the charge of murdering his wife. John and his wife have not lived together very comfortably lately, for which reason Mrs. Bosanquet had applied for a bill of divorce, and, intended, when it was granted, to marry a man named Johnson. On the 4th, the case came up for trial, but Bosanquet had it adjourned. He then went home, and when his wife came in, about three o'clock, they had a quarrel. The neighbors heard her talk, watched the house, and observed that Mrs. Bosanquet did not leave it. Bosanquet went down town in the evening, and told some parties that he was afraid that she would make way with herself, as she had taken a severe beating that noon. The neighbors, fearing that something was wrong inside search, and found her body nearly buried.

MICHIGAN bank agents are instructed to sell exercise tickets from all stations on the line in Michigan to the Jackson fair and return for one regular fare. This big State fair begins Sept. 16. Tickets will be good to return until the 22d inst. In addition to regular trains, special trains will be run to meet the wants of the people.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury Aug. 25 was $633,676.04; receipts during the week ending Sept. 1 were $14,304.77; payments during the same time were $54,107.90; balance in Treasury Sept. 1, 1877, $593,872.81; decrease for the week, $42,803.13.

PARTIES who have traveled through various portions of the State report a heavy crop of corn in most localities.

ALL the acts of the last Legislature have gone into effect.

INSURANCE Commissioner Row has issued a circular calling the attention of insurance companies to an act of the last Legislature which prohibits the betting, either on policies, unless compliance is made with the provisions of law regulating insurance companies.

THERE are 2,111 children between the ages of five and twenty years in Lansing.

TWO PROMINENT German citizens of Detroit died on the 6th—Solomon Freedman, senior member of the house of Freedman Brothers, and Frank Kremer, well known as a politician, and formerly a member of the Board of Aldermen.

ALLEGAN people want Albion College moved to their town.

THE Saginaw Valley & St. Louis Railroad intend building a new bridge over the Tittabawassee River.

THE Muskegon harbor improvement is progressing very favorably.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND, the Evangelist, is to labor at East Saginaw four fall.

THE Adrian Jail has nineteen prisoners down with fever, and the Justice declares that he will move out unless the institution be cleansed

THE general Manager of the Michigan Central Railroad has issued a circular directing Division Superintendents and Trainmasters to so arrange the runs of their men that they can be at home on the Sabbath

THEY are driving quite a thriving trade at Bloomingdale this year in salted suckers, a fish which has heretofore been considered worse than useless. They bring as high as $3 per barrel, are sent South and sold as "bay fish."

CRAWFORD Bros., grocers, and Southwick & Wright, crockery dealers, of Grand Rapids, have failed.

THE storage rooms of Schultz & Sattler's barrel factory, at Lansing, were burned, on the evening of the 8th. Loss, $30,000.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, 21.25@2.65; Butter, per lb, 12@18c; Cheese, per lb, High Dairy, Ohio, per lb, 10@12c; Flour, White Winter, $6.25@6.75; Amber, $5.75@6.00; Rye, $1.00@4.50. Cattle, per central, $3.25@4.50; Hogs, $4.75@5.00; Sheep, $3.50@4.25; Oats, Mixed, per bu, 28@29c; White, 28@31c; Pork, per bbl, $14.00@14.50; Rye, per bu, 50@55c; Wheat, White, $1.24@1.35; Amber, $1.00@1.26.

Late Fashion Items.

Perhaps the prettiest fashion in the universal wearing of white for full dress; white grenadines, white cashmeres and white foulards are used at the seaside where thinner materials would be injured by the dampness, all sorts of feather trimmings and exuberant ruches are used as trimmings

Among the newest similes are these singular names: Dead turquoise, surfland, apple, Eudymion's moonbeam, nenuphar and water lily green, Dacha's green, toadstool moss green, absinthe green, cooked sorrel green, Persian lilac, Dubarry plak, Pierrot white, wood or marigold yellow and meteor red.

Yellow in the shade known as old gold is still retained for dresses, in conjunction with black. A very handsome dress for autumn is of black grenadine, with a checked design of chenille, in which threads of gold are interwoven. It is made in the Princesse style, and the drapery is laid at one side under two large "choux," or full rosettes of black and yellow; this draws the dress open to show the black skirt beneath, which is of silk, alternate kilts of yellow and black silk extending from the waist to the edge of the dress. Chenille is also used for the two robes is set on The vest front, the turn over collar and the sleeves are of plaited silk, and the whole is embroidering; this costume is for the house, and although eccentric, is excessively rich.

Until quite recently the "Madonna" has been a favorite, but it has held its place in popular favor, and is still so much a favorite that fall dress goods are made in shades of dark chamois colored felt, the brims supple and capable of assuming the graceful curves and pointed sides; and the velvet ramadoras of green or of the deepest shade of ruby have been seen at the watering places of the races. Other bonnets for dress occasions at the seaside have cardinal bands, the whole crown a mass of currants and leaves, the under-brim is also a wreath of the leaves, and the back composed of some large full wreath of roses and buds of different shades; some have coronets of vine leaves in shaded hues, while the backs are a mass of green and black grapes. Round the sides will be seen over the face are encircled with damson plums on a dark ground of white satin Alsatian bows set on the crown.

Long draperies are still worn, and the backs of graceful princesse dresses always are in folds which are sometimes studded up half a yard from the bottom in allow of "crevasse" or trimmings set in either as puffs or narrow, graduated ruffles. These long trains are set on in deep plaits from the waist, and are held under bows and loops of ribbon, or a scarf is worn negligently over them to hold them in place when walking. The tendency for evening wear or when made of the dark-colored very rich materials, is to be quite severe, no much worn for ornaments, but the square, or sort heart-shaped back and front, for materials they are filled in with illusettes of cut-work, or with ruffles of the material in color; and for evenings laces is used. In Europe these dresses are always accompanied by a pelerine or cape of the same, or of white lace, and when worn out-of-doors. Blue linen or Irish flannels with lighter material for trimmings, are much worn by children for the skirt, and scarf for the neck, is one of the favorite styles of morning dress with little girls.

In jewelry the newest designs for pins are long bars of gold or onyx set with diamonds, for scarf pins or to be worn at the neck. Some of the handsomest designs shown at Tiffany's have onyx bars two inches long, from which the diamonds are hung as if they were slotted a fine gold bar, and Congress to adopt measures which will assist in the return of prosperity to the country; opposes the grant of more than 100 acres of land to any person or corporation; deprecates the release of pardons; demands the repeal of the act demonetizing silver and the restoration of the double standard; indorses the administration of Rev. Hartranft; favors economy, and indorses the resort of forts to suppress disturbances in the State, etc.

THE Greenback Convention of Massachusetts met at Boston, on the 5th, and nominated Wendell Phillips for Governor, D. H. Lane for Lieutenant Governor, Nathaniel Clark, Jr., for Secretary of State; H. M. Bemis for Auditor, W. F. Whitney for Treasurer, and Israel W. Andrews for Attorney-General. The resolutions declare that greenbacks are the only desirable currency; that they should be interchangeable with 3-65 bonds; that the interest on private capital should be kept at the minimum by competition; that savings banks should be supervised; that the Resumption act should be repealed, etc.

IN the election in Wyoming Territory, according to a Cheyenne special of the 8th, the Democrats had secured a majority in both the Council and House of that Territory.

THE State Central Committee of the Independent free-block party of Minnesota met at St. Paul, on the 8th, and nominated for State Auditor, Wm. L. Banning; for Governor, Wm. Meighan or Ignatius Donnelly; Lieut. Governor, Isaac Staples; for Treasurer, A. E. Rice; for Secretary of State, S. L. Pierce; for Attorney-General, Thos. Wilson. The convention, representing the farmers and workingmen, also adopted this ticket.

ACCORDING to a dispatch from San Francisco of the 7th, the Democrats have elected ten Senators and fifty-seven Assemblymen, and the Republicans ten Senators and twenty-three Assemblymen. With those who hold over, the Democrats have ninety-eight majority on joint ballot.

A THOROUGH change in the management of the New York Custom House is regarded for the good of the service by the President and Cabinet, and when Congress meets that change will be made.

AT Harrisburg, Pa., on the 10th, the State Labor Convention met. The nominations were: For Supreme Judge, Wm. L. Smith; Auditor-General, John W. Davis; State Treasurer, James L. Wright. In the platform they call for the abolition of the National banking system; the repeal, unconditionally, of the Specie Resumption act; insist that eight hours be a day's work, and favor legal penalties for violations; favor the sanitary inspection of all conditions of labor, etc.; the enactment of Protective Tariff laws; the establishment of Bureaus of Statistics in the States, as well as by the National Government; equalization of taxes; the abolition of the contract system in State, National and municipal work; condemn the leasing of railroads; favor reserving land for actual settlers; the establishment of courts of arbitration to settle all disputes arising on employers responsible for injuries to employes; the abolition of conspiracy laws; gratuitous education, etc.

THE Maine election, on the 10th, passed off quietly, and the vote was light. Conner (Rep.) was believed to have received a plurality of between 4,000 and 5,000 votes. The Legislature is strongly Republican in both branches.

Popular Superstition in Rome.

The superstitions of the people are endless. They not only believe in those which are common, in the United States, such as the evil omen of spilling salt, of breaking a looking-glass, of the cries of nocturnal birds, of having thirteen persons at table, and of undertaking any enterprise on Friday, but they believe in the evil eye. This is a superstition which was common to the Romans, and which was placed at the doors of their houses figures of reptiles, a wolf's tail, or an onion, and worn on their persons amulets made of goats' horns and of coral, which was considered a powerful protection against lightning. Amulets and charms are still worn. They are blessed by the priest and hung round the necks of children, who sometimes continue to wear them all their lives. Their material varies according to the condition and means of the parents: some are of gold, others of silver, brass or copper, and many are nothing but tinsel, covered with a little silk embroidery. Figures of the Madonna of course are represented upon them, and they are supposed to be a talisman against accident or misfortune. The crook of a person is sold at Naples and Rome, and so much worn here, are imitations of the goat's horn and are lighted at dusk to ward off the evil eye. This is the ancient superstition preserved in its original form.

Not long ago, in the excavations made at Rome, a little gold bell of a peculiar shape was found, upon which were engraved several words, the interpretation of which is that the bell was a talisman against the evil eye and was to be hung round the neck of a child. The original bell was presented to the Princess Margaret, and innumerable imitations have been made of it, so that it is now one of the most familiar ornaments of ladies and children.—Rome Cor. N. Y. Evening Post.

SPEAKING of cookery, the attention of American ladies who are piling for a vacation is respectfully called to the fact that, while food material here is more abundant and varied than in any other country, the average of the cookery is the poorest that could easily be found. They throw freely of spices, which tend to destroy physical strength; though not the same time the whole mass seemed composed of bone, for there was very little muscle to cover it. The color of its great coarse face was of unnatural whiteness, and the rigid immobility of the features favored the idea that the man was really dead than alive. There was altogether something so remarkable in his looks that I could with difficulty turn my eyes from him. My fixed gaze, I imagine, aroused some cuiollous within him, for he returned my scrutiny with a determined and terrific glare. If I forced myself to turn away my head for a moment, round it would come again, and there were his

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

GRANDFATHER'S PET.

There is the room where she slept,
Only a year ago;
Gold and softly waves
Blinds and curtains like snow.
There, by the bed, in the dusky gloom,
She sang & knelt with her lily clasped hands
And sang
Here is the little white rose of a room
With the fragrance fled away!

Sadly, gentle voice,
With her wise little face—
I seem to hear her yet—
Sits big about the place;
But the crickets call on, and the straws are dear,
And the world seems hard with a bitter doom,
And Nellie is singing elsewhere—and here
Is the little white rose of a room.

Why, if she must just there,
As she used to do
With her long, light, yellow hair,
And her even shoe
Of blue,
If she must, I say, at the edge of the bed,
And ran to my side with a lively touch,
Though I knew—and I knew that there was no desirable shelter nearer, unless I chose to throw myself on the hospitality of the corporation, and become a boarder—she embosomed amongst the hills a little to the east of the road I was traveling. There is something romantic in the idea of living in a residence at a convent, but to, that I need not now say anything After a short mental debate, I nevertheless prepared myself at the convent gate and ask them to give me a night's shelter. As I neared all the road and rang the heavy bell, which was answered by a burly, rosy cheeked lay brother, and he forthwith conducted me to the Prior, who was called the Pere Dolivet. He received me very kindly, and we chatted away for some time on politics and the affairs of the world; and when the brothers were summoned to the refectory I begged leave to join them and share their simple repast, instead of eating the solitary supper prepared for me. There were two tables in the hall, and I was seated next the Prior, in a situation that gave me a pretty good view of the whole company, and, as I cast my eyes round to take a survey of the various countenances, they all wore a solemn cast of thought, and the absence of conversation and buds of different shades; some have coronets of vine leaves in shaded hues, while the backs are a mass of green and black grapes. Round the sides will be seen over the face are encircled with damson plums on a dark ground of white satin
Alsatian bows set on the crown.

Long draperies are still worn, and the backs of graceful princesse dresses always are in folds which are sometimes studded up half a yard from the bottom in allow of "crevasse" or trimmings set in either as puffs or narrow, graduated ruffles. These long trains are set on in deep plaits from the waist, and are held under bows and loops of ribbon, or a scarf is worn negligently over them to hold them in place when walking. The tendency for evening wear or when made of the dark-colored very rich materials, is to be quite severe, no much worn for ornaments, but the square, or sort heart-shaped back and front, for materials they are filled in with illusettes of cut-work, or with ruffles of the material in color; and for evenings laces is used. In Europe these dresses are always accompanied by a pelerine or cape of the same, or of white lace, and when worn out-of-doors. Blue linen or Irish flannels with lighter material for trimmings, are much worn by children for the skirt, and scarf for the neck, is one of the favorite styles of morning dress with little girls.

In jewelry the newest designs for pins are long bars of gold or onyx set with diamonds, for scarf pins or to be worn at the neck. Some of the handsomest designs shown at Tiffany's have onyx bars two inches long, from which the diamonds are hung as if they were slotted a fine gold bar, and two great mysterious eyes upon me and that still jaw slowly sat mechanically moving from side to side, as he ate his supper, like something acted on by a pendulum. It was really dreadful; we seemed both bewitched to stare at each other; and I longed for the signal to rise, that I might be released from the strange fascination. This came at length; and though I had promised myself to make some inquiries of the Prior concerning the owner of the eyes, yet not finding myself alone with him during the evening, I forbore, and in the time allotted to my chamber, intending to proceed on my journey the following day. But when the morning came I found myself very unwell, and the hospitable Prior recommended me not to leave my bed; and, finally, I was obliged to remain there, not only that day but many days—in short, it was nearly a month before I was well enough to quit the convent.

"In the meantime, however, I had learnt the story of Brother Lazarus—for so I found the object of my curiosity was called; and had thereby acquired some little knowledge of my fellow-creatures. My first duty on leaving my room was to call on my host and thank him for his kindness, which he only answered by a shrug of the shoulders, and a remark that it was only a matter of common humanity. He then asked me how I liked the brothers, and I replied that I thought them a very worthy set of men, but that I had been much struck with the appearance of one of them, whom I had observed sitting at the bottom table, and who, I was informed, was called Brother Lazarus.

"'Ah, poor fellow!' said the Prior, 'he has a sad history, and is, indeed, a most unfortunate man.'

"'Will you not tell me it?' I said, 'for I am much interested in him.'

"'Willingly,' replied the Prior, 'for there is no secret in the matter. Lazarus is a Spaniard, and was born of wealthy parents in Madrid, and whilst there, became betrothed to a young lady of his own rank in life, to whom he was tenderly attached. Previous to the day fixed for their marriage, however, he was induced to accompany a friend on a visit to his father's country seat, and there he met with a young peasant girl, who, by her beauty, fascinated him so much that he was induced to break off his engagement with the lady of his choice, and to marry the girl. Shortly after the marriage, he returned to Madrid, and his wife, who was of a very jealous disposition, accompanied him. Here she soon discovered that her husband's affections were not entirely centered in herself, and, in a fit of jealousy, she stabbed him with a dagger, and then fled from the house. Lazarus was carried to his bed, and for many days his life was despaired of; but, at length, youth and a good constitution triumphed over the wound, and he began to recover. As soon as he was able to leave his room, he sent for the police, and gave information of the attempt on his life, but no trace could be found of the woman, and it was supposed that she had left Madrid immediately after committing the deed. Lazarus, however, was not satisfied that she had done so, and, disguising himself, he set out in search of her, and, after a long time, discovered her living in a small village in the province of Andalusia. He watched her for some days, and then, one night, when all was still, he entered her house, and, creeping softly to the bed where she was sleeping, he plunged a knife into her heart, and then, rushing from the house, he mounted his horse, which was waiting for him at the door, and rode off at full speed. He was pursued, but escaped, and, after wandering about for some time, he came to this convent, and, having confessed his crime to the Prior, he was received into the community, and has remained here ever since.'

"'And his wife's eyes?' I said, 'what of them?'

"'Why, I believe they are the eyes of the dead,' replied the Prior, with a smile; 'but, as I said before, Lazarus is a most unfortunate man.'

"I remained at the convent for a few days longer, and then, having received the blessing of the Prior, I left the hospitable walls, and continued my journey. But the image of Brother Lazarus, and his gloomy countenance, haunted me for many days, and I could not help thinking that there was something more than met the eye in the story which I had heard. I could not help thinking that there was something more than met the eye in the story which I had heard. I could not help thinking that there was something more than met the eye in the story which I had heard.

"Well, reverend father, if you will have it so, what I dreamt was this—but that you may be better comprehend my dream, I must first relate to you some of the circumstances in which it originated."

"Do so," said I, "and that we may not be interrupted I'll lock the door." So saying I turned the key, and bade him seat himself on a stool opposite, I prepared to listen to a story of his life, which was to this effect: While a child four years of age, he awoke one morning and found that his poor mother lay a bleeding corpse by his side. She had been murdered during the night by a miscreant relative, in order to obtain some money that was in the possession of her husband. The effect of the circumstances, with its painful details, had disturbed his mind, and to terrific dreams. These dreams, he added, sometimes made him feel as if they were the cause of his existence, and of performing the part of the murderer of his mother. "And pray," I inquired, "do you select any particular season as your waking hours for these dreams?" "Always," replied Dominique, "it is a pellucid moment, for no sooner do I awake than I am subject to strange hallucinations." he replied. "their dream is to them as real as our waking life is to us, and they not unfrequently act out the scenes which their dreams with a terrible determination. I will give you an instance of the danger that may accrue from a delusion of this nature. At the last monastery I was in, there was a young Spaniard named Pierre Chatel, and a monk who was known to be somnambulist. He was a man of a most unpleasant appearance, and altogether not it was rather supposed that his melancholy proceeded from physical causes rather than from any particular source of mental uneasiness. His nightly wanderings were strictly watched, sometimes they were frequent, sometimes there were long intermissions. Occasionally he would leave his cell, and be absent from it for several hours, would return of his own accord, still fast asleep, and lay himself down on his bed with as much order so far away that we had to send in search of him, and sometimes he would be found by the messengers on his way back, either awake or asleep, as it might happen. This strange malady had caused us a great anxiety, and we had not neglected to seek the best advice we would obtain with respect to its treatment; and although the remedies applied seemed to have taken effect; the paroxysms became more rare, and the disease so far satisfied, that it ceased to be a subject of observation amongst us. Several months had elapsed since I had heard anything of the nocturnal excursion of Brother Dominique, when one night that I had retired to the business of repose—as usual, instead of going to bed when the rest of the brotherhood retired to their cells, I seated myself at a desk, for the purpose of reading and answering certain letters concerning the affair in question that I had received by the evening post, and had just finished my work, and had already locked my desk preparatory to going to bed, when I heard the cloister of a distant door, and immediately after, said a door in the long gallery that separated my room from the cells of the brotherhood. What could be the matter? Somebody must be ill, and was coming to my assistance; and I was confirmed in this persuasion when I perceived that the foot was approaching my door, the key of which I had not locked. The moment more it opened, and Pere Dominique entered, asleep. His eyes were wide open; but there evidently was no speculation in them; they were fixed and glassy, like the eyes of a corpse. He had nothing on but his night shirt, which was in the habit of wearing at night, and in his hand he held a large knife. At this strange apparition I was transfixed. From the cautious manner in which he had opened the door, and the stealthy pace with which he advanced into the room, I could not doubt that he was bent upon mischief; but aware of the dangerous effects that frequently result from the sudden break ing a sleep-walker, I thought it better to await in silence the acting out of his fearful dream, than venture to disturb him. With all the precautions would have used not to arouse me had he been awake, he moved toward the bed, and in so doing he had occasion to quite close to where I stood, and as the light of the lamps fell upon his face I saw that his brows were knit and his features contracted into an expression of resolute malignity. When he reached the bed, he bent over it, felt with his hand in the place where I should have been, and then, apparently satisfied, he lifted up his arm and struck successively three heavy blows—so heavy that, had I been there, they would have pierced me through and through. Then, with a low, fiendish laugh, he turned away, and, creeping stealthily from the room, he left me to my own reflections.

"Now, reverend father, I am not a coward, but I confess I did not much relish the idea of passing the night alone with such dangerous dreams was better out of the house than in it; more especially as my own room was the next to his, and I knew that he would pass through it on his way back to his cell. On the day I quitted the monastery I saw him in a shady part of the garden, and, telling the silent and gentle monk, I told him that I had seen him walking in his sleep, and that I thought it would be better for him to be locked in his cell at night. He looked at me for a moment with a strange expression of countenance, and then, turning away, he said, 'Yes, I am aware of it, and I am glad you have told me, for I will take care that it shall not occur again.' I then left him, and I have never seen him since.

"Well, reverend father, I was informed that Brother Lazarus was dead," continued Lisle, "and I confess I did not much regret his decease, though a sort of respect to such dangerous dreams was better out of the world. He might, especially as my own room was the next to his, and I knew that he would pass through it on his way back to his cell. On the day I quitted the monastery I saw him in a shady part of the garden, and, telling the silent and gentle monk, I told him that I had seen him walking in his sleep, and that I thought it would be better for him to be locked in his cell at night. He looked at me for a moment with a strange expression of countenance, and then, turning away, he said, 'Yes, I am aware of it, and I am glad you have told me, for I will take care that it shall not occur again.' I then left him, and I have never seen him since.

"Well, reverend father, I was informed that Brother Lazarus was dead," continued Lisle, "and I confess I did not much regret his decease, though a sort of respect to such dangerous dreams was better out of the world. He might, especially as my own room was the next to his, and I knew that he would pass through it on his way back to his cell. On the day I quitted the monastery I saw him in a shady part of the garden, and, telling the

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Sept. 21, 1877.

We Americans take our amusements something as our French cousins take their meals—one item at a time. You know the latter people serve their fish, their meat, their vegetables and their salad separately and successively, and consider Uncle Sam's plan of crowding the table with everything at once, a sort of unrefined lodge-podge. On the other hand, they in common with most other nations have, and maintain their various standard games and recreations comparatively unchanged from one generation to another. But our own people are restlessly progressive (the patriotic word for fickle) in such matters, and seek relaxation in "everything by turns and nothing long." Ten years or so ago we had a severe attack of skating-rinks, bands, gas, dancing and a high old time generally—ice in winter and smooth floors in summer. Two or three years, however, sufficed for the rise and fall of this fever, and all of a sudden the handsome club skates that could readily be turned out last season at from $8 to $12 per pair, went begging at $3 and $5. Then base ball loomed up, and although that perilous and exciting institution is considerably more tempestuous of life than its predecessor, it is plain that its attractiveness has culminated and is now on the wane.

Then came rowing, and on a twinkling the clear salt logs began to take the form of oars instead of logs. The correct costume suddenly became a sleeveless undershirt, and the young man whose cork arms were not the color of sole leather, and whose sastren lacked a measured ten inches in circumference as suddenly forest himself elsewhere. The new accomplishment captured the colleges and displaced as much of the regular curriculum as it found convenient, till a state of things arose which caused the simple minded western farmer, anticipating for his only son, to write down to the faculty of Yale inquiring there "terms," and wishing particularly to learn if one of the terms would not be something extra if he boy should want to learn to read and write as well as to row a boat. We even got so bold as to send over a crew to storm the very strongheld of boat racing, on the Thames. I stood on Hammersmith bridge myself, and saw the finish of that contest, and I guess the less said about it the better.

But since the one glorious season at Saratoga, when Cornell bore off the honors, college boating subsided to about its former level and the feverish spirit of novelty craving began to clamor anew for gratification. Several tubs thrown to this whale, such as yachting, coaching and Polo, have been impatiently thrown aside as only partially available, and now rifle shooting is temporarily without a rival in popular favor. I say temporarily, because judging from all precedent it is reasonable to prophesy that not many seasons will elapse before five-fifths of the clubs whose high-sounding names now fill the sporting columns of the newspapers, will be disbanded, the ranges and butts grown high with weeds, the sheds falling to decay, and the now enthusiastic shootists absorbed in some newer amusement.

But whatever may become of my reputation as a prophet, the fact remains that at the present time, and particularly during the present week, all of the population who can spare an hour or a thought from their regular avocations are more interested in the proceedings at Creedmoor than in any other outside matter. The assemblage of fine shots is even greater than last year. I could not begin to enumerate the different private and military organizations that are now busily blazing away, partly for glory, mainly for the numerous elegant and valuable prizes that have been offered, and incidentally for the detestation of the thousands of spectators who attend each day's meeting. Their number may be imagined when I say that for the first match, which was a sort of free-for-all, at short range, there were 917 entries.

Various distances are shot varying from 200 to 1000 yards. And when the range is from 800 to the latter figure, I can tell you that correct shooting is no boy's play. In fact from the stand it

FARMING LANDS.

7000000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, also red other wood, and are accessible to good market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a [illegible] unequaled for health, and [illegible] to the great Fruit [illegible] of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

[illegible] of Michigan in which these lands are situated is Sold on Easy Terms, by any Means

[illegible] HUNDRED AND [illegible] is rapidly filling [illegible] every State in the Union.

OVER 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

[illegible] of the country is in the sell and [illegible] a share of such wealth [illegible]

Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

W. O. HUGHART,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

$777 is not easily earned in these times, but it can be made in [illegible] more profits by any one of [illegible] the country who is willing to work steadily at the employment that we furnish. No one who is not honest and of good habits need apply. Many are making over $20 per day. All who engage at once can make money fast. At the present time money cannot be made so rapidly and honestly in any other business. It costs nothing to try the business. Terms and $5 Outfit free. Address at once,

H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,

Carpeting,

Oil Cloths,

Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and elsewhere can call themselves one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in [illegible]

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an order by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

[illegible] of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

[illegible] good log house and frame [illegible] orchard. Will trade for [illegible] Title perfect, [illegible] given immediately if required.

ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

Lumber Yard

[illegible] nothing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to [illegible] Lake. Bills [illegible] short notice.

UPRIGHT & WAY.
Owners of Schr. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

SUMMER 1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT
We are supplied
With the Best
THAT THE
WholesaleMarkets Afford.

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

ToSell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumeous.

SEASON ARRANGEMENT.

The Fast Steamer
JENNIE SUTTON
CAPT. HENRY ATTERSON, Master.

Will run as follows during the season of navigation of 1877:

Will leave Charlevoix at 6:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for South Arm and return.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Pine Lake and return.

Can be chartered for excursions by applying to Dexter & Noble, Elk Rapids, or to Captain on board.

DEXTER & NOBLE.

L A W
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at VERY LOW PRICES. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes and are included in School Districts, and situated in good roads.

For terms and descriptions apply to or address

E. H. GREEN,
Post Office Address,
Charlevoix Mich

Murder will Out.

A few years ago "August Flower" was discover to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few Dyspeptics made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by its use. The great merits of Green's August Flower became bruited through the country and sufferers to another, until, without advertising, its sales has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No one suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, low spirits, can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist Geo. W. Green's and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

Sensible Advice.

You are asked every day through the columns of newspapers and by your Druggist to use something for your Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that you know nothing about you get discouraged spending money with but little success. Now to give you satisfactory proof that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is the cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint with all its effects, such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Water-brash, Pulmus at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, swimming of the head, low spirits, &c., we ask you to go to your Druggist now, W. Chorter and get a Sample Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 10 cents and 1875 or a regular size for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Special Bargains

at

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER
Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and finish. Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods,
Clothing,
Hats, Caps
And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for CASH or its equivilent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
AND
Solicitor in Chancery.
NOTARY PUBLIC and
Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1y

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILA HELDS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC., ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stephens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for TEAS, SYRUPS &c., filled promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(22) (6,1 2.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$5 50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$5.

Family Bibles, $3 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH,
Ionia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged and arranged with a view to the comfort of the traveling public. Tugs ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which are boon myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers!

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. No charge for inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO.,
(Formerly of London, England),
MANUFACTURERS,
164 & 166 MONROE ST., CHICAGO,
And 15 Chamber Street, New York.

A RUSSIAN FUNERAL.

I sat sitting in my study at Moscow. A slow dirge met me that of funeral's approaching. I look out of my window and notice that the payment has been strewn well this of fir and leaves, and soon are four men in long, rusty-black gowns and broad brimmed hats, each carrying a candle in a lantern. Next comes a high-headed man with a holy picture which he carries in front of him against his breast, the frame being carefully wrapped in white muslin so as to avoid the contact of his hands. Then comes the coffin-lid, borne by two men, and on it a cocked hat and sword, for this, it seems, is the funeral of an officer. With this are more and boys carrying on velvet cushions the crosses and medals of the deceased. The priests and deacons follow, dressed now in robes of black velvet, trimmed with silver, and covered with silver crosses. The deacons have candles and censers, and, together with the choir, are chanting a funeral hymn. Immediately next, with candle always on either side, is the coffin, carried by the nearest relatives and friends. It is very shallow and open so as to show half of the body of the deceased, with his face uncovered and his hands clasping a cross over his breast. The coffin itself is covered with black velvet or broadcloth, very different from the polished rosewood and the black pall we always see at home. It must be on its way to the church, for when it goes to the graveyard it will be carried on a hearse—a sort of gorgeous triumphal car, in the form of a temple resting with gold and silver brocade—where it will be raised up on a lofty platform like a throne in front of the church, and there the coffin will be opened and the body, dressed in its best clothes, and with a crown on its head, will be raised in the sitting posture, and will passed by on mournfully as they meet the procession, and, crossing themselves, utter an inaudible prayer. We're it winter, these bare-headed mourners would have handkerchiefs tied over their ears, and as each man seems to prefer a different color, the motley effect would be odd enough.

There is no more startling inexpressibly soothing in the Russian services for the dead. From the time when the body is laid out in the funeral, the Psalter, interspersed with prayer, is read aloud, day and night, in the same room with the corpse. The readers take turns, one first this low, dull, mournful sound never ceases. Twice a day there are services in the house, by the priest and church assistants, at which all the friends of the family are expected to be present. The gentlemen are always in full dress, the ladies in black. All hold lighted candles and stand around the bier, which lies on a table in the center of an empty room—for most of the furniture has been removed, and all of the curtains drawn, from superstitious motives, been covered up. The chants are very sacred and mournful, and there is some passage, the "Everlasting Remembrance," when all kneel and touch their foreheads to the floor. It any are too infirm for this they at least touch the tips of their fingers to the ground. After praying for the repose of the soul of the deceased and for the forgiveness of his sins, voluntary and involuntary, the priest says: "In the hands of the soul of the deceased servant Ivan (always naming him, O Lord, rest in peace and keep him in everlasting remembrance!" The response is then taken up by the choir and sung in a very sad air. At this mention of the name of the dead man it is customary for the friends to keep dry eyes, and sobbing is infamous. This very repetition of the prayers, this solemn and impressive singing twice a day of all the friends, acts as a sort of opiate on the feelings, and the mourners insensibly themselves sooner to the fact of death.

The actual funeral ceremony at the church is no less impressive. The cold spiritual lamp in the coffin between the waxlights in the middle of the church, the echo of mourning, the long prayer, the solemn gospel and epistle, the sweet hymns and weird chants sung by pure voices, with no admixture or accompaniment of organ or instrument, the lighted tapers in the hands of the standing and kneeling mourners—all produce a peculiar effect. After the mass is said there is a short address or sermon in the case of any one of distinction, and the priest reads aloud a prayer, or rather a form of absolution, a printed copy of which is placed in the folded hands of the dead man—a custom originating in Kief eight centuries ago. All present then kiss the hand of the deceased, the official cross is given pours on the body the wine and oil which feel been used in the extreme unction, and sprinkles it with the water of the incense, or with simple earth; the lid is placed in the coffin, which is carried to the grave, the accompanying friends usually walking all or a greater part of the distance. Here several ceremonies consist of the coffin, but good people prefer to be buried in some of the outlying cemeteries, if there is room enough to afford a grave there. The cemeteries of the Donskoi, Seguenof and Novo Devitchi monasteries are full of the tombs of the great and rich of Moscow. Few more pious or fortunate enough to obtain burial in the hallowed soil of the great monastery of Troitza.

On the forth day, on the name's day and on the anniversary of the death, on even for many years, a commemorative requiem is sung at the monastery or cemetery where the body is buried, and the friends are expected to be present. There is one curious custom observed at these commemorations. The friends stand with lighted tapers about a small black dish, on which are candles and a dish containing a pudding mixed with honey and raisins, which they eat or taste. On these occasions a dinner or lunch is often provided at the house. The Archbishop Benjamin refers to the mystical meaning of this odd dish:

"The rice," he says, "for, as in ancient times ordained, stands for the soul of the deceased Christian, who will hereafter rise again like a rice buried seed (John xii., 24). The honey typifies the fruition, resurrection a sweet and joyful existence awaits us in the Kingdom of Heaven. The raisins, dried up as they now are, will, on coming up, be beautiful and lovely, as the glorified Christian will be (1 Cor. xv., 42, 43)." In spite of the Archbishop's learned explanation the custom remains a Pagan one, brought here from Greece, where it is also fixed in the ceremonial of the church, it is nothing but a remnant of the old sacrifice to the manes of the dead with the fruits of Demeter and Dionysus.

Much as I dislike funerals, I have had to see many, and of all kinds, but none, except at times in the form of the Episcopal Church, are to me as beautiful or as pleasant as these Russian funerals. The Presbyterian form is too cold, too bleak, too still. We bury our dead too much as if we were trying to draw a lesson from the dead, and as if we doubted where the soul had gone. The Catholic service has too grandiose. There is flue music, but the ceremony is too long and too entirely confined to the officiating priest. In the Russian Church every one seems to be taking a part in the service, and the dead are treated with a tenderness and love not elsewhere found. The bows and prostrations, the tapers in each one's hands, the kissing the hands, the earth thrown in the coffin with its beautiful symbolic meaning, are marks of affectionate respect, as well as the carrying of the coffin and the earth thrown into the grave by the hands of the friends and relatives. There are no black palls, no double coffins or burial caskets, no horrible screwing down of the lid. "Dust thou art, to dust must thou return" is a truth which man here does not attempt to evade. As I said above, the ceremony and every repetition here tends to make its realize the fact of death without destroying any of its sanctity.—Lege in Schnyler, in Scribner for September.

"Base is the Slave That Pays."

Accidents was making some revelations the other day about prominent men in New York who never pay their debts, and I confess that he astonished me. Having an intimate acquaintance with literary and professional people generally, he dove deep into the heart of the mystery, and the result was that it was infinitely more interesting than the perusal of "How to Live on $1,000 a Year," or any of those other little, tight little brochures of impracticable economy. From an revela tions it appears that there is a certain literary many in our town who is notorious for never paying any bills but those which he is positively compelled to in order to subsist. This gentleman is received with distinguished courtesy both at home and abroad, but it is quite certain that an instant after he has grasped some great dignitary's open hand he may hesitate to meet the eye of his grocer. He never flinches in his course, however, he simply will not and does not pay. A jewelry house had a bill of thirty dollars against him for years, no collector could obtain the sum, and the firm disliked to institute legal proceedings for so trivial an amount. At last, however, the debtor sent in a valuable clock to be repaired, and this the firm promptly seized upon for liquidation of the debt and retained. An even more flagrant case is that of a distinguished professional man belonging to one of the best families of the State. He lives in a handsome house, fairly encumbered with works of art and objects of vertu, but he lived religiously up to Pindar's maxim: "Base is the slave that pays." He is aided and abetted by a cunning housekeeper, who, scenting a creditor afar off, opens the door herself, and with the blandest possible grace answers all inquiries to the utter defeat of the question er. He may pay many visits to that brown-stone front, but that little bill is never to be presented. Accidents—aristocratic "dead beat" has withal the most luxurious and refined tastes; he will buy anything—provided that immediate payment is not required. For instance, he had a dead calf upon him at some choice work of art. The host will admire it and then say he would greatly like to purchase it, but he feared it would be impossible—the fact is I have no money about me," he would confess. The dealer, impressed by the elegance and taste of the mansion and the name and position of its owner, cries that it does not matter; he will call again. He calls many times again, but if he ever obtains payment he is a noteworthy exception. And yet my informant assures me that the man who perpetrates all this wrong is singularly kind hearted, and is surrounded by dependents to whom his influence certainly gives money, since they are constant in their presence. "It is possible that he gives them all he has," I suggested. But I was assured that he was a wealthy man by inheritance, and, moreover, in receipt of a handsome income from his practice. He is simply averse to paying anybody whom he can "do." The world is his debtor, and every month, week, day, has un it in it.—N. Y. Cor. Washington Capital.

A Ghost Guarding a Church.

ST. JAMES SQUARE, on Saturday night about half-past eleven o'clock, was the scene of great excitement, and was thronged with a curious people who had collected on the report that a ghost had been seen in the rear portion of the church, standing in a threatening manner. The report seemed not without foundation, as those who were drawn thither could plainly see standing, as it were, against the wall a full-length figure, with upraised arm. The lineaments were chiefly discernible, and the appearance was like this: that even the more curious were afraid to venture too near to discover who or what was the ghostly-looking occupant. Finally, a self-constituted committee concluded to go in search of a policeman, with the view of having the mystery cleared up. The party encountered Policeman Mulligan, on South Broad street, near Barnard, who returned with them. On reaching the church the officer was somewhat appalled by the apparition which apparently guarded the premises. This shock was but momentary, however, and, as the crowd stood in breathless anxiety, the officer marched up and boldly pierced his hand on the figure, which was found to be a reflection of a statue in the marble-yard of Col. R. D. Walker, directly opposite the church, on York street. As soon as the discovery was made known the courage of the crowd arose, and several were bold enough to approach and see for themselves that the suspected ghost was nothing more than the reflection of a figure, occasioned by the proximity of a gas-lamp to the marble-yard. The sensation being spoiled, the curious soon dispersed.—Savannah (Ga.) News.

Myopia and the School-Room.

The last book is a fact, widely known, that myopia affects by preference those who use their eyes constantly for near work. And especially is it prevalent among the educated and cultivated classes who employ their eyes during a larger portion of the day (and night too) in reading or writing; studious is almost unknown among the uncivilized inhabitants of the globe. Watch-makers, jewelers and some others whose business requires a close application of the eyes form an apparent exception to this rule, since the percentage of short-sightedness in these is not great. The exception, however, is only apparent. They always have a good light; seldom work by artificial light, and nearly always use in their very fine work an eye-glass which removes pretty much all the strain from the eye; and the investigations of recent years go to show that the most frequent cause of myopia lies not so much in the continuance of the eyes as in the unfavorable circumstances attending upon their use, and in particular as regards illumination.

In order to an appreciative understanding of the manner in which these causes tend to the production of myopia, a brief explanation of the condition of the eye as short-sightedness is necessary. A myopic eye is one in which the rays of light upon one of two conditions: 1st, its refracting surfaces may be too strongly curved—or, 2dly, The eyeball may be too far removed from these surfaces—in which event, the eye may be too long. Either of these conditions will have the effect to allow a distinct image of an object to be formed on the retina only when the object is situated within a comparatively short distance of the eyes. The images of all objects farther remote will fall behind the retina in an image that is no longer in the focus of rays of light coming from them. Now the first of these conditions (the excessive curvature of the refracting surfaces) is rare, and, when present, is generally congenital. The second condition, though beyond doubt, sometimes congenital, is not commonly so, but is developed in after life, and in accordance with statistics the percentage of its increase is in direct proportion to the continuance of the eyes under unfavorable circumstances.

The manner in which these circumstances bring about a change in the shape of the ball is the following:

Given a dull light, fine work, or work placed in such a position as requires a constant position of head and eyes, and let it be continued under these circumstances day after day, or night after night, and the result sooner or later must be a congested condition of the eyes, and especially, it has been found, of the inner coats of the back portion of the eye. This congestion, if kept up for any consider. able length of time, tend to a softening of the tissues at that point, and eventually to a lengthening of the ball through a giving way of the parts to the lateral pressure of the muscles which move the eye.

Such is the now accepted theory; but, whether satisfactorily explanatory in all particulars or not, the fact yet remains, which cannot be disputed, that there is a constantly increasing tendency, under such circumstances and the production and increase of the degree of short-sightedness. This being so clearly demonstrated, the question becomes one of practical importance, How can the increase of existing myopia, and even its production in the case of many, be avoided? To the point to which we would call the earnest attention of our educators.

The question of first importance is necessarily that of light. And this is just where almost every school-room that has been examined has been found wanting. The quantity of light, in the first place, is rarely sufficient. It has been determined that the proportion which should exist between the amount of glass surface (in square feet) and the square surface of the floor, is as 1 to 5, or at least as 1 to 4 again, but if he ever obtains payment he is a noteworthy exception. And yet my informant assures me that the man who perpetrates all this wrong is singularly kind hearted, and is surrounded by dependents to whom his influence certainly gives money, since they are constant in their presence. "It is possible that he gives them all he has," I suggested. But I was assured that he was a wealthy man by inheritance, and, moreover, in receipt of a handsome income from his practice. He is simply averse to paying anybody whom he can "do." The world is his debtor, and every month, week, day, has un it in it.—N. Y. Cor. Washington Capital.

A Ghost Guarding a Church.

ST. JAMES SQUARE, on Saturday night about half-past eleven o'clock, was the scene of great excitement, and was thronged with a curious people who had collected on the report that a ghost had been seen in the rear portion of the church, standing in a threatening manner. The report seemed not without foundation, as those who were drawn thither could plainly see standing, as it were, against the wall a full-length figure, with upraised arm. The lineaments were chiefly discernible, and the appearance was like this: that even the more curious were afraid to venture too near to discover who or what was the ghostly-looking occupant. Finally, a self-constituted committee concluded to go in search of a policeman, with the view of having the mystery cleared up. The party encountered Policeman Mulligan, on South Broad street, near Barnard, who returned with them. On reaching the church the officer was somewhat appalled by the apparition which apparently guarded the premises. This shock was but momentary, however, and, as the crowd stood in breathless anxiety, the officer marched up and boldly pierced his hand on the figure, which was found to be a reflection of a statue in the marble-yard of Col. R. D. Walker, directly opposite the church, on York street. As soon as the discovery was made known the courage of the crowd arose, and several were bold enough to approach and see for themselves that the suspected ghost was nothing more than the reflection of a figure, occasioned by the proximity of a gas-lamp to the marble-yard. The sensation being spoiled, the curious soon dispersed.—Savannah (Ga.) News.

HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

—The melon seeds may be made into oil, good for table use; and the cake from which the oil is pressed is nearly as good for stock as the oil cake in the market.—Iowa State Register.

—In boiling beef and vegetables, put a tea cup of vinegar into the pot when the water is cold, and the beef will be much tenderer, and cabbage and beets better flavored, and will not fill the house with unpleasant smell. The vinegar will not affect the taste of the food.—Exchange.

—As a remedy for poisoning by ivy, Forest and Stream gives the following: "Take one pint of the bark of black spotted alder; add one quart of water and boil down to one pint. Wash the poisoned parts a dozen times a day, if convenient; it will not injure you."

—No place is ever "finished," as regards the garden, its fruits and its surroundings. A few trees are to be added here; those dying there; a choice grape vine or two are needed; or some other fruit; and so all our places tax us yearly or more.—Kendall Herald.

—Green Tomato Pickles—Gather when full-grown, just before changing color; wash and slice very thin; throw but brine over them—not too strong—and let them stand over night; in the morning scald and can cold, drain, and cover with boiling vinegar, adding to taste. This slicer of onions may be added if liked.

—Deviled Eggs.—Boil six eggs ten minutes, then lay in cold water till cold; then shell and cut in halves. Take out the bottom of each, so they will stand upright. Remove the yolks, and rub to a smooth paste with a little melted butter, a teaspoonful cayenne and mustard and a teaspoonful of vinegar. Fill the hollow whites with this, and send to the table upon a bed of chopped white cabbage. Lettuce may be used instead of cabbage, and a spoonful should be used with half an egg.

To make apple brust, take apples and boil or a pulp. Mix with double the quantity of flour. If the apples are juicy very little or no water will be needed. Use the same proportion of yeast as in ordinary bread. Let rise, and then roll out and bake in long loaves. This was told us by one who had seen it made in France, and, we think, highly recommended for its lightness and fine flavor. We have not tried it, but would suggest, for some apples are sweet, a little soda might improve it, put in when kneading for the last time. We were told that the yeast corrected the acid of the apples, but sweet apples were better.—Christian Union.

Water-Glass.

A stream of water running through a farm has in its its advantages and disadvantages, but when properly managed the former largely predominates. The valley through which a creek runs is always fertile. But, as a rule, the water is taken from the stream, yields beautiful crops of grass or grain, and the pasture it affords frequently carries the stock through a dry summer when owners of neighboring uplands are compelled to resort to soiling crops or even dry feed. The advantages are, interference with regularity of fencing, the ease and cheapness of freshets which sweep away fences and wash away good soil, with others that attend particular localities, are overcome. We intend now to speak only of the second disadvantage named, and make some suggestions as to remedies for it.

The water-gates one sees in passing through the country are generally mere make-shifts, having been put up for some purpose, and swept away or rendered useless by the first freshet. This is what makes the beneficial stream a source of annoyance to some farmers, who have to repair water-gates and fences after every little freshet. If the job was done well at first, very little trouble would ensue. In the original words of Walter Scott's "Fortunes of Nigel:" Mr. White knew that this was a business hardly known to old and of English origin. The word bull before does is simply an intensive qualification.

—Gen. Field, of Fredericksburg, Va., an ex-Confederate officer, recently returned home from Egypt, where he had a high position in the Army of the Khedive. His withdrawal from that army grew out of the late Egyptian complications, in which Egypt, through her vassalage to the Sultan, has been forced to take part against Russia. Gen. Field, unconstitutionally take the field for the Crescent against the Cross, and resigned.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—The composer of the song "Listen to the Mocking Bird" keeps a music store in Baltimore. His name is Septimus Winner, and his nom de plume is Alice Hawthorne, his mother's name, once. Speaking of the latter, Dr. Holland, in the Second Table criticised him severely, comparing his music with that of Alice Hawthorne, and expressed the hope that her gifts would be represented by a publisher other than Sep. Winner, whom, for the sake of euphony, he once pleasantly called "the mosquito of the musical world."—N. Y. Evening Post.

—In spite of the jokes and stories that are circulating with reference to Sam Bowles and Charles Francis Adams, it is said that they respect each other. Charles Francis Adams never crossed the threshold of Sam Bowles' house, and Sam Bowles never visited Charles Francis Adams but once, the occasion then being a formal dinner to Senator Beach, of California. Both born in Springfield, Mass., Sam Bowles never met Charles Francis Adams personally except once or twice, and then simply by accident and most casually.—Chicago Tribune.

—This morning Mrs. Ann Mary, wife of George Heberger, 38, Michael's street, died after an illness extending back for fifteen years. She was afflicted at first with rheumatism, and for the whole fifteen years has not risen upon a bed or walked a step. For the past five years she has not been out of a chair, even to sit upon a couch. Her spine and limbs were distorted and stiffened, and she was bent double, nearly double. The fiend would rest on the back of a chair, and in that position for five years she has patiently received death. She was sixty-two years of age at the time of her death.—Rochester (N. Y.) Union.

—Thursday's Chicago Tribune says: This good story is told of Spurgeon. His habit is to shut himself up on Saturday. On Saturday a man called, and insisted on seeing the pastor. He said to the visitor to the servant, "that a servant of the Lord wishes to see him." The servant told him that Mr. Spurgeon was not receiving. "Tell him that I am engaged with His Master."

—Hardly a great Whitz, in his Calvary article for September, states that he has found the word dare, used in the sense of to challenge, in the writings of Scott in the chapters of the original edition of Walter Scott's "Fortunes of Nigel." Mr. White says that this use of the word dare is really old and of English origin. The word bull before does is simply an intensive qualification.

—Gen. Field, of Fredericksburg, Va., an ex-Confederate officer, recently returned home from Egypt, where he had a high position in the Army of the Khedive. His withdrawal from that army grew out of the late Egyptian complications, in which Egypt, through her vassalage to the Sultan, has been forced to take part against Russia. Gen. Field, unconstitutionally take the field for the Crescent against the Cross, and resigned.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—The composer of the song "Listen to the Mocking Bird" keeps a music store in Baltimore. His name is Septimus Winner, and his nom de plume is Alice Hawthorne, his mother's name, once. Speaking of the latter, Dr. Holland, in the Second Table criticised him severely, comparing his music with that of Alice Hawthorne, and expressed the hope that her gifts would be represented by a publisher other than Sep. Winner, whom, for the sake of euphony, he once pleasantly called "the mosquito of the musical world."—N. Y. Evening Post.

—In spite of the jokes and stories that are circulating with reference to Sam Bowles and Charles Francis Adams, it is said that they respect each other. Charles Francis Adams never crossed the threshold of Sam Bowles' house, and Sam Bowles never visited Charles Francis Adams but once, the occasion then being a formal dinner to Senator Beach, of California. Both born in Springfield, Mass., Sam Bowles never met Charles Francis Adams personally except once or twice, and then simply by accident and most casually.—Chicago Tribune.

—This morning Mrs. Ann Mary, wife of George Heberger, 38, Michael's street, died after an illness extending back for fifteen years. She was afflicted at first with rheumatism, and for the whole fifteen years has not risen upon a bed or walked a step. For the past five years she has not been out of a chair, even to sit upon a couch. Her spine and limbs were distorted and stiffened, and she was bent double, nearly double. The fiend would rest on the back of a chair, and in that position for five years she has patiently received death. She was sixty-two years of age at the time of her death.—Rochester (N. Y.) Union.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Secretary Evarts' house-rent in Washington will cost over $10,000 this season, the only man who owned a larger house in 1869.

—It is now said that the word "skedaddle," supposed to be from the Greek, is from spedadi, an old Irish word, meaning to scatter.—N. Y. Graphic.

—Mr. Bob Lemon, a brother of Aunty Lemon, has just been driven out of the Cherokee Nation for alleged treason. He married into the Cherokee tribe some years ago, and has a family of beautiful children.

—Florence, the comedian made $20,000 by his last engagement at San Francisco, and invested the proceeds in mining stocks, at the suggestion of Ollivier, the millionaire. The stocks are worthless—all assessments.—Gardner's Monthly.

The Deacon's Cat.

Teddy was known everywhere as the Deacon's cat. The Deacon had brought him up from kittenhood, and used often to boast that Teddy knew quite as much as some children.

The cat had a history, too. The Deacon, once upon a time, was seen going down to the river with a bag on his back, with a big stone in it, followed for some distance by two chubby children, crying loudly. Two days after the Deacon was seen with a bag stone in it, followed for some distance by two chubby children, crying loudly. Two days after the Deacon was seen with a big

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 23 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Oct. 2. 1877. Whole No., 438

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription:
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
The FIFTY SIX NUMBERS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable prices.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m	6 m	1 y.
One sq.	$ 1 00	$1 25	$1 50	$2 00	$3 00	$5 00
2 sqs	1 25	1 75	2 00	3 00	5 00	8 00
3 "	1 75	2 25	3 00	5 00	7 00	10 00
4 "	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 00	9 00	12 00
¼ column	3 25	4 00	5 00	10 00	15 00	20 00
½ "	5 00	6 00	8 00	15 00	25 00	40 00
1 "	8 00	10 00	12 00	25 00	40 00	60 00

Cards in Business Directory, $5 per line per year.
Local advertisements at 8 cents a line.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. STOCKBRIDGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO BATES, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the second Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. B. WRIGHT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prompt Prosecuting Attorney, Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER Custom Blacksmith in Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Physician and Surgeon, has located at Beaver Island, will visit Charlevoix, one week each month by the 1st packet of the week, and Beaver Island, one week each month by the 2nd packet of the week. Calls promptly attended to.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY MICH.
H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. FAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
Insurance in Fire, Life and Accident Companies. Collections promptly attended to. Office in Bridge Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

M. J. Stockman

DEALER IN

HARDWARE,

Tinware & Stoves

Kept constantly on hand. Always supply unadulterated

DETROIT STOVES,

With Pendulum,

Cash Paid for Copper

Fishing Tackle.

3 joint trout poles, cane poles, trout flies, trolling hooks trout lines from 5 to 75 cts each. trolling lines braided, hooks of every size and shape, and pocket compasses. Call and examine.

GEO. W. CROTTER, Druggist and Dispensing Chemist.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located at his shop in J. E. Wood's harness shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of this locality. Coarse or fine boots made to order and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS.
Charlevoix, Aug. 2 1877. 23 tf.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

J. D. BARTHOLOMEW, N. G.
GEO. W. CROTTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 289 F & A. M. Regular communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. R. CRANMER, Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Purple Hill Lodge No. 141 L. O. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 7 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

GERARD BURNS, W. M.
GEO. DAWSON, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.

NORTH—Mails arrive daily, at 12 M., depart at 1 P. M.

SOUTH ARM mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Two inmates to the county jail.

See new advertisements in this issue.

AGAIN we say the SENTINEL can't live on faith and promises. Pay up!

SPECIAL meeting of Charlevoix Lodge F & A. M., this (Tuesday) evening, at 7:30 sharp. General attendance desired. By order of the W. M.

MRS. CARPENTER'S new millinery store is enclosed, and will be speedily completed. She goes to Chicago Friday after goods.

THE harbor dock commission in the rear of the SENTINEL office, has gone, and will need rebuilding.

HON. A. B. TURNER is on Indian River Cheboygan County, shooting ducks, with Melvin Thompson of the plaster's gable.

THE Petoskey Independent says the Elk Rapids Fair. The Charlevoix boys talk of going, but it is not definitely settled yet NOTICE—The person who took my cow will confer a favor on me by returning her to me. If he would have her for me to milk once a day.

JAMES INGRAM.

BUILDING.—J. A. Johnson has commenced the erection of a residence on his lot recently purchased of L. C. Dixon on Main Street.

DENNOS TOWNSHIP, in this County, held a special election for Township officers on Sept. 26. The result of election is claimed to have been Democratic.

FIRE AT WASHINGTON.—The patent office at Washington took fire and was almost destroyed by it on the 24th. The damage of the building and in the destruction of models will exceed $1,500,000.

MARRIED.—We take the following notice from the Cheboygan Tribune:

CAMPBELL—INGALLS—At the Seventy House, Cheboygan, Sept. 26, by Rev. E. B. Edmonds, of Owosso, Mr. Benjamin Campbell and Mrs. Lennie R. Ingalls, both of Charlevoix.

REED—KELTNER.—At the same ceremony, Mr. Phillip Reed, of Cheboygan, and Miss Amelia J. Keltner, of Duncan City.

Mr. Campbell and his bride, and the bride's sister, Miss Ingalls, are at Beaver Island, the guests of Mr. Campbell's parents. They are expected here Friday.

Senator Ferry is reported to be fully restored to vigorous health. His brother —Edward P.—is said to be steadily gaining, with a fair prospect of complete recovery in due time.

A wise thing for the Board of Supervisors to do at their session next week will be to make a contract with the Detroit House of Correction, whereby the vicious and unruly of our county can be made to earn something for their country while undergoing the penalties imposed upon them.

Oh, how interesting it is to read the lushy talk thrown at each other by the Emmet county papers. Come, gentlemen up brethren, and call each other names that amount to something. Roll each other outright, or we shall have to intervene in the interest of humanity and the English language.

THE NEW MINISTER.—Rev. Mr. Whitman, the newly appointed M. E. Pastor, arrived last week, and is the present guest of A. Buttars. His family will follow him this week, and they will settle down among us at the parsonage. Mr. Whitman is a clergyman of gray hairs and appears to be dignity. We welcome him among us, and hespeak for him the friendly consideration of our people, and success in his work. Mr. Whitman preached two interesting sermons Sunday, to large congregations.

INDIAN AGENT Lee, and C. H. Brooks, Special Agent of the U. S. General Land Office were in town a few days last week. They came to look up some land matters in the interest of the Indians. Rumor has it that several Indians who have been deposed from their homesteads by advertising, will be placed in possession of their lands again—evidence having been produced to show that poor Lo had not been fairly dealt with.

SENT UP FOR BURGLARY.—Wm. Morrison of Evangeline, was arraigned before Justice Stanton on Wednesday, on a charge of having, some time in August, broken into a house belonging to Mr. Delano, and taken therefrom provisions and other articles. He was fined $15, in default of the payment of which he was brought to this village on Saturday and is now languishing in the lock up.

Marine.

—The new Hall made the trip from Manistee here in twenty-two hours, last week.

—The new Mason Gem is out on the Manistee. She promises to meet the demand for fine steamers each.

—The steamer Sutton will leave the Pine Lake route during the Fair week, to run in the interest of the fair.

—The engineer W. A. Smith made a trip from Traverse here in steamer Lucy last week.

—The steamer Warren declared out of the line in the upper river city the first week, so that the two Starke Bros. now passes through with little trouble.

—The new steamer bound from Manistee to Milwaukee, lumber-laden on the 24th, when about fifteen miles out from Manistee sprung a leak and sank. Legend, that turned about and reached Manistee in a sinking condition. She was towed to Milwaukee and put on dry dock. She loaded in the port last week.

—Chased with cargoes during the week ending to-day: Scows Bill, Seaman, Otter, Johnson W. A. Smith Parrington, Beloit, Hetty Taylor, Mary, Evening Star, Warren.

Now in port: Scows Silver Cloud, Hunter, Bill, Sea Star, schooners Gilbert Knapp, and Bob Ray.

—DEMURRAGE.—The schooners Hinckley, Stalker, Libbie Nau and Gilbert Knapp, whose masters claimed to have been unduly detained in loading here for Mr. Morgan, two weeks ago, put in a claim for demurrage at Milwaukee. The first two vessels, having delivered their cargoes over to consignee before filing their claims, failed to get credit. The Libbie Nau recovered $60, and the Knapp $25 demurrage. The fault of detention was not with Mr. Morgan, but owing to the fact that the Hinckley and Stalker were too large for the trade, and that facilities for lighterage were not great enough for the number of vessels in port.

PERSONAL.—H. C. Sessions, of Louisville of Stanton's Manual, was in town last week

— F. J. Meech, of Norwood is in Chicago.

— W. S. Phippany, of Chicago, is in town the guest of L. D. Bartholomew.

— Hon. E. H. Green went to Beaver Island Thursday.

— Albert E. Mason, of this village, left on Thursday for Ann Arbor, to complete his course in Law Department of the University.

— Capt. Beatty and wife left town on Friday for New Orleans.

— Mrs. Burke, wife of Inspector W. W. Burke, has been lying very ill for the past week or more. She is in a fair way of recovery, however.

—Inspector Burke left for Hillsdale, Mich., yesterday. Mrs. Burke remains here until she is more fully recovered from her recent illness.

Mrs. J. W. Meadowcroft, of Grand Rapids, is in town, visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Burke.

BRIDGE DEMONSTRATION.—The snow Hunter, in attempting to get into the harbor without the aid of a tug, on Sunday, came in contact with the bridge, damaging one side of the draw and pulling out a group of fender piles into the channel. The vessel should be compelled to pay the cost of repair.

FOR THE FAIR.—The Van Raalte will run on Petoskey during the fair. She will run on Monday and Tuesday as usual. On Wednesday she will leave Little Traverse at three a. m., touching at Petoskey, Charlevoix, Norwood, Torch Lake, arriving at Elk Rapids, at noon. Returning, will leave Elk Rapids Thursday evening, Oct. 11th at 6 o'clock, for Little Traverse, this intermediate ports Only one half fare for round trip. All packages for exhibition will be carried free of charge.

LATER OUTGOING.

Capt. Dodge informs us that he will return here Wednesday evening, if he gets locally five or thirty passengers from this place, which is altogether probable.

The Bridge.

The necessity is upon. Let the report of the bridge committee be adopted, and it will be a new thing to assist the commerce of this great lake country. Let it be constructed upon Pine River in such things before lumber comes down.

We believe at least every fair minded man that is conversant with the matter, is a unanimous, and expresses the hope that the Board of Supervisors, at their meeting next monday, will grant the desk.

We do not see why argument should be necessary to convince anyone of the justness of the proposition, but let before a review the case.

For the foregoing reason should the territory comprising Charlevoix county would have been and would not grow in the lakes and rivers which connect on most interior parts with the great lake thoroughfare. Would the same chance of prosperity now exist among its inhabitants? Would they possess the same social benefits, the same religious and educational advantages, which would have been their starting?

It may be said that Charlevoix must bridge her highway.

Yes, but a bridge that would answer the requirements of the highway would still for short of supplying the need of navigation. This right angled circumstance is not the fault of Charlevoix Township.

The whole matter resolves itself into this simple fact, that the greater highway is the navigable one, which is the highway over which passes the trade and commerce of a county. This trade and commerce effects the entire region as the earth absorbs the rainfall, and upon all connected in its prosecution, and all who reap its benefits should fall the burden of building this bridge.

We believe that Charlevoix Township should, besides bearing its proportion of the cost of construction, bear the expense of swinging for the passage of shipping, and make such repairs as shall be caused by teams passing over it, in addition to its proportion of the usual expenses of repairs by reason of navigation.

NEW BOAT FOR PINE LAKE.—M. J. Stockman, Esq., of this place returned home from Buffalo on the propeller Empire City, Friday, having accomplished the object for which he went, viz. The new steamer of a contract for the building of a steamer for the Pine Lake trade. The new steamer will be built by Capt. M. H. Brake, at the Union Steamboat Co's yard, and will cost $4,200. Without furniture, anchors or lines. She will be 68 feet in length, 14 feet beam, 7 feet depth of hold, and will draw five and one half feet aft, and three and one half feet forward. She will have a cabin 20 feet in length extending from the engine room to the stern, and one cabin deck 45 feet in length forward of the engine, for freight. She will have a 12 inch cylinder with 4 feet stroke, and will be supplied with a pump engine, lines and other facilities for extinguishing fire. She will be driven by a wheel 11 feet eight inches in diameter, and will be warranted to make twelve miles per hour. John Mason, of this place is to have one third interest in the steamer, and Mr. Stockman, who will own the controlling interest, says she will be run in such a manner as will best serve the interest of the people of the region. He expects to have her here this fall to commence business promptly upon the opening of navigation in the spring. The new steamer will be called the "Pine Lake."

DANGER.—A tramp was through here last Saturday telling the story that he was one of the survivors of the steamer Northwest which was burned in Lake Huron on the 23d with 300 barrels of kerosene on board. The story did not obtain much credence.

Local reading on eighth page

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

FOREIGN.

On the 11th, the trial of Gambetta, the Radical French leader, was to have taken place, but, owing to his indisposition, he did not appear, and the case went against him by default. He was fined 2,000 francs, with three months' imprisonment. He has appealed to a higher tribunal. During the evening of the 11th, five of the Paris Republican journals were seized because of the possible publication of a report of Gambetta's trial and for violent articles.

The arrest and confinement of the five Salonica assassins has been ordered by the Porte, in consequence of the representations of Germany and France. They had been released from Widin.

According to Reginas dispatches of the 12th, the Montenegrins had defeated Dervish Pasha, who was marching for the relief of Novibi. Six hundred Turks were killed and two hundred prisoners.

The British ship Avalanche and the British ship Forest collided in the British Channel, on the 12th, and both vessels foundered. The latter vessel was struck on the morning of the 13th, indicated that over 150 lives were lost.

A London telegram of the 13th says it had been given out by high authority that England would indist upon peace between Russia and Turkey, at the close of the pending military operations, upon the basis of the autonomy of Roumania and Servia. It was said that both hostile Powers had signified a disposition to make peace on the terms proposed, although Russia demanded additional guarantees in respect to Greece and Montenegro.

A special from the Cassels Southern Railroad, advocating home rule, the Rev. C. H. Burgess, Bishop of Michigan on his return from Rome, made the discovery of 111 tubes, from St. Thomas to Archendrieg, in fifteen minutes, twenty-five minutes the boat rattened the, receiving on board.

The contest for the possession of Port au Prince was progressing on the 13th, but no decisive result had been reached. It was reported from Jacmel that the Rouzanists had captured the heights of Gittibea, by assault, and that there were 400 killed on both sides. It was also reported that Mehemet Ali had struck the Russian flanks, and that they were in great danger of being crushed between two Turkish armies.

According to a London dispatch of the 14th, the Russians had "lost 60,000 men by disease, since crossing the Danube, and an equal number by battle.

A Constantinople dispatch of the 14th announced the evacuation of Ardanan, in Asia Minor, by the Russians.

One of the oldest banking houses, that of Seasons, Bertens & Co., has failed for about $1,600,000.

The London Telegraph, of the morning of the 15th publishes a dispatch from Stanley, the African explorer, dated at Embomma, in Congo, on the west coast of Africa, August 16. He had completely harvested the Lualaba, and proved its identity with the Congo.

Greece has assured the British representative at Athens that she has no present intention of declaring war against Turkey.

The reports from Plevna, up to the 16th, were conflicting and altogether contradictory. From Turkish sources the defeat of the Russians, the abandonment of the attempt to take the position, and their retreat upon Sistova and Tirnova, were announced. Russian reports were to the effect that all positions captured were retained, and that every attempt for their recapture had been bloodily repulsed. Up to the morning of the 17th, the Russian and Roumanian armies had lost 17,000 men in the operations before Plevna. The Turks fought mainly from behind intrenchments, and their loss had not been so great.

Canaris, the Premier of the Grecian Cabinet, died, on the 15th, of apoplexy.

A Shumla telegram of the 17th says the Turks had captured the Russian Fort St. Nicholas, in Schipka Pass, and that the Turkish flag was then flying upon the ramparts. An early abandonment of the Pass by the Russians was expected.

The Town and Fortress of Bielka have unconditionally surrendered to the Montenegrins.

According to London dispatches of the 17th, the armies of Suleiman Pasha and Mehemet Ali had effected a junction, and would march at once to aid Osman Pasha, at Plevna. The impression prevailed that the Russian attack on that stronghold had proved a substantial failure, and that they would soon be compelled to fall back to Nikopolis.

The freedom of the Town of Ayr, in Scotland, was presented to ex-President Grant, on the 17th. He was decided to proceed to Paris, on the 20th of October and remain six weeks. From thence he goes to Italy and then to Egypt and Turkey.

President MacMahon has issued a manifesto to the French electors, advising them to vote for the Government candidates for the Assembly.

Gambetta and Murat have given notice of appeal from their recent sentence.

DOMESTIC.

According to Washington dispatches of the 11th, the question whether the President should send the usual message and reports of departments to the extra session, had been lately discussed in the Cabinet, and the decision reached that the message and accompanying documents should relate only to the business for which Congress is to be especially convened and not to general subjects of legislation. It was thought, therefore, that the message would be a brief one.

The Third Annual Convention of the American Bankers' Association commenced its session in New York City, on the 11th. Chas. H. Bell, of the Boston National Bank, was chosen President for the ensuing year; James Buell, of the Importers & Traders' National Bank, of New York, Secretary, and D. Tresser, of the First National Bank, of New York, Treasurer.

The Hyde Park Hotel, a popular suburban retreat, south of Chicago, was burned on the morning of the 12th. Loss, $100,000.

James Dees's band of Indians arrived at Camp Sheridan on the 10th, and surrendered, thus completing the surrender of all the hostile Sioux, and clearing the Black Hills and Big Horn country.

The Annual Convention of the Locomotive Firemen of the United States was in secret session at Indianapolis, Ind., on the 11th.

Rev. Father Ghoman, of the Chicago St. Bridget's Catholic Church, was the occasion of considerable disturbance on one of the trains arriving in Chicago, on the 11th. It appears that he discovered a Bible lying on one of the seats, and, after glancing at the title page and turning over a few leaves, deliberately threw it out of the window. This raised a high row, and at one time there were probably outsomebroadrailroadmen. On reaching Chicago, Father Ghegan was taken to the Superintendent and explained that he had been influenced by an inspection of the Bible readers' caricatures drawn on the fly leaf, and that, in a fit of ungovernable enthusiasm, he had thrown the book out of the window. The gentleman was released and the matter was referred to Bishop Foley.

The Kemper County (Miss.) disturbance which resulted in the shooting of Colby, Judge Chisholm, Mrs Chisholm, etc., last spring, is to be made the subject of investigation by the federal jury under a charge recently delivered by the Presiding Judge of the Circuit Court of that county.

The Bankers' Convention, in New York City, adjourned sine die, on the 11th, after having protested against any taxation of the National Banks by the General Government except that on circulation, and setting forth the need of a change in the system of state taxation whereby National Bank property will be assessed on the same footing as other taxable values. Resolutions were also adopted that the early resumption of specie payments is necessary for the restoration of general prosperity and social progress through out the Nation; that the general use of coin as the measure of value, as formerly, call about some more certain remedy in future and impart that steadiness to the value and price of all property which are required to properly exchange values, and give encouragement to every useful industry; that silver money as a subsidiary currency is desired by the people, and that it should not enforced use, will greatly aid in restoring the value of our paper money.

The International Rifle contest, at Creedmoor, L. I., ended, on the 14th, in a victory for the American Team, by a score of 8,531 to 8,362—a majority of nineteen points. The superiority of the American over the British marksmen is said to have been considerable noticeable in the 1,000-yards range.

The Statistician of the Department of Agriculture reports the condition of cotton the first week in September as averaging 85 per cent. for the whole cotton belt, which is 5 per cent. less than last September.

The Secretary of the Treasury at Washington received from New York, on the 15th, from an unknown person, $20.01 for an errors in income returns for 1865 and 66, and omission in 1870. The amount was placed to the credit of the conscience fund.

The demand of the miners at Hazleton, Pa., for the restoration of the wages paid last May, and for a percentage on any advance in coal stove $2.25 at tide, has been refused, and the strike in that region was reported ended on the 16th.

A Presidential Election was dedicated in Boston, on the 17th, to the memory of the Union soldiers who fell in the late war. A procession said to number 30,000 passed through the streets, and an assemblage estimated at 100,000 persons gathered at night on the Common, the occasion being made a holiday. During the dedicatory ceremonies several tiers of seats fell, hundreds of people going down in the ruins. Twenty-five or thirty persons were injured, some of them quite seriously.

A special dispatch from Bozeman, Mont., on the 17th, says Gen. Sturgis, assisted by Howard's cavalry, under Sanford, had a fight with the Nez Perces Indians in Canon Creek, on the 14th. Ten Indians were reported killed, and between 400 and 500 ponies were captured. In two fights the Crow Indians and soldiers had captured nearly 1,000 horses. Over 300 Crows were to join Gen. Sturgis on the evening of the 18th, when he would again pursue the fleeing hostiles. Gen. Howard was twenty-five miles behind him.

The Bible thrown from a car on the Illinois Central Road, by the Rev. Fallon Greene, a Catholic Priest of Chicago, was picked up by some section hands on the road, and returned to the railroad headquarters in Chicago, on the 17th. It is said there was no sign of a skeleton or finger mark in the book, as charged by the priest and given as his excuse for ejecting the same through the car window.

PERSONAL.

On the 11th, information was received at headquarters that Sitting Bull and his band were still in the British Possessions. They evidently no intention to come back.

A letter received in Washington, on the 12th, from the West, speaks of the safety and success of most of the parties composing Prof. Hayden's Exploring Expedition.

The Soldiers' Monument, at Dayton, Ohio, was unveiled, on the 12th, by President Hayes. There were present 3,000 veterans and about 20,000 citizens. Addresses were made by Mr. Hayes, Gen. Butler, Secretary of War McCrary, Chief-Justice Waite, Maj.-Gen. Hartsuff and others.

The Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill., has appointed Jared G. Strong, Receiver of the collapsed State Savings Institution of Chicago.

President Hayes and party visited Richmond, Ind., on the 13th, the President calling upon Senator Morton. By order of the Senator's physician no other person was present at the interview between the President and the sick Senator. President Hayes is said to have been deeply affected upon beholding the condition of Mr. Morton, finding him, however, much better than he expected to see him. Dr. Toompson stated that the Democratic members in the Senate's condition had been very marked for two days. Gen. B. F. Butler, who was passing through Richmond on his way to Chicago, also made a brief call upon Senator Morton. Mr. Morton is reported to have said to the President, during the interview between them, that he expected to take his seat in Congress in December next, and to warmly and earnestly support the Administration.

Thursday, 16th, attended the reunion of his old regiment, the Twenty-third ohio, at Fremont, on the 14th. Twenty-thousand people were present on the occasion.

It was stated, on the 14th, that the defalcations of Parsons, the absconding Mayor of Burlington, Iowa, would reach $700,000, of which amount the bank of which he was Assistant Cashier took about $50,000, the School District $20,000, and numerous other interests the remainder.

—In a statement made before the Aldermanic Investigating Committee in New York, on the 15th, Wm. M. Tweed said almost every one connected with the Tammany Ring had been indicted by the charter of '70, and that members of the Assembly were paid to vote for it. He could not tell of his own personal knowledge who members were paid, but he knew the Senators were. It was understood among the members of the Ring that they were to reimburse themselves for the large sums expended in passing the charter.

The National Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, at their recent session at Indianapolis, elected F. B. Allen, of Louisville, Ky., Grand Master for the ensuing year, and W. A. Sayre, of Indianapolis, Grand Secretary and Treasurer.

Levi Coffin, well known as an anti-slavery apostle in antebellum days, and President of the "Underground Railway," died at his residence near Cincinnati, on the afternoon of the 16th, aged about seventy-five years.

President Hayes met with a grand reception and ovation at Louisville, Ky., on the 17th. The reception speech was made by Mayor Jacobs, and an address of welcome was delivered by Hon. Stuart Robinson, to which the President responded at some length, returning thanks for the hearty welcome extended to him and his Cabinet. He was followed in his remarks to Secty Evarts, Gov. Wade Hampton, Gen. Joseph Taylor, Postmaster-Gen. Key, Secty McCrary, Secty Thompson and Secty Schurz.

POLITICAL.

The Prohibitionists of Minnesota have nominated Rev. A. Wilby for Governor, A. P. Sewell for Lieutenant-Governor, C. H. Anderson for Secretary of State, W. W. Sheman for Treasurer, James G. Childs for Attorney-General, and T. G. Carter for Railroad Commissioner.

The Republicans of Wisconsin met in State Convention at Madison, on the 11th, and nominated the following ticket: Governor, Wm. E. Smith; Lieutenant-Governor, J. M. Bingham; Secretary of State, Hans B. Warner; Treasurer, Richard Guenther; Attorney-General, W. E. Carter; Superintendent of Public Instruction, W. C. Whitford; Hon. E. W. Keyes having resigned his position as Chairman of the State Central Committee Hon Horace Butler was appointed to succeed him. The platform declares it the purpose of the party to preserve the letter and spirit of the Constitution and its amendments; recognizes the efforts of the National Administration to restore peace and concord in the South, and will rejoice if the Southern policy shall produce the hoped-for results, but upon the failure of the experiment will demand that other measures be adopted which shall secure to all citizens, without distinction of race or color, the fullest enjoyment of their Constitutional rights; that the efforts of the Executive to bring about Civil-Service reform are approved; that they have no unshaken confidence in the patriotism of the President; that the Patent laws should to modified; favors the remonetization of silver; sympathizes with workingmen, and recommends the careful consideration of the labor question by the State and National legislatures; opposes the granting of further railroad subsidies, advises Governmental supervision over Inter-State railways; commends the administration of Gov. Ludington; favors an appropriation by Congress to assist the suffering laboring man to settle on the public lands, etc.

The Democratic State Convention of New York has been called to meet at Albany on the 3d of October.

The Pennsylvania Prohibitionists met in State Convention at Harrisburg, on the 12th, and adopted a platform declaring adherence to the principles of prohibition and expressing an abiding faith in the ultimate success of the Prohibition party. The following ticket was nominated: For Supreme Judge, A. H. Wilson; State Treasurer, Samuel Cornell; Auditor-Ge neral, A. A. Barker.

The Prohibition State Convention of Massachusetts met at Worcester, on the 12th, and nominated: For Governor, Judge Pitman; Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. O. Ewing; Secretary of State, D. B. Gurney; Treasurer, B. N. Stilling; Attorney-General, Orr. T. Gray; Auditor, J. H. Gass. The resolutions adopted declare that the real remedy for the present distress among the laboring men throughout the country is to save, by legal prohibition, the annual waste of $700,000,000 now spent for liquor; bid God-speed to the Reform Clubs of the State, and reaffirm the determination of the party to give the ballot to women.

The Massachusetts Democrats have renominated William Gaston for Governor; Wm. R. Plunket for Lieutenant-Governor; Weston Howland for Secretary of State; Hazel N. Skilling for Treasurer; John E. Fitzgerald for Auditor, and C. P. Thompson for Attorney-General. The resolutions reaffirm the National Democratic platform of 1876; declare the belief that Tilden and Hendricks were fairly elected by the people; congratulate the country upon the hopeful signs following the "adoption of Democratic principles and measures of administration by the Executive Department of the Federal Government in reference to the Southern States," and oppose the re-enactment of the Prohibitory Liquor law of the State.

A Workingmen's Convention was held at Columbus, Ohio, on the 13th, and the following State ticket was nominated: For Governor, Stephen Johnson, candidate on the greenback ticket; Lieutenant-Governor, Christopher Lewis; Supreme Judge, Milton M. Cady; Treasurer, James Jenkins; Clerk of Supreme Court, E. T. Filkin; Attorney-General, A. A. Duncan; School Commissioner, John D. Logan; Board of Public Works, C. U. Strong. The resolutions declare the unavailing the repeal of the Resumption act; the remonetization of silver coin; wholesome restrictions upon the issue of national bank bodies, and the fostering of the resources of the country, to the end that labor may be employed at living wages. The platform also declares in favor of a graduated income tax; that Government lands shall be reserved for actual settlers, and deprecates all efforts to redress wrongs by violence; that legal-tender currency shall be issue by and continued without contraction and that the National Banking law shall be repealed.

The Executive Committee of the Workingmen's party of New York have issued a call for a Convention, to be held at Troy, on the 8th of October, for the purpose of nominating a State ticket.

The New York State Convention of the Independent party has been postponed to the 10th of October.

At the late election in Maine a constitutional amendment providing that no person who has not paid poll tax for two years, legally assessed, shall vote, was defeated by over 5,000 majority against it, and an amendment was adopted by over 30,000 majority to prevent towns from creating debts for railroads, etc., above existing municipal debts of 5 per cent. of valuation.

An Aged Tortoise.

In the hall of the Episcopal Palace of Peterborough there is preserved under a glass case the shell of a large tortoise, which appears to have been a double "centenarian." Beside the shell, there lies the following description of this remarkable animal: "The Peterborough Tortoise." "It is well ascertained that this reptile must have lived about 200 years. Bishop Parsons had remembered it for more than sixty years, and it had not increased in any visible change. Bishop Marsh (in whose time it died) was the seventh who had visited the palace during the sojourn here. Its shell was perforated (as is seen) in order to attach it to a tree, to keep it from the reach of those who carried, among the strawberries, of which it was very fond. It ate all kinds of fruit and sometimes a pint of gooseberries at a time, but it made the greatest havoc among the strawberries. It knew the gardeners well (of whom it had seen many), and would always keep near them when they were gathering fruit, etc. It could bear almost any weight, sometimes as much as eighteen stone was laid upon its back. About October it used to bury itself, in a particular spot of the garden, at the depth of one or two feet, always shifting to the vicinity of the approaching season, where it would remain without food until the following April, when it would again emerge from its hiding place.

"Palace, Peterborough, March, 1842

"The Bishops during whose time it lived were:

1. John Thomas, 1745–1757.
2. Richard Terrick, 1757–1764.
3. Robert Lamb, 1764.
4. John Hinchcliffe, 1769.
5. Spencer Madan, 1794
6. John Parsons, 1813.
7. Robert Marsh, 1813–1839."—Montreal Witness.

Early Birds in France.

A French ornithologist has taken the trouble to find out at what hour during the summer the commonest small birds wake up and begin to sing. The result of his inquiry shows that the earliest riser of all is the greenfinch, who probably imagines that he may make up for the thin note of his voice and the monotony of his strains by being first in the field. At any rate, he tunes up, and gets to work at his treble chirping at about half past one a. m., some hours before the more robust and melodious species of finches are ready for work.

The second to put in an appearance is the black cap, who is to be heard at half past two or thereabouts; and half an hour later the quail makes his first attempt at a musical performance. It is nearly four o'clock and the sun is well above the horizon before the first real songster appears in the person of the blackbird. The vigorous notes of this performer are to be heard about half an hour before those of the thrush; and the chirp of the robin is about the same length of time before that of the wren. Finally, the house-sparrow and the bonfit occupy the last place on the list.

Hitherto early birds have always been exhorted to take the lark as their example; but the lark is shown to be comparatively a sluggard; he can never be heard, like the greenfinch, actually before the break of day; and except on a very sunny morning, it does not appear that he "rises" in any sense of the word, until long after chaffinches, linnets, and number of the hedgerow birds have been up and about.—Pall Mall Gazette.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Literature is fast running to obituaries.

—One of Brigham Young's sons is clamoring for the duds of his daddy.

—The life insurance companies in New York are unbusiness for five people to be killed. They are anxious $75,000 worth.

—Chief Joseph is entirely unlike Sitting Bull, and doesn't seem at all inclined to become a outsider. He is more like the Ben.

—George Sand died in too much strong coffee, and Alfred de Musset of too much absinthe. She began with pure milk, and he began with wine.

—Jay Gould says the reason he is not popular on Wall street is that his hands are thoroughly dismistic, and he has no fondness for dissipation or display.

—"Will Hamilton is the Hon. George Vennius of wannamaker."—Chicago Journal. "And it is reported that no man has ever loosed a bigger load from the cranes."—N. Y. Graphic.

—Gov. Van Zandt, of Rhode Island, and three Phelps, of Missouri, were graduates of Trinity College, and it is said they never had considerable difficulty in getting their degrees.

—It is now rumored that ex-ence Mr Bennett is engaged to marry a French woman of exalted rank. It is said she cannot speak a word of English but she is fluent in French.

—Charles Francis Adams has real estate worth $1,410,650, personal property worth $1,384,165, and bank shares worth $149,-000. His annual valuation of $2,944,545, which is a decrease of $102,625 since last year.

—Ex-Treasurer Spinner has arrived in New York from Florida. His health is unusually good, and his signature has been issued to the New York Herald to be used as a war map.—Norristown (Pa.) Herald.

—Secty Evarts has, instead of eleven daughters, as stated, six sons and seven daughters. The previous report was a miss deal; but now, on the authority of the Secretary himself, he prepares can speak for the card.—N. Y. Graphic.

—Chauncey Rose, at Terre Haute, Ind., was an exceedingly modest philanthropist, and at the time of his death left a million dollars to have it handed them to the aldermen of Terre Haute, Ind., to be used in such way as they might see fit. The aldermen failed to have it handed them to the aldermen of Terre Haute, Ind., to be used in such way as they might see fit. The aldermen failed to have it handed them to the aldermen of Terre Haute, Ind., to be used in such way as they might see fit.

—The New Haven (Conn.) Palladium says that "it has just been discovered that one of the resident Chinese educational commissioners at Hartford has two wives. He lives in the most fashionable quarter of the city, and his two wives, hitherto unsuspected by the natives, were first known in the evening looking just as he left you by the morning. But you and they are only natives. Where are the Americans, properly speaking, he says. The Springfield Republican, however, seems to think the word describes precisely enough persons who have descended from several generations born in America. Because Mr. Richard Grant White is an accurate Englishman, by descent and toilet, shall he not be considered an American? Where are the lines drawn?

—Mr. Alexander McGonin, in a recent issue of the Galena (Ill.) Gazette, gives some sound advice to young college graduates who contemplate entering the profession of journalism. He remarks that journalism is the most exacting of all professions, and the sooner young men discuss the idea that a college diploma qualifies them to take an editorial or a reporter's chair the sooner will they prepare themselves against every disappointment.

—The whole number of immigrants landed at Castle Garden during 1877 was 296,-000. The destination of 90,000 was the State of New York, 44,000 the Middle States, of 99,000 the Western and North-western States, of 24,000 the Eastern States, and 2,000 the Southern States. The whole number arriving in 1874 was 249,984, the destination of 52,444 being the State of New York, 62,930 the Middle States, 56,613 the Western and North-western States, 12,237 the Eastern, 3,506 the Southern States, and 2,152 Canada. In 1875 the total number of immigrants was 99,999, and in 1876 the total was 113,-978.—Wm. H. Bidering, in Scribner for September.

There are only 450 square miles of anthracite coal in the whole United States. Of bituminous coal there are in America 200,000 square miles, and 8,000 square miles in Great Britain.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18, 1877.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$4.00	@ $6.00
Sheep	4.00	@ 6.00
Hogs	6.00	@ 6.50
FLOUR—Good to Choice	$5.00	@ 6.40
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago (New)	.96½	@ .96½
CORN—Western Mixed	.55½	@ .55
OATS—Mixed and State	.35	@ .36
RYE—Western	.70	@ .70
PORK—Mess	15.75	@ 15.87
LARD—Steam	9.05	@ 9.15
CHEESE	9.00	@ 12.00
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	.50	@ .58
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Extra	$5.90	@ $6.00
Choice	5.60	@ 5.80
Good	4.80	@ 5.75
Medium	4.00	@ 4.75
HOGS—Light	5.50	@ 5.65
Packing	5.30	@ 5.60
SHEEP—Common	3.25	@ 3.75
Fair to Choice	4.00	@ 4.75
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	.26	@ .27
Good to Choice	.23	@ .25
EGGS—Fresh	.16½	@ .18
FLOUR—Extra White	$6.00	@ $6.50
Choice to Fine Spring	5.50	@ 5.90
Good to Choice	4.90	@ 5.40
GRAIN—Wheat, No. 1, Spring	1.04½	@ 1.05
Wheat, No. 2	.96½	@ .97
Oats, No. 2	.34½	@ .34½
Rye, No. 1	.70	@ .70½
Barley, No. 3 (new)	.62½	@ .63
BROOM CORN—Choice Hurl	.06½	@ .07
Good Medium	.05½	@ .06
Crooked & Covers	.01	@ .04
PORK—Mess	14.60	@ 14.62½
LARD	8.72½	@ 8.75
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10.00	@ 11.00
Shingles	2.40	@ 2.50
Lath	1.75	@ 1.75
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$4.75	@ $5.00
Medium	4.00	@ 4.50
Hogs—Good	5.75	@ 6.00
SHEEP—Good	4.50	@ 5.00
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.37
Medium	4.50	@ 4.87
Fair	3.75	@ 4.00
HOGS—Yorkers	5.50	@ 5.60
Philadelphias	5.35	@ 5.50
SHEEP—Best	4.75	@ 4.87
Common	3.00	@ 3.75

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

BRILLIANTS.

Pain and pleasure fill my life
Woven each in each by strife,
For this pain is mine,
Build I each then vain regret
Better still to say—forget.
Neither is and either.
—Boston Transcript.

SLEEP.

Beautiful sp from the depths of the unknown sea
Gliding sweet sleep to me
Slip from the silent deeps
Where no one wills and weeps;
Cometh as one who draweth nigh,
Without a voice, without a sigh,
And the sound of the calmest sweetness
Like water on the feet I rest.
There is not for all mankind,
As one who whom stir the wind,
With balmily the drowsy waters creep
To kiss the feet of sleep.
—Blackwood's Magazine.

FORGETFULNESS.

Being negligent that I may forget
Being forgetful that I can best learn!
But how assiduous can be art,
And this is the secret of its success,
To limited foreknow and regret.

Then shall the chamber on grasses grow
Above the mouth of the grave,
While wind, there shall softly blow
And shake the yew, and the wasp
Or perfect rest shall be like below.
—Christina Rossetti, Victorian Winter.

LOVE'S FAR SIGHTS.

The round fat moon sheds forth its mellow light,
The pale stars twinkle in the sky,
The night, calm, holds at night,
Against my face, while heavy, gently blows
Far from the spear of the hoary trees
I drift down the moonlit stream at ease;
My memories ebb slowly, calore clouds brown,
The rain as sometimes on the night breeze;
The boy passing on my drifting boat,
The fellow wayfarers of the footpath,
With every care from this life cease remote,
Nothing have a joy divine and sure
The bonds like those which fight life's devious ways
Account a glory or the complicate.
—Alice Ryder.

SONNET.

A moment past, the whole of this fair scene
Was wrapt by clouds that now are rolling fast
In powder mountain, beyond, where the last
Has left its trap, the landscape lies serene,
Far spreading, as at first the kindly dawn
Revealed it to my view. Above, below
The adverse—earth, sea, and sky—holding past.
Of a cheerful in instinctive by Globe, filling
Into the round the source of the sensation.

—The New Haven (Conn.) Palladium says that "it has just been discovered that one of the resident Chinese educational commissioners at Hartford has two wives. He lives in the most fashionable quarter of the city, and his two wives, hitherto unsuspected by the natives, were first known in the evening looking just as he left you by the morning. But you and they are only natives. Where are the Americans, properly speaking, he says. The Springfield Republican, however, seems to think the word describes precisely enough persons who have descended from several generations born in America. Because Mr. Richard Grant White is an accurate Englishman, by descent and toilet, shall he not be considered an American? Where are the lines drawn?

—Mr. Alexander McGonin, in a recent issue of the Galena (Ill.) Gazette, gives some sound advice to young college graduates who contemplate entering the profession of journalism. He remarks that journalism is the most exacting of all professions, and the sooner young men discuss the idea that a college diploma qualifies them to take an editorial or a reporter's chair the sooner will they prepare themselves against every disappointment.

THE CHANGED HOME.

I.

"I wonder why it is," said Charlie Banks to his beautiful young wife, as they sat happily together at an early tea-table, so tastefully laid, one winter evening, "that Willis Clark spends his evenings so constantly at their house. Jennie must feel dreadfully about it! And how happy he did seem with her only a few months ago! Why, it has been more than two years since they were married, is it?"

"It is just two years this month," said Mrs. Banks, "and I am as happy as I ever knew a happier couple. I think they love each other yet, and I have been wondering for some time whether or not I ought to tell her what I think the trouble is, and help her to win her husband back again. When she was here she cried her eyes red and closed parlor, gave it a thorough dusting, which I had been needing for a long time, if I really was making. With all these pleasant thoughts in her mind, she made her currant jelly, and then, after dinner, set to work carefully to put her home in better order, hoping that her husband might come in that night. In the first place she opened the parlor

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, April 2, 1877.

The sound of the firing in the great rifle match had barely died away, when my last letter was mailed, so that I had no opportunity to speak of the excitement which ran riot in this country in the city when the result was announced, and it became known that, for the first time, America led the world in the national match. The President of the United States could not have been more of a lion for the time being, than was Bruce and Highhalough, and the meeting at the Hippodrome on Tuesday evening, when the several prize winners were greeted amongst a perfect ovation. The immense building was packed, and such cheers as only an excited multitude can give, electrified the englishmen for two hours. The foreigners, too, came in for their full share of attention. Gen. Henry Hafford's appearance the very roof shook with the applause, and cheer after cheer was given for the Captain of the British team. Sir Henry addressed the multitude, paying the tribute of a warm hearted Briton to his opponents in the late match, and to the American people in general. In concluding he said that "the only disaster, under which we labor is that we will go back to our country defeated men. From what the teams say and to Dolmonico's, where they were the guests of the National Rifle Association at an elegant banquet.

So brilliant a victory not only confirms the above verdict, but should every nerve to wipe out the cankering last year's defeat, but every old previous record, has naturally excited much into its cause, as well as some short itself. With regard to the cause of the nation that the Americans did not lose on account of accumulation. They were on their own shooting ground for the thing, although the victories of the Americans in England a few years ago would seem to prove that such was not the case, the shooting, as an important one was supposed to be of the home team. They were [illegible] they have had practice to do with the unparalleled 1,760 of the second day. But more than four-fifths of the scores or than from all of their combined, our riflemen worsted their trained competitors on account of the vast superiority of their guns. The American breech loaders have proved themselves, on this occasion, as on many others, a second and previous achievements in gun making in accuracy at long range.

This never to be forgotten contest has proved the Sharps improved long range rifle to be the most perfect gun the world ever saw has made it acknowledged the standard Bisley, the hero of the American team who on the last day, made the unheard of record, 210 out of a possible 225, used this wonderful gun, and, at the conclusion of the contest, made the emphatic remark "That gun's rifle made my record; I only happened to be behind it." Lieut. Rhodes, the accomplished military and rifle editor of the Tribune and to a friend of mine after Friday's work, that there could be no question but that the improved Sharps is the coming gun. But more convincing than the testimony of the action of the British marksmen, several of whom have bought the Sharps for their own future use. Among this seven is Wm. Rigby, of Wm. & John Rigby, Dublin, now and for many years the most celebrated rifle makers of Great Britain. If anything more than its record were needed to show the shooting world that they want on the Sharps gun hereafter to stand any chance, it strikes me this episode furnishes:

On Tuesday last occurred what was known as the "Spirit of the Times" match, for prizes aggregating $1000 in gold and the championship of the world. It was open to all comers, and in view of the large number of high scores made the previous week was a very exciting contest. There were seventy nine entries embracing almost all the best rifleman in the world. It was fully expected that Bruce, Blydenburg or Creighton would win the highest honor but the latter ranked up a new man to the 3500 prize. In the person of Washburn of Connecticut. Blydenburg came second, 3490, [illegible]

Sensible Advice.

You are asked every day through the columns of newspapers and by your friends to try something for your Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that you know in your heart will not get discouraged at spending money with but little success. Now let me give you satisfactory proof that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER will cure you of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint with all its attends, such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Water brash, Fullness at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sweetness of the dead, low spirits &c., we ask you to go to your Druggist then W. CHARTER, and get a Sample Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 10 cents and LIT R, or a regular size for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Miscellaneous.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

[illegible] WATER AND RAIL.

[illegible] of the State unequaled for [illegible] and contiguous to the [illegible] tion of the East shore [illegible] Indiana Railroad runs [illegible] the grant.

[illegible] And a W. Jamison, Ly any Means

[illegible] of TWO HUNDRED AND [illegible] land is rapidly falling [illegible] above Every State in

[illegible] acres of the lands [illegible] have already been [illegible] the country is in the soil and [illegible] own a share of such wealth [illegible] behold sheep.

[illegible] Send for Illustrated pamphlet.

W. O. BUCHART,
Commissioner.

[illegible]

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

[illegible] made in Charlevoix [illegible] themselves of one of the largest Carpet and Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an orders, either by mail or telegraph, will b promptly attended to and satisfaction guar anteed.

SPRING & CO.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road,

Known as the Cooper Farm,

30 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required. Address

ROBERT TAYLOR,
Peoskey, Mich.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER

1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT

We are supplied

With the Best

THAT THE

Wholesale Markets Afford.

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

To Sell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumeous.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

Special Bargains

at

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich.

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reason able rates.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and finish. Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

DID you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for CASH or its equivilent.

Remember the Place.

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crozier's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section, wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolies.

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endevor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stephens & Co.'

[illegible] and Wholesale Dealers in [illegible]

[illegible] YEAST CAKES, &c., &c. IN CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, Fresh [illegible]

[illegible] Also a large assortment of [illegible] Candies, Nuts, Raisins, Dessert [illegible]

[illegible] We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders [illegible] will receive prompt attention and [illegible] prices.

[illegible] BEATTY, FITZSIMONS, J. V. [illegible], E. S. [illegible]

BOOKS. BOOKS.

[illegible] Books, Stationery, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Pictures, Frames, Picture Cords and Tassels, Mouldings, Curtain Poles, Fixtures, Cornices, Etc., Etc.

Address, B. B. BATES, Traverse City, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles, Lath, Cheese Box Stuff, Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

[illegible] The undersigned has opened a meat market in the [illegible] and will keep constantly on hand [illegible] the best [illegible] market affords.

[illegible] A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

[illegible] NORTH CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop'r.

[illegible] has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the [illegible] public. [illegible] from here to in which [illegible] Speckled Trouts [illegible] Baggage moved free of charge.

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. Also always in Stock Inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly Crafton, Bonfield) No. 4 and 6 Spruce St., CHICAGO, And 43 Gardiy Street, New York.

STANLEY IN AFRICA.

He Crosses the Continent and Arrives on the West Coast—Desperate Fighting and Thrilling Adventures in Forests and on the Great Rivers

SAN YSIDRO, Sept. 11.

A Herald cable sent this morning, after months of suspense, during which the greatest fears were entertained for his safety, news has come that Henry M. Stanley has arrived on the west coast of Africa, after a thousand-mile journey across the continent along the line of the Lualaba and Congo Rivers. Stanley's letters are dated from Banana, Congo River, Aug. 19, and say he arrived at that point from Zanzibar, Aug. 6, with only 115 souls, and in an awful condition, after the long, terrible journey through the heart of the African continent, after completing the exploration of Lake Tanganyika, and settling definitely by actual survey the question of the outflow of the lake by what was believed to be the River Lukuga, but which he has proved to be only a creek draining into the lake, except where the waters of a great island sea attain an extraordinary level.

Stanley and his followers pushed across the country to the Nyangwe, on the Lualaba. This was the most northerly point reached by Cameron when he attempted to move directly to the westward from Tanganyika with the main drainage line of the Lualaba basin. Stanley left Nyangwe, Nov. 14, 1876, and traveled overland through Urega. After an absolute march of nine days through a country covered with difficulties, and being compelled to transport on the shoulders of his own very pound of provisions and other stores necessary for the transcontinental journey, and beside carrying, in a similar manner, the sections of the Lady Alice, the exploring boat, and the arms and ammunition of his party, Stanley found himself brought to a stand by an immense tract of dense forests, through which all attempts at progress were futile.

Finding he could not advance along the line he had first intended to follow, Stanley crossed the Lualaba and continued along the left bank of the river, passing through Northern Ukusus. On this route he endeavored to find an outlet westward, but the jungle was so dense and the fatigues of the march so harassing that it seemed impossible to pass the tremendous barrier of the forest. To add to the horrors of his position, Stanley was opposed at every step by the hostile cannibal natives, who filled the woods and poured lights and poison arrows on his party, killing and fatally wounding many of his men. From every tree and rock the deadly missiles winged their course, and the heavily-laden bearers fell dead under their loads. Only now and then could Stanley and his men reply with their rifles, as the savages kept under dense cover. Stanley's march through the cannibal regions soon became almost hopeless. There was no cessation of the fighting day or night. An attempt at camping merely concentrated the savages, and rendered their fire more deadly. The advance was a succession of charges in rude and skirmishing order by a guard engaged to clear the road of the main body, while a rear-guard in like manner covered the retreat. All efforts to appease the savages were unavailing. They would listen to no overtures, disregard all signs of friendship and refuse gift. They regarded as cowardice the unwillingness of Stanley's men, so that no course was examined but to fight the way out with as little loss as could be.

To render Stanley's position more culpable, his escort, of 140 natives, engaged for the service at Nyangwe, refused to go further, and deserted. They were so overawed by the terrors of the forest and the fighting, that they believed destruction was sure to overtake the whole party. Learning that his ranks were thinned by this desertion, the hostile natives gathered for a grand attack on Stanley, in compliance with this. It became necessary, therefore, to organize a desperate resistance, which was so successful that it repulsed the savages for the time, and gave Stanley a chance to arrange plans adapted to his trying situation. There was only one way to escape, unless Stanley accepted the alternative of returning to Nyangwe, and abandoning the work he had undertaken. This was to use canoes. With the Lady Alice on a last reliance, and good canoes for the party, Stanley concluded he would advance with a better prospect of success.

Although he had a decided advantage over the savages on the water, Stanley found each day's advance a repetition of the previous day's struggle. It was desperate fighting throughout wave-pushing down the river. In the midst of these struggles Stanley's journey was interrupted by a series of great cataracts not far apart, and just north and south of the equator. To pass these he had to cut his way through thirteen miles of dense forest and to drag his eighteen canoes and the Lady Alice overland. This enormous labor enabled the most exhausting efforts, and the men had frequently to abandon the ax and drag ropes for their relief. To defend themselves against the continuous assaults of the hostile natives, in passing the cataracts there was a long breathing pause and comparative security, from attack, while the party received strength to the further journey westward.

Though fighting his way continuously, Stanley made opportunity to note the interesting changes and physical characteristics of the route. At two degrees north latitude he found the course of the great Lualaba several miles in almost direct northerly direction to the northward, to the westward, and then to the southwestward, developing into a broad stream varying in width from two to ten miles, and choked with islands. To avoid struggles with the tribes of cannibals, inhabiting the mainland each side the river, Stanley's fleet paddled between the islands, taking advantage of the cover to this way many lives were made with little molestation, but this safety was purchased by much suffering. Cut off from supplies in the middle of the great river, starvation threatened. Extreme hunger was endured, three days being passed by the party without food. This state of things could not be longer endured, so Stanley resolved to meet his fate on the mainland rather than by hunger on the river. He turned to the left bank of the Lualaba, and with the singular good fortune that has generally attended him, reached the village of a tribe acquainted with trade. These people had four muskets, which they had obtained from the West Coast. This represented the advance guard of civilization toward the interior of the continent. They called the great river Ikutu Ya Congo. When these natives Stanley made "blood-brotherhood," and perchance from them as abundance of provisions.

After a brief rest, Stanley continued his course among the left bank. Three days after leaving the friendly village he came to the country of a powerful tribe, whose warriors were armed with muskets. Here, for the first time since leaving Nyangwe, Stanley had to fight an enemy of equal breeding as to arms. No sooner did the natives discover Stanley's approach than they mustered fifty-four large canoes, and put off from the river bank to attack him. Not till three of his men were killed did Stanley consent to give up the natives understand that he was friendly. He offered peace gifts, but the savages refused to be reconciled, and the fight went on for twelve miles down the river it was undisturbed by Stanley's followers with great courage, and was the last save one in thirty-two battles since the expedition had left Nyangwe.

The Lualaba, which river changes its name several times as it approaches the Atlantic Ocean, now becomes known as the Kivanga, and the Congo. As the river was known by the great basin which it drains between 16 and 7 degrees east longitude, and has an uninterrupted course of over 700 miles, with magnificent affluents, especially on the southern side. Thence clearing the broad belt of mountains between the great basin of the Atlantic Ocean, the river flows with a current of three miles an hour and shrewd known tactics, would be odd enough without the inexpressible strangeness of their head-gear. There are strangers from Rotterdam and Zealand, with their great spiral horns of gold; there the antlers of some African antelope, projecting on each side of their head; here the true Hagoe women, with a shell of silver or mother-of-pearl rounded to fit each side of the head, and over her and all a lace cap drawn tightly; two little flaps, like butterflies, of gold or filigree, dart from behind each ear. But a rare visitor or two, from Friesland, outdoes these local ladies, and with her head girdled with barbaric gold and pearl, and even with diamonds, carries her dowry with her in her headdress."

The official figures of the cost of the Tichborne case have been published. The total expense incurred was $309,371.83. Of this sum the lawyers received $118,-272.25, the witnesses, $71,561.52, and the jurors, $18,000. The cost of printing the various documents connected with the trial was $31,341.25, and there was paid for the services of stenographers $10,187.-50.

It is estimated that 20,000 oil wells have thus far been dug in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, at an aggregate cost of $192,000,000. They have yielded about 85,000,000 barrels of oil, valued at the wells at $200,000,000, or $400,000,000 at the seaboard.

King Laufrey I.

To rise from the humble position of pedagogue and gardener's son, to reign for a time as King of the Marianne Isles, in the Spanish Main, and, from his dream of power, awaken in a Police Court to the reality of a cruel deception was the unhappy fate of Antoine Godfrey Jerome Laufrey. Were those natives Stanley made "blood-brotherhood," and perchance from them as abundance of provisions.

Laufrey, a native of Rouen, came, early manhood, with all manner of ambitious projects in his head, to the United States, and must be living in this city, for the gossipers of the Atlantic cable have ferreted him out in his present exalted station. He is a man of about 50 years of age, with an eagle eye, a Napoleonic forehead, and a head of hair that would make a Hyperion envious. He is a man of fine physique, and has a commanding presence. He is a man of fine physique, and has a commanding presence. He is a man of fine physique, and has a commanding presence

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 24 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Oct., 9. 1877. Whole No., 439

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription $1.50 per Annum, In Advance. 75c FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1 m.	2 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 yr.
One sq.	$ 80	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$5.00
2 sqrs	1.25	1.75	2.00	4.00	7.00
3 "	1.75	2.25	3.00	5.00	7.50
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.75	10.00
4 column,	3.7	4.00	5.00	10.75	17.00
4 "	5.00	5.50	8.50	17.00	30.00
"	8.50	10.00	12.00	20.00	47.50

Cards in Business Directory, $5 per line per year.

Legal advertisements at Statutories.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co. Charlevoix, Mich

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. GALE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. E. EPHRIEM, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith & Carriage, Wood, Painting, Repairing and horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,

LAWYER AND NOTARY,

Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all opperations pertaining in the dental profession. (1yr.)

The Campbell House,

TRAVERSE CITY MICH.

H.D CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PAILTHORP,

Attorney and Counselor at Law

Solicitor in Chancery and Notary Public Will practice in Emmet and adjoining counties Office in Gilbert's block, Petoskey, Mich Tf.

M. J. Stockman

DEALER IN

HARDWARE,

Tinware & Stoves

Keeps constantly on hand a large supply and will sell at

DETROIT STOVES,

With Furniture,

Cash Paid for Copper

Fishing Tackle.

A joint trout poles, cane poles, trout flies, trolling hooks trout lines from 5 to 75 cts each, trolling lines braided, hooks of every size and shape, and pocket compasses. Call and examine.

GEO. W. CROUTER, Druggist and Dispensing Chemist.

NOTICE U.S. Land Office, Traverse City Mich., June 20. 1877 Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Erkson Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 1275, dated August 21 1874, upon the S½ of sec. section. 34, Township 34 North, R. 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office, Traverse City Mich., June 20, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Noah for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7565, dated April 15, 1876, upon the SE¼ of sec. section 26, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Sept., 1877, at 10 o'clock a. m., and will be subject to rule according to law as prescribed by law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE, Commissioner.

Description of Land	Section	Town	Range
neq of neq	5	32 N	4W
nwq of swq	5	32 N	4W
seq of neq	29	34 N	4W
sq of lot 1	32	34 N	4W
lot 2 of sec	32	34 N	4W
sq of nwq	32	34 N	4W
sq of swq	26	32 N	6W
swq of neq	26	32 N	6W
neq of lot 1	30	32 N	5W

MICHIGAN STATE LAND OFFICE, Lansing, Sept. 2d, 1877.

Notice is hereby given, that the following described Primary School and Agricultural College Land, situate in Charlevoix county forfeited for non-payment of interest, will be offered for sale at this office November 5th 1877 at ten o'clock a. m. unless previously redeemed according to law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE, Commissioner

Number of Certificate	Description of Land	Section	Town	Range
1052	e½ of nwq	16	32 N	7W
1083	all of nwq	16	32 N	7W
1053	neq of swq	16	32 N	7W
1780	nwq of neq	16	32 N	7W
1090	sq of	16	34 N	7W
1443	neq of seq	16	32 N	7W

Agricultural College Land.

461	e½ of nwq and wq of	8	32 N	7W
533	lot 2 of sq	18	32 N	4W

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAWS.

LADIES HATS

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

L. B. BARTHOLOMEW, N. G.
GEO. W. CROUTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 289 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. B. OVERTON, Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Purple Hill Lodge No. 141, L. O. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday evening the full of the moon in each month at 6 o'clock p. m. Visiting Brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

ROLAND BURNS, W. M.
GEO. DAWSON, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.

SOUTH—Mails arrive daily at 12 M.; depart at 1 P. M.

SOUTH ARM mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

No frost yet to injure vegetation.

SEE new advertisements in this issue.

THE Lewis House at Traverse City is now closed to the public.

THE sere and yellow of Autumn is beginning to show itself.

MASONIC—Regular communication of Charlevoix Lodge No. 289 F. & A. M., on Tuesday evening Oct. 16.

HOSEA, an anti-polygamic Mormon defends the Book of Mormon at great length, in last weeks Cadillac News.

THE Official Board of the M. E. Church of Traverse City has decided to rent the pews in that church for the ensuing year.

THE fine of young Morrison was paid on Tuesday and he was released from the county jail.

COMMISSIONER Newman on Wednesday collected $11 from the scow Hunter for damage done to the bridge.

PERSONAL.—Ben. Campbell and bride returned home on Tuesday, and have commenced house keeping at the old Beers homestead.

CO TREASURER See informs us that the receipt of sales of land for taxes, on Monday, aggregated $400.

A Northwest storm raged here during the greater part of last week, holding several vessels here wind bound.

GOOD THURSDAY.—J. H. McPherson, lately threshed for H. Cunningham, in Marion, 72 bushels of wheat and 63 bushels of oats in one hour. Let us hear from the rest.

FOR water-proof cotton, flannel, brown sheeting and striped shirtings go to See & Washburn's.

— Harrison Miller, and son from St. James, were over this week.

As we go to press the Board of Supervisors are engaged in an animated discussion on the bridge question.

We shall receive this week a large stock of plaid dress goods for fall and winter wear, to be sold at ten cents per yard. Fox, Rose & Buttars.

Within a month President Hayes has trodden the soil of sixteen States.

About a dozen States will hold their annual elections on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

"Do you understand the points of an issue" a juryman was asked in a St. Louis court. "Of course I do," was the reply. "Do you mistake me for a member of Congress?"

A few pieces of plaid suitings very cheap at See & Washburn's.

COLORADO followed Michigan's lead and voted down the Woman Suffrage proposition. Its advocates made a thorough canvass of the State, and in many towns committees of women worked throughout election day at the polls.

New goods, new goods, dress goods in all styles, fancy plaids, plain, and figured, for ladies and misses wear. Fox, Rose & Buttars.

GEN. McClellan characterized his nomination for Governor of New Jersey as "one of the surprises of his life," whereat the St. Louis Globe reminds us that George got several of the other "surprises of his life" from stonewall Jackson and Robert E Lee.

HO FOR THE FAIR!—The Van Raalte will leave Charlevoix Wednesday morning, arriving at Elk Rapids at noon, and returning to Charlevoix the same evening. The Charlevoix Cornet Band are going, fifteen strong, and a jolly good time is expected. It is desirable to have as many Charlevoix people go as possible. Only one dollar fare for the round trip.

Regular-cut fashioned navy plug tobacco at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

FIRE.—On Tuesday a blaze of fire was seen issuing from the tug Starke Bros, lying at Fox Rose & Buttars harbor dock. Engineer Smith was promptly on the spot, and with remarkable coolness and presence of mind attached the hose to the pony engine pump, and extinguished the fire before it did much damage. The lodgement of a spark from the smokestack was the cause.

New invoice of goods at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, the last of this week.

A boy of five years was "playing rail road," with his sister of two and a half years. Drawing her upon a footstool, he imagined himself both the engine and conductor. After initiating the pulling noise of the steam, he stopped and called out "New York," and in a moment after "Patterson," and then "Philadelphia" this knowledge of towns was now exhausted, and at the next place he cried "Heaven." His little sister said eagerly, "Tod! I dea I'll dit out here."

If you wish to get booted call on us we can boot you or shoe—I you. We have just received our fall and winter stock of boots and shoes in men's, boy's, ladies, misses, and childrens. Fox, Rose & Buttars.

A couple were married in Georgia by a justice of the peace. Unto the man he said: "Sir, will you have the beloved woman you hold by the right hand, in the name of the State of Georgia, in Cobb county, and the new constitution, whether it be adopted or not, to be your lawful wedded wife" And to the woman he said: "Madam, will you take this man to be your lawful husband under the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Georgia, no matter who is President"

Recollect that Carpenter & Bartholomew keep the best wooden pumps in the world.

Don't forget the Farewell Ball at Fox's Hall to-morrow evening.

Be sure and attend the fair at Elk Rapids this week. It will pay you.

ACCORDING to the Kalkaskian the Public School at Kalkaska cost a trifle over $10 per scholar last year.

E. M. Washburn, of this office leaves for Wisconsin to-morrow, he will be gone one week

We shall receive this week a large stock of clothing, also dry goods groceries, and everything else to numerous to mention. Fox, Rose & Buttars

Do you know where to buy your supplies for fall and winter. If not, go to See & Washburn's, and examine goods and get their prices

The Progress tells of a man in Milton Township, Antrim County, who paid for threshing his wheat according to the measurement of the threshers, but afterwards finding he had some 15 or 20 bushels more than the threshers made it, called upon them and paid the difference.

NOTICE.—Come into my inclosure on the morning of Aug 7th, one bay mare pony about two years old. Owner please prove property, pay charges, and take her away. J. A. BACON.
Township of Hayes, Mich.

Large stock of first class tub butter now on hand. Fox, Rose & Buttars.

ARREST FOR DEFRAUDING THE REVENUE.—Deputy United States Marshal Bailey returned on Saturday from the Manitou Islands and the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, where he arrested for persons on the charge of defrauding the revenue, selling liquor and tobacco without licenses from the government. He was assisted by the United States revenue cutter Andy Johnson. The persons arrested were Richard Kitchen, of South Manitou, and Daniel Bass, of North Manitou Island; William Smith, of the same place, and S. S. Bennett of Bamfield Mills. All were taken to Commissioner Gage at Traverse City, and after examination, held for trial at the October term of the United States Court They were released on bail. Mr. Bailey was absent two weeks on this duty.—[G. R. Times, etc. 2

Plenty of that fifty cent Japan tea at See & Washburn's.

TO THRESHERS AND OTHERS.—It is our desire to compile a table of figures showing the amount of the several kinds of grains raised in the County the past season. To further this object we ask of all men of threshing machines, or Supervisors of Townships, to give us all the information in their possession bearing on this subject. It is a matter which will be for the mutual benefit of all concerned in more ways than one. We desire to show up the development and adaptability for grain raising of the several townships, and by so doing assist in their further development. We wish also to know that our County is second to none in the State agriculturally Give us all the light possible on this subject.

Don't forget that Carpenter & Bartholomew have a nice assortment of winter caps.

HYMENAL.—The social event of the season in this village was the marriage on Thursday, of Geo. W. Miller and Miss Ida Whitcomb, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs Ames Fox. Rev. Wm. L. Tilden, of Petoskey, was the officiating Clergyman, and the guests numbered about twenty. After the ceremony, and the storm of congratulations which were showered upon the young couple, a bounteous wedding supper was served by the host and hostess. The happy couple, accompanied by a few relatives and friends, left by private conveyance for Petoskey about four p. m. at which place Mr. and Mrs. Miller will take the train for Pentwater where they will remain a week. On their return they will enter upon the realities and responsibilities of married life in their new residence on Clinton street, and their very many friends unite in sincerest hopes for their future happiness and welfare.

See leading matter on eighth page.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

FOREIGN.

PRINCE LOUIS NAPOLEON has reached Belgium and is safely out of the French frontier, with a whole, it is stated, of being conveniently in case a complication should arise out of the result of the coming elections. The London Times of the 18th thinks a coup d'état may confidently be expected.

A DESPERATE battle was fought in the Valley of the Lom, on the 17th, between Asiatic Pasha's division of the Turkish Army and thirty-two battalions of infantry and eight batteries belonging to the Russian Army. The latter are reported to have been defeated with great slaughter.

A TREATY Belgrade, received in Vienna on the 18th, declares the reported evacuation of Vodahan, in Asia Minor.

ACCORDING to a Pera dispatch of the 18th, Suleiman Pasha had driven the Russians entirely out of Schipka Pass. The report was denied by the Russian authorities, and the statement made that the Turks had been forced to abandon Fort No. 6, which they having held it for six hours. It was stated that the officer in command had been largely reinforced and was prepared to hold the position.

PRESIDENT DIAZ, of Mexico, having ordered the surrender of the Rio Grande jail broken by the United States authorities, Canales and the other Generals in the Department of Matamoras have indignantly thrown up their commissions. It was believed, on the 19th, that they meditated revolution against the Administration of President Diaz.

ACCORDING to London telegrams of the 19th, the Russians had apparently abandoned the idea of taking Plevna by assault, and were besieging it, pure by say and trench. The Porte had sent 50,000 men to reinforce Osman Pasha, but it was believed they could not break through the Russian cordon.

A HERALD'S dispatch of the 20th says Osman Pasha has declined the Russian request for an armistice to enable them to bury the dead who were lying unburied and rotting in front of the fortifications of Plevna.

D. D. SPENCOYE, the defaulting President of the Chicago Savings Institution, had not been arrested up to the morning of the 20th. A Liverpool dispatch of that date thought that he had left the Circassian at Moville, Ireland. It would be easy to reach the continent from Liverpool, and he had twelve hours' start of the officers.

CONSTANTINOPLE dispatches of the 20th say it was well understood that the Turkish Government would not accept the mediation of Great Britain, or any other Power, while a single Russian soldier remained on Turkish soil, nor consent to an armistice except on terms of a consequent peace proposals were at the same time clearly defined.

ACCORDING to a correspondent of the London Times, the garrison of Plevna had received 50,000 reinforcements since the recent battles at Plevna. Their losses, on the 11th and 12th, were 40 per cent. of the numbers engaged. The Russians were making every preparation for a winter campaign.

THE Montenegrins have captured Zobrno and Nosche Forta, and are mentioned masters of the Duga Pass. A state of siege has been proclaimed at Trebinje.

THE Greek Foreign Office announces, on the 21st, that three days before, 2,000 Bashi-Bazouks had attacked the Greek Consulate at Larissa, and had been repulsed by the Consular Guards. The Greek Government had addressed remonstrance to the Porte on the subject.

WILLIAM HENRY FOX TALBOT, a distinguished British photographic inventor, is dead.

THE Republican candidates for the French Assembly have issued a manifesto in reply to the recent manifesto of President MacMahon.

AN assault was made upon the Russian position at Schipka Pass, which continued during the 21st and 22d, and resulted in the repulse of the Turks with great loss.

THE armies of the Czarowitz and Mehemet Ali came together at Hecis, on the 21st, and a battle ensued, which lasted until dark. Both sides fort heavily, but neither gained a substantial advantage.

A CORRESPONDENCY telegraphed the London press, on the 23d, that every Turk had been driven from Montenegro. The Prince had established his headquarters at Niesics.

OSMAN PASHA, at Plevna, was, on the 23d, reinforced with 20,000 men and a large quantity of ammunition.

A GREAT demonstration of workingmen in honor of ex-President Grant occurred in Newcastle, Eng., on the 23d.

DE VERRIER, the celebrated French astronomer, died on the 23d.

THE schooner Newton Booth, which arrived from the Arctic regions, or San Francisco, on the 22d, reported that seventy men left by the abandoned whaling fleet last year, only two, both Kanakas, had reached Point Barrow. All the rest are supposed to have perished in the ice packs.

THE Thiers manifesto was published on the 24th. It was addressed to his constituents, the electors of the Seine Arrondissement. In it the late President justifies the proceedings of the late Chamber of Deputies and praises its moderation and wisdom; insists that a monarchy in France is impossible and intolerable; proclaims the sovereignty of the Nation and the right to rebuke the recent dissolution; demands freedom of elections and freedom of the press, etc., etc.

DOMESTIC.

FROM statistics contained in the annual report of the Quarantine Officer at San Francisco, it appears that the Chinese coming to that port during a period of one year numbered only 1,450 in excess of those returning home.

THE eastern-bound passenger train on the Union Pacific Railroad was stopped and robbed by thirteen masked men, at Big Springs, Neb., on the night of the 18th. The robbers first took possession of the station at the Springs, destroying the telegraph wires and instruments, and compelling the agent to hang out a red light. When the train stopped, the robbers took possession, pulling the train-men and passengers under guard. The express car was broken into and the safe robbed of about $20,000. The passengers were also robbed. To delay the train reaching the next station and to prevent an alarm being given, the ore in the tender five was wet down. The Railroad Company offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest of the robbers.

SOME Chinamen having, on the 15th, brutally murdered a Mr. Sargent, his fore man and the wife of the latter, in Placer County, Cal., the citizens assembled, drove the Chinamen out of the Town of Brooklyn, and destroyed the Chinese quarters. On the night of the 17th, the entire Chinese portion of Old Town of Grass Valley, except one house, was burned. On the morning of the 18th, a body of armed men left Roseville and proceeded up the Auburn road, warning all Chinamen, numbering some sixty in the seven camps, to leave before midnight, under penalty of death.

SIMKY MYERS' savings bank, the Farmers', Merchants' and Mechanics', of Chicago, closed its doors on the 19th. The number of its depositors amounted to about 3,500; aggregate amount on deposit about $500,000, with assets nominally equal to the liabilities.

THE damage to the Union Pacific bridge, at Omaha, was so far repaired on the 19th, that trains commenced crossing on that day.

AN advance of 10 per cent., offered by the Wilkesbarre, Pa., coal companies on the rate of wages, has been refused by the striking miners.

ON the night of the 19th, the steamer Grand Republic, the largest vessel navigating the Mississippi River, was burned, while tied at the river bank, below St. Louis. The steamer was valued at $350,000. The Carondelet, tied alongside, was also burned, involving an additional loss of $75,000.

A MEMORANDUM prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury, on the 21st, shows that there were in the United States Treasury United States notes to the amount of $346,239,097, and National Bank notes to the amount of $13,461,966; total, $360,001,063. This statement does not include money deposited with National Banks.

A DISPATCH from Mount Washington, N. H., on the 21st, reports a furious snow storm prevailing there at that time.

THE western-bound Chicago express train on the New York central Railroad collided with a freight train, by a misplaced switch, near Rome, N. Y., on the 21st. Both engines were completely wrecked, and the mail and baggage cars were smashed. A passenger, a brakeman and a mail agent were killed, and several other persons were seriously injured.

THE Maryland Republicans held their State Convention at Baltimore, on the 20th, and nominated, in the forenoon session, Governor John Lee Carroll, of Howard County, for Comptroller. Resolutions were adopted cordially approving of the President's "undertaking to restore fair and honest Government" throughout the South, and the kindliest relations among all its inhabitants, so that the late war may be everywhere obeyed, life may be everywhere held inviolable, and genuine liberty be made the actual possession of the humblest dwelling of the American people," and opposing the repeal of the Resumption act.

A Warning to Travelers in Italy.

A recent case illustrates, in a very forcible way, the ill-treatment to which incautious Englishmen may be subjected in Italy. Dr. Giles, the Vice-Rector at the English College in Rome, got out at a roadside station between Rome and Naples, in search of some flowers for his pet paint. He was strong in the innocence of an artist and a priest, but he was unaffortunately provided with passports of identification. The slept at a village inn, and at midnight was awakened by a Brigadier of Carabineers, who required to be at once informed who the strange visitor might be.

As it happened, Dr. Giles had a passport, but it bore the date of 1866 and this would not do for the Brigadier. Dr. Giles also produced his priest's permission to celebrate mass. But the Brigadier was as illiterate as a Brigadier could be. He could make nothing of the passport or of the priest's document, and he declared himself confused between the William of the passport and the Guglielmo which Dr. Giles said was his name, and between the cardinal who issued the permission and the prince who produced it. The English man suggested blandly that perhaps the Brigadier's superior officer might understand the documents, but the Brigadier proudly replied that he was the superior officer, so there was no help in that direction.

Dr. Giles was locked up for the night in the guard-house, and when morning came and he was asked to be allowed to telegraph to his friends, the Brigadier simply pocketed the telegram. In the afternoon he was taken to Sora, where a Sub-Prefect resides, and after a short time of further indecision he was released with the simple message of regret from the Sub-Prefect that a mistake had been made.

But this was not all. After spending a week at Sora, Dr. Giles made a further tour, and at another little village was asked by another Brigadier for his papers. Again the ancient date of the passport puzzled the official, who told him that he must stay where he was until the Prefect of the district had examined his papers. Dr. Giles insisted on going with his papers and the Brigadier to the town where the Prefect lived. The Prefect saw him, and immediately released him, but said the Brigadier had had only done his duty, and pointed out that it was very imprudent to travel without proper papers.—London Saturday Review.

—"Do you know me, father," inquired one of Brigham's sons tenderly, as the prophet was about to breathe his last. "I should think I ought to," responded the parent, with energy.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

A LANDSLIDE in Bay City has some twenty acres in one of its business which he wishes to get rid of; but just how to accomplish that object is what puzzles him. He has ordered them out and they will not depart, taken off the doors and taken out windows, and still they tarry; and, as a last resort, he will fire to the house, as rumor says, but they remained the impudent conflagration and still abide in the house.

JOSEPH M. DIXON, a Grand Rapids tea dealer, has lately failed.

TWO saloons from the Propeller J. S. Fay came ashore at Marquette, the other night, got drunk, and had a terrible fight with knives. John O'Brien was fatally stabbed by Frank McLean.

DR. ROSE was called upon by his friends at Ann Arbor, the other night, and presented with money and other articles valued at $1,200.

A DOUBLE framed dwelling, owned by Thomas Lee and occupied by Patrick Murphy, at Ionia, was burned on the night of the 16th. Loss, $2,500.

AT the recent session of the Detroit Conference, at Adrian, Bishop Foster made the following appointments:

DETROIT DISTRICT.

Presiding Elder, A. Sutherland; Fuller Church, C. Kinsley; Bethel, Tabernacle, C. T. Allen; Jefferson Avenue, W. C. Prentiss; Woodward Avenue, W. W. Bradshaw; Trinity, Jefferson Avenue, R. S. Pardington; Detroit, Second Street, J. Shaw; Third Street, to be supplied; Fort Street, to be supplied; Delray, to be supplied; Dearborn, to be supplied; Springwells, to be supplied; Ecorse, to be supplied; Trenton, to be supplied; Grosse Isle, to be supplied; Monroe, to be supplied; Raisinville, to be supplied; Erie, to be supplied; Petersburgh, to be supplied; Toledo, to be supplied; Fort Meigs, to be supplied; Perrysburgh, to be supplied; Bowling Green, to be supplied; Portage River, to be supplied; Port Clinton, to be supplied; Put Ilay, S. P. Leroy; Sandusky, to be supplied; Fremont, to be supplied; Fort Seneca, to be supplied; Clyde, to be supplied; Fort Ball, to be supplied; Tiffin, to be supplied; Republic, to be supplied; Fostoria, to be supplied; Findlay, to be supplied; Fort Findlay, to be supplied; Arthur Edwards, other Conference Missionary; Bethesda, to be supplied; Church Quarterly Conference; J. M. Arnold, agent Superintended Preachers' Aid Society, to be supplied; Quarterly Conference, Leander Wilder and Joseph Hatch, Missionary; Wyandotte, to be supplied; Grosse Isle, to be supplied; Gibraltar, to be supplied; Monroe, to be supplied; Dundee, to be supplied; Milan, to be supplied; Saline, to be supplied; Ypsilanti, to be supplied; Ann Arbor, to be supplied; Scio, to be supplied; Manchester, to be supplied; Clinton and Tecumseh, A. J. Bigelow; Clinton and Raisin, to be supplied; Adrian, W. E. Bidlack; Logan, George F. Weeks; Hudson, J. W. Hamilton; Hudson Mission, to be supplied; Bethel and Allmon, J. Sewell; Cadmus, J. Hosken; Pleasant and Oak Grove, Wilbur Cornwell; Ypsilanti, Peter Pelts, I. Johnston; Rockford and Middle Ridge, to be supplied; Rockford, H. Edward and Manchester, to be supplied; Roseville, H. W. Thompson; Romeo, to be supplied; Kingsville, Swanton and Indian Mission, Peter Markensee, Sanilac and Huron Mission, to be supplied; Detroit and Brown; Isle Royal, to be supplied; Gustavus on Lake Huron, to be supplied; Grosse Island and Cedar River Mission, to be supplied.

BEGBY V. P. COLLIER has resigned and the Governor has appointed Rev. Isaac Gallard Beg-ley in his place. Mr. Collier resigned on account of ill health.

JUDGE HENRY STORY has filed his opinion in the Detroit Municipal Court relative to the case of Mayor Moore against the Board of Police Commissioners. He holds Rose responsible for the main defalcation and Douglass liable for the stubs belonging to the United States.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.00@1.35; Bubbie, per lb, Dairy, Choice, per lb, 13@14c; Corn, per bu, 42@53c; Flour, White Winter, $4.25@4.85; Amber, $5.75@6.25; Rye, $4.00@4.50; Cattle, per central, $3.25@4.50; Hogs, $4.50@5.25; Sheep, $3.50@4.50; Oats, Mixed, per bu, 26@33c; White, 30@36c; Pork, per bbl, $14.50@15.50; Rye, per bu, 80@86c; Wheat, White, $1.28@1.41; Amber, $1.22@1.30.

Land Titles in England.

You are well aware of the value in your country of the system of compulsory registration of deeds, under which the title of any given piece of property can be readily and definitely traced. No such system ever existed in this country, and the only substitute for it consisted in permitting those who cared to do so to have their deeds recorded in Chancery. Transcripts of millions of these documents, dating from a very early period, are preserved among the Rolls at the Public Record Office; but it would probably be difficult, if not impossible, to find a single unbroken series among them all. A few years ago Lord Chancellor Westbury succeeded in establishing an official Land Registry Office, similar to those in existence with you, and it was confidently expected that in London would be enormous, and return a handsome surplus to the country. But the compulsory clause was objected to, and was left out of the act, which, thus emasculated, has already become a dead letter. From a recent return it appears that the expense of maintaining the office has averaged, round numbers, $20,000 per annum, while in no year have the receipts from fees exceeded $4,000, and have generally been less than $2,000. The experiment has been a dead failure, and the office itself will doubtless soon be closed and the books distributed among the archives. The common argument against the system is that land-owners with a good title have no need to register it, and those with a bad one are not fools enough to do so. It has not yet struck the British mind that the object of registration is to make good a title have been to render every title a good one.—London Cor. Chicago Journal.

JIM BROWN, a worthy German, died in Franklin recently, and his next friend, also a worthy German, was appointed administrator. He called at a printing office the other day to have posters printed announcing that the goods of the late Brown would be sold at public auction. "I vant you write up those bills in some kind of style," said the administrator. "I vant somedings that will attract der public eye, and bring der people from de country." The printer took the order, suggestion or two. "Mrs. Brown and myself last dutked it over," continued the former, "and we dink you can put in some bood dose bills somedings this way:—and he marked on the wall with his cane to show how it would look in print. "Dear-rawl hour-rawl Jim Brown is dead!"

WILBOR'S ANTI-PERIODIC OR FEVER AND AGUE TONIC.—This medicine has established itself as the real infallible Chill cure. It is entirely free from Quinine, is perfectly safe and harmless in all instances now in use. Its efficacy is vouched for by thousands of certificates, which can be had from all parts of the country. It cures malarious diseases of every type, and counteracts the baneful influences of the raging epidemics. Try it. It will not disappoint you. It has never been known to fail. G. H. FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans.

For Sale by all Druggists.

Wives Know That the Brow of Care is often soothed by a delicious supper, to which the nervous invalid husband is also so important. To have those delicate products of baking always reliable, the use of Dooley's YEAST POWDER is very important. Their light, sweet, wholesome character is the day in its bearing on health. It is put up in cans always full in weight.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure MRS. WESLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for all diseases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and by giving relief and health to the child, gives rest to the mother.

THE silverware delivered by the National Silver-Plating Co., No. 704 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, is perfect in quality and workmanship. All orders are promptly filled, and no one need hesitate about sending them money. Jefferson Observer.

THE Filthy Discharges and disagreeable Bad Breath incidental to Catarrh disappear after a few doses of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. Cheers of the most branesom Hidings, the bones and cartilages of the nose, and ulcers healed.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO CORN STARCH is used throughout the world. The ratisfactment, as now enlarged, has over 12 acres of flooring, consumes 5,000 tons of coal, and produces over 24 tons daily of the best starch known.

If you want good reading see List of Books and Sunnyside Libraries, in another column.

HORSMAN'S BOX PILLS for Fever and Ague. They cure at once and are a preventive.

See R. BROWN'S ADVT of Foot LATHES.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23, 1877.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$11 25	@$11 75
Sheep	5 87	@ 5 25
Hogs	5 25	@ 5 40
FLOUR—Good to Choice	6 00	@ 6 80
WHEAT—No. 2 Red (New)	1 04	@ 1 05
CORN—Western Mixed	57	@ 58
OATS—Western and State	34	@ 37
RYE—Western	71	@ 71
PORK—Mess	13 90	@ 14 00
LARD—Steam	8 10	@ 8 20
BUTTER	18	@ 22
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	28	@ 30

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Extra	$5 50	@ $6 00
Choice	5 25	@ 5 40
Good	4 75	@ 4 75
Medium	4 10	@ 4 40
Stockers	3 50	@ 3 85
Cows	2 50	@ 3 25
SHEEP—Common	3 00	@ 3 75
Good	4 00	@ 4 25
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	26	@ 28
Good to Choice	23	@ 24
EGGS—Fresh	14½	@ 15
FLOUR—Choice	6 00	@ 7 00
Fair to Good Spring	5 50	@ 6 00
GRAIN—Wheat, No. 2, Spring	1 14½	@ 1 15
Corn, No. 2	47½	@ 47¾
Oats, No. 2	29½	@ 30
Barley, No. 2	82	@ 82½
BROOM CORN—Hurl	3½	@ 4½
Good Medium	3½	@ 4
Short & Crooked	02½	@ 03½
Brush	03½	@ 04½
PORK—Mess	13 75	@ 13 90
LARD	8 05	@ 8 10
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10 00	@ 11 00
Shingles	2 10	@ 2 50
Lath	1 75	@ 1 75

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best	$5 60	@ $5 80
Medium	5 00	@ 5 50
HOGS—Yorkers	5 00	@ 5 25
Philadelphias	5 00	@ 5 30
SHEEP—Best	4 75	@ 5 00
Common	3 25	@ 3 75

BALTIMORE.

CATTLE—Best	$5 75	@ $6 25
Medium	5 00	@ 5 75
HOGS—Good	5 12½	@ 5 00
Common	4 50	@ 4 90

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE UNIVERSAL PRAYER.

God give us peace.
It is the universal prayer
Of mortals, fathers, everywhere
When will our cries arise or cease
To purchase favor for which their subjects pay?
If it be bravery, the fathers say
To leave our homes so desolate
And widowed mothers, we can bear to see
To fight for royal quarrels, far away
To fight, for stranger kings, the foreign fray,
To win a ribbon and a grave.
Then are we cowards, and no brave.

God give us peace.
It is the universal prayer
Of wives and mothers everywhere
They be God as silent tokens:
We are not Spartans, and we have our sons;
We are not warriors, and we love the same
Who loved us first and counted us,
Have cherished and supported us,
More than we care for Kings and Parliaments,
Who glory in the Nation's great events
Of war and battle, since the world began
No notice of the hearts that break.

God give us peace.
It is the universal prayer
Of little children everywhere.
And the return of those who go to fight,
We ever ask, and ever will,
It all seems very wrong to us—
That fathers who belong to us,
And to the children of some lands afar,
Should meet in battle as in war,
It may be good and right, although
We cannot understand it so.

God give us peace.
It is the universal prayer
Of all the human race everywhere.
So may the world increase
In all the blessings that the Nations bless
In peace, sweet peace, the gladsome and kind.
As we are men, and savages,
So we may bind the ravages
Of war to a dishonor our time,
And every statesman's voice and minstrel's rhyme
Advance the day when war shall cease,
And all the world abide in peace.
—Frank H. Dekay Carpenter, in N. Y. Evening Post.

MY FIRST GUN.

BY EDMUND ABOUT.

In the days of my youth—when Alsace still belonged to France—Frank Saverne was considered the best sportsman in our part of the country. He was a lawyer, and a man of fifty, but no young gamekeeper or forester was equal to him. No one else was so good a walker, no one else was so sure a shot, no one had his presence of mind, his quickness of sight, his coolness and decision; above all, no one had his prudence. Prudence is a very great merit in a sportsman, and, although I was considered by my own children, for I never had any, and it may be I owe it to the children of others. No one in my neighborhood is aware that Frank Saverne, the sportsman, once met with a proud ed—but who is noted for his absurd precautions against accidents—when he was fourteen years old some near killing his own father! Yes—you may well look astonished. My first shot nearly cost my dear father his life.

"I had just finished my third year's schooling at Strasbourg, and demi-papa Frank—bless his kind soul—promised me a muzzle-loading, single-barrel gun if I carried off a prize. I won the prize for history, and got the gun, and was so happy as a King after it.

"I had been wild to go our shooting for a long time. Like every other boy of Alsace, I had been accustomed since I was ten years old to spend my holidays carrying game-bags for real sportsmen, helping the beaters to drive up the game, or setting snares for rabbits or small birds. To be owner of a gun now seemed to make a man of me.

"Unluckily, the game laws of Alsace would not permit a boy of my age to take out a license; I was only allowed to shoot in an inclosure; in our own garden, for example, on the banks of the Zorn, where there was nothing to kill but poor little titmice and wrens, and the destruction of such birds my father and mother held to be a sin. Besides which, I might have chanced to shoot my little brother or sisters.

"The little gun seemed likely to be of no use, till my father took compassion on me.

"'Some day or other,' he said, 'you must begin to learn how to handle a gun, and you may as well begin now as later. I am going over to Haugen, where I have to get somebody to sign a law paper. I will take you with me, and as we come back we will stop and reload a cartridge in the Upper Warren. M. de Saint Far gave me permission to shoot there, and I may get the two larks out of the lower meadow.'

"I rushed off, delighted to obey him. Oh, how glad I was! What a long way it seemed to the house where we were living! How provoked I felt with the old clock who insisted upon having his paper read over and explained to him! At last he signed it, just as I began to fancy it was going to sleep, and I was shooting would have to be put off until the next day.

"The terriers at my feet were less eager than their master.

"After all, by five o'clock we reached the gate of the rabbit-warren. I tied the horse to a tree, my father loaded our guns very carefully, he was always particular about everything, and the dogs were let loose.

"'My father stationed me inside a little wood, and gave me all the usual instructions. How I was to watch both paths before me; how I was to aim at the rabbit as soon as I might see one; yet not to fire if the dogs were close to him, but, above all, I was to stay still on the spot where he had stationed me until I heard his recall whistle. The poor boy forgot all these instructions, and, relying on my usual obedience, he took his gun and placed himself in a commanding part of the range.

"I had been waiting about three minutes when the dogs reappeared upon the path before me, and a moment after a rabbit, which appeared to be of unusual size, broke cover about ten paces to my left. He came over the little footpath at one bound, and got away, with the dogs after him.

"What a fool I had been! I felted when I could no longer see.

"The voices of the dogs again roused me with their bark which is music to a sportsman's ears; the rabbit reappeared, but at some little distance, and ran along the path directly away from where I was standing. I rushed out after him. He turned to the left, and turned off into the bushes. I followed him over roots and stumps, and brown and leathery withered leaves, etc., etc., etc.,

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH
Publisher and Proprietor.

OUR RAILS LETTER.

New York, Dec. 4, 1877.

Editor of the Sentinel:

Dear Sir—Your valuable reminder about "Deadrail" and "Starlight," &c., some days ago has been pretty much a matter of fact, and another hit, almost as great as the former of the great spanish [illegible] The [illegible] Court [illegible] "Cagliostro" and has been most generally supposed to be the most accurate [illegible] Tweed. Mr. Sothern [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Assignee's notice of sale of Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Rev. George W. Wood, has been canvassing this county for the American Bible Society. The work has involved traveling to the amount of 1568 miles in selling 489 families, 74 of these were found to be with out the Bible and were supplied by sale or gift—129 copies of the Scriptures, in whole or in part, worth $64, were sold; and 165 were given away, worth $89.46. Thirteen of these were single books, the rest Bibles and Testaments. The Society has met the expense, expecting that it will never be necessary to reject the canvass, but that the Christian people living here will take an interest in keeping the county supplied with the word of God, and leave its agents free to pass on to other new and needy regions. Friends of the cause will please meet in the School House at Charlevoix, next Thursday evening (Oct. 11th) at 7 o'clock, with a view to organizing a Bible Society for this county.

Value of all kinds at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

The Republican state convention have been held since the President's Southern action and his measures for civil service reform took shape and definitely defined for public comprehension. Of these ten conventions, four—those of Ohio, Massachusetts, Maryland and Minnesota—have given the President a very decided and hearty indorsement. Only one convention—that of New York—has made any declaration in its platform in opposition to the President. In both the Iowa and New York conventions, however, the course of the debate in the convention showed a preponderance of opposition in the first to the President's action concerning South Carolina and Louisiana, and in the second to his civil service reform. In the Maine convention resolutions were offered both indorsing and condemning the Southern action of President Hayes, and both were laid on the table on motion of Mr. Blaine, without any vote which afforded a test as to the real feeling of the convention. The elections in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin have given a mild indorsement to the President's action, drawn in each instance however, as we understand by the extended Republicans.

Miscellaneous.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, elm and other wood, and are accessible to best market

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great iron making section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The part of Michigan in which these lands are located is

Not a Wilderness, by any Means

It contains a population of two HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND SOULS and is rapidly filling up with settlers from Illinois, every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time for you to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

☞ Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. HUGHART,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids Mich.

Miscellaneous.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTLASS.
Charlevoix Aug. 7 1877. 21tf

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER,

Has located his shop in J. E. Wood's Express shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of the locality. Coarse or fine boots made to order and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly in good style and at reasonable prices.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—I grant You, Rose & Butlass store

JAS. E WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,

Carpeting,

Oil Cloths,

Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an order, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Murder will Out.

A few years ago "August Flower" was discover to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few thin Dyspeptics made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by its use. The great merits of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER became heralded through the country by one suffering to another, until, without advertising, its sale has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No person suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, pulsation of the Heart, Indigestion, low spirits, etc., can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist Geo. W. Cmotren, and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

Miscellaneous.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call on or address the undersigned at Boyne City. Bills filled on short notice.

CHAMBERLAIN & WAY,
Owners of Mill, W. A Smith Charlevoix June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Domestically Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(4mts.)

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and surrounding that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns for sale at reasonable rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 14, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE

In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres on section 36 in Eveline, 26 acres improvement, good barn, and log house, good well and orchard in 2 fruitful lots. Good access. On main traveled road. School house quarter of a mile, grist-mill two miles and a half.

Charlie Hotler,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 20, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres twenty-five acres improvements, 200 fruit trees of kinds of apples last year. Will be sold for $300 cash. Address

ANDREW SHARROW,
EN Rapids
Mich

W. Y. CASWELL. C. S. RANSOM.

CASWELL & RANSOM,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood Bark Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM 50, 13, MANNA BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

SEASON ARRANGEMENT.

For Pass. Steamer

JENNIE SUTTON

Capt. BENRY ATKINSON, Master,

Will run as follows during the season of navigation of 1877.

Will leave Charlevoix at 6:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for South Arm and return.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Pine Lake excursions.

Can be chartered for excursions by applying to Dexter & Noble, Elk Rapids, or to Captain on board.

DEXTER & NOBLE.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of best

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. Smith.

Legal.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, bearing date the 26th day of November A. D. 1875 by Abijah Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Morris J. Stockman of said county and State, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 24th day of November A. D. 1876, at 2 o'clock p. m. in Liber "Two" of Mortgages on page 1231 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents principal and interest, for the recovery of the money secured in said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted:

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage (or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principle interest, costs and an Attorney fee of Thirty dollars as provided for in said mortgage) will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the West front door of County Clerk's office in the Township, of Charlevoix, that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county within which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and are known and described as follows to wit:—The North easterly 1/4 of the Northwest quarter of section Two (2) in Town shop Thirty-three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to United States Survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.

E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
(16t33m.) Printers fees: $17.15.

NOTICE. U. S. land Office
Traverse City Mich., Sept. 6, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Louis Brenner against George Hyde for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7423, dated Jan. 3 1877, upon the S½ of NE¼ Section 22, Township 33 North, Range 8 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 31st day of Oct. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

L A W
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at VERY LOW PRICES. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in school Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and descriptions apply to or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent.
Charlevoix Mich.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY,

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price list sent on application Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

Legal

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that application in writing will be made by us the undersigned freeholders of the township of Charlevoix, in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan to the Board of Supervisors of said county of Charlevoix at their next session to be held in the village of Charlevoix, in said county on the 8th day of October A. D. 1877, for the organization into a new Township of the territory embraced in township number, the south half of Town 34 North of Range 8 West, and the part lying east of the east arm of Bear Lake, and the south half of town 34, North of Range 6 West. And further, that such new Township shall be known and designated as the Township of Bear Lake.

Dated, septembre 11, 1877.

J. J. Johnson,	O. V. Bailey,
G. J. Wooden,	Josiah Houck,
Edwin F. Couch,	J. A. Gellick,
D. B. Waterson,	James Cox,
G. H. Cushman,	C. B. Smith,
H. Hatch,	D. Herrington.

Notice.

To the Residents of the township of Evangeline. Notice is here by given that application will be made to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at their next annual meeting, to be held at the Court House, in the Village of Charlevoix, on Monday the 8th day of October A. D. 1877, to detach from the present township of Evangeline the territory hereinafter described. To Wit, Town numbering (34) North of Range five (5) West Meridian Michigan in said County and State and erect the same into a new township to be known and designated as the township of Melrose.

Melrose.	Evangeline.
James A. Hankins	James P. Riggs
John T. Collins	Clark A. Hall
J. S. Engelhoy	Leonard W. Hall
Albert Howard	Daniel A. Talsley
Alfred D. Jones	Jerome B. Cater
Louis Seyld	George B. Griffin
John E. Darrah	John Miller
Isaiah W. Austin	Andrew J. Hall
Richard Decker	J. Thompson.
John Jones	Frank Beardsley.
Andrew Mitchell	George B. Thompson.
William Long

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegorh, Complainant,
vs
Robert Aitken and Mary S. Aitken defendant.

Suit pending In the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix. In Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin on motion of J. Mile Eaton complainants solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non residents, Robert Aitken and Mary S. Aitken be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them or one of them of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-residents defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and published in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant. 13-6t.

Notice.

To the residents of the Township of Evangeline and Hayes. Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan at their next annual meeting, to be held at the Court House in the Village of Charlevoix, on Monday October 8th, A. D. 1877. To alter in its bounds the present Township of Hayes, by detaching from it the territory herein described, as follows, to-wit—All that part of Town thirty-four (34) North of Range six (6) West in Charlevoix County that is situated West of Wilson Lake, or what is more commonly known as "Bear Lake" and to annex the said territory to Town thirty-three (33) North of Range Six (6) West known as the township of Evangeline, the same to become a part of the said Township of Evangeline.

Dated at Hayes August, A. D. 1877.

Hayes	Evangeline
Stephen E. Hicks	Isaac Mathews
Martin Woolf	Isaac Wilds Sen.
C. E. Tuttle	Isaac A. West
J. Windover	Winefield Watson
Frank W. Davis	J. F. Riggs
William Keeler	Geo. B. Griffin
James K. Miller	Isaac Willis Jr.
Ezra Dexter	Daniel Hicks
Amasa Leiles	Wm W. Smith
William Hicks	Andrew J. Hall
Alsop B. Hunt	Leonard W. Hall
Wm B. Smith	John Miller

NOTICE U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 31, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by L. Spencer Benham, against Eli Perce, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7213, dated Oct 15, 1875, upon the SE¼ of Section 32, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

19

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Aug. 17 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Martin K. Frair, against Henry Couch, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7465, dated Jan. 21, 1876 upon the Lots 3 and 4 of section 2, Township 32, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 17 day of Oct. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register,
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver,
19

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 25 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Oct. 26. 1877. Whole No. 449

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR—

OFFICE: Postoffice Building On Bridge street

Terms of Subscription

$1.50 per Annum, In Advance,

OR $2.00 IF NOT PAID

IN ADVANCE.

Advertising Rates:

Business Directory.

W. H. ANDERSON, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. SCOTT, Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix Mich.

D. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

LORIN H. CASE, Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

L. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

E. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

ROBERT MILES DUNHAM, Attorney at Law, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. [illegible] A. BURNETT, Physician & Surgeon, Boyne City, Mich.

Office Campbell House, TRAVERSE CITY, MICH. H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. B. FAIRCHILD, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

M. J. Stockman

DEALER IN

HARDWARE,

Tinware & Stoves

Keeps constantly on hand, and is receiving the celebrated

DETROIT STOVES,

with Furniture,

Cook Parlor Coppers

THE SENTINEL.

Charlevoix Co. Shuffles.

Chas. Hotler, Deputy Sheriff.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix Mich.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located his shop in J. E. Wood's Express shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of the locality. Coarse or fine boots made to order and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

Dress Fitting and Cutting

LADIES HATS

Trimmed and Dyed. Dress goods of all kinds Dyed Plain or Fancy.

LIZZIE PIERCE.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Taylor, against Peter Rasmussen, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 5766, dated August 11, 1874, upon the Lots 3 and 4 section 2, Township 32, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Taylor, against Peter Rasmussen, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 5766, dated August 11, 1874, upon the Lots 3 and 4 section 2, Township 32, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Notice.

To the residents of the township of Evangeline. Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at their next annual meeting, to be held at the Court House, in the Village of Charlevoix, on Monday the 8th day of October A. D. 1877, to detach from the present township of Evangeline the territory hereinafter described. To Wit, Town numbering (34) North of Range five (5) West Meridian Michigan in said County and State and erect the same into a new township to be known and designated as the township of Melrose.

Melrose.	Evangeline.
James A. Hankins	James P. Riggs
John T. Collins	Clark A. Hall
J. S. Engelhoy	Leonard W. Hall
Albert Howard	Daniel A. Talsley
Alfred D. Jones	Jerome B. Cater
Louis Seyld	George B. Griffin
John E. Darrah	John Miller
Isaiah W. Austin	Andrew J. Hall
Richard Decker	J. Thompson.
John Jones	Frank Beardsley.
Andrew Mitchell	George B. Thompson.
William Long

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegorh, Complainant,
vs
Robert Aitken and Mary S. Aitken defendant.

Suit pending In the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix. In Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin on motion of J. Mile Eaton complainants solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non residents, Robert Aitken and Mary S. Aitken be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them or one of them of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-residents defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and published in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant. 13-6t.

Notice.

To the residents of the Township of Evangeline and Hayes. Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan at their next annual meeting, to be held at the Court House in the Village of Charlevoix, on Monday October 8th, A. D. 1877. To alter in its bounds the present Township of Hayes, by detaching from it the territory herein described, as follows, to-wit—All that part of Town thirty-four (34) North of Range six (6) West in Charlevoix County that is situated West of Wilson Lake, or what is more commonly known as "Bear Lake" and to annex the said territory to Town thirty-three (33) North of Range Six (6) West known as the township of Evangeline, the same to become a part of the said Township of Evangeline.

Dated at Hayes August, A. D. 1877.

Hayes	Evangeline
Stephen E. Hicks	Isaac Mathews
Martin Woolf	Isaac Wilds Sen.
C. E. Tuttle	Isaac A. West
J. Windover	Winefield Watson
Frank W. Davis	J. F. Riggs
William Keeler	Geo. B. Griffin
James K. Miller	Isaac Willis Jr.
Ezra Dexter	Daniel Hicks
Amasa Leiles	Wm W. Smith
William Hicks	Andrew J. Hall
Alsop B. Hunt	Leonard W. Hall
Wm B. Smith	John Miller

NOTICE U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 31, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by L. Spencer Benham, against Eli Perce, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7213, dated Oct 15, 1875, upon the SE¼ of Section 32, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

19

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Aug. 17 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Martin K. Frair, against Henry Couch, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7465, dated Jan. 21, 1876 upon the Lots 3 and 4 of section 2, Township 32, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 17 day of Oct. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

KEVI C. MOFFATT, Register,
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver,
19

Surety Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Regular meetings of Charlevoix Lodge No. 295 I. O. O. F. are held every Wednesday evening at their hall in Charlevoix.

[illegible] No. 295 I. O. O. F. are held every Wednesday evening at their hall in Charlevoix.

Fishing Tackle.

3 Split bamboo fly rods, 2 cane poles, trout flies, trolling hooks trout lines from 3 to 7 lbs each, trolling lines from 3 to 7 lbs each, [illegible] lines from 3 to 7 lbs each, [illegible] lines from 3 to 7 lbs each, [illegible]

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

FOREIGN.

THE Russian authorities have ordered the construction of about 300 miles of military railways in Bulgaria, and the erection of huts to the 40,000 men and hospitals for 15,000.

THE Sultan has conferred the title of Ilhan (conqueror) on Osman Pasha and Mukhtar Pasha.

THE Russian Army in Poland is on the move to the Danube.

THE Sacred Congregation of the Vatican has pronounced against the canonization of Christopher Columbus.

A STRONG detachment of Turkish troops, who attempted to enter Montenegro, has been driven back, for the purpose of reoccupying the territory conquered by the Montenegrins, were repulsed, on the 1st, after several hours' hard fighting.

THE Catholic Church, in France, has ordered a three days' prayer for the success of the government in the coming elections.

ON the 3d, the Russians attacked Mukhtar Pasha's three near Kizil, and after several hours' hard fighting, annihilated the Turkish battalion defending, and captured the key to the position, consisting of the field of battle. It was expected to renew the fight on the following day. The Russian loss was about 1,500 men.

RUSSIA has asked of Roumania a further contingent of 60,000 men, and ordered to such purpose of thousands and give a comfortable subsidy therefor.

A BUCHAREST dispatch of the 3d says 500 Asiatic prisoners had been killed in a railway accident between Wernsch and Nesselt, on the line.

RAOUF PASHA has been appointed to the command of the Army of the Balkans, at Schipka, and Suleiman Pasha, to the command of the Army of the Danube, per Montenegrin Army, or the frontier, per Montenegrin Army, revealed.

SEVERAL of the officers of the Midland Railway, of England, were arrested, on the 3d, upon the charge of having defrauded the corporation of large sums of money.

RUSSIA has offered to clear all obstructions from the mouth of the Danube, provided the neutral Powers will guarantee to her the entrance of Turkish men-of-war during the present war.

ACCORDING to Berlin dispatches of the 4th, the Emperor of Germany had addressed a letter to the Porte, demanding that the outrages of the Turkish Army be stopped at once, or the peace of Europe should cease.

THE Russians resumed the bombardment of Rustchuk on the 4th. The damage to the fort was great, though the outworks were not much injured.

THERE were twenty-seven cases of yellow fever reported at Gibraltar on the 4th. The total number of deaths to date was 1,000.

THE Russians resumed the bombardment of Rustchuk on the 4th. The damage to the fort was great, though the outworks were not much injured.

THERE were two feet of snow in Schipka Pass on the 7th.

THE Porte has seized a Greek vessel entering the Gulf of Arta with arms and ammunition, and refused an apology and explanation, and threatened war unless the demand be complied with.

GARIBALDI, the French Republican leader, issued a manifesto to the electors, on the 7th, to which he appealed to the people of the French Government, and repeated the phrase for which he was sentenced to be punished. The Government has ordered the prosecution for using seditious language.

THE German corvette Elizabeth has been ordered to Mazatlan, to support the claim for indemnities in behalf of German citizens who were recently incarcerated there.

A CONSTANTINOPLE telegram of the 8th says the Servian Republic Agent had notified the Porte of the pacific intentions of Servia.

THE Pesth newspapers of the 8th announce that the Italian Government on the Peace Congress meeting has hurriedly placed in a position of Complete Neutrality with France, fearing in case the clerical party should be successful in the coming elections.

THE German Ambassador to the Turkish Government has been instructed to notify the Porte that the blockade of the Black Sea by the Turks is ineffient and, therefore, void.

AGATIC cholera has appeared at Yokohama and Nagasaki.

AN earthquake shock was experienced at Geneva, Switzerland, on the morning of the 8th. No great damage was done.

DOMESTIC.

PRESIDENT HAYES issued a proclamation, on the 3d, placing in the market all the unsold public lands in the State of Arkansas.

WILLIAM C. GILMAN, a New York broker in insurance stocks, has been roundly detected in a long series of forgeries, by having been engaged in procuring certificates of scrip for small amounts and afterward raising the same to large sums and using them as collaterals for the borrowing of money at the banks. The aggregate amount of the forgeries discovered up to the 3d was over $200,000, raised from an actual value of about $4,000. Mr. Gilman's whereabouts were unknown on the 3d. He has been engaged in insurance scrip brokerage for over forty years, and enjoyed a good reputation as a business man and citizen.

THE boiler of an engine attached to a sawmill, near Sinclerville, Ohio, exploded on the morning of the 3d, completely demolishing the mill and instantly killing three young men, Peter Miller, Geo Eltzroth and Henry Skeibel, Solomon Miller, one of the proprietors of the mill, was seriously and probably fatally injured. The bodies of the victims were horribly mangled. Pieces of timber, hurled through the air nearly 1,000 feet, and fragments of his limbs were found 100 feet from the other portions of the body. Peter Miller was blown across the road and through a fence, and portions of his body were found strung along the rails.

THE Allegheny Savings Bank, the oldest bank in Allegheny City, Pa., suspended on the 3d. The Directors hoped to be able eventually to pay all the depositors in full.

BY the explosion of 42 boilers of the steamer Comfort, near Mountsville, W. Va., on the 3d, five persons were killed, three others were still missing on the 3d, and about fifteen others were wounded, two fatally.

THE salaries of all employees of the Michigan Southern & Lake Shore Railroad who receive less than $1,500 per year, have been increased 5 per cent.

THE delegation of Sioux and Arapahoe Indians, who have been on a visit to the President in Washington, left New York City, on the evening of the 5th, for their homes in the West. They received, while in Washington, from the Interior Department, expenses, a small amount of money each, and other supplies and were promised further assistance in the spring. They expressed great reluctance to remove their agencies to the Missouri River, as contemplated by the Government, and, in fact, said their people would not acquiesce in the proposed change of location, and an earnest protest was entered against it to the Chief. They expressed themselves otherwise well pleased with the treatment they received at the hands of the President, Sec'y Schurz, etc., while at the National Capital.

A TREMENDOUS rain and windstorm prevailed in the Atlantic States, on the night of the 4th, which caused great damage to the railroads and canals of the Middle States. Valuable merchandise and canal boats were wrecked. An excursion train on the Hickering Valley road, Ohio, was wrecked near Phœnixville, Pa., killing twelve persons and seriously injuring nine. Nine train was washed from the Delaware River and three persons were drowned. The steamer Massachusetts went ashore near Hampton Point, but no lives were lost.

THERE were twenty-seven cases of yellow fever at Port Royal, S. C., on the 5th—twenty-one whites and six colored—six deaths—nine of whites and two negroes. The people were suffering because of a scarcity of medicine, nurses and physicians.

A WASHINGTON dispatch of the 7th states that pensioners of the late Civil War deprived of their pensions from March 4, 1865, to January, 1873, and refunded a commission to enforce their claims upon Congress.

ELEVEN new cases of yellow fever were reported at Fernandina, Fla., on the 5th. The Mayor had issued an appeal to the Mayors of Northern cities, earnestly imploring immediate help in behalf of the sufferers in that city.

NEWS was received at Galveston, Tex., on the 5th, to the effect that a Mexican mob, of strong feeling had taken possession of the town of Tula and had killed Gen. Trevino and both men in the El Paso County officials pleasure. The crew was "Death to the foreigner" (American) "Viva Mexico!" It was also stated that a possible massacre was imminent, as three troops on the frontier. Judge Charles H. Howard was among the prisoners, and was bound with ropes. According to the Chicago papers of the 5th, Gen. Sheridan denied that there had been an invasion of Mexicans, but said the trouble was between Americans, and over a disputed salt claim.

A DISPATCH was received by Gen. Terry, at St. Paul, on the evening of the 5th, from Gen. Miles, latod at Camp, near the Bear Paw Mountains, on the 3d, stating that the latter, with his command, had overtaken and surprised the camps of the hostile Nez Percés, on the morning of the 30th ult., and had captured the larger part of their herd, about 600 horses, mules and ponies. The engagement was a very severe one, the Indians losing seventeen killed, including Looking Glass and other prominent chiefs, and forty wounded. Of the whites, twenty-three were killed, including eight officers, and forty-two wounded. Two friendly Indians were also wounded. Gen. Miles says though now his soldiers pledge on the 30 that he would surrender, he had fulfilled his pledge, and was evidently waiting for all three other Indians. They were closely investigated in some deep ravine and kept under fire, and could be constantly worn out and compelled to give up. They fought with more desperation than any other Indians Gen. Miles had ever met. He believed there was considerable between them and Sitting Bull, and had used every effort to prevent a junction.

THE Board of Inquiry appointed by Sec'y Schurz, to investigate the cause of the recent fire in the Interior Department, have submitted a report to the effect that there was no foundation whatever for the supposition that the fire was caused by incendiarism or spontaneous combustion. They think there is no doubt that some dry pine grating covering the gutter on the roof, and lying immediately against the sash, was set on fire by some sparks or burning cinders which came up through said gutter, a draft having been built of pine boards and a blower placed over the grate in a room below on the day of the conflagration.

THE total receipts of the General Government for the first 8 months ending Sept. 30 were $178,178,607; expenditures, $81,357,467. Same time last year: Receipts, $176,116,524; expenditures, $91,911,942. Only $2,937,704 are given in the expenditures for the War Department for the three months this year, as no appropriation was made, and the total amount cannot be given; it amounted last year to $9,748,004.

PERSONAL.

RT. REV. J. R. BAYLEY, Archbishop of the diocese of Baltimore, the highest ecclesiastic dignitary in the United states, died at Newark, N. J., on the morning of the 3d. He was sixty-three years old.

IN the Inter-State Rifle Match, near Chicago, on the 6th, the total score was 1,116 yards, 836; Wisconsin, 455; Michigan, 440—the Illinois Team winning by twenty-one points over Wisconsin, the latter taking the second prize.

GEN. SHERMAN and staff arrived at San Francisco, on the 6th, overland from Portland, Ore.

A RICHMOND (Ind.) telegram of the 5th states that Senator Morton's condition had again become alarming, and that his friends were feeling very uneasy and feared the worst. A special to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, from Indianapolis, says there was no foundation for the statement that the Senator was worse, no change being reported in his condition.

POLITICAL.

THE Workingmen's party of Massachusetts in State Convention, on the 3d, nominated Wendell Phillips for Governor, with a State ticket similar to that of the Labor Reformers.

THE Republican State Central Committee of Kansas, on the 3d, put in nomination for Chief Justice, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Kingman, Hon. A. H. Horton, who now fills the positiveby appointment, and nominated L. A. Humphrey for Lieutenant-Governor.

THE Democratic State Convention of Minnesota met at St. Paul, on the 5th, and nominated a State ticket headed by Wm. L. Banning, of St. Paul, for Governor; A. A. Ames, of Minneapolis, for Lieutenant-Governor, and A. T. Hudson for Secretary of State. The platform adopted denounces the alleged frauds and crimes by which the inauguration of Mr. Tilden was prevented; rejoices that President Hayes has found it necessary to adopt the Democratic policy of local self-government, and accuses the Republican party of acting in the interests of capital against labor in making the public debt payable in coin, in demonetizing silver, in passing the Resumption Act, in ordering enormous unnecessary revenue since 1865, etc.

THE New York Republican State Central Committee has elected Hon. F. Smith, of Albany, as Chairman.

AT the election in Colorado of the 5th on the constitutional amendment to the Constitution was overwhelmingly defeated. Also on the ratification for supreme Judges, resulting the entire ticket, both parties uniting on him as their candidate.

THE New York Democracy, in State Conventional Albany, on the 4th, selected a platform denouncing the alleged frauds perpetuated in the Returning Board of Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida, by which Hayes was declared elected; demanding the seating of the Tilden electors; condemning the action of the Administration in recent appointments, especially that of Senator Cameron to the Cabinet; declaring the Democratic party of the State of New York is in favor of the payment of the public debt in coin, etc.; opposing the granting of subsidies by the Government to corporations or individuals for the construction of railways or other internal improvements; expressing sympathy for the working classes, and favoring equal and just laws which shall not operate in favor of one class at the expense of another, and demanding a more complete protection for the savings of the industrial classes. The candidates are—For Secretary of State, Allen H. Beach; Comptroller, F. C. Otoott; Treasurer, James Mackin; Attorney-General, Augustus Schoonmaker; State Engineer, Horatio Seymour, Jr.

THE Missouri Greenback State Convention was held at St. Louis, on the 4th, and resolutions were adopted demanding the immediate repeal of the Resumption act of 1875; the issue of absolute money in greenbacks to the full legal-tender for all purposes, and in sufficient quantities to relieve all business or that may in the future become subject to contraction a reduction of taxation so as to secure a tax on all incomes of over $1,000, and claiming for every individual male or female the same political rights and equity in the State and nation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

I was shooting 193 yards to one nephew when he was about to succeed. He pointed to the face of the dial and said, "Why, there is another little watch!" I said, "What is called the second-hand." He answered, "It goes very quickly, and walked till, softly sighing, "I wouldn't own a second-hand watch!"

A TRAMP applied to a lady in Des-Moines for something to eat, and to the inquiry as to why he didn't go to work, said there was not any chance to work at his trade now. The lady asked him what his trade was. "Shoveling snow," was his confident answer. He got his dinner. Burlington Herald.

"IT is curious, doctor, that every time I smoke after dinner I have something dazzling in my eyes. What can you do for that?" "Eh!" said the doctor, with a smile, "Don't smoke." The patient was nonplussed. He hadn't thought of that. Berlin Charivari.

IT is difficult to insure the fortunate ones of our republic that of our letters we are certain to obtain, as they are dependent on us for their superiority.

THE Turk is less frequently alluded to as the Sick Man of the East, but the Russian may safely be considered as the Mad Sick of the East.

THE Pioneer Land and Loan Bank of San Francisco suspended payment on the morning of the 8th. Its liabilities are stated to be $1,113,000, and its nominal assets $1,374,-000—mostly in real estate.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

THE new money order offices in Michigan are Mallardtown, Tuscola county; North Branch, Lapeer County, and Pelonky, Emmet County.

AT the session of the Missionary Conference of the Disciples Church, recently held at Grand Rapids, the Secretary made a report showing fifty-nine churches in the State, with a membership of 6,000, an increase of 800. The sunday-schools number thirty-nine, with 2,200 pupils. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, H. A. Wilbur, of Ionia; Corresponding Secretary, E. Sias, of Geneville; Recording Secretary, C. L. Hook, of Lansing; Secretary for Sunday-School work, H. R. Wall, of Ionia; Delegates to the General Convention at St. Louis, on Oct. 25, E. Sias, Rev. Mr. Cook, Elliss and T. D. Butler. It was decided to hold the next convention at Ionia, on or after Tuesday in September, next year.

THE summary from the report of Saginaw for the month of September are:

Lumber, ft	33,472,200
Shingles	16,868,500
Lath	1,400,000
Posts	71,000

THE shipments from the Saginaw River, from the opening of navigation to Oct. 1 were:

Lumber, ft	228,228,203
Shingles	106,301,000
Lath	30,962,500
Salt, bbls	1,000,000
Staves	4,000,000

A PECULIAR animal named Wall, whose haunts are said to be in the Union Army, and who has ever since had to struggle hard to keep he self and family from starvation, living part of the time in an old scow on the Saginaw River and supporting life by fishing, has just received a pension for $2,500 back pension, and will hereafter draw her monthly allowance.

AT East Saginaw, the other day, Capt. R. Medler, of the steamer W. H. Burt got on food in a shower of the boat as it was leaving the dock, and the boat was cut entirely off.

TIMOTHY Murphy died at the Calumet Mine, in Hamtramck, the other evening, from the effects of home medicine, which he drank under the impression that it was booze.

DURING the Penal year which closed Sept 30, only $1,000 in bonds were purchased by the State Treasurer, and these were obtained at par. The present condition of the debt is as follows:

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS
Seven-Lumber bonds, 7s, due July 1, 1876	$46,000 00
Railroad loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1878	193,000 00
Two-million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1890	211,000 00
Five-million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1900	220,000 00
War loan loan bonds, 7s, due May 1, 1890	267,000 00
—INTEREST-PAYING BONDS.
Agricultural bonds, due Jan. 1, 1878	$5,000 00
$20,000 part-paid five million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1890	12,140 97
	23,140 97
Total bonded debt	$1,020,140 97

—Lansing Republican.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.25@1.30; Butter, 2 lb, Dairy-fine Cheese, 9 lb, 12@13c; Corn, 9 bu, 40@45c; Flour, White Winter, $6.00@6.75; Amber, $6.00@6.50; Rye, $1 bushel 58; Cattle-Shipping steers, $3.25@4.75; Hogs, $4.50@5.75; sheep, $3.50@4.25; Oats, Mixed, 37 bu, 29@30c; White, 29 @ 32c; Peas, $1 bushel, 81 @ 85c; Potatoes, 75 bu, 45@50c; Wheat, White, at 1.26@1.30; Amber, at 1.20 @1.24.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

THE new money order offices in Michigan are Mallardtown, Tuscola county; North Branch, Lapeer County, and Pelonky, Emmet County.

AT the session of the Missionary Conference of the Disciples Church, recently held at Grand Rapids, the Secretary made a report showing fifty-nine churches in the State, with a membership of 6,000, an increase of 800. The sunday-schools number thirty-nine, with 2,200 pupils. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, H. A. Wilbur, of Ionia; Corresponding Secretary, E. Sias, of Geneville; Recording Secretary, C. L. Hook, of Lansing; Secretary for Sunday-School work, H. R. Wall, of Ionia; Delegates to the General Convention at St. Louis, on Oct. 25, E. Sias, Rev. Mr. Cook, Elliss and T. D. Butler. It was decided to hold the next convention at Ionia, on or after Tuesday in September, next year.

THE summary from the report of Saginaw for the month of September are:

Lumber, ft	33,472,200
Shingles	16,868,500
Lath	1,400,000
Posts	71,000

THE shipments from the Saginaw River, from the opening of navigation to Oct. 1 were:

Lumber, ft	228,228,203
Shingles	106,301,000
Salt, bbls	30,962,500
Staves	4,000,000

A PECULIAR animal named Wall, whose haunts are said to be in the Union Army, and who has ever since had to struggle hard to keep he self and family from starvation, living part of the time in an old scow on the Saginaw River and supporting life by fishing, has just received a pension for $2,500 back pension, and will hereafter draw her monthly allowance.

AT East Saginaw, the other day, Capt. R. Medler, of the steamer W. H. Burt got on food in a shower of the boat as it was leaving the dock, and the boat was cut entirely off.

TIMOTHY Murphy died at the Calumet Mine, in Hamtramck, the other evening, from the effects of home medicine, which he drank under the impression that it was booze.

DURING the Penal year which closed Sept 30, only $1,000 in bonds were purchased by the State Treasurer, and these were obtained at par. The present condition of the debt is as follows:

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS
Seven-Lumber bonds, 7s, due July 1, 1876	$46,000 00
Railroad loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1878	193,000 00
Two-million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1890	211,000 00
Five-million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1900	220,000 00
War loan loan bonds, 7s, due May 1, 1890	267,000 00
—INTEREST-PAYING BONDS.
Agricultural bonds, due Jan. 1, 1878	$5,000 00
$20,000 part-paid five million loan bonds, 6s, due Jan. 1, 1890	12,140 97
	23,140 97
Total bonded debt	$1,020,140 97

—Lansing Republican.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.25@1.30; Butter, 2 lb, Dairy-fine Cheese, 9 lb, 12@13c; Corn, 9 bu, 40@45c; Flour, White Winter, $6.00@6.75; Amber, $6.00@6.50; Rye, $1 bushel 58; Cattle-Shipping steers, $3.25@4.75; Hogs, $4.50@5.75; sheep, $3.50@4.25; Oats, Mixed, 37 bu, 29@30c; White, 29 @ 32c; Peas, $1 bushel, 81 @ 85c; Potatoes, 75 bu, 45@50c; Wheat, White, at 1.26@1.30; Amber, at 1.20 @1.24.

IT is difficult to insure the fortunate ones of our republic that of our letters we are certain to obtain, as they are dependent on us for their superiority.

THE Turk is less frequently alluded to as the Sick Man of the East, but the Russian may safely be considered as the Mad Sick of the East.

How to Give Alms.

There were several valuable papers read at the late meeting of the Social Science Association at Saratoga, but none more timely than that of Prof. Wayland, of New Haven, upon the ontdoor relief of the poor. As the summer wanes and the winter approaches, which must necessarily be a hard winter for the poor, the old question of charity recurs, and it is very pleasant to know that it is engaging the careful inquiry of most competent persons. Everybody wishes to relieve the suffering of poverty, yet everybody knows his own ignorance, and doubts whether his alms are not more injurious than helpful. Ignorance, however, and good feeling lead to a lavish and indiscriminate giving, which fosters a threatening danger to society, and the object of Prof. Wayland's paper was to show the proper principle and general method of outdoor charitable relief. The paper does not consider the question of tramps or paupers, for out-door relief contemplates persons who have a home in the community, and who are known to be administered, and whose circumstances require only temporary assistance. Even people are not paupers. The last class includes those who must be wholly and always supported by others. Out-door relief is not for them, because their proper home is the Poor-House.

The three methods of such relief are, first, with funds raised by taxation, and distributed by paid officers; second, with funds raised by taxation, and distributed by committees of citizens in accordance with the recommendation of unpaid officers, or of Supervisors selected from reputable citizens; and third, by voluntary contributions, distributed by unpaid agents. Prof. Wayland considers the three methods. The first, in his judgment, is the worst. It tends to make paupers by fostering and confirming the habit of dependance, destroys self-respect of the poor, encourages deceit, tends to political corruption, and is most wasteful of money. It is also a more permanency system, while any one has the moral advantage of personal sympathy, but has the positive disadvantage of all personal charity, namely, that the giver, rather than the first, yet encourages the idea that the State is bound to support the idle poor. The answer, as agents are politically selected, and are therefore dependent in a degree upon the votes of those whom they are to relieve. This is a most important point. The third system, where voluntary contributions are distributed by unpaid persons who combine the elements of wise charity, is plainly preferable. The giver gets under a high sense of moral obligation. This is a steward of sessions of the Christ of the master, and is responsible and aware of the peril of wasting it. Moreover, he has an acquaintance personal with those to whom he ministers.

This system requires, of course, the most unitary organization, but for all small towns and country neighborhoods it is by far the best. Its efficiency in large towns will depend wholly upon the number of sincere and thorough workers who have the necessary public spirit to undertake the service. A region must be subdivided into very small districts, for each of which an individual visitor can be responsible, who must perform his work efficiently. It is said that the community finally experience that relief may safely be intrusted to the poor. The moral effect of such a system in destroying class jealousies and promoting the common welfare, are only by humanely helping the poor, but by elevating the consciousness of the rich, is incalculable. In the great multitude of smaller communities this is a perfect system, when the object of charity may wisely supersede all official relief. It requires a sacrifice of time, of money and of personal ease upon the part of those who undertake it. But its results are so beneficent that they are a rich compensation. Harper's Weekly.

AN orator declaring that Fortune knocked at every man's door once, an old Irishman said: "Faith she knocked at mine a little harder than once."

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9, 1877.

LIVE STOCK	Cattle	$7.00 @$11.00
	Sheep	4.50 @ 6.00
	Hogs	6.00 @ 6.40
FLOUR	Superfine	3.40 @ 4.00
	Extra Western Mixed	4.00 @ 4.25
	Extra Western Red Winter	4.50 @ 5.00
	Extra Minnesota	4.50 @ 5.00
	Extra Double	5.00 @ 6.00
	Patent	6.00 @ 7.00
GRAIN	Wheat, No. 2 Spring	1.04 @ 1.05
	Wheat, No. 2 Red	1.07 @ 1.08
	Corn, No. 2	53 @ 53½
	Oats, No. 2	35 @ 35½
	Rye, No. 2	73 @ 74
	Barley	1.00 @ 1.10
	Barley Malt	90 @ 1.00
BROOM CORN	Common to Medium	3½ @ 4½
	Good Medium	5 @ 6
	Good Red Tops	6 @ 7
	Hurl	3 @ 4
PORK	Mess	14.75 @ 15.00
LARD		10.75 @ 11.00
LUMBER	Common and Fencing	10.00 @ 11.50
	Shingles	2.50 @ 3.00
	Lath	1.50 @ 1.75
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE	Best	$5.50 @ $6.00
	Medium	4.75 @ 5.00
HOGS	Good	6.00 @ 6.25
SHEEP	Good	4.50 @ 4.75
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE	Best	$5.00 @ $5.60
	Medium	4.50 @ 4.90
HOGS	Yorkers	6.00 @ 6.10
	Philadelphia	5.90 @ 6.00
SHEEP	Best	4.75 @ 5.00
	Common	3.50 @ 4.00
		2.50 @ 4.50

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE ROCKING CHAIR.

Enthroned in these arms I see,
In fancy, a fairy lady-bird;
A floss-young girl sparkling in art,
A darling as a mamma's pet!

In fancy a grand mystery,
A rosy hope trembles her fair face,
A hallowed faith nourishes grace,
An luminous sense, shadows her heart,
A cradle her dropped on dolly past.
As wields whispering!

Arms I see her in that chair,
Her soul adorn with tender care
Nor holds a fear, wintershed thing
The fairies in her lap could sing
Were they on mischief bent.

Thrice and again I've seen her there
With beauteous visions soft and fair,
And rich, low laughing waves heard
Sweeter by my fond song of hand
By angels taught in art.

Last sung in Memory's wave I hear
The rippling of those voices dear
The smiles of it is I heard.
Those I've seen, I'll see them there
Where evening on that chair.

There treasured are grief and bonder I've Lovingly counted one by one
The perfect features of the sun
Our Father gave to me.

Twas there I nursed my daughters three;
In them, could I, I see
Their mother's image over me,
The smiles of it is I heard.

There in the happy evening's calm
Sweet childhood heard its simple prayer
Nearly that sacred looking chair
There in the happy evening's calm found
The purest bond of love renowned
And baby lullabies.

Twas there I rocked my bonny to sleep,
And read of the gods, with vigil keep
My cradle watch, of Heaven's fairy decree
As Night a starry home crept their each hour,
And Nature lull'd to rest.

Twas there I held my drooping flowers
In anguish watched through weary hours;
Till silent, agonizing prayer
Brought their God His gifts would spare
Unknown to my fears.

I wasted solitary perished—one by one.
My luxurious ladies, my noble sons!
Twas there I held my dying flowers
As Night a starry home crept their each hour,
And Nature lull'd to rest.

Oft when in fainting in those arms
I've heard the beasts a dread alarms,
I've heard the wolf howl in the hills,
In fable wake for no late lad beau,
And terrible ominous arms.

There sank and drooped her faith fled;
They faded—passed—by one by one!
My cherished lamb, death Heavenly spirit
Now blesses and the parted fair
In heaven's flower-clad home.

With solitude at eventide,
Memory's wand in hand at my side
Recall a host of spirits dare
Around that rocking chair.

That speak in genteel strain.

They talk of flowers that never fade,
Of crowns that never wither,
Of streams where sinless beings live
And sound and pure deep as the sea,
Nor bitter'd with a tear.

They tell me of their home of bliss
Are pure that no sin can enter
They speak of Heaven's unfading treasures
Of angels' harps and music heard,
Of songs in heaven and music heard,
Of songs in heaven and music heard,
Of songs in heaven and music heard,
The same I've heard from love to rest.

—Jennie Ross, in Leisure Hours.

JANE ROSS' LOVER.

"Oh, if I only had a carriage like that, and a dress like that, and a house like that house, and all the rest of it—how happy I should be!" said Jane Ross, as she leaned over the old stone fence at the west end of Uncle Caleb's farm, and looked after Mrs. J. McMahoney Middlebury's carriage, as it rolled away along the dusty midsummer road.

"Don't you mind be a bit happier, said Peleg, her brave looking into the tin can in which his dinner had been brought to him, as he sat upon the grass.

"Oh, Peleg!" said Jane. "But you are just that way; you don't seem to understand anything above the common."

"I know it's all very fine," said Peleg, very fine, but this is what I mean. It ain't worth much. I count as happy in dad's wagon goda's to bot a building, and as healthy and a bit prettier, I think, than if you had your hair scratched about, and a bold-tail shown your back, and a thing unwjig tucked up on your skirt, and a great long train dragging behind you."

"Much you know about it, Peleg," said Jane, scornfully. "A body must feel so splendid, and—and contemptuous, dressed so."

"Contemptuous!" asked Peleg.

"Yes—I mean," said Jane, "as if you were better than common folks."

"I should call that contrumptible," said Peleg. "If I knew money or was better than most folks, I'd be mighty tickled; and I shouldn't calkerlate to plan out to be poor, unless I lost my health or my senses; but jest because I had money enough to buy all the finery I shouldn't get so up. The wife keeps and the ignorantest can do that, and do, Jennie Ross, I can tell you. For my part I look at the man or woman, and I respect them, and put their coats or their purses to one side for happy, why, dog-nie, a farmer is the happiest man in creation."

"But I don't think a farmer's wife is the happiest woman," said Jane. "Did you ever read Jimmy Rider, Peleg?"

"No, I didn't, is it pretty?" said Peleg.

"It's touching," said Jane.

"Ah!" said Peleg.

"Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury gave it to me," said Jane, beginning to look very solemn. "She said that it would teach me a lesson, and it has."

"Ah!" said Peleg.

"I know it by heart," said Jane.

"Small Matter, one summer day,
Rided the meadow where I was playing;
Beneath her paw her shoed the wealth
Of orange beauty and rustic health."

"Oh, Peleg, I'm sure I have sinned. The name I can't recall from her to rose."

"That's just a picture of you, Jane," said Peleg, innocently.

"So Mrs. Middlebury said," sobbed Jane; "and you know while she was in the hay-field the Judge came riding by."

"Well, now?" said Peleg, interested.

"And he asked for a drink——"

"Of cider?" asked Peleg.

"From the spring that flowed Through the meadow across the road" said Jane.

"Ah!" said Peleg, eating cabbage with his knife.

"And she was ashamed of her old clothes," said Jane; "but he talked away just as sweet as could be——"

"And he courted her, and she accepted of him?" asked Peleg. "It's the way in songs, mostly."

"No" said Jane.

"At last he came who, for riches, Reckon'd not the rude away."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!"

"He wanted a wife of refined shows
Who lived in a house to be for power;"

"and she——"

"Wedded a man unlearned and poor;"

"and—and all sorts of awful things, happened;" and Jane began to cry bitterly.

Peleg had dropped his tin kettle. "Out with it, Jane," said he. "Do you or and I, or is it hymns?"

"I mean, we shouldn't be happy with each other. I can't be a farmer's wife!" said Jane. "I feel just like Maud Muller. I have longings for something better than I have ever known." And Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury wants me to go and live with her—as pet and companion," she says. And I'm going, Peleg; and you'll find somebody more contented to work, and all that, than I."

Peleg turned on her fiercely. "No," said he, "I've done with women—done for good. I ain't a fool, Jane, and I ain't learned. I've got course of common paws, and I earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, but I've got feelings fine enough to see that when all you value a man for is what he gives you, there ain't a bit of love in your heart for him. The way I loved you, Jane—oh the way I loved you, and have given you all I could, God knows. To have you comfortable would have been my pride—but—but I didn't think you jest—just—and Satan—you are welcome to her finery and her pride."

"Peleg!" said Jane, off, gal," he said, sternly, "I dunno where. If it's to perdition, you have got to answer for it at the judgment seat. Jane Ross, he hasn't no mother, and no sister to advise her on him but you. That hold is bruised, and the good Lord help him."

And with these words in her ear Jane Ross drove away with Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury, whose latest whim it had been to make a pet of the fresh, rosy country lass, whose admiring eyes had followed her so lovingly when ever she trailed her silken robes, or lolled within her pretty carriage where ever she drove her.

Mrs. Middlebury took her pet in the city, and rushed with her to the modiste, and to the hair-dressers, and to the jewelers, and to dancing-school, feverish with the hope of making her more dull gorgeous; and Jane did for a while forget that she had cast away bolt in her life. Months passed—fairy, five, six, seven, then suddenly she awoke one morning thinking of Peleg; found that she could not drive him from her mind; remembered his kindness, his rustic wooing, his true love; his agony when she deserted him; and what he remembered, too, the kindly country folk, whose hearty welcome had no counterpart in the city in which she moved; and the breezy river-side with the green woods, and the field, and Peleg again how worn there in his shirt sleeves. Remembering the meeting-house, and the white-haired minister, and Peleg again holding the hymn-book for her with his large hand—Oh! dear, dear, dear, rough red hand," sobbed Jane—"Oh! the kind, good hand." And as Peleg had thrown himself on the grass, so she flung herself upon the luxurious carpet of her boudoir.

That day she wrote a note and sent it by stealth, since Mrs. Middlebury would have objected severely, to old Uncle Caleb. She asked two questions in it; the first was, "What is Peleg doing now?" the other, "Has he forgiven me?"

The answer came one day. It ran thus:

JANE ROSS: Perhaps you're sorry for what you have done. You had ought to be. I've never seen my own Peleg since we parted. He's thrown himself away. Gone to sea, or to light the Indians. He's one of the best of our name-drop that. I don't expect him back no more, and it's only old Uncle Caleb can ever be to forgive you. What Peleg does we neither us will know. Good-by, and the end of all things.

The told me a story when I was a child of a man that entered a frozen snake in his bosom. When I think of you, Jane Ross, I can remember that snake.

Jane was ill for days after this message came, but some better, she flung herself, in a reckless sort of way upon her new life for comfort.

Little came of it. There were more drinking dazzling in her eyes; there were beautiful girls who made her feel plain and coarse. Men she admired never looked her way; men she despised followed her like her own shadow.

Mrs. Middlebury, firing of her pet, would have rid herself of her elegantly and commendably by marrying her to one of these men, old enough to be her father, and a fashionable club-room sot. And again Peleg, wholesome and fresh, with breath like newmown hay, and eyes that turned upon a woman kindly and purely, as such eyes, how rare they are even that a woman can meet unblushingly, with no shamein meeting them—Peleg arose before her, and the lines she had quoted, those sad true lines, rang in her ears once more:

"For at all and sort of tongue or pen,
The coldest are those, I might have seen."

Four Jane grew pale and nervewom between thought and corsets, remorse, late hours, and chicken salad.

So the day of Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury's grandest party came. More dress, more show, more competition, more assumption of European absurdities, more of that now unbearable attention from that elderly edition of Champagne Charley, probably; and Jane, with the stereotyped smile of society on her face, was ready for it all. But her heart was heavy, and her head ached, and her soul was empty; and Peleg's face, so sweet as could be, was before her in songs, mostly."

"No" said Jane.

"At last he came who, for riches, Reckon'd not the rude away."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!"

"He wanted a wife of refined shows
Who lived in a house to be for power;"

"and she——"

"Wedded a man unlearned and poor;"

"and—and all sorts of awful things, happened;" and Jane began to cry bitterly.

Peleg had dropped his tin kettle. "Out with it, Jane," said he. "Do you or and I, or is it hymns?"

"I mean, we shouldn't be happy with each other. I can't be a farmer's wife!" said Jane. "I feel just like Maud Muller. I have longings for something better than I have ever known." And Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury wants me to go and live with her—as pet and companion," she says. And I'm going, Peleg; and you'll find somebody more contented to work, and all that, than I."

Peleg turned on her fiercely. "No," said he, "I've done with women—done for good. I ain't a fool, Jane, and I ain't learned. I've got course of common paws, and I earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, but I've got feelings fine enough to see that when all you value a man for is what he gives you, there ain't a bit of love in your heart for him. The way I loved you, Jane—oh the way I loved you, and have given you all I could, God knows. To have you comfortable would have been my pride—but—but I didn't think you jest—just—and Satan—you are welcome to her finery and her pride."

"Peleg!" said Jane, off, gal," he said, sternly, "I dunno where. If it's to perdition, you have got to answer for it at the judgment seat. Jane Ross, he hasn't no mother, and no sister to advise her on him but you. That hold is bruised, and the good Lord help him."

And with these words in her ear Jane Ross drove away with Mrs. M'Mahoney Middlebury, whose latest whim it had been to make a pet of the fresh, rosy country lass, whose admiring eyes had followed her so lovingly when ever she trailed her silken robes, or lolled

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, - - 1877.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Oct. 12, 1877.

Last week I made a passing allusion, (cursory intended to be humorous, although I blame no one if it wasn't taken that way,) to the present extraordinary condition of our banks, trust companies and similar institutions to which some events of the past few days have called still further attention. Everyone who has paid attention to the statistics of wrong-doing of any kind must have noticed the curious way in which crimes of any certain class, like evil birds of a feather, incline to flock together. The sons of burglary recur in irregular cycles, train robberies usually treat on each other's heels to the number of half a dozen or so, murders shock the community in rapid succession. The same odd laws appear also to govern, at least in some extent, what are commonly called accidents. Thus railroad men have told me that when, after a season of freedom from such disasters as to reach them of a serious accident of travel, they feel morally certain that two more of a similar character will follow it at sufficiently short intervals to connect the three in one group. The same principle seems to prevail in connection with large fires, and so on.

Our epidemic now seems to be forgery and misappropriation of funds. Take the last two weeks. Without taking into account ten cases which involved sums ranging below $25,000 each there has been the fraudulent issue of almost a million dollars of railway bonds traced to President Morton of the Permanent Exhibition of Philadelphia, the detection and flight of William C. Gilman one of the most high-toned, gilt edged brokers of Wall street, after having after a series of practical forgeries amounting to nearly $300,000, and later the discovery that two important and long established insurance concerns, ex-defaulters in the amounts of $40,000 and $125,000 respectively. The question in everybody's mouth now is "Who among us can be relied on?" and no one appears inclined to venture a reply. When I called upon about the contusions I should say that until laws were passed and enforced too, under which great and awe-inspiring criminals could be murdered from their luxurious offices into the penitentiary with the fewest possible stops along the route, the community has no reason to expect anything different and is served just right for its failure to protect itself.

But to show that the ancient and honorable profession of forging has not yet passed entirely into the hands of the pious church members like those above indicated, the detectives have just brought to light another series of operations of this sort performed by an expert professional gang during the last eighteen months and amounting to about $40,000. These have mostly been accomplished by buying a small draft on New York or some neighboring country bank and obliterating parts of the writing with chemicals and filling up the draft again with sums to suit. Thus a draft for $50 was made to collect $4,000 and so on through the list. The detectives have been after this gang of a long time, but only succeeded in running them to earth this week. The head and front of the forgers was found to be a quiet, gentlemanly looking man who for some time past has occupied an office in Park Row near the Post Office, the door of which bore the sign "Wm. H. Lyman, Stenographer." In this office Mr. Lyman was captured, together with various colored inks, chemicals brushes and other appliances of his crooked art, which were sufficient to establish his guilt beyond a doubt. It turns out that Lyman is well known. He has served two terms in Auburn for forgery. While there he was made a bookkeeper, and distinguished himself by altering prisoners' sentences on the books, so that many were discharged before they had served half the terms for which they were put in. Ten year ago he would reduce to seven, ten year men to five, and otherwise tamper the minds of justice to the "abominations of his acquaintance."

The wreck of the Long Island boat has been discussed incessantly over Washington in New York. After all the comments with which I have so far entertained myself, now waiting at great length until the government, and receiving pensions for money and clothes made at the expense of the papers whom they make it their business and pleasure to denounce whenever they get half a chance, the "middle ages" comprising the Egyptian times in Siena agency have now come over to the city to be fleeced and skinned and starved at the so many foreign potentates. While I have been writing this letter three cars-ha loads of the copper-colored rascals have passed my window on their way to make sight-seeing the vehicles constantly surrounded by gaping crowds mostly composed of men and boys whom I gather chief of these facts in the case novel, and to whom, of course, "Squaw Tea" "Iron Crow" "He Dog" and "Little Big Man" are heroes of the first water.

It is a sight of some interest and the offering to see thirty or forty of these bird-feathered redmen, the record of most of whom would richly entitle them to the benefits and protection of lynch law, parading about our streets or our cities, making arrogant demands of our government, all finally going back to the agencies and thence to the war path till they get ready to make us another visit. If they would only while on here distribute their collections of scalps as keep-sakes among the relatives of the slain, it would be something, but they always leave the former to dry in the stacks of their wigwams, while they themselves are off on their tours of begging and inspection among the latter.

The thrilling storm of Thursday night has ended the most wonderful fairing that this city has known since I have lived in it. 1876 was a very dry year and yet during the nine months of this year, which have already elapsed there fell almost one-third as much rain during the same period of last year. Thursday evening Croton, Grand, and Gleenville lakes and the neighboring ponds and reservoirs within which we depend for water for every purpose, were relieved to swamps and inundations, and the scanty supply which reached the city was full of sediment. But the timely opening of the windows of Heaven which made many of our streets navigable by vessels of light draft and indeed floated some house boats over to Brooklyn it seems from that pleasant city are to be believed, has removed our difficulties and averted what would now have become a very serious state of things. New reservoirs are now in construction which, the contractors say will insure a permanent supply.

The total cases with the dutch generally have continued to be conveyed by the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen. Mr. Sachs on the finishing touch to the latest proceedings of the Criminal Department. The Council has from its inception been very free from favoritism in the matter of contracts, and has never granted any contract privately except when special necessity existed, but all to appear as far as possible to the public, and to give every one an equal chance. It was charged that an artificial stone pavement had been laid in front of the residence of Mr. Sachs on Fifth avenue, which was the only one in the city which the Croton reservoir passed. This charge was entirely false, and the stone was granted by Commissioner Kingsley under the usual form of advertising and contracting. The object of the stone was to conveniently that of the "cross-walk" together that the corner stone was in a rest.

RADIX.

Murder will Out.

A few years ago "Angier Flower" was discovered to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few thin Dyspeptics made to down to Druggists how easily and quickly they has been cured by its use. The great basis of Green's August Flower is the best medicine through the country by actual test to another, small, without advertising, its sales has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No person suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Low Spirits, can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist and get W. Green's and get a Bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

Sensible Advice.

You are asked every day through the columns of newspapers and by your Druggist to use something for your Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that you know nothing about; you get discouraged spending money with but little success. Now to give you satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will cure you of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint with all its effects, such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Wakefulness, Fulness at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, swimming of the head, low spirits, &c., we ask you to go to your Druggist Geo W. Cimerns and get a Sample Bottle of Green's August Flower for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

a good improved, good log house and frame barn, well watered. Will trade for property near Detroit. Title perfect, and terms to suit purchaser. Apply or address,

ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, pine and other wood, and are accessible to best market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the state unequaled for health, well watered and contiguous to the great lumbering section of the east shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

Ten cent of Michigan in which these lands are located is

Not a Wilderness by any Means

It contains a population of [illegible] and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now that I has known a chance of such wealth which it can be had cheap.

Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address W.O. BUCHART, Commissioner, Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

Buy, Exclusively for Cash in Charlevoix and Grand Rapids, Michigan, is one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State, and will sell as low as the lowest.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, FURNISHING GOODS, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval and on application either by mail or otherwise will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon.

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS.

Grand ville, Aug. 2 1877. 22 tf

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER 1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT

We are supplied

With the Best

THAT THE

Wholesale Markets Afford.

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

To Sell Cheap.

It Is Unnecessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SELL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnamcous,

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

Special Bargains

at

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (9)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjust tensions.

It is beautiful in style and is Awarded two at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work.

GOLD MEDAL

Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in sewing machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,

Manager,

63 Madison, St.

Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of Dry Goods, CIOthing, Hats, Caps And Crockery.

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for CASH or its equivilent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn.

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Will attend and [illegible] forms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolie

THE LOCAL DEP'T.

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEDAS

NOTE HEDAS

LETTER HEAD

ETC., ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLAD A. SMITH, Publish er.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, RICE,

And all goods sold by grocers. 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for Teas, Syrups &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(27) 6.13.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hall's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$1.50

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$4.

Family Bibles, $8 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. HALCH, Benzonia, Mich.

JNO. NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will keep a full supply of Charlevoix market [illegible] hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop.

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arrange with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tugs pl from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which [illegible] myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved freee charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by us. EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS. (Successors to London, England), 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Chief-Justice Gray of Plymouth, Mass., the head of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, had retired, as old custom by ruling on horseback to court from Pittsfield to Boston—a distance of one hundred miles—and back again, just as the Judges used to do a hundred years ago.

—Secretary of the Navy Thompson, in speaking of the many jokes at his expense, said: "That of the hatchway was the best. In one of my visits of inspection it was said that I was asked to define the proper dimensions of a hatchway, and that I replied, 'That depends upon the size of the hen and the number of eggs she is to sit on.'" —An American once said to Thiers, when the latter was President: "Well, Mr. Thiers, if you are passing an evening near us, hold the next time you are in Paris. I hope you'll give me a look in; I shall be very much pleased to see you." Thiers, expressive of amused surprise as he looked up into the face of his guest was a thing to be remembered. "It is possible," he seemed to say, "that you can forget who I am that I am the Chief of the State, and that I do not drop in to take afternoon tea with every foreigner who pays me a visit?"

—Ralph Waldo Emerson addressed some twenty years ago a literary society in the college chapel every Sunday afternoon at Middlebury University, Middlebury, Vt., and when he ended the President called upon a clergyman to close the service with prayer. Then one of the Massachusetts minister, who stopped into the pulpit which Mr. Emerson had just left and uttered a most acceptable prayer, of which this is one sentence: "We beseech thee, O Lord, to deliver us from ever hearing any more such transcendental nonsense as we have just listened to from this sacred desk."

—After the benediction Mr. Emerson asked his next neighbor the name of the officiating clergyman, and when haltertingly answered simply said: "It seemed a very commonplace, plain-spoken man."—N. Y. Evening Post.

—At the moment when Spencer, the vagabond President and chief of the Chenango Stars and Stripes, was acquitted, he "stood propounded" for admission to the Plymouth Congregational Church at its next communion. About a year ago Pastor Bartlett preached a series of particularly impressive sermons on the "Ten Commandments." The one on prejudice took effect to this extent, at least, that President Spencer, on entering the flank next morning, informed the clerks that from that time on there must be no more swearing there." What effect the sermon on stealing had upon him not only, but conjured, but perhaps Spencer is on the only one among us who has sometime ventured upon the perilous experiment of presuming to select the commandments he will interpret himself to, and those which he chooses to ignore. We do well not to forget the essential units of the law.—The Advance.

A Virginia Recluse.

Nearly a century ago there lived in the Town of Charlotteville a young man who played a prominent part in society circles. He was an accomplished dancer, dressed in fashionable style, and was the central figure at balls and parties. Upon one of these festive occasions a wag, who was present, attached a bundle of rags to the coat-tail of the youth, and with this absurd appendage his attire was complete. Upon a parcel he went through the mazes of the dance with the beautiful belles of the day. When he discovered the trick that had been played upon him the young man was so deeply mortified that he ever afterward eschewed society, and lived the life of a hermit. Abandoning the gay world, he betook himself to a small building which stood on the site of the present residence of Mr. James Dolin, and commenced the sale of whisky. The door of his den was fastened with a leg chain, and was never opened wider than was necessary to admit the quart bottle of a thirsty customer. At first he bought the liquor by the jug and retailed it by the pint, but as business grew brisk he purchased a barrel, and finally, when the price of whisky got down in Lynchburg to a dollar a gallon, he was enabled to lay in a supply of hogsheads to fill his cellar. He lived thus for many years, never leaving the premises in daylight except at the May term of the County Court, when he would emerge from his den clothed in a drab swallow-tailed coat, reaching nearly to the ground, and a pair of leather breeches, walk to the Court-House, preen his feathers, and repair to his hole. After night he would visit a pump near the Court-House, and many people said that on dark nights he would extend his walks into the country.

About forty years ago, one rainy morning when a stranger knocked at the door of this singular individual, then an old man, there was no response. The door was forced open, and the solitary occupant was found to be dead. A committee of citizens was appointed to examine the premises. The cellar was found well stored with liquor and bowed by age, and beneath the ground, buried in earthen crocks, scores in specie were brought to the surface. Probably, with a prophetic vision of broken charlottesville banks, he was a backwoods man in the strictest sense of the words. A log of wood, upon which the head of the miser rested, and a blanket, covering his slippered limbs, constituted the furniture of the miser's home. His only ledger was a slate, upon which was found a statement of the amount of cash on hand, which tallied with the contents of the earthen jars. The name of this old man was John Yeargen. There are many of our citizens who remember him well.—Charlottesville (Va.) Chronicle.

Economy of Life.

There are two common limitatis is of economy which are unfortunate and misleading. It is, in the first place, too strictly limited to deprivation, to abstinence, to a self-denial; and, in the second place, it is still further limited to saving and accidental in pecuniary matters. It is synonymous in some minds with economizing in some words, in a place where we were playing, and as soon as she discovered it she bounced out and declared she wouldn't stay in it if she'd give her the whole town. Well, then, there are superstitions nations about going on the stage from the wrong side and beginning study or rehearsal on Friday, and dozens of other things. Why, Fanny Davenport thinks a canary-bird in a house is a sure sign of death, and she'll. One day I came home and heard a bird, and I said: "What is that; a canary-bird?" and they said it was; so I just told them to take it out or there'd be a death in the house. Well, the bird went, but there was a death just the same.—Tony Pastor.

Unprincipled Performance.

A citizen who should be preparing himself for the makeup life beyond the grave instead of being up to such tricks, removed the setting from his big gold ring the other day, leaving a marked and decided vacancy. He gets on a streetcar, holds his hand so that the ring must be seen, and pretty soon a man sends forward and remarks:

"Excuse me, sir, but you have lost the set from your ring."

"So I have," replies the owner, as he looks around on the floor.

Every passenger began to peer around, and the man who made the discovery finally asks:

"Was it a valuable set?"

"It was a thousand-dollar diamond," is the calm reply.

There is another movement on the part of the passengers. Some look along the seat, some under it and some make a dive for pearl buttons and other small objects.

"When did you miss it?" asks the first man as the search weakens a little.

"A year and a half ago, when I was attending camp-meeting in Illinois," is the sad reply.

Then every passenger straightens up, every eye looks most vacancy, and not the faintest smile can be seen on any face. A person boarding the car just then would wonder what great man in the city had just died, and if the passengers were on their way to take a sad farewell look at his remains.—Detroit Free Press.

Pleasure also, are meal to learn, as a matter of cultivation, almost entirely. Men and women require for their enjoyment what they bring themselves to require. Lord Samuel Pepys, two centuries ago, got reserved seats for himself and ladies to witness the beheading of Sir Henry Vane, and then grumbled because the crowd got in their way and they didn't see very well, after all. In Madrid, please is the bullfight; in Naples, the opera; in America, less exciting and expensive recreation must be the lot of the mass of people. Even here a brass-band, processional and regalia will suffice for only the briefest period. Public and extraordinary excitements are fatigues rather than pleasures, and the real enjoyment of life must be in the small amenities and activities of daily existence. As bread is the chief support of physical life, we should recognize our daily and hourly opportunities for pleasure as the chief source of it. If we look forward to some great event which is to be the crown of bliss, we are sure to find it qualified by some thorn beneath the rose as Hawthorne has observed in one of his notes. The late George T. Davis, who realized a great sum of money out of a life of at least ordinary trial, once remarking upon the disappointments and tragedies into which he had entered, uttered his gathering feelings with the wise reflection that we must, after all, "get the pleasure of life out of little things as we go along." The chance meeting of friends and kindred, the daily association of families, the wealth of literature open to the poorest, the changing phase of outward nature and inner life, these are the proper sources of human enjoyment which each soul may cultivate to its own satisfaction.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Superstition of Showmen.

Well, now, there's no showman on the road who would think of letting a lady be the first to pass through his door when opening for performance. I don't know why it is, but there's a sort of a feeling among them that it brings bad luck. Perhaps the reason has to be the first to come into one of my entertainments. I'd parley with her at the door,—I call her attention to something else, until a man went in. Each woman should chance to get in first I'd expect to have a bad show, and so would almost any other manager. I know of. Then there are crosseyed people; many a veteran ticket-seller of my acquaintance loses good hearty when one presents himself at the ticket window. A cross-eyed patron and a bad house generally go together. It doesn't seem possible, hardly, but it's so. A crosseyed performer would be a regular bad omen. By the way, there are some people in the profession who have the reputation of being Jonahs, and they are not crosseyed, either. The most unfortunate one I ever knew was a boy, and sometimes I think that the large amount of their treasures on t' market, and the late Mostapha Fazil Pasha contributed not a little to the enriching of the jewel Bazar. I plead guilty to one weakness, and that is to the Oriental carpet. The Tabriz carpet, as a rug made by the hand-looms of Turkish, is a fabric that in durability, wearing qualities, and softness of texture cannot be surpassed. It is made in square pieces of various dimensions, but generally of a size to cover an ordinary room. The colors are so subdued that it is said a rug of vinegar upset on it will not change a color. For wear, time seems to make no impression on it. Beautiful my feet is a Turkey carpet which is at least thirty years old, and it is at this writing as fresh as the day the last thread was woven into it at Oredon. There seems to be no fixed patterns, for I have never seen any two alike. The weaver's fancy determines the figures and arrangement of colors, and that is as fantastic as an Oriental imagination always is. The carpets are so heavy that they rest on the floor with their own weight, and need no tacks to fasten them down. As they are not secured to the floor, they are frequently taken up and dusted, and are always this kept clean. When the strangers, well as to the rooms, are laid in these solid fleecy carpets, the house is as still as it were unoccupied, so far as the movements of its occupants are concerned. It is a curious fact that while everything else has declined in price, Turkey carpets hold their own. In the East, once a quarter of a century old selling near on to its original cost.—Cincinnatiensis Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Bird-Spiders.

Among the formidable animals to be met with in the forests of the Amazons, none is more unpleasant to encounter than the Bird-Spider (Mygale aurifera), which is able from its size to seize upon small birds for its prey. The history of an experience with one of these ugly cannibals is related in a late number of Forest and Stream. A gentleman stopping at a wood-cutting establishment on the Essequibo started, one day, on a canoe excursion to the creek, in search of some sort of fish or flesh for his breakfast. The spring-hooks which had been set in the stream the previous evening were found empty; therefore the gun was brought into requisition for the needed supplies. While eagerly searching for game, the rustling of leaves in the canoe attracted his attention, and suddenly fired at some object moving rapidly along the topmost branches of a tree. Which something the sluggish stream a short distance in advance. For a moment or two the success of his aim seemed doubtful; then something came tumbling through the intervening foliage, and I guided," says the narrator, "the canoe homeward, lest the prey be lost in the waters. Our surprise was not meaningless. I must confess, with vexation at first, on finding that the creature belonging to the gun had removed the possibility of a morning's repast as far off as ever. A huge spider and a half-fledged bird lay in the bottom of our canoe: the one with disjointed limbs and mutilated carcass, the other maimed by the shot, but nearly dead, though still faintly palpitating. The remains of the spider showed him to be larger than any I had previously seen. He may have measured two-and-a-half inches in the body, with legs probably twice that length. He was rough and shaggy, with a thick coverage of hair or bristles, which, beside giving him an additional appearance of strength, considerably increased the ferocious look of his aspect. The hairs were in some places fully an inch long, of a dark-brown color inclining to black. His powerful jaws and sturdy arms seemed never adapted for the desperate struggle of prey less noble than this small member of the feathered race, for whom our science had unfortunately arrived too late.

The victim had been snatched from the nest while the mother was absent to collect a morning's meal for her offspring. It had been clutched by the neck immediately above the shoulders, and the murderer's talons still remained; and, although no blood had escaped from the wounds, they were turned inward and pressed.

Mr. Bates, the English naturalist, who for eleven years was engaged in studying the habits of animals on the Amazons, has made a careful record of an interview with a bird-spider. He fell in with the individual at Cumeta, and states that it was nearly two inches in length of body, but the legs expanded seven inches, and the entire body and legs were covered with coarse gray and reddish hairs. I was attracted, he continues, "by movements of the monster on a tree-trunk. It was close beneath a deep crevice in the tree, across which was stretched a dense, white web. The lower part of the web was broken, and in the small aperture I observed the spider and took the following account from Mr. Bates: "The Myades are quite common insects: some species make their cells under stones, others form artistic cells in the earth, and some build their dens in the thatch of houses.

The hairs with which they are clothed vary in length and fineness, and cause a peculiar and almost maddening irritation. The first specimen that I killed and prepared was hundred inches long, and I suffered terrible for three days afterward. I think this is owing to my ignorants specific irritating power of the hairs, for they are short and hard, and this getting into the fine crosses of the skin. Some Myades are much worse than others, and I have seen the children belonging to an Indian family who collected for me so swollen from the irritation of the hairs that they could not open their eyes for many days. The Myades are very abundant in the woods, and I have frequently found them in my bedroom, etc., and therefore it is necessary to be constantly on the watch in a perfectly natural way, and so openly and honestly that there can be no suspicion of your wishing to take any unfair advantage. There are few people in business circles who do not know that cheap bargains are sure to get swiftly bitten often enough to more than counterbalance the petty gains they may have secured from other low-priced purchases. And so it is with labor. It is far better to give a good price and secure the best.—Rural New Yorker.

Walking Horses.

Everybody concedes that there is no gait which so greatly adds to the actual value of the horse as a fine walk; and yet it is notorious that there is no gait so little cultivated. Even our agricultural societies, that are supposed to especially foster the improvement of our domestic animals in all useful qualities, persistently ignore this, the most valuable of all gaits in the horse. A premium for the fastest walking horse is very rarely offered, and when there is any such thing, the amount is so insignificant as to attract no attention; while hundreds, and in many cases thousands, of dollars are offered for trials of speed at the faster and much less useful gaits.

This is not as it should be. We have racing associations all over the country, and offer enormous purses for trotting and running, thus furnishing abundant stimulus for improvement in that direction; but we have no special provision of our agricultural societies to stimulate improvement in the horse that is really useful and valuable to our agricultural purposes, and in that gait which is less, adapted to the use to which he is put. The walk is the gait which the horse must assume when drawing the plow, the harrow, the reaping machine, or when performing a long journey, the road; and here the superiority of a pair of best walkers over those of a mixed gait is the most striking. A horse that can walk off on the road at the easiest five miles an hour, and at a correspondingly rapid gait when hurried, is a treasure to the farmer; and yet such horses are more rare than 2:30 trotters. There is no reason why this should be so the case. The trouble is notso much from lack of capacity for fast walking, in most of our horses, as in from a general, careless, toothless, heedless carelessness, that "mamma's darling" is the "sweetest, prettiest baby that ever lived," but it is often required to preserve neighborly relations intact.—Exchange.

Snoring.

Dr. John Wyeth is entitled to the gratitude of all who are afflicted with the habit of snoring for the simple device he has contrived to counteract the vile tendency. The apparatus is described by him in the Popular Science Monthly and an explanation is at the same time given of the cause of snoring. In the act of breathing, the air may travel to and from the lungs through the channels of the mouth or the nose. Both channels unite in a common cavity just below the soft palate, which is attached by one end to the hard palate or bone forming the roof of the mouth and the arch of the nose. The other end of the soft palate hangs loose, and is moved by the current of air passing in and out of the lungs, as a window-curtain is flapped by a breeze. If the air passes through the nose alone the end of the palate is pressed gently down upon the tongue so as to lessen the movement or vibration, and no sound is heard. But if the mouth as well as the nose be open, so that two currents of air pass in and out together during the acts of breathing, the soft palate is thrown into rapid and sonorous vibrations, and what we call snoring is the result.

It follows that the remedy for snoring is to keep the mouth shut, and admit air to the lungs only through the channel of the nose. This can be effected in many cases by simply tying the head snugly, and muted by an elastic band, near the ear on each side, to a cap of soft material fitting the chin.—Phila. Press.

Walnuts.

It is a tremendous wear on a man's moral faculties to attempt to shell a hickory, hazel, butternut, beechnut, or walnut. The rage among the boys, stable hands, and even small saloon keepers, is for speed, and, as the old saying goes, "haste must be made to trot. He is taught at once to understand that the walk is a gait to be resorted to only when time is a matter of no consequence, and thus many a naturally fast walker becomes, from use, a very slow one.

If as much pains were taken in developing and breeding for increased speed at the walking gait as is now taken in breeding for trotting, we should soon have our farmy horses that could walk five miles per hour; and horses that could walk a mile on the road in ten minutes, or six miles per hour, would be as often met with as trotters that can go ten miles per hour for any considerable length of time.

We are anxious that this matter should receive the attention of our agricultural societies, and that liberal purses should be given at our annual fairs for contests of speed at this most useful gait. These walking races would be almost, if not quite, as attractive a feature, and would "draw" nearly as well, as trotting or running races, if the purses were equally as large. It is the close contest for a large prize that gives to races their chief attraction, and there may be quite as close and exciting a contest in a walking race for a $1,000 prize as in trotting or running; while the effect which the awarding of large prizes for such races would have upon the common stock of our country would doubtless eventually be highly beneficial.—National Live Stock Journal.

Farm Laborers.

Looking back to the farm laborer-la days of yore, when changing about was equally avoided by master and man, it puzzles one to think what motive any employer can have in these days for preferring transient to permanent help. Yet this preference in some small exists in the United States, and not only do some of the would-be leaders in agricultural matters boast of keeping their men ignorant of their next job and their movements for the morrow, but they are foolish enough to believe that a general feeling of uncertainty as to a continuance of employment is good policy. The writer, however, abhors such a course extremely unwise, for it necessitates the eye of the master on every motion of his men, as this insecurity makes them careless; and not only do they feel indifferent about the well-being of the employer's property, but some dispositions will allow the dislike of such treatment to draw them on to utterly hate such a master.

Again, many a conceited agricultural manager, priding himself on his talent in this respect, will suffer the loss of valuable animals and injury to other property rather than all things should be known, would be found to be the result of his employees detestation for the low estimation in which they conceive he holds them, or knows he is right in his conviction that all these pretended fine managers of men had best be upright and unexceptionable in their every aspect, and instead of beating down the wages, give their employes a little over the common run, and thus succeed in getting retain all the best men, and at the same time cause these to feel conscious of being in good hands, and desirous to remain in them. Such a course may be made is fair and liberal with them. Stingy men invariably defeat their own ends, and many a one has had to bitterly deplore with forever after allowing themselves to be so influenced as to act in such an illogical manner.

Be that as it may, it, however, is certain that every man, however ignorant, are able to see through any man's objects in mystery, deception, etc., and therefore it is necessary and honesty that there can be no suspicion of your wishing to take any unfair advantage. There are few people in business circles who do not know that cheap bargains are sure to get swiftly bitten often enough to more than counterbalance the petty gains they may have secured from other low-priced purchases. And so it is with labor. It is far better to give a good price and secure the best.—Rural New Yorker.

Wood Fires.

We grant, as has recently been said, that an open fire is "incompetent to heat our houses" but we believe it can be made such an important factor by the culture of children, that we have no hesitation in urging others to try it. In some houses we are wholly warmed by furnace, the family circle is likely to become impaired. The children take their meals in their own rooms, and the mother rarely becomes intimately acquainted with their associates. Around a wood fire, all naturally come and sit, it puzzles one to think what motive any employer can have in these a little while to interest all, and the children learn to be open and free. The fire warms the heart as well as the body. A wood fire lit early in the evening when the children are home from school is all that is necessary. When the loves get used to coming in from the cold and snow to find a cheerful blazing fire, blazing on the hearthstone, the home must not be merely furnished for them to use, they will not want to leave it for any outside attractions. The moment the familiar whistle is heard in the evening, let some kindling wood be thrust under the logs. The pleasant sensation produced by a blazing fire, if only every day, winter after winter, amounts to a great deal of happiness in a boy's lifetime, and will never be forgotten. It is difficult to overestimate the value of the genial gathering-place for the whole family. Wood fires are not dusty, and when used not for heat, but for cheer, and only in the evening, are not costly. The modern heat of a furnace or stove is not meant for the parlor by day, and but little wood in the fireplace is necessary to make it comfortable at night. Indeed, the register often has to be turned off and the doors have to be closed to keep the heat of the house from rushing into the parlor. The wood fire ventilates, and thus, not only are the feet kept warm, but the head remains cool. Had a cord of hickory wood lasts us almost a month, and we use it on Sundays after church, and on other days if we have friends to dinner.

Salt Water Fish in a Queer Place.

It is not our purpose to go into a web of theories to substantiate the assertion made in the caption of this article, but simply for the present to record the fact that two of a herd of water recently dug on Sherman street there was yesterday pole, reputed to be found a number of fish, and beelith to the child gives rest to the mother.

KIDNEY DISEASE, weakness and pain across the back, lack of strength and activity, depression and misery entail, eradicated and disease to a speedy CURE by VOLTAIC PLASTERS, all the other plasters are worthless in comparison.

"Light as a Cork."

The good wife exclaimed on baking the biscuit, prepared with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, from the oven; and well she might, for they were "perfectly splendid."

OWENS' STARCH.—Manufacturers of all fine goods, threads, laces, etc., at home and abroad, say KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO STARCH. No other article can produce so fine a finish.

PATENTEES AND INVENTORS should read advertisement of Edson Bros. in another column.

HOFFMAN'S LIVER PILLS for Fever and Ague. They cure at once and are a preventive.

See E. BROWN'S ADVT OF FOOT LATHES.

KEEP IN THE RIGHT LATITUDE

BEST LANDS B&M RAILROAD LAND IN IOWA AND NEBRASKA

Address LAND COMMISSIONER B. & M. R. R. Omaha, Neb.

Vegetine!

HER OWN WORDS.

BALTIMORE, MD. Feb. 13, 1877

MR. H. R. STEVENS—Sir: Several years I have got a sore and running place on my leg, which has been a source of great annoyance to me. I have used many remedies, but VEGETINE is that only one that has done me any good. I have taken about two bottles of VEGETINE, and after I had taken the first bottle I could see a change for the better. I have now taken seven bottles, and the sore is entirely healed up. I have also been troubled with Rheumatism, and VEGETINE has done me more good than all other medicines I have ever taken. I have also been troubled with Dyspepsia, and VEGETINE has relieved me of that complaint. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine. Yours respectfully,

MRS. A. A. DESMORIE, 79 Russell Street.

VEGETINE.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 15, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.

Dear Sir: For years since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility, and had myself brought to the verge of the grave. Having heard much said in favor of VEGETINE, was induced to try it, and after using a few bottles, was restored to health, and have since enjoyed good health. I feel it my duty to make this statement for the benefit of those who feel that they need some thing to relieve them from suffering.

Yours truly, J. PETTENGILL,
Firm of S. H. Pettengill & Co.,
Nos. 10 State st., Boston.

VEGETINE.

All Have Obtained Relief.

SOUTH BRIDGE, ME. Jan. 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir: I have had Catarrh in its worst form for over two years, and have taken bushels of dollars' worth of medicines without obtaining any relief. I purchased one bottle of VEGETINE, and soon found some which from my health. It has wonderful power over Catarrh, and I have taken about two dozen bottles and consider myself entirely cured. I have also taken VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief.

Yours truly, THOMAS P. SHORT,
Overseer of Card Room, Portsmouth Co's Mills.

VEGETINE

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

VEGETINE

SAFE AND SURE.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir: For years VEGETINE was recommended to me, and thinking to the preservation of a friend, I consented to try it. At that time I was suffering from general debility and nervous prostration, superinduced by overwork and irregular habits. A wonderful strengthening and curative properties seemed to affect my debilitated system from the first bottle taken, and I soon found myself recovering, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not hesitated to give VEGETINE my most unqualified recommendation as being a safe, sure and powerful agent in purifying the blood and restoring health. I am now in the best condition of health I ever enjoyed, and VEGETINE is the only medicine I use, and as long as I am free I ever expect to do so.

Yours truly, H. H. CLARK,
129 Monterey Street, Allegheny, Pa.

VEGETINE

The Best Spring Medicine.

CHARLESTOWN.

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir: This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and find that for scrofula, Cancerous Humors of three years' standing, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier for Spring use, I know of nothing that will equal it. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. C. E. KEARE, 626 West Baltimore Street.

VEGETINE

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Governor of Card Room, Portsmouth Co's Mills

VEGETINE

SAFE AND SURE.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir: For years VEGETINE was recommended to me, and thinking to the preservation of a friend, I consented to try it. At that time I was suffering from general debility and nervous prostration, superinduced by overwork and irregular habits. A wonderful strengthening and curative properties seemed to affect my debilitated system from the first bottle taken, and I soon found myself recovering, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not hesitated to give VEGETINE my most unqualified recommendation as being a safe, sure and powerful agent in purifying the blood and restoring health. I am now in the best condition of health I ever enjoyed, and VEGETINE is the only medicine I use, and as long as I am free I ever expect to do so.

Yours truly, H. H. CLARK,
129 Monterey Street, Allegheny, Pa.

VEGETINE

The Best Spring Medicine.

CHARLESTOWN.

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir: This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and find that for scrofula, Cancerous Humors of three years' standing, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier for Spring use, I know of nothing that will equal it. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. C. E. KEARE, 626 West Baltimore Street.

VEGETINE.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 15, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.

Dear Sir: For years since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility, and had myself brought to the verge of the grave. Having heard much said in favor of VEGETINE, was induced to try it, and after using a few bottles, was restored to health, and have since enjoyed good health. I feel it my duty to make this statement for the benefit of those who feel that they need some thing to relieve them from suffering.

Yours truly, J. PETTENGILL,
Firm of S. H. Pettengill & Co.,
Nos. 10 State st., Boston.

VEGETINE.

All Have Obtained Relief.

SOUTH BRIDGE, MF. Jan. 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir: I have had Catarrh in its worst form for over two years, and have taken bushels of dollars' worth of medicines without obtaining any relief. I purchased one bottle of VEGETINE, and soon found some which from my health. It has wonderful power over Catarrh, and I have taken about two dozen bottles and consider myself entirely cured. I have also taken VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief.

Yours truly, THOMAS P. SHORT,
Overseer of Card Room, Portsmouth Co's Mills.

VEGETINE

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

Shut who travels through life afoot and alone for forty odd years may often yearn for a manly breast to lay his head against but her hands are free from callous places and broken finger nails, caused by pulling off her boss hand's boots.—Hawk-Eye.

"I WANT five cents' worth of starch," said a little girl to a grocer's clerk. The clerk asked: "What do you want five cents' worth of starch for?" "Why, for five cents, of course," she answered, and the clerk concluded to attend to his own business.

A writer in the Indiana Farmer recommends greasing hogs leeving the cholera from head to tail along the back, with lard or coal oil.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE.—Dr. Wilbur's Anti-Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic! No case of incurable chills has yet presented itself, where this reliable and safe medicine has been employed. No case has been found so obstinate as to resist its prompt and masterly action. No man has been so reduced by malarial influences, but with its use has come in perfect restored. No pills or quinine are required with this medicine. G. R. FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for all diseases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and by giving rest to the child and health to the mother. 25 cents a bottle.

KIDNEY DISEASE, weakness and pain across the back, lack of strength and activity, depression and misery entail, eradicated and disease to a speedy CURE by VOLTAIC PLASTERS, all the other plasters are worthless in comparison.

"Light as a Cork."

The good wife exclaimed on baking the biscuit, prepared with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, from the oven; and well she might, for they were "perfectly splendid."

OWENS' STARCH.—Manufacturers of all fine goods, threads, laces, etc., at home and abroad, say KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO STARCH. No other article can produce so fine a finish.

PATENTEES AND INVENTORS should read advertisement of Edson Bros. in another column.

HOFFMAN'S LIVER PILLS for Fever and Ague. They cure at once and are a preventive.

See E. BROWN'S ADVT OF FOOT LATHES.

DO NOT FAIL to send for circulars of the Texas Land and Immigration Co. of Austin, Texas. Address P. L. Mc. Austin, Texas.

GO TO THE BEST.

H. B. BRYANT'S CHICAGO BUSINESS COLLEGE AND ENGLISH TRAINING SCHOOL. 58 & 60 STATE & WASHINGTON STS. CHICAGO, ILL.

JUST THE THING for Ladies and Young People. Lightest Pen made. Writes Alphabets with ease, at once. Sent by mail, postpaid, for 25 cts. Address, Mrs. A. A. DESMORIE, 79 Russell Street, Boston, Mass.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

What is Life Without Health? It is worthless, and to be without health is a misfortune. TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT restores lost digestive, tone strengthens, and takes rank as a standard Alterative. It will keep the system in perfect order.

WANTED—AGENTS for the Centennial Year. Something entirely new. Address STANDARD MANUFACTURING CO., 55 & 57 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISERS Desiring to reach the Readers of the Best Class of Religious Papers, should address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 41 Park Row, New York.

ONLY TEN CENTS FOR ONE YEAR. The PACIFIC HOMESTEAD, a 24 column Monthly Paper, will be sent to any address for ten cents for one year. It is a first-class paper, and the best paper for the money ever published. Address PACIFIC HOMESTEAD, San Francisco, Cal.

Hershey School of Musical Art, at Hershey Music Hall, Chicago, Ill. All branches of MUSIC. MODERN LANGUAGES and PAINTING taught. Pupils may enter at any time. Circulars, Illustrated Prospectus, Testimonials, etc., free on application. Send for circular.

CLOVER HULLERS! CLOVER HULLERS! CLOVER HULLERS! Address HUSSELL & CO., MASSILLON, O.

THE BEST COMBINED CLOVER-THRESHER & HULLER EVER MADE. SEE ADVT.

"THE BEST POLISH IN THE WORLD."

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

DON'T Wear Your Hands Out, BUT USE DAILY'S PATENT HUSKING GLOVES AND PINS.

MAKE BETTER THAN EVER.

Men's Full Husking Mittens, per pair $2 00
Boys' " " " 1 75
Men's Mitt 1 00
Boys' " 75
Husking Pins, 15c each; Dozen 1 00

Sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price by any Address. And Dealers in Sporting Goods generally.

HALL, DAILY & CO. (LIMITED), Manufacturers, Chicago, Ill.

Any Agent or Canvasser Knows no Other Book like

SMITH, BROWN, JONES,

In fact, anyone himself with these familiar names, and you have a sure thing. Over 1,000 names in a single book. Sold by subscription only. Agents wanted everywhere. Sells at sight. Agents are making from $200 to $500 a month. Salary or fees. Sample copy, with terms, etc., sent free. Address, J. B. BURR & CO., Hartford, Conn.

ONLY $1

For SIX BEAUTIFUL PICTURES, Different subjects, 16x17 inches; Or for FIVE PICTURES, 17x22; Or for FOUR PICTURES, 19x24. Every one of these pictures is a GRAND ENGRAVING, made by the celebrated GRAPHIC process, printed on Heavy Plate Paper for Framing. Send ten cents for illustrated Calendar containing over 100 pictures. Address, THE DAILY GRAPHIC, New York City.

GREENBACKS. THE BEST. Most complete Book-keeping for Agents ever published. Sells on the money question in the history of money and finance. Contains Tables, Discussions and Opinions, Laws, Decisions, Statistics, by M. B. PUMPELLY, Editor of the Democratic Review, A. T. STEWART, Ex-Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. JAMES BUCHANAN, Ex-President, Hon. GEORGE BANCROFT, Ex-Minister to England, and others. Agents wanted. Send for circulars. Address, H. S. GOODSPEED & CO., 111 Nassau St., New York.

HAIR-GROWER.

Warranted to restore Dandruff or any Humor of the scalp, and in other cases one of less value than $5. Sent by express, C. O. D., for $1.50. Address, JACKSON & CO., Manufacturers, Evansville, Va.

PATENTS and INVENTORS, Foreign and Foreign Patent Agency established in 1856. For after all unknown Circular of Instructions, etc., send free.

TEXAS Maps & Pamphlets mailed free. Address the Texas Land and Immigration Co. of Austin, Texas. Land for sale in Texas. Address P. L. Mc. Austin, Texas, and Co., Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

$5 to $26 a day at home. Samples worth $5 free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

A Month—Agents Wanted—$350 for best selling articles in the world. 1 sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

Ladies' Friend Complete Invalid Bed-table. Agents wanted. Send for circulars. Address J. H. HUTCHINSON & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$30 to $50 PREMIUM WATCH AND CHAIN—name paper. Sample Free. J. B. BUTLER & CO., Chicago, Ill.

SCALES U. S. STANDARD—Address U. S. SCALE CO., Chicago, Ill.

$300 a month to Agents. Address U. S. SCALE CO., Chicago, Ill.

50 Chromo Cards, no 2 alike, with name, 10c. FIRST PRIZE ROLLER NAME CO., Cleveland, O.

$5 to $20 per day at Home. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

$20 to $2 Best thing for AGENTS. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$66 A WEEK. Agents wanted. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address P. O. VICKERY, Augusta, Me.

$12 a Day at Home. Agents wanted. All classes of working people wanted in their spare moments or all the time. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Reader, think of the above and address G. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

BEATTY Cabinet Organs, Pianos, $125 Upright Pianos, $175 Square Pianos, $125 Parlor Organs, $65 Catalogue FREE. Address DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, N. J.

BIG PAY to Sell Our Goods. Terms free. H. B. PARSONS, P. O. Box 295, Chicago.

$20 a Day. How to Make It. Something New. Address at once, with stamp, for Agents' Book, PHOENIX & CO., 44 Lindell Block, St. Louis, Mo.

40 Fine Mixed Cards, Largest in Town, with name, by mail, 10c. A BUST & CO., Northford, Ct.

25 Fancy Cards, Snowflake, Damask, etc., no 2 alike, with name, 10c. Samples and Club Rates, 10c. NASSAU CARD CO., Nassau, N. Y.

30 Mixed Cards, with name, 10c. Sample Book of Cards, 3 stamps. PARKER & CO., Nassau, N. Y.

30 Elegant silk-fringed Cards, no 2 alike, with name, 10c, postpaid. U. GRANGER & SONS, Box 28, Nassau, N. Y.

STOWELL'S Famous Visiting Cards, 25c for 40 Mixed, 10c, postpaid. M. STOWELL & CO., Fair Haven, Vt.

JAN 6 3. 1874.

WHEN DESIRING TO ADVERTISE, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Lumber Yard

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Legal.

Legal

Notice.

Wool Bags Paper Bags Telegraph Paper, B. A. Tag, Cardwood Leather, &c.

JENNIE SUTTON

REMEMBER THE Sentinel

JOB PRINTING Office,

JOB WORK

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap if desired.

S. BUTLER.

CHARLEVOIX Harness Shop

Light and Heavy HARNESS,

REPAIRING

Upholstering a Specialty

JAS. B. WOOD.

L A W

—AND—

Real Estate Office.

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm AND Wild Lands

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.

J. E. Gridlick & Co.,

Traverse City. - Mich.

DEALER IN

HARDWARE,

Tinware & Stoves

Keeps constantly on hand a large supply the celebrated

DETROIT STOVES,

With Furniture.

Cash Paid for Copper

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 26. CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Oct. 23. 1877. Whole No., 441

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription $1.50 per Annum, In Advance, —Or FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	3 m.	6 m	1 yr.
One sq.	$ 80	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$3.00	$5.00
2sqrs	1.25	1.75	2.00	3.50	5.00	10.00
3 "	1.75	2.25	3.00	5.00	7.00	12.00
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.25	10.00	14.00
4 column.	3.25	4.00	5.00	10.25	14.00	20.00
4 "	5.00	6.50	8.00	15.	26.00	37.00
1 "	8.00	10.00	12.00	20.00	47.00	70.00

Carden Business Directory, $4 per line per year.

Legal advertisements at Statutories.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co. Charlevoix, Michigan

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. G. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LYDEL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO BATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times

A. B. UPHRIGHT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Gristmill Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,

LAWYER AND NOTARY,

Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession. [1871]

The Campbell House.

TRAVERSE CITY MICH.

H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PALLYHORP,

Attorney and Counseor at Law

Solicitor in Ch ancery and Notary Public. Will practice in upper and adjoining counties Office in rear of John S. Petoskey, Brooklyn.

M. J. Stockman

DEALER IN

HARDWARE,

Tinware & Stoves

Keeps constantly on hand a large supply the celebrated

DETROIT STOVES,

With Furniture.

Cash Paid for Copper

Wanted!

Every body to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines

DYE STUFFS,

Stationery & Confectionery

IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Why? Because he sells strictly pure goods, and can supply the wants of his customers and surround the counters with anything they wish to find here. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also

Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has leased the shop of J. E. Wells' harness shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of this locality. Charge or Cash. Goods made to order.

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS-FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAWES.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office, Traverse City Mich., June 20, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Jackson Higgs, for abandoning the Homestead Entry no. 8275, dated August 21 1874, upon the S. ½ of sec. section 34, Township 34 North, R 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 11, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Il ence Pardee, against Calvin Mayell, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6435, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 34, North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at 9 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

MICHIGAN STATE LAND OFFICE, Lansing, October 1st 1877.

Notice is hereby given that, the following described Swamp Land, situate in Charlevoix county, heretofore licensed to Homesteads, which land has reverted to the State will be restored to market at this office November 8, 1877 at 10 o'clock a. m., and will be subject to sale according to the laws prescribed by law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE, Commissioner.

Description	Section	Town	Range
se¼ of se¼	5	33 N	5W
sw¼ of se¼	5	33 N	6W
ne¼ of nw¼	29	34 N	4W
s½ of nw¼	33	34 N	4W
½ of se¼	22	34 N	4W
se¼ of se¼	22	34 N	4W
ne¼ of se¼	26	32 N	6W
sw¼ of se¼	26	32 N	6W
se¼ of n ¼	6	32 N	7W

MICHIGAN STATE LAND OFFICE, Lansing, Sept. 21, 1877.

Notice is hereby given, that the following described Primary School and Agricultural College Land, situate in Charlevoix county forfeited to, into pay cent of interest, will be offered for sale at this office November 8th 1877 at ten o'clock a. m. unless previously redeemed according to law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE, Commissioner

No. of Certificate	Description	Section	Town	Range
Primary School Land.
9482	s½ of sw¼	16	32 N	7W
9483	nw¼ of sw¼	16	32 N	7W
9625	se¼ of sw¼	16	32 N	7W
9626	sw¼ of se¼	16	32 N	7W
9990	¼ of	16	34 N	7W
11467	ne¼ of sw¼	16	32 N	7W
Agricultural College Land.
461	s½ of sw¼	8	32 N	7W
542	and se¼ of s½ of se¼	12	33 N	4W

Society Directory.

L. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 291 I. O. O. F meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW, N. G.

GEO. W. LOCKWOOD Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 293 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month. W. A. SMITH, W. M.

A. B. UPHRIGHT, Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Pocahontas Lodge No. 111 L. O. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 8 o'clock p. m. Visiting brothers will receive a hearty welcome.

BENJAMIN BURNS, W. M.

REV. DAWSON, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, ED. TOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m. and close at 12 m.

Mails arrive daily at 12 M. depart at 1 P. M.

Mails arrive daily at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays, depart at 8 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Pinkney has a Money Order Office.

Jack Ingram has gone to Chicago.

Preaching next Sabbath morning and evening.

See Crouter's new advertisement on this page.

Henry Morgan went to Milwaukee on the Idaho yesterday.

Bring in your winter vegetables to pay for your paper.

The Schooner S. G. Crowell has been sold at Marshal's sale.

Archie Butters recently purchased a very fine thoroughbred horse.

Choice teas, that is sure to please, at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Austin Newman has the contract for stumping the court house yard.

CONGRESS is in full blast, and the Senate is ventilating the Louisiana matter.

Specimens of extraordinary growth of leeks from the farm of Myron Geer, are received

Dr. Bailey, of Elk Rapids, has been appointed U. S. Examining Surgeon for the County of Antrim.

FAIRBANKS, the fruit-tree man, is on hand with a lot of trees which he is delivering at Doc Wood's yard.

Try that fifty cent tea at See & Washburn's. It cannot be beat in town for the money.

An Episcopal mission has been established at Cheboygan, and funds are being raised to build a church.

THE Hon Michael Dooner, M. P. the member from Killarney, still sojourns among us for the benefit of his health.

The copy of the Co. Treasurer's report is in our hands, but we are obliged to defer its publication until next week.

A sample of corn-stalks raised on the farm of Wm. Ferguson, north of this village, and measuring 12 feet high can be seen at this office.

The small yacht Minnie Sutton went adrift at Spectacle Reef, lately and is supposed to have swamped. No one aboard.

DROWNED.—The body of Chas. Miller, a homesteader near Cross Village, was found near the Petoskey dock Sunday. He undoubtedly fell from the dock NORWOOD.—We enjoyed the hospitality of P. J. Meech and Rev. Mr. Blake, at Norwood, on Thursday last. Norwood hospitality is proverbial.

THE seat-ends for the Church have been ordered from the manufactory, and upon their arrival the seats will be made and put in. They are now excavating for the furnace.

The weather is warm and balmy.

The schooner Little Georgie is up the lake.

Sheriff McLeod is away on a deer hunt.

Ben. Hiram Powers, of Boyne Falls, was in town to day.

The wrecking tug Prindiville was lost on Presque Isle lately.

Yarnes—all disciplines at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Miller returned home from their bridal trip Tuesday

Mr. Nettleton has the work on the shore end of the north pier completed

Geo Millen has entered upon the realities of house-keeping in his new residence.

HARD TO BEAT.—A seagel weezel lately raised by Hugh Miller, two feet in length, twenty inches in circumference, and weighing 20 pounds, is on exhibition at the PENTINEL office.

The Masonic fraternity partook of an oyster supper at W. C. Newman's restaurant on Tuesday evening last, which was very palatable as well as socially enjoyable.

Another lot of those Gale chilled plows at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

The M. E. Charge at Norwood has been supplied permanently by sending the Rev. Mr. Blake as pastor. In times past we were proud to know Mr. Blake as a "pedagogue," and were glad to find our old friend in such close proximity.

The Cheboygan Tribune says that the contract for diverting the course of Sturgeon river into Burt Lake and thus securing navigation into Burt and Crooked lakes was let last week by the local commissioner to Mr. Alfred J. West, of Cspae, Mich.

REAL ESTATE.—Cornelius Mennay and wife to John and James Mitchell, the south east quarter of south east quarter of sect on 18 T. 33 N. R. 7 west consideration $200.

—MISS Lennie M. Campbell, (see In gails) to John A. Cooper, the north-west quarter of section 24, T 33 N. R. 8 west, in Marion, for $475.

A good stock of leather and findings at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

ACQUITTED.—Martin Wolf was arrested on the 15th, on complaint of J. A. Bacot, for an alleged larceny of a horse from the premises of said Bacot, and examined before Justice Miller, in this place. It was proven that Woolf took the horse supposing it to be his own, and was therefore discharged from custody.

The tug Prindville and the schooner Provost went ashore at Presque Isle in in the late gale. The tug is a total loss. The Provost will probably be saved. The scow Ada Child is ashore at South Point. The schooner Lake Forest and a number of other vessels not known are in bad shape near Alpena. The schooner Portland, which went ashore near Presque Isle, has been abandoned as a total loss. She propeller Dean Richmond is lying at Alpena with her machinery disabled.

THE PAST.—The annual fair of the Grand Traverse Agricultural Association, just held in Elk Rapids, was a success in every respect but financially. The number of entries exceeded those of any former year by over 100, and the display was pronounced superior in quality by the oldest inhabitants. Floral Hall was admirably filled up and there was a large display of antiquities, foreign curiosities, coins, etc., in addition to the ordinary attractions. No one could doubt the agricultural resources of this region who saw the great variety of the fruit to be sent to Philadelphia for exhibition, by the request of parties there,—apples, pears, grapes and plums. The weather was very bad, raining most of the time, and one day so stormy that no boat could approach. For this reason the fair was prolonged one day, but the receipts did not cover the expenses.

PROCEEDINGS

Of the Board of Supervisors of Charlevoix County.

Oct. 11, 1877.

[Continued]

Roll called; full board present Journal read and approved.

Moved and carried that one per cent. be raised as a county tax.

Moved and carried that each Township levy a tax of one mill and seventenths on the dollar on the aggregate taxable valuation for State tax.

Moved and carried that the Chairman and Clerk be authorized to draw orders quarterly at the rate of $1.00 per day in favor of the jailer for board and care of prisoners now in charge.

Moved and carried that the sum of $25 be expended in extracting stumps from county grounds, and setting out shade trees around same, and that the Chairman and Clerk draw an order for the amount when the work is completed.

Moved and carried that $30 be appropriated for furniture for Court House.

Moved and carried that the Co. Treasurer be instructed to procure one half gross covers for assessment rolls.

Moved and carried that F. P. Myers, of Boyne Valley, be appointed County Superintendent of Poor for the ensuing three years.

Moved and carried that the salaries of the County officers remain the same for the ensuing year as fixed upon for last year, and that the Chairman and Clerk issue orders quarterly for the payment of the same.

Moved and carried that the bridge question be taken from the table.

The following was offered by Mr. VanNetter as an amendment to the pending amendment.

That the county of Charlevoix raise $500 to open a road already surveyed, commencing on Clear Lake, on section 26, Township of Hudson, and running from thence to Boyne Falls.

The ayes and nays were called for on the amendment of Mr. Niles as amended by Mr. VanNetter, with the following result:

Ayes—VanNetter, Kline—2.

Nayes — Nettleton, Ward, Smith, Stroud, Robinson, Bailey, Jones, Pierce —8.

A motion being before the Board, it was moved and carried that the rules be suspended for action upon claims, and the following claims for mileage, attendance, etc., were allowed.

Ava Smith	$21 21
W. C. Niles	17 50
Hayson Hart	17 40
O. D Wood	27 52
E K Robinson	19 82
A. J. Stroud	15 60
Geo. W. Bailey	19 10
John Ward	23 30
D. C. Nettleton	16 10
D. H. Pierce	14 91
R. N. VanNetter	17 85

Moved by Mr. VanNetter that the Board indefinitely postpone the pending question.

Lost.

The ayes and nays on the original motion showed the following vote.

Ayes Nettleton, Ward, Smith, Stroud, Robinson, Bailey, Jones, Pierce—6.

Nayes—Robinson, Bailey, VanNetter, Niles, Wood—5.

Carried.

Moved by Mr Nettleton that a Committee be appointed by the Chairman with the Highway Commissioner of Charlevoix Township to make arrangements for building a bridge across Pine River, and on the certificate of said Commissioner and Committee that the bridge is completed and accepted by said Commissioner, that the County Treasurer issue bonds to the amount of $3,000 for the payment of the same.

The Chair appointed as such Committee Messrs. Nettleton and Ward.

Moved and carried that Mr. Wood be appointed to confer with the Attorney General as to the legality of the action of this Board on the bridge question.

Moved and carried that the sum of $12 be appropriated for the use of the jail.

Adjourned

O. D. WOOD, Chairman

A. B. UPRIGHT, Clerk.

John Strong of South Rockford, Wayne county this State, recently received $4,100 in cash for 122 black walnut trees the logs of which will be sent to Europe.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

FOREIGN.

ACCORDING to Lokanthy (India) dispatches of the 27th and 28th, phenomenal rains had fallen in the worst famine districts, and agriculturists were now active and cooperating rapidly. It was believed that the tide of the great famine had turned, although many would be found to yield to the disease which was inevitable, as a consequence of their previous condition.

THE radical Socialists of Paris have issued a manifesto, attacking the ad vocates of President MacMahon and the support of the Republic. The manifesto demands amnesty for the Commune, the abolition of all expenditures for public worship, the expulsion of the Jesuits, the exchange of a standing army for universal armament, the substitution of a single progressive tax for existing taxes, and the abolition of the Presidency and the Senate.

GEN. GRANT was received by the Mayor and Corporation of Sheffield, Eng., on the 30th. Various addresses were made to which the ex-President made appropriate response.

ACCORDING to a report made by Osman Pasha to the Porte, on the 26th, there had been fought at Plevna three considerable battles since Sept 12, in all of which the Turks had been successful.

SERVIA has demanded that Turkey withdraw her troops from the Servian frontier. A similar demand preceded the declaration of war last year.

GORJANSKO surrendered to the Montenegrins on the 29th.

THE Vienna papers of the 27th unite in regarding the retreat of Mehemet Ali from his advanced position to his former position on the banks of the River Lom. Military operations on both sides were greatly retarded on account of the severity of the fall rains. There was no sign of Russian attack and defeat at Plevna, but they came from constantly expected and were looked upon with skepticism.

ACCORDING to Constantinople dispatches of the 28th, snow had fallen in the Shipka Pass since the 24th, and it was likely to prevent the crossing of the Balkans.

A LARGE quantity of arms and ammunition have been seized at the Pesth (Hungary) Custom House. They were sent from England to Spring in a number of cases, and Hungary, and were consigned to prominent Magyar agitators.

LONDON dispatches of the 28th report that sickness is on alarming extent prevailed in the Russian Army before Plevna. The spirit of the men remained unchanged, with courtesy necessary for the harvesting of the crops.

ABOUT 3,000 of the striking coal-miners in the Lehigh Scranton district went to work resumed work, on the 25th, at an advance of 10 per cent upon the price paid before the strike. It was believed in Philadelphia that the strike was substantially over.

WILLIE Anderson Shifflett was being hanged at Harrisonburg, Va., on the 28th, for the murder of a man named Lawhorn, the type thinks, and the drummed man fell to the ground. He was again placed upon the scaffold after the executioners that he was innocent of the crime for which he was being executed, admitting, however, that he knew the murder was to be committed. A second rope was placed around his neck, and, after being allowed at his own request, to look once more upon the light of day, he was again swung off and died of strangulation, his neck not being broken by the fall.

PRESIDENT HAYES, on the 27th, received the Sioux and Arapahoe delegation of Indians from the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail Agencies. Several members of the cabinet were present at the interview. In their address the Indian Chiefs all expressed a desire for cattle, wagons, farm implements and schools, so that they may become civilized like the whites. All objected to being removed to the Missouri River.

A FIRE in Providence, R. I., on the 27th, destroyed several fine business blocks, causing a loss in property of about $750,000, which is largely covered by insurance.

AT Rocky Hall, Ky., on the night of the 26th, an engine attached to a train of cars on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad exploded, killing three men and seriously injuring several others. A number of race horses stockyards on hand were killed and several others were more or less injured.

TWO or the highwaymen who recently robbed the express car on the Union Pacific Railroad near Cheyenne were Wallace Kan., on the 26th, to a noose under the Rocky Mountain Detective Association. The robbers made a stand and were both killed, and $20,000 in gold was recovered.

A BAY SACK containing Government and railroad bonds, certificates of shares, mortgages and promissory notes to the value of $200,000, was taken from the First National Bank of Cortland, N. Y., on the 23d, and the loss was not discovered until several days after the theft. The stolen property belonged to private individuals.

NEWS was received at Fort Shaw, M. T., on the 24th, of an encounter between the Nez Perces and a detachment in charge of the government freight-teams, at Cow Island, on the 23d. The fight continued throughout the night, the Indians losing in the meantime having in the meantime burned about fifty tons of freight, fifty tons of which belonged to the government. Two citizens named Weimer and Walker, who took part in the fight, were seriously wounded. It was thought the hostiles were making their way to the British Possessions. Several reliable half breeds who arrived at Benton, T. T., on the 25th, report that Sitting Bull, with 1,500 warriors, was encamped at Wood Mountain on the Canada side, as late as the 18th. Several outrages on trading parties by Sitting Bull's warriors had been reported, but he repudiates the charge of having authorized them.

THE entire business portion of the Town of Putnam, Conn., with the exception of the National Bank and a newly-erected hotel, was destroyed by fire, on the morning of the 30th ult. Loss, about $300,000.

A PENSACOLA (Fla.) dispatch of the 29th ult. says that of the 1,562 inhabitants of the place 293 were sick of the yellow-fever, and 833 had been sick. Four deaths and three new cases had occurred within the previous twenty-four hours.

THE public-debt statement for September makes the following exhibit: Coin bonds outstanding, $1,717,590,550; legal-tenders, etc., $400,203,017; interest, $27,128,816; total debt, $2,228,801,183. Cash in Treasury, $178,831,098. Debt less cash in Treasury, $2,049,487,255. Decrease during September, $3,382,524.

THE coinage at the mints of the United States for the month of September was: Double eagles, $4,402,200, trade-dollars $1,670,000, half-dollars, $408,400; quarter-dollars, $240,000; dimes, $120,000. Total, $7,000,000.

A CAMP ROBINSON (Neb.) telegram of the 1st says there was a good deal of excitement among the Indians as the different agencies in regard to their removal to the Missouri, as it was considered doubtful if such removal would be accomplished without force.

ON the 30th ult., at Port Royal, S. C., there were four deaths from yellow fever.

PERSONAL.

PRESIDENT HAYES and the party accompanying him returned to Washington, on the evening of the 25th, from their Southern trip. They met with a hearty reception and cordial greeting at all points on the route through Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Virginia. The President concluded to defer his proposed visit to Richmond, Va., until October.

DR. V. A. TURPIN, a Chicago homeless man of good reputation and large means has been appointed Receiver of the surpendent Fidelity Savings Bank, of Chicago.

SYDNEY MYERS, owner and manager of the defunct Merchants', Farmers', and Mechanics' Savings Bank, of Chicago, was, on the 26th, indicted by the Grand Jury for embezzlement, and taken to jail in default of bail. The same jury also returned an indictment for the alleged embezzlement of $200,000, against the officers and managers of the late Protective Life Insurance Company—E. T. Hilliard, President; A. W. Edwards, Secretary; John Reed, Treasurer; Martin Ryan, Actuary, and L. M. Sayre, Assistant Secretary.

SIDNEY MYERS, the President of the defunct Merchants', Farmers' & Mechanics' Savings Bank, of Chicago, has been released on bail of $20,000.

COL. DAVID H. ARMSTRONG, of St. Louis, has been appointed by Gov. Phelps to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Lewis V. Bogy, of Missouri.

A DISPATCH to the Louisville Courier-Journal from Richmond (Ky.) on the 24th, speaking of the killing of Perry White mentioned in Hon. Cassius M. Clay, gives the following verdict of the Coroner's Jury: "Perry White, aged 18, died this day of a pistol-shot wound inflicted by C. M. Clay, sending, Sept. 20, 1877. Testimony being given under the oath by C. M. Clay, he being the only witness, we are constrained to justify said Clay, and believe that he did it in self-defense." It is understood that White attacked Clay because of his mother's dismissal from Clay's farm-house.

POLITICAL.

THE New-york Republican State Committee, was held at Albany, on the 24th. Wm. A. Sewell was nominated for Governor, and a platform was adopted reaffirming the National Republican platform of last year; condemning the carelessness and slackness with which President Hayes is laboring to promote reconciliation in both sections of the country and to secure the efficient and economical administration of the Government, and pledging a hearty support to every wise measure calculated to secure the lasting union and prosperity of the whole country on the basis of impartial justice and equal rights for all citizens; declaring that the resumption of specie payments, and demanding the abolition of all discriminations against the country upon the progress made towards

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
PUBLISHER.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1877.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Oct. 19, 1877.

The Pattie whale of the Aquarium, long the keenest curiosity of this city, has let his log nose put entirely out of joint. A few days ago a steamer from St. Johns drew up to a dock in the East River, and as its coming had been previously heralded by telegram, it was soon surrounded by a curious crowd who eagerly awaited development. Their curiosity however, got scant gratification, for after the cowbell unbending of a huge cask something like a sugar hogs head, which was placed on a truck and rapidly driven away, the audience grumblingly dispersed. The mysterious attraction which this cask contained, and which has dimmed the lustre of the white whale's pre eminence as a curiosity, was nothing less than a monster octopus or devil fish, a member of the Cephalous family which Victor Hugo has so graphically described. This animal, which is so unprobably horrible and utterly nightmarish in appearance that I wouldn't believe in his existence any more than in that of the sea serpent unless I had seen him with my own eyes, got caught in the rocks somewhere along the coast of Newfoundland, and having struggled himself to death was secured by some fishermen, who daring his lifetime wouldn't have risked themselves within his reach for all the gold of the Indies. After exhibiting their ghastly prize for a day or two they sold it to a showman, who shipped it southward for the purpose I believe, of placing it in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington. But our wide-awake Aquarium managers got wind of the affair, and promptly bought the thing by telegraph at an enormous price, to the intense disgust of the Smithsonian Institute.

We may well congratulate ourselves on securing this specimen, for besides being one of the largest ever taken from the sea, it is the greatest natural curiosity ever seen in this city. Barnum's "What-is-it" and the "woolly horse" to the contrary notwithstanding.

Arrived at the Aquarium the devil-fish was spread out upon the floor for examination and measurement, to which formalities only a chosen few were admitten. In appearance the creature is unlike any other living thing under the sun; but for the sake of having something in mind with which to compare it, I may say that its general plan is more like that of an enormous spider than any thing else I can think of. Its pulpy body measured nine feet in length by four in breadth and one in thickness. From this misshapen carcass stretch ten arms or tentacles, trailing, livid, snaky affairs, two of which are over twenty-four feet, and the others about ten feet in length. The eyes are the largest possessed by any known creature, each being fully eight inches in diameter and said to wear, in life, a most terrible expression. To complete the horrors of the thing its mouth is furnished with a thick curved beak like that of a parrot, with which it tears in pieces whatever prey its long waving arms encounter. These arms are furnished with numerous orifices which, the moment they touch any object, act like so many suckers and give the animal a grasp from which there is absolutely no escape except by severing the arms from the body. The dead monster will soon be placed on public exhibition.

The annual trade book sale for 1877, the opening of which I noticed two weeks ago, has closed with a larger record than any of its predecessors. Altogether, over a million volumes were disposed of, including for the first time considerable contributions from prominent European publishers.

The largest demand for any one book was for Lee & Shepard's "That Husband of Mine," the total sales of which already foot up 130,000. Just as "Helen's Babies" opened up a new and apparently exhaustless vein of literature, "That Husband of Mine" has proved the pioneer in a rich field of writing. It has set a style which everybody is following, though at a considerable distance. "That Wife of Mine," however, which the same publishers are just bringing out, promises an equal success. Another book just announced promises to be an even greater bonanza to them and to its author, and that is "They All Do It," in which Bailey, the Danbury News man, demonstrates to the reader that he has lost none of the power that has kept the whole country laughing its sides sore the past five years. 40,000 copies of this book were sold in advance of its publication.

The dramatic fraternity have this week added one more to the many recorded proofs of their warm-hearted generosity as a class. Edwin Adams, the tragedian having fallen into long sickness and pecuniary trouble, the prominent actors now in New York, headed by Sothern and W. J. Florence got up a benefit matinee for their unfortunate brother artist which netted him somewhere from seven to ten thousand dollars. This matinee which was held in the Academy of Music on Friday afternoon was one of the most remarkable performances on record. Something like one hundred members of the dramatic and musical profession took part including Sothern, Florence, John Gilbert, McKee Rankin, William Castle, S. D. Mills, Clara Morris, Letta, Aimee and a host of lesser fame. The programme comprised fourteen different pieces and lasted from one o'clock till well nigh the evening. The most prominent performance was the third act of Othello, which was given with the most extraordinary cast ever seen in this or any other country. Think of "Lord Dundreary" as Othello, "Hon. Bardwell Slote" as Iago and "Topsy" as Desdemona! And yet Sothern, Florence and Letta did actually assume these tragic roles. It was extremely rich.

Some days before the performance the boxes and best seats in the house were sold at auction. Florence and Charlie Backus of Backus' Minstrels being the auctioneers. Sothern paid $500 for one box, which he afterwards returned to be sold over again. The auction sales realized $8,500. In view of the ingrown slurs on actors as a class it may be pertinent to inquire what other profession would take hold and give time, trouble and money to help a needy member to one-tenth of this extent?

In fulfilment of the terms of his compromise with the city, Peter B. Sweeny auctioned his real estate two or three days ago. The result was eloquent testimony as to the scale on which the ring depredations were committed. Sweeny only got a small percentage of the spoils, and yet this one item of real estate just brought to the Ring realized at a ruinous sacrifice, almost $700,000.

Tweed is continuing to tell tales out of school in a way that threatens destruction to about one half of all the local politicians who were uppermost in 1871. The victims squirm vigorously and do the "injured innocent" the best they know how, but the relentless old Boss keeps bringing out letters and checks and all sorts of documentary evidence, and the wails of the persecuted keep growing louder and louder.

RADIX.

Murder will Out.

A few years ago "August Flower" was discover to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few thin Dyspepties made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by its use. The great merits of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER became heralded through the country by one sufferer to another, until, without advertising, its sale has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No person suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, low spirits, etc., can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist Geo. W. Crouter and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

Sensible Advice.

You are asked every day through the columns of newspapers and by your Druggist to use something for your Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that you know nothing about, you get discouraged spending money with but little success. Now to give you satisfactory proof that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER will cure you of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint with all its effects, such as sour stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Water-brash, Pellines at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, swimming of the head, low spirits, &c., we ask you to go to your Druggist (geo. W. Crouter), and get a Sample Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Centreville, on Hall road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

On said premises are good log house and frame barn and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Detroit. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT FYFIELD,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, and are well watered and accessible to rail roads.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health and beauty, and contiguous to the great fruit growing section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the centre of the grants.

For a part of the land in which these lands are located in

Not a Wilderness, by any Means

In addition to the above, FIVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND acres and upwards lying in the counties of Clare, Missaukee, Wexford, Osceola and Grand Traverse.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

For information apply at the office of the land commissioner in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., or address the undersigned.

Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address, W. D. HUGHART,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting Oil Cloths, Matting &c.

Those who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be furnished for approval, and on orders, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS.
Charlevoix, Aug. 1 1877. 23 tf.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER

1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT
We are supplied
With the Best
THAT THE
Wholesale Markets Afford.

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

To Sell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumcous,

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

Special Bargains

at

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LINCOMB,

JEWELER
Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and is Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. FURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery.

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for CASH or its equivilent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
AND
Solicitor in Chancery.
NOTARY PUBLIC and
Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION. We ask the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

SENTINEL.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopols

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLAD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, CIGARS, ETC.

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for TEAS, SYRUPS &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(25) (6-1-2.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5 50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$6.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, B. B. BALCH,
Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles
Lath
Cheese Box Stuff
Broom Handles
Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tugs ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which Steam Yachts of Specified Trents. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by the

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS,
(Formerly of London, England),
183 & 185 MONROE ST., CHICAGO,
And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

English Policemen.

However, our Byemoor police are a fine body of men, and never, so far as I am able to testify, mislaid their belts or lay aside their motions. They are simple, staid, a little grim in their demeanor, displaying none of that romantic gallantry, either in appearance or action, that distinguishes our own Broadway squad; though I will not assert that the sight of an ironclad or a mirror-polishing navy not sometimes go near to awaken their social instincts. Solomon's Monument, danced as well as a lame man could, and sang:

> I'm Cæsar, feels with regard to Rome,
> As Captain Banks with a rosy nose;
> I'm Napoleon Bonaparte, and many more,
> But I am not to be counted!

When he was asked by an officer to "come along," he cheerfully went. When they put him in a cell he had no objection. When they refused to give him icewater with his supper he was willing to take pumpkin pie. And when they brought him out for trial he looked at his Honor and mildly said,

"Let me down gently, fellow-man. I'm old and thin and weak, and any rough usage might bring on a fit or something."

"Old man, where is your home?" asked the Court.

"All this big world is my home, Squire."

"Where are your good clothes, money and other evidences that you are not a vagrant?"

"I'm run down, Squire. Those are my famous clothes. I'm out of cash, and I can't furnish any collateral for one square meal. You see me just as I am, and now what are your intentions to do with me? Please don't fill me with a big sentence all at once."

"Joseph Smythe, you will be better off in a brick house than on the street. In a few days more the winds will blow cold, the frosts will warp you out of shape, and orchids and crumbs won't be flying around loose. I think I'll send you up."

"Yes, yes. I knew you would from the start; but don't be too much elated at the sentence you carry."

"Well, then, I'll sentence you in six months to fifteen days' solitary confinement. Give me months, out of a possible seven, and now please sit down and rest. Remember the logues of Byemoor will know it, and if you further annoy me I shall call the police."

And yet he was her husband. Detroit Free Press.

The Rifle Victory.

Yesterday will ever be marked with a white stone among American rifle men. Their most ardent hopes of success have been far exceeded. The day before the highest point in rifle shooting had been reached by a total of 1,855 in a possible 1,800; yesterday, even that superb record was thrown into the shade by a total of 1,929. To this extraordinary result all elements contributed. The clouds that had been expended in long rains narrowly veiled the sky at intervals. The wind was slight as not to interfere with the course of the bullet, and yet sufficient to clear all vapors from the air. Our marksmen had, in addition, the great advantage of hope founded upon the previous day's good fortune, and it has long since passed into a proverb that there is nothing so successful as success.

The record upon the three targets of the Bellevue Range is already one the wonder of disciplinarians, the gloomy prophecy of foreign journals has been belied, the insolent boast of the day advanced, and crippled their later efforts. They began gallantly, and the largest score they have yet made on the Sea-yard target, and were, nevertheless, surpassed by eleven points at that range. At the next target both teams fell off nearly an equal number of points, giving the Americans an additional advantage of eighteen. Hitherto it has generally been supposed that the superiority of American shooting shows best at the longer ranges; but the boastfulness of their struggle seems to have impressed itself on the British Team at 1,000 yards, and their score at that distance fell behind the American thirty-six points. It is not a matter for surprise that the pluck of the losers gave way at last, having been so long severely strained. From a comparison of the first competitive shooting, as given by exact messages, down to the last hour of the match, they have had what yankees men call a stern chase. They deserve thanks for the courage which so long sustained them, and for the fortitude they have made, which have called forth our marksmen's finest skill.

The reward of their Captain shows that the British Team have taken their ill-fortune in noble and pleasant mood. There are various theories about the cause of their failure, such as that their bullets, expanding beyond calculation in the greater heat of our climate, stuck too closely in the barrel of the rifle. But the chief cause has no doubt been the superiority of our breech-loading rifles over their muzzle-loading guns. The score of 219 out of a possible 225, made by Mr. Bruce, yesterday, not only surpasses all previous record of rifle shooting, but indicates the range of a gun which perfection has been nearly reached. It is not at all surprising that the British Team are regarded as intending to supply themselves immediately with American breech-loading rifles. When they have practiced with these new weapons sufficiently, they will have another opportunity and a severer contest is there for our sharp-shooters. Meanwhile, we may expect to hear again repeated the assertion of a London journal, that all Americans are accustomed to the use of the rifle, even from their cradle.—N. Y. Tribune.

—Auerbach is an illustration of the truism that there is an excellence without great labor. He dictates his stories to a shorthand writer, and never allows the first draft of his manuscript to go to press. He weeds out nearly one-half of the original dictation, and the final copy delivered to the printer is entirely in his own handwriting.—N. Y. Graphic.

In the Detroit Police Court.

TENDER AND TOUCHING.

He limped. He carried a huge cane. He was old enough to be most anybody's father-in-law, and he hadn't the faintest show of cash in his pockets, yet he was jolly. He stood in front of the Solomon Monument, danced as well as a lame man could, and sang:

> The Cæsars feels with regard to Rome,
> As Captain Banks with a rosy nose;
> I'm Napoleon Bonaparte, and many more,
> But I am not to be counted!

When he was asked by an officer to "come along," he cheerfully went. When they put him in a cell he had no objection. When they refused to give him icewater with his supper he was willing to take pumpkin pie. And when they brought him out for trial he looked at his Honor and mildly said,

"Let me down gently, fellow-man. I'm old and thin and weak, and any rough usage might bring on a fit or something."

"Old man, where is your home?" asked the Court.

"All this big world is my home, Squire."

"Where are your good clothes, money and other evidences that you are not a vagrant?"

"I'm run down, Squire. Those are my famous clothes. I'm out of cash, and I can't furnish any collateral for one square meal. You see me just as I am, and now what are your intentions to do with me? Please don't fill me with a big sentence all at once."

"Joseph Smythe, you will be better off in a brick house than on the street. In a few days more the winds will blow cold, the frosts will warp you out of shape, and orchids and crumbs won't be flying around loose. I think I'll send you up."

"Yes, yes. I knew you would from the start; but don't be too much elated at the sentence you carry."

"Well, then, I'll sentence you in six months to fifteen days' solitary confinement. Give me months, out of a possible seven, and now please sit down and rest. Remember the logues of Byemoor will know it, and if you further annoy me I shall call the police."

And yet he was her husband. Detroit Free Press.

The Rifle Victory.

Yesterday will ever be marked with a white stone among American rifle men. Their most ardent hopes of success have been far exceeded. The day before the highest point in rifle shooting had been reached by a total of 1,855 in a possible 1,800; yesterday, even that superb record was thrown into the shade by a total of 1,929. To this extraordinary result all elements contributed. The clouds that had been expended in long rains narrowly veiled the sky at intervals. The wind was slight as not to interfere with the course of the bullet, and yet sufficient to clear all vapors from the air. Our marksmen had, in addition, the great advantage of hope founded upon the previous day's good fortune, and it has long since passed into a proverb that there is nothing so successful as success.

The record upon the three targets of the Bellevue Range is already one the wonder of disciplinarians, the gloomy prophecy of foreign journals has been belied, the insolent boast of the day advanced, and crippled their later efforts. They began gallantly, and the largest score they have yet made on the Sea-yard target, and were, nevertheless, surpassed by eleven points at that range. At the next target both teams fell off nearly an equal number of points, giving the Americans an additional advantage of eighteen. Hitherto it has generally been supposed that the superiority of American shooting shows best at the longer ranges; but the boastfulness of their struggle seems to have impressed itself on the British Team at 1,000 yards, and their score at that distance fell behind the American thirty-six points. It is not a matter for surprise that the pluck of the losers gave way at last, having been so long severely strained. From a comparison of the first competitive shooting, as given by exact messages, down to the last hour of the match, they have had what yankees men call a stern chase. They deserve thanks for the courage which so long sustained them, and for the fortitude they have made, which have called forth our marksmen's finest skill.

The reward of their Captain shows that the British Team have taken their ill-fortune in noble and pleasant mood. There are various theories about the cause of their failure, such as that their bullets, expanding beyond calculation in the greater heat of our climate, stuck too closely in the barrel of the rifle. But the chief cause has no doubt been the superiority of our breech-loading rifles over their muzzle-loading guns. The score of 219 out of a possible 225, made by Mr. Bruce, yesterday, not only surpasses all previous record of rifle shooting, but indicates the range of a gun which perfection has been nearly reached. It is not at all surprising that the British Team are regarded as intending to supply themselves immediately with American breech-loading rifles. When they have practiced with these new weapons sufficiently, they will have another opportunity and a severer contest is there for our sharp-shooters. Meanwhile, we may expect to hear again repeated the assertion of a London journal, that all Americans are accustomed to the use of the rifle, even from their cradle.—N. Y. Tribune.

—Auerbach is an illustration of the truism that there is an excellence without great labor. He dictates his stories to a shorthand writer, and never allows the first draft of his manuscript to go to press. He weeds out nearly one-half of the original dictation, and the final copy delivered to the printer is entirely in his own handwriting.—N. Y. Graphic.

"I won't be till a week from now, recollect, no matter what appearances may seem to say to it!" *Julian Hawthorne, in Appleton's Journal for October

The last of the [illegible] of Michigan [illegible] at Grand Rapids last week took the initiative step in the scheme to make Charlevoix the summer resort of the ecclesiastical laity of that denomination. Early in the season the matter was talked over, and a special committee appointed to consider the proposition made by the Charlevoix people to give them 56 acres of the Stockton farm. The committee reported that in their judgment the convention could not assume such a trust, but asked an expression as to the desirableness of a special organization for that purpose, and upon their recommendation a committee was appointed to take the steps necessary to call a permanent convention. This committee will probably act in conjunction with one from the Indiana Baptists. Rev. H. C. Seeley, of this county, was present, and gave much information relative to the land offered, and the surroundings. He said many others were anxiously awaiting the action of the Baptists here.

LATER.

The Grand Rapids Eagle has received a letter from the committee appointed by the Convention, submitting contemplated plans, and a detailed statement of the proposition, with a view to a decision at the next convention. Yesterday morning a golden opportunity was lost, and a special committee appointed consisting of Messrs. Carpenter, Felch and Cooper, and the matter will soon be closed up.

The Republicans elected the Sheriff of Iosco county. Charlevoix to choose from, as they do most of their county officers, a county democratic by over one hundred majority.—Traverse Bay Eagle.

The Eagle is noted for its correct statistical power as known to rectify them. The error is easily made. The revenue is the cost. The Convention very properly decided that they were not legally empowered to accept of such a trust, but recommended that such steps be taken independent of that body as would make the Charlevoix Baptist Retreat a reality.

BUNGOM HERO.—William Roberts was a mate of a sailing vessel, the E. M. Stanton. He is accused of assaulting one of the crew of that vessel with intent to kill him, while on the "high seas" of our inland waters, on the 22nd of August last. If the Eagle is correctly informed, he tried to cut the man down with an ax while the vessel was in Little Traverse Bay, near Bay View, as stated in the Eagle of August 29th last, and wounded him severely. The vessel went into port at Kenosha, Wis., and there Roberts was arrested by U. S. officers after the injured man had made complaint against him. Investigation of the case followed, and the authorities decided that the case properly belonged to this, the Western District of Michigan, and so sent the accused here. He arrived yesterday in custody of Deputy Marshal Simpson, of the Eastern District of Wisconsin, and was turned over to U. S. Marshal Parker. He is in jail awaiting the action of the U. S. Court.—Grand Rapids Eagle.

New goods at See & Washburn's this week. Call and examine.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The Grand Lodge of Good Templars held its annual session at Kalamazoo last week. Grand Secretary John L. Evans made his report, which shows that the enumerate lodges are in a healthy in a prosperous condition. During the past year 14 lodges have been established, and the order now has flourishing lodges in 59 different counties in the State, with an aggregate membership of 10,000.

The message of the President is short and merely recommends such appropriations as are deemed necessary for the immediate wants of the government. Comments on matters of general policy are deferred by the President until the regular meeting of Congress in December.

Otsego county has five supervisors, and there is a county seat quarrel going on. Three of the supervisors are in session at Gaylord and three at Otsego Lake, and each trio is having a nice fifth session of its own.

There are five lines of telephones now in successful operation in New York city.

"I will go back to St. Petersburg either dead or victorious," said the Czar. Why didn't he have some style about and say "Bulgaria shall be preserved or Maria Alexandrovna Montalevith will be a widow some day."

A good assortment of every thing at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

The Chicago Journal truthfully and very pertinently says: One thing is becoming continually more evident, and that is that, whatever, may be thought of the President's Southern policy of pacification, his new civil service order, which effectually ties the hands and closes the months of those Republicans who happen to hold offices by Government appointment, is a blunder. While its effect is not reformatory upon the civil service, yet it manifestly works weakness to the Republican organization, which the President and his Administration can hardly afford to dam age, even by a mistake of policy.

A good assortment of dry goods groceries boots and shoes and crockery on hand at See & Washburn's.

It is estimated that the Russians have over 100,000 sick and wounded soldiers in hospitals. Twenty five thousand sick soldiers arrived at Odessa one day recently.

NOTICE.—Came into my inclosure on the morning of Aug. 7th, one bay mare pony about two years old. Owner please prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

A. HAYDEN,
Township of Hayes, Mich

The grass crop of the United States this autumn is a vast increase over that of any preceding year in the history of the country. It amounts in the two principal cereals—wheat and corn—to 825,000,000 bushels of the former, and 1,200,000,000 of the latter, according to the careful estimates of Mr. Walker, the statistician of the New York Produce Exchange. The movement of this enormous crop has just begun to be felt, as up to the past two months the exportations were of last year's crop. But the sudden increase already noted gives good promise of a golden future.

It is said by Michigan Congressmen that Senator Christiancy was tendered the Judgeship of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, and declined it.

REMEMBER,

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH.

Lumber Yard

THE undersigned will keep on hand a full supply of SHINGLES and lumber, and do well to furnish parties in Antrim, Johnson Lake, Bear Lake or near either.

PROMPT PAY.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits and Domestically sealed Goods.

68, 70, 72 Jefferson Avenue,

DETROIT, MICH.

(ly&tc.)

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I have prepared to attend to all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

in short notice. All kinds of patterns [illegible] to order.

MRS. W. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE

In Exeline.

Lot being the South half of Quarter on section [illegible] in Township [illegible] North of Range [illegible] West, containing [illegible] acres, more or less, with good [illegible] on it. Also [illegible] Orchard [illegible] in [illegible] cultivation and [illegible] acres [illegible] timber. Two miles and a half [illegible].

Charles Keller.

Address Mich.

FARM FOR SALE

IN

SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 29, Town 32 North 8 East, South West, 80 acres [illegible] acres improvements, 200 fruit trees, 50 bushels of apples last year. Will be sold [illegible]

Inquire of

[illegible]

124 Rapids

Mich.

W. W. CAMPBELL. C. E. RASSELL.

CAMPBELL & RASSELL,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.,

ROOM NO. 14, MARINE BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

SEASON ARRANGEMENT.

The Fast Steamer

JENNIE SUTTON

CAPT. HENRY ALDRICH, Master.

Will run as follows during the season of navigation of 1877:

Will leave Charlevoix at 8:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for Bear Lake and return.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Pine Lake and return.

Can be chartered for excursions by applying to Dexter & Noble, Elk Rapids, or to Captain on board.

DEXTER & NOBLE.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Boston, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS.

Charlevoix, Aug. 7 1877. 27 tf.

Legal.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the seventh day of November A. D. 1876 by Adolph Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Norris J. Stockman of said county and state, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876 at 2 o'clock p. m. in Liber "Two" of Mortgages on page 121, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, and the attorney or the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted:

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principal, interest, costs and an Attorney fee of Thirty dollars, as provided for in said mortgage will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the township of Charlevoix, that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county within which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and are known and described as follows, to-wit:—The North-west quarter of the North east quarter of Section Twenty (20), in Town ship Thirty three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to the United States Survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.

E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.

(Dec13dec) Printer's fee, $17.15.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office.
Traverse City Mich., Sept. 6, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Louis Hosmer against George Pope, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 7121, dated Jan. 3 1877, upon the S½ of Section 32, Township 32 North, Range 5 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Oct., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office.
Traverse City, Mich., July 30, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Samuel B. Wade, against Hardin Smith for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5766, dated Sept. 16, 1875, upon the east Section 36, Township 32 North, Range 5 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 31 day of Oct., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

LAW

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm

AND

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent.
Charlevoix Mich.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY,

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on applications orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

Legal.

Notice.

To the Residents of the township of Evangeline. Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Board of supervisors of the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at their next annual meeting, to be held at the Court House, in the Village of Charlevoix, on Monday the 8th day of October A. D. 1877, to detach from the present township known as the Evangeline the territory herein described. To wit, Town thirty three (33) North of Range five (5) West Meridian Michigan in said County and State and erect the same into a town township to be known and designated as the township of Melrose.

Melrose.	Evangeline.
James A. Hoskins	James T. Eggs
John T. Collins	Clark A. Hall
J. S. Hamilton	Leonard W. Hall
Alfred B. Jones	Daniel A. Palmer
Alfred B. Jones	Jerome B. Peter
Louis Stein	George H. Griffin
John E. Barrah	John Miller
Isaiah W. Austin	Andrew J. Hall
Richard Packet	J. Thompson.
John Jones	Frank Brandsby.
Andrew Mitchell	George B. Thompson.
William Long

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.

Peter Tegoah, Complainant,
vs
Robert Adlem and Mary S. Adlem defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the office of said Charlevoix in, said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause, it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin the counties of [illegible] Milo Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non residents, Robert Adlem and Mary S. Adlem be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-residents. And it is further ordered that within twenty days after such cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that before such copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

JULIUS EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
12 6w.

NOTICE U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by L. Spencer Benham against Eli Perry, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7233, dated Oct 15, 1875, upon the nw ¼ Section 32, Township 34 North, Range 9 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

PETER C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5665, dated April 15, 1876, upon the east of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summonsed to appear at this office on the 30th day of Oct., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. LAND OFFICE.
Traverse City Mich. Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Kelsick A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6383, dated Oct. 5, 1874, upon the SE¼ of NE¼ and E½ of NE¼ Section 6, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 31st day of Nov 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Ross & Buttars' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 27 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., OCT. 30. 1877. Whole No. 442

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building

On Michigan Street

Terms of Subscription

$1.50 per Annum, In Advance,

or $2 IN 6 MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

[illegible]

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Conveyancer, Etc.

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. ROUSE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. [illegible]

E. [illegible]

ROBERT MILLER, Circuit Court Commissioner, Charlevoix, Mich. Deeds executed, acknowledged and taken promptly and carefully. Office at residence, Mich.

A. [illegible]

Mansell Lovell,

LAWYER AND NOTARY,

Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,

[illegible]

The Campbell House,

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.

H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. FAILTHORN,

Attorney and Counselor at Law

[illegible]

S. J. FARMER,

[illegible]

ROOT AND SHOE MAKER.

[illegible]

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

In the most approved styles. Have also on hand of latest styles, to be found at my residence on Main street.

LADIES HATS

EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Drugs and Medicines

Stationery & Confectionery

AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store.

Because we employ no [illegible] we can afford to sell cheaper than any other house in the county. Prescriptions carefully compounded at all hours of the day or night.

Trade Extension Without Fuss

New Advertisements.

LOOK!

The largest and best assorted stock of

STOVES,

Hardware & Tinware

To be found together at any one store in the county.

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

[illegible]

New Advertisements. [illegible]

County Directory. [illegible]

Business Directory. [illegible]

Local News. [illegible]

Charlevoix Postoffice. [illegible]

THE SENTINEL. [illegible]

COUNTY FINANCES.

The County Treasurer's Annual Report.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix:

I hereby hand you my report for the year ending October 8th, 1877.

Respectfully, BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, in account with Charlevoix County. Dr.

1876.
Oct 13	To cash on hand	$441 86
	" balance p. [illegible]	33 54
	" [illegible]	19 95
	" [illegible]	9 00
Nov 6	" [illegible]	9 14
	" [illegible]	1,200 00
	" [illegible]	[illegible]
1877.
Feb 1	" [illegible]	9 61
28	" brass [illegible]	200 00
	" [illegible]	40 00
12	" [illegible]	19 27
	" [illegible] certificate	8 00
	" [illegible] Bayview	30 00
	" [illegible]	200 00
	" [illegible]	12 00
	" [illegible]	9 44
	" [illegible]	9 00
	" [illegible]	90
Aug 17	" [illegible]	60 00
21	" [illegible]	1 00
25	" [illegible]	1 00
	" [illegible]	[illegible]
	" [illegible]	[illegible]
	" [illegible]	125 00

	County Tax
Oct 13	To [illegible]	[illegible]
	" [illegible]	85
	" [illegible]	[illegible]
	" [illegible]	14 25
	" [illegible]	1,000 00
	" [illegible]	12
	" [illegible]	40
	" [illegible]	24
	" [illegible]	49
	" [illegible]	20
	" [illegible]	16 00
	" [illegible]	9 00
	" [illegible]	90
	" [illegible]	7 00
	" [illegible]	12 00
	" [illegible]	12

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

THE SENATE was called to order at twelve o'clock on the 15th, with very few absentees. After the calling of the roll, Messrs. Stanley Matthews, Don Cameron and D. H. Armstrong were sworn in. The credentials of Mr. Spofford, of Louisiana, were not presented. A motion was agreed to that the committee-room as at present constituted for a few days. The Senators absent were Messrs. Morton, Mc-Millan and Stanton. The House was called to order at twelve o'clock by Clerk Adams, and the Presidents proclamation convening Congress was read. The roll was called. When Tennessee was reached the Clerk stated that the credentials signed by him, Nicholas relative to the membership from the First, Fourth and Sixth Districts were the only ones presented by parties claiming the seats which were regular and legal in form, and the Clerk had therefore placed on the roll the names of the persons contained in them. The Clerk stated that no certificates had been received from the Third Missouri District. As to the First and Second Districts of Florida, the Clerk had received two sets of certificates, one from Horatio Stearns and the other signed by Gov. Drew. Both were certifying to the election of Messrs. Purman and Bisbee, and the second to the election of Messrs. Davidson and Finley; he deemed the claims of Messrs. Davidson and Finley the best, and Bisbee, from the Senate, to be regular in form, and had, therefore, placed their names on the roll. With reference to Colorado, the Clerk stated that the certificate presented by the Governor of that State showed that he was elected at a time not authorized by law, and

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A SMITH.
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, - 1877

OUR RADWAY LETTER.

New York, Oct 19, 1877.

I was engaged last week in writing a circular about Wm. C. Ogden, the wealthy merchant who failed for $2,000,000 a few days ago, when I received a letter from Radway & Co., requesting me to call at their office and see a gentleman who had been cured by their Ready Relief. I did so, and found Mr. Ogden there. He told me that he had been afflicted with Rheumatism for years, and had been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians in the country, but had received no benefit from any of them. He had been induced to try Radway's Ready Relief, and after using a few bottles was entirely cured. He said that he had been in the habit of spending $5,000 a year for medicine, but that he had not spent a dollar for that purpose since he commenced using Radway's Ready Relief. He also said that he had been in the habit of paying his household expenses were $50,000 a year, and that the building in one of his houses cost nearly $20,000. Another that he lost $600,000 in two years running the Metropolitan Hotel. I visited his other house and found it a splendid mansion, fitted up in the most costly manner. Mr. Ogden is a perfect wreck of his former self. His great wealth of Queen's Arsenic Flower became heralded through the country by one sufferer to another, until, without advertising its sale has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No person suffering with sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Low spirits, etc., can take these pills without relief. Go to your Druggist and get a box of Dr. W. Radway's Pills and try it. Price only 25 cents per box. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

[illegible] miles east of Charlevoix, on the road

Known as the Cooper Farm,

Has about [illegible] acres improved, good log house and [illegible] barn, and water supplied. Will trade for [illegible] property in Charlevoix. Title perfect, and a bargain to be had. Inquire of proprietor.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR,
Evanston, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

OF

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

[illegible] with loans and [illegible] of the [illegible] of Jr. roads. Interest and [illegible]

WATER AND RAIL.

[illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Senate.

Republicans in roman; Democrats in small caps.

ALABAMA.
1879. Geo. E. Spencer. 1881. Enoch K. Brere.
1883. John T. Morgan. 1883. Jo. C. C. Lamar.

ARKANSAS.
1879. S. W. Dorsey. 1879. D. H. Armstrong.
1885. A. H. Garland. 1885. P. K. Dickerson.

CALIFORNIA.
1879. Aaron A. Sargent. 1879. F. Wellington.
1881. Newton Booth. 1885. John F. Miller.

COLORADO.
1879. Jerome Chaffee. 1879. Henry M. Teller.

CONNECTICUT.
1879. W. H. Hamilton. 1879. Eugene Hawley.
1881. Wm. W. Eaton. 1881. Francis Kernan.

DELAWARE.
1879. Thos. F. Bayard. 1881. A. S. Paddock.
1881. Eli Saulsbury. 1885. Alvin Saunders.

FLORIDA.
1881. S. B. Conover. 1879. John P. Jones.

GEORGIA.
1881. Charles W. Jones. 1881. Wilson Sharon.
1883. John B. Gordon. 1879. A. S. Merrimon.
1883. Benj. H. Hill. 1883. Mat. W. Ransom.

ILLINOIS.
1879. B. J. D. Dowdy. 1879. Stanley Matthews.
1883. David Davis. 1881. A. G. Thurman.

INDIANA.
1879. Thomas F. Morton. 1879. John H. Mcdonell.
1881. J. E. McDonald. 1881. Daniel W. Voorhees.

IOWA.
1873. Wm. Allison. 1881. James W. Grimes.
1883. S. J. Kirkwood. 1881. Wm. A. Wallace.

KANSAS.
1873. John J. Ingalls. 1881. A. L. Bridgman.
1883. Preston B. Plumb. 1883. H. L. Ashenfelter.

KENTUCKY.
1873. John S. Williams. 1879. J. C. S. Blackburn.
1883. James B. Beck. 1883. T. C. Todd.

LOUISIANA.
1879. Wade Hampton. 1881. James E. Boffet.
1883. Wm. P. Kellogg. 1883. Randall L. Gibson.

MAINE.
1879. Hannibal Hamlin. 1881. Hiram Blaine.
1881. James G. Blaine. 1883. Richard Cobb.

MARYLAND.
1879. Geo. R. Dennis. 1879. Josiah A. Stonfil.
1881. Wm. P. Whyte. 1881. Jno. Lee Edmunds.

MASSACHUSETTS.
1881. George F. Hoar. 1881. Rob't C. Withrop.
1883. George L. Boar. 1883. Henry L. Dawes.

MICHIGAN.
1881. Thos. W. Ferry. 1881. Frank Hedderd.
1883. Thomas W. Ferry. 1883. Henry M. Davis.

MINNESOTA.
1881. Wm. Windom. 1879. Alex. G. Rice.
1883. Wm. Windom. 1881. Angus Cameron.

House of Representatives.

Following is the list of the Members of the new House of Representatives as presented to Clerk Adams. Republicans are in small caps and Democrats in roman. Here being 139 of the former and 152 of the latter, with no successor to fill for Colorado and the District of Columbia.

MAINE.
1. Thos. B. Reed. 3. Llewellyn Powers.
2. Wm. P. Frye. 4. Eugene Hale.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.
1. Frank Jones. 2. Henry W. Blair.

VERMONT.
1. Dan. R. Joyce. 3. Geo. W. Hendee.
2. D. C. Denison.

MASSACHUSETTS.
1. Wm. R. Crapo. 7. B. F. Butler.
2. Dan. W. Rice. 8. Wm. Gaston.
3. W. A. Field. 9. Wm. W. Rice.
4. Leopold Morse. 10. Julius H. Seelye.
5. N. P. Banks. 11. Geo. D. Robinson.
6. Otis P. Lord.

RHODE ISLAND.
1. Benj. T. Eames. 2. Latimer W. Ballou.

CONNECTICUT.
1. George M. Landers. 3. John T. Watt.
2. James Phelps. 4. Levi Warner.

NEW YORK.
1. James W. Covert. 18. A. Williams.
2. William H. Weaver. 19. R. E. Fitch.
3. R. H. Cruttenden. 20. John B. Stahl.
4. Archibald H. Bliss. 21. Geo. West.
5. Nicholas Muller. 22. Geo. A. Bagley.
6. Samuel S. Cox. 23. Jno. H. Ketcham.
7. Anthony Eickhoff. 24. Wm. H. Baker.
8. Alexander McCue. 25. Frank Hiscock.
9. Fernando Wood. 26. John H. Camp.
10. Abram S. Hewitt. 27. Wm. J. Bacon.
11. Benj. A. Willis. 28. J. W. Bryant.
12. Clarkson N. Potter. 29. Jno. Ryckman.
13. John B. Kelleher. 30. E. Kirke Hart.
14. Jno. H. Reagan. 31. H. Bentley.
15. R. L. Maybam. 32. D. N. Lockwood.
16. Hermon J. Quinn. 33. G. W. Patterson.
17. M. I. Townsend.

NEW JERSEY.
1. C. H. Sinnickson. 5. Augustus W. Cutler.
2. John Howard Teese. 6. Robert Hamilton.
3. Miles Ross. 7. A. A. Hardenbergh.
4. Alvah A. Clark.

PENNSYLVANIA.
1. Chapman Freeman. 15. Ed. Overton, Jr.
2. Charles O'Neill. 16. Geo. A. Post.
3. Samuel J. Randall. 17. J. M. Campbell.
4. Wm. D. Kelley. 18. Wilson C. Metzger.
5. Alfred D. Harner. 19. Levi Maish.
6. William Ward. 20. Levi A. Mackey.
7. J. Newton Evans. 21. Jacob Turney.
8. Homer D. Jones. 22. Lowell Thierry.
9. A. Herr Smith. 23. Thomas M. Bayne.
10. Sam'l A. Bridges. 24. Wm. Mutchler.
11. Francis D. Collins. 25. [illegible]
12. Hendrick B. Wright. 26. Hiram White.
13. James H. Reilly. 27. John M. Thompson
14. John W. Killinger. 28. Lewis S. Watson.

DELAWARE.
1. James Williams.

MARYLAND.
1. Dan M. Henry. 4. Thomas Swann.
2. Charles B. Roberts. 5. Eli J. Henkle.
3. William Kimmel. 6. William Walsh.

VIRGINIA.
1. H. H. Douglas. 7. John R. Tucker.
2. John Goode, Jr. 8. John T. Harris.
3. Henry Heiner Walker. 9. Eppa Hunton.
4. Joseph Jorgenson. 10. R. T. Prideomore.
5. George C. Cabell.

NORTH CAROLINA.
1. Jesse J. Yeates. 5. Alfred M. Scales.
2. Orlando H. Dockery. 6. William L. Steele.
3. Alfred E. Rodwell. 7. William M. Robbins.
4. Joseph J. Davis. 8. Robert B. Vance.

SOUTH CAROLINA.
1. Joseph D. Hammett. 3. John H. Evans.
2. Richard H. Cain. 4. Robert Smalze.
3. D. Wyatt Aiken.

GEORGIA.
1. Julian Hartridge. 5. James H. Blount.
2. William E. Smith. 7. William H. Felton.
3. Philip Cook. 8. Jack. R. Sheffield.
4. Henry R. Harris. 9. Hiram P. Bell.
5. Milton A. Candler.

ALABAMA.
1. James Taylor Jones. 5. Robert D. Logan.
2. Hilary A. Herbert. 6. H. W. Hewitt.
3. Jere N. Williams. 7. William H. Forney.
4. Charles H. Shelley. 8. William W. Garth.

MISSISSIPPI.
1. H. L. Muldrow. 4. H. B. Singleton.
2. Van H. Manning. 5. Charles E. Hooker.
3. H. P. Money. 6. J. R. Chalmers.

LOUISIANA.
1. Randall L. Gibson. 3. P. B. Elam.
2. E. John Ellis. 4. J. E. Leonard.
3. C. E. Nash.

OHIO.
1. Milton Sayler. 11. Henry S. Neal.
2. Henry B. Banning. 12. Thomas Ewing.
3. Milan D. Gardner. 13. Rezin A. Beaman.
4. John A. McMahon. 14. Ellsworth R. Finley.
5. Americus V. Rice. 15. R. M. Wilcox.
6. Jacob D. Cox. 16. Lorenzo Danford.
7. J. H. Jockey. 17. Martin A. Foran.
8. John Warren Keifer. 18. James Monroe.
9. Richard A. Harmer. 19. John S. Gabfield.
10. Charles Foster. 20. Asher Townsend.

KENTUCKY.
1. Andrew R. Boone. 6. John G. Carlisle.
2. James A. McKenzie. 7. Jo. C. S. Blackburn.
3. John W. Caldwell. 8. Milton J. Durham.
4. J. Proctor Knott. 9. Thomas Turner.
5. Albert S. White. 10. John B. Clarke.

TENNESSEE.
1. James H. Randolph. 5. John F. House.
2. E. H. Dunnington. 6. W. C. Whitthorne.
3. Dregg C. Dibrell. 7. Jo. D. C. Atkins.
4. D. W. Voorhis. 8. W. P. Caldwell.
9. John M. Bright. 10. H. Casey Young.

ILLINOIS.
1. Wm. Aldrich. 11. Robert W. Knapp.
2. Carter H. Harrison. 12. Wm. M. Springer.
3. Lorenz Brentano. 13. Thos. F. Tipton.
4. Wm. Lathrop. 14. J. C. Cannon.
5. H. C. Burchard. 15. John L. Jones.
6. E. C. Hinrichsen. 16. Wm. A. J. Sparks.
7. Philip C. Hayes. 17. Wm. R. Morrison.
8. Jno. R. Eden. 18. William Hartzell.
9. Jno. A. Rood. 19. Jo. W. Townshend.
10. R. R. Hitt.

MICHIGAN.
1. Alpheus S. Williams. 6. Mark S. Brewer.
2. Edwin Willits. 7. Omar D. Conger.
3. Jonas H. McGowan. 8. C. C. Ellsworth.
4. Byron M. Cutcheon. 9. Jay A. Hubbell.
5. John W. Stone.

ARKANSAS.
1. Lucien C. Gause. 3. Jordan E. Cravens.
2. William F. Slemons. 4. Thomas M. Gunter.

TEXAS.
1. John H. Reagan. 4. R. Q. Mills.
2. H. B. Culberson. 5. R. C. Giddings.
3. J. W. Throckmorton. 6. Gustave Schleicher.

IOWA.
1. Jonathan C. Stone. 5. Ezekiel S. Sampson.
2. Hiram Price. 6. M. J. P. Cummings.
3. Thos. W. Bedford. 7. William F. Sapp.
4. Nathl. C. Deering. 8. Addison Oliver.

CALIFORNIA.
1. Horace Davis. 3. John K. Luttrell.
2. H. F. Page. 4. H. Pacheco.

MINNESOTA.
1. Mark H. Dunnell. 3. J. B. Stewart.
2. Robert B. Smart.

INDIANA.
1. Reuben S. Fuller. 8. Morton C. Hunter.
2. Thos. D. Cobb. 9. Milton D. Whitt.
3. Geo. A. Bicknell. 10. Wm. H. Calkins.
4. Lucien Barbour. 11. Jas. L. Evans.
5. Jno. M. Berry. 12. R. Hamilton.
6. Milton S. Robinson. 13. Jno. H. Baker.
7. Jno. Hanna.

MISSOURI.
1. Anthony Ittner. 7. P. P. Crittenden.
2. Nathan Cole. 8. R. J. Franklin.
3. Edward Mcvaley. 9. Richard Graham. contest, neither on 10. Hiram W. Pottle.
the 4th. 11. John B. Clark, Jr.
4. Robert A. Hatcher. 12. John M. Glover.
5. Richard H. Reed. 13. Aylett H. Buckner.
6. Charles H. Morgan.

WISCONSIN.
1. Chas. H. Williams. 5. Edward S. Bragg.
2. Lucien B. Caswell. 6. Harrison Ludington.
3. Geo. C. Hazelton. 7. H. L. Humphrey.
4. William Pitt Lynde. 8. Thad. T. Young.

FLORIDA.
1. H. H. M. Davidson. 2. Horatio Bisbee, Jr.

OREGON.
1. Richard Williams. 2. Thomas Hyan.

KANSAS.
1. Wm. A. Phillips. 3. Thomas Ryan.
2. Dudley C. Haskell.

WEST VIRGINIA.
1. Benjamin Wilson. 3. John E. Kenna.
2. Benj. H. Smith.

NEVADA.
1. Thomas Wren.

NEBRASKA.
1. Frank Welch.

COLORADO.
Neither Belford nor Thompson on roll.

DELEGATES.

NEW MEXICO.
Trinidad Romero.

UTAH.
George Q. Cannon.

WASHINGTON.
Orange Jacobs.

DAKOTA.
Jefferson P. Kidder.

ARIZONA.
Hiram S. Stevens.

IDAHO.
Stephen S. Fenn.

MONTANA.
Martin Maginnis.

WYOMING.
William C. Corbett.

GEN. MILES' VICTORY.

Detailed Account of the Three Days' Fight With the Nez Perces—The Subsequent Surrender of Chief Joseph and His Followers.

The Chicago Times of the 10th publishes the following special telegram from Fort Benton, Mont., Oct. 6, giving a detailed account of the three days' fight between Gen. Miles' command and the Nez Perces Indians at Bear Paw:

After leaving the mouth of the Musselshell, Gen. Miles marched night and day in the hope of overtaking the hostile band before it reached the Canadian line, and finally came upon the trail on the east bank of Snake Creek, on the afternoon of the 29th ult. He followed the trail below the night, and took up his line of march early on the following morning. The advance scouts soon after reported the main camp in a ravine on the Snake Creek, about eight miles from its mouth, where it empties into the Milk River. The three companies which were in advance moved forward at a trot, and when the village came in view were ordered to discharge. The companies advanced at a gallop, Capt. Dutch Hale's company leading. The Indians were aware of their approach, and at a distance of 300 yards sent in a galling fire, causing a number of empty saddles. Capt. Hale, in charge of the troops, received a ball in the left shoulder, and immediately after was struck in the abdomen. His other officer, Second Lieut. James A. Riddle, was killed almost at the same instant. The Indians who were firing upon the advancing troops were protected by a bank twenty feet high, upon which and behind which the cautious warriors could to dismount and advance on foot. There was no hesitation on the part of the men, and they scrambled down the bank to engage in a hand-to-hand combat. The Indians retired shortly, and not till after a deadly fire played upon the dismounted troops. The Indians finally made a stand, and by a well-directed effort greeted the troops very closely, and the advantage turned in their favor.

While this sharp engagement was taking place, one company of the Fifth Infantry, which had been sent to their support, rushed through the scouts on the left, stood and delivered a straggling volley into the ranks of the Indians, and caused them to stampede and retire to their camp, located in a narrow gulch and facing the stream. The three companies of the Seventh came out of the fight with a loss of two officers killed, two wounded, and a loss of forty-four men killed and wounded. As the fire of the savages slackened the troops succeeded in getting under cover, and, throwing up hasty breastworks, were comparatively safe from the bullets of the enemy. The wounded were placed behind the earthworks, and pits were dug for them for greater safety, as it would have been impossible to have removed them with in range of the guns of the Nez Perces.

When the companies of the Seventh dashed down the ravine a commotion was observed in the Indian camp, and a party of forty warriors were observed urging the large herd of ponies down the ravine. The movement was observed by Gen. Miles, and the three companies of the Second Cavalry, under command of Capt. Tyler, were sent down the stream to intercept them and secure the herd. They went at a hard gallop for three miles, and succeeded in cutting out the larger portion of the herd after a short contest with the Indians. One of the companies pressed closely on the rear of the herd, and compiled their recovery on the redskins. The other two companies rode for the head of the herd, and finally succeeded in turning their lead. The Indians, when closely pressed, abandoned the main herd and with a few of their ponies escaped. They then made short stabs at their pursuers without any effect.

This detachment of cavalry, after detailing a strong guard upon the 700 captured ponies, returned to the stream, driving back some of the straggling Nez Perces, but encountered no large forces, and, when within range of the Indian camp, dismounted, and, after skirmishing through the woods, took up a position at the north of the camp, and, throwing up proper defenses, settled down to the siege. By a rapid deployment, Gen. Miles succeeded in placing the companies of the Fifth Infantry on either side of the camp, and it was surrounded. The infantry fought for close quarters, and threw up defensive lines within sight of the Indian village, and kept closing in until they could see the blue smoke curling from the rifle pits.

The entire movement on the part of the Indians was well executed, and, but for the terrible slaughter of the companies of the Seventh Cavalry, which was unforeseen and could scarcely have been guarded against, was well planned and splendidly carried out. From the moment when the first attack was made, the scene in the Indian village was one of the greatest confusion. After the first shock, a definite plan of action appeared to have been decided upon, and after the escape of the party of young bucks with the ponies, there was nothing to indicate a stampede. The same bold of warriors who first showed recklessness to the advance of the Seventh Cavalry remained behind some high ground at the mouth of the gulch, and delivered a steady and murderous fire at the advancing columns. The main body of the braves, with the squaws and children, were encamped in the background, bivouacking around two rifle pits. These ranged along the gulch, and were thrown up with marvelous rapidity. Several holes were dug in the ground, in which were placed the squaws and children for their better protection. By the time the troops were in position to prosecute the siege, the Indians had made further defensive preparations, and could not easily be assailed.

During the day an incessant fire was maintained by the troops, closing gradually in upon the savages. The troops, although greatly fatigued, kept up a steady fire without any apparent result toward evening, when a white flag was raised from one of the Indian rifle pits, and ball followed, and eager eyes watched the scene, anxious for the meeting of the truce. Soon afterward a warrior in full war costume was seen to leave the intrenchments and advance within the lines. He was at once thrown himself, and, brandishing for Gen. Miles' head-quarters, where, on the ground, he remained on his black pony in the rear of the lines. He stated that he desired to surrender, and offered to turn over all his arms and ammunition and other property in charge of Gen. Miles. While he was in consultation with Gen. Miles, Lieut. Jerome was seen within the Indian lines with his field glasses, and the strength of the savages and any of the peculiarities of their defenses. Lieut. Jerome, an officer supposed among the hostiles he was seized in some of the earlier battles with the Nez Perces, and by the exercising a storm of shot and snow like in the forest of the already overladened ponies by the Indians, throwing their blankets and heavy clothing had been left with the regards in their rear, and the night passed miserably. Many of the men, worn out by the terrible marches and loss of sleep, lay in the rifle pits unconscious of the roar of battle kerly going on almost over them.

At an early hour in the morning Gen. Miles succeeded in having two cannon, which had been delayed with the wagon train, brought up and placed in position commanding the gulch. The was a breech-loading rifled cannon, throwing a four-pound shot, which was taken on the pack-mules with the wagon train, and a twelve-pounder, and provided with shell ammunition. The day broke cold and dreary, with two inches of snow on the ground. The morning was heralded by a sharp roar from the front piece, which threw the ground in front of the Nez Perces' works. It was followed, at long intervals, by the twelve-pounder. The twelve reports from the other field-piece. The concussion of the first shell which was taken on the ground, and the effect was terrific. The

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 28. CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Nov., 6. 1877. Whole No., 443

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Stoffice Building
On Bridge Street.

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance,
Or FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	6 m's	1 y.
One sq.	$ 50	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$4.50	$ 6.00
Two "	1.25	2.25	3.00	4.00	7.00	10.00
4 "	1.75	2.75	3.00	5.00	7.50	12.00
1 column,	2.25	3.00	3.50	5.50	10.00	15.00
4 "	3.25	4.00	5.50	10.25	14.00	20.00
1 "	5.00	6.50	8.50	17.00	26.00	40.00
	8.50	10.00	12.00	26.00	45.00	65.00

Cards in Business Directory, $3 per line per year.
Legal advertisements at Statute rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

LOVEL H. BAGG, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County. Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. B. UPRIGHT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLAR, Custom Blacksmith, Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse-shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
Solicitor in Chancery and Notary Public. Will practice in present and adjoining counties. Office in Gidley's block, Petoskey, Mich.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located his shop in J. F. Wood's harness shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of this locality. Coarse or fine boots made to order and

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

In the most approved styles. Have also on hand of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAWKS.

LADIES HATS

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Why? Because he sells strictly pure goods, and can supply the people of Charlevoix and surrounding country with anything they wish in his line. Dispensing compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Leave Petoskey—7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m., arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Every necessary arrangement for the comfort of passengers will be made, and low fare will be reasonable. Any enquiries or suggestions will be delivered at any time as possible

H. C. MUIR, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper Hanging,
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

STRAYED.—Came to my enclosure in Township 31 Banks, on the 22d of Oct. 1877, one sorrel mare pony, spot in forehead, left fore foot and right hind foot white, saddle paid on back. Owner will prove property, pay charges and take away.
Oct. 24, 1877. WM. A. ROSS.

NOTICE.—Whereas, my wife, Ann Whales, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, I therefore forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting.
J. P. WHALES.
Wilson, Oct. 24.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Oct. 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Selder, against Thos. B. Bishop, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 1014, dated Apr. 17, 1877, upon the W ½ of Section 26, Township 33 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 17th day of Dec., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning, and alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANSAL, Receiver.
27.

New Advertisements.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the Village of CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land, just on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. Enquire of or address

W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 292 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.
I. D. HATCHINSON, N. G.
Geo. W. Cook, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.
W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. B. UPRIGHT, Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Purple Hill Lodge No. 141 L. O. L. meets at Orchard Lake, Sunday on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 6 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethern will receive a cordial welcome.
LEONARD BURNS, W. M.
GEO. PARSONS, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.

SOUTH—Mails arrive daily, at 12 M., depart at 1 P. M.

SOUTHERN mail leaves at 7 a. m., on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Oats, per bushel	20
Corn, per bushel	40
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	30
Buckwheat, per bushel	30
Peas, per bushel	70
Fresh creamed butter, per pound	22
Eggs, per dozen	15
Lard, per pound	10
Chickens, dressed, per pound	7

Mr. Butters goes to Chicago this week for goods.

Apple and peach butter at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, is nice.

MASONIC FESTIVAL.—The Masons of Petoskey held a Festival to night.

SEE real estate advertisement of W. C. Newman elsewhere in this paper.

GAYLORD has been declared by the Supreme Court to be the county seat of Otsego county.

THE schooner Emma has disposed of a cargo of apples in this port during the past week

THE schooner J. P. Donnelly ran ashore Thursday night north of the harbor at Black Lake.

THANKSGIVING.—The President has appointed Thursday, Nov. 29th, as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

BYRON SEE has purchased of Jeff. Welkel, lot 22, block 9, village of Charlevoix, for $125

If you want to see a nice display of hats and caps go to Carpenter & Bartholomew's QUARTERLY MEETING was held at the M. E. Church yesterday. Rev. Mr. Whitman preached in the morning, and Presiding Elder Moore in the evening.

Nubias, wool shawls, flannels and wool socks at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

GRAIN IN SOUTH ARM.—South Arm raised, the past year, 3,000 bushels of wheat, 3,500 of oats, and 1,500 of corn. So says Supervisor Jones. Other towns send in your figures.

SEVERAL Michigan editors have been chosen at superintendents of Poor in their respective counties. We don't know why they are thus selected unless it is that they know what it is to be poor.

A splendid assortment of winter goods of all Kinds at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, at reasonable prices.

COUNTY FINANCES.

The County Treasurer's Annual Report.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix:

I hereby hand you my report for the year ending Octo'er 8th, 1877

PRIOR TO B. Dr.

1876 Oct 19	To am't transferred fm contingent fund	$100 00
1877 Jan 22	do	100 00
			$ 200 00
	contra cr.
1876 1877	By orders paid do	77 85 1st H
			240 16
	bal due con'g't fund		19 16

LIBRARY FUND.

1876 Oct 19	Cash on hand	$12 00
1877 Feb 5	rec'd R. Miller J P	9 00
June 12	J m clark J p	04
April 4	o mayhew J p	5 00
oct 2	mc dougall "	10 00
	amount on hand		$31 04

SCHOOL FUND. Dr.

1877	To cash from state	$297 41
	contra cr.		$297 41
Jan 9	By bayne valley	$ 11 85
	charlevoix	101 8
	evangeline	47
	do no	42 16
	do no	55 66
	ingwood	41 86
	south arm	26 46
	wilson	24 05
			$297 41

LIQUOR TAX. Dr.

1877 June 1	charlevoix town'p	$40 00
	contra cr.		$40 00
	By cash	25 00
sep 17 oct 2	do	15 00
			$40 00

INSTITUTE FUND.

1877 sept 4	cash j sinsamon	$1 00
15	do do do	1 50
	total balance on hand		$2 50

TOWNSHIP ACCOUNTS.

EVELINE. Dr.

1876 nov 10	To bal from old sec't	$ 1 56
	rejected tax 1875	15 72
nov 24	state do 1876	40 28
	county do	28 50
1877 mar 12	charged back	4 45
June 9	primary sch money	44 16
			$89 47
	contra cr.
1876 nov 9	By cash	$200 00
1877 mar 16	by balance to old sect	$103 55
	del tax 1876	363 87
June 9	p sch money	21 83
aug 18	interest	1 33
	bal due county	3 85
			$694 43

For reasons, which, if given, would not be understood or appreciated by or readers, we are again compelled to defer the balance of the Co. Treasurer's Report until next week.

THE Traverse Bay, Eagle makes an attempt to justify its recent statement concerning the Charlevoix Baptist Resort, and returns to our insinuation in regard to its want of accuracy as follow:

"The Sentinel says that a movement is on foot, independent of the Convention, to make the Charlevoix Baptist Retreat a reality. We hope the movement will be a reality. In case it is it can be made the means of great benefit to the editor of the Sentinel, if he will avail himself of its privileges. Frequent baptism by immersion, in which the officiating minister was not in too much of a hurry to raise the candidate out of the water, would, we are satisfied, be of great benefit to our friend of the Sentinel, as such treatment would tend to cool his temper and quiet his nerves."

We smile.

Two of our young men—Wm. M. Miller and Andrew M. Miller—will spend the winter outside; the former in St. Lawrence County, N. Y., and the latter in Canada. Mr. Miller left on Saturday.

If you want ladies' and children's hats and bonnets, ladies' and children's furs, ladies' and children's underwear, curtains, cloaks, cloak and dress trimmings, ladies' gloves, and ladies' fancy goods of all kinds. Call at Mrs. Carpenter's new millinery store next door to Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Death of Senator Morton.

That eminent man, Senator Oliver P. Morton, of Indiana, died on the 3d. Senator Morton has been one of the brightest stars in the firmament of American history. His life affords an exemple of patriotism and true statesmanship which the greatest of living men may well seek to emulate. Peace be to his ashes.

THE STARKE.—The Detroit Post and Tribune has the following particulars of the trouble of the schooner Starke:

"The three masted schooner Starke, laden with coal for Capt. Jas. Bennett, in attempting to come to Bennett's dock from the South Channel through the passage between Round Island and Mackinac, went ashore on the shoal south of the dock. This occurred at eight o'clock in the evening of the 24th inst. It was raining quite hard from the east at the time, and yesterday, and to-day, the 26th, has increased to a heavy gale. Two tugs, the Leviathan and the Saugatuck, came to Mackinaw yesterday and offered their assistance, but were not employed and went away. The captain of the schooner, it is understood, expects to have assistance from some other tug. This afternoon about 3 o'clock, the sea dashed over her very heavily, and she rolled some, although she was scantled. She lies on a smooth bottom of flat rock. A part of the crew came ashore this afternoon. There is a prospect of a bad night for the schooner. The coal is loaned. As to the schooner it is not known what insurance there is on her." A later dispatch to the same paper says: "The tug Welcome, of the Milwaukee Tug Co., and a lighter, to the rescue of the Starke, got to work this morning. A gale from the southwest prevented them working yesterday." The tug Welcome also had her own little trouble in the passage from Milwaukee to Mackinac. Wednesday night, about 10 o'clock, in the vicinity of Skilligalee and Waugoshance, and in attempting to correct their compass by ranging it on the two lights, they ran badly aground on Skilligalee reef. By throwing overboard the steam pump and twenty tons of coal they managed to get off, and proceeded to Mackinaw, at which place they found the schooner W. A. Smith waiting for a fair wind to come to this port. The Welcome took her in tow and proceeded to Skilligalee, and succeeded, by the assistance of the schooner, in raising the steam pump, but the coal could not be recovered. At this hour we have heard nothing more concerning the condition of the Starke.

REPTILED ASS-TANKS.—Last Tuesday [a week ago] Captain Charles E. Kirtland, with the wrecker Lewanton, started to the assistance of two vessels which he had heard were aground on Middle Island. While going down, at Presque Isle, Captain Kirtland discovered the schooner Portland ashore. Running alongside of her, he found that the captain had gone to Alpena to telegraph her owners the condition of the vessel and get instructions. The mate, who was left in charge of the vessel, refused to take the responsibility of making any arrangement with Captain Kirtland for the Portland's relief. Fully realizing the great danger that the schooner was in, and the weather at the time being favorable, Captain Kirtland then proposed to place steam pumps upon the Portland raise her, and take her to a place of safety without making any charges against the vessel, trusting that the insurance companies having risks upon the vessel and cargo would pay him for the time and expense incurred, and if they did not, he would have the satisfaction of knowing that he had saved a large amount of property. Strange to say, the mate refused to accept the generous proposition. The result was what Captain Kirtland predicted. The storm came up again, and both vessel and cargo became a total loss.

BURNS in these parishes on Subscription for the SENTINEL.

JOHN WELSH, of Philadelphia, has been nominated and confirmed as Minister to England.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

A RESOLUTION was adopted in the Senate, on the 15th, to notify the House that a quorum of the Senate was ready for business. Among the bills introduced and referred were the following: Repealing section 2 of the act of 1874 (the supplement to the Enforcement act), prohibiting the use of the army and the marshals to keep the peace at the polls; to establish the territory of Huron, to be composed of the counties of Beadle, Hand, Hyde, Sully, Buffalo, Jerauld, Aurora, Brule, Lyman, Kingsbury, Miner, Hanson, Davison, Douglas, Charles Mix, Gregory, Bon Homme, Yankton, Clay, Union, Lincoln, Minnehaha, Turner, Hutchinson, McCook, Moody, Brookings, Deuel, Kampeska, Codington, Grant, Roberts, Day, Marshall, Spink, Clark, Hamlin, Sanborn, Miller, Faulk, Edmunds, McPherson, Potter, Walworth, Campbell, Dewey, Ziebach, Stanley, Jones, Lyman, Tripp, Todd, Gregory, Shannon, Fall River, Custer, Pennington, Lawrence, Meade, Butte, Harding, Perkins, Corson, Ziebach, Dewey, Campbell, Walworth, Potter, McPherson, Edmunds, Faulk, Spink, Brown, Marshall, Day, Roberts, Grant, Codington, Hamlin, Deuel, Brookings, Moody, Lake, Minnehaha, Lincoln, Union, Clay, Yankton, Bon Homme, Hutchinson, Douglas, Charles Mix, Gregory, Todd, Tripp, Lyman, Jones, Hughes, Hyde, Hand, Sully, Buffalo, Jerauld, Aurora, Brule, Kingsbury, Miner, Hanson, Davison, Sanborn, Miller, Clark, Beadle

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH.
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1877

The President, Congressmen, and the Civil Service.

The vexed condition of political matters is clearly indicated by the various conferences among Republicans, the failure of the Senate to act promptly upon the President's nominations, the reluctance of both Houses to begin work, and the remarkable hesitation of the Cabinet in dealing with prominent appointments.

While the published reports of these conferences have not exaggerated the general hospitality to the President's methods which was developed, there was an equally marked desire, which has not found full expression in these reports, to preserve harmony in the party, and to make strenuous exertions to prevent a break with the President.

The consultations cannot be productive of great good. In the first place their spirit was a most unexpected revelation to the President and to most of his Cabinet. The long trips through buzzsawing crowds, and the months of pleasant talk with the thousands who have visited Washington to flatter—and obtain office—have been poor preparation for the reality which greets a sudden awakening from these dry dreams. Heretofore the few notes of friendly warning which have been forced in upon the President have been lost in the general seclusion of the visiting and expectant crowds. Spanking generally friendly advice wherever it has partaken of criticism, has been too largely attributed to personal disappointment, and put aside as of little worth. Now, suddenly and unexpectedly, the administration has been brought face to face with the sharp and unpleasant outlines of the situation. Fair words and uninterrupted adulation can no longer soften a single feature. To the credit of the President, he seems to have comprehended at a glance the real position that is revealed. Those who have his confidence assert that he is addressing himself with earnestness to the careful consideration of these indications.

On the other hand the most prominent men in Congress are working with equal energy to preserve the unity of the party. This awakening to the truth of the situation will prove mutually beneficial. The President is reported as beginning to feel that he cannot best administer the Government without full consultation with the recognized leaders of Republican sentiment. While he is determined to remedy the grave abuses which have gained root in our political system through the assumption of a right to control the patronage, notably by the Senate, and almost equally by the members of the House, he has promptly caused Republican Congressmen to be assured, through such as visit him, that he desires their presence about him, and covets a full expression of their views. The President's prompt accommodation of himself to the plain facts of the situation has made him many friends, and has fairly changed the current of opinion concerning his course, which was fast setting towards a conviction that he did not care for advice from politicians, and that he would accept none. He is found now to be as anxious a student of the situation as any of them, and as anxious as any of them to find the proper remedy for existing troubles. Those who pretend to believe that he contemplates throwing himself into the hands of the Democrats were never more thoroughly deceived. That he desires to correct the abuses within the Republican party, the friends of reform may rest assured. To attain his desire he will need all the help they can give. Thus far these latter, as well as the party managers, have been equally aggrieved, though for quite opposite reasons. The first have complained bitterly that they have not been consulted in regard to matters of moment in their district, and especially in respect to the the patronage. The latter are complaining that while one good step has been taken in the announcement that Congressmen are not to control the patronage, the additional steps, necessary to make the contemplated reform complete, namely, the retention of fit men, and the appointment of none except those who are fit, have not been taken. The signs are that the President, in coming to a decision, will lay his own course by the chart of the practical civil service reformers, and not by the chart of those who are in control of the patronage are holding out to him.—Cincinnati Gazette

The Muddle.

The singular attempt of the President to idealize politics does not meet with the approbation of members of Congress, for the simple reason that they think more pointedly, and more to practical ends, than the Chief Magistrate; and no one need be ashamed on their behalf to say for the additional reason, that the President's policy with reference to office-holders, carried out, would impinge on the rights, and seriously impair the usefulness, of a large class of citizens who are best acquainted with public affairs.

The Republican leaders in Congress are as much in favor of correcting abuses as the President himself, but they are wise enough to see that his famous "order" strikes at the root of the Republican party, or any and every party whatsoever, and therefore is a step toward chaotic condition of the public mind, and consequent evils which no man can measure.

It has been thought by statesmen ever since the establishment of constitutional governments that a party is a good thing. It is an instrument both for developing and expressing the popular will. It is, moreover, a guarantee of unity of view conditions on which commercial prosperity and public tranquility depend. The "sentiments," the "impressions," the "machine politicians," as they are termed by certain journals whose Republicanism is getting to be watery, strongly enjoy the progress of Southern ideas, and are protesting that the Republican party has no thoughts of giving up the ghost for the sake of securing a pet Utopianism of the Executive.

They put their feet down squarely against a dream of a idealist, with the conviction that the Republican party is of some use yet to the country.

They refuse to trip the party of elements of organization and work, and in so doing they deserve the thanks of all Republicans who have sense enough to believe in the worth of the victories they have achieved, and loyalty enough to stand to their colors.

The President, it is said, does not consult the leading men of his own party and, what, ever may be the cause, it is certain that members of Congress do not, as the want has been in former times, call much on the President. The ante-room of his reception chambers is no longer thronged with Republicans. It is suspected, probably without cause that he has taken leading Democrats into his counsel. At any rate there is estrangement, which, to say the least, forebodes an unhappy aspect of affairs in the near future.

In a man of less political virtue, and standing less strongly in the confidence of the people, the attitude of the President would open him to a charge of Cæsarism. If he does not consult with leading Republicans, nor yet with Democrats, it would not be wide of charity or truth to say that he prefers to be his own counselor, that he and his Cabinet choose to be independent of party, and perhaps to break up all parties and become the government itself; that being elevated to power, they are willing to strip officials of patronage, absorb the honors and prerogatives of government to themselves, and that they think all men unfit for office who do not regard their plan of public service as the only civil service that does not need a reform. Somebody must have patronage, who shall it be? When the President says that no underling in office is entitled to it, it is fair to presume that he is of the opinion that the public good is safer in his own hands.

As a matter of fact, there is probably no evil design on the part of the Chief Magistrate. His position, however, is a glaring paradox, full of logical contradictions and absurdities, which, were he never so honest in purpose, must expose him to the charge of shallow thinking, or to the more grevious imputation of designs which no man with a strong sense of honor would cherish. That his honest intentions have a look so ill should be a practical lesson to him, and win him over, if not by personal conviction, at least by consideration of public policy, to harmonious action with the men who, technically and in fact, represent the popular will.—Inter Ocean.

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart? Have you Dizziness of the Head? Is your Nervous System depressed? Does your Blood circulate badly? Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c. &c. All of these and much more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Green's Auxuist Flower is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,400,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first-class Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

BY THE

Grand Rapips & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, and other wood, and are accessible to best market

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the most prosperous section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The part of Michigan in which these lands are found is

Not a Wilderenss, by any Means

It contains a population of two HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND souls, and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

☞ Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. HUGHART,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,
Carpeting,
Oil Cloths,
Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

will be forwarded for approval, and an orders, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER

1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT
We are supplied
With the Best
THAT THE
Wholesale Markets Afford.

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

To Sell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumeous.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

Special Bargains
at Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LIPSCOMB,

JEWELLER
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry promptly attended to at reasonable rates. 1yr

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and has been Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison, St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods,
CIOthing,
Hats, Caps
And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for Cash or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
AND
Solicitor in Chancery.
NOTARY PUBLIC and
Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crozier's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolo

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS
NOTE AHEDS
LETTER HEAD
ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, Fish,

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for CASH SHIPMENTS filled promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS

1877 (6,12,1)

BOOKS, BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. R. BALCH,
Ionzania, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD
and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles
Lath
Cheese Box Stuff
Broom Handles
Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS BILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Pen, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop.

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

in which stream invitation Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks, all warranted of Superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly of London, England), 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

Report of the Congressional Silver Commission.

A Washington special of the 17th to the Chicago Tribune gives the following synopsis of the report of the Congressional Commission upon the Silver Question:

The report of Senator Jones' commission upon the silver question, so long expected, was completed late this afternoon. Senator Jones has spent the whole summer here upon it. The report comprises a volume of 500 pages, accompanied by a volume of statistics of equal size. The following is an epitome of the conclusions at which the majority of the Silver Commission have arrived:

The first question settled is the cause of the recent changes in the relative values of gold and silver, and in the effect of that change. The Commission concluded:

"The cause of recent change in the relative values of gold and silver primarily was the demonetization of silver by Germany, the United States and the Scandinavian States, and the closing of the mints in Europe against its use. That demonetization was accomplished by overwhelming legislative majorities in every country except Scandinavia, and by the unanimous agreement of the actual and prospective chief of the Senate administration. The effect of the demonetization so far accomplished has been already disastrous, especially to the countries which have recently changed their money, in which the gold standard was already established.

The second question covers the two points of the restoration of the free coinage of silver in this country and of the best legal relation between gold and silver. The Commission recommends the restoration of the double standard and the unrestricted coinage of both metals, but are inclined to think the legal ratio at which they should be established between them.

The third question relates to the policy of continuing further action concurrently with the foreign nations, and the effects thereof upon the labor, industries and wealth of the country. The Commission is of the opinion that it is possible to maintain paper as actual currency, exchangeable on demand into the proper intrinsic equal in value to coin by actual convertibility into coin.

The fourth question covers the best means for providing for facilitating the resumption of specie payments, on the basis of gold or silver, on the basis of both, and the relative conditions and the unexpended resources which can command such force. The fact in regard to notes issued directly by the governments, and bearing a forced currency, seems to be that it has seldom been redeemed in coin. The Commission does not believe that resumption in this country is at present practicable under the circumstances until the existing law making gold the sole redemption fund is repealed. The substantial equivalency of gold alone is apparent in Germany, Great Britain and France are the only countries which have any considerable quantity of it, and the maximum amount of their resources has been in each not less than about $1,200,000,000. The Commission finds the quantities in the Western World are much exaggerated. The commission is not prepared to recommend any of the plans which have been proposed in this country or Europe for the reconstruction of silver will have a powerful influence in promoting, but probably will prevent, further demonetization of silver in France and in other European countries in which the double standard is still legally and practically maintained. But for the overwhelming recent legislation here, further European demonetization would take place the result for it will be an extraordinary exchange of the commodity which we can spare for money which we need.

Finally, the Commission believes that the fact that Germany and the Scandinavian States have adopted the single gold standard, and that other countries, like the United States, have not adopted, instead of using exclusively the double standard, is still a fact of great significance, and that the overwhelming recent legislation here, further European demonetization shall take place the result for it will be an extraordinary exchange of the commodity which we can spare for money which we need.

Finally, the Commission believes that the fact that Germany and the Scandinavian States have adopted the single gold standard, and that other countries, like the United States, have not adopted, instead of using exclusively the double standard

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.—Sealed proposals will be received at the County Clerk's office until Dec. 1, for getting 25 cords of wood for Court House. Said wood must be sawed body maple, 18 inches in length, and prepared for the stove. Must be piled in the wood house, and delivered before Feb. 1, 1878

A. R. URQUHART, Clerk.

Charlevoix Nov. 5, 1877.

HAIRY MERE.—A dispatch to the Inter Ocean says of Charles Miller, whose mangled body was found at Petoskey on Sunday morning, as noted in a recent issue: "He lived at Cross Village, on the island in Petoskey Bay, where he settled several years ago on land bought of the Government. He had acquired a large fortune, was 36 years old, and leaves a wife and several children. He was buying goods at Petoskey on Saturday, and had a large sum of money with him." The idea of Cross Village being in Petoskey Bay, and of acquiring large fortune in Cross Village or vicinity, is an amusing idea. The I O correspondent is badly mixed.

State News.

There are 184 prisoners in the State House of Correction at Ionia.

Wild turkeys are said to be more plenty in the interior of the State than they have been for many years.

On Thursday last a fleet of thirty-four lumber vessels left Muskegon for Chicago, and they have all arrived.

The Petoskey Democrat says a party was at that place the other day prospecting for the extension of Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw road to that place.

An estimator estimates that 1,000,000 bushels of wheat was raised in Kalamazoo county, and that 850,000 bushels of it is held for higher prices.

Stanton is nervous. Report says that a majority of the Board of Supervisors of Montcalm county are in favor of making Langston the county seat.

D. A. Blodgett has commenced logging operations in the woods east of Cadillac. He expects to put in about 15,000,000 feet of logs this winter.

Marshall has a haunted girl who, the Statesman says, is accompanied by mysterious and terrible rappings wherever she goes, and the public have made it a subject of serious investigation. They are expected to report that a girl's wrappings are not so terrible after you get used to them a while.

In the case of the People vs. R. W. Gibbons at Big Rapids, arrested on a charge of attempting to commit rape on a child twelve years of age, the jury was out forty-eight hours and returned a verdict of guilty. Afterward Judge Brown sent him to States Prison for twelve years.

Messrs. Hannah, Lay & Co., of Traverse City have cut during the past season 15,000,000 feet of pine lumber and 1,000,000 feet of maple. The planing mill has made a run of 8,000,000 feet and is still at work turning out about 100,000 feet daily.

Cedar, the county seat of Gladwin county, contains six buildings all told—a court house, three dwelling houses, a store and a barn. The court house is a three story brick building 45 by 60 feet in size, and will cost when completed $18,000. J. S. Holden, of the Farwell Register, has set up a job printing office at Cedar and started a little newspaper there.

The late heavy rains are bringing the logs down the Muskegon at a lively rate, and the mills will now run to the end of the month, giving employment to many hundreds of people who expected to be idle.

The Supervisors of Wexford county refuses to allow the court house to be used for holding religious services. They say they are afraid of fire, but church folks think their danger lies not in this world.

The Cheboygan Tribune says that E. M. Sammons removed on Wednesday to that place, after an unsuccessful search for the missing steamer Minnie Sutton and lighter. He made arrangements with the tug W. B. Minter to go in search. They left Mackinaw ten days before, and made careful search all along the shore as far as about 25 miles beyond Back Islands. Diligent inquiry from the numerous fishermen along the route failed to obtain any information of either of the missing craft. We think there can be no question that both the Sutton and lighter are irretrievably lost.

The homestead of Capt. E. B. Ward, by his will, was left to his children. Of these Henry is in the insane asylum at Kalamazoo, Milton is dead, Caries resides at Toledo, Mary is married, and Lizzie, an imbecile, is the only occupant of this large stone mansion, save one trusted servant, who takes care of her. There was a mortgage of $30,000 on the premises at the time of the captain's death. This, through non-payment of interest, has increased to $60,000, and the house was recently sold for non-payment of the taxes of 1876. Alvan H. Leavitt has been appointed receiver of the property, which from a lonky roof, etc., is rapidly going to destruction.

A Grand Rapids dispatch to the Post and Tribune says: The Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad Company has just achieved at the point a notable feat in engineering. The plan was to remove the timber bridge of the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad across Grand River, which had stood nearly 20 years, and replace it with an iron bridge made by the Detroit Bridge Com'any, the new bridge to occupy precisely the same site as the old one, and all to be done between the passage of Saturday's last train and the first train of this morning. On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock a gang of over 200 men began work dissecting and removing the old bridge which, with pulling the new one together and in place, occupied all that night and Sunday, and the new bridge would have been ready for the first train this morning to pass had not a violent wind last night compelled a suspension of the work six hours. Therefore the early train this morning had to transfer passengers, but all is now nearly completed and it is expected that this afternoon the last train to Detroit will pass the new bridge. It is 650 feet long, a massive and splendid structure.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used HOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, and in fact all Throat and Lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at all cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT,

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May, all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6451, dated Feb. 16, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Sinden against James H. Hand, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 4772, dated Sept. 16, 1875, upon the ne ¼ of section 28, Township 31 N., Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May, all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6451, dated Feb. 16, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES will only find, will do well to call at our lumber yard on Round Lake. Rails cheaper than ever before.

PROUDFIT & WAY.
Hunter's Schr. W. A. Smith.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres in section 36, in Eveline. 25 acres improved, good house, and big barn; good well, and cleared of 24 fruity trees. Good houses in most immediate neighborhood. School house quarter of a mile. Post office 2½ miles. And shall

Charles Heller.
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE
IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 31, Town 32 North of Range 8 West, 80 acres [illegible] some improvements, 200 [illegible] trees, in bearing of apples last year. Will be sold for $300 cash. Address

ANTONIA SIMON.
Elk Rapids
Mich

W. CAMPBELL. C. S. RANSOM.

CAMPBELL & RANSOM,

Commission Merchants,

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 10, WAGNER BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

SEASON ARRANGEMENT.

The Fine Steamer
JENNIE SUTTON
CAPT. HENRY ATHERTON, Master,

Will run as follows during the season of navigation of 1877.

Will leave Charlevoix at 8:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for South Arm and return.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Pine Lake and return.

Can be chartered for excursions by applying to Dexter & Noble, Elk Rapids or to Captain on board.

DEXTER & NOBLE.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon.

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS,
Charlevoix, Aug. 2 1877. 23 tf.

L A V
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich
—
Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.
—
Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.
—
Collections a Speciality
—
Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.
—
Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.
For terms and description apply to, or address,
E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.
1169y

MICHIGAN STATE LAND OFFICE,
Lansing, October 1st 1877.

Notice is hereby given that, the following described Swamp Land, situate in Charlevoix county, Interlochen Reserved as Homesteads, which land has reverted to the State will be restored to market at this office on July 1 1877 at ten o'clock a. m., and will be subject to sale according to the law governing same, by law.

R. F. PARTRIDGE,
Commissioner.

Description	Section	Town	Range
[illegible] of sw¼	8	30 N	4W
[illegible] of nw¼	5	31 N	4W
[illegible] of sw¼	29	31 N	4W
sw¼ of ne¼	32	31 N	4W
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible] N	4W
[illegible] of sw¼	[illegible]	[illegible] N	4W
[illegible] of sw¼	26	31 N	5W
[illegible] of ne¼	26	32 N	5W
se¼ of ne¼	1	32 N	7W

MICHIGAN STATE LAND OFFICE,
Lansing, Sept. 21, 1877.

Notice is hereby given, that the following described Primary School and Agricultural College Land, situate in Charlevoix county, forfeited for non-payment of interest, will be offered for sale at this office November 1st, 1877, at ten o'clock a. m., unless previously redeemed according to law.

R. F. PARTRIDGE,
Commissioner.

Description	Section	Town	Range
[illegible] of sw¼	16	32 N	5W
[illegible] of sw¼	16	32 N	5W
[illegible] of sw¼	16	32 N	5W
[illegible] of sw¼	16	32 N	5W
[illegible] of sw¼	16	34 N	5W
[illegible] of sw¼	16	34 N	5W

Agricultural College Land.

461	e¼ of nw¼ and sw¼ of ne¼	8	32 S SW
522	ne¼ of se¼	18	32 N 4W

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May, all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6451, dated Feb. 16, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Chalmers Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7688, dated April 1st, 1876, upon the sw¼ of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 21, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Chalmers Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7688, dated April 1st, 1876, upon the sw¼ of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH
AND DOOR
FACTORY,
J. E. Grielick & Co.,
Traverse City. - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the trade and public in regular stock. All special orders for odd sizes will be done with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(1049y.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.
Peter Tegesh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are to a residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Milo Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. A. cause to enter and plead within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publications be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant
Dated.

NOTICE.
U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by L. Spencer Benham against Hooper, for abandoning his homestead entry. No. 7713, dated Oct. 13, 1875, upon the [illegible] of Section 32, Township 28 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
HENRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE.
U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Chalmers Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7688, dated April 1st, 1876, upon the sw¼ of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy
HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Butters' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL,

Vol. IX. No. 29 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Nov. 13. 1877. Whole No., 444

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—
OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street
—
TERMS of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
Two FOR SIX MONTHS.
—
JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 mo.	6 mo.	1 yr.
One sq.	$ 1 00	$1 25	$1 50	$2 50	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 sqrs	2 00	2 50	3 00	4 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 "	2 75	3 25	3 50	5 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 "	3 25	4 00	4 50	6 50	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 column,	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ "	7 00	8 00	9 00	17 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ "	8 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	[illegible]	[illegible]

Business Notices 10 cents per line.
Local advertisements rate at Stabletarge.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LEWIS H. HAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the 2nd Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. R. URQUHART, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith Charlevoix, Mich. Particular attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,
Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession.

The Campbell House.
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PALETHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
Will practice in [illegible] and [illegible] Will personally [illegible] [illegible] Office in Lockwood Block, Petoskey, Mich.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located his shop in J. E. Wm's business shop, in Charlevoix and solicits the patronage of this locality. Coarse or fine boots made to order and

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

In the most approved styles. Have also on hand of latest styles. Ma. le to order at reasonable [illegible] Main street.

LADIES HATS

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines

Stationery & Confectionery

IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug store, sign of the Golden Mortar, West Side Bridge street, Charlevoix.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The large st and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found in any store in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, as follows:

Leave Petoskey — 7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Everything pertaining to the comfort of passengers will be looked after, and the utmost care will be exercised. The mail matter entrusted to us will be delivered at its destination as soon as possible.

H. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper Hanging,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and numerous other lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 14 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov. 1, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Oct. 29, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Sinden against Chas. Hodge, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6081, dated April 1, 1876, upon the [illegible] of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. D. U. F.

Round Table Lodge No. 203 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

L. H. BARTHOLOMEW, N. G.
GEO. W. CROUTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular communication on the first day coming on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. R. URQUHART, Sec'y.

I. O. O. F.

Pine Lake Lodge No. 311, I. O. O. F. meets at Pine Lake, Mich., on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at which time a [illegible] will be conferred.

EDWARD BURNS, W. M.
GEO. BARNES, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mail from Petoskey arrives Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 5 p. m. Depart on the same days at 6 p. m.

Mail from Boyne City arrives at 12 M., Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and departs at 1 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH, P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	[illegible]
Oats, per bushel	20
Corn, per bushel	40
Barley, per bushel	40
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Butter, per pound	20
Eggs, per dozen	20
Chickens, per pound	7
Turkeys, per pound	7
Honey, per pound	20
Cucumbers, dressed, per pound	10

THE steamer Sutton leaves the Pine Lake route to-morrow.

A new church is to be built at Boyne City.

No religious service in this village either morning or evening next Sabbath.

The tug Starke Bros recently sunk a schooner in Milwaukee harbor.

The propeller Badger State wooded one on her way up Saturday night.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's new addition is well up and will appear next week.

To Supervisors—The bound assessment rolls are at the County Treasurers office.

CAPT. THEO. PECK was recently fined $50 for damaging another tug in Milwaukee harbor.

HENRY MORGAN has sold his store and lock property in this village to Mr. Francis, of Canada.

CAPT. TOM METSING now has command of the tug Starke Bros, at Milwaukee, and Capt. Fred Starke is engaged in the office.

The schooner Mary Booth has gone to "Davy Jones' locker." She foundered in Lake Michigan during the gale of the 15th. All hands were saved.

We have authority for stating that Pennsylvania capitalists are coming to sink a shaft for coal on the farm of Geo. M. Ward, in Eveline. They are expected soon.

THE new lighter recently brought here by a Wisconsin party to sell or rent got loose one night last week, floated down stream and was wrecked on the beach.

FOR FLORIDA.—Capt. Wm Mees, well known to our readers, recently started for Florida with the yacht Annie, by way of the Illinois canal and the Mississippi river. He has five passengers.

HON. E. H. GREEN received Friday an appointment as District Deputy Grand Worthy Chief Templar, of Good Templars, and on the same evening installed the officers of Charlevoix Lodge. Jackson Ingalls has been reappointed Lodge Deputy.

JAMES A. CASWELL, formerly of this place, but more recently of Grand Bend, Ont., arrived here with his family one day last week. He will leave his family here for the winter, but will spend the winter himself in Texas.

COUNTY FINANCES.

The County Treasurer's Annual Report.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix:

I hereby hand you my report for the year ending October 8th, 1877:

TOWNSHIP ACCOUNTS.

MARION.

1876			Dr
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	$ 27 98
nov 24	state tax 1876	40 49
1877	county	207 52
may 1	prim school money	53 66
			$327 65
	CREDIT.
1877
may 26	By de imquent tax	18 91
	cash	307 08
june 9	primary sch money	53 66
			$327 65

EVANGELINE.

1875
oct 10	To rejected tax	$ 21 70
nov 14	state tax 1876	101 70
1877	county	650 89
may 13	amt charged back	2 72
july 7	prim sch money	35 88
			$815 19
	COUNTY CR
1877
oct 10	By 5 per cent allowed	$ 8 01
1877
may 3	delinquent tax	720 87
	cash	39 73
june 9	prim sch money	35 88
nov 8	bal due county	2 18
			$815 19

CHARLEVOIX.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	$ 11 87
nov 24	state tax 1875	185 80
	county	760 24
1877
june 11	prim sch money	104 48
aug 17	liquor tax	25 00
oct 4	do	15 00
			$1,106 88
	COUNTY CR
1876
dec 27	By cash	$231 66
1877	delinquent tax	667 81
june 9	prim sch money	104 48
aug 7	liquor tax	25 00
oct 6	error in state tax	76 13
			$1,105 88

NORWOOD.

1876
oct 10	To state tax 1876	$ 49 12
	county	311 34
	rejected tax 1875	9 68
1877
june 9	prim school money	41 88
			$411 92
	COUNTY CR
1877
mar 26	By cash	$133 46
	delinquent tax	240 58
june 9	primary sch money	41 88
			$414 92

BOYNE VALLEY.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	$ 66 93
nov 24	state tax 1876	85 40
	county	265 92
1877
june 9	prim school money	13 98
			$745 05
	COUNTY CR
1876
oct 9	By bal from old acct	$ 47 60
1877
mar 26	delinquent tax	651 62
	cash	26 60
june 9	prim sch money	13 98
			$745 05

SOUTH ARM.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	24 96
nov 24	state tax 1876	50 42
1877	county	392 11
june 9	prim school money	76 36
			$518 95
	COUNTY CR
1875
dec 21	By cash	$200 00
mar 26	cash	98 57
	delinquent tax	141 42
june 9	primary sch money	76 36
	bal due county	1 65
			$518 95

Respectfully submitted,
BYRON SEE, Co. Treasurer.

A nice set of crockery just received at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, cheaper than ever.

E. H. Bramss, of Cedarville, this Township, recently returned from Chicago.

FISHING—The boys, and even the men—merchants, tradesmen and clergymen—have all spent their leisure hours during the week fishing off the harbor docks for herring, of which a great number have been caught.

VESSEL ARRIVAL—Capt. Way of the schooner W. A. Smith, on arriving at this port from Mackinac on Thursday, reported a large three masted schooner ashore near Middle Village. He engaged a double crew and repaired to the wreck, and is there at this writing profiting by the disaster.

LOOK HERE.—You of more southern latitudes don't cease to speak of this region as if it were in the Arctic Zone. We hear that at Buffalo they have sleighing, and at Grand Rapids they have a foot of snow. Here the ground has not been hid from sight by the "crystalline element." As we write the weather is as warm and balmy as a spring morning.

The Elections.

In the various State elections the results are notable. The effect of the labor troubles, and in some cases dissatisfaction with the President's policy have been felt in the contest; many voters of both parties were indifferent, and the vote has generally been light. Connecticut gives a substantial Republican majority of three or five in the Senate and twenty-five or thirty in the House. Massachusetts, which has been confidently claimed by the Democrats, has gone overwhelmingly Republican. In New York, Senator Conkling and his co-laborers have made a gallant contest, and have largely reduced the Democratic majority of last year. Kelly and the Tammany ring received a severe blow in New York city. The reports about the Legislature are conflicting.

New Jersey elects a Democratic State ticket and Legislature.

Pennsylvania, where the labor troubles have largely effected the result, is close, but probably Democratic. Wisconsin goes 5,000 Republican, Minnesota and Kansas are Republican, while Maryland and Virgina, of course, are Democratic.

Charlevoix as a Marketing Point.

The plant will grow toward the light, and water will meet from divers directions and flow toward a common center if nature gives the water shed. In localities favored with a healthy activity products will, as if under this same law of nature, flow to some central depository or point of transfer.

The giant strides with which this region is reaching the front rank of grain-raising localities, and the superior quality of our grain, are sure indicators of what the future will be for us as a community, to say nothing of the magnitude and excellence of our crops of roots, vegetables and grass—truly important auxilliaries to the more staple cereals.

These facts established, we have a foundation of truth to rest upon, viz: That with the lapse of years the farm products of the large region looking toward this common center must multiply with prodigious rapidity, and ultimately constitute a large and important trade here.

Even with the present area of territory and its population, Charlevoix must continue to develop as a market, inasmuch as every year adds to the tillable acreage and consequently to the pecuniary wealth of the people; but into the mi i stream of trade that flows to our town, small rivulets will from time to time direct their current, and in their turn develop as time and circumstances prosper them.

An agency that will have very much to do in constituting Charlevoix a agricultural market is the existence of unsettled facilities for shipment of produce. In fact this is the main idea after "base of supplies" is considered, into the ventures of Chicago and Milwaukee the grain of this country must of necessity find itself destined, and at Charlevoix it must be transferred to those markets, because of the much cheaper mode of transfer here than at any interior railroad point. All other surplus products must follow their great leader—grain—through the same channels.

With these indisputable facts before us we should use our best endeavors to so improve our marketing facilities as will render it profitable and convenient for farmers to bring here their surplus products. Let us improve our roads in all directions. Let us attract hither capital, and encourage its use in the direction that will best subserve the interests of our farmers. A flouring mill or a grain warehouse, with a solid financial bottom under it, would be a permanent and substantial benefit to our people, and profitable to its owner. When these advantages are established others will rapidly follow.

New stock of violins and bows of splendid quality at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

NOTICE.—Sealed proposals will be received at the County Clerk's office until Dec. 1, for getting 25 cords of wood for Court House. Said wood must be sawed body maple, 18 inches in length, and prepared for the stove. Must be piled in the wood house, and delivered before Feb. 1, 1878

A. H. CRAMER, Clerk

Charlevoix Nov. 8, 1877.

BAD MIXED.—A dispatch to the Inter Ocean says of Charles Miller, whose mangled body was found at Petoskey on sunday morning, as noted in a recent issue: 'He lived at Cross Village, on the island in Petoskey Bay, where he settled several years ago on land bought of the Government. He had acquired a large fortune, was 36 years old, and leaves a wife and several children. He was buying goods at Petoskey on Saturday, and had a large sum of money with him." The idea of Cross Village being in Petoskey Bay, and of acquiring large fortunes in Cross Village or vicinity, is an amusing idea. The I. O., correspondent is badly mixed.

State News.

There are 184 prisoners in the State House of Correction at Ionia.

Wild turkeys are said to be more plenty in the interior of the State than they have been for many years.

On Thursday last a fleet of thirty four lumber vessels left Muskegon for Chicago, and they have all arrived.

The Petoskey Democrat says a party was at that place the other day prospecting for the extension of Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw road to that place.

An estimator estimates that 17,000,000 bushels of wheat was raised in Kalamazoo county, and that 850,000 bushels of it is held for higher prices.

Stanton is nervous. Report says that a majority of the Board of Supervisors of Montcalm county are in favor of making Langston the county seat.

D. A. Blodgett has commenced logging operations in the woods east of Cadillac. He expects to put in about 15,000,000 feet of logs this winter.

Marshall has a banished girl who, the Statesman says, is accompanied by mysterious and terrible rappings wherever she goes, and the public have made us a subject of serious investigation. They are expected to report that a girl's wrappings are not so terrible after you get used to them a while.

In the case of the People vs. R. W. Gibbons at Big Rapids, arrested on a charge of attempting to commit rape on a child twelve years of age, the jury was out forty-eight hours and returned a verdict of guilty. Afterward Judge Brown sent him to States Prison for twelve years.

Messrs. Hannah, Lay & Co., of Traverse City have cut during the past season 15,000,000 feet of pine lumber and 1,000,000 feet of maple. The planing mill has made a run of 8,000,000 feet and is still at work turning out about 100,000 feet daily.

Cedar, the county seat of Gladwin county, contains six buildings all told—a court house, three dwelling houses, a store and a barn. The court house is a three story brick building 45 by 60 feet in size, and will cost when completed $13,000. J. S. Holden, of the Farwell Register, has set up a job printing office at Cedar and started a little newspaper there.

The late heavy rains are bringing the logs down the Muskegon at a lively rate, and the mills will now run to the end of the month, giving employment to many hundreds of people who expected to be idle.

The Supervisors of Wexford county refuses to allow the court house to be used for holding religious services. They say they are afraid of fire, but church folks think their danger lies more in this world.

The Cheboygan Tribune says that P. M. Sammons removed on Wednesday to that place, after an unsuccessful search for the missing steamer Minnie Sutton and lighter. He made arrangements with the tug W. B. Minter to go in search. They left Mackinaw ten days before, and made careful search all along the shore as far as about 25 miles beyond Duck Islands. Diligent inquiry from the numerous fishermen along the route failed to elicit any information of either of the missing craft. We think there can be no question that both the Sutton and lighter are irretrievably lost.

The homestead of Capt. P. B. Wead, by his will, was left to his children by those heirs is in the insane asylum at Kalamazoo, Milton is dead, Curtis is still at Toledo, Mary is married, and Lizzie an imbecile. Is the only occupant of this large stone mansion, save one trusted servant, who takes care of her. There was a mortgage of $40,000 on the premises at the time of the captain's death. This, through non-payment of interest, has increased to $60,000, and the home was recently sold for ten payment of the taxes of 1876. Alvan H. Leavitt has been appointed receiver of the property, which from a leaky roof, etc., is rapidly going to destruction.

A Grand Rapids dispatch to the Post and Tribune says. The Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad Company has just achieved at this point a notable feat in engineering. The plan was to remove the timber bridge of the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad across Grand River, which had stood nearly 20 years, and replace it with an iron bridge made by the Detroit Bridge Company, the new bridge to occupy precisely the same site as the old one, and all to be done between the passage of Saturday's last train and the first train of the morning. On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock a gang of over 200 men began work dissecting and removing the old bridge which, with putting the new one together and it in place, occupied all that night and Saturday, and the new bridge would have been ready for the first train this morning to pass had not a violent wind last night compelled a suspension of the work six hours. Therefore the early train this morning had to transfer passengers, but all is now nearly completed and it is expected that that afternoon the last train to Detroit will pass the new bridge. It is 650 feet long, a massive and splendid structure.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used HAGUER'S GERMAN SYRUP to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle. as 4000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a monument as the German Syrup cannot be found elsewhere known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. CROUTER.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT,

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Dec. 29, 1877, viz: Thomas Lister having been entered at the office by George Snyder against James H. Dent, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5262, dated Sept. 16, 1875, upon the S. ½ of sec. 1, town 31 N., R. 8 West in Grand Traverse county, Michigan, which is to be cancelled, and said party duly notified to appear and testify at the office in Traverse City, Mich., on the 29th day of Dec., 1877, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 26, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Reuben C. Dewey against Alvin Lamb, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5447, dated Feb. 16, 1875, upon the S½ of section 20, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Grand Traverse county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call on the under signed at Lakes Lake. Rolls filled on short notice.

THOMAS WAY,
Owner of Schr. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE

In Evelyne.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres in section 36 in Evelyne, 30 acres improvement, good barn, and log house, good well, and orchard of 24 thrifty trees. Good house on main road and road. School house quarter of a mile, grist mill two miles and a half.

Charles Hellir,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres more or less, good improvements, one fruit tree, 30 bushels of apples last year. Will be sold for $300 cash. Address

ANTONE SCHAAP,
126 Rapids
Mich

W. V. CASWELL. C. S. BARNARD

CASWELL & BARNARD,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood. Bark. Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.,

ROOM NO. 19, MILWAUKEE, WIS.
MICHIGAN BLOCK.

SEASON ARRANGEMENT.

The Fast Steamer

JENNIE SUTTON

Capt. Henry Antrim, Master.

Will run as follows during the season of navigation either:

Will leave Charlevoix at 9:00 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays for South Arm and return.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Pine Lake and return.

Can be chartered for excursions by applying to Dexter & Noble. Elk Rapids, or on Captain on board.

DEXTER & NOBLE.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS.
Charlevoix, Aug. 7 1877. 29 tf.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Dec. 29, 1877, viz: Thomas Lister having been entered at the office by George Snyder against James H. Dent, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5262, dated Sept. 16, 1875, upon the S½ of sec. 1, town 31 N., R. 8 West in Grand Traverse county, Michigan, which is to be cancelled, and said party duly notified to appear and testify at the office in Traverse City, Mich., on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 26, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Reuben C. Dewey against Alvin Lamb, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5447, dated Feb. 16, 1875, upon the S½ of section 20, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Grand Traverse county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5641, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov. 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5642, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the N. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5643, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Dec. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5644, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the N. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

L A Y

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

—

Improved Farm

—AND—

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

—

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

—

Collections a Speciality

—

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

—

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in school Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

1169r

Michigan State Land Office.
Lansing, October 1st 1877.

Notice is hereby given that, the following described Swamp Land, situate in Charlevoix county, hereinbefore directed as Homesteads which land has reverted to the State will be restored to market at this office November 8, 1877 at ten o'clock a. m. and will be subject to sale according to the terms prescribed by law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE,
Commissioner.

Description	Section	Town	Range
[illegible] of sw¼	5	31 N	8 W
[illegible] of sw¼	5	31 N	4 W
[illegible] of sw¼	29	31 N	4 W
[illegible] of sw¼	32	31 N	4 W
[illegible] of sw¼	32	34 N	4 W
sw¼ of ne¼	22	34 N	4 W
se¼ of se¼	26	32 N	8 W
ne¼ of se¼	26	32 N	8 W
se¼ of se¼	6	32 N	8 W

Michigan State Land Office.
Lansing, Sept. 24, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following described Primary School and Agricultural College Land, situate in Charlevoix county will be offered for sale at this office November 8th 1877 at ten o'clock a. m. unless previously redeemed according to law.

B. F. PARTRIDGE,
Commissioner.

No. of Acres	Description	Section	Town	Range
39.82	se¼ of ne¼	16	32 N	4 W
80.8	sw¼ of swp	16	34 N	5 W
39.52	se¼ of nw¼	16	34 N	5 W
39.80	nw¼ of ne¼	16	32 N	5 W
39.80	sw¼ of ne¼	16	32 N	5 W
17.61	se¼ of sw¼	16	32 N	5 W

Agricultural College Land.

40	ne¼ of nw¼
	and ne¼ of	8	32 N	5W
252	ne¼ of se¼	18	32 N	4W

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5641, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5642, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the N. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5643, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5644, dated Feb. 16, 1875 upon the N. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

GEORGE C. MOFFATT, Register.
DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH

AND DOOR

FACTORY,

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regard to size. All kinds of orders for odd sizes will be done with dispatch.

Our new price list sent on application. Orders by mail or not will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns turned at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

62, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(Ends.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.

Peter Tegosh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 21st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Miles Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-resident, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

J. Miles Eaton, Solicitor for Complainant
15-6w.

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office.
Traverse City, Mich. Aug 27, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by D. Spencer Beckham against Sol Paine, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. [illegible] dated [illegible] upon the [illegible] of section 32, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877 at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment GEO. C. MOFFATT, Register.

DENNY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5645, dated April 16, 1875, upon the [illegible] of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE.
Traverse City, Mich. Sept. 21, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Melinda A. Wright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6333, dated Oct. 2, 1874, upon the all of sec[illegible] and of sec[illegible] Section 6, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

—

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly in good style and at low figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttar's store.

JAS. B. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 29 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Nov. 13. 1877. Whole No., 444

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
75c FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	2 in.	each in.
One sq.,	5	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Two "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 column,	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Cards in business directory, $4 per line per year.

Local advertisements at Sixteen cents.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Conveyancer, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. G. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL R. BAGG, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. R. BENNETT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD R. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

PETER MILLER, Custom Blacksmith & Carriage Ironing, Farmers attention paid to horse shoeing.

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,

Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession.

The Campbell House,

TRAVERSE CITY MICH.

H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PAILTHORP,

Attorney and Counselor at Law

Special attention to Chancery and Probate Practice. Will practice in general conveyancing. Office for present at Charlevoix, Mich.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER,

Has located himself in J. E. Weed's harness shop, in Charlevoix and solicits the patronage of all those needing Custom or Ready Made work.

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest style. Which are found at my residence on Main street. DAVID HAYES.

Wanted!

[illegible]

Drugs and Medicines

Stationery & Confectionery

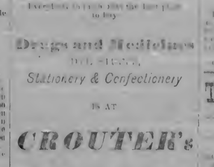
AT

CROUTER's

[illegible]

Tooth Instrument Without Pain

LOOK!



The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Hayes and Petoskey.

Leaves Hayes—8 a. m. Arrive at Petoskey 11 a. m.

Leave Petoskey 1 p. m. Arrive at Hayes 4 p. m.

Passengers taking mail for the convenience of passengers will be made, and the line will be carried on. Also express matter will be delivered to all who may so desire.

H. C. ZITTLE, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,

Horse Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

Kalsomining, Graining and Paper Hanging,

26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of building lots all in the Village of CHARLEVOIX. Also in acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov. 6, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Oct. 24, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Beadle against Charles May all for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. [illegible] dated April 16, 1875, upon the [illegible] of section 36, Township 31 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 263 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Stevens Hall. Visiting brethren a cordial invitation is extended.

L. D. BENTHAMSLEY, N. G.
GEO. W. CROUTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular communication on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. H. CRAMER, Sec'y.

[illegible]

Pursuant to [illegible] Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 21st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Miles Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-resident, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

J. Miles Eaton, Solicitor for Complainant
15-6w.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR

Charlevoix Postoffice.

[illegible]

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Corn, per bushel	50
Oats, per bushel	30
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Beans, per bushel	90
Onions, per bushel	50
Flour, per barrel	5 00
Eggs, per dozen	15
Butter, per pound	20
Chickens, dressed, per pound	10

THE steamer Sutton leaves the Pine lake route to-morrow.

A new chandelier has been procured for the Court House.

No religious service in this village either morning or evening next Sabbath.

THE tug Starke Bros. recently sank a schooner in Milwaukee harbor.

THE propeller Badger State wooded here on her way up Sunday night.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's new advertisement will appear next week.

TO STEAMYEARS.—The board examined rolls are at the County Treasurers office.

CAPT. TOM DEER was recently fined $50 for damaging another tug in Milwaukee harbor.

HENRY MORGAN has sold his store and dock property in this village to Mr. Pranels, of Canada.

CAPT. TOM MELVIN now has command of Peshtigo Starke Bros. at Milwaukee, and Capt. Fred Starke is engaged in the office

THE schooner Mary Heath has gone to "Davy Jones' Locker." She foundered in Lake Michigan during the gale of the 18th. All hands were saved.

We have nothing for stating that Pennsylvania experts are coming to sink a shaft for coal on the farm of Geo. M. Woods, in Bechtne. They are expected soon.

THE scow lighter recently brought here by a Wisconsin party to sell or rent got home one night last week, floated down stream and was wrecked on the beach.

FOR FLORIDA.—Capt. Wm. Mees, well known to our readers, recently started for Florida with the yacht Annie, by way of the Illinois canal and the Mississippi river. He has five passengers.

HON. E. H. GREEN received Friday an appointment as District Deputy Grand Worthy Chief Templar, of Good Templars, and on the same evening installed the officers of Charlevoix Lodge. Seldom ingatin has been re-appointed Lodge Deputy.

JAMES A. CAMERON, formerly of this place, but more recently of Grand Bend, Ont., arrived here with his family one day last week. He will leave his family here for the winter, but will spend the winter himself in Texas

COUNTY FINANCES.

The County Treasurer's Annual Report.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix:

I hereby hand you my report for the year ending October 8th, 1877.

TOWNSHIP ACCOUNTS.

MARION.

1876				Dr
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875		$ 37 98
nov 21	state tax 1876		45 40
	county		297 52
1877
july 2	prim school money		55 98
			——	$437 68
	CONTRA CR
1877
mar 26	By the amount tax		168 91
	cash		268 98
june 9	prim sch money		59 80
			——	$437 68

EVANGELINE.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax	$ 21 70
nov 11	state tax 1875	101 70
	county	856 85
1877
may 13	amt charged back	2 72
july 7	prim sch money	25 38
		——	$1009 15
	CONTRA CR
1877
june 9	By bal old acct		$ 8 03
1877
may 8	delinquent tax	720 87
	"	30 24
june 9	prim sch money	55 98
	tax on county	4 13
		——	$1009 15

CHARLEVOIX.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	$ 11 87
nov 24	state tax 1875	188 90
	county	709 23
1877
june 11	prim sch money	164 88
aug 17	liquor tax	25 00
oct 4	do	13 00
		——	$1,108 88
	CONTRA CR
1876
nov 7	By cash	$231 06
	delinquent tax	669 81
june 9	prim sch money	164 88
aug 7	liquor tax	40 00
oct 4	state sch tax	3 12
		——	$1,108 88

NORWOOD.

1876
oct 10	To state tax 1876	$ 49 12
	county	314 54
	township tax 1875	9 58
1877
june 9	prim school money	41 88
		——	$414 92
	CONTRA CR
1877
mar 26	By cash	$133 48
	delinquent tax	187 88
june 9	primary sch money	71 56
		——	$414 92

BOYNE VALLEY.

1876
oct 10	To rejected tax 1875	$ 20 25
nov 24	state tax 1876	30 42
	county	262 11
1877
june 9	prim school money	16 36
		——	$318 95
	CONTRA CR
1877
8bb21	by cash	$200 00
mar 26	cash	68 52
	delinquent tax	141 42
june 9	primary sch money	76 26
	bal due county	1 65
		——	$518 95

Respectfully submitted,
BYRON SEE, Co. Treasurer.

A nice lot of crockery just received at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, cheaper than ever.

E. H. Bumpus, of Cedarville, this Township, recently returned from Chicago.

FISHING.—The boys, and even the men merchants, tradesmen and clergymen—have all spent their leisure hours during the week fishing off the harbor docks for herring, of which a great number have been caught.

VESSEL ASHORE.—Capt. Way of the schooner W. A. Smith, on arriving at this port from Mackinac on Thursday, reported a large three masted schooner ashore near Middle Village. He engaged a double crew and repaired to the wreck, and is there at this writing profiting by the disaster.

LOOK HERE.—You of more southern latitudes must cease to speak of this region as if it were in the Arctic Zone We hear that at Buffalo they have sleighing, and at Grand Rapids they have a foot of snow. Here the ground has not been hid from sight by the "beautiful element." As we write the weather is as warm and balmy as a spring morning

The Elections.

In the various State elections the results are variable. The effect of the labor troubles, and in some cases dissatisfaction with the President's policy have been felt in the contest; many voters of both parties were indifferent, and the vote has generally been light. Connecticut gives a substantial Republican majority of three or five in the Senate and twenty-five or thirty in the House. Massachusetts, which has been confidently claimed by the Democrats, has gone overwhelmingly Republican. In New York, Senator Conkling and his associates have made a gallant contest, and have largely reduced the Democratic majority of last year. Kelly and the Tammany ring received a severe blow in New York city. The reports about the Legislature are conflicting.

New Jersey elects a Democratic State ticket and Legislature.

Pennsylvania, where the labor troubles have largely affected the result, is close, but probably Democratic. Wisconsin goes 5,000 Republican, Minnesota and Kansas are Republican, while Maryland and Virginia, of course, are Democratic.

Charlevoix as a Marketing Point.

The plant will grow toward the light, and water will meet from divers directions and flow toward a common center if nature gives the water shed. In localities favored with a healthy activity of nature, flow to some central depository or point of transfer.

The plant strides with which this region is reaching the front rank of grain-raising localities, and the superior quality of our grain, are sure indicators of what the future will be for us as a community, to say nothing of the magnitude and excellence of our crops of roots, vegetables and grass—truly important auxiliaries to the more staple cereals.

These facts established, we have a foundation of truth to rest upon, viz: That with the lapse of years the farm products of the large region looking toward this common center must multiply with prodigious rapidity, and ultimately constitute a large and important trade here.

Even with the present area of territory and its population, Charlevoix must continue to develop as a market, inasmuch as every year adds to the tillable acreage and consequently to the pecuniary wealth of the people; but into the main stream of trade that flows to our town, small rivulets will from time to time direct their current, and in their turn develop as time and circumstances prosper them.

An agency that will have very much to do in constituting Charlevoix an agricultural market is the existence of unexcelled facilities for shipment of produce. In fact this is the main idea after "base of supplies" is considered into the elements of Chicago and Milwaukee the grain of this country must of necessity find itself destined and at Charlevoix it must be transferred to those markets, because of the much cheaper mode of transfer here than at any interior railroad point. All other surplus products must follow their great leader—grain—through the same channels.

With these indisputable facts before us we should use our best endeavors to so improve our marketing facilities as will render it profitable and convenient for farmers to bring here their surplus products. Let us improve our roads in all directions. Let us attract hither capital, and encourage its use

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

BILLS were introduced in the Senate, on the 23d—to regulate the bounties of soldiers who served in the late War for the Union; amending the Revised Statutes in regard to the militia, making an annual appropriation of $1,000,000 for the purpose of providing arms and equipments for the whole body of the militia; to encourage labor to become citizens of the United States; to provide a lawful note and coin currency; to authorize a long bond for the improvement of savings. After an Executive session, an adjournment was had until the 26th. House not in session.

THE Senate was not in session on the 26th. In the House, the consideration of the Diplomatic case was resumed, Mr. Harrison advocating Mr. Dutton's right to a seat, and Mr. Hurlbut supporting Mr. Bellford as having prima facie right as Representative. Further discussion ensued, but without action, when the House adjourned.

BILLS were introduced, in the Senate, on the 27th authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust and settle the debt due the United States by the State of Arkansas; reestablishing the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, and providing for a redistribution of unappropriated moneys; for the repeal of the duties on spirits by the refunding of moneys expended or paid and deposited by them for the Tax stamps. Adjourned to the 28th. In the House, after further debate on the Colorado case, the resolution referring the question to the Committee on Elections was adopted—137 to 130—a party vote. Several petitions were presented among which were from citizens of Missouri for the removal of the National Capital, from all men of color, asking for assistance from Congress to enable them to go to Liberia and make for themselves permanent home; for a Government ban to and settlers on the public domain, from merchants and others, protesting against the unjust discrimination made in favor of by the compensation of Government clerks, and leaving that of the mechanics and laborers to be established at the option of individuals. Adjourned to the 28th.

IN the Senate, on the 29th, the following bills were introduced and referred: To amend the Bankrupt act; to fix the date of the meeting of the first regular session of the Forty-fifth Congress upon July 1; to provide for the coinage of silver dollars, and to make the same a legal tender; to establish the Territory of Lincoln; giving to Nebraska an additional Representative in Congress after the 4th of March next. An Executive session was held, at which several communications from the President were considered. In the House, a large number of bills were introduced and referred among which were the following: Repealing the Bankrupt act; reducing the postage on letters; to repeal the tax on deposits in savings institutions; in relation to the Paris Exhibition of 1878, appropriating $150,000 to cover all expenses on the part of the United States Government; providing for the removal of all political disabilities; to repeal the act for the resumption of specie payments; proposing an amendment to the Constitution in prohibiting to the President to shall only the unexpired term of office, to make United States notes receivable for import duties; to repeal the laws forbidding the payment of persons who were in the civil or transfer the charge of Indian Affairs to the War Department; to reform the Civil Service; to provide for the counting of the Presidential vote; for the issue of National savings bonds; for a National Savings Department as a branch of the Postoffice Department; for the admission of Utah and Dakota as States. The Standing Committees were announced and the House adjourned to the 1st of November.

FOREIGN.

CONSTANTINOPLE telegrams of the 20th say the Porte was considering a proposition for an armistice.

DON THOMAS ESTRADA, President of the Cuban Republic, and several other Republican leaders, were recently captured off the Cuban coast by Spanish cruisers.

DURING a recent reconnoissance with the Czarowitz, the Prince of Leuchtenberg, nephew and aid-de-camp to the Emperor, was killed.

ACCORDING to official dispatches of the 24th, the increase of Plevna was soon complete. The Turks were believed to be about of provisions, and would be soon forced to fight or starve.

A REPORT prevailed in Constantinople, on the 26th, that negotiations were being entered into for the surrender of Kars.

A TIMES telegram of the 29th says the Russians were at Slatitza, south of the Balkans, in the rear of Orchanie.

A HURRICANE recently swept over the Island of Curacoa, in the West Indies, which destroyed property valued at $2,000,000, and caused the loss of numerous lives.

DOMESTIC.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin of a recent date states that, as a result of a thorough investigation of the merits and demerits of the Keeley motor, by intelligent men of the manufacturing interests of that city, the inventor has been enabled to demonstrate the fact that he has discovered a force capable of being controlled and directed by the will, and that, in using it upon the public, he did not bear quality of fraud, but was simply laboring under a delusion. He has discovered a motor which is prevented by several distasteful defects from being of practical worth, not the least important of which is its want of economy in cost as compared with steam.

AN injunction issued against the New Orleans School Board, forbidding the Board's establishing separate schools for white and colored children, was dissolved, on the 23d, by Judge Rights, of the Sixth District Court.

WOOD'S THEATRE AND MUSEUM, a well known place of amusement, in Chicago, was damaged by fire, on the 23d, to the extent of about $50,000.

OFFICIAL dispatches received in Washington confirm the previous reports regarding the refusal of Sitting Bull to accept the proposition of the United States Commissioners.

THE first of the Pittsburgh riot cases was tried in the Criminal Court of that city, on the 24th. A Murray, convicted of having stolen firearms, ammunition and other property, was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary. Tom Gallagher, another of the rioters, who was convicted of receiving stolen goods and pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to six years' imprisonment.

BY order of the New York Canal Commissioners, the Erie Canal is to be closed on the 7th of December, unless sooner closed by ice.

THE fourth annual Convention of the Woman's National Christian Temperance Union met in Chicago, on the 24th. Several delegates from a large number of States were in attendance. The address of welcome was made by Miss Frances E. Willard.

THE removal of the Indians at the Red Cloud Agency, Neb., to the vicinity of the Missouri River region, was commenced, on the 24th. No disaffection was evinced by the Indians. The march would be a long and tedious one, probably occupying a month.

THE proceedings made to Sitting Bull by the Commission on the part of the United States, and which he assuredly rejected, were that the Sioux should surrender their arms, ammunition and horses, and go to some military post in a submissive, obedient spirit, where they would be exempt from punishment. They were promised full compensation for their property. Sitting Bull is represented as saying: "I did not give you any country, but you took it away from us. I was not consulted. I am a free man, no beggar feels than I am. This house is a medicine-house. You come here to tell us lies, but we don't want to hear them. I don't wish any such language said to me, that is to sell me such lies to my people. If Jesus' house followed Victoria). Don't you say two ways to your people. The earth is the mother of us all. The Great Spirit has given us a free country to live and raise our children upon. You are trying to get me to sell my country, but you took it away from me

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 13, 1877.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Nov. 9, 1877.

The dramatic and unexpected return of A. Oakey Hall this week is fairly of a piece with the whole course of our erratic ex mayor, ex actor, lawyer and politician. When we supposed he was busy writing bricks or spicy newspaper paragraphs in his cosy office over in the Tribune Building he suddenly drops beneath the surface of society and reappeared under a changed aspect and alter ed name in London. There, while we were considering him a fixture in the English metropolis he again suddenly disappeared only to turn up of a sudden—as said Dame Ramot—at the seat of the Russo-Turkish war. And now, just as his memory begins to fall from our minds, up jumps our versatile Joaquin, apparently from the depths of the Atlantic, with a third "Here we are again!" Queer proceedings these are beyond a doubt but his behavior concerning them is even more odd. When he first left it was without clue or warning, when he was in London, he would say nothing even to his best friends, and denied his own identity to escape their attentions and now he says he is as much at a loss as any one else to account for the whole affair. The reason he gives for his return at this time, is the accusations of complicity in the Ring frauds which Tweed has just renewed against him. It will be remembered that among the numerous theories advanced at the time of his disappearance, the one most generally credited was, that he ill from the very exposure. Mr. Hall, however, denies positively that there is any truth in the charges and professes to stand a second trial. It will also be remembered that he was tried at the time of the first Ring suits and acquitted. Time will probably explain all these mysteries.

The coaching season of 1877 is at an end. Col. DeLancy Kane and his now famous 'Tally ho," which for the past four months have made a daily trips between the Hotel Brunswick, in the city, and Yonkers, made their last run on Wednesday During this time, hundreds have availed themselves of the pleasure incident to a ride on the handsome coach, while others have been daily among the group which every morning watched to depart, and every afternoon anxiously awaited its return. This latter class were afforded a treat on Saturday in witnessing the grand semi annual parade of the drags of the Coaching Club Promptly at 3.30 the start was made, the coaches proceeding out Fifth avenue to Central Park, after having made the circuit of which the return down Fifth avenue to the starting point was begun The entire route of the procession was thronged with carriages, and at the hotels and clubs the coaches were greeted with waving of handkerchiefs and other expressions of feminine approval Thus the most popular of our aristocratic amusements temporarily closed its career with appropriate ceremony.

We have come at last to an oasis in the desert of life insurance disaster which the country has been traveling with varying hardships for more than a year The New York Life has just been emerged from a rigid and searching examination, the result of which is set forth in a brief official report in which the managers declare that they find in its condition and management nothing to criticize and nothing to censure, that measuring its assets by the unfairly severe standard of present market value, it has a net surplus of over $5,000,000, and, most wonderful of all, that every item of its last annual report made to the Department is exactly true in every item. Of all the many investigations made since those unfortunate troubles began, no other has resulted in so hearty and absolute an endorsement of the company scrutinized, as this

What too for the cool headedness of the manager might have become a deadly disaster, attended with serious consequence and loss of life, occurred at Niblo's Garden on the evening of the 27th, during the preformance of the last act in the play of "The Jubilee Railway, or Nick of the Woods." The curtain had just risen when from an upper gallery came the cry of Fire. The theatre was densely packed, and as the vast audience caught the cry and realized its fearful significance a rush was made for the doors of the house. At this juncture the appearance of the manager upon the stage, who denounced the attempt to create a panic in the audience and ordered the curtain to rise, together with the announcement that any person desiring to leave the theatre in the interest of a rival house, and on account of $50 for his arrest, effectually put a stop to the panic, the audience resumed their seats and the play continuing. Beyond the dilapidation of some hats and bonnets and the loss of some jewelry, the dangerous tumult did no damage, but for a few moments the excitement among the crowded thousands was of an intensity not soon to be forgotten.

At last, after many fruitless efforts to discover some trace of the party under Sir John Franklin, there appears to be a reasonable hope that the mystery which for nearly a third of a century has enveloped the fate of this daring nobleman and his followers may be dispelled away. The story of their loss where in search of the northwest passage is too well known to be repeated here. Thousands of dollars have been expended in the search, and while from time to time have come rumors of success, they have either proved partially true (such as the finding of unimportant relics) or failed entirely when subjected to the test of a relief expedition.

Now it is claimed that positive information has been secured going to show that the bodies of Sir John and some of his officers lie buried at Engefield, an Esquimaux settlement some 100 miles inland—a spot not yet reached by any exploring parties. Two silver spoons, one bearing the Franklin crest, have been discovered in the possession of natives at Mettle Island, and from these people have been gathered facts showing a reasonable possibility of a successful trace at last.

Lady Franklin, with her beautiful devotion, her untiring zeal, and her unstinted contributions to the plans pointing to the solution of the mystery surrounding her husband's fate, is now beyond the hopes, the fears and the disappointments which encompassed her in this world; yet should the search now being instituted prove successful there must in every heart be a lingering sense of disappointment that this lonely woman did not live to see the consummation of her life's work.

The yearning sympathy for suffering which prompted your noble American women to their many good works during our own war, has not died out during ten years and more of peace. An association of ladies of this city has been formed, under the name of the Society of the Crescent and Cross, for the purpose of aiding in the relief of the wounded soldiers of both the Turkish and Russian armies, now in conflict in the East. Another association has been formed under the title of "The Society of the Red Cross," but with a more restricted object, its intended beneficiaries being the wounded within the Russian lines exclusively.

The wives of the most prominent men of New York are at the head of the former of these organizations and their benevolent work is being vigorously pushed.

RADIX.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used ROWLAND'S ODONTO or PEARL to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, Sores, Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will be necessary case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least 50 by one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart? Have you Dizziness of the Head? Is your Nervous System depressed? Does your Blood circulate badly? Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c, &c. All of these and much more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and Indigestion. GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,000,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first-class Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on Sink Road,

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Well fenced for pasture, or for cultivation. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required. Address ROBERT TAYLOR, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapips & Indiana R. R. Co.

50, CCOAcres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, and are either worked and a ready sale in market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great lumbering section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs thro' the center of the grant.

The port of Michigan in which these lands are found is

Not a Wilderenss. by any Means

It contains a population of two hundred and fifty thousand souls and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country in the soil and how to lay how to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap,

☞ Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address WM. BROWETT, Commissioner, Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

Peo,le also reside in Charlevoix and nearly can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an orders either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP.

It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire of A. BUTTARS, Charlevoix, Aug. 7 1877. 32 tf.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER

1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN

EVERY DEPATMENT

We are supplied

With the Best

THAT THE

WholesaleMarkets Afford

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

ToSell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumeous,

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

Special Bargains

at

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

For the Next Thirty Days.

We carry a General Stock of Merchandise and are constantly receiving new goods.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich.

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (6)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and has Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a NEW AMERICAN and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM, Manager,

63 Madison, St. Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, ClOthing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for Cash or its equivalents.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission

Wild land and Improved Farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolies

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries sold in State. Orders for TEAS SYRUPS &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(97) (6.1.5.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$9.00.

Dion's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. R. BALCH, Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles' Lath Cheese Box Stuff Broom Handles Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which abound myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge

ENGLISH INK for Printers,

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS,

(Successors to London Engraved)

183 & 185 MONROE ST., CHICAGO And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

House Standing Committees.

The following is the list of the Standing Committees of the National House of Representatives, as announced by Speaker Randall, on the 29th inst.:

Elections—Harris of Virginia, Chairman; Springer of Illinois, Candler of Georgia, Tarsney of Pennsylvania, Cobb of Indiana, Williams of Alabama, Elliott of Louisiana, Weal of Connecticut, Cheadle of Tennessee, Cox of Ohio, Hiscock of New York.

Ways and Means—Wood of New York, Chairman; Tucker of Virginia, Snyder of Ohio, Robinson of North Carolina, Herbert of Oregon, Blanchard of Louisiana, Peters of Connecticut, Kelly of Pennsylvania, Garfield of Ohio, Buckland of Illinois, Brewer of Massachusetts.

Appropriations—Atkins of Tennessee, Chairman; Blount of Georgia, Singleton of Mississippi, Cluster of Pennsylvania, Dowell of New York, Sparks of Illinois, Dutton of Kentucky, Baker of Maine, Foster of Ohio, Rudolf of Pennsylvania, Baker of Indiana.

Banking and Currency—Buckner of Missouri, Chairman; Ewing of Ohio, Bardsdorgh of New Jersey, Yeates of North Carolina, Hartzell of Illinois, Bell of Georgia, Hazel of New York, Rogers of Rhode Island, Butterworth of New York, Foot of Illinois, Phillips of Kansas.

Pacific Railroads—Potter of New York, Chairman, Throckmorton of Texas, Morrison of Illinois, House of Tennessee, Luttrell of California, Anders of Connecticut, Chalmers of Mississippi, Elam of Louisiana, Hall of Virginia, Brewster, Blair of New Hampshire, Caswell of Wisconsin, Coe of Missouri, Rice of Massachusetts.

Claims—Bright of Tennessee, Chairman; Warner of Connecticut, Davis of Illinois, Keating of Kentucky, Peters of Kansas, Dibrell of Ohio, Henry of Maryland, Lockwood of New York, Bennett of Illinois, Kimball of Michigan, Lindsey of Maine, Cummings of Iowa.

Commerce—Reagan of Texas, Chairman; Felton of Georgia, Ikin of Missouri, Hiscock of New York, Roberts of Maryland, Ross of New Jersey, Kenna of West Virginia, Hunger of Indiana, Bansell of Minnesota, Hubbell of Michigan, Gorman of Pennsylvania.

Public Lands—Morrison of Illinois, Chairman; Culbert of Indiana, Hunter of Arkansas, Turk of Missouri, Wright of Pennsylvania, Hewitt of Alabama, Smith of Georgia, Kelley of New York, Dawes of California, Sapp of Iowa, Weber of Indiana, Kimball of Texas.

Post-Offices and Post Roads—Waddell of North Carolina, Chairman; Brumm of Arkansas, Caldwell of Tennessee, Giddings of Texas, Garth of Alabama, Quinn of New York, Money of Mississippi, Connon of Illinois, Forsano of Pennsylvania, Williams of New Hampshire, Townsend of Illinois, District of Columbia—Willcox of Michigan, Chairman.

Judiciary—Knott of Kentucky, Chairman; Lamb of Virginia, Wheeman, Hurd of New York, Hooge of Georgia, Metzger of Pennsylvania, Mc-Mahon of New York, Dunnell of Minnesota, Page of Maine, Butler of Massachusetts, Conger of Michigan, Lapham of New York.

War Claims—Lilas of Illinois, Chairman, Cabell of Virginia, Luttrell of California, Sterling of Alabama, Caldwell of Kentucky, Vocher of New York, Reilly of Pennsylvania, Dorgy of Iowa, Thomas of Pennsylvania, Keifer of Ohio, Culberson of Indiana.

Public Expenditures—Hatcher of Missouri, Chairman; Cantwell of Illinois, Peele of Virginia, Finley of Ohio, Davidson of Florida, Lawrence of New York, Dunnell of Minnesota, Baker of New York, Kleiglerd of Michigan, Burdick of Iowa, Dockery of Pennsylvania.

Private Land Claims—Gunter of Arkansas, Chairman.

Manufactures—Wright of Pennsylvania, Chairman; Bissell of Tennessee, Wooster of Connecticut, Wilson of West Virginia, Logan of Alabama, Blackburn of Florida, Burnes of Missouri, Peddie of New Jersey, Butler of Missouri, Upton of Illinois, Bacon of Iowa.

Agriculture—Colter of New Jersey, Chairman; Hatch of Missouri, Professor of Virginia, Dargan of New York, Aiken of South Carolina, Finley of Ohio, Shelley of North Carolina, Bering of Iowa, Boyd of Illinois, Watson of Pennsylvania, Sibley of Indiana.

Indian Affairs—Scales of North Carolina, Chairman; Bennett of Tennessee, Wooster of Connecticut, Wilson of West Virginia, Logan of Alabama, Blackburn of Florida, Burnes of Missouri, Peddie of New Jersey, Butler of Missouri, Upton of Illinois, Bacon of Iowa.

Agriculture—Colter of New Jersey, Chairman; Hatch of Missouri, Professor of Virginia, Dargan of New York, Aiken of South Carolina, Finley of Ohio, Shelley of North Carolina, Bering of Iowa, Boyd of Illinois, Watson of Pennsylvania, Sibley of Indiana.

Indian Affairs—Scales of North Carolina, Chairman; Bennett of Tennessee, Wooster of Connecticut, Wilson of West Virginia, Logan of Alabama, Blackburn of Florida, Burnes of Missouri, Peddie of New Jersey, Butler of Missouri, Upton of Illinois, Bacon of Iowa.

Military Affairs—Banning of Ohio, Chairman; Hatch of Missouri, Professor of Virginia, Dargan of New York, Aiken of South Carolina, Finley of Ohio, Shelley of North Carolina, Bering of Iowa, Boyd of Illinois, Watson of Pennsylvania, Sibley of Indiana.

Militia—Row of New Jersey, Chairman; Hamilton of Virginia, Scales of North Carolina, Haskell of Kansas, Cox of Tennessee, Hemphill of South Carolina, Culberson of Texas, Turner of Kentucky, Adams of Indiana, Dingley of Maine, Hopkins of Pennsylvania, Smalls of South Carolina.

Naval Affairs—Whitthorne of Tennessee, Chairman; Miles of Texas, Hanks of Florida, Wills of New York, Jones of New Hampshire, Morse of Massachusetts, Simmons of Rhode Island, Harris of Massachusetts, Danford of Ohio, Hunter of Pennsylvania, Hanna of Indiana.

Foreign Affairs—Swann of Maryland, Chairman; Cox of New York, Hamilton of Texas, Former of Alabama, Stockslager of Indiana, Wilson of West Virginia, Hemphill of South Carolina, Cox of Ohio, Hiscock of New York.

Ways and Means—Wood of New York, Chairman; Tucker of Virginia, Snyder of Ohio, Robinson of North Carolina, Herbert of Oregon, Blanchard of Louisiana, Peters of Connecticut, Kelly of Pennsylvania, Garfield of Ohio, Buckland of Illinois, Brewer of Massachusetts.

Appropriations—Atkins of Tennessee, Chairman; Blount of Georgia, Singleton of Mississippi, Cluster of Pennsylvania, Dowell of New York, Sparks of Illinois, Dutton of Kentucky, Baker of Maine, Foster of Ohio, Rudolf of Pennsylvania, Baker of Indiana.

Banking and Currency—Buckner of Missouri, Chairman; Ewing of Ohio, Bardsdorgh of New Jersey, Yeates of North Carolina, Hartzell of Illinois, Bell of Georgia, Hazel of New York, Rogers of Rhode Island, Butterworth of New York, Foot of Illinois, Phillips of Kansas.

Pacific Railroads—Potter of New York, Chairman, Throckmorton of Texas, Morrison of Illinois, House of Tennessee, Luttrell of California, Anders of Connecticut, Chalmers of Mississippi, Elam of Louisiana, Hall of Virginia, Brewster, Blair of New Hampshire, Caswell of Wisconsin, Coe of Missouri, Rice of Massachusetts.

Claims—Bright of Tennessee, Chairman; Warner of Connecticut, Davis of Illinois, Keating of Kentucky, Peters of Kansas, Dibrell of Ohio, Henry of Maryland, Lockwood of New York, Bennett of Illinois, Kimball of Michigan, Lindsey of Maine, Cummings of Iowa.

Commerce—Reagan of Texas, Chairman; Felton of Georgia, Ikin of Missouri, Hiscock of New York, Roberts of Maryland, Ross of New Jersey, Kenna of West Virginia, Hunger of Indiana, Bansell of Minnesota, Hubbell of Michigan, Gorman of Pennsylvania.

Public Lands—Morrison of Illinois, Chairman; Culbert of Indiana, Hunter of Arkansas, Turk of Missouri, Wright of Pennsylvania, Hewitt of Alabama, Smith of Georgia, Kelley of New York, Dawes of California, Sapp of Iowa, Weber of Indiana, Kimball of Texas.

Post-Offices and Post Roads—Waddell of North Carolina, Chairman; Brumm of Arkansas, Caldwell of Tennessee, Giddings of Texas, Garth of Alabama, Quinn of New York, Money of Mississippi, Connon of Illinois, Forsano of Pennsylvania, Williams of New Hampshire, Willis of Michigan.

Public Buildings and Grounds—Cook of Georgia, Chairman;

Accounts—Roberts of Maryland, Chairman.

Mileage—Cobb of Indiana, Chairman.

Expenditures of the State Department—Springer of Illinois, Chairman; Walker of Virginia, Mayham of New York, Dimmick of Missouri, Bayne of Pennsylvania.

Expenditures of the Treasury Department—Glover of Missouri, Chairman; Harris of Georgia, Former of Alabama, Dunnell of Minnesota, Yeeder of New York, Dockery of Ohio, Bagley of New York, White of Indiana, Jorgensen of Virginia.

Expenditures of the War Department—Blackburn of Kentucky, Chairman; Hatcher of Missouri, Rice of Ohio, Darnell of Louisiana, Eames of Rhode Island.

Expenditures in the Navy Department—Willis of New York, Chairman; Whitthorne of Tennessee, Darnell of Kentucky, Page of California, Hubbell of Michigan.

Expenditures in the Postoffice Department—Wilkins of Alabama, Chairman; Wilkins of Michigan, Caldwell of Kentucky, Watson of Pennsylvania, Douglass of New York.

Expenditures on Public Buildings—Lynch of Wyoming, Chairman.

Expenditures in the Department of Justice—Bragg of Wisconsin, Chairman; Denham of Kansas, Eden of Illinois, Ikelbarger of New Jersey, Hollingsworth of Georgia, Evans of South Carolina, Keifer of New York, Conger of Michigan, Weal of Connecticut, Gardner of Ohio, Robinson of Massachusetts.

Expenditures in the Interior Department—Sowden of Illinois, Chairman, Robbins of North Carolina, Lockwood of New York, Olives of Iowa, Willits of Michigan.

Reforms in the Civil Service—Harrison of Illinois, Chairman; Benett of New York, Cook of Georgia, Garth of Alabama, Chavens of Arkansas, Henry of Maryland, Morgan of Missouri, Price of Iowa, Jones of New York, Pugh of New Jersey, Sexton of Indiana.

Mississippi Levees—Robertson of Louisiana, Chairman; Hatcher of Missouri, Money of Mississippi, Young of Tennessee, Kinney of Illinois, Sanders of Connecticut, Hatfield West Virginia, Leeds of Pennsylvania, Pound of Wisconsin, Rebeson of Massachusetts, Bidwell of Florida.

Rules—The Speaker, Stephens of Georgia, Sayler of Ohio, Banks of Massachusetts, Garfield of Ohio.

Revision of the Law Regulating the Counting of the Electoral Votes, etc.—Southard of Ohio, Chairman; Buxton of Virginia, Potter of New York, House of Tennessee, Luttrell of Indiana, Herbert of Alabama, Cachis of Kentucky, Butler of Massachusetts, Bourne of Indiana, Brogden of North Carolina, Sampson of Iowa.

Printing—Singleton of Mississippi, Chairman, Knotted Bills—Hamilton of Indiana, Chairman.

Library—Cox of New York, Chairman.

An Italian Love Story.

Not apocryphal, but just as it really happened twenty years ago, you shall have the story. Near Spezzia, on the Italian Mediterranean coast, there lived an Italian family, not very wealthy but in comfortable circumstances. The family was composed of a gentleman and lady, and their daughter. The latter, when she had reached her sixteenth year (twenty years ago) fell deeply and passionately in love with a young officer who required her love. But the parents of the damsel disapproved of the match, and, influenced by the progress of his attachment, they used their influence to the utmost, and contrived to marry their daughter to a Count, a wealthy man, clever, well-informed, and very anxious for the match, though many years older than the young girl. The wedding took place, though the Count was fully awared of a previous attachment. Probably he thought it merely a young girl's fancy, and the parents did their best to make him believe that it was so. Unfortunately, the result proved their mistake. The young girl pined and grieved, and never smiled, and could not be persuaded to forget the past. Her husband felt into the mistake of taking her to his house, and installed all of those little accessories which he should most have dreaded and avoided. He became more and more devoted to her—she turned from him with ever-increasing dislike. At length her state of health alarmed the physician, who ordered an immediate change of scene. But the mischief was done already. From morning till night the unhappy young creature would sit in a room and nothing could induce her. They traveled over France, Germany and Spain, but the only effect of change was to bring on extreme indifference and listlessness, which increased till, when they came home, the Count found that he had done no good and his wife had become a harmless lunatic. Even then, perhaps, something might have been tried as a means of cure, but at once return to Italy, times, but the Count was still wild with morse and really deep affection, so that he gave up his life in trying to gratify her various fancies and frequent caprices. For twenty years this line gone on. They live in an ideal villa on a hill overlooking the Gulf of Spezzia, and place it really is, with handsome, lofty rooms, and outside you could want nothing more lovely than the groves of olive and the vineyards. The Count found that he had done no good when he married the poor young woman in his charge, but his care is poorly requited, for her madness has grown from fear of loathing his very presence, and no reason can now dissimulate the feeling which has made her a wreck. He takes refuge in his books, lives like a hermit, spends Latin and Greek poetry in his solitude, is devoted to astronomy, and has an excellent telescope. But his life scarcely deserves the name. I dined once with the miserable couple. She came in running when he rang the bell, and sat down, without noticing anyone, at the head of the table. She had a strange way of dipping her hands in the soup which was disagreeable. But her husband will not live apart from her, even watching her at night and sleeping in her room. But it was terrible to note the shrinking wherever he approached her like a nameless horror coming over her, and at the same time the cunning of hapless maids her dissemble, so that she will look at you, mocking him behind his back. He seems to have accepted his fate as a species of expiation for having forced her inclination long ago, but does not seem to realize the folly of persisting in a system of treatment which does but exasperate her condition in the least. You see her taking a daily drive in a coach lined with white satin, and once expressed a wish to drive. She spoke to the servants, but never notices her husband nor answers him when he addresses her. This is a romance of real life. While the mad woman is enjoying good health, her poor, voluntary keeper is slowly growing thinner, paler, wearing away. But your readers will complain of this "dismal ditty," though it proves that Italy has still some romantic corners.—Correspondence Philadelphia Telegraph.

The best insect destroyer, according to the Journal of Chemistry, is alum water. Put the alum in hot water and let it boil until it is entirely dissolved, then apply it hot with a brush, to all cracks, Gossels, bedsteads and other places infested by insects. It is equally death to nits, bedbugs, roaches and et genus omne, while there is no danger in using it of poisoning any of the family or injuring property.

THE Lackawanna region has shipped 2,985,155 tons of coal thus far this year —an increase of 787,175 tons over last year.

A SOLEMN LESSON.

Mr. Gilman did not fall through the force of any outward pressure. There was nothing even in his own immediate circumstances that made crime appear to him necessary in order to his extrication from business troubles. It was simply that he was living far in a style which his income did not enable him to maintain, and in order to furnish himself with the means he resorted to an extent very embezzlement of trust funds, and then added the oft-repeated crime of forgery. He had not the moral courage simply to reduce his expenses and live as thousands of better men are living, and in the intatuation which the first departure from the path of rectitude inclineth, he made a wreck of everything, in the wild but vain hope that somehow he could extricate himself and all would come out safe in the end.

Let young men and men of riper years, who are engaged in business, and especially those who feel in themselves the temptation to make a show in the world which they have not the means to sustain, take warning from this deplorable case. We deeply mourn over its occurrence, but now that it has occurred, we hope that such a work of exposure may not be in vain, and that the hopes and happiness of friends may be a beacon, warning others to beware of the rocks on which such a precious freight was sut away. Let no man set his heart on acquiring wealth at it were the chief good; and let no man covet to acquire a possession, excepting in a legitimate, upright, honest, honorable way. And "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

WM. C. GILMAN'S CONFESSION.

To the Rev. Dr. Boughton; to my wife, to my brothers and sisters and intimate friends:

It is proper to state certain facts in explanation, not extenuation, of my conduct.

From the time I began business I had placed in my hands, by friends who trusted me implicitly, sums of money ranging from $100 to $20,000, on interest at 7 per cent. The accumulations often remain undisturbed for weeks and months, and, as I paid for the privilege, it was proper and was understood that I employed them in business.

I never speculated in stocks or margin, nor lost or won money by any wager or gain. I did make investments in enterprises which promised well from time to time, in good faith, and which turned out utterly bad. For this my judgment is to be blamed.

Possession of so much money, and the control of it, gradually made me feel and act as if it were my own, and experiments upon it were my own, and experiments upon it were my own, and experiments upon it were my own losses or expenses, which began many years ago, came so gradually that I was scarcely sensible of them, while I knew that I was running behind. I could not bear to look detestation square in the face, and hoped for better times.

Times grew worse instead of better. The failure of the Sun Insurance Company and the necessities of other companies, impaired the confidence of lawyers in everything but Atlantic, and competition for that the last few years has carried prices so high as to leave no margin for profit, and has made the commissions thoroughly inadequate to meet the scale of expenses on which I was doing business and living. Consequently my business was greatly restricted. The worse my affairs grew the more unwilling I became to investigate them. My books and accounts, which had been my pride, were neglected. I drifted hopelessly on a sea of trouble, seeing every brave effort seemed to give a little present hope, and, in some cases, I allowed my reputation to suffer by long delay in making up accounts which were called for.

This moral weakness was quite inexcusable. How easy to say so now! yet how hard it seemed to do what I should years ago have done, in reducing expenses at home and in the office, and in resolutely closing accounts which were a temptation to me, and which, if honestly treated, must, at that rate of interest, have proved unprofitable.

Prior to the panic of 1873 I had made proper use of trust-funds in my hands, under the pressure of declining business, and the troubles of that year involved me in additional liabilities, that time the accounts in my hands began to be drawn on by the depositors more freely than before, and not infrequently I found myself sorely pinched, but always managed to extricate myself without doing anything criminal, though I must confess the moral looseness of my proceedings those many years. As nearly as I can remember, I must have put forth the effort "to retrieve" not quite two years ago. It was so easy to do it, yet what a struggle it cost me! I have suffered more, all those months, in thinking of my baseness in abusing the confidence of my friends in No. 33 Pine street, in the two insurance companies and in the bank, every one of whom has always fronted me with the greatest kindness, than of the absolute wickedness of those crimes.

Blindly hoping that the next step would extricate me, I plunged deeper and deeper. I hope I make it plain that my endeavor was to cover the deficiencies of a term of years. It is impossible for me to state, without reference to memoranda, which I have not on me, what amounts are absent; but I am confident this will be found at the American Exchange Bank, Fulton Insurance Company, and H. Talmadge & Co., and my friends who are looking will find the whole horrid truth there.

I have not sold any fraudulent securities, but borrowed on them. It is proper for me to say that I am about responsible for every wrong act. No human being could have had a suspicion of it, and I am alone to blame for the false pride which has made me incur expenses at home and in my business which could not be lawfully met. My wife never persuaded me to any extravagance, and she would have accepted my restraint I might have put upon her.

In addition to these fraudulent transactions, other persons than those named must suffer to a considerable degree, should my brothers and sisters, probably to the extent of $75,000, and several other persons, who have had accounts with me for years. I cannot now state the amounts of those latter accounts approximately.

To sum up briefly, I would say that a decline in business, bad investments, heavy expenses, both business and domestic, and personal extravagance have destroyed me. No! I must be just to myself, and confess that I have deliberately walked, in the clearest light and knowledge, in the face of the best instructions, into this pit. Some may call it madness; I call it sin.

Those who know me in my business relations display for my not be aware of it, but everyone who knows me personally will bear witness that my intimate friends and associates are all some of the best and purest souls that ever lived. They know that I love better to give away money than to spend it for myself; they know that my thoughts and my interests were more with various charitable works with which it was my happiness to be connected than on money-getting by night or by day. They will mourn with me that I should have valued the good opinion of good men more than the good conscience and my own self-respect. They will wonder how it was possible for a man to so far deceive himself as to believe that he really cared for and valued things that were true, honest, pure, just, lovely and of good report, while, beneath the smooth surface, his heart was rotten and dishonest to the core.

I suppose no one will be much surprised that suicide had been much in my thoughts for many years, and while I hoped that some change of fortune might avert the impending disaster, I have fearful for some weeks that it might be near at hand. I had deliberated before this whether I should add sin to sin, but had resolved to meet the crisis, as soon as it should come, meekly and frankly. I have now but one desire, and that is to throw all the light on every dark corner of these transactions, regardless of the consequences personal to myself, and in so distributing everything that remains to me that are entitled to it. Then commending my wife and worse than fatherless children to the care of Him who will be their friend, and who will do penance for my crimes in prison, and pray for death whenever it shall please Him to take me, I shall, all, if life be possible, to one who has forfeited the respect of every human being. I will try to live and to add not another stain to the name of

WILLIAM C. GILMAN.

In another part of this paper we give an account of the voluntary surrender of Mr. Gilman to the authorities and of his brief trial and sentence. It will be a great relief to the public generally to all who still maintain a regard for justice and the law, to know that the arrangement, which it appears was solemnly entered into by some of Mr. Gilman's friends, for purchasing the forged papers, the evidences of his guilt, and destroying them, was not consummated. It would have been a blow to the cause of justice and an encouragement to crime, far greater than the original crime itself.—N. Y. Observer.

Thrift Among the Mennonites.

Colonies of Russian Mennonites are plotting several of our States and Territories, as well as the bleaker and heretofore unpopulated regions of Canada. Where the Mennonites go the earth yields its riches to their hands and luxuries to their call. The Mennonites had a severe training, hand to hand with Nature, on the barren steppes of Russia—and before those fifteen years the soil might them blossom and bear fruit, and their skill and economy is a valuable lesson and a rich acquisition to any country which may adopt them. Near Beatrice and Sutton, in Nebraska, there are two colonies of Mennonites of 300 each. They have been visited and interviewed by a man who five years ago surveyed the wilderness they settled and have already subdued. They have laid out and fenced in a paradise of peace, of plenty, of prosperity. They brought with them some money—enough to found and build homes with. They have built houses and mills and factories, and planted trees, and laid out blooming gardens, and have their land under successful tillage and are as busy as bees. They raise in Nebraska twice as much wheat to the acre as they could in Russian soil, and are altogether more comfortable and contented in their new homes than in their abandoned section of the Old World. The visitor to their colonies says: "They will burden Nebraska with no pauper, no drunkard, no criminal." This is a good title to have, and communists respect for their opinions. Like the English and American Quakers, they are men of peace and abjure all wars and fighting. This is their distinguishing feature, and the one which has made them refugees from one country to another since the sect was founded in the Netherlands and in some of the Western German Provinces. They are fully able to take care of themselves anywhere, and all they ask of the rest of the world is to be let alone. The Nebraskan Mennonites have already taught their neighbors valuable lessons of economy and thrift. Timber is scarce, as Nebraska coal mine has not yet been found and the lack of fuel was a serious one to settlement. The Mennonites came in and found fuel and plenty of it to their hands at once. It is dry prairie grass, with which the soil is burdened. "There is plenty of fuel," said they, pointing to prairie grass; "with this we have always cooked, warmed our houses, and even burnt brick." They have peculiar furnaces for heating and cooking, and these have come into use among their neighbors who never knew before how to keep warm in winter. The Mennonites have, therefore, discovered and utilized the fuel to keep Nebraska warm. They also weave and make their own clothing, and sheep-raising is an art among them. The keeper of two or three thousand sheep was criticised by an American sheep-raiser for his treatment of his flock, but the fleeces of the Mennonite turned out heavier and better than his critic's.—Missouri Republican.

The Terrors of a Fire in the Bush"... A Thrilling Story.

The following narrative is given as we find it. Only one who is conversant with the details. It smacks much of romance, but is strictly true and can be relied on:

Last week, while J. W. Wilson, butcher known as Quartz Wilson, was prospecting on the headwaters of the Kaministiquia river, some sixty miles from here, for grass for stock feed, he discovered a narrow valley, through which ran a small stream. This valley was very probably of extreme value to one path, that by which he entered. As he rode along he was delighted with the abundance of rich, nutritious grass, which stood three feet high, and meditating driving a herd of stock there soon, when he was rudely called back to the things of the present by a cry and a snort from his "burro," or donkey. Looking back, he discovered that some animal had come upon the grass also, and that the flames were pursuing him with fearful rapidity. Hastily spurring to the stream, he dismounted, stripped the saddle from the donkey, and turned it loose. As for himself, he sprang into the creek, searched out the deepest place he could find in the few seconds that elapsed before the fire was upon him, and lay down. Unfortunately the water was but a few inches in depth, and he scarcely thought it safe, but it was the only chance; so he lay, hoping to escape, but fearing the worst. In much less time than it takes to narrate this, the fire was upon him. First, large flakes fell thick and fast around him, compelling a lively rolling in the water to keep them off, while the fire, through the trees, and above and around him, came the fearful roar of a forest fire in full blast, striving to allay the terrible sufferings inflicted by the intense heat, but with only partial success. The fire scorched off his hair and beard, and reduced one ear to a cinder. Burns and blisters all over his body attested the tremendous heat to which he was subjected; but, finally, after what seemed ages of torment, but was really only a few brief moments, the fire died away from lack of material to feed upon. Our scorched, burned and tortured prospector emerged from the stream. The first object upon which his eyes rested was the body of his donkey, further on the bodies of three deer, also burned to a crisp. As he struggled on, other charred remains met his eyes. Now a new danger overtook him. His eyes received such a scorching that they were rapidly swelling shut. He struggled on, and finally reached the ranch of Mr. Maxwell, at the head of the South Arm, more by instinct than by sight, where he now lies. He is recovering from his injuries, but it will be long before he is restored to his usual health, or before he will be able to be about his work, and much longer before he will forget that day of peril from the fire-fiend while in the fastnesses of the grand old Laurentian hills.—San Bernardino (Cal.) Semi-Tropic.

THE New York World says: "We are authorized to state that his highness the Khedive of Egypt has expressed his willingness to present to the City of New York, upon a proper application being made to him, the noble obelisk, seventy feet in height, which now stands "solitary and alone" near the railway station of Ramlet, at Alexandria, its companion having been accepted by England, and provision made for its transportation thither by a public-spirited American gentleman. And if we are further able to say that the enterprising contractors who are now conveying the English obelisk to its destination are prepared to undertake to bring the companion monolith from Egypt to America and to erect it in any site which may be selected for it at a price not exceeding $150,000, the whole risk of the enterprise being taken by them at their own charge, but at the same time with the full approval of the Khedive, who is desirous of thus evincing his appreciation of the hospitality shown to the Egyptian Obelisk."

A MAN whose knowledge is based on actual experience says—and it is worthy of trial—that when calling on some of your neighbors you should carry affection in our hearts, perfection in our manners and confection in our pockets.

AT a public contest lately held the following was the prize roundrun: What is the difference between a tenant and the son of a widow? The tenant has to pay rents; but the son of a widow has to pay rents; but the son of a widow has no pay rents.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC BREVITIES.

—Honey Cake.—One cupful honey, one and one-half cupsful sugar, one of butter, five of flour, three of eggs, one teaspoonful soda.

—Cottage Pudding.—One cupful of milk; one-half cupful of sugar, one spbt of flour, three eggs, two spoonfuls cream of tartar and one of soda, added before baking.

—Soft Waffles.—Five eggs, one quart of milk, two spoonfuls yeast, three cupfuls flour and one spoonful butter; put these to rise about ten hours before needed, then bake in a waffle-iron.

—Farmers, pile the fat onto the hogs now, before the cold days and nights come, when so much soft-pose matter has to go to keeping the animals warm. It costs much less to fatten a pig in warm weather than in cold.

—Oyster Pie.—Make pastry and line a deep dish put in a layer of oysters at the bottom, season with bits of butter, salt, pepper and catsup, then a layer of cracker crumbs; so continue until the dish is filled, pour in the strained juice and cover with pastry leaving an opening in the center to allow the steam to escape.

—According to a letter-writer in the New York Observer, the true reason for the blight of near trees has at last been discovered. It is the effort of old ones, beyond the dead part, the cause will appear. By carefully opening the stem, it will be found that the sap-wood, or bark, in which will be enscenced a long flesh-colored worm. The remedy is at hand—break off all blighted branches and kill the worm.

—The following bits of agricultural and domestic wisdom are taken from the Iowa State Register:

It is proper to state certain facts in explanation, not extenuation, of my conduct.

Cows at any time should never lack a full supply of food and water.

Fattening hogs should be pushed as fast as possible before cold weather.

The fact is established that if you raise hogs it is not necessary to be one yourself.

Profits come from lands which are rich enough to produce good crops in poor years.

Resolved—calla lilies are natives of ponds. They cannot be kept too wet in pots for successful blooming.

No man can convince it. We must keep good stock to raise good average crops, if we would be good farmers.

In taking up plants from the garden and putting them into pots for winter blooming, cut off the roots close to the stem, do not take them at once into a warm room, but keep them for a few days in a cool room.

Late growth of grass for pasture contains too much water and too little nourishment to keep cattle or horses up to their flesh. Such must have some additional until taken in from pasture.

Let us teach our children not only to do farm work and house work, but to do it well. Not only to do it well, but to love and respect the work. In this way cultivate their entire being—the hands, head and heart.

Chemistry Applied to Farming.

We boil down the following from an address by Mr. William Fullerton before the Farmers' Club of Rochester, N. Y.:

With the aid of chemistry the farmer can know with certainty what quantities of the different vegetables necessary to the fertility of the soil have been extracted from it by his crops. For example, fifty bushels of corn to the acre extracts from the soil about forty pounds of nitrogen, seventy-seven pounds of potash and thirty-one pounds of phosphoric acid. Barnyard manure is valuable only as it contains more or less of these ingredients. It follows, if the farmer sells his crop of corn, then for every fifty bushels that leaves the farm there is taken just the amount of nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid I have named. If, on the other hand, he feeds his corn upon the farm to fattening animals, then much of these materials is retained on it and returned to the soil. The wisdom of this course of the improvement of the more expensive elements which enter into the growth of our crops, descends by the action of rains so far into the well as to be beyond the reach of ordinary plants. The roots of the clover plant are so many messengers to bring it back to the surface again. Thus system of farming is most desirable which enables the farmer to produce the largest amount in value at the least expense, and to improve rather than impair the fertility of the soil. The cultivation of grass and feeding cattle for the market will best accomplish this. It does away to a great extent with the use of the plow. Too much cannot be said in praise of clover, and just in proportion as the farmer cultivates this plant will he be relieved from the necessity of purchasing commercial fertilizers to enrich his lands.—N. Y. Herald.

Our Cow.

Long years ago—forty at the least—my mother and I were keeping house in one of the quiet New England villages that are nestled down among the Green Mountains. After much deliberation and planning of ways and means, we decided to keep a cow. It was not formally expressed, we were safely assume that it is given. There is every reason to suppose that if the subject had been made by a representative of gentlemen representing the city, it would have been willingly granted. The Khedive has always received American visitors with special cordiality; his army has been organized, and is chiefly commanded, by Americans and there is quite aware of the importance of the increasing trade between Egypt and this country. Moreover, the obelisk, as it now stands, is the one relic of the Egyptian past which can most readily be spared.

We have received expressions of regret that the "Needles" should be taken away from Alexandria. But we must remember that they were originally erected in Heliopolis (the On of the Bible) in the sixteenth century before the Christ; then, in the first century of our era, transported 130 miles from that city, and set up in front of the Cæsarium, the temple which Alexandria erected to Augustus Cæsar. This temple has utterly vanished from the earth, and the obelisks are as completely sundered from their associations as that in Paris. And Egypt is still rich in obelisks. Among the ruins of Zoan—the Zoanof the old Hebrews—in the Delta, lie no less than ten, all overthrown and some shattered. At Heliopolis, an obelisk, sixty-eight feet high, which was four centuries old when Moses was born, still stands erect. In the temple of Luxor there is one of seventy-five feet in height, the mate of that in Paris. Karnak possesses four, two of which are ninety-two feet high; and in the granite quarries near Assouan, still connected with the ninety-five feet, which appears to have been left there on account of a flaw in the stone. We need keep their origin and places, and the ruins of the ages recorded in their inscriptions lie around them. The Khedive, we think, we shall receive has a height of seventy-one feet, with a base of seven feet seven inches square; no material is the monogram granite of Assouan, ancient Syene.

If placed where no fire can reach it, it ought to last for many centuries in our climate.—N. Y. Tribune.

—In taking down the old hall at Danville the workmen found carefully concealed in a little projection in the wall the key made to Bristol Bill, and with which it is said he unlocked all the evil doors and let all the pets come together. It came to the Keeper's notice that this was done, but the key could never be found, and remained in its retirement for twenty-seven years. This key is a curiosity. The staff, which is eight or ten inches long, is an old tin dipper handle, filled with zinc, which Bill now up from under the stove and melted and run into it; the making it heavier and stronger. A cross-piece at the end, made of the same material, gave a chance for a purchase. The part of the key that turned the lock was made of tin tubes, also filled with zinc, and strengthened by tenpenny nails in the center, driven through the shaft. Altogether it is a pretty formidable key, and is a good piece of workmanship, considering the tools and appliances the maker had. It was doubtless Bill's intention to unlock the outer door also, but he was unable to reach the lock through the "diamond."—St. Johnsbury (Vt.) Caledonian.

THE sand banks in the German Ocean are one-fifth the area

Cabinet or Parlor Organs.

Among Cabinet or Parlor Organs, those made by the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. stand indisputably highest, having a most remarkable record. In its present form, this instrument was introduced by these makers, seventeen years since, and the almost universal result of comparisons at competitive exhibitions, and testimony of musicians in that line of organs of their make are unequaled by any others. Such reputation have they obtained in foreign countries that London alone has purchased more than one thousand of them in a single year. At all the great World's Exhibitions for upwards of twenty years, at Paris, Vienna, Santiago and Philadelphia, they have carried off highest honors. In the whole range of almost innumerable articles placed in competition in our great Centennial Exhibition, last year, there is scarcely one respecting which the report of the Jury is so emphatic in recognizing its superiority to all competing articles. They unanimously assign to these organs "the first rank in the several requisites of the class," which is equivalent to saying that they stand to all important qualities. Mr. George F. Bristow, the distinguished composer, of New York, who was one of the examining jurors, writes that the Jury had no difficulty in deciding which reed organs were entitled to highest commendation, adding, "and believe that every member of the Jury heartily endorsed the decision, as shown by their unanimous and hearty vote. The Mason & Hamlin Co. are in all important respects sole manufacturers."

The Mason & Hamlin Co. are offering, this season, some most attractive Organs than ever before, and at lower prices. See their advertisement in another column.

Gleason's Publications.

Great excitement in the line of GLEASON'S PUBLICATIONS! Agents are making from $5 to $12 a day. Single copies for 10 cents, for sale by all newsdealers. Or GLEASON'S MONTHLY COMPANION, $1 a year, single copies 10 cents. All postage FREE. The prize of Chromos has just been greatly increased. No one now can afford these terms to agents as we do. Send for new free circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

Our Influence on the Cause of Consumption.—How many of us can date the cause of our sickness to either a crowded room and lack coming out in a cold air, or wearing damp clothes, causing a cough which settles upon the lungs, producing scaled pains in the chest. Allen's Lung Balsam will check the disease and restore health to the sufferer, if used in time. Remember and call at the Drug Store for Allen's Lung Balsam. Every family should keep it at hand.

Delicious Cookery.

The most delicious, light, white and wholesome biscuits, rolls, muffins, waffles, griddle-cakes, etc., are possible to every table by using the celebrated Dooley's Yeast Powder. It is absolutely pure, and will go much further in use than other kinds of baking powder. It is impossible to fail with it in baking. Ask your grocer for it, and do not be put off with any other.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"Durang's Rheumatic Remedy," the great Infernal Medicine, will positively cure any case of rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine & Bentley, Washington, D. C.

KING JOHN'S OSWEGO FINE STARCH, having greater strength and purity, reaches its consuming articles. They unanimously assign to these organs "the first rank in the several requisites of the class," which is equivalent to saying that they stand to all important qualities. Mr. George F. Bristow, the distinguished composer, of New York, who was one of the examining jurors, writes that the Jury had no difficulty in deciding which reed organs were entitled to highest commendation, adding, "and believe that every member of the Jury heartily endorsed the decision, as shown by their unanimous and hearty vote. The Mason & Hamlin Co. are in all important respects sole manufacturers."

The Mason & Hamlin Co. are offering, this season, some most attractive Organs than ever before, and at lower prices. See their advertisement in another column.

Gleason's Publications.

Great excitement in the line of GLEASON'S PUBLICATIONS! Agents are making from $5 to $12 a day. Single copies for 10 cents, for sale by all newsdealers. Or GLEASON'S MONTHLY COMPANION, $1 a year, single copies 10 cents. All postage FREE. The prize of Chromos has just been greatly increased. No one now can afford these terms to agents as we do. Send for new free circular. Address F. GLEASON & CO., 738 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

Our Influence on the Cause of Consumption.—How many of us can date the cause of our sickness to either a crowded room and lack coming out in a cold air, or wearing damp clothes, causing a cough which settles upon the lungs, producing scaled pains in the chest. Allen's Lung Balsam will check the disease and restore health to the sufferer, if used in time. Remember

A CHARLEVOIX GIRL.—From the Courtland (Ohio) Gazette we learn that Miss Annie Cooper, daughter of R F Cooper, of this place, has been selected to act as assistant teacher in the Second ary Department of the Public schools of that place. Miss Cooper will prove herself worthy of the position, and we hope to hear of her advancement as a teacher.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The following officers were installed at Good Templar Hall, on Friday evening last:

W. C. T.—Robert Miller.
W. V. T.—Miss Jennie Martin.
W. Scre'y—W. E. McLennan.
W. F. S.—Jay Worthington.
W. Treas.—Mrs. E. H. Green.
W. M.—Angus Dameron.
W. D. M.—Miss Jennie Van Dusen
W. A. S.—Miss May Johnson.
W. I. G.—Miss Alice Carpenter
W. O. G.—Mr. Mckay
R. H. S.—Miss Ella Barry
L. H. S.—Miss Minnie Cooper.

The Lodge is in a healthy and prosperous condition, and after having passed through the most decline of the Summer months, is on the up grade with good prospects ahead

UP THE CURRY ROAD.—With our pants to our boots, and a cudgel in each hand, we directed our course out upon the county road, on Tuesday last, and wearieress, hunger, thirst, pain and hunt, halted us in the black neighborhood and turned our steps homeward again Mr. Wm. Black has a good farm, and appears to be making it better. On the opposite side of the road we found Mr. Henry Black, a transit upon the farm of Mr. Wm. M. Miller, and this leads us to think that we know of no young man more deserving in favor of the Misses Black. On the lands of Mucklar Bros. several dwellings ocked in Attwells and one dwelling, one of a more engagement near Pleven, in which the Russians were victorious, containing a number of cannon, a regiment of cavalry, and three thousand foot soldiers. The hop yardment of Rudolph has also been renewed, and operations have begun on the Lum. The Czarevitchenly intends to get in some desperate work before the winter weather necessitates for entire suspension of hostilities

The subject of Mr. Brether's sermon Sunday was, "Make not haste to be Rich." Now a man is a mean cuss who wants to skip along faster than $500 a night

The fire at the Patent Office was not so disastrous, after all. It has just been ascertained that not a single model of a perpetual motion machine was destroyed.

The silver Tides has been paying visits to his wife. The son of reconciliation is surely coming on the face of the country.

The latest gossip about Rome is that he tells his friends that he has no idea of being a Presidential candidate in 1880, because he sees clearly that the Democrats will then sweep the country, but he thinks they will so disgust the people as to insure a Republican victory in 1884, and he is willing to run then.

Michigan is too strongly republican to stand very high on committees appointed by speaker Randall. Hon. J. A. Hubbell is down towards the tail end of the committee on appropriations in the navy department.

It turns out that the United States Senate is much stronger Republican than has been anticipated by some. The Republican Senators present a solid front and it is thought that the next House of Representatives will also have a good Republican working majority.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.—Sealed proposals will be received at the County Clerk's Office until Dec. 1, for getting 25 cords of wood for Court House. Said wood must be sawed body maple, 18 inches in length, and prepared for the stove. Must be piled in the wood house, and delivered before Feb. 1, 1878

A. B. URQUHART, Clerk.
Charlevoix Nov 5, 1877

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

K. A. BUELL ALSO

Any person leaving money which they wish to dispose of will find me ready to doing so at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

The Turkish Grand Vizier cannot agree with either Mahomed or Daniel Pasha—which makes him so Daniel that he has resigned.

A Washington correspondent of the St Louis Globe Democrat says that leading Republicans in the National Capital speaks of General Grant as the most all their choice for Presidential candidate in 1880, to which multitudes of people all over the country will respond "you bet."

The largest pump ever manufactured has just been made at a factory in Stockton, Cal. It is designed for work in the tules, and cuts a furrow thirty eight inches wide. The mold-board is eight feet long from the point to the end. The plow will be attached to a sulky, and will require a team of twelve mules although to draw it.

Work upon the proposed subway tunnel under the Rensselaer Channel has been commenced, and the time when railroad trains will run between Portland and France without interruption, is expected to not very far in the future.

The Postmaster General has issued an order requiring every employe in the Railway Mail Service to prevail him self with a uniform within that days, not to be worn when on duty. Postmasters next

The Duke of war seems to be one never to turning in favor of the Montenegrins. On the back of Mucklar Pasha's recent disastrous defeat in Attenchia some privileges of a more engagement near Plevna, in which the Russians were victorious, capturing a number of cannon, a regiment of cavalry, and three thousand foot soldiers. The hop yardment of Rudolph has also been renewed, and operations have begun on the Lum. The Czarevitchenly intends to get in some desperate work before the winter weather necessitates for entire suspension of hostilities

Dom Pedro and his wife, the Emperor and Empress of Brazil, reached their home at Rio Janeiro on the 26th of September, and were received by a magnificent popular ovation. They had been absent "seeing the World" a year and a half.

L A N
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich
—
Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.
—
Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.
—
Collections a Speciality
Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.
—
Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim counties for sale at very low PRICES. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.
For terms and description apply to, or address
E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent.
Charlevoix Mich.
Daly

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the seventh day of November A. D 1876 by Alpheus Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Morris J Stockman of said county and state, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D 1876 at 9 o'clock p. m in Liber "Eleven" of Mortgages on page 123, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty Dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the recovery of the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity have been taken or instituted.
Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by Virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage (or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principle, interest, costs and an Attorney fee of thirty dollars, as provided for in said mortgage) will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the Township of Charlevoix, (that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county) within which said premises to be sold are situated.)
Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and are described as follows to wit: The North-west quarter of the North-east quarter of Section Two (2) in Township Thirty-three (33) North of Range seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to United States Survey.
Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.
MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
1845-49-1 Printers fees $17.15.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Sept 31, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Charles May for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 4951, dated Feb. 18, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U.S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich. June 26, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Bernard Riggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 4753, dated August 21 1871, upon the S. ½ of sec. section 18, Township 34 North, R 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U.S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Mathilda A. Bright against James Moore, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6743, dated Dec. 3, 1874, upon the S½ of sec. 25, Township 33 North, Range 7 West, Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS M E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Heretofully Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(4mis)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.
Peter Tegosh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 23rd day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Mile Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said defendants, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill shall be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants, and it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.
E. HAYES JR.
Circuit Judge
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
13-6ins.

NOTICE
U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parsons, against Charles Smith for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7219, dated July 15, 1875, upon the lot of section 32, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.
13

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No 7220, dated April 15, 1876, upon the east of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

The undersigned has opened a Lumber Yard and will deliver lumber, shingles and lath to customers at the shortest notice. Orders left at the office of the Charlevoix Sentinel will receive prompt attention.
—
THOMAS WAD
Charlevoix Sept 12 1877.

NOTICE.—Hitherto we have, Ann Wednesday, been in the habit of making our customers pay promptly. Hereafter we shall make no exceptions to this rule, but will expect every one to pay promptly. Those who do not will not be favored with goods on credit.
Wilson Dec. 21

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

Inquire of the undersigned on premises on Section 12 Township 33 North Range 7 West, Charlevoix County, Michigan.
Charles Heller.
Advance $1.00.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec 20, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres more or less. Improved, 20 acres cleared, balance of maple last year. Will be sold for $300 cash. Address

ANTOINE NEGAUNEE,
L. S. Bayside
Mich.

W. V. SHEWELL, C. S. RASSER
SHEWELL & RASSER,
Commission Merchants,
For the Sale of
Wood Bark Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.
ROOM NO. 18, MILWAUKEE, WIS.
EXCHANGE BLOCK.

REMEMBER.
THE Sentinel

JOB PRINTING
Office,
Is the place to get all kinds of neat
JOB WORK
EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.
Address Orders to W. A. Smith.

SASH
AND DOOR
FACTORY.
J. E. Grielick & Co.,
Traverse City, - Mich.
Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, etc.
Our stock in hands is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public. In regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.
Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.
Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop
—
All kinds of Light and Heavy
HARNESS,
Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.
REPAIRING
Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.
Upholstering a Specialty
Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store.
JAS E WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 30 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Nov. 20. 1877. Whole No., 445

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—
OFFICE P. Stuffice Building
On Bridge Street
Terms of Subscription,
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
75c FOR SIX MONTHS
JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 y.
One sq.	$	$	$	$	$	$	$	$
2 ...	1.25	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00	7.00	10.00
3 ...	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00	7.00	10.00	15.00
4 ...	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00	7.00	10.00	15.00	20.00
1 column.	3.00	4.00	5.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00
4 ...	5.00	7.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00	60.00
1 ...	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00	60.00	80.00	120.00

Cards in Business Directory, $5.00 per year
Legal advertisements at Statute rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SIKE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. E. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LYDELL H. SMITH, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Solicitor in Chancery, and Notary Public. Office in the Court House, Charlevoix, Mich. Circuit Court will be held on the first Monday and ninth Tuesday of each regular term of Court. Will be over on the first Monday and ninth Tuesday of each month.

A. E. CHAMBERLAIN, Commissioner and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Conveyancer, Notary Public, Prosecuting Attorney, Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT SHEEHY, Custom Blacksmith, Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of treating all chronic diseases and will perform all operations pertaining to dentistry.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. J. FAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
Collections promptly attended to. Office in Charlevoix, Mich.

S. J. FARMER,
BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.
Repairing done on short notice. Shop on Bridge street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Repairing
Done on short notice

Millinery & Dress-Making
I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do
DRESS FITTING AND MAKING
in the most approved styles. I have also on hand
LADIES HATS
of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street.
EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy
Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT
CROUTER'S
Drug Store, sign of the golden Mortar. Why Because he keeps all pure goods and can supply the people of Charlevoix with anything in his line. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of
STOVEs
Hardware & Tinware
To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of
M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.
TIME TABLE.
A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, leaving as follows, to wit:
Leave Petoskey—7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.
Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m. arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.
Every necessary arrangement for the comfort of passengers will be made, and the charges will be reasonable. Also any freighting or express will be done with as little delay as possible
E. C. MUIR, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER.
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26) CHARLEVOIX, MICH

If you want to get a suit of clothes very cheap go to See & Washburn's.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.
A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of
W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 4, 1877.

NOTICE. U.S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Oct. 26, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Snider, against Thos. H. Bishop, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6648, dated Apr. 17 1877, upon lot 4 of sec. 26, Township 33 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of Dec., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Round Lake Lodge No. 302 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Russell Bell's building. Brethren will receive a cheerful welcome.
L. D. HATCH, Sec'y, N. G.
Geo. W. Gates, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 241 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month at 7 o'clock P. M.
W. A. Parry, W. M.
A. L. Chaddock, Sec'y.

I. O. G. T.
Temperance Lodge No. 311, I. O. G. T. meets in Central Lake, Michigan, the Monday evening before the full of the moon in each month at 8 o'clock P. M. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.
DONALD BURNS, W. M.
Mrs. Dameron, Secy.

THE SENTINEL.
WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.
SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 4 p. m. depart on same days at 1 p. m.
NORTH—Mails arrive daily at 12 M., depart at 1:30 P. M.
SOUTH AND EAST mail leaves at 8 a. m. on Tuesday and Saturday; arrive at 6 p. m. on the same days.
W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Having prices corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Corn, per bushel	30
Corn, per basket	20
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Beans, per bushel	50
Dressed pork, per pound	5
Live pork, per pound	4
Apples, per bushel	15
Apples, dried, per pound	5
Butter, per pound	20
Eggs, per dozen	20
Beef, per pound, by the quarter	4@6
Hay, per ton	6 00
Hay, per pound, by the quarter	6 to 8

Ben Carpenter, our county land taker, up their residence at Charlevoix.

For cool buckskin gloves and Mittens go to See & Washburn's

JACK ISBELLS and family returned home from Illinois last week

DR BURNETT, the Dentist, spent last week tinkering the teeth of our suffering people.

ABEL CAMPBELL is to move here from Beaver Island with his family to spend the winter.

Buffalo coats, vests and mits, just received at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

PATHMASTER Chamberlain is doing a good job of grading on the hill north of the bridge.

THE Nicley school district, in the Town of South Arm, has just completed a $600 school house, and put in patent seats.

Carpenter & Bartholomew have built a good stall for the accommodation of their customers' teams.

L. D. HATCH & Co's has recently put in a heating furnace, and a fine Clicking piano, at his residence in this village.

BE sure and read Carpenter & Bartholomew's new advertisement on the inside of this paper. This firm deserve their popularity.

THE propeller Fountain City arrived down yesterday afternoon. A. Buttars and Miss Ida Nicholls, of this place, were among the passengers.

If you want to get a suit of clothes very cheap go to See & Washburn's.

THE new residence of D. C. Nettleton on the bluff north of the harbor is rapidly approaching completion, and presents a good appearance from the village.

J. Field, Leiter & Co.'s retail store in Chicago, with its contents, was destroyed by fire on the 14th.

We are now expecting our ship to arrive soon, and then we shall present to the good people of Charlevoix and vicinity the largest and most complete stock of goods of all kinds, ever before brought to this town. They will be open for inspection as soon as they arrive, and we invite one and all to give us a call and see for yourselves.
FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Marine News.

—Sailors' wages are $2 per day

—The steamer Sutton left here for Elk Rapids on Thursday.

—The schooner Pearl came here from Milwaukee Saturday, with supplies.

—The schooner Chas. Hinkly, which took a cargo from this port this fall, is ashore at Long Point, Lake Huron —The steamer Van Reidte stopped at Charlevoix down on Sunday afternoon, on her way to Detroit to lay up.

—STOCKMAN'S new steamer for the Pine Lake route is in process of construction at Buffalo.

—The old scow Planet of Baelee had to throw over her deck load in Lake Michigan lately in order to save herself, and then it was about "which and Pother."

—The schooner Starke, recently ashore at Mackinaw, arrived at Milwaukee on Saturday in tow of the tug Welcome. She is in bad shape, and will require an entire new keel, new bottom planking and probably pocket pieces.

—The schooner W. A. Smith arrived in port Sunday minus the cargo of grain she went after from the work of the Bridgewater, the Insurance Company having taken possession of the balance of the cargo. She made good wages, however, freighting dry grain into Little Traverse Bay.

—The tug St. Mary of Milwaukee, arrived at this port on Friday, and has taken the place of the Sutton on Pine Lake and South Arm. The St. Mary is a large double engine tug, and has lately been running in opposition to Starke's tugs at Milwaukee. It is stated that Starke has bought her off by giving up this route to her. She will lay up here this fall and do her share of our business next season.

—The schooner reported by us last week to be ashore at Middle Village, proved to be the Bridgewater, laden with 45,000 bushels of corn. The vessel will be saved, but the grain will be almost a total loss, except what the insurance covers. The schooner W. A. Smith, of this port, took two loads of her dry grain to Little Traverse, and the schooner Emma has brought about 1,000 bushels of the wet grain to this port, which is being sold at twenty and twenty-five cents per bushel.

Later—The schooner Bridgewater was got off and towed into Little Traverse harbor on Saturday.

—Capt. Baker, of the schooner Mary Boydh, in a detailed statement of his experience in the late storm, which he furnishes, says that the Boydh was waterlogged when the crew left her in the small boat, and that she rolled over shortly afterward. The crew were in the boat 48 hours, in a terrible sea and biting atmosphere, but finally made the land at White Lake. They had been without food or sleep for two days before abandoning the vessel, and their condition when they landed was terrible. Not one of them could have held out three hours longer. The mate John Belzler, had his his feet frozen, and the limbs of all the men were badly swollen. All were exhausted and almost ready to lie down and die.

—The Chicago Inter-Ocean has the following: "The tug St. Mary, of Milwaukee, left that port for Charlevoix on Tuesday last, and on Thursday following left Manitowoc in conformation of her voyage, and encountered the fierce storm of the night that followed. Between 3 and 4 o'clock a. m., unable longer to keep her course against the howling storm, the tug turned toward Chicago. Between 7 and 8 a. m. the tug was in the middle of the lake east of Kenosha, and wholly out of fuel. At that time the St Mary was in the vicinity of the schooner Phœnix, and signaled her for assistance. For some reason the schooner failed to respond. A tug without steam, and in the fury of a storm, is of course in great peril, and Captain Read should be able to furnish a satisfactory explanation. The engineer of the St. Mary was at that time burning water buckets, the pork that he had been provided for food, and, indeed, every article that could be made available for steam. The St. Mary, unable to reach Chicago on account of lack of fuel, drifted into the west shore, and finally anchored opposite Waukegan about 4 p. m. Friday." The Capt. Read in charge of, was formerly the Captain of the schooner Wescott, which was in the Pine Lake trade several years ago.

From Spring Vale.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—

Enclosed find $1.50, for which send the SENTINEL one year to Grace Walton, Boyne Falls. I will send more names in a few days. The SENTINEL is well received by our people. Nearly all the settlers are through with their fall work, and have commenced their winter's chopping. No dabbling with wood and bark in our town. The time is spent in clearing away the timber to make room for the raising of grain, which I think in the near future will be of greater profit than the returns from bark and wood. Nearly every day brings some new settler to the beautiful valley of springs. We have three school houses in process of erection, that will be ready for use this winter.

Yours,
PIONEER.

Spring Vale, Nov. 14, 1877.

Whole and split cedar black, white and shaved at See & Washburn's.

From Norwood.

—Our correspondent at Norwood writes as follows: "Our town was somewhat excited lately by the departure on the Empire State of about thirty citizens of this and adjoining towns for clearer skies and more balmy air—Nebraska, Florida and Arkansas—the destination of most of them being the latter State. While we lose some good citizens, we earnestly hope that our loss will be their gain; but we greatly doubt. In avoiding the deep snows and long winters of Northern Michigan if they do not meet the deeper misery and more exhaustive chill of a Siberian ague shake on the flooded fields of Arkansas we are greatly mistaken. For ourselves we are satisfied with a county that has a good soil, good climate, pure water and plenty of timber; even if a man must chop the wood before it is fit for the stove, and work occasionally a little, perhaps, in order to provide for the necessary wants of himself or his family."

Choice honey at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

NOBLE GENEROSITY.—The Congregational Church Society of Whitewater, Wis., has presented to the M. E. Church Society of Charlevoix a pulpit and a communion service. The pulpit arrived Saturday by schooner Fleetwing, and has been put in its place upon the rostrum of the new church. It is a most beautiful article, gothic in style, constructed in a beautiful and unique design of ash and walnut, and surmounted by a scarlet silk velvet Bible cushion. It blends with the interior finish of the church as perfectly as if made expressly for the place, and must have cost $30 or upwards. Coming as it does from a society of another denomination, the beneficence of the act is double weighted. Mrs. John Nicholls, of this place, who is visiting at Whitewater, is to blame for the transaction, and the Society here will undoubtedly give her a due share of kindly remembrance.

THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS.—We are glad to hear from the eastern portion of the county, and that the farmers of Springvale Township direct their attention to agriculture in its true sense. That part of our county bordering on both sides of the railroad is rich in soil, water and all the requisites necessary to make a superior farming region, and it is destined to be a fine country. There are many fine openings in that section for those seeking new farms. We design personally visiting this section soon, and shall then speak more fully of its people and natural advantages.

REAL ESTATE.—J. M. Bacon to Geo. H. Chipman the south half of the northwest quarter of section 21, Town of North, Range 7 West, in Hayes Township, near Susan Lake. Mr Chipman will make a farm of it.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

A NUMBER of bills, nearly all of them of a private nature, were introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 30th ult. A resolution was agreed to authorizing the appointment of a Select Committee on the subject of ascertaining and declaring the result of the elections for President and Vice-President of the United States. In Executive session, several nominations by the President were confirmed. . . . House not in session.

BILLS were introduced in the Senate, on the 31st ult., to provide for the examination of claimants for pensions, and for the appointment of Examining Surgeons; to remove all restrictions regarding the enlistment of colored citizens in the Army. The nominations of several Postmasters were confirmed in Executive session. In the House, Mr. Ewing, from the Committee on Banking and Currency, reported a bill repealing the act to provide for the resumption of specie payments. Mr. Fort made a minority report favoring the repeal of that portion of the Resumption act which authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to change the United States bonds and redeem and cancel the five-twenty Currency Bonds. Being under the call of States, he then presented and recommitted, when motion was agreed to without division, the Speaker having stated that the bill reported by Mr. Fort could be printed as a substitute, if moved to be offered. A motion was then made to reconsider the motion adopted, and a motion to lay the motion to reconsider on the table was rejected—yeas 116, nays 126—the question being before the country of the bill in the hands of the Banking and Currency Committee. Mr. Ewing, also reported it, and who can, if any time call up the motion to reconsider, and move to lay it on the bill. He can cut off all amendments, even that of Mr. Fort, by moving the previous question.

IN the Senate, on the 1st, a number of bills were introduced and referred. The Vice-President appointed Mr. Withers a member of the board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institute. A memorial was presented of the Kansas City Board of Trade favoring the repeal of the Resumption act and for the remonetization of silver, as was also a resolution of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange favoring the repeal of the Bankrupt law. In the House, among the bills introduced was one authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to buy coupons, the value of cotton and tobacco seized by the Government since April 19, 1865. Mr. Goode asked and was refused leave to introduce a resolution approving the action of the President in withdrawing the Federal troops from South Carolina and Louisiana. D. C. Haskell was sworn in as Member from Kansas. The motion to reconsider the vote recommitting Mr. Ewing's bill to repeal the third section of the Resumption act was taken up and finally agreed to, when the Chair decided the morning hour expired. The House also appointed the Select Committee of Ways, Whole and Means Hunter and Kelley spoke upon matters pertaining to the bill in question. A resolution to adjourn over election day (7th) was rejected. A resolution for final adjournment of the extra session of Congress, on the 20th inst., was offered and referred.

THE death of Senator Morton was announced in the Senate, on the 2d, by Mr. McDonald, and a resolution was passed to direct a Committee of six Senators be appointed by the Vice-President to attend the funeral of the deceased. As a further mark of respect for the memory of the late Senator Morton, an adjournment was had until the 5th. In the House, the Army Appropriation bill was reported from the Committee on Appropriations, and made the special order for the 5th. Mr. Ewing withdrew the motion to reconsider the vote recommitting his third section of the Resumption law, and asked unanimous consent to a substitute for the Committee's bill in the shape of the one presented by the minority of the Committee. Mr. Fort's motion was objected to, and Mr. Ewing yielded the floor to Mr. Fort, who then offered his amendment providing for the repeal of the clause fixing the date for resumption, whereupon Mr. Ewing moved the previous question on the bill and amendments, and a motion to lay the latter motion on the table, which latter motion was defeated—yeas, 127; nays, 146. A resolution was unanimously agreed to providing for the appointment of a Committee to attend the funeral of the late Senator Morton, and the House, as a further mark of respect, then adjourned.

THE Senate was not in session on the 2d. . . . In the House, consideration was resumed of the bill for the repeal of a portion of the Resumption act, and objection was made to a resolution making it the special order for the 6th and until the 10th, when the previous question should be ordered. A bill for the coinage of a trade standard silver dollar was introduced, and after discussion, was referred to the Committee on Coinage. A bill was also introduced to amend the Constitution as to extend the President and Vice-President by a direct vote of the people.

THE Senate was not in session, on the 5th. . . . Among the bills introduced in the House were one to amend the Bankrupt law; one to prevent the transmission of printed matter through the mails when the postage is insufficient; for the election of Postmasters; to create a Postal Savings Bank; for the repeal of all Resumption laws; Bland's Silver bill for the coinage of silver dollars of the weight of 412½ grains, troy, of standard silver, and for the purchase of silver bullion at not less than the par value of gold; to repeal or suspend the rules and make the bill for repeal of the third section of the Resumption act the special order until three o'clock, on the 10th, when the previous question should be ordered.

DOMESTIC.

AT the recent session of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in Chicago, a series of resolutions was adopted in substance: That the organization be kept separate from all others, welcoming to the labors of the Union all virtuous women who will unite with them on their basis of faith and prayer; declaring that while working for the reformation and salvation of men, they recognize the duty of an earnest effort for the redemption of women who are victims of the same and kindred vices; urging upon the attention of the Churches of the country the question of banishing fermented wine from the communion table; opposing the use of tobacco in any form, as a vice demoralizing all who indulge in its use; leading directly to drink and other evils; favoring the education of the rising generation of young women into the idea that marriage with moderate or immoderate drinkers is a sin against themselves, their families, their country and their God; protesting against the provision, by National, State and Municipal powers, of intoxicating liquors for sale at public cost, at public entertainments, as discourteous and unjust to citizens whose sacred principles are thus violated; declaring that the prohibition of the importation, manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors is the true legislative remedy for intemperance; that the responsibility of the training of the children and youth rests largely upon women, she ought to be allowed to close the rum-shop door over against her home; deprecating the flippant jest and emolument with which the degradation and suffering caused by intemperance is often treated by newspapers. Baltimore was chosen as the place for the next meeting of the Union. The second Thursday in December was recommended as a day of fasting and prayer for the cause, and women all over the world are requested to unite in prayer on that occasion with the women of this country, and all pastors are requested to preach on Temperance on the Sunday preceding this day of prayer.

ON the 29th ult., a steamer arrived at New York, from Europe, with 207 Mormon recruits on board. The total number received from Europe during the last year foots up something over 1,900. . . .

A NEW YORK dispatch of the 30th ult. states that Thos. A. Barry, Second Mate of a bark which was wrecked on the coast of Hudson Bay early last summer, had brought to that city some interesting relics of the ill-fated Franklin Expedition, which he obtained from a native tribe near whose homes the last of the brave explorers are said to have perished.

THE Directors of the Louisville (Ky.) Base Ball Club have recently expelled four of the players attached to their Club, for the alleged selling of games, disobedience of orders and general misconduct.

THE public-debt statement for October gives the total debt as of $2,231,388,745. Cash in Treasury, $184,788,045. Debt less cash in Treasury, $2,047,150,700. Decrease during the month, $4,326,504.

ABOUT three o'clock, on the morning of the 31st ult., a horrible murder was committed at the residence of Burgoyne Tritt, a wealthy farmer at Seaford Station, near Terre Haute, Ind. It appears that Tritt's daughter was courted by two men, each of whom claimed to have received encouragement at her hands. On the preceding Sunday night she had been visited by a neighboring young farmer, and Sylvanus Burnham, the other aspirant. Among the debts was the remains of his daughter, exhibiting incontestable evidence that she had been murdered. Burnham fled and up to the evening of the 1st had not been captured.

THE coach that left Deadwood on the morning of the 30th ult., going south, was robbed on the night of the 31st, within two miles of Cheyenne, by two armed men. There were seven passengers in the coach. The robbers took everything of any value that could be found—money, jewelry, blankets and overcoats.

THE coinage executed in the United States Mints for the month of October was as follows: Double-eagles, $5,454,800; half-eagles, $5,000; quarter-eagles, $20,000; total gold coinage, $5,479,800. Trade-dollars, $1,075,000; half-dollars, $711,295; quarter-dollars, $554,032; twenty-cent pieces, $10; dimes, $76,405; total silver coinage, $2,405,707.

THE annual report of the Superintendent of Special Agents shows that during the past year 543 persons were arrested for offenses against the Postal laws—104 in excess of the preceding year. The number of complaints of lost registered letters was 2,289, with an aggregate value of $84,410, of which 714 letters were recovered, and 216, valued at $10,510, accounted for by the recovery of the contents from the thieves or persons through whose carelessness they were lost. The percentage of actual losses, compared with the number of letters registered, is about one-fiftieth of 1 per cent., or one in every 5,536.

DISTINCT shocks of earthquake were felt in portions of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and New York, early on the morning of the 31st ult. Buildings were shaken in many localities so severely as to awaken the inhabitants. At Lebanon, N. H., bells were rung by the shock in buildings, and at Wheeler, Vt., the people were awakened by successive shocks, lasting some fifteen minutes. At Northampton, Mass., glass was broken and furniture shaken. Similar shocks were also felt in many portions of Canada.

ON the 5th, at Allegheny, Pa., John Knee blew down the chimney to extinguish his kerosene lamp. The lamp exploded, and Knee was fatally burned.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE President, on the 30th ult., sent to the Senate the name of Hon. John Welsh, a merchant of Philadelphia, as his nomination for United States Minister to the Court of St. James.

AMONG the nominations confirmed by the Senate in Executive session, on the 30th ult., were those of E. F. Noyes as Minister to France; R. S. Stoughton, Minister to Russia; Thos. Ewing, Minister to the Argentine Republic; James M. Conley, Minister to the Sandwich Islands; Jas. Russell Lowell, Minister to Spain; and John A. Kasson, Minister to Austria.

PRESIDENT HAYES, accompanied by his family and some of the members of his Cabinet, arrived at Richmond, Va., on the 30th ult. Their were met by a numerous crowd of people and cheered by Acting-Mayor Meredith, to which brief responses were made.

AT his residence in Indianapolis, Ind., on the afternoon of the 1st, Senator Oliver P. Morton, after a long and painful illness, quietly passed away, in the presence of his wife and other members of his family. Up to within half an hour of his death he enjoined a composure and consciousness that were remarkable even to the end. An address of welcome was delivered by Acting-Mayor Meredith, to which brief responses were made.

AT his residence in Indianapolis, Ind., on the afternoon of the 1st, Senator Oliver P. Morton, after a long and painful illness, quietly passed away, in the presence of his wife and other members of his family. Up to within half an hour of his death he enjoined a composure and consciousness that were remarkable even to the end. He had been conscious everything of any value that could be found—money, jewelry, blankets and overcoats.

THE coinage executed in the United States Mints for the month of October was as follows: Double-eagles, $5,454,800; half-eagles, $5,000; quarter-eagles, $20,000; total gold coinage, $5,479,800. Trade-dollars, $1,075,000; half-dollars, $711,295; quarter-dollars, $554,032; twenty-cent pieces, $10; dimes, $76,405; total silver coinage, $2,405,707.

THE annual report of the Superintendent of Special Agents shows that during the past year 543 persons were arrested for offenses against the Postal laws—104 in excess of the preceding year. The number of complaints of lost registered letters was 2,289, with an aggregate value of $84,410, of which 714 letters were recovered, and 216, valued at $10,510, accounted for by the recovery of the contents from the thieves or persons through whose carelessness they were lost. The percentage of actual losses, compared with the number of letters registered, is about one-fiftieth of 1 per cent., or one in every 5,536.

DISTINCT shocks of earthquake were felt in portions of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and New York, early on the morning of the 31st ult. Buildings were shaken in many localities so severely as to awaken the inhabitants. At Lebanon, N. H., bells were rung by the shock in buildings, and at Wheeler, Vt., the people were awakened by successive shocks, lasting some fifteen minutes. At Northampton, Mass., glass was broken and furniture shaken. Similar shocks were also felt in many portions of Canada.

ON the 5th, at Allegheny, Pa., John Knee blew down the chimney to extinguish his kerosene lamp. The lamp exploded, and Knee was fatally burned.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE President, on the 30th ult., sent to the Senate the name of Hon. John Welsh, a merchant of Philadelphia, as his nomination for United States Minister to the Court of St. James.

AMONG the nominations confirmed by the Senate in Executive session, on the 30th ult., were those of E. F. Noyes as Minister to France; R. S. Stoughton, Minister to Russia; Thos. Ewing, Minister to the Argentine Republic; James M. Conley, Minister to the Sandwich Islands; Jas. Russell Lowell, Minister to Spain; and John A. Kasson, Minister to Austria.

PRESIDENT HAYES, accompanied by his family and some of the members of his Cabinet, arrived at Richmond, Va., on the 30th ult. Their were met by a numerous crowd of people and cheered by Acting-Mayor Meredith, to which brief responses were made.

AT his residence in Indianapolis, Ind., on the afternoon of the 1st, Senator Oliver P. Morton, after a long and painful illness, quietly passed away, in the presence of his wife and other members of his family. Up to within half an hour of his death he enjoined a composure and consciousness that were remarkable even to the end. He had been conscious everything of any value that could be found—money, jewelry, blankets and overcoats.

THE coinage executed in the United States Mints for the month of October was as follows: Double-eagles, $5,454,800; half-eagles, $5,000; quarter-eagles, $20,000; total gold coinage, $5,479,800. Trade-dollars, $1,075,000; half-dollars, $711,295; quarter-dollars, $554,032; twenty-cent pieces, $10; dimes, $76,405; total silver coinage, $2,405,707.

THE annual report of the Superintendent of Special Agents shows that during the past year 543 persons were arrested for offenses against the Postal laws—104 in excess of the preceding year. The number of complaints of lost registered letters was 2,289, with an aggregate value of $84,410, of which 714 letters were recovered, and 216, valued at $10,510, accounted for by the recovery of the contents from the thieves or persons through whose carelessness they were lost. The percentage of actual losses, compared with the number of letters registered, is about one-fiftieth of 1 per cent., or one in every 5,536.

DISTINCT shocks of earthquake were felt in portions of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and New York, early on the morning of the 31st ult. Buildings were shaken in many localities so severely as to awaken the inhabitants. At Lebanon, N. H., bells were rung by the shock in buildings, and at Wheeler, Vt., the people were awakened by successive shocks, lasting some fifteen minutes. At Northampton, Mass., glass was broken and furniture shaken. Similar shocks were also felt in many portions of Canada.

ON the 5th, at Allegheny, Pa., John Knee blew down the chimney to extinguish his kerosene lamp. The lamp exploded, and Knee was fatally burned.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE President, on the 30th ult., sent to the Senate the name of Hon. John Welsh, a merchant of Philadelphia, as his nomination for United States Minister to the Court of St. James.

AMONG the nominations confirmed by the Senate in Executive session, on the 30th ult., were those of E. F. Noyes as Minister to France; R. S. Stoughton, Minister to Russia; Thos. Ewing, Minister to the Argentine Republic; James M. Conley, Minister to the Sandwich Islands; Jas. Russell Lowell, Minister to Spain; and John A. Kasson, Minister to Austria.

PRESIDENT HAYES, accompanied by his family and some of the members of his Cabinet, arrived at Richmond, Va., on the 30th ult. Their were met by a numerous crowd of people and cheered by Acting-Mayor Meredith, to which brief responses were made.

AT his residence in Indianapolis, Ind., on the afternoon of the 1st, Senator Oliver P. Morton, after a long and painful illness, quietly passed away, in the presence of his wife and other members of his family. Up to within half an hour of his death he enjoined a composure and consciousness that were remarkable even to the end. He had been conscious everything of any value that could be found—money, jewelry, blankets and overcoats.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

GEORGE RICE, nephew of ex-Gov. Bagley was recently arrested, in Jackson, for embezzlement.

JUDGE BENTINGTON has lately entered an order referring the University chancery case to a Court Commissioner to determine the exact amount in the hands of Rose and Douglass, respectively.

THE Detroit Republicans have nominated Wm. G. Thompson for Mayor, and the Prohibitionists, L. L. Farnsworth.

THE shipments of lumber from the Saginaw River during October aggregated 80,416,541 feet, being an excess of 11,217,500 feet over the corresponding month last year. The shipments to Nov. 1 show an excess of 75,254,800 feet of lumber, and 30,000,000 shingles, with a large excess in salt. The total water shipments to Nov. 1 were:

Lumber, feet	48,986,686
Lath, pieces, No	3,413,138
Shingles, No	152,501,800
Salt, bbls	250,000
Staves, No	5,270,800

THERE are 184 prisoners in the State House of Correction.

WHILE THOMKINS are said to be more plenty in the interior of the State than they have been for many years.

THE machinery for one iron mine in Marquette County required a train of thirty-two cars to transport it.

IN the U. S. navy, of New York, proposes to take the land granted for the purpose of building a railroad from Marquette to Mackinaw and in return build the road. The grant consists of 1,500,000 acres, all good pine and hard wood timber land.

CEDAR, the county seat of Gladwin County, contains six buildings, viz.: a Court-House, three dwelling houses, a store and a barn.

THE Supervisors of Wexford County refused to allow the Court House to be used for holding religious services.

A FEW nights ago, a man was shot and killed i...mstown, Barry County, while attempting to rob the house of a neighbor. The report is that he entered the house, disguised, and demanded money of a little boy, who was at home alone. The boy went into the bedroom and pretended that he was getting the money, but soon after came out with a rifle and shot the man dead. He then went to the home of a neighbor and told what he had done, when, upon investigation, it was found that the disguised robber was a neighbor.

ON the 31st ult., the following nominations of Instructors in Michigan were confirmed by the United States Senate: Robert J. Kelly, Alpena; Daniel M. Gardner, Stanton; Charles D. Fisher, Plymouth; L. D. Alexander, Buchanan; C. L. Sherwood, Dowagiac; F. R. L. Pierce, Grand Rapids; A. H. Heath, Ionia; J. B. Fox, Adrian; H. M. Hamilton, Eaton Rapids; L. S. Smith, Grand Haven; J. M. Chesney, Williamston.

ON the 31st ult., at Jackson, fire broke out in the basement near Mr. Rogers' extensive stables. The sheds were completely destroyed. The flames communicated to Lewis' carpenter shop, the residence of Walter Hilliard and Nichols & Sons' mill, each of which were considerably damaged. John Bathrick, of Illinois, had two handsome Norman stallions, valued at upward of $5,000, burned in the shed. The damage to the buildings is about $1,500.

NEARLY every lumber-mill on the Saginaw River is, or is about to be, put in winter quarters on account of the scarcity of water, caused by the exhausted or waste stream from the saw-mill.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury Oct. 20 was $852,818.35; receipts during the week ending Oct. 27 were $58,818.47; payments during same time were $149,288.34; balance in Treasury Oct. 27, 1877, $752,348.48; decrease for the week, $119,959.87.

THE residence of Byron Burt, at Milford, was burned, on the evening of the 29th ult., involving a loss of about $2,000. Two children were rescued with difficulty, half suffocated.

AT the Brubaker settlement, Clare County, there resides a girl with feet fifteen and one-half inches long. The country about there is fortunately being rapidly cleared up, and she can get around without damaging the standing timber much.

ON the 1st, a farmer, named August Otto, residing in Birch Run Township, was thrown from his wagon and received fatal injuries.

THE Supreme Court, lately in session at Lansing, adjourned sine die on the 1st.

THE school census of Detroit for 1877 shows that the public, private and church schools of that city are accommodating about 30,000 pupils. Nearly 16,500 children are reported as being in any school. It is estimated that 13,000 of these are living vagabond lives in the streets.

THERE were 485,965 letters and postal-cards delivered in Detroit during the month of October, and 175,020 papers. The letters and postals collected numbered 191,344.

THERE were received at the State Prison, during October, fifteen convicts, making the number confined, on the 1st, 760.

THE recent heavy rains have brought down the logs that were left in the streams, and several of the mills in the vicinity of Alpena, which had shut down for the season, have started again.

THE wife of Samuel Steele, of Detroit, assaulted him with an ax, on the 31, and inflicted presumably fatal injuries. The woman is said to be insane, but the jury fixed unhappily together.

AT East Saginaw, on the 31, William Helmer, fifteen years old, was struck by a limb thrown from a tree during a high wind and fatally injured.

MISS. THEODORE WALTERS, of North Lansing, attempted suicide, on the 31, by jumping off the Shiawassee street bridge into Grand River, but was rescued by some passers-by. The cause of the rash attempt is said to be domestic infelicity.

THERE is a much greater influx of immigrants in Kalkaska County this year than in usual.

THE Agent of the Bible Society recently visited 653 families in Ottawa County, and found only fifty-six who were without the Bible.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.15@1.35; Butter, ₱ lb, 20@22c; Cheese, ₱ lb, 13@16c; Hay, Corn, ₱ ton, 4@5; Flour, White Wheat, $6.25@6.50; Amber, $5.75@6.00; Rye, $5.75@4.00; Cattle, ₱ cental, $3.12½@3.50; Hogs, $4.10@5.40; Sheep, $3.50@4.25; Oats, Mixed, ₱ bu, 25@27½c; White, 29@30½c; Pork, ₱ brl, $15.50@15.75; Rye, ₱ bu, 56@57c; Wheat, White, $1.50@1.49; Amber, $1.20@1.50.

Last Hours of Senator Morton.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 1.

Although Mr. Morton has been dying several days, the change has been so gradual that the near approach of death could not be realized. It was also rendered difficult by the intensity of pain. There never was an instant that he did not suffer. The only cause he enjoyed was when under the influence of chloroform. At noon to-day Mrs. Morton requested that she and her children might be left alone with him for a few minutes. He was fully conscious at the time, and that interview is sacred It was no doubt a solemn leave-taking, with kiss and blessing, doubly affecting to the survivors, for the absence of the remaining brother, John R. Morton, who is lying very ill in Alaska. His condition was never known to his father, who only expressed surprise, occasionally, that he had not come when expected. From noon until five o'clock Mrs. Morton rested easy under the influence of chloroform. Then he aroused to full consciousness, and, observing the grief of his family and friends, said to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Holloway, "I am dying." She answered, "Oliver, you are not afraid to die?" and he shook his head. Shortly afterward he said to Dr. Thompson: "I am dying, Thompson." The doctor replied: "Oliver Morton, you are not afraid to face death?" He again shook his head to express the negative. The latter then asked: "Do you know your wife?" He turned toward her and bowed his head. A paroxysm of pain succeeded, when Gov. Burbank took the hand, wildly lifted, and asked: "Oliver, do you know me?" Mr. Morton looked at him and bowed assent. Five minutes passed. When the last struggle came, Mr. Morton threw back his head, straightened himself up, and with gasping breath turned to Gov. Burbank and said: "John, sir!" He lived five minutes longer. The last moments were so peaceful that it was almost impossible to realize when he expired. When Dr. Thompson announced that all was over, he and other friends withdrew from the room, leaving the family alone with the remains.

The last and fatal stroke of paralysis overtook Senator Morton on the 7th of August last, and since that time he has failed slowly and steadily. At times his symptoms were favorable, and gave his friends reason to hope for improvement, but after each apparent gain there came a relapse from which recovery was more difficult. From the first the sick man believed his case hopeless, and, even before the physician would confess the truth, he knew his days were numbered.

In all this time he has been surrounded by the truest of friends and all the aid that mortal power could command have been summoned to do his service, but all in vain. Life might perhaps have been prolonged slightly but for the fact that the patient himself demanded and would have operations to relieve him from pain, and morphine was administered against the judgment of his physicians. The opiates coated the surface of his stomach and very greatly impeded digestion, ultimately greatly declining the power of his digestive organs.

"RECKON that air scales of yourn is not Ambush-ways, now is it?" said a countryman to his grocer as he took the sugar and handed over the money. "Ambush scales, what do you mean?" replied the merchant. "Who's Ambush?" "Ambush—why, y' knowing'ar Ambush—y' understand what I mean, mean, don't yer?" "Well, I should hope so, Mr Woodruff—Ambush means kid—means somethin' concealed—means—wait, here's the dictionary; I'll just read to yer exactly what it means an' it you needn't never use it wrong after this—here 'tis—A—am—ambush—to beset in wait for——" "Yis that's it. 'Squire, don't go no further—to lie in wayght for two cents!" —N. Y. Graphic.

IN two years six thousand London children have been taught to swim by the Health Society.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6, 1877.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$4.60	@ 5.40
Sheep	4.25	@ 5.50
Hogs	5.25	@ 5.35
FLOUR—Good to Choice	5.80	@ 6.10
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.07	@ 1.08
CORN—Western Mixed	.59½	@ .61
OATS—Western and State	.35	@ .37
RYE—Western	.71½	@ .72
PORK—Mess	14.25	@ 14.50
LARD—Steam	8.60	@ 8.62½
CHEESE	.08	@ .12½
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	.32	@ .37
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Extra	$5.25	@ $5.50
Choice	4.60	@ 5.00
Good	4.00	@ 4.40
Medium	3.50	@ 3.75
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	4.60	@ 5.15
SHEEP—Common to Choice	3.00	@ 4.25
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	.30	@ .32
Good to Choice	.27	@ .29
EGGS—Fresh	.17	@ .18
FLOUR—Choice Winter	5.75	@ 6.25
Choice to Fine Spring	5.75	@ 6.50
GRAIN—Wheat, No. 2 Spring	1.06	@ 1.06¾
Corn, No. 2	.34	@ .34½
Oats, No. 2	.24	@ .24½
Barley, No. 2	.52½	@ .53
Rye, No. 2	.49½	@ .50
BROOM CORN—Choice Hurl	7.00	@ 7.50
Good Medium	5.00	@ 5.50
Self-working and Crooked	3.00	@ 3.50
Crooked	2.00	@ 2.50
PORK—Mess	13.50	@ 13.75
LARD	8.05	@ 8.12½
LUMBER—Com'on and Fenc'g	10.00	@ 12.00
Shingles	2.50	@ 3.00
Lath	1.75	@ 2.00
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$5.25	@ $6.00
Medium	3.50	@ 4.25
HOGS—Good	5.50	@ 7.50
SHEEP—Good	4.00	@ 4.75
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.25	@ $5.50
Medium	4.60	@ 5.00
HOGS—Yorkers	4.90	@ 4.95
Prime Heavies	5.00	@ 5.05
SHEEP—Best	4.50	@ 5.00
Common	3.25	@ 4.00

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NUT-BROWNE MAYDE.

Autumne.

One morn I met, while wandering down
The fields, a maid in grey
And scarlet dress, with all her known
Bright curls in disarray.

Her grave "Give you good-morrow" said,
I found her wish among
The tangled paths, where overhead
The pretty jests all hung.

It was a soft, gray, lowly scene
Through which we passed, a lane
Upon the hills, you, meet, never (If autumne's silent days!

The wild field-lily's proud, bright head
Was lifted here and there;
The fall lobelia's flame alone red
On the soft, shattered air.

But he along our buttone way,
Where leaf or bright stem burned,
The maider stole to tie away
Its bloom to sabes turned.

She brussed the lily's golden cup—
The curled vine's dark cloak—
The carnival flower she fobbed up
And put its bright fire out.

"O! cruel maid!" I sighed, with woe,
"What mischief have you done!
Who will now bring the sun to go
In that brief twine from youth and grace
The sad is honoured?"

"My name!" the Autumn! I have slain
Love innocents. Forgive!"
Her look rose chill! "A dead vain Enough that I must live?"

A faint sob shivered down the air;
"Hush—hear," she startled, said,
"'Tis Rachel, weeping everywhere,
Mourning for children dead."

She went her way—and while I stood,
All through that fair, fall land,
The lovely lights in field and wood
Died, smothered by her hand.

—Miller, Carpenter, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

LOANING A LOVER.

My sister Patricia was an heiress. Strange enough, for we had always been terribly poor down at Lowbridge, my widow of mother bringing up her four daughters with the greatest difficulty; but when brought up, we were worth looking at. I believe. Healthy habits and frugal living are apt to make good conditions, and Pat, Sally, Mary and Patricia and I, were as bright and handsome girls as are often seen.

Pat and Mary were twins, with eyes as blue as the sea near which they were born, rosy cheeks and long, light brown curls; Patricia was a sparkling brunette, while I was considered the beauty of the family, with crinkled hair, like molten gold. Great had been our excitement when Aunt Betty wrote from Fairhaven:

"DEAR SISTER-IN-LAW—I am going to do my pleasure of visiting you this summer. I hear that Brother Abel left four girls, and I want to know them. I am getting on in years, and fancy it will make one of them my heiress," etc.

Aunt Betty, of Fairhaven, was worth $100,000 if she was worth a cent.

Well, in due time she came. She put up at the hotel, as Patricia—cottage as Lowbridge wasn't big enough to hold her, with her maid, coachman and carriage—but, fortunately, that was close by, and she spent the larger half of three days with us.

Aunt Betty, of Fairhaven, was worth $100,000 if she was worth a cent.

Well, in due time she came. She put up at the hotel, as Patricia—cottage as Lowbridge wasn't big enough to hold her, with her maid, coachman and carriage—but, fortunately, that was close by, and she spent the larger half of three days with us.

We all thought Bess would be her chosen, for rather than named her Elizabeth for Aunt Betty, though she always was been "Bess" with us; but it was not either of the twins and it was not I—it was Patricia.

"Where did that girl get her black hair?" Aunt Betty asked, as soon as she had gone.

"I think she looks like my Brother Luke, don't you?" asked the mother, with a wistful look.

"The very image of him," answered Aunt Betty, turning pale.

I divined then, as I learned afterward, that Uncle Luke had been a lover of Aunt Betty's, when both were young, before her marriage, and the fact seemed to have a power over her.

She looked at Patricia and the girl blushed rosy-red, and would have slipped out of the room, when she called her to her, and drawing her down upon her knees on a footstool before her, she put a withered hand each side of the young cheek, and said, warmly:

"My dear, you shall be my heiress."

"Yes."

"I want to say to you, my dear, that on Mr. Sherrington's account, I don't think you had better——" she whispered, but I interrupted her by my exit from the apartment.

The next train brought Mr. Clyde Sherrington.

"How delightful that the spring is a-hand," said he; "the sunshine growing warm, and the grass springing! I passed a bit of wood coming up from the station that is full of arbutus. We will have some delightful walks, Gerty. I am very tired of city life."

"Yes, Clyde, dear; but you see I have been obliged to make a little plum which will interfere somewhat with that arrangement," I replied quickly. "In fact, for the fruible good, you know, I want to lend you to Patricia!"

"Yes: while I have away a most intelligible sister she has. Momma and I consider that it is her duty to stay," I added. "Patricia has a fortune of $100,000, you know?"

"Well, we think this Mr. Gage Redmond is after her money. He is only a briefless lawyer. We can't afford to let Patty make such a match as that, and so, as I don't think I'm a totally uninteresting person to you, Clyde, I am going to try and win a little with Mr Redmond. Now, you won't be a bear and say no, will you, dear? And you'll try to help us by devoting yourself a bit to Patricia, won't you?"

At first my companion did not believe that I was in earnest; but when convinced of my sincerity his astonishment was inexpressible. I remember that he stammered out some faint objections; but I would not listen, and before retiring that night I whispered to momma that I had made it all right with Mr. Sherrington, and she had only to observe how nicely I would manage the whole matter.

I sent Patricia off in the morning to find arbutus with Mr. Sherrington, while I waited to receive Mr. Redmond.

When he came I was in the garden, and had ordered lunch an hour earlier than usual. My pale blue silk looked beautiful on the lawn grass.

"Pray come and see my tulips, Mr. Redmond," I called, as he walked up the avenue.

He came, pleased enough, and as he was especially fond of flowers, I had no difficulty in detaining him for more than half an hour.

Then, seeing him look at his watch, I observed:

"We won't wait lunch for Patricia, for Mr. Sherrington is with her. They have gone roaming off after spring flowers, and may not be back for three hours. Come in and have a bit of salad, with a cup of chocolate, Mr. Redmond. I made the chocolate myself, and can recommend it."

So I had lunch for another half hour, and he left, pleased with his visit.

Patricia and Mr. Sherrington came back only fifteen minutes after the usual lunch hour, the former looking so delighted with a profusion of pink arbutus as hardly to heed when a servant informed her that "Mr. Redmond had called to see her, and stayed with Miss Gertrude for lunch."

She had put the rosy clusters in her dark hair and on the bosom of her graceful gray dress, and, flushed with her long ramble, I think I never saw her look so perfectly lovely.

"He has been here. Very nice of you to keep her out of the way so long," I whispered to Clyde.

He looked at me queerly, but said nothing. I did not want him to expostulate with me, as I believed he wished to do, and so kept apart from him during the evening, bowing him to sing and play with Patricia.

He was interesting, with his very natural manner of reserved modesty. I was glad that Patricia found him so. He had pale, silken hair, that fell in shadowy curls over a beautiful forehead, dark, dark eyes, softly meditative tones. He entrusted nicely with her dark, spirited beauty.

Clyde has no elder brother—have not you, dear?—and I reflected that Patricia would be a rich match for him, for all his wealth, that I considered almost the house in a timed way, not heeding how momma was trotting about Redmond's

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

TUE-DAY, NOVEMBER 30 — 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Nov. 16, 1877.

The most important event of the week into which this letter comes—Tuesday last, or Mr Tilden's 63rd birthday and the 41st anniversary of his election for which many hips & hurrahs (& some muscle, too) were made—passed with the usual quiet of the city with which it always identifies itself. The purlieus of the rotund Democracy of earth. There were some few scenes present in Union Square, but the park for the most part was deserted, and by the time the long line of processionists got to it it is understood that preparations for a celebration.

Mr. Tilden was the senior member of the firm of Tilden & Co., which was finally dissolved partnership after many years of business in which they had acquired, not only a fortune for himself, but a reputation perhaps the highest as well as the largest [illegible] their names being familiar as well in London and Paris as in New York. Even when, at the period of the civil war, the effect to future payment to a less but considerable extent, the course of the late firm and contributed most largely to its foreign trade; and this, although somewhat novel in statement, and strange, as yet, to American ears, they are evidently the reverse of visionary, at least in this case. Mr. Starr is an enthusiast in the art in his chosen. His evening succeeds now at to a passion for the precious stones and is ever ready for their money value, but for other qualities, unappreciable beauty. He looks also to regard jewels or finely wrought bronzes as as much groceries or hardware—merely something to trade upon—is entirely unworthy the artist jeweler, who has an educational as well as a commercial work to perform.

To the sincerity of his views upon this subject his present establishment is testimony enough. He has chosen a location at the intersection of Broadway and Fifth Avenue, the representative abodes, respectively, of our business and aristocracy, and has so remodeled the dignified old stone mansion which he occupies, as to obtain a frontage on both these streets, that on Fifth Avenue containing the main entrance. And although of course, great changes have been made in the building it has in some manner preserved the air of the elegant dwelling, in place of the exaggerated bustle inseparable from the "shop." All is quiet, luxury and refinement, and every appointment accords with the high conceptions which I have outlined.

It should not be necessary to add that the gems, the cameos, the bronzes and the manifold handiwork of gold and silver smith, which adorn throughout the crystal cases of these exhibit, [illegible] or hide their radiance in the darkness of the brick and steel [illegible] below, are of the most perfect [illegible] of the most classic design and finest execution, which the [illegible] of the miner and the [illegible] skill of the artificer possess. [illegible] of less perfection would be [illegible] this collection. Every object charms the eye and elevates the taste, and the whole impresses the appreciative observer with an effect which is not the barbaric splendor of an Inca's [illegible] room, but a prevailing [illegible] of the marriage of the rarest in nature and the highest in art.

James Brown, of Brown Brothers & Co., London and New York, who died in this city the other day, left a fortune ranging well up into the millions. An interesting episode in connection with the business of his house occurred during the panic of 1857, when, being in need of cash to a large extent, they went to the bank of England, and, such was the confidence placed in them, obtained a loan of $25,000 gold, all of which they repaid within six months. Brown Bros. have held in England a position second to that of no other Americans, if we except George Peabody & Co. The present head of the latter house, Mr J S Morgan, is now in this city, and was on Thursday evening last the recipient of a banquet at Delmonico's gastronomic palace, the mere accounts of which are painfully appetizing. This banquet

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, - 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

NEW YORK, NOV. 16, 1877.

The most important event of the week is to me the commencement, January last, of Mr. Theodore B. Starr's jewelry and fine art establishment, long known for which it was famous for some months. The business was carried on with the utmost success in the old store, which is now occupied by the Arkell & Smith publishing establishment, and had outgrown it and its facilities. Mr. Starr's stock was of course greatly increased and improved by the removal to the new store, and the new premises were so admirably adapted to the display of goods that the sales were doubled at once. Indeed, it is said, sales have been very great, as the proper display of goods will nearly always double the business of jewellers.

Tuesday was unusually quiet on Broadway yesterday. There was a universal feeling of dull depression in the country for the state paper of Secretary John Morrissey and Augustus Schell, or, more accurately speaking, between Morrissey on one hand and Secretary Bell and Boss Kelley on the other. It was a consequence of a contest, which partly from former very nearly and the consequences of the "Boss" were unexpected and complete defeat. Morrissey is the latter unanimously elected to present American politics. His genius for speculation of a man with considerable powers of mind, disciplined by the constant struggle of greed and evil tendencies, both of which he undoubtedly possesses. His birth, character and early career as a prize fighter, gambler and criminal in many another direction were enough to have ruined ninety-nine men out of a hundred. Indeed they have come near ruining him during that for him; for he has had a somber and gloomy setting under the lids of the stone in which he was born in infancy, with a coolness and confidence which shows how far his moral principles have been blunted, and yet there is in him a sort of sturdy manliness and a scorn of meanness which compels certain respect in spite of his misdeeds. Here he went into the canvass with the record of a convict, a gambler, a prize-fighter and a ruffian—against a man of entire respectability, as well as a veteran politician, backed by the most powerful machinery of New York politics, was sick throughout the canvass and in his bed on election day, and yet routed his formidable adversaries, being elected by a large majority. And the result, strange as it is, was accomplished by the "gift-and-lift" vote of his Indians and Canadians casting their suffrages for him rather than for his wealthy and respectable rival.

Walter Morrissey will surely find extraordinary mark of success now to be proved, and from that man who defines his religious creed to be "To do as you agree," it may be reasonable expected that he will fulfil his different pledge.

The board of lever has become quite full. Not content with issuing and paying over to the use of poor Edwin Adams almost $10,000, and tendering a benefit which would perhaps have done as much for George Fox's widow, the actors have issued new medals in expression for their charitable leanings. Into each one Mortis, with the aid of Lester Wallack and others, got up a performance called "Cash Here" for the Custer Monument Fund, netting $1,900, and now there is another similar affair for [illegible] Vincent an Indian chief-tainer, once famous in the "Black Crook" and further connected, but for several years past a helpless pauper fiend in the deepest poverty.

Two new plays by Frederic Clark, a young New York actor, one a comedy, "The Heroine," and the other an emotional drama, "Iron Woman," are to be produced next month—the former at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, and the latter at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago. Both pieces are said by competent critics to be excellent; a good and, being very dissimilar character will be a strong test of the writer's ability as a dramatist.

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart? Have you Dizziness of the Head? Is your Nervous System depressed? Does your Blood circulate badly? Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c., &c. All of these and much more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,000,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first-class Druggists in U. S.

Astonishing Success

In this day of every person who has used Boerhave's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year and no one case failed when it was used. Such a medicine as the German Syrup should be immediately known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try will cost 10 cents, regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. Chester.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

[illegible] acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on Pine road,

Known as the Cooper Farm,

70 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are finished with [illegible] and maps, which can [illegible] and are accessible to best market

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for [illegible] well watered, and contiguous to the most prosperous section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the centre of the grant.

The part of Michigan in which these lands are situated is

Not a Wilderness, Lyany Means

It contains a population of TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE, as intelligent and prosperous as can be found in any State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of this country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

Send for our Illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. HULBERT, Commissioner, Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the state by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an order, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

SUMMER 1877.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

IN EVERY DEPATMENT We are supplied

With the Best

THAT THE

Wholesale Markets Afford

WE ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER TO SUPPLY THE WANTS OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND BETTER PREPARED

ToSell Cheap.

It Is Unneccessary

To Enumerate Articles;

WE SEL

What You Want,

Be Your Wants Ever so Nnumeous.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

GREAT EXCITEMENT!!

—AT—

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN EXAMINING THEIR IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS JUST RECEIVED. THEY DONT QUOTE PRICES ON A FEW CHEAP GOODS, BUT SELL

Everything AT BOTTOM RATES!

Remember the Place!

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Charlevoix, Nov. 20, 1877.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB

JEWELER

CHARLEVOIX, MICH

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly executed to at reasonable rates. (6)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and [illegible] Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM, Manager, 63 Madison St. Toledo, O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

[illegible] you have [illegible] we [illegible] you [illegible] will be. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Very Cheap,

[illegible] we can [illegible] you [illegible] will be. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES.

When we prepared to sell very low for Cash or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law, AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Frontier's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

16 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE FINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the growing feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SPICES, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 42, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for TEAS, SYRUPS &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

1y23 (6, 12.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$9.50

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $2 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH, Brunswick, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles' Lath Cheese Box Stuff Broom Handles Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which [illegible] Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH PRINTING INK for Printers!

News, Book and Job Inks of warranted of superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS,

(Formerly of London, England),

184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

Friendship on 'Change.

The peculiar character of chattiness for friendship and humor on 'Change is aptly illustrated, though the illustration may well seem severe, by a case whose particulars were given me by a gentleman yesterday. One of the young brokers, as popular and gay a "boy" as the list contains, managed to scrape together $5,000 before the recent "bull" movement began, and was sanguine of rapidly increasing his capital by a profitable investment. He was specially friendly with one of the leading "bulls," a well-known man on the curb, and sought advice from this intelligent source. It so happened that the combination had weakened, and decided to sell out the very next day. When, however, Tom asked if he had better put his $5,000 into Lake Shore, the heavy "bull" said to do it by all means, as that stock was to be run up like so six points on the morrow. Flushed with excitement over the prospect of what was sure to come in his favor, the young man was on hand promptly at first call in the morning, and bought Lake Shore at it. He had, moreover, influenced other small capitalists to do likewise, on the strength of such advice, and for a few minutes the stock was buoyant and promising. But no sooner had it risen two points than the market was flooded, suddenly and without warning, and before the poor fellows could realize what had happened Lake Shore was down 9@95, and they had no money to put up further margins. So they were sold out, to the total loss of every cent they possessed, while the "bull" informant was chuckling in his sleeve at the neat trick he had played on the "boys," who had enabled him to turn a handsome sum by the upward impetus their numbers and confidence had imparted to the opening bids. Such action as this, done by a man worth his hundreds of thousands, to the utter cleaning out of men who have had a hard tussle with the Wall-street dens of Fortune—the goddess never ventures down there—seems incredible. Yet, so far from that, it goes for a capital practical joke, and is not any more uncommon on the street than boss rumors and lying in wait. The informant will be on hand to-day, if any excuse were made, would be that it was the "bull's" interest to keep stock up till he could sell his large handful of them at a profit. If he had told the small broker to sell as the pool was about to break, the news would have been given out in turn to many others, and next day the stock would go down, to his large disaster. Such an excuse, however, would be little improvement, since it would be to state the plain statement that it was done just for the fun of the thing. It is, in the same breed argument, unbalanced by for the burglar's interest to walk away undisturbed with the contents of other people's safes, but the police interfere with him—and many things have to be around—for all that. The wonder is, as the narrator of the incident said, that some of these deliberately victimized men made desperate by their losses, do not kill the shameless swindlers, or at least treat them as Schuyler Colfax and Henry Ward Beecher the way was given in vengeance for those things were to be all taken up and there would be numerous second to have no time to attend to anything else, and I hange would become a sort of public lynching post. Something like this, though, might prove a salt mine ocial. Men ought to have respect, even it it must needs be clubbed into them. —N. Y. Times' Street Phases.

Pen-Picture of Sitting Bull.

The Famine and the Work of Relief in India.

The Rev. Lorin S. Yates, a graduate of Williams College, in the class of 1871, and engaged as a missionary of the American Board at Madura, India, writes to a private letter to a friend, under date of Sept. 8, some interesting particulars of the awful visitation of famine and the work of relief. He says:

We are in the midst of the famine-stricken district, and are realizing, as to never realized before, what a famine is. All last year we had no rain to speak of over a large part of India. The crops failed almost entirely in this region and in the country south of us. The people never think of laying up a cent for "a rainy day" (a dry day), and when the crops do not appear, the time they are compelled to leave their fields and seek food they know not where. Grain is now about six times its usual value, and this for a poor people is bad: but this is not so bad as the fact that nobody can get work, and hence there are no wages. In this extremity, the Government has opened "relief works," building roads, tanks, artificial lakes, railroads, etc., in order to keep the people at work. Yet, with all this, there are hundreds dying every day of starvation, and will be some months to come—say till about January. Then the principal crop of the year will be ripe, and the people will have food, provided the rain does not fail.

There are now people here from near by every village within forty miles. Water has been brought to the vicinity of an engineer in building a large artificial lake. Thousands of these people are fed daily here, and yet it is impossible to reach all of the starving ones. We feed from 2000 to 3000 per sons every early every day. Many of these are children, saved by work Parents have turned off their children to care for themselves. Husbands have (among the very rich, probably) returned away their wives, and mothers are trying to sell and give away their children. Almost every day children are brought here for us to take. One woman came with a child about four days old and said if we did not take the child she would kill it. We took mother and child and cared for them as best we could, but the mother finally killed the child by refusing to nurse it. She had become almost insane with the thought of supporting the child in such a time as this. A few days ago, a little girl about three years old was found lying on our verandah. We asked her where she came from, and she said her mother brought her in sight of the house and told her to come here and she would find a "mother," and she has. This shows how the people are suffering, for a mother parts with her child only as a last resort. Many persons have come here with their children and asked us to keep them for a few weeks, while they went to the relief works, and it is encouraging to see how the people trust us now. * * * We find about 500 persons in our yard every morning. We select the most needy and set them one side, for there are many who try to impose on us, and who have means of support. We boil rice, about two bushels a day, and give with bread to the needy ones. The Government authorities give us 100 mauve loaves of bread a day. These we cut into three pieces each and give each child a piece, which serves as a plate on which to put the rice. The loaves are about as large in diameter as a dinner-plate and a little thicker. Many children are so wasted away with hunger that they are actually living skeletons. Many were so far gone when came that they will never recover. A few days ago I found three persons within an hour in different parts of the fields near by all speechless and nearly gone with starvation. There is a debasement of pelloe whose duty it is to pick up the dead bodies that are found about the streets. From seventeen to twenty-five are reported at the police office as picked up every day. This does not include the large numbers who die daily in the poor-house and hospitals. We are contemplating building a house for orphans. Many are now on our hands, and we have no place but a carriage or horse-shed to keep them in.

Yesterday a Mussulman came to me to be baptized. After inquiring his motives, I found it was only because he thought we would take better care of him if he was in the Church. The natives have often accused us of buying converts. But now we could get many thousands of them for a few piece, and I hope the famine will have the effect of stopping that accusation.

I have spoken of the famine as it is and has been for the past few months. Now the prospects are more favorable. Rain has fallen, and is falling copiously in many parts of India, and in the course of times for a few weeks the crops will be sown, and we may hope for good harvests. The people in this region now two crops a year; in the month of June they sow what are called the small grains, and in October the other crops—wheat, barley, and other grains peculiar to the country. These last ripen in January, and it we have good rains for the next few weeks until these grains are started the famine will be very much relieved. But the famine has killed the bullocks, so that there are very few to till the ground with, and consequently much less grain will be raised this year than usual. The famine has been so excessive that grain will be much higher than usual for some years, I fear.—Boston Journal.

The Chief Sitting Bull is a full-blooded Teton Indian, the Teton being a branch of the great Sioux Nation. In stature he is rather inclined to be stout than tall; perhaps in his moccasins he will measure five feet eight or nine inches, weight about 170 pounds. His age is about forty-eight; his hair a little gray; his eyes dark, and his whole appearance that of a full-blooded Sioux on the war path. He is brave, ambitious, clever in the Indian fashion only, native, and, in the Indian creed, somewhat fanatical. He has long cherished the conviction that he is ordained as the Indian who must wrest from the whites the country of his fathers. He has a great and almost unaccountable hatred toward Americans, as distinguished from Europeans or Canadians. He is even expert in detecting who are from the United States and who are not, and instances are not wanting in his bloody and savage career where he has shown wonderful patience and humanity, often with his own hand protecting captives from death whom he took a liking to, or whom he regarded with so much contempt as to let free for the sake of showing the captive how little he esteemed him. Of course he is a polygamist, having three squaws in his tepee who are his wives according to the Indian code, but he has more consequence than four Sioux Classes; it says that the name was one of a lot drawn from a hat when his parents were debating what to call him.

Claiborne F. Jackson, a native of Kentucky, was once Governor of Missouri. The most remarkable fact connected with his life is perhaps that he married a Miss Haskell, of Rochester, who was at the same time a teacher at New Bedford.

The unpublished life of Gen. Grant, written by his father, Mr. Jesse R. Grant, is in the possession of the Connecticut State Librarian. This manuscript gives a new version of the way in which Grant got to West Point, and Clesses; it says that the name was one of a lot drawn from a hat when his parents were debating what to call him.

Claiborne F. Jackson, a native of Kentucky, was once Governor of Missouri. The most remarkable fact connected with his life is perhaps that he married a Miss Haskell, of Rochester, who was at the same time a teacher at New Bedford.

The unpublished life of Gen. Grant, written by his father, Mr. Jesse R. Grant, is in the possession of the Connecticut State Librarian. This manuscript gives a new version of the way in which Grant got to West Point, and it says that the name was one of a lot drawn from a hat when his parents were debating what to call him.

Chil

A fine assortment of Ladies' overshoes at Sweet & Washburn's.

Cash for Corn or Oats at the Log Store of Mary, once he shall move his family there in the spring, on Horse Creek, in the Charlevoix Settlement.

The mail still continues at Carpenter & Barnes' store.

E. J. WARREN, one of the Secretaries, called to see us the Fire, Electric & Water Co. of Newark. He says he has already secured a paying stationary piece, upon the rules of the Thomas Johnson, but do not like the 75c, and may be able to secure a better. I hope he will.

The Democrats carried every county by fire and brimstone majority, except Lenawee, Monroe and Wayne. Lenawee is the home of Senator Chandler, and Wayne is the home of Senator Conger. Both of these Senators are Republicans, and the Democrats of Lenawee and Monroe, in order to show their appreciation of the Senatorial courtesy, which has been extended to Senator Conger, by the Republicans of Wayne, in the matter of the Louisiana Investigation, the Attorney General gave it as his opinion that said Senator was not a resident of said city.

The very latest in evening party wear—Mr. Wright—She was entertaining the Grand Rapids Times in the village last week, but he got sore and went home O. N. Watson, of Petoskey.

The Sentinel for the first of the south west fractional quarter of section 30 Town 30 north, Range 7 West, 80 acres known as the Early farm. Price $400 [illegible] cash. Address Special Publisher of the Post, Charlevoix, Mich.

Lost—White & Jersey cow, left Capt. Gibbs, of the Phoenix City, had the said cow in his care. Any person [illegible] yourself daughter. The said cow is her best friend and gone through all weather in the woods on the west side of the lake, but this time melted him, and was in a calf. He has the sincere sympathy of the many friends here.

Go and look over our line of clothing, go to See & Washburn's.

A CURE FOR CROUP.—The Boston Transcript asserts that croup can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply sweet oil. The way to accomplish the desire is to take a knife or grater, and obtain in small particles about a teaspoonful of onion: then mix it with twice its quantity of sugar, to make it palatable and administer it as quickly as possible. Almost instances one dose will relieve.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll has been offered the German mission, and the place to Washington [illegible] position.

The sum of $2,000 was not a large sum for Grant to receive. Though long a public man his homely never gave out.

Gents' [illegible] and ladies' black kid gloves at See & Washburn's

The Evening Wisconsin publishes a list of the members of the Wisconsin Legislature for 1878. According to this list there will be in the Senate 21 Republicans and 12 Democrats, and in the House 48 Republicans, 39 Democrats, 7 Greenbackers, 3 Independents, 1 Socialist, and 1 member still in doubt.

State News.

In October 30 homesteads were entered at Traverse City, Land Office.

Nine large lumber camps are already established on the Manistee River and others are in contemplation.

Only three Republican clergymen in the denomination in Western Michigan get over $1,000 per annum.

The Kalamazoo Telegraph says eighteen miles of railroad will be laid soon in the Grand Rapids and Cincinnati road between Petoskey and Hobart.

At Greenville, Tuesday morning, 6th the snow was eight inches deep, and the mercury at sunrise stood at zero. The shade and forest trees were badly broken by the weight of snow. Sleighs were in the streets.

A party of eleven gentlemen, among who is one an artist employed on Scribner's Monthly, have been on a hunting expedition to the woods of Northern Michigan. They killed 21 deer.

Two boys named Brisnow, killed a lynx in Grattan a few days ago. It measured 7 ft 6 in. from its nose to the end of its tail. The boys were aged fifteen and sixteen respectively.

The Grand Rapids Eagle says: The officers of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad report that snow is five to twelve inches deep at various points on the Northern Division north of Grayling and the people in the north woods think that winter has fairly set in.

Kalkaska, which has heretofore lain upon the floating interests altogether, is now commencing to draw nutriment from the lumber operations which are beginning to gather around the town.

Cheboygan, having built a new town hall, is going to dedicate it appropriately.

A petition is circulating in Allegan asking Congress to appropriate $15,000 for a preliminary survey of the Muskegon river.

The Lowell Journal said it owe a grudge to the board of Supervisors, for its last issue it says: "We found a small [illegible] of a dollar bill the other day in one of the [illegible] office. By the way it will [illegible] down we convinced the last bad year [illegible] by the Board of Supervisors."

According to the Tribune Ledyard county has some not very desirable citizens. The last number of that paper says: "Two or three weeks ago Mr. George Thompson, who was in the county jail on a charge of stealing and having a colt, was released, his term having expired. It seems that upon his return home rumors of his wife's criminal intimacy with one of his neighbors reached his ears, which upon his return he entered his neighbor's stable during the night and with his knife cut his horse so severely that the intestines of one fell on the floor. The other was mutilated and hopes are entertained for its recovery. Thompson has not been seen or heard of since."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.—Sealed proposals will be received at the County Clerk's Office until Dec. 1, for getting 25 cords of wood for Court House. Said wood must be sawed [illegible] length, 2 inches in length, and prepared for the stove. Must be piled in the wood house and delivered before Feb. 1, 1878.

A. H. PEARSALL, Clerk.

Charlevoix, Nov. 8, 1877.

Astonishing Success

It is the story of every person who has used DR. SCHENCK'S GERMAN SYRUP to test the wonderful qualities for which it is famous. It heals in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, and in breaking up a severe cold. Then mix it with it in quantity of water, to make it palatable and administer it as directed, as a common domestic instrument and [illegible] follows.

Dr. Schenck has [illegible] of the great drug consumption, at least in [illegible] to bottle, as about dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case in all was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Large bottles only sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. Cheever.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of cheap

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. Smith.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 6, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Hall against Thomas Hall for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6277, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 6, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Hall against Thomas Hall for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6277, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., June 26, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry no. 6253, dated August 21 1871, upon the [illegible] of sec. section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] and sec. of sec. Section 7, Township 32 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Dec., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Dec., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] and sec. of sec. Section 7, Township 32 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

L. A. W

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

—

Improved Farm

AND

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

—

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

—

Collections a Speciality

—

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

—

Pine Timbered and Cut Over Farming Land in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low rates. Most of these lands are situated near the Short Line Railroad, and [illegible] and all good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,

Real Estate Agent,

Charlevoix Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage bearing date the 1st day of November, 1875, executed by Benjamin Stickney, of Charlevoix county, Michigan to Martin Hall, of the same county, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1875, at 9 o'clock a. m. in Liber [illegible] of Mortgages, on page 147, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Three Hundred and Sixty [illegible] principal and interest, for the recovery of which no suit or proceeding at law or otherwise has been taken; and

Whereas, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday, the seventeenth day of November A. D. 1877, at nine o'clock a. m. the undersigned assignee of said mortgage will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for said county within which said premises to be sold are situated,)

Said mortgaged premises are described in the County of Charlevoix and county of Michigan, and are known as the [illegible] number [illegible] Section Twenty-three (23) Township Thirty-three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West, containing forty (40) acres according to United States survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MARTIN I. WOOLEY, Mortgagee.

E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.

(35-13w) Petoskey, Mich.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 21, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

68 Jefferson Avenue,

DETROIT, MICH.

(1ou1)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Fourth Judicial Circuit in Chancery.

Peter Legeth, Complainant,

vs.

Robert Adcock and Mary S. Adcock defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix in Chancery, at the office of the Clerk of said county on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. It being made to appear by affidavit on file that the defendants Robert Adcock and Mary S. Adcock are residents of the State of Wisconsin and reside at Mills Dalles, in said State, and that their place of residence cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained. It is ordered that the said defendants Robert Adcock and Mary S. Adcock cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within ten days after service on them of a copy of this order and in case of their appearance in pursuance thereof and answer to the complainant's bill of complaint filed in this cause within twenty days after the service on them of said bill, and in case of their refusal to appear, plead, answer or demur within the time aforesaid, that the said bill be taken as confessed by the said defendants, and that the matters therein be decreed by this Court. And it is further ordered that the said complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

B. HATCH Jr.

Circuit Judge.

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.

Dated [illegible]

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 25, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Boggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] of section 24, Township 31 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253, dated Aug. 21, 1871, upon the [illegible] and sec. of sec. Section 7, Township 32 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.

PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

I have now in the Lumber Yard at Charlevoix a large stock of Lumber, Lath and Shingles, which I will sell at the lowest cash prices. Those in need of anything in my line will find it to their advantage to call and see me before purchasing elsewhere.

E. H. GREEN.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

CHEAP AS AWAY.

Constantly on hand at W. A. Smith's Charlevoix Mich.

NOTICE.—Wanted with [illegible] Cash for [illegible] Apply to J. P. WHALEY.

Wilson, Oct. 15.

FARM FOR SALE

In Evelina.

Lot [illegible] Section [illegible] Township [illegible] Range [illegible] West, containing [illegible] acres. Will be sold cheap for cash. Inquire of

CHARLES HILL.

Antrim Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of SW¼ Sec 24 Town 32 North of Range 8 West, 80 acres. Twenty-five acres improved. Log house and barn. Well located for [illegible]. Will be sold for [illegible]. Apply to

W. A. SMITH.

Charlevoix Mich.

CASWELL & RAMSDELL,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood Bark Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 10, MASON BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

FOR SALE.

One Rosewood, Piano case six Octave

Melodeon,

made by

Geo. W. Prince & Co.

of Buffalo, will be sold

CHEAP,

If taken [illegible] condition and will be sold [illegible] cash. Inquire of A. BITTAIRS.

Charlevoix, Aug. 2 1877. 33 tf.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BITTAIRS

ENGLISH INK for Printers,

News, Book and Job Inks, all warranted of superior quality. No charge for [illegible] grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly of London, England).

184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.

J. E. Griclick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Scroll sawing, etc.

Our stock in hands at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,

J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

—

All kinds of

Light and Heavy HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable prices.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 31 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Nov. 27. 1877. Whole No., 446

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by

WILLARD A. SMITH

—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice building On Bridge street

Terms of Subscription. $1.50 per Annum, to Advance To Foreign Countries

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	4 w.	3 m.	6 m.	1 yr.
One in.	$ 80	$1 25	$1 75	$2 25	$5 00	$8 00	$12 00
2 "	1 50	1 75	2 00	4 00	7 00	10 00	15 00
3 "	2 25	3 00	3 75	5 00	9 00	12 00	18 00
4 "	2 75	3 00	3 75	6 00	10 00	15 00	20 00
4 Columns,	5 00	7 00	9 00	12 00	20 00	30 00	40 00
1 "	8 00	10 00	12 00	15 00	25 00	40 00	60 00
1 "	5 00	7 00	9 00	12 00	20 00	30 00	40 00

Cards in [illegible] per year.

Legal advertisements at statutory rates.

Business Directory.

WILLIAM C. [illegible] Notary Conveyancer, &c.

A. J. MILLER, [illegible] Charlevoix Michigan

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix Mich.

S. C. ROWLEY, Attorney at Law, Petoskey Cheb. Mich.

LOVELL H. [illegible] Attorney at Law, Petoskey Cheb. Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix County, Michigan. All business entrusted to my care will receive prompt attention. Office in the Temple Block, Petoskey. Will practice in the Courts of Charlevoix County, Michigan, and in the Circuit Court of the United States for said county, which will practice be held at Grand Rapids.

A. H. PEARSALL, Notary Public and Conveyancer, Charlevoix Mich.

R. UPHOLDT, Attorney at Law, Petoskey Mich. Office at Dodd, Charlevoix Mich.

EDWARD R. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix Mich. Prosecuting Attorney for Charlevoix county.

ROBERT MILLER, Carpenter and Builder, Charlevoix Mich. Particular attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,

LAWYER AND NOTARY,

Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,

Physician located at Petoskey. Office and residence on Mitchell street. Will promptly attend to all [illegible] and professional calls.

The Champlain House,

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.

H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. J. PATTERSON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

[illegible]

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has [illegible] shop in A. E. Wing's [illegible] Charlevoix and will [illegible] Custom Work and Repairing. Come or [illegible] and be convinced.

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

In the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles which may be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAYES.

Drugs and Medicines

DYE STUFFS,

Stationery & Confectionery

—AT—

CROUTER'S

Fancy Goods [illegible] Notions, Wall Paper [illegible] Window Shades, Cigars and Tobacco, [illegible] Perfumery, Soaps and Brushes, Combs and Purses, Jewelry, Watches and Clocks, Violins and Guitars, Strings and Trimmings, Paints, Oils and Glass.

Trade Returned Every Week or Month.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

[illegible]

J. A. HARTRAM,

House Sign and Carriage

PAINTER.

Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.

26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

As a choice water lots on Round Lake, [illegible] number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land [illegible] on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For [illegible] apply to

W. C. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 295, I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a cordial welcome.

I. D. EATON, Sec. N. G.

GEO. W. CHEEVER, [illegible]

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 295 F. & A. M. Regular communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.

A. H. PEARSALL, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

Pine Lake Lodge No. 311, I. O. O. F. meets at Conine Lake on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 1 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

HERBERT BURNS, W. M.

GEO. BARNES, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

[illegible]—Mails arrive on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 11 a. m. Closed at 10 a. m. Mails are [illegible] the same days at 6 p. m.

[illegible]—Mails arrive daily at 10 A. M. and at 7 P. M. Closed at 10 A. M. and 6 P. M.

SUNDAYS—Mail arrives at 10 A. M. Closes at 10 A. M.

Office open on week days from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M. Sundays, after the arrival of the mail, for one hour.

W. A. SMITH, P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat per bushel	$1 00
Corn, per bushel	40
Corn per bushel	50
Potatoes per bushel	20
Oats per bushel	20
Barley per bushel	30
Rye per bushel	50
Buckwheat per bushel	30
Beans per bushel	1 50
Butter per pound	15
Eggs per dozen	15
Lard per pound	10
Hay per ton	$8 00 to $9 00
Flour per barrel	5 50
Feed per hundred	90
Meal per hundred	90
Beef, per pound by the quarter	6 to 8

THE NEW CHARLEVOIX CARRIAGE SHOP.

A. FOX, Esq., of this place, has gone to Buffalo.

GOOD LAND, Hubbard building south of bridge.

CHARLEVOIX boasts but twelve and a half feet of water.

Crockery as cheap as ever at See & Washburn's.

A. BITTAIRS brought a fine Harrison piano with him from Chicago.

DIRECTOR EATON has purchased two dictionaries of Webster's dictionary for our public school.

AN agent of the G. R. & I. R. R. Land Department was in town this week, looking after land matters.

A nice assortment of lamps and very cheap at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

A Thanksgiving turkey from our old friend Richard O'Neill makes us full of thankfulness.

Carpenter & Bartholomew have their store closed, full of winter goods bought at bottom prices and selling according.

JUDGE MASON advertises that the terms of Circuit Court for Charlevoix county will be on the 2d Monday after the 2d Wednesday in March and September.

MORE BOOKS.—The Township Board of Charlevoix are adding fifty five volumes of Harper's publications to the Township Library. The list embraces a fine collection of history, poetry and romance.

Try our fifty cent Tea and be convinced that it is the best in town. See & Washburn.

GRADE.—J. H. McPherson with his machine threshed in the townships of Marion, Norwood and Charlevoix this fall 3,543 bushels of grain. At least three other machines worked in these townships also.

JUSTICE COURT.—On Tuesday Eli Tuline swore out a warrant for the arrest of John Tooley, for stealing, as he alleges a pair of boots belonging to him. As we go to press the trial is progressing before Justice Miller.

Buffalo mitts at Carpenter & Bartholomew's, nice and cheap.

Marine News.

—The tug Colt has been hauled out for repairs.

Capt. Handy has sold his Gospel ship up north at Chicago.

—Marine insurance expires on the 30th of this month.

—The propeller Badger State wooded here Sunday, on her way up.

—Navigation may be considered closed for the year.

The schooner Evening left here Wednesday with a cargo of lumber for Milwaukee for John Nicholls.

—There is another schooner Fleetwing afloat on Lake Michigan besides Capt. T. D smith's.

—The tug St. Mary lays up for the winter at Manistee, instead of here, as stated by us last week. She left on Saturday.

—At Milwaukee on the 19th, the sailors struck, demanding $3 per day. There was no disturbance. The captains yielded and the fleet left port.

The schooner Perception arrived last week at Sheffield—wherever that is—and her cargo of lumber was sold to the farmers of that country.

—The schooner Chapman arrived from Milwaukee with goods for J. A. Barnt on Wednesday, and left Friday with a cargo of wood for the port from whence she came.

FRANK LEWIS, the popular landlord, has resumed control of the McKinnon House at Cadillac.

Pennyroyal green supplies by the pint or bushel at See & Washburn's.

NEW DOCK.—M. J. Stockman has commenced the construction of a substantial dock on Round Lake back of his store.

FARM SOLD.—Joseph M. Clark, Esq., of this place, has sold his farm in Banks to Wm. Durance, of Calhoun county, for $4,000.

GOOD WORK.—Henry Black, of Marion, is a fine cabinet maker. For a specimen of his work call and see a book case at the residence of the editor.

OUR HUMBUG is on the Committee on Commerce, of the House of Representatives, a black circumstance is very favorable to Michigan harbor matters.

LITTLE WASHER.—We have personally tried the Little Washer, for which John C. Miller, of this Township is agent, and know that it will do all that is claimed for it.

NORTHERN EXPERIENCE.—This is the name of the paper lately started at Northport by Derbo & Washburn. We hope it will live and flourish. If it knows how to print a paper, as his long service on the SENTINEL has demonstrated.

THE Democrat says we made a mistake in our statement last week that O. N. Watson, of Petoskey had married Miss Wright, agent of the Grand Rapids Times. It was Miss Wright, of Petoskey. Well, whoever the young lady is, we wish Mr. and Mrs. Watson a life of happiness.

For candies, raisins, figs and chewing gum go to See & Washburn's.

THE BAPTIST RETREAT.—Advices from the Committee recently appointed by the Michigan Baptists are to the effect that a similar committee has been appointed by the Indiana Baptists, and that the two committees will soon come together and materialize the "retreat." The matter is progressing as rapidly as can be expected.

NOTICE.—Sealed proposals will be received by the school board of District No. 1, Village of Charlevoix, until Saturday, Dec. 8th 1877, 12 o'clock m., for the furnishing of 60 cords of sawed body maple wood, 24 inches long, to be delivered at the school-house in said Village, on or before the 1st day of March 1878. Said proposals may be left at the office of the Director, or at the store of Byron See, assessor, and the right is reserved to reject any or all bids. By order of the Board.

J. Milo Eaton, Director.

The President's Course.

The SENTINEL has refrained from taking part in the criticisms of the President's policies which the press of the party have indulged in. In the peculiarly distracted condition of the country at the time of President Hayes' inauguration, all partisan citizens were hungry for peace, and we were one of those who looked to the new President as the Children of Israel did to Moses. That the President's Southern policy might possibly bring reconciliation we were willing to concede, and with patience awaited its effects. His energetic manner of reforming the civil service we have never personally endorsed, and yet never editorially condemned, choosing rather to wait. We have wanted and now we cannot help thinking that the benefits, if any, which have been secured to the country have been bought at too great a cost to the great and loyal party which has done so much for the preservation and prosperity of the country itself. Perhaps we are wrong. We do not yet wish to condemn the President's course until it has been more thoroughly tested. But as we contemplate, we see many causes for regret. We regret that there should be cause for the estrangement of Republican Senators and Representatives from a Republican President. We regret that Republicanism in the South should diminish as the "policy" progresses. We regret that the "solid south" should still continue to solidify. We regret that outspoken Democrats, and those whose sentiments are marked with treason should be appointed to responsible offices, and we deeply regret that the President should deem it necessary to condone and palliate past acts of treason as conscientious duty performed. We know the policy has many friends, for the same reason that the apophant [illegible] the prognosti lingoes of the knee for the thrift that follows fawning." and we fear the President has been misguided by flattery and fine words. The President protests that he is true to his party, to the treats with its enemies. Brutus protested that he loved Cæsar, yet he slew him. But we will still wait for the promised sunrise of sectional peace and friendship.

JAIL DELIVERY.—County Clerk Upright, as usual, laid him to the county road, on Tuesday morning, with the basket of nibbles for the solitary guest of the county.—Ingersoll Lamplighter—and found that worthy gone. An examination showed that the bars of the south window had been sawed off at one end and torn out, leaving a sufficient space for the passage of his body. A rail was found near the window on the outside, besides numerous tracks in the plowed ground which proved beyond a doubt that Lamplighter had assistance from without. Lamplighter's two sons are known to have been in town on Monday. Sheriff McLeod at once offered a reward of $25 for his capture, and, although he has been seen in the vicinity of his home in Norwood, he has taken to the woods in that vicinity. It is hoped that both he and his confederates will be apprehended and punished to the full extent of the law.

RETURNED HOME.—Rev. Father Inwood and his daughter Sarah arrived home from their foreign tour on Saturday. They have been absent since February last, and have spent their time in the south of England and the Isle of Wight, visiting many places of historic note and viewing many ruins of great antiquity. They had stormy passages both ways. While in England Father Inwood presided for the erection of a Methodist chapel to the memory of John Christmas, from whose estate the bequest to our venerable friend Father Inwood has returned here to remain the rest of his days, and anticipates much comfort in his declining years. He has consented to write a series of letters for the SENTINEL, on the subject of his travels.

Our ship has arrived at last, and we are now ready to show to our customers a fine and desirable a stock of goods ever brought to this market. No trouble to show goods at our store.

Fox, Rose & Buttars.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS EXTRA SESSION.

IN the Senate, on the 8th, a large number of bills were introduced, among which was one to further define the rights of persons with respect to homestead entries on the public lands. Several amendments were submitted to the bill providing for the payment of a national bonus for the investment of savings. Several petitions of sweeping females throughout the country were presented, asking that they be allowed to exercise the right of citizens at the ballot-boxes. Adjourned to the 9th. The House was called to order by Mr. Sayler, the Speaker being absent. Bills were introduced appropriating $100,000 for the relief of the late Dr. Custer, to fund the sole of squirrel land lands to settlers under the Homestead and Pre-emption laws, to abolish capital punishment, to extend the provisions of the act for the relief of settlers on railroad lands to actual bona fide settlers on land forfeited by failure to six years, to establish the Bureau of Labor. Two additions for self several amendments to the bill for the repeal of the third section of the Resumption act were offered.

THE Senate was not in session on the 9th. The bill for the repeal of a suspension the third section of the Resumption act was considered at some length in the House, several members speaking thereon. The Naval Deficiency bill was reported from the Committee on Appropriations. An address of the people of California on the subject of Chinese immigration was presented and referred. A resolution was offered and referred asking for information as to expenses in the War Department.

A BILL was introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 8th, amending the act providing for the resumption of specie payments. A resolution was agreed to calling upon the President for information relative to the rescue of prisoners from the Black County (Texas) Jail by citizens from Mexico, in August last. In the House, the Army Appropriation bill was discussed for two hours in Committee of the Whole; and several amendments were offered, but no definite action was taken.

IN the Senate, on the 9th, Bills were introduced—to authorize the payment of all customs duties in legal-tender notes; in relation to the jurisdiction of the District Court in Utah; in matters of divorce. Mr. Kirkwood was appointed a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations; Mr. Ingalls, of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, and Mr. Saunders, of the Committee on Railroads, to fill the vacancies on such Committees caused by the death of Senator Morton; and a resolution was agreed to declaring Mr. Rollins, of New Hampshire, Chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, in place of the late Mr. Morton. Adjourned to the 15th. In the House, Mr. J. W. Harmer was elected Chaplain, in place of Rev. Dr. Pond, resigned. Communications were presented from the Secretary of State in reference to the Paris Exposition, in which the expenses of American representation is estimated at $225,000, in Committee of the Whole, all the propositions to amend the Army bill in the line of reduction or limitation of recruiting were voted down by small majorities, and an amendment was then agreed to—by 125 to 113—providing that "no money heretofore contained shall authorize an increase of any enlisted company beyond the number now authorized by law," nor "shall authorize the recruiting of the Army beyond 25,000 enlisted men."

THE Senate was not in session on the 10th. In the House, the Army Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, after the adoption of sundry amendments, the House adjourned.

IN the Senate, on the 12th, Mr. Voorhees was sworn in as Senator from Indiana. Mr. Booth was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Pensions in place of Mr. Wadleigh. Bills were introduced—to establish a Department of Commerce; to remit taxes on insolvent savings banks; providing for the survey of an inland water-route from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic. A resolution was offered directing inquiry into the expediency of constructing defensive works along the Rio Grande. The report of the Secretary of the Navy detailing the expenditures of his Department from 1789 to 1876 was received and referred. In the House, the Army Appropriation bill was taken up and the amendments agreed to in Committee of the Whole generally adopted, by a vote of 128 to 127, that relating to reducing the rank and pay of staff officers alone being rejected by 129 to 124. After the reading of a letter from the Secretary of War, in relation to enlistments since July 1, 1877, and a lengthy discussion thereon, the bill as so amended, passed without division. Bills were introduced—to amend the law in relation to available matter of the third class; designating the first Monday in January as the time for the meeting of Congress; and to reduce the number of military cadets. To pay for all cotton seized after May 20, 1865; to refund the tax on cotton collected from 1862 to 1868; forbidding by Constitutional amendment, the payment of claims arising out of the late rebellion etc. A resolution was adopted calling for information as to the disposition of the ironclad Atlanta by Spain; the Virginian excursions in November, 1876.

DOMESTIC.

THE Commissioner of Customs, in his annual report, states that the customs receipts for the last fiscal year were $162,635,541.

GOV. PARTEN, of Tennessee, has issued his proclamation calling together the Legislature of that State in extraordinary session, on the 5th of December, to adjust the State debt by the issue of new bonds, and to provide for their payment; also to provide for the expenses of the General Assembly.

THE Supreme Court of the State of Illinois has recently decided that changing the wording on "Usages" is not unlawful, but that "puts" and "calls" are.

A SEVERE STORM on the lakes, on the day and night of the 8th, caused great destruction to shipping and the loss of many lives. The Canadian schooner Magellan, was lost on Lake Michigan, with all on board, the crew consisting of eight men. Several other vessels were missing on the morning of the 10th.

THE Treasurer of Clermont County, Ohio, was lately robbed of $24,000.

THE amendments to the Army Appropriation bill were adopted, by the House of Representatives, on the 10th, and the bill passed. The Army, according to the action of the House, is reduced to 25,000 men, and four regiments are to be stationed on the Rio Grande.

THE North Point Dock Bonded Warehouse, in San Francisco, was burned, on the afternoon of the 12th. Loss, $100,000.

THE Receiver of the suspended State Savings Institution, of Chicago, had submitted a report, from which he estim ates that depositors will receive about 40 per cent. of their deposits.

THE Pennsylvania Supreme Court has decided that the Grand Jury cannot compel State officials to appear and divulge official information in respect to the causes of the July riots.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

IN New York the indications were, on the morning of the 8th, that the entire Democratic State ticket was elected by from 12,000 to 15,000 majority. Legislature claimed by the Republicans.

THE returns from the Pennsylvania election, received up to the morning of the 8th, indicated a Democratic majority in the State of about 10,000.

SCATTERING returns from the State election in New Jersey indicated the election of Gen. McClellan (Dem.), for Governor, by from 10,000 to 12,000 majority, and a Democratic majority in both branches of the Legislature.

IN Massachusetts Rice (Rep.), for Governor, was elected on the 6th, by a plurality of between 15,000 and 16,000.

IN Connecticut no State officers were voted for, on the 6th, but returns on local subjects favor Republican gains.

THE Republican candidate for Chief-Justice in Nebraska was elected, on the 6th, by a small majority.

THE returns from the election in Wisconsin, on the 6th, indicated a Republican majority on the morning of the 7th, but cast the election of Smith (Rep.), for Governor, by from 6,000 to 8,000 plurality. Legislature Republican.

THE returns, on the morning of the 7th, from the election in Minnesota indicated the re-election of Gov. Pillsbury (Rep.) by about 12,000 majority.

THE Democrats carried Maryland, on the 6th, by 20,000 majority.

IN Virginia the votes at the recent election was light, and the opposition to the Conservative candidates small. No figures received up to the morning of the 7th.

GOV. WILLIAMS, on the 6th, appointed Isaak W. Vorchees as United States Senator from Indiana, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Mr. Morton.

AT the recent election, John Morrissey, Anti-Tammany candidate, was elected to the New York State Senate from the Seventh District, over Augustus Schell, the regular Tammany candidate. Morrissey was supported by the Republicans.

THE election in Kansas, on the 6th, resulted in the choice of the Republican candidates by from 20,000 to 30,000 majority. The State officers voted for were Lieutenant-Governor and Chief-Justice.

ON the 7th, in the case of Cardoza, ex-State Treasurer of South Carolina, indicted for embezzlement and malfeasance in office, the jury brought in a verdict of "guilty."

THE President, on the 8th, nominated Hon. Henry S. Sanford as United States Minister to Belgium.

THE vote by States on the Silver bill which recently passed the lower House of Congress was as follows:

Yeas—New York, 32; New Jersey, 1; Pennsylvania, 5; Virginia, 4; North Carolina, 8; South Carolina, 7; Georgia, 4; Alabama, 6; Mississippi, 6; Ohio, 15; Kentucky, 8; Tennessee, 8; Indiana, 10; Illinois, 9; Missouri, 11; Arkansas, 2; Michigan, 6; Texas, 5; Iowa, 9; Wisconsin, 7; California, 3; Minnesota, 3; Oregon, 1; Kansas, 3; West Virginia, 2; Nevada, 1; Nebraska, 1. Total, 164.

Nays—Maine, 4; New Hampshire, 2; Vermont, 3; Massachusetts, 5; Rhode Island, 2; Connecticut, 4; New York, 31; New Jersey, 5; Pennsylvania, 13; Maryland, 1; Louisiana, 2; Georgia, 1; Alabama, 1; Mississippi, 1; Michigan, 2; Texas, 1; California, 1. Total, 34

THE Senate, on the 9th, confirmed the nomination of Hon. John Welsh as United States Minister to Great Britain.

CONGRESSMAN SMALLS has been convicted by a South Carolina State Court of misfeasance and malfeasance in office while a member of the State Legislature of South Carolina.

ON the 12th, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Hon. John M. Stevens as United States Minister to Norway, and that of Hon. John Defrees as Public Printer at Washington.

EX-UNITED STATES MARSHAL SCHAFFENBERG, of Colorado, who was sent to Peru on for robbing the Government of $40,000, by means of false vouchers, has been pardoned by the President.

FOREIGN.

ON the evening of the 6th, the American residents of Paris gave ex-President Grant a brilliant banquet. About 250 persons were present, including the American Minister and several of the French dignitaries.

IN accordance with the request of President MacMahon, the Bethiguie Ministry has withdrawn in their resignations. The French Chamber of Deputies met, on the 7th, and elected M. Grevy Provisional President, by a vote of 299 to 170 for the Conservative candidate.

ACCORDING to a (Rome) Italy dispatch of the 7th, the Pope will issue his letter, reestablishing the Catholic hierarchy in Scotland, on the 25th of December.

A LONDON telegram of the 7th announces the receipts of intelligence that the Russians had captured Ranova.

THE Prince of Montenegro issued a decree, on the 7th, requiring every Montenegrin, capable of bearing arms, to join the army.

ABOUT 400 of the principal inhabitants of Bulgaria have been exiled, in chains, to Asia Minor.

AMELIA, the Dowager Queen of Saxony, is dead.

THE Bey of Tunis has offered to ship 5,000 troops to Turkey, provided the Porte will pay the expenses.

A ST. PETERSBURG telegram of the 8th says the losses of the Russian from the commencement of hostilities to the 1st were 64,801 men.

PERA telegrams of the 9th report great excitement at that point. Placards had been posted at Seraskier, calling upon all Turkish patriots to rise, as the Government was secretly negotiating with the Russians for peace. Attempts had been made to fasten the responsibility of these upon ex-Sultan Murad, but his attendants had been arrested, and according to one account, killed. An attempt had also been made to poison Mahmoud Djemal Pasha.

THE census of France, taken in 1876 and just verified, shows a total population of 36,905,788.

ACCORDING to London telegram of the 9th, Osman Pasha's soldiers were deserting from Plevna in great numbers, because of the hardships they were compelled to undergo. An attempt by the Turks, on the 7th, to land troops at Olientza had been defeated with great losses.

A CALCUTTA telegram of the 9th says the Maradaun in India were generally excited over the reports of the late Russian victories.

THE announcement of the capture of Erzeroum, although made on the authority of the Turkish Ministerial War, is proved to have been premature. A dispatch was received from Mukhtar Pasha, on the 9th, which stated that he still held the post, and hoped to retain it. He reported that he had, on that day, defeated a Russian attempt to capture the redoubts southeast of Erzeroum. Several of the Pasha's officers had been sentenced to be shot for cowardice displayed in the engagement of the 5th.

A ROME (Italy) dispatch of the 11th reports the sudden and alarming illness of His Holiness, the Pope. A consultation of eminent physicians had been had and the conclusion reached that his death might be momentarily expected.

A GENERAL and tremendous gale prevailed along the French and English coasts during the night of the 11th.

A DUBNIK telegram of the 11th says the Russian forces have been largely contracted to thirty miles. The Russian forces numbered 130,000 men—sufficient to fill two lines of trenches entirely around Plevna. A Russian official report of the same date announces the capture of the Turkish Town of Vraiz, halfway between Sophia and Plevna. Several thousand wagons and an immense amount of war material fell into the hands of the Russians.

ACCORDING to Pera dispatches of the 11th, there were dissensions in the Turkish Cabinet over the question of peace or a continuance of war. The excitement in the City of Constantinople had been intensified by the circulation of the story, which was religiously believed by the populace, that the Prophet had appeared to the Sultan, and counselled him to make peace with the Russians. Forty-eight persons in the service of ex-Sultan Murad had been arrested for complicity in the recent conspiracy, and it was reported that forty of these had been strangled.

ACCORDING to London telegrams of the 12th, heavy fighting had been going on at Plevna during the preceding 36 hours.

A PARIS telegram of the 12th says the Great Powers had, without exception, advised Marshal Mac Mahon to adopt a conciliatory course in dealing with the Republicans.

A RIOT of armed men crossed the Pyrenees, into Spain, on the 12th, with the intention of precipitating a rebellion.

THE Italian Government has stationed a strong guard around the Vatican to prevent any pillaging that might follow the announcement of the death of the Pope.

Report of the Commissioner of the General Land-Office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.

The Commissioner-General of the Land-Office, in his annual report, says the sales of public lands for the year ending are about 100,000 acres more than the previous year, while the number entered under the Homestead and Timber-Culture laws is 785,123 less. These were certified for railroad purposes 780,791 acres. The total disposals of public lands were 47,822,452 acres. Public surveys have been extended over 718,572,-757 acres. The total of unsurveyed lands is 1,101,187,180 acres. There were surveyed the past year 11,242,928 acres at a cost of $215,942.

The consolidation of all the offices of the Surveyor-General into one is recommended: also, the abolition of the contract system, and the appointment of a Surveyor-General, who many appoint assistants required to personally make surveys.

A large number of grants for railroads have expired by limitation, and it is regarded important that action should be taken by Congress either to enforce the forfeiture of the grants or extend the time for the completion of the roads. Should the latter course be pursued, the rights of bona fide settlers upon lapsed lands should be protected. It is recommended that Congress withdraw all lands which are suitable for pine timber from the Homestead and Pre-emption laws, and from sale except for cash; also, that the Secretary of the Interior be authorized to sell timber from public lands in the mining districts; also, to sell timber upon any unsurveyed land (not mineral) when needed for actual settlement before public surveys; also, that a law be enacted providing for the care and custody of timber lands, until for agriculture, and for the gradual sale of timber, and for the perpetuation of the growth of timber of such lands.

Legislation authorizing seizures of timber cut from public lands without resort to the tedious process of the courts is also recommended.

The United States Marshal for the Southern District of Mississippi has seized in three counties bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, in the suit of the United States against John Manning and others, large amounts of timber, principally pine logs, estimated at over 75,000 in number. There will also be seized a large amount of charred and burnt timber, which stops a trade which has employed many vessels carrying timber or lumber to foreign and domestic markets.

YOUNG PRINCE NAPOLEON will reside for awhile at Namur, in Belgium. Republicans wish he would Namur place not so near the French line.

SITTING and Johnny seem to Bull-eve in each other.—N. Y. Graphic.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

NINE large lumber camps are already established on the Manistee River and others are in contemplation.

AUGUSTA named Charles Wilson has killed over twenty deer this season. His method is to run them into Portage Lake with dogs and run them down with boats.

THE election in Detroit, on the 6th, resulted in the election of the Democratic ticket, with the probable exception of their candidate for City Treasurer.

BEARS & LATOUR'S sawmill, at Coral, was burned on the morning of the 6th. Loss, $5,000.

THE Detroit Board of Public Works, having been enjoined against laying a certain kind of round block pavement, evaded the order of the United States Court by chipping off one side of each block, causing that the pavement was thus constructed of irregular blocks, and did not violate the plaintiff's patent. On the 9th, the Court sat down on the Board, and fined each member $50 for contempt.

IN Detroit, a few days ago, a young medical student, named Dunker, was chloroformed and robbed of $300 by a fellow-student.

AN important case is on trial in the United States District Court at Detroit. It is an action brought by a large number of Saginaw drain orders, as they are called, being orders drawn by the Saginaw County Drain Commission upon that county Treasurer, and countersigned by him. The county refuses to honor these orders, claiming that the Supervisors have not levied the tax required to pay them, because of the unconstitutionality of the Drainage act. The holders claim that they purchased the orders in good faith and for value, upon the faith of the County Treasurer's indorsement; that taxes have been levied and paid into the Treasury to meet them; and that they have been unsuperceded by the Supervisors. The case involves upward of $50,000, and will be strenuously contested.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury Oct. 27 was $382,48.8; receipts during the week ending Nov 3 were $128,182.45; payments during same time were $127,482.96; balance in Treasury Nov. 3, 1877, $443,174.97; decrease for the week, $80,393.51.

FRANK HENZE, a German, 18 92 near Grand Rapids, was thrown from a wood-wagon, on the 7th. The wheels passed over his body and inflicted fatal injuries.

DENNIS MILLS, at Bad—ville, Lapeer county, was murdered, on the 7th. Loss, $7,000.

THE body of Christian's shingle-mill, at Hersey, blew up, on the 8th, scalding E. Slocum, the engineer, so badly that he died shortly after.

THERE was a small fire in the University building in Ann Arbor, on the 7th, but it was discovered in time and speedily extinguished. The University had a close call.

THE Eastern Insane Asylum is approaching completion.

THE United States Land Office, at Traverse City, reports the following transactions during the month of October: Thirty-five homestead entries covering 4,905 acres; and cash entries covering 11,332 acres, each entries to the amount of $1,950, covering 1,320 acres.

RECENTLY the people of Grayson Township, Oscoda County, were startled by the death of an elopement to high life. The couple were married, and followed by an enraged father, who threatened to kill his son-in-law on sight, and emphasized the happy couple back to the parental roof.

THE annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be held at East Saginaw, on the 26th of December.

GOV. MILO E. GOODRICH, a member of the Legislature from Allegan County, in 1867, died at St. Mark's Hospital, in Grand Rapids, on the 7th.

FOUR men were arrested and lodged in jail by Grand River police, on the 8th, on charges of having bullets there over a year ago.

GEORGE MARTIN, living in Delta, Ingham County, was buried in a sand-pit on the 8th. He was alive when rescued, but died shortly after.

THE dead body of a Mrs. O'Brien was found in the woods, near Muskegon, on the morning of the 8th.

A MAN named Wilkins, employed in Baird, Farmer & Burton's Oakdale, near Grand City, one of the gang of thieves and burglars who operated so extensively in that place and was arrested early in September, with their accomplices, was found guilty at Ionia, on the 9th, and sentenced to the State Prison for seven years. The jury were out only three minutes.

THE Circuit Court of Wayne County has been petitioned to revive the commission of claims, to enable the Third National Bank of Chicago to prove up a claim of $27,360.96 against the estate of E. B. Ward.

SUNDRY 200,000 Michiganders have signed the Red-Ribbon Pledge during the year.

GEN. W. HUNT, Constable at Grand City, one of the gang of thieves and burglars who operated so extensively in that place and was arrested early in September, with their accomplices, was found guilty at Ionia, on the 9th, and sentenced to the State Prison for seven years. The jury were out only three minutes.

THE Circuit Court of Wayne County has been petitioned to revive the commission of claims, to enable the Third National Bank of Chicago to prove up a claim of $27,360.96 against the estate of E. B. Ward.

THE lockers of Manistee are receiving from 50 to 150 hands, and are handling 3,000,000 bushels of raw and 15,000,000 of canned oysters each season. Besides, there are fifty steaming houses, where 25,000,000 cans are prepared each season by 7,000 men. Nearly 2,000 men are engaged in making cans. Oyster shucking makes on an average $1.25 per day, but some experts make as much as $5. A limited of oysters in the shell will make ten cans.

A CONSCIENCE'S power rests in the form of a moneyed man.

Shot With a Toy Pistol.

A VERY sad accident, and one that will serve as a terrible warning to parents in the matter of allowing their children to use even toy fire-arms, took place yesterday morning at the house of Mr. George Whitmore, in Terrace Row, on Wyoming avenue. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Whitmore's little son, a lad ten years old, was visiting a playmate of his, and during the afternoon the two had been playing with toy pistols, in which blank cartridges are used. But the boys, in some way or other, managed to procure some genuine cartridges of a size that fitted these miniature pistols, and Master Whitmore took one of these home with him. Yesterday morning he loaded the weapon and then endeavored to crack it, but could not do so in the ordinary way, not having strength enough in one hands, so he placed the muzzle against his abdomen, and using both thumbs succeeded in bursting the barrel, but did not get both barrels to go off before he had his hand in the way, and the hammer fell, exploding the cartridge. The ball passed into his abdomen and remains there. The little fellow complains of some pain in the region of the bowels, but more particularly of numbness in one of his legs. His parents and friends are suffering a terrible agony of suspense, not knowing whether the wound may prove fatal or not, and the case is being closely watched by the family physician, Dr. Squire. Whetever the issue may be, the physician asserts that the pistol was loaded by the family physician, Dr. Squire. Whetever the issue may be, the physician asserts that the pistol was loaded with such a powerful charge as to render it still more dangerous than if it were loaded with buckshot.—Scranton (Pa.) Republican.

Bijah's Political Views.

The political excitement has reached the Centennial Station. A crowd of boys waited on Bijah at an early hour on Saturday morning to secure his political views, and Bijah was equal to the occasion. He had a fine display of his new cartridges and was in the act of loading one of his pistols, in which blank cartridges are used. But the boys, in some way or other, managed to procure some genuine cartridges of a size that fitted these miniature pistols, and Master Whitmore took one of these home with him. Yesterday morning he loaded the weapon and then endeavored to crack it, but could not do so in the ordinary way, not having strength enough in one hands, so he placed the muzzle against his abdomen, and using both thumbs succeeded in bursting the barrel, but did not get both barrels to go off before he had his hand in the way, and the hammer fell, exploding the cartridge. The ball passed into his abdomen and remains there. The little fellow complains of some pain in the region of the bowels, but more particularly of numbness in one of his legs. His parents and friends are suffering a terrible agony of suspense, not knowing whether the wound may prove fatal or not, and the case is being closely watched by the family physician, Dr. Squire. Whetever the issue may be, the physician asserts that the pistol was loaded with such a powerful charge as to render it still more dangerous than if it were loaded with buckshot.—Scranton (Pa.) Republican.

"Bijah, what do you think of free trade?"

"Dunno," he replied as he folded up the broom and put it away.

"I don't think a feller should trade off good watch for an old gum or a poor dog."

"What do you think of the Mexican question?"

"I didn't know as the Mexicans had asked any question," was the blunt answer.

"How do you stand on the Silver bill?"

"Never saw one, boys. All the bills I ever saw were paper, except Buffalo bills."

"Mr. Joy, have you a Southern policy?"

"I've played policy with those Kentucky fellows."

"Mr. Joy, if you were nominated for some high office what pledges would you give?"

"I'd pledge myself to accept the nomination, mighty quick."

"Well, then, if the Dred Scott decision satisfactory to you?"

"I guess it was, boys, though I never knew what Scott dreamed."

We may all live to see Bijah holding some high office—janitor of the City Hall lower, for instance.—Detroit Free Press.

THERE are twenty-five packing houses in Baltimore, employing each from 50 to 150 hands, and handling 3,000,000 bushels of raw and 15,000,000 of canned oysters each season. Besides, there are fifty steaming houses, where 25,000,000 cans are prepared each season by 7,000 men. Nearly 2,000 men are engaged in making cans. Oyster shucking makes on an average $1.25 per day, but some experts make as much as $5. A limited of oysters in the shell will make ten cans.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12, 1877.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$4.25	@ $6.50
Choice	6.00	@ 6.50
Good	4.90	@ 5.50
Medium	4.60	@ 4.90
HOGS—Live	4.60	@ 4.80
SHEEP—Common to Choice	3.00	@ 4.50
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	.30	@ .32
Good to Choice	.28	@ .29
EGGS—Fresh	.18	@ .19
FLOUR—Choice Winter	7.00	@ 7.25
Choice to Fine Spring	6.75	@ 6.90
Patent	7.00	@ 8.00
Rye	4.50	@ 5.00
BROOM-CORN—Choice Hurl	.04½	@ .05
Good Medium	.04@5	@ .04½
Inside & Crop	.03½	@ .04
Crooked	.02½	@ .03½
PORK—Mess	12.00	@ 12.50
LARD	7.80	@ 7.90
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10.00	@ 12.00
Clear	2.50	@ 2.75
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.75
Medium	4.25@4.50
HOGS—Good	4.75	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Good	4.00	@ 4.50
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.25	@ $5.50
Medium	4.50	@ 4.75
HOGS—Best	4.90	@ 4.95
Philadelphias	4.80	@ 4.90
SHEEP—Best	4.80	@ 5.00
Common	3.00	@ 3.75

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

AUTUMN IN THE WOODS.

Every hollow full of ferns,
Turning yellow in their turns,
Straggling branches borne and wild,
Trembling berries in the child:
Oaklalls tumbling from the tree,
Beech-nuts dropping silently,
Beds of leaves come down to die,
Leaving openings in the sky,
Bluebells, fragileves gone to seed,
Everything to bow its head,
Nothing left of flowers or buds
Such a Autumn in the woods.

And so is there an Autumn known
To the heart, it feels alone,
Pairing he bed does are past,
See the future overcast,
Fond companionship broken through,
Friends departed, friends untrue,
Human flowers cold and dead,
Covered by a grassy bed,
Hopes, like blossoms pelting out,
Withering soon, and flung about
By cruel winds, dried sounds and tears
Finding vent in sodden bears:
Yes, Here is an Autumn known
To some hearts thus left, alone.

Yet, there's this thought after all
Which may make us bear the fall.
Hearts may change or prove untrue,
All may look as bare Sands-be
Though sad Autumn here is given,
Spring time awaits in Heaven.

—Chambers' Journal

MAJOR HAMMOND'S RING.

"What's this?" cried Miss Hammond, looking upon a letter just handed to her by a servant. "Not read it, Maggie; your eyes are better than mine."

Small wonder at that, indeed, seeing that Maggie is aged about eighteen, and the other sixty-five at the very least, a plain-looking, well-preserved spinster, with a brown, resolute face and sausage curls over the forehead. Maggie, a handsome modern girl, sits down and reads:

MADAM—The parishioners at St. Cripin's, Giggleham, in vestry assembled, have determined to restore their parish church, provided sufficient funds are speedily promised. Gentlemen are recently returned from India. The alterations will necessitate the removal of many vaults and graves, among others, that of the late Major Hammond, of the 45th Chutelwallahs to respect the wishes of surviving relatives in the disposal of the remains. Any directions you may have to give you will be good enough to communicate to the undersigned. Your most humble and obedient servants, THOMAS BENNETT, WILLIAM BENNETT, Churchwardens.

The two Misses Hammond (Margaret and Ellen) are joint proprietors of the comfortable estate of Westbury, near Giggleham, and of the handsome mansion therein standing. Maggie, the young girl, is a distant cousin, although she calls them "aunt"—and lives with them. There is also a young man, Ralph Grant, somewhere about the place, of whom more anon.

Old Tom Hammond, the father of the maiden sisters, was born in the year 1795, and might have seen the Inside over Temple Bar after the rising of 1715. He lived till 1830. He had married late in life, and had but two daughters. Thus two generations bridged over a space of time generally occupied by many successive lives, as in the case of nursery branch of the family, the founder of which, Maj. Richard Hammond (the uncle of the two old ladies), was killed at the last capture of Quebec when Gen. Wolfe was killed, being the great-grandfather of Maggie Lauderdale and Ralph Grant. Maj. Hammond was the eldest of the two brothers, and should have inherited the Westbury estate, but he offended his father, Gen. John Hammond, by what was called a low marriage, and was disinherited in consequence.

Tom Hammond had done his best to remedy his father's injustice, so far as he could without injuring himself and his own, by making a settlement of the estate, in failure of his own issue, upon the lawful descendants of Maj. Hammond, his brother; providing that if the issue of his elder brother should fail, the estate should go to the issue of a younger brother Henry, who, by the way, had been well provided for by the small estate of Eastbury. This brother Henry was now represented through the female line by a Mr. Boodles, of Bonde Court, who now also held the Eastbury estate.

The descendants of Maj. Hammond are now confined to these two young people, Maggie and Ralph. They are both orphans and without means, their ancestors having been unable to avail themselves of the military and official lines. Ralph is a lieutenant in the artillery, and his battery is now in India; but he is home on sick-leave; and he has taken advantage of his furlough to win the affections of his fair cousin. As the Westbury estate would come to be eventually divided between them, it was considered a most fortunate thing that the young people had come to an understanding. Ralph was to leave the service when he was married, and take the home-farm. By-and-by he would fall naturally into his position as country squire; and it was arranged that eventually he should assume the name of Hammond; hoping to continue the old line.

This preamble being necessary, let us return to the comfortable old-fashioned drawing-room at Westbury.

"What do you think of that, Ellen?" cried Miss Hammond, having read over once more the circular to herself with subdued emphasis.

Miss Ellen was sitting looking into the fire, her great wooden knitting pins and bright-colored wools lying idle on her lap, as she shook her head while talking gently to herself.

"Do you hear, Ellen?" cried Miss Hammond more sharply. "What do you think of that letter from Truscott?"

"I don't like the idea at all, Margaret. No, not at all. Why can't they leave our ancestors alone? And I am sure I always looked forward to being buried there myself."

"Ta! don't talk about that, Ellen, and you five years the younger," said Miss Hammond, briskly; "and as we can't prevent its being done we must make the best of it. Ralph had better go and see to it."

"Very well, sister; as you like," said Ellen. Presently she resumed: "Sister, I've been thinking that this would be a good chance to try to get back Uncle Richard Hammond's ring."

"Uncle Hammond's ring?" repeated the eldest sister. "I don't understand."

"You must have heard our father talk about it. The family ring that ought to have gone with the estates—a ruby and sapphire that Gen. Hammond brought home from Ceylon."

"I ought to know all about it, Ellen, I daresay; but you were so much more with my poor father, and had more patience with his stories."

"My father often tried to get the ring, and had offered to give Maj. Hammond a large sum for it. But he was vexed with father for supplanting him, that he would never consent to have it; and they say, sister, that rather than it should ever fall into his brother's hands he had it buried with him, upon his finger. Our father always said that if he had a chance he would have the coffin opened to see."

Maggie, who retreated to a sofa, and buried her head in a novel, roused up at this, and joined in: "I hope you will not! I do hope you'll have it looked for."

"I don't know, my dear," said Miss Hammond; "I don't approve of violating the sanctity of the tomb."

With the elder Miss Hammond a phrase was everything; she delighted to bring a thing within the compass of a well-rounded phrase, upon which she would then make a stand invincible. So Maggie threw up her head in a kind of despair, and ran off to look for Ralph, who when last heard of was smoking a cigar on the terrace.

"Ralph, Ralph!" Maggie, as soon as she had found him, and had submitted to a very smoky kiss—they were in the habit of kissing young foxes, when kisses were appreciated, even when flavored with tobacco—"Ralph! auntie is going to give you a commission—to go and see about your uncle's ring."

"Ralph shook his head. He had never been able to manage, on his pay when there was only himself, and there were ever so many lieutenants on the list before him, as that he could not hope to be a Croesus for many years.

There was no use in sitting brooding over coming misfortunes; and Ralph left the heart and brave over to Giggleham, to see about the family vault at St. Crispin's. It was an occupation that agreed well with his temper; the weather, too, seemed all in keeping—a dull, drizzling day.

"Don't forget the ring," Maggie had said to him at parting; "that is ours, and the family ring. Indeed it; and forge it the dining-room window, panting, into the presence of her aunts.

Ralph found the first person to come in visitor had appeared—Mr. Boodle, a distant relative, who had inherited some of the family property, as before explained. A tall, grim-looking man, with thin, iron-gray hair, carefully brushed off his temples.

The aunts were looking rather serious, not to say frightened, and both started guiltily when they saw Maggie.

"Leave us, my dear, please," said Miss Hammond, gently.

Maggie had just caught the words, "No marriage at all," from Mr. Boodles, who seemed to be speaking loudly and excitedly; and she went out wondering what it all meant. Some piece of scandal, no doubt, for Boodles was the quintessence of spitefulness.

"It is very dreadful—very," said Miss Hammond. "I never had much opinion of Uncle Richard, you know; but for the sake of the young people, hope you'll let it be kept a profound secret."

"Sake of the young people!" screamed Boodles, at the top of his harsh voice. "And what for the sake of old Boodles? I'm the next heir, you'll remember, person—not any maternal great-grandfather, Henry Hammond."

Mr. Boodles had come to Westbury to announce the important discovery that he had recently made. In turning over some of his grandfather's papers he had come across some letters from Gen. Hammond, in which it was plainly asserted that his son, Maj. Hammond, had never been legally married to the woman known as his wife.

"What end do you propose to serve, Mr. Boodles, by bringing this ancient scandal to light?" asked Miss Hammond, with agitated voice.

"End!" cried Boodles. "This is only the beginning of it. I am going to court and law to have myself declared heir to the Westbury estates under the settlement."

"In that case," said Miss Hammond, rising with dignity, "you cannot be received on friendly terms in my house."

"Oh, very well, very well," cried Boodles, snatching up his hat and whip, and sweeping out of the room without further ceremony.

As soon as the door had shut upon him the sisters looked at each in blank consternation.

"I always feared there would be a difficulty," said Ellen, tremulously—"but, oh, to think of Boodles having discovered it!"

"We must send for Smith at once; the carriage shall go in and fetch him," said Miss Hammond, ringing the bell.

Mr. Smith, of Giggleham, was the family solicitor, and the carriage was sent off to bring him up at once for a consultation. But Smith brought little encouragement. He had heard from his father that there were curious circumstances attending Maj. Hammond's marriage, and if Boodles had put his finger on the flaw—— Smith shrugged his shoulders for want of words to express the awkwardness of the case.

"But search must be made everywhere; the evidence of the marriage must be found: the children must not suffer, poor things, and always brought up to look upon the property as their own!"

"Why, they could never marry," cried Miss Ellen; "they could never live on Ralph's pay."

"It's altogether dreadful; and not getting married is the very lightest part of the calamity!" said Miss Hammond.

Smith underlook that every possible search should be made, and went away, promising to set to work at once. But his inquiries had no result. He had traced out the family of the reputed wife, who had been the daughter of a small farmer named Milton in Kent; but they had new fallen to the rank of laborers, and had no papers belonging to them, hardly any family traditions. He had searched all the registries of the neighboring parishes; no record of such a marriage could be discovered. He had issued advertisements offering a reward for the production of evidence, all of no avail. What more could be done? Again, there was a presumption in favor of the marriage; but then the loneliness of finding fitting words to represent the gravity of the crisis. "And then," he went on to say, "the very fact that Boodles is spending money over the case shows that he thinks he has a strong one."

Boodles did not let the grass grow under his feet; he instituted proceedings at once, and cited all interested to appear. The thing could no longer be kept a secret; and Maggie and Ralph were told of the cloud that had come over their fortunes.

"I don't care if the property does go away," said Maggie, bravely. "It will make no difference. I shall go to India with Ralph, that's all. I will be a soldier's wife, and go on the baggage wagons."

Ralph shook his head. He had never been able to manage on his pay when there was only himself, and there were ever so many lieutenants on the list before him, so that he could not hope to be a Croesus for many years.

There was no use in sitting brooding over coming misfortunes; and Ralph left the heart and brave over to Giggleham, to see about the family vault at St. Crispin's. It was an occupation that agreed well with his temper; the weather, too, seemed all in keeping—a dull, drizzling day.

"Don't forget the ring," Maggie had said to him at parting; "that is ours, and the family ring. Indeed it; and forge it the dining-room window, panting, into the presence of her aunts.

Ralph found the first person to come in visitor had appeared—Mr. Boodle, a distant relative, who had inherited some of the family property, as before explained. A tall, grim-looking man, with thin, iron-gray hair, carefully brushed off his temples.

The aunts were looking rather serious, not to say frightened, and both started guiltily when they saw Maggie.

"Leave us, my dear, please," said Miss Hammond, gently.

Maggie had just caught the words, "No marriage at all," from Mr. Boodles, who seemed to be speaking loudly and excitedly; and she went out wondering what it all meant. Some piece of scandal, no doubt, for Boodles was the quintessence of spitefulness.

"It is very dreadful—very," said Miss Hammond. "I never had much opinion of Uncle Richard, you know; but for the sake of the young people, hope you'll let it be kept a profound secret."

"Sake of the young people!" screamed Boodles, at the top of his harsh voice. "And what for the sake of old Boodles? I'm the next heir, you'll remember, person—not any maternal great-grandfather, Henry Hammond."

Mr. Boodles had come to Westbury to announce the important discovery that he had recently made. In turning over some of his grandfather's papers he had come across some letters from Gen. Hammond, in which it was plainly asserted that his son, Maj. Hammond, had never been legally married to the woman known as his wife.

"What end do you propose to serve, Mr. Boodles, by bringing this ancient scandal to light?" asked Miss Hammond, with agitated voice.

"End!" cried

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1877.

OUR RADISH LETTER.

New York, Nov. 2, 1877.

The Local Committee Vanderbilt ... [illegible] ... to look ... [illegible] ... the ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Susan B. Anthony is to be married N. Y. Graphic.

The new edition of Dr Quincey is published by Messrs. Hogg, his former publishers. "I'll be," said the opium-eater once, when irritated with them, "must surely be the 3rd swine that the devil entered."

—Brigham Young used to be noted for his ingenuity in evading a difficulty. It is said that a disciple strong in the faith once lost a leg, and prayed him to have a leather supplied by miraculous growth. The prophet insisted that he could command another to grow, of course, but begged his petitioner to consider how awkward it would be to walk around heaven with three legs, when the other saints there would have only two! The device succeeded, and the sufferer went away satisfied N. Y. Evening Post

—A road in Leicester, Mass., known as Peter's Road, is said to be named after a former resident of that town, Peter Salem, a colored man, who fought at Bunker Hill, and is credited with firing the shot that killed Maj. Pitcairn of the British Army. After the War he settled at Leicester and built a cottage on that road. He cultivated a small garden, made and mended baskets and repaired chairs. The late Gov. Emory Washburn used to recall sitting on the knee of the old colored man in childhood, and hearing him describe the battle of Bunker Hill.

—Ben Perley Poore recalls the following anecdote of Gen. Jackson, when, as military commander in Florida during the Administration of President Monroe, he had tried at a drum-head court-martial and hanged two English-men who had incited, it was said, an insurrection among the Indians. President Monroe feared that Great Britain would make trouble about this, and summoned the General to Washington before the Cabinet. John Quincy Adams, then Secretary of State, who had instructed Jackson to govern with a firm hand in Florida, defended him, and read a long argument in which he quoted international law as expounded by Grotius, Vattel and Puffendorff. Jackson listened in sullen silence, but in the evening, when asked to a dinner party whether he was not comforted by Mr. Adams' citation of authorities, he exclaimed: "What do I care about those old musty chaps? Blast Grotius, blast Vattel and blast the Puffendorfs. This is a fight between Jim Monroe and me, and I propose to fight it out."

Important Biological Discoveries.

During the last year Prof. Lakes has been engaged in a series of geological explorations, which have resulted in the discovery of several new and gigantic fossil remains of prehistoric animals of the Dinosaurian, or terrible lizard, (so the Greek word loosely order). Once or two of them, according to Prof. Marsh, are the largest known land animals ever discovered. The remains were found in the rocks of our mountains of the cretaceous or great chalk period, a period characterized by beds of little corals and other minute creatures were secreting lime from the ocean and leaving it, together with their skeletons, wells and homes, to form the chalk cliffs of England and other places, and long lines of chalk bluffs in Kansas; a period remarkable for its extraordinary development of reptiles, and among them these truly "terrible lizards," or Dinosaurs of our fossil-hills.

The first of these remains was discovered in March of this year. It was a gigantic sacral vertebra about two feet long by fifteen inches wide, living in base-relief on a bed of sandstone. Several large fragments of ends of limbs, thigh and leg bones, were found near, resembling herculean war clubs. These were, with great labor, dragged through heavy snow to the railway station and forwarded to Prof. Marsh, of Yale College, and by him were pronounced as belonging to a new and gigantic species of Dinosaur, the largest ever discovered, and the largest known land animal. He named it the Titan Saurian of the Mountains (Titanosaurus Montanus). He judged that this creature, of which the modern alligator and the lizard give a very imperfect idea, was fully sixty feet long, and when, according to the manners and customs of the Dinosaurs, he stood erect on his hind legs, he was thirty-five feet high, and tail partially upon the boughs of the forest that clothed the banks of the cretaceous ocean whose sea bottom now forms some of the rocks of our foot-hills.

Strange as it may seem, the anatomist sees in these gigantic Dinosaurs an affinity to the birds, and most of them walked on their hind feet alone like the ostrich. This is inferred from the tracks which they have left in the rocks, as well as the length of their hind limbs.

In the same block with the Titan was discovered an almost perfect crocodile's head with teeth and several procelain vertebræ. Of this Prof. Marsh says, in his address before the American Association at Nashville, Tenn.: The beds of the Rocky Mountain Wealden have just provided us with a genuine mesozoic link (not a Muldoon). A Saurian Dyplosaurus, with essentially the skull and teeth of a modern crocodile, and the vertebræ of its predecessor from the Trias. This peculiar reptile clearly represents an important stage in the progressive series, and evidently one soon after the separation of the crocodile branch from the basis stem.

With these new facts [illegible] a real turtle [illegible] the connection of Columbus' Bones at San Domingo.

A recent Washington dispatch says: The United States Consul at San Domingo has transmitted to the Department of State an account of the recent discovery of the bones of Columbus in the cathedral of that city. Dying in Spain in 1506, the body of Columbus was first deposited in the Convent of St. Francis. In 1513 it was transferred to the Carthusian Convent of Las Cuevas, from whence it was shipped to San Domingo in 1536 and deposited in the cathedral of that city. In 1796 the remains, as it was then and up to the present discovery, believed, were conveyed with great pomp to the Cathedral of Havana, where they were supposed to have reposed ever since.

The Consul at San Domingo says that while some workmen were digging up the floor around the pulpit in the Cathedral to make some repairs they exposed to view a walled orifice containing a leaden case two feet long by about eight inches deep and eight inches wide, the inscription on which was impossible of utterance that it contained Christopher Columbus' bones. Immediately on this discovery being made the bones were restored to their resting-place, and the receptacle walled up. On the 10th of September, in the presence of the Governor and the other Government officers and the various Consuls, amid the sounds of martial music and the booming of cannon, the remains were again exhumed, the box, bones and inscription examined, and the facts recorded and attested to by all the officers and Consuls present.

The lead box containing the bones was then inclosed in another box enerally sealed with the seals of the Consuls, to be opened only in their presence and placed in the custody of Pedro Billini, in the Chureh of Regina Angelorum, to be held by him subject to investigation by any foreign commissions desirous of satisfying themselves of the facts, and until a suitable mound can be raised to erect a fitting monument. It being suggested that other countries might like to contribute to the erection of this monument, the various Consuls were requested to bring the subject to the attention of their respective Governments in order to give them a chance to do so.

The ancient records of the cathedral of San Domingo having been long ago destroyed, the facts concerning the supposed removal of these bones to Havana cannot be ascertained in San Domingo, but it is conjectured that the monks pulled off on the Spaniards the bones of somebody else, retaining for themselves and their cathedral the consecrated bones of the great navigator.

Relics of the Franklin Arctic Expedition.

A recent New York telegraphic dispatch says:

Thos. A. Barry, Second Mate of the bark A. Boughton, which was cast away on the 12th of June upon the coast of Hudson Bay, a few miles southwest of Cape Fullerton, has brought to this city some interesting relics of the Franklin Expedition, which he obtained from a native tribe near whose home the land of the lost explorers are said to have perished. Barry appears to be an honest sailor, and the relics which he has sold to have in his possession confirm the current story of his story, as told to a World reporter. About a year ago, while the bark was laid up at Marble Island, a well-known station in Rankin's Bay, they were visited by a large party of Esquimaux from the Melville Settlement, near Cape Inglefield, who told of the mounds which marked the graves of the white men who had come among them many years before. Two old men of the tribe remembered distinctly the appearance of the strangers, but none of the other natives could speak except in regard to the mounds, and the relics which were still in their possession. The old Esquimaux told Barry that a very long time ago a large party of white men had come to their settlement and lived for a time among them. The old men told how cold the winter was which followed the arrival of the whites. So game of any kind was to be had that the strangers was reduced before long to the last extremity of destitution. The natives crouched in their huts, without fire or food, except a few pieces of seal skins, pieces of which they chewed. The white men were unable to endure the miseries of the winter. The natives were inured to hunger and cold, but many of their tribe perished. One after the other the remnant of the English expedition died, and all the men had perished in the Esquimaux settlement. The Esquimaux wrapped the bodies of the dead in skins, and buried them near the settlement, under little heaps of stones. Before all of the expedition had starved to death, a cairn was erected among the huts, and the books and papers belonging to the explorers were carefully pinced within it. Other valuables were stored in the cairn also, which the natives told Barry had been left untouched. They looked on the deposit as sacred, and feared to break into the mound or disturb the relics. They had a number of articles in their settlement, however, belonging to the expedition, made of silver, copper and iron, and many pieces of wood which had been used to construct boats and sledges. Some of these articles they brought with them to the ship, and Barry was able to procure three large silver spoons, which were unmistakably the property of the Franklin Expedition. One of the spoons he has now in his private [illegible]. The other two were given to the American Consul at St. John, Newfoundland. The spoon now belonging to Barry, is a heavy, silver tablespoon, engraved with the Franklin arms, an fish's head surrounded by a wreath. The natives were willing to guide the crew of the whaler to their settlement, but as the journey was nearly a thousand miles in length, and the crew were wholemen and not professed explorers, the offer was not accepted. It is proposed by Morrison & Brown, shipping agents at No. 109 South street, to make an attempt to recover the relics of the Franklin Expedition next spring. Mr. Morrison was the agent who fitted out the Polaris. He estimates the cost of fitting out a vessel for a cruise of eighteen months at $15,000, and if this sum can be raised he will undertake to provide whatever is necessary. It is understood that the British Government have offered a standing reward of £20,000 for the recovery of the books and other records of the expedition, and if this offer is still open Messrs. Morrison & Brown are prepared to defray the cost of the expedition, which will probably be continued Christopher Columbus' bones. Immediately on this discovery being made the bones were restored to their resting-place, and the receptacle walled up. On the 10th of September, in the presence of the Governor and the other Government officers and the various Consuls, amid the sounds of martial music and the booming of cannon, the remains were again exhumed, the box, bones and inscription examined, and the facts recorded and attested to by all the officers and Consuls present.

The lead box containing the bones was then inclosed in another box enerally sealed with the seals of the Consuls, to be opened only in their presence and placed in the custody of Pedro Billini, in the Chureh of Regina Angelorum, to be held by him subject to investigation by any foreign commissions desirous of satisfying themselves of the facts, and until a suitable mound can be raised to erect a fitting monument. It being suggested that other countries might like to contribute to the erection of this monument, the various Consuls were requested to bring the subject to the attention of their respective Governments in order to give them a chance to do so.

The ancient records of the cathedral of San Domingo having been long ago destroyed, the facts concerning the supposed removal of these bones to Havana cannot be ascertained in San Domingo, but it is conjectured that the monks pulled off on the Spaniards the bones of somebody else, retaining for themselves and their cathedral the consecrated bones of the great navigator.

Remedies Against Wakefulness.

THOUSANDS suffer from wakefulness who are otherwise in good health. With some of them this becomes a habit, and too often a growing one. Not a few resort to soporific drugs, and the habit for opium is thus often initiated. Others find alcoholic liquors occasionally effectual, and there can be no doubt that in this way the foundation of intemperate indulgence in these liquors has been laid. Many people, however, have found a way of going to sleep without resorting to such dangerous measures. For instance, looking at a fixed point steadily will often succeed in inducing sleep; or, if it be too hard to do this, closing the eyes and in imagination watching attentively the stream of air entering and leaving the nostrils. Another plan recently been proposed by Dr. Cooke, who tells us that in many cases of sleeplessness it is only necessary to breathe very slowly and quietly for a few minutes to secure refreshing sleep. He thinks that most cases depend on hyperæmia of the brain, and that in this slow breathing the blood supply is lessened sufficiently to make an impression. Certainly, when the mind is uncontrollably active, and so prevents sleep, persons whose observation was worth trusting have testified that the breathing was quick and short, and they have found they became more disposed to sleep by breathing slowly. This supports Dr. Cooke's practice, but at other times his plan quite failed. It is certainly worth any one's while who is occasionally sleepless to give it a trial. In doing so they should breathe very quietly, rather deeply, and at long intervals, but not sog enough to cause the least feeling of uneasiness. In fine, they should imitate a person snoring, and do it steadily for several minutes.

In no case should opiates or other drugs be resorted to for sleeplessness except under the direction of a physician. The other methods mentioned above may be safely tried by anybody; but if they fail, and the case becomes at all serious, medical advice should be promptly taken. Manufacturer and Builder.

A Genuine Surprise.

Boys brought up on the sea-coast of the British Islands have usually a passion for the sea, and by the time they reach the age of fourteen or fifteen years, they generally come to the determination to run away from home and ship as mere sailors before the mast, if not, as otherwise it is apt to Break.—Detroit Free Press.

"The best sour-krout we ever ate we make ourselves, and have done so for many years, and for a considerable time with our own hands, and always from home-grown cabbage, or cabbage purchased in this wise: To the first place let your "stand," holding from half a barrel to a barrel, be thoroughly scalded out; the cutter, the tub, and the stamper also well scalded. Take off all the outer leaves of the cabbages, halve them, and remove the heart, and the rest with the cutting. Lay some clean leaves at the bottom of the stand, sprinkle with a handful of salt, fill in half a bushel of cut cabbage, stamp gently until the juice just makes its appearance, then add another handful of salt, and so on until the stand is full. Cover over with cabbage leaves, place on top a clean board fitting the space pretty well, and on the top of that a stone weighing twelve or fifteen pounds. Stand away in a cool place, and when hard freezing comes on remove to the cellar. It will be ready for use in from four to six weeks. The cabbage should be cut tolerably coarse. The saving variety makes the best article, but it is only half as productive as the Drumhead and Flat Dutch. We will just add that there is no dish more wholesome than a well-made sour-krout, but it should always be boiled—and well boiled—with a piece of pickled pork or corn beef.—Germantown Telegraph.

Let Nothing Be Wasted.

A TRIP around the country recalls to one accustomed to severe economy a good many large channels of waste. At this period of the year there is the gathering of crops, and although not so many in the country wanting the the necessaries of life, it seems a great pity that any of the harvest should be wasted. And again in many instances it is the gathering of odds and ends that really gives the margin on any crop.

To the farmers who keep a few cows for their milk and butter there is opportunity to save a great many things that would otherwises be wassted, and that, too, in a manner that will count. The feed in the pasture begins to shorten, and, to keep up a continuous flow of milk, it is necessary to supplement the pasture with regular morning and evening rations. These can be made up of the poor apples, the open cabbages, turnip tops, soft squashes, green pumpkins, and twenty other things that are accounted all but worthless in the fall gathering, with a little bran or meal to stimulate the appetite.

In nearly every corncrib are some stalks that have settled over on one side or lipped completely over, in such a way as to hold all the grain that falls on them; the stalks are soon completely spoiled and the corn injured very much. It pays well to have a few "gleaning" days after husking is done and the crop is all in. Then is the time for turning up or husking out the corn and fixing the stalks in bundles to shed water.

Everywhere through the country are seen, as yet ungathered, large quantities of beautiful pumpkins and squashes. We have not had very severe frosts but we shall have very soon, and it is a pity to see these fruits of the farm injured and in many cases destroyed when a little labor put in now gathering the crop and housing it from frost would preserve perfectly every specimen. Pumpkins for stock can be preserved in chaff until January in an ordinary barn. Squashes should be kept in open shed until severe weather, when they can be put in a warm chamber or attic for the winter. Nearly every common cellar is too damp for their safe keeping; like sour potatoes they need to be kept very dry and where it is not cold.

There is a source of much waste even in the straw-stack. It is far better to use the straw the coming winter as an absorbent, under the cattle and horses, than to have it bocked out into the yard at this season, tramped under the feet of stock and mixed up with the mud to no purpose. Straw is not rich in food elements, and makes poor manure in itself, but if employed with economy in bedding for stock, makes a very useful medium for holding and preserving the manure from the stables. What is cleaner and more wholesome for a stable than nice, bright straw?

One other source of waste very common is in the management of the manure. The stables are cleaned, and the manure thrown out in the yard where the rain beats upon it, filters through it and runs off with the principal part of it into the road or some neighboring hollow. There are two ways of avoiding this, through the employment of a very small amount of extra labor. Either throw the coarser manure, as made, upon the wagon, every few days, and draw upon some field which needs both manure and the mulch, or make, in one corner of the yard, a compost heap. If much is at hand, start the pile with a heavy layer of muck, and follow with another of manure, alternating them as the manure accumulates. There will be no waste, because muck will absorb the richness of the manure and hold it, while if the proper proportion of each is used, it will decompose with no stirring over, and make a fine heap of rotted compost. If the muck cannot be had conveniently, take this refuse from the farm, together with soil, and alternate with the manure. Almost any subsoil below frost manure is an important stone in the foundation of successful farming will, upon exposure of the surface, adopt some similar method to those in saving from waste the "mother of the mulch."—Detroit Free Press.

High Farming.

A writer in the Home and Farm says: I am thoroughly confirmed in the faith that the only good farmer of our future is to be the high farmer. There is a wide gap nowadays between the common farmers and the middle-class farmers of our country against not only the practice of high farming, but against the use of the phrase by agricultural writers. This is all wrong and should be at once corrected.

Although some misconception of the meaning of the phrase, and of its application, they have come to believe it synonymous with thorough-bred "book farming." Our new-fangled notions, boasted progress, followed by disappointment and final failure. This is all an error. High farming simply means thorough cultivation, liberal manuring, bountiful crops, good feed and paying profits therefrom. It is not strange that many farmers have taken alarm in the minds of doubting farmers who have been eye-witnesses to some of the pecuniary experiences of ambitious, fanatic farmers, better supplied with money obtained in a business they knew how to manage than with practical farming. Hundreds of good, careful crops and paying profits, of course, are what farmers who are depending upon the farm for their support are trying to obtain; and every year it passes is reconfirming the opinion that profits are small, and will grow beautifully less, where high farming is not practised.

Household Fables.

"How many thumbles?" smilingly asks the sitting-room carpet, looking up at its colleague, the battered stove-hearth, which is in the adjoining room below, the stove-pipe, riveting its gaze on its friend, replies, "Only three, but I've taken through many a mile of the same knuckles to make a pair of boots." Chuckingly responds the carpet, "Not so well as you did last year. I got a good deal of ginger-ale when Brown's-knees started a good crop of bunglails on every finger in the house, and I'm now a silver-ware running." "That's a pretty good spread," replies the pipe, and then, turning to an exhausted tack-hammer that was resting itself on the window-sill, asked, "How is your score?" "Oh, don't ask me," gasped the tack-hammer; "I've been busier than the dickens ever was on a Chapter night. I haven't missed but one knuckle since I started in, and then I caught the ball of a thumb, plumb center, and you should have heard me sing as a walnut." And then the graceless trio smiled in silent chorus, and an old handmade carpet that was standing on the porch, listening to the conversation through the key-hole, lumped itself against the door in an ecstacy of delight and fell sound asleep, across the wheelbarrow with one leg, that was waiting on the walk for somebody to come along and fall over it.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

A BASE, ignoble brute says that when he sees a woman neither fat nor fair, and lonely, and burdened by anxiety and her lot, it suggests to him a life-and-death struggle between nature and art, with art on top, by a small majority.

KENNEBEC, Me., ice dealers are shipping more ice now than at any time last summer.

A Popular Hotel.

The Burnet House, Cincinnati, Ohio, is the favorite hotel with the commercial traveler, and the public generally. It is the largest and most centrally-located hotel there. First-class in all its appointments, and one of the best-disciplined hotels in the country, with all the modern improvements necessary to comfort. The house has recently been remodeled and refurnished throughout, which has made it a model of neatness from top to bottom. The present Managers, J. W. Dunkley, A. G. Corrie and F. W. Finnemore, are known for their long experience—have made the house more popular than ever. When in Cincinnati stop at the Burnet and you will be well cared for.

THE new styles of Cabinet or Parlor Organs recently introduced by the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. are said to be the finest instruments of this class which the world has produced, both in their musical capacity and elegance of case. One style of organ with nine stops, which sells for cash at from $114 to $140, according to elegance of case, is especially desirable. Such is the demand for it that they are scarcely able to supply it, though they have more than one thousand organs of this single style under way, and turn out more than one hundred per week.

Grater wines for sale cheap. See advertisement of Woodford & Co., Jamestown, N. Y.

Light, Wholesome, Delicious

Are biscuits, bread, rolls, dumplings, etc., made with Dooban's YEAST POWDERS. Always ready for the delicious Vienna cake. Should your grocer not have, send three 3c. stamps to DOOBAN'S YEAST POWDER Co. for 100, send 20 cents for 1 lb., 35 cents for 2 lb., or 60 cents for 4 lbs., delivered in Boston by Boston & Maverick, New York, and it will be sent by mail, post-paid.

The Universal Soother!

For burns, bruises, cuts, sprains, etc., PARRY DAVIS' "PAIN KILLER" is the popular remedy. It soothes the pain, produces a healthy action of the skin, and restores the proper harmony to the parts. There is no telling when accidents will occur, and it is well to have a bottle of it.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"Doring's Rheumatic Remedy," the genuine Infernal Doring, will positively cure any case of rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine & Bro., Druggists, Washington, D. C.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for all diseases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and, by giving relief to the child, gives rest to the mother.

The Silversmiths delivered by the National Silver-Plating Co., No. 704 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, is giving entire satisfaction. All orders are promptly filled, and no one need hesitate about sending them money.—Inquirer Observer.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO STARCH.—Analysis of this choice article, kept in America and Europe, shows that in 1,000 ounces there are but two ounces of foreign material. This is a degree of purity never before attained.

Hearing Restored.

Great Invention, by one who was deaf for twenty years. Send stamp for particulars. J. SAW. CARMOUR, Lock Box 985, Covington, Ky.

NATURE'S REMEDY.
VEGETINE
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
RECOMMEND IT HEARTILY.
SOUTH BOSTON.
MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have taken several bottles of your VEGETINE, and am satisfied it is a valuable remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaint, and General Debility of the System. I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering from the above complaints.
Yours truly, MUNROE PARKER.
Vegetine is Sure to Cure. Sold by Druggists.

Hershey School of Musical Art,
As Hershey Place, Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
All branches of MUSIC, MODERN LANGUAGES and ELOCUTION taught. Diplomas, Certificates offered. Concerts, Classes in Harmony, Sight-Singing, Italian, Elocution, etc., free to all pupils. Send for Circular.

Sewing Machine.
—A NEW—
Wilcox & Gibbs
Elegant Case Cabinet Machine,
All Latest Improvements, and in Perfect Order
Manufacturers' Price, $200.00.
Will Sell for $125.00, Cash.
ADDRESS
E. F. PRATT, 79 Jackson Street, Chicago, Ill.

THE GREAT REGULATOR.
SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
PURELY VEGETABLE.
An Effectual Specific for Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Dyspepsia, Mental Depression, Dull Headache, Constipation and Biliousness.
ASK the recovered dyspeptics, Bilious sufferers, victims of Fever and Ague, the nervous and diseased patient how they recovered health, mental spirits and good appetite—they will tell you by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator, the only restorative medicine that acts on the Liver, promotes digestion, and fortifies the system against malarial diseases.
Extract of a letter from Hon. Alexander H. Stevens: "I owe, mentally and physically, more than my condition required, to Simmons' Liver Regulator, with good effect. It is solid, and without better than more active remedies."
CONSTIPATION!
TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF-JUSTICE OF GEORGIA.—I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for myself and family, and in my travels, for many years, and have found it a good preventive for the derangement of the liver—at least, such has been my personal experience in the use of it.
HIRAM WARNER, Chief-Justice of Georgia.
Original and Only Genuine,
MANUFACTURED ONLY BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

ALL WORLD'S EXHIBITIONS of RECENT YEARS;
Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; Santiago, 1875; Phila., 1876;
HAVE AWARDED THEIRS
Highest Honors
TO THE MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS for Demonstrated Superiority.
NEW STYLES at reduced prices, from $54 upwards. Grab Priced, FIVE OCTAVE, DOUBLE REED, $100; NINE STOPS, $108; in ELEGANT UPRIGHT CASE, NEW STYLE, $136. Sold also for instalments or rented until rent pays. A small Organ of best quality may be obtained by payment of $7.33 per quarter, for ten quarters. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES and PRICE LISTS free.
MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO.,
154 TREMONT ST., BOSTON. 25 UNION SQ., NEW YORK. 149 WABASH AV., CHICAGO.

"NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP."
THE CHILD'S FIRST PRAYER.
Which begins as above, is the most tender, touching and comforting petition which is ever offered to the Supreme Being. Its beauty and pathos are unsurpassed. It is also repeated by mothers to their children, and is the first thing of pure and innocent children every night, and will be by countless millions.
We have, at a great expense, reproduced the celebrated French engraving embodying the spirit of this prayer of prayers. The engraving represents a beautiful child kneeling at its bedside, with its mother by its side, and the child's first petition to Be Made. The gentle mother looks on as the child stands out in bold relief in the bright and shining light of a very handsomely furnished room, and the whole effect is strikingly sublime and attractive. The picture is 19x26 in. size, on heavy white paper, and is perfect in every artistic detail. It is a copy of the celebrated French engraving, and is the only correct copy of the most famous picture in the entire Parisian Exposition, where the original has been exhibited for nearly twenty years, and has excited more genuine admiration than any other picture in the vast collection. It is only since the fall of the Empire that this engraving has been copied, owing to the terms on which it was presented the artist. Thousands of copies have been sold in Paris and many millions have been sold in Europe, the present edition just out, counting at 25 francs ($5) each. We can supply the genuine article, and it has been pronounced by the best connoisseurs of Europe as engravings that the sale will be totally unprecedented in this country. Certain it is that this is one of the finest subjects in the whole range of art, and that it will touch a tender chord in every mother's heart. The engraving is executed in clear, handsome letters upon each copy, and is worthy a place in every home. We will send a copy to any one who will remit us 50 cents, or two copies for $1, and we will guarantee that no such opportunity to procure a first-class work of art. No more appropriate picture can be hung in a little child's chamber, and each boy or girl would cherish it in after years as a souvenir of childhood's days and a constant love-provoker to virtue and fragrant memories of home.
We would here mention that one of the largest art dealers in New York offered to pay $1 copies on each copy of the New World. MAMMOTH WATER FREE TO AGENTS. Address A. COUTTER & CO. Chicago, Ill.
On Receipt of $1.
In addition, every purchaser will be presented with six months' subscription to the Boston Weekly Globe, free of expense. The WEEKLY GLOBE is a family paper and fairly teems with stories by celebrated authors, all the latest news, market reports, etc., etc. Only $1 a year. Specimen copies sent free. Address, GLOBE PUBLISHING CO., Boston, Mass.
Agents wanted everywhere. Particulars free. Address P. O. VICKERY, Augusta, Me.
CANDY Manufactured by Chicago Candy Co. Chicago.
YOUNG MEN! Learn TELEGRAPHY and R. R. Accounting. Situations procured. Address Valley City Business College, Davenport, Iowa.
TEXAS Maps & guide-books of Texas for the Texas Land and Immigration Co. of Austin. Texas. Sent free. Address A. H. BELO & CO., Galveston, Texas.
HAIR Wholesale and retail. Send for price-list. Goods sent C. O. D. to any one in this country, latest styles, 20 cents. Wigs made to order. Shampooing, etc. E. H. DUNHAM, 97 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.
SACRIFICE. A lady has left with us 200 Pianos, which she is obliged to sell, and offers for $175. Cost $500. Agents wanted. Address HEAD'S TEMPLE OF MUSIC, 91 Washington St., Chicago.
Home and Abroad. A Paper for Christian Workers. Sample free. Address Box 1, Bible House, New York.
GRAPE VINES. Having a large lot of Vines left on hand, I offer them, as long as they last, 25 Extra Vines for 50 cents, or Number for $1.00. Address HOUGHTON & CO., Geneseo, New York.
Truss The "Sure-Cure Truss" is manufactured by Dr. F. C. Kapp, Chemnitz, Saxony. Send for circular. Office and Depot, 1 Broadway, Newburgh, Orange Co., N. Y.
CONSUMPTION, Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh Cured. Sufferers from these diseases should send stamp to DR. BOBBS, Pacific Block, Chicago, Ill.
BEAUTY Vases, Organ free. 23rd issue now ready. Send 10 cents. Catalogue free. Address WILLIAMS, BRADBURY, GILBERT & CO., Jackson, Mich.
$350 A Month—Agents Wanted for the best-selling articles in the world. 1 sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.
$5 Gold-Plated Watches. Cheapest in the known world. AGENT WANTED FREE TO CANVASS. Address A. COUTTER & CO. Chicago, Ill.
$9 A DAY. Agents wanted everywhere. Pitt Lathe Novelties, Sewing Machine Attachments, Scissors, Watches, Jewelry. Novelties. Address P. PITT, Box 5066, Boston, Mass.
Music Free! A Little Book of 11 pages Now Ready, containing Specimen Pieces of Music, and Catalogue of Popular Sheet Music and Books, sent free to any one who will send their address to MUSIC PUBLISHING CO., 10 E. 14th St., New York.
$11 to $26 a day sure made by Agents selling our Chromo Cards, Fancy Chromo Cards, Motto Cards, Chromo Cards, Floral Chromo Cards, Oil Chromo Cards, Panel Cards, Gilt Edge Cards, Lace Cards, Glass Cards, Reward Cards, etc. Sample Book and Outfit 10 cents. Address, NATIONAL CARD CO., Bethel, Conn.
25 Fancy Cards, Snow flake, Damask, etc., no 2 alike, with name, 10c. Nassau Card Co. Nassau, N.Y.
30 Mixed Cards, with name, 10 cts post-paid. Clinton Bros. & Co. Clintonville, Conn.
25 Fashionable Cards, no 2 alike, with name, 10c. postpaid. GEO. I. REED & CO., Nassau, N.Y.
40 Fine Mixed Cards, large size, 8 inks, with name, by mail, 10c. CRIDNEY & CO. Plymouth, Ind.
50 Large Mixed Chromo Cards, with name, 10c. Agent's outfit 10c. 20 Styles Gold Bevel Edge Cards, 10c. Agent's outfit 10c. 1000 Elegant Visiting ...Wednesday...

...Fox Brothers...

...Fox Brothers...

...Fox Brothers

...Bay, Wexford county, on the 26th day of ... fresh trout spots hanging out there, and when the ice is persistently unwilling in their efforts to get into the batter as in July. No snow has fallen here yet and the temperature is as mild as spring. The ground has not yet been frozen, all farmers are doing their fall plowing. Cause that everlasting chestnut the long and severe winters of Northern Michigan.

Call and see Carpenter & Barth in new brick store in front of cemetery and their ware.

FOR SALE.—The east half of the south west fractional quarter of section 30, Town 33 north, Range 7 West, 80 acres known as the Kelly farm. Price $400 per acre. Address Sentinel office or the Post, Charlevoix, Mich.

Ladies don't get the blues and sick about hard times, when you can buy a fine black alpaca dress for 25 to 50 double width. Fox, Rose & Butters.

BEAVER ISLAND REVENUE.—About three weeks since Deputy Marshal S. J. Bailey, and Deputy Collector H. S. Bailey, of Grand Rapids, started on a trip up north to look after the revenue that ought to be coming to the Government from that region but was not. The revenue dodge Antrim-burners was played at their doors, and after getting track of the man they needed, warrants were procured from Commissioner Gage, of Traverse City, and the vessel went to Beaver Island. Arrived there, eight of the men wanted were quickly found and corralled on board the Andy Johnson. It had been known by the officers that the schooner Bluenose, of Chicago, had been engaged in selling liquor in that region, at wholesale, during this past season, and as it was expected she would be back there they waited patiently for her arrival. One morning she was in sight, approaching the Island, but unbeknown to the officers that she was signaled from the island by friends who warned her of the danger of coming into the harbor. The latter started in pursuit, and soon had gained on the schooner, but fearing that she would escape into shallow water where the steamer could not follow, a shot was fired across the bows of the Bluenose, when she hove to and was towed to Traverse City, where her captain gave bail for his appearance at the United States Court. All of the persons arrested gave the required bail and were released. The amount of revenue due from these persons is about $6,200.

If you don't drink don't buy it, if you do drink, please try it, our 10cts Java tea, the best tea for the money ever sold in Charlevoix. Fox, Rose & Butters.

The tenacity and perseverance of the Russians prove too formidable for the Turks. An Arkadian came on the 17th, the former commenced an assault upon Kars, in Asia Minor, and although the fortress is of unusual strength, and was defended by 15,000 Turks, it was captured before daylight Sunday morning, with ten thousand prisoners, three hundred cannon and a large supply of army stores. Five thousand Turks were killed and wounded, while the Russian loss was only 2,000. The fall of Kars cannot but have a depressing effect upon the Turkish armies, while the spirits of the Russians will be correspondingly elevated.

Sitter News.

Cadillac parties have a contract to furnish 800,000 feet of timber for the Welland Canal this winter, and a number of mills are already getting out the first installment.

There is only eight feet of water at the entrance to Holland harbor.

Hon. Mr. Conger, who represents the district made up of Lapeer, Sanilac, Macomb etc., is called the "whity Congressman from Michigan."

The editor of the Cedar Springs Clipper has been sued for libel, but he says "that's nothing, as the other fellow has been arrested for arson."

The burned district at Cadillac is being largely covered with substantial brick blocks. They will improve the appearance of that live, wide-awake young city.

The county seat difficulty has become chronic in Montcalm county, according to the papers there. That county has more centers than any other county in the State, and every center wants a Court House and will not be comforted without one.

LAW
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich
—
Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.
—
Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.
Collections a Speciality
Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lake settlements, included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed on the fourth day of November A. D. 1876 by Andrew Byron of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Merrick Stockman of said county and State, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876, at 2 o'clock p. m. in Liber "Twelve" of Mortgages on page 123; on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the delivery of the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been taken or instituted.

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage or so much of the real as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principal interest, costs and an Attorney fee of $75.00 dollars, as provided for in said mortgage will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the Township of Charlevoix, that being the building in which the last name of the Circuit Court was holden for said county within which said premises are situated or contained.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and are known and described as follows, viz: The North-west quarter of the Northeast quarter of section Two (2) in Township Thirty-three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to United States survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MERRICK J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
(18-13m) Printer's fee $17.45.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee against Charles Bay all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 2431, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the W ½ of section 34, Township 34, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., June 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Robert Addison and Mary B. Allison against Charlevoix, in Emmet county, Michigan for the non-cultivation of said timber culture entry No. 2,431, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the W ½ of section 34, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., June 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Insight against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1874, upon the sw ¼ of ne ¼ section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., June 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1874, upon the ne ¼ of ne ¼ section 34, Township 34 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 25, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Hastings, against Ulysses Smith for abandonment of Homestead No. 7660, dated April 18, 1870, upon the sw ¼ of section 32, Township 32 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Insight against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253 dated Aug. 21, 1874 upon the sw ¼ of ne ¼ and se ¼ of ne ¼ Section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 6253, dated August 21, 1874, upon the ne ¼ of ne ¼ section 34, Township 34 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 25, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Hastings, against Ulysses Smith for abandonment of Homestead No. 7660, dated April 18, 1870, upon the sw ¼ of section 32, Township 32 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Insight against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6253 dated Aug. 21, 1874 upon the sw ¼ of ne ¼ and se ¼ of ne ¼ Section 34, Township 31 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making.

In short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 13, 1876.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Retail Dealers in Sealed Goods.

68 Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(Entire)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirtieth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.
Peter Tegoth, Complainant
vs.
Robert Addison and Mary B. Allison, Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 23d day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin, on motion of J. Mile Eaton, complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents Robert Addison and Mary B. Allison to enter appearance in this cause within four months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance within that time, they answer to the bill of complaint, and in case a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Charlevoix, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

B. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge.
J. MILE EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
Dated, ...

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., June 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by I. Spencer Beebaue against Ira Inscoe, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 2245, dated Oct. 15, 1875, upon the se ¼ of section 32, Township 32 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop
—
All kinds of
Light and Heavy HARNESS.
Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.
REPAIRING
of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.
Upholstering a Specialty
Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Butters' store.
JAS. E. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

REMEMBER.
THE
Sentinel
JOB PRINTING
Office,
Is the place to get all kinds of neat
JOB WORK
EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.
Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

W. V. CAMPBELL, C. S. BAESSLER.
CAMPBELL & BAESSLER,
Commission Merchants,
Dealers in
Wood Bark Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c., Room No. 10, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Lumber Yard
The undersigned will keep on hand and for sale at the Lumber Yard in Charlevoix City, a full assortment of LUMBER, LATH AND SHINGLES of every grade, which he will sell at the lowest market price. Orders left at the office of the undersigned at Charlevoix, or at the mill at Round Lake, will receive prompt attention.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1875.
J. F. WHALEN.

FARM FOR SALE
In Evelyne.
I offer my farm for sale at 80 acres on section 19 Evelyne, in good improvement, 40 acres cleared, log house, good well, and 3 miles from town. Good reason for selling. Inquire on the premises or address
Charles Heller,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!
The W ½ of NW ¼ Sec 29, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres [illegible] Apply to Rapids
Mich.

FOR SALE.
One Rose wood 7 Octave Melodeon,
made by
Geo. W. Prince & Co.
of Buffalo, will be sold
CHEAP.
It is in good condition and will be sold cheap. Inquire at
A. BUTTARS.
Charlevoix, Aug. 5 1877. 23 tf.

HORSE FOR SALE.
I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.
H. A. BUTTARS

ENGLISH INK for Printers,
News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. No cheaper inferior grades of ink made by us.
EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS,
183 & 185 CLINTON ST., CHICAGO
And 13 Hartley Street, New York.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the low ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. The medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" The answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life giving principle a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease and ailment. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious diseases.

The properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative and Anodyne.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 32 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Dec. 4. 1877. Whole No. 447

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR—
OFFICE: Pfeiffer Building
Old Bridge Street
Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
—OR FOR SIX MONTHS.
JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1w	2w	3w	1m	3m	6m	1y
1 inch
2 inch
3 inch
4 inch
¼ Col.
½ Col.
1 Col.

Local notices 10 cents per line each insertion.
Business notices 15 cents per line each insertion.
Yearly advertisements at reduced rates.

Business Directory.

W. [illegible]
A. J. McLEOD, Notary Public, West Charlevoix Depot, Emmet county, Michigan.
B. [illegible]
S. C. SHUART, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.
L. [illegible]
J. [illegible]
A. [illegible]
E. [illegible]
ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Carriage Maker, Bear Point and Affection promptly attended to. Horse shoeing.
Roswell Benoit,
NOTARY AND SOLICITOR,
Elk Rapids, - Mich
DR. DEWITT A. McLEOD,
[illegible]
The Campbell House,
[illegible]
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
S. J. FARMER,
[illegible]
Repairing
Done on short notice
Millinery & Dress-Making
I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do
DRESS FITTING AND MAKING
in the most approved styles. Have also on hand
LADIES HATS
of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main Street. EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT
CROUTER'S
Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Wall Paper by the roll or piece. Window Shades, Fine Cigars always on hand. Prescriptions carefully compounded at all hours of the day or night.

Tooth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of
STOVES
Hardware & Tinware
Is now and will always be found in the same place
M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.
TIME TABLE.
A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will leave Charlevoix every Monday and Thursday at 12 m.
Leave Petoskey every Tuesday and Friday at 12 m.
Passengers will be carried at reasonable rates. Mail will be promptly delivered. Also will forward express matter.
H. C. MEIR, Prop.

J. A. BARHAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER.
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging,
Charlevoix, Mich

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the north side of above village, which will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of
W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 1, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee against Charles Bay all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 2431, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the W ½ of section 34, Township 34, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Round Lake Lodge No. 248 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Odd Fellows Hall, Young Lake, or Wm. Greenwood's. All members of the Order are cordially invited to attend.
J. H. ROSENBERGER, Sec'y.

F. and A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 222, F. & A. M. holds its regular communications on the first Wednesday evening in each month. All members of the fraternity are cordially invited to attend.
W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. [illegible], Sec'y.

I. O. G. T.
The Pioneer Lodge No. [illegible] I. O. G. T. meets every Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Temperance Hall. All members of the Order are cordially invited to attend.
W. A. SMITH, W. C. T.
[illegible], Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.
Wednesday, Dec. 5, 1877.

Charlevoix Post Office.
The Mails arrive at and depart from the Charlevoix Post Office as follows:
Arrive at 12 M., depart at [illegible] P. M.
Arrive at [illegible] P. M., depart at [illegible] A. M.
W. A. SMITH, P. M.

Local News.

CHARLEVOIX Merchant Reporter.

[illegible]

HANK' RULISS & WARNEY Chief Templar of the Little Traverse Good Templars Lodge.

Tables, bedsteads, stands, sofas and chairs at Carpenter & Barthelmess's.

John Gaskell, a millionaire of Manistee, has commenced to [illegible] a dwelling.

We must every week or one or [illegible] ...ness.

Now goods at See & Washburn's this week.

Ten Ottawas of Petoskey, passed through here Friday, on his way to Kenwood, to visit friends.

The steamer for the new launch are at Petoskey, awaiting such time as they can be conveyed here and set up.

Rev. James Inwood will occupy the Methodist pulpit next Sabbath morning, and Rev. Mr. Whitman in the evening.

Christmas is at See & Washburn's this week.

The Weather.—Thanksgiving day ushered in winter with considerable gusto, and was really the first winter day. Considerable snow has fallen, although the ground has not yet frozen hard enough to give good sleighing. We may as well prepare ourselves for winter.

Fox, Rose & Butters in this issue appear with a new double column advertisement. Read it. The store has never been in better shape to please the trading public. They are full to overflowing. F. M. Loveland, the popular chief clerk, has thing finely arranged, and is always there to display goods, and he knows just how to do it.

Carpenter & Barthelmess's 50 cent tea is the best ever sold in this market for the money.

MARINE.—The schooner Fleetwing arrived from Milwaukee on Saturday, with goods for our merchants.

—The schooner Dreadnought, left here Friday with 250 bushels of potatoes for Cheboygan, Mich.

—The propeller Ledger State was here Saturday on her way down.

Try a pair of the custom made boots and no one need they are good, at See & Washburn's.

OLD ENGLAND.
Father Inwood's Visit to the Land of His Nativity.
FIRST LETTER.

We sailed on the 10th of February, in the Lucerne, of the Arcadian Line, a large ship of 3000 tons burthen, and furnished with every convenience and comfort. This Company have ships sailing to Glasgow and London, which are the largest ships in the Scottish line. It is a great convenience to go to the former port, as they go right up to the business part of the city, while the latter are obliged to lie down the river and be towed up to the docks. We were two days from the time we left New York until we anchored at Greenock—the tide not serving to go up to Glasgow. From Greenock we proceeded to Glasgow by rail, and truly enjoyed seeing the large ships that were built by the Government on the river. Our first impression was one of disappointment in the appearance of the country around Glasgow. The country is almost treeless, save with little trees here and there in the hedges, and in the valleys. The hills were very [illegible] the whole presenting a very [illegible] appearance.

On taking the cars we saw the source of the greatness of the country, as passed the numerous electors of furnaces in active operation, the flaming fires of which presented a fine sight as we passed them on our way to London. The Ancient Lines of measures are all built on the Pipe, and here the beer is made that is used in their construction. The numerous piles of slag around them forcibly illustrate the large business done, and spoiled the look of the country. The rock being so close to the surface it looked as if nothing could grow, but we were soon in darkness as the night shut in, and at daylight we found ourselves in London the largest city in the world, but not nearly as beautiful as the Hudson River station—as it is called in England, or depot in America.

From London we went by daylight to Alton, near my native village. A part of this route is through as rich an agricultural section as there is in England, and between Farnham and Alton is said by Cobbett and others to be the most beautiful drive in England. But here again I was surprised to note the comparatively great extent of waste land from Brighton to Aldershot. It was not only unimproved and uncultivated, but, as I was assured, not capable of it. The Government, however, has utilized this waste land by locating their great military camp at Aldershot; and the London population mostly fuel their last resting place here, as an immense burying ground is laid out on the heath, the extent of which may be judged by the fact that London contains more people than perhaps any two States in the Union, except New York and Pennsylvania.

The immediate change from the fierce excitement of death to the rather agricultural country is the greatest possible contrast. [illegible] one, to note that in this their very best section of country so much timber should be allowed to grow. Along the fences—or, rather, hedges—innumerable trees of elm and oak were growing, shading, and doubtless shortening the crops. All this I knew before, but it did not strike me so forcibly as now. And the country parks were like our American forest, the trees standing until quite rotten and useless, thus literally wasting the value of thousand of pounds in timber annually, to say nothing of the land not being cultivated simply for the beauty of flower and foliage of the horse-chestnut—useless for almost any other purpose.

One of these parks I saw on Sir Thomas Miller's estate, which covered at least 25 square leals of ground, and sloping entirely the picture beneath. But this fell in that, although the timber spoils much land, being the property of the landlord it increases his income—the tenant really paying three rents, 5 cash rent, a timber nuisance, and a game nuisance.

On one farm I saw the lares playing about in open day in the fields, not very shy of the passer-by; and on one of Lord Portsmouth's farms, forty hares were counted in one field. They eat for the crops roads through the standing wheat that they may be trampled in their course. But the seed is contracted with the greatest care and by the best of farmers. The quickset hedge so trimmed down as low as possible, and never as a fence. Around the top gardens, however, the hedges are allowed to run up as high as fifteen feet or more, as a protection against the wind, from which would otherwise break in time. This hop growing is very expensive, costing for manure and cultivation $125 per acre. Still the profits are large some years. This year they yielded from six to ten or fifteen hundred pounds per acre. Ten hundred pounds at 4 cts per lb. deer would be $200 per acre.

But the crop is uncertain—in fact it is a lottery. Some fields in Farnham, after all the care and expense, blighted this year when very small, and were not gathered. One field was destroyed by a hail storm, which pounded the vines so badly that no growth was realized. This year hops were imported from Belgium, for $10 or $12 per hundred, lowering the price to unprofitable rates.

James Inwood.

We have a good assortment of goods that we want to exchange for cash. Any one wishing to exchange in this way can call and see us and we will give you good bargains. See & Washburn.

RETURNED PRISONER.—Lovejoy, who escaped from jail week before last, voluntarily returned to durance vile, on Friday. He claims he did not break jail but that there was no bar to him or those who preceded him from the windows, and he simply stepped out. Lovejoy's time would have been out the 19th of Jan., but we cannot state what course the authorities will pursue in regard to his case. We say punish him, or make him divulge the names of his liberators.

PATRICK INWOOD, on Saturday presented the Church building Committee with a draft for $200. This makes $400 the old gentleman has given. We understand some high in authority are in favor of but partially finishing the interior of the church, and purchasing a bell. As an outsider, who has an interest in our beautiful little chapel, we favor the idea of completing and furnishing the interior as far as funds will allow, even to carpet and chandelier, before the question of a bell is considered.

Carpenter & Barthelmess are selling mixing for six cents per pound and they are the poorest mixins ever offered in this market.

MARRIED.—Another of the famed and nearly extinct family of Smiths has consigned himself to the everlasting sorrows of matrimony. Stephen H. is the victim this time, and Miss Hattie Lincomb, daughter of S. S. Lincomb, of this place, was the bride. She cannot but be happy with one of the name of Smith, and he has in the person of Hattie, an estimable wife. Long life and happiness, with plenty of buckwheat cakes and molasses, is the wish of the editor.

For 10 cts you can buy one pound of extra Japan tea at our store. FOX, Rose & Butters.

GREENBACK CURE.—We have thought for some time that our friend Capt. I. S. Webster was crazy on the greenback question, and now the facts warrant us in the belief. He has talked "greenback" to his neighbors up in Hayes until the delusion has become a mania, and on Saturday evening last the demented gentleman met at the residence of Wm. Ferguson and organized a Club. The following are the officers:

President—Isaac S. Webster,
Vice President—Geo. Cook,
Secretary—Chauncey Hosley,
Treasurer—Thomas Duke.

They held another meeting at the residence of Mr Howe on the evening of the 8th

In Antrim, Nevada, they have actually a public shipping post for the punishment of wife beaters. Now if they only use it liberally, the thing may do some good

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

In the Senate, on the 13th, several bills were introduced, among which was one regulating the distillation and rectification of spirits, and one designating the election of a Delegate from the Indian Territory. A resolution was adopted calling upon the President for information in respect to the Nez Perces War, the pursuit of Joseph, etc. The resolution in regard to the management of the Pacific Railroad was called up and discussed at length by Mr. Whyte and others. The Army Appropriation bill was taken up and referred. Among the amendments offered was one authorizing the Secretary of War to arrange for receiving a bill was introduced in the House, and water transportation of freight and passengers. Resolutions were offered directing inquiry into the expediency of adding those who reside in the Indian Territory to the West, directing the Committee on Banking and Currency to consider the expediency of winding up the National Banks, and providing for the redemption of their circulation. The Deficiency Appropriation bill was passed without discussion. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was then considered. Various amendments were non-concurred in and the bill went back to the Senate. A bill was introduced and referred for the financial relief of the country, and to facilitate the return to specie payment without injuriously affecting the commercial and general interests of and the people. The bill appropriating $150,000 for completing the Capitol Extension was considered in Committee of the Whole.

In the House, on the 15th, a resolution was agreed to calling for information respecting the seizure of logs, lumber, etc., on the public lands in the States of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi. A resolution was adopted calling upon the Secretary of War for information in regard to the New Perces War, the pursuit of Joseph, etc. The resolution in regard to the management of the Pacific Railroad was called up and discussed at length by Mr. Whyte and others. The Army Appropriation bill was taken up and referred. Among the amendments offered was one authorizing the Secretary of War to arrange for receiving a bill was introduced in the House, and water transportation of freight and passengers. Resolutions were offered directing inquiry into the expediency of adding those who reside in the Indian Territory to the West, directing the Committee on Banking and Currency to consider the expediency of winding up the National Banks, and providing for the redemption of their circulation. The Deficiency Appropriation bill was passed without discussion. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was then considered. Various amendments were non-concurred in and the bill went back to the Senate. A bill was introduced and referred for the financial relief of the country, and to facilitate the return to specie payment without injuriously affecting the commercial and general interests of and the people. The bill appropriating $150,000 for completing the Capitol Extension was considered in Committee of the Whole.

A NUMBER of bills were introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 16th. The amendments to the Army Appropriation bill which were non-concurred in by the House were reconsidered, and the bill as amended by the Senate was passed. A resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of three Senators to investigate charges against the members of the Board of Health of the District of Columbia was adopted. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, and a number of amendments were agreed to. The bill was passed in the House, the Army Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, and a number of amendments were agreed to. The bill was passed.

DOMESTIC.

IT is announced, on the authority of Gen. Phil. Sheridan, that the annual reunion of the Army of the Cumberland, which was appointed to be held at Cincinnati, on the 12th and 13th of December next, will be postponed until the completion of the equestrian statue to Gen. Thomas, when it will be held at Washington.

IN New York City, on the 14th, Roscoe L. Case, President of the Security Life and Annuity Insurance Company, was convicted of perjury in swearing to the annual statement of the Company for 1875, and was remanded for sentence.

A FIRE broke out in the large dry-goods establishment of Field, Letter & Co. on State street, Chicago, about eight o'clock on the evening of the 14th. The flames rapidly spread on the fifth floor of the building, and, notwithstanding immediate efforts were made by the Fire Department to extinguish the conflagration, the upper floors of the structure were entirely destroyed, together with the contents. The loss in property was estimated at about $1,000,000. Two firemen were killed and several others seriously injured.

THE cotton returns to the Department of Agriculture, made the first week in November, indicate about 4 percent. reduction of the aggregate of last year, even if future picking should be as favorable as that of 1876.

A TERRIBLE explosion of fire-damp occurred in a colliery near Scranton, Pa., on the morning of the 15th. Several men and boys were severely, and some of them fatally injured.

JUDGE MAGOE, of the Superior Court of Cook County, Ill., has decided that the stockholders of the bankrupt savings bank of Chicago, being individually liable, the money must be paid to the Receivers for the benefit of the banks creditors as a whole.

SEVERAL shocks of earthquake were experienced at Sioux City, Iowa, Omaha, Neb., Topeka and Atchison, Kan., and other Western localities, on the morning of the 15th. Considerable excitement was caused at some points, but no serious damage is reported.

THE Reading (Pa.) Savings Bank, having deposits in the amount of nearly $1,000,000, suspended on the 16th. Liabilities not stated. When this suspension was announced, the banking-house of Bushong & Brother (deposits between $300,000 and $400,000) and the Hine Savings Bank, of the same place, also closed their doors.

DELEGATIONS of the Ponca Indians have recently been at Washington and held interviews with the Government officials. They were informed that they must return to the Indian Territory, but that then might select better land if they do not like their present location. The Indians expressed themselves as resolved to do as instructed by the Department, but were evidently greatly disappointed at the result of the interviews.

THE United States Treasury Department held, on the 17th, $364,750,850 in bonds, to secure the National Bank circulation, and $16,495,500 to secure public deposits. The National Bank circulation outstanding on the same day was: Gold notes, $18,432,733; currency notes, $189,452,516.

A NEW YORK millionaire, named Conrad Poppenhausen, went into voluntary bankruptcy, on the 17th, with liabilities amounting to $5,521,856. The Newark (N. J.) People's Savings Bank suspended on the same day.

DURING morning services at the Church of the Ascension, in Philadelphia, on the 18th, Alexander H. Stevens walked up one of the aisles, drew a pistol, and deliberately shot his wife, who occupied a pew several feet in advance of the one where he had been sitting. The shot was fatal. Sayres was arrested. The parties had been separated for about two years, the husband having served a term in Prison for breaking his wife's arm.

A COTTON-MILL at Fall River, Mass., was destroyed by fire, on the 17th. Loss, $150,000. Employed 425 hands.

IT was reported from Galveston, Tex., on the 17th, that a number of Grangers and Indians had crossed the Rio Grande and made a raid into Texas, capturing several horses and cattle. The United States authorities were defied, and the State troops are said to have been powerless to stop the depredations.

A DESPERADO, named Frank Rande, who, after committing robberies, some three years ago, shot three of his pursuers near St. Elmo, Ill., and killed two and wounded two others in Knox County, was captured, after a desperate resistance, at St. Louis, on the 16th, having been severely wounded by his captors. During the struggle Rande succeeded in fatally wounding Police officer White, who died of his injury on the evening of the 18th.

THE Boston School Board has decided not to permit the co-education of the sexes in the schools of that city. They propose to establish a Girl's Latin School.

THE extensive rubber factory of L. Candee & Co., at New Haven, Conn., was burned on the night of the 18th. It was feared some of the workmen perished in the flames. A minister were injured by jumping from the upper stories of the building. The loss in property was estimated at about $500,000; insurance, $225,000. The company will rebuild at once.

BY the explosion of a can of kerosene in New York, on the 18th, a Mr. Thomas Doran and two children were burned to death.

ACCORDING to a New York telegram of the 19th, counterfeit 10ths, on the Tamaqua (Pa.) National Bank were in circulation to the amount of over $100,000.

THE Confederate monument, completed and ready to erect at Chattanooga, Tenn., was defaced beyond repair, on the night of the 17th, by unknown persons.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

EARLY on the morning of the 14th, the body of Hon. Wm. F. Coolbaugh, President of the Union National Bank of Chicago, was found in the Rock River, near Dixon, Ill. Mr. Coolbaugh, it is said, left home about midnight, and was last seen alive at that hour. He had been in poor health for some time, and had been much depressed in spirits. He was a prominent Republican, and was a delegate to the Chicago Convention which nominated Lincoln and Hamlin. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Northwestern University, and was a liberal contributor to the funds of that institution. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and was a liberal contributor to the funds of that institution. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and was a liberal contributor to the funds of that institution.

A NUMBER of bills were introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 19th. The amendments to the Army Appropriation bill which were non-concurred in by the House were reconsidered, and the bill as amended by the Senate was passed. A resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of three Senators to investigate charges against the members of the Board of Health of the District of Columbia was adopted. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, and a number of amendments were agreed to. The bill was passed in the House, the Army Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, and a number of amendments were agreed to. The bill was passed.

DOMESTIC.

IT is announced, on the authority of Gen. Phil. Sheridan, that the annual reunion of the Army of the Cumberland, which was appointed to be held at Cincinnati, on the 12th and 13th of December next, will be postponed until the completion of the equestrian statue to Gen. Thomas, when it will be held at Washington.

IN New York City, on the 14th, Roscoe L. Case, President of the Security Life and Annuity Insurance Company, was convicted of perjury in swearing to the annual statement of the Company for 1875, and was remanded for sentence.

A FIRE broke out in the large dry-goods establishment of Field, Letter & Co. on State street, Chicago, about eight o'clock on the evening of the 14th. The flames rapidly spread on the fifth floor of the building, and, notwithstanding immediate efforts were made by the Fire Department to extinguish the conflagration, the upper floors of the structure were entirely destroyed, together with the contents. The loss in property was estimated at about $1,000,000. Two firemen were killed and several others seriously injured.

THE cotton returns to the Department of Agriculture, made the first week in November, indicate about 4 percent. reduction of the aggregate of last year, even if future picking should be as favorable as that of 1876.

A TERRIBLE explosion of fire-damp occurred in a colliery near Scranton, Pa., on the morning of the 15th. Several men and boys were severely, and some of them fatally injured.

JUDGE MAGOE, of the Superior Court of Cook County, Ill., has decided that the stockholders of the bankrupt savings bank of Chicago, being individually liable, the money must be paid to the Receivers for the benefit of the banks creditors as a whole.

SEVERAL shocks of earthquake were experienced at Sioux City, Iowa, Omaha, Neb., Topeka and Atchison, Kan., and other Western localities, on the morning of the 15th. Considerable excitement was caused at some points, but no serious damage is reported.

THE Reading (Pa.) Savings Bank, having deposits in the amount of nearly $1,000,000, suspended on the 16th. Liabilities not stated. When this suspension was announced, the banking-house of Bushong & Brother (deposits between $300,000 and $400,000) and the Hine Savings Bank, of the same place, also closed their doors.

DELEGATIONS of the Ponca Indians have recently been at Washington and held interviews with the Government officials. They were informed that they must return to the Indian Territory, but that then might select better land if they do not like their present location. The Indians expressed themselves as resolved to do as instructed by the Department, but were evidently greatly disappointed at the result of the interviews.

THE United States Treasury Department held, on the 17th, $364,750,850 in bonds, to secure the National Bank circulation, and $16,495,500 to secure public deposits. The National Bank circulation outstanding on the same day was: Gold notes, $18,432,733; currency notes, $189,452,516.

A NEW YORK millionaire, named Conrad Poppenhausen, went into voluntary bankruptcy, on the 17th, with liabilities amounting to $5,521,856. The Newark (N. J.) People's Savings Bank suspended on the same day.

DURING morning services at the Church of the Ascension, in Philadelphia, on the 18th, Alexander H. Stevens walked up one of the aisles, drew a pistol, and deliberately shot his wife, who occupied a pew several feet in advance of the one where he had been sitting. The shot was fatal. Sayres was arrested. The parties had been separated for about two years, the husband having served a term in Prison for breaking his wife's arm.

A COTTON-MILL at Fall River, Mass., was destroyed by fire, on the 17th. Loss, $150,000. Employed 425 hands.

IT was reported from Galveston, Tex., on the 17th, that a number of Grangers and Indians had crossed the Rio Grande and made a raid into Texas, capturing several horses and cattle. The United States authorities were defied, and the State troops are said to have been powerless to stop the depredations.

A DESPERADO, named Frank Rande, who, after committing robberies, some three years ago, shot three of his pursuers near St. Elmo, Ill., and killed two and wounded two others in Knox County, was captured, after a desperate resistance, in St. Louis, on the 16th, having been severely wounded by his captors. During the struggle Rande succeeded in fatally wounding Police officer White, who died of his injury on the evening of the 18th.

THE Boston School Board has decided not to permit the co-education of the sexes in the schools of that city. They propose to establish a Girl's Latin School.

THE extensive rubber factory of L. Candee & Co., at New Haven, Conn., was burned on the night of the 18th. It was feared some of the workmen perished in the flames. A minister were injured by jumping from the upper stories of the building. The loss in property was estimated at about $500,000; insurance, $225,000. The company will rebuild at once.

BY the explosion of a can of kerosene in New York, on the 18th, a Mr. Thomas Doran and two children were burned to death.

ACCORDING to a New York telegram of the 19th, counterfeit 10ths, on the Tamaqua (Pa.) National Bank were in circulation to the amount of over $100,000.

THE Confederate monument, completed and ready to erect at Chattanooga, Tenn., was defaced beyond repair, on the night of the 17th, by unknown persons.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

EARLY on the morning of the 14th, the body of Hon. Wm. F. Coolbaugh, President of the Union National Bank of Chicago, was found in the Rock River, near Dixon, Ill. Mr. Coolbaugh, it is said, left home about midnight, and was last seen alive at that hour. He had been in poor health for some time, and had been much depressed in spirits. He was a prominent Republican, and was a delegate to the Chicago Convention which nominated Lincoln and Hamlin. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Northwestern University, and was a liberal contributor to the funds of that institution. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and was a liberal contributor to the funds of that institution.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

UP to Nov. 1, the salt manufactured in the State was 198,501 barrels in excess of that manufactured during the same period last year. The salt-manufacturing season begins on the 1st of December and ends on the 30th of November.

THE First Ward School building, in West Bay City, was totally destroyed by fire on the morning of the 13th. Loss, $7,000.

THE residence of J. L. Holmes, at East Saginaw, was burned, on the evening of the 13th. Loss, $1,500.

TWO BOYS, named Maxfield and Wahl, while skating on a pond, in Manistee, on the 10th, broke through the ice and were drowned before assistance could reach them.

AARON THOMPSON was recently convicted of employing two persons to burn the Advent Church property, and sentenced to five years and six months' imprisonment in the State Penitentiary.

THERE are 241 pupils in the State Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum.

A LADDER, owned Sugner, in Ionthan & Stills' mill, at East Saginaw, was recently caught while oiling, and carried completely over an immense flywheel, receiving fatal injuries.

THE number of feet of logs rafted on the Tittabawassee during the past season was 410,000,000—74,000,000 more than were cut on of the stream last year. The Cass River furnished 250,000,000; Bad, 35,000,000; Rifle, 30,000,000; Au Sable, 65,000,000; total, 660,000,000.

LEVI BISNOP, of Detroit, Attorney for Rose and others in the Unreversity Chancery suit, has lately presented a petition for a rehearing on the ground of newly-discovered evidence. This consists of claimed inconsistencies in Douglass' testimony as given before the Legislative investigating committee and in court; also the discovery of evidence that Rose never paid the checks to Douglas except at settlements, as Dr. Douglas has claimed; that there is new evidence that certain red lines could not have been forged as Douglas claimed, and that Dr. Douglas at one time testified that what are known as wrappers were not full settlements with Rose, and to the trial had testified that they were.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury, Nov. 3, was $445,174.97; receipts during the following Nov. 10 were $34,529.97; payments during same time were $32,230.46; balance in Treasury Nov. 10, 1877, $447,583.45; increase for the week, $2,408.48.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER Bow has lately made a tabulated statement of the business of companies authorized to do business in Michigan. There are 123 of these, of which 2 are Michigan companies, 108 in other States, and 13 in foreign countries.

W. C. RYE, an extensive dealer in dry goods and groceries, at Mercer, has recently suspended.

JOHN POST, sent, two years ago, to the State Prison, for forgery, was pardoned, on the 14th.

THE total shipments of iron from Marquette, L'Anse and Escanaba for the season, up to date, was 268,926 tons, being an increase of 44,248 tons over the shipments for the corresponding period last year. The shipments have almost closed for this year.

A CONFLAGRATION on the value of the exports of the products of the Saginaw Valley for 1877, including lumber, forest products, salt and fish, on the Custom-House reports, to Nov. 1, and estimating for the remaining two months, show that our exports this year will approximate closely to $15,000,000.—Saginaw Courier.

T. G. LIMBOCKER, Auditor of Wayne County, was stricken with apoplexy, a few nights ago, and died shortly after.

A LITTLE daughter of James Arnold, living on the Chippewa Road to Saginaw County, was fatally burned, on the 14th, by the ignition of her clothing while she was standing in front of the kitchen stove.

W. H. HAWES, who claimed to be Postmaster as Barker Creek, Kalkaska County, was arrested at Grand Rapids, on the 15th, with a large quantity of postage-stamps in his possession, which he was selling at a discount. He was turned over to the Government authorities, who, at last accounts, had not decided what to do with him.

GAY RICHARDS, of Walton, in Grand Traverse County, while hunting turkeys, on the 14th, accidentally and fatally shot himself. He died on the morning of the 18th.

ON the 29th of September last, George Watson, resident of Thornapple, Barry County, claimed Frank Leach owed a small sum of money due for services. Lewis pleaded inability to pay, when Watson went to Wayland, procured a gun and ammunition, returned to Lewis' house, made a noise on the fence to call him out, secreted himself behind a pile of wood, and, when Lewis appeared, shot him dead. Watson was tried, and on the 16th the jury rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, and sentenced him to confinement at hard labor in the State Prison, at Jackson, for life.

A GRAND RAPIDS lassie of a genial, jovial old lady who sits up and waits for her husbands all night rose to sunny her neighbors.

WORK on the new canal at the Sault has closed for the season.

IT is reported that a New York firm has leased the railroad eating-houses at Jackson and Marshall for five years, paying therefor $30,000.

J. S. PARMENTER, of Lansing, has a very promising colt for which Nature failed to provide any tail. He can switch the flies off with his foot, but a good deal of difficulty is felt to see how he is going to manage the fines.

JEROME COCOTY has just put to press another edition of his work on Constitutional Limitations. This is the fourth edition at this work.

ON the night of the 16th, near Dimondale, a farmer named Jessup was gored to death by a vicious bull.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per cental, $1 00@1 65; Butter, ₱ lb, 20@22c; Cheese, ₱ lb, 12@13c; Corn, ₱ bu, 40@45c; Flour, White Wheat, $5.50@6.00; Amber, $5.50@6.00; Rye, $3.75@4.00; Cattle, ₱ cental, $3.00@4.50; Hogs, $4.00@5.00; Sheep, $3.75@5.25; Oats, Mixed, ₱ bu, 26@28c; White, 27@30c; Pork, ₱ bbl, $14.00@14.50; Rye, ₱ bu, 56@60c; Wheat, White, $1.06@1.07½; Amber, $1.02@1.03.

Sounding Truths.

Says the Reno (Nev.) Gazette: "Now, we don't expect to check stock gambling in the least, nor have we any desire to interfere with any man's right to bet his money; but there are, it seems to us, a few points upon which we may all agree:

"The sum of family has no right to put the comfort and support of his little ones on a margin in the stock market.

"Stocks that are half bought belong to capitalists.

"A dollar in the store is worth twice the stock margin.

"Every man may own the controlling interest in a home; very few can control mines.

"Shares in a homestead always pay dividends.

"No man can win unless another lose.

"When one investors open gets rich, one hundred get poor. it is always safest to be slow and sure, and let well-enough alone."

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20, 1877.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$10.00	@11.00
Sheep	4.00	@ 4.25
Hogs	4.80	@ 4.95
FLOUR—Good to Choice	6.00	@ 6.85
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	1.03½	@ 1.03½
CORN—Western Mixed	53	@ 53½
OATS—Western Mixed	34	@ 35
RYE—Western	75	@ 76
PORK—Mess	15.00	@15.25
LARD—Steam	10.10	@ 10.20
CHEESE	10	@ 13½
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	37	@ 38

CHICAGO

BEEVES—Extra	$5.25	@ $5.50
Choice	4.80	@ 5.15
Good	4.25	@ 4.75
Medium	3.50	@ 3.75
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	4.50	@ 4.75
SHEEP—Common to Choice	2.75	@ 4.00
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	30	@ 32
Good to Choice	26	@ 28
EGGS—Fresh	20	@ 22
FLOUR—Choice Winter	7.00	@ 7.25
Spring	6.75	@ 7.00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Spring	1.00	@ 1.00
No. 3	90	@ 90
Corn—No. 2	45	@ 45½
Oats—No. 2	29	@ 29½
Barley—No. 2	54	@ 57
BROOM CORN—Choice Hurl	6½	@ 7
Good	5½	@ 6
Stock and Cow's	3½	@ 4
Crooked	3½	@ 4
PORK—Mess	14.75	@14.87½
LARD	12.15	@ 12.20
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10.00	@ 11.00
Shingles	2.50	@ 2.60
Lath	1.75	@ 2.00

CATTLE—Best	$5.12½	@5.87½
Good	4.75	@ 5.00
Medium	4.10	@ 4.25
Common	3.75	@ 4.00
HOGS—Yorkers	4.75	@ 4.80
Medium	4.65	@ 4.70
SHEEP—Best	4.25	@ 4.50
Common	3.60	@ 4.00

Sitting Bull Tells the Story of the Custer Massacre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.

SITTING BULL has been talking with a correspondent and telling the story of "The Custer Massacre." He says:

"The fight was hell. A thousand devils—the squaws—were like flying birds; the bullets like humming-bees. We fought; we were whipped; not at first, but by and by. Afterward too. Your people were killed. I tell no lies about them. These men who came with Long Hair (Custer) were as good men as ever fought. When they rode up their horses were tired and they were tired. When they got off their horses they could not stand nearly on their feet. They swayed to and fro, so my young men have told me, like blades of cypresses in a great wind. Some of them staggered under the weight of their guns, but they began to fight at once. But by this time our camps were aroused, and there were plenty of warriors to meet them. They fired with needle guns. We replied with magazine guns—repeating rifles." Sitting Bull illustrated by putting his palms together with the rapidity of a fusillade. "Your young men rushed across the river and drove the white braves back, and then rushed across themselves and when they found that they had a good deal to do, then the trouble was with the soldiers. They were exhausted, and their horses bothered them so much, they would not take good aim. Some of their horses broke away from them, and left them to stand and fight on foot. All the men fell back, fighting and dropping. They could not fire fast enough though. They kept in pretty good order. They would fall back across a cuulie and make a fresh stand hegand, on higher ground. There were a great many brave men in that fight, and from time to time we could see that it was going on, they were shot down like pigs. They could not help themselves. One of the officers fell where the last I saw took place, where the last stand was made. The Long Hair stood like a sheaf of corn with all the ears fallen around him.

"'Not wounded?'

"'No.'

"'How many stood by him?'

"'A few.'

"'When did he fall?'

"'He killed a man when he fell. He laughed.'

"'You mean he cried out?'

"'No; he laughed. He had first his last shot.'

"'From a carbine?'

"'No; a pistol.'

"'Did he stand up after he first fell?'

"'He rose up on his hands and tried another shot, but his pistol would not go off.'

"'Was anyone else standing up when he fell dead?'

"'One man was kneeling—that was all; but he died before the Long Hair.'

"'How do you say?' There were only squaws, old men and boys in front of Reno, keeping him in his strong position on the bluff and preventing him giving aid to Custer.

Sounding Truths.

Says the Reno (Nev.) Gazette: "Now, we don't expect to check stock gambling in the least, nor have we any desire to interfere with any man's right to bet his money; but there are, it seems to us, a few points upon which we may all agree:

"The sum of family has no right to put the comfort and support of his little ones on a margin in the stock market.

"Stocks that are half bought belong to capitalists.

"A dollar in the store is worth twice the stock margin.

"Every man may own the controlling interest in a home; very few can control mines.

"Shares in a homestead always pay dividends.

"No man can win unless another lose.

"When one investors open gets rich, one hundred get poor. it is always safest to be slow and sure, and let well-enough alone."

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

A COUNTRY THANKSGIVING-SERMON.

As I meditate, close the great barn door!
The mellow harvest time is over;
The cattle has given her treasures free:
Of golden corn I garded wheat.

You and your neighbors well have wrought,
And of the summer bounty caught;

Won from his smiles and from her tears
Much goods, perhaps, for many years.

You come a tailor's note to pay
The ladies crochet Thanksgiving-Day.

Well have you worn, well have you reaped
And of the riches you have heaped

You think, perhaps, that you will give
A call that others, too, may live.

But if such argument you use
You missed loudly I refuse.

So with you on the other leg
Of my sermon you will beg!

Go! rings from Heaven a voice abroad:
Who helps God's poor shall the lord Lord!'

What is your wealth? 'Tis have you know,
To lend to Him who owns it now.

Think you the land by Heaven struck hard
Will yet have power to clutch its gold?

Bounds have no pockets, do they say?
Behold! Like a shroud it rolls away.

Let be that giveth of his hand
To help the poor and needy lands.

For every pane that stops the wind
There shineth one with paper lined.

Your wealth is poor, your form fine cold,
But in the Only person with gold!

Your hoard is held by Hands Divine,
It hears a sauce that knows it thine.

Behold the bargain we have made
With many the land is paid.

So much doth eat, so thieves do steal,
So wasting frost doth carry off.

The scattered dust that we have given
Is gathered by your God in Heaven.

Ring out the words. Who of his hoard
Aids help God's poor shall help the Lord!

Go, and your cargoes under way.
The bells rings ring out Thanksgiving-Day!

—Miller's Inter-Ocean.

REGETTA'S THANKSGIVING.

"I wish there wasn't any Thanksgiving day; I just do."

"Why do you wish that, Regetta?"

"Just because I like to; reasons to-day, and things to-day and to-ent, and such a time with cooking!"

"Is that all?"

Dotty stopped slicing citron for a moment, and stood looking off through the window toward the gray clouds and the shivering trees, but was not thinking of either of them.

"All? Deary me! that's enough Pies and cakes and all sorts of things to help make, and baking and boiling to do; and, as I'm the baking part, I do not see much to thank for about stewing at a cook-stove, or cleaning up the kitchen afterwards. Mother says Thanksgiving, for people get pretty worn after the cooking is over, but Thanksgiving—some people might like it who had something to be thankful for, but I"—and she passed her brown hair on one side, and threw the raisins she had been picking, with a jerk, into the bowl waiting to receive them, and shut over the table and the flour; for about could be expected but that the raisins would fly about when they were being tossed in such a fashion?

"Did you ever see the like of pie? Regetta continued again.

"Doesn't your father get the wood?" inquired Regetta, looking up, as she knelt on one knee, giving the last poke to the log with which she was replenishing the fire.

"There is nobody but us; father is dead."

"I'm Stryker is good to cut and haul wood; that's what your mother got him to do it? Are your wounds mear?"

"Judge Swift lets us go to his woods for fagots and things; you know we have no woods; and, as to mother getting anybody, why, mother has us, you know."

"Barbary Brennan—that is your name, isn't it?—got one?"

"Yes, and she says that, of all the things she has to be thankful for, she is most thankful for us."

"I shouldn't be if it is your kitchen at the old Swift Lodge, that is all the job I down but one room?"

"Yes."

"And your mother broke her arm?"

"Why, yes, but it is her left arm; think how much worse it might have been had it been the right. Mother says that mercies are all the time coming to her."

"Does your mother wear spectacles?"

"No; yes—sometimes," looking up, wondering!y.

"I thought so, for it must take big glasses to see her mercies."

"I don't know, but mother says she will have to be thankful for a great deal to-morrow; but I was forgetting: mother has heard all about your brother who is sick, and is very sorry for him; she sent these herbs to make a tea, and a paper to tell how he must take the tea, she is sure it will make him better."

Regetta stood with the herbs in her hands, as the little figure turned to the door, the wind howling roarin'y outside, and the grass rustling and moaning as if in pain.

"Gretta did see mercies and was, for sure and certain, giving thanks. George Klingle, in N. Y. Observer.

A Clever Swindle.

The perpetrators of a late and very clever swindle are alleged to be an old and young man whose names have not been ascertained, and who obtained in the interest of their operations the loan from North Carolina. They visited a leading commission house and proposed to consign to the charge of agents of turpentine and like products which was then lonking at a great place in North Carolina, but on the ground they not being found on a map of that State, promised some confusion and the would-be consignees did not like to prosecute their business with that firm, but with Charles Smith & Co., 7 Central wharf, where, it is asserted, Mr. Smith agreed to receive the cargo on consignment. The sharpers said they wanted no money, but only a chance to dispose of the goods.

It, a few days, or about a fortnight ago, the firm received a letter postmarked North Carolina, containing a bill of lading for 150 barrels of turpentine and a quantity of tar, and the information that it had cleared for Boston. The next move was for the young man to install himself at Smith's office as his headquarters. He would drop in at all hours, opened every morning, read the papers, talk a little and depart. Four or five days after the receipt of the bill of lading the young man was in the office as usual, reading the papers, when he suddenly exclaimed: "Ah, our vessel has arrived, Lewis, with a cargo consigned to Charles Smith & Co.," apparently reading from the paper. None of the firm took pains to inquire where or such a vessel had arrived or not. The next day a gentlemanly looking and apparently a seafaring man came into the office and announced himself as the Captain of the vessel. He drew from his pocket a huge pocket-book, well filled and produced a bill of lading exactly similar to the one received by mail. The Captain said he had a dockload of lumber which he would discharge at Chelsea and immediately return and put in at a neighboring wharf.

The driving rain outside again presented an investigation or an examination of the truth or falsity of the statements made. Now was the time to strike, and the young man in the bland tones suggested that an advance on the cargo would be acceptable. Report does not say how much he got, but pinces the figure above $4,000, the truth or falsity of which statement could not be learned. At all events, the young man was seen no more, and after four or five days of suspense search was made for the vessel, but no trace of it could be found, and the firm said to admit that had been cleverly done."—Boston Journal.

The Recent Earthquake in Albany, N. Y.

Albany was visited by an earthquake yesterday morning at 1.55 o'clock. This will be news to some of our citizens, while to others it will not, as a great many were awakened from their slumbers by the shock. It appears to have been very severe in no particular portion of the city, for we have been informed by persons living at opposite quarters of the city that they distinctly felt the motion of the earth. A great many persons were aroused from their beds by what they supposed to be an explosion, and smartland persons were greatly concerned for their personal safety. Persons who felt the shock describe it as a sort of an inflating motion, those who experienced it while in bed feeling as though their couch was swayed gently to and fro. At the Penitentiary the shock is said to have been particularly severe. A number of residents who felt it quickly dressed and ran to the nearest station-house and informed the police, supposing that a great explosion of some sort had occurred. At the residence of Mr. John Greer, No. 59 Ten Brook street, several of the walls were cracked, and the pictures hanging thereon very perceptibly disarranged. At other localities in the city the same effects were produced, though no serious damage is known to have resulted. It is a singular fact in connection with the phenomenon, that a number of persons who were in the habit of the time did not know of its occurrence or experienced no effects, while others who were in their houses were shocked. Sergt. Doran, of the Fourth Precinct, states that he was in the station-house at the time, engaged in writing on the slate, when the earthquake occurred, and the slate and desk were so perceptibly shaken that he was compelled to desist until it had passed. He did not imagine at the time what was the cause of the disturbance.

The shock, though very perceptible, was not as severe as that of Oct. 20, 1875, at 11.15 a. m., when the city was similarly visited. The earthquake at that time lasted about one minute, and employees in various public and manufacturing buildings fled for their lives into the streets, supposing that the buildings were about to be destroyed. No damage of any moment resulted at that time, however. Clock pendulums swinging north and south at that moment were made to swing east and west, showing that the earthquake was passing in an eastward direction. —Albany Argus.

A Terrible Negress.

Something occurred in the Republic case bordering recently which was decidedly funny, and which created at first not a little excitement. A woman entered the hall leading to the elevator, the door of which was open, and stepped in under the impression, as unfortunately appeared, that it led to another series of steps. As she entered, the elevator-boy, as a matter of course, passed the door and started the elevator, as he did so and the concern began moving upward, he became in an instant the worst startled boy in all St. Louis. That colored woman leaped to the floor and glared at the walls gliding past, and, with a terrific scream, hurled herself at the transom over the door, failing to get through, she plunged about the elevator in every direction emitting shrieks long enough and loud enough to wake the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus. People rushed from the different floors to the elevator way under the impression that a ghastly tragedy was going on in the daylight. People ran in from the street to be present at, if not to prevent, the scene of blood. For a terrible moment. Meanwhile the frightened embodiment had reversed his convenances and reached the bottom again, where he flung open the door with an exactly remarkable—at least in an elevator-boy. The colored woman bounded out like a shot still shrieking with double-power now, and never ceased her yells until out on the sidewalk and in safe distance from the infernal machine. Then her expressions of gratitude at her remarkable escape were touching. "Dey didn't catch here in dere trap for take push me down by dere dissectin'-room! No, sah! Bress de Lord!" And she started off down the street, fully convinced that she had just missed a horrible death and subsequent cutting-up.—St. Louis Republican.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The poet, John G. Whittier, will soon be seventy years old.

—Victoria Woodhull is a failure in England as a lecturer, and intends to try the stage.

—It is reported that Senator McDonald, of Indiana, will soon be married to a widow, who is now a clerk in the Treasury Department.

—Ex-Gov Abner Coburn, of Maine, is said to be the largest Panhandler in America. He owns 200,000 acres, a large part of which are in Canada and at the West.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes does his literary work with a broad gold pen fitted into a quill handle—a pen that he has used for twenty years. He writes three hours daily in the morning.

—Ex-United States Senator Lyman Trumbull, who has been a widower for some years, surprised the country by a coup d'etat, the other day. He went down to Connecticut and was quietly married there.

—During the sickness of Senator Morton, Dr. Thompson, his physician, received remedies from all parts of the country, each sender being convinced that his or her remedy would be certain to cure by giving tone to the Senator's stomach so that it would retain food.—N. Y. Post.

—The piano factory fire in New York, a few weeks ago, destroyed the gold and silver refining works of Geo. Frenzel, which had taken much of his means and was nearly ready to start. This financial crippling was what made necessary the recent sale of his houses and effects.

—The death of John Bell, of Tennessee, reminds some one that of all the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates before the people in 1860—but seventeen years ago—only two are alive, Hannibal Hamlin and Herschel V. Johnson. Lincoln, Douglas, Breckenridge and Lane, and Bell and Everett are all dead.

—It is said that the reason assigned by the venerable Archbishop French, of Dublin, for never permitting stereotype plates to be made of his little books on the English language, is, that he may have the opportunity of revising each edition before it goes to press, in order to keep the books abreast of the philology of the day.

—Among Dickinson was once reconnoitering in a peculiar way, to Henry Wilson, for a while Vice President, was at about reflecting that the young lady right not accept him, expressed his views of the matter in much of her, and that she would probably always be longing for a career of her own.—Chicago Tribune.

—Miss Randolph, the great-grandaughter of Thomas Jefferson, has many anecdotes concerning her famous ancestry, among those is the tale of a great aunt, who once remarked naively of her husband: "Sure, he's the greatest man that ever lived; he never even comes into a room without looking through the keyhole first to know if he'll be welcome."

The aged Elijah Birge, of Windsor Locks, Conn., is the last survivor of a party of routine arrangement entered into between several unmarried brothers and sisters many years ago. When one died the survivors inherited all the deceased's property. Thus, and by profitable investment, Mr. Birge's estate has accumulated to over $100,000, beside the large amounts he has given away to charitable and other objects.

More Direct Importation.

It is now a little over seven years since the Congress of the United States passed a law providing for direct importation of foreign paris, partly by land. Before that time all imports had to pay duty at the place where they left the water. New York and the East generally opposed the new law bitterly. The then Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Boutwell, was unfavorable to it. But it finally passed. For its passage special credit is due to Hon. N. B. Judd, of this city. After its passage it was for some time as hampered by restrictions and departmental rules as to be a dead letter, very nearly; but it is now in good working order, doing great good to interior cities. But it fails very far short of accomplishing, as it now stands, all the benefits the system is capable of conferring upon the public.

A movement is being made to secure such supplemental action on the part of Congress as experience has shown to be necessary. The cities designated in the original to be vested with the privilege of transportation in bond, beside the seaport towns of the Atlantic and Pacific, are eight cities of the interior, namely: Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Louis

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, - 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Nov. 30, 1877

We have had two notable weddings here this week, one of which came off with immense eclat, and under the most joyful auspices, while the other was surrounded with some extremely painful circumstances. On Wednesday night Miss Adele Vanderbilt, third daughter of the richest man in America, was married amid the blaze of gas light, the perfume of flowers, the boom of the organ and the congratulations of distinguished friends, to a young and wealthy gentleman of Boston. The ceremony was performed at one of the fashionable uptown churches, which despite the precautionary measures which had been taken, was crowded to suffocation with a curious throng, while outside surged a multitude which could only be numbered by thousands. The display of jewels and rich attire both here and at the subsequent reception were what might be expected from the wealth and position of the parties. Mr. Vanderbilt's bridal present to his daughter consisted, in part at least, of half a million dollars and an elegant house on the avenue. The trousseau was said to be one of the richest ever brought into this country. The bridal dress was on exhibition for some time previous to the wedding, and was the admiration and the envy of the whole feminine community.

The other and less fortunate marriage to which I have referred is not even generally known to have occurred, and this in spite of the fact that the young lady involved is the daughter of one of the oldest, richest and best known dry goods merchants of the country. She is headstrong, pretty and seventeen, and having become the victim of an unaccountable infatuation for a floor walker in her father's establishment, was induced to consent to a clandestine union of which the indignant parents only learned as the ill assorted pair were about starting for Europe. The bridegroom in this case is represented as an unintelligent and unprepossessing man forty years the senior of his attractive bride, and the intelligence of this deplorable mesalliance was a terrible blow to the family of the latter. Such is the influence of the father that no mention of the affair has crept into the papers, and the facts in the case are only now beginning to leak out. Whatever may be the rage of the young girl's relations, the venerable and pedigreed if not wealthy seems to be in for a good thing, the bride being the fortunate possessor of a million dollars in her own right; and whether she cleaves to him or leaves him, he will doubtless get a good portion of the sum.

It has very likely been a matter of as much wonder among your own readers as among New Yorkers, that up to this time, over a year since the close of the Centennial, the official reports of the judges of awards have not as yet been published; and that meanwhile competing exhibitors have gone on with their advertising, in which such claims to have received the highest honors. So far has this gone among the piano manufacturers that the judges of "group Twenty five" have been forced in self defense to make a definite statement of the facts in this case. Such a written statement unanimously signed, has been given and published in which it is unqualifedly set forth that the Steinway instruments were decided to be the best in the exhibition, and furthermore that the verdict persistently advertised by another New York maker has been materially changed since it was written, and that it was never signed by the judges even in its original form. According to the system pursued in rating pianos, perfection in every point and in every style would have been indicated by the number 96. I have myself seen the official figures in this case, and they give Steinway 95¼ out of this possible 96, while the next highest received a total of 99 3-4. This statement, the authenticity of which cannot be denied even by the most reckless competitor, has fallen like a bombshell; and the explosion has alienated, for the time, at least, the many soothed claims to the first position as far as the Centennial is concerned.

In the case of the famous trial of long ago, as is still progressing, though for what purpose, unless it is to bear the necessity of a subject, can seem to explain. A couple of days ago they got Ingersoll the clairvoyant on the stand. He is a sleek, quiet dyed little man, who looks as placid and unconcerned as though his conscience was always at peace. In the course of his testimony Ingersoll was asked how much he had been instrumental in defrauding the city out of; to which he replied several millions of dollars. On being asked how much property he now had, he "supposed about here and a hundred thousand or so." His questioner next asked whether he wished to make since restitution as he could to the city, to which he replied answered in a spiritual way "By no means." This question was repeated in various forms but was always met with the same reply, namely, that he had stolen what he could, and proposed to keep it if possible. Another interesting piece of information elicited from Ingersoll was that Connolly's chief-gant mansion, which cost $140,000, was not only entirely paid for with the city's money, but that Tweed, Sweeny and even Connolly himself actually paid themselves the same commissions on this outlay as on all others. This little reminiscence was scrupulously amusing to the parties concerned that the witness together with tweed and Woodward who were present laughed long and heartily over it. The brazen effrontery of these self confessed thieves is something truly magnificent.

It is a long while since we have had in any of our harbors the sort of sensation they now have at Bristol, Rhode Island, where a very fast vessel lying under the guns of a government ship in order to prevent her departure at all hazards. In the present case it is alleged that the Estelle built ostensibly as a yacht, and said to have great speed, is really fitted for a voyage to Cuba to carry arms to the insurgents. As the charge is made by the Spanish Minister, whose duty it is to watch cases of this nature, there is probably good ground for it. Some Cubans have been in this city, for sometime quietly getting recruits and munitions of war for the purpose both civil and but for the accidental discovery of the plan would have been off in safety by this time.

At the New York Aquarium is a mischievous monkey called "Sullivan." The other day, when the visitors were all gone, he was allowed the freedom of the building. He nimbly ran up one of the pillars, and amused himself by dangling head downwards from the tree work. This pleased him for a short time only; for, with a spring, he lighted upon a statue of Venus which stood up on a shelf immediately above the seat. His weight and the velocity toppled it over, and Sullivan and Venus arrived at the sea bank together. The statue unfortunately fell upon "Sully," one of the trained seals, causing a fracture of his skull and killing him almost instantly. Sullivan was arrested and locked up. It is doubtful whether he will be released on bail till after the coroner's inquest.

Although the practice of cremation does not seem to spread with the rapidity which was predicted for it by its would be restorers, occasional burnings of the bodies of the dead continue to take place. One day last week a German chemist of this city having lost his week old baby by death, determined to cremate the body, which was done with the aid of a furnace in his factory, and the ashes placed in a silver urn. The Health Department seemed hostile to the proceedings, for there being no law or ordinance covering the case, nothing has been done about it.

RADIX.

Postage stamps are manufactured at a cost of about one cent per hundred.

The post trader who went West some time ago with the avowed determination to "cut down of the d——l Indians," has just come home with Apache on the seat of his pantaloons.

It is eighteen hundred and odd years since a Christian pathfinder named Paul wrote to one Timothy: "I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence." And now as many as twenty nine women are advertised in the Chicago papers as conducting religious services and preaching on a single Sunday.

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart? Have you Dizziness of the Head? Is your Nervous System depressed? Does your Blood circulate badly? Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c., &c. All of these and many more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. BAKER'S ANTIDOTE PYLORUS is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,000,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people on a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first class Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required. Address, ROBERT TAGGART,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, elm and other wood, and are accessible to best market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great Grain raising section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the centre of the grand
The part of Michigan in which these lands are located is

Not a Wilderness by any Means

It contains a population of two hundred and fifty thousand souls, and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

Send for our Illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. H. HUGHART,
Commissioner.
Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,
Carpeting,
Oil Cloths,
Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval and an orders either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market; Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashmeres, black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever [illegible] and sell, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

GREAT EXCITEMENT!!

—AT—

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN EXAMINING THEIR IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS JUST RECEIVED! THEY DON'T QUOTE PRICES ON A FEW CHEAP GOODS, BUT SELL

Everything AT BOTTOM RATES!

Remember the Place!

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Charlevoix, Nov. 20, 1877.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LINCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich.

All kinds of repairing of watches clocks and jewelry promptly attended to at reasonable rates.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and has received two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods,
CIOthing,
Hats, Caps
And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and in vue for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolie

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEAD

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC, ETC

ADDRESS

WILLARD A SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous,

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SEEDS, CIGARS, CANNED GOODS FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

We carry the largest stock of tea cers in the state. Orders for [illegible] 1876 &c., filled from [illegible] at least prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(92) (6,1y.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$5.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$5.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. R. BALCH,
Bennonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS BILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a first class Meat Market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Togeth from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which season meritable of Specific Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

for Printers,

News, Book and Job Inks of unsurpassed of Superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made 52 tf.

EXCELSIOR
PRINTING INK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS,
(Formerly of London, England,
184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO
And 19 Barclay Street, New York.

Light Buttgyed.

Thursday Dec 1, 1877

Thanksgiving—

Times are not very lively here. Business is very dull, and we would like to see it improve but we still live, move and have our being. Our new school house is completed, which is a credit to the district, and the best one in the county. Mr. Young, our school teacher, is a good one. He will have charge of the school for the winter, but has moved into a room near the school house. It seems rather lonesome to us to see you look to Grass on Monday, the 3d. We will have no grass to be sold.

S. B. Skinner has recently received his new house. It is pronounced first class and well finished.

Mr. Barnes' saw mill has been running for some time, and is turning out a good quantity of lumber.

The farmers have been taking advantage of the "Indian summer" to do up their plowing, and other fall work.

The Grangers held a meeting Saturday evening, and a lively meeting they made it, going on the principle of "a place for everything and everything in its place" as it should be. An oyster supper was held at the same place on the evening preceding. It is pleasing to see all so well pleased and happy. Music and dancing terminated the evening's entertainment.

Yours truly, B. B. P.

The people of Charlevoix, Mich., to the number of several thousand, gathered on the 15th inst. to witness the launching of the Whitewater, Wis., for that very purpose—the donation of a magnificent Pulpit and Communion Service to the Red Cherub church in Charlevoix. Indeed nothing could be more acceptable and timely. It is another strong link to the chain of pleasant remembrances of the good people of Whitewater, and I hope one so many pleasant associations for our village and county during the past three years.

Published by request of many citizens.

Try the snowflake dress goods, only one shilling per yard at our store.

Fox, Rose & Buttrick.

From the Tribune we learn that a little girl four or five years old, a daughter of John Scott, who lives a few miles from Northport, was fatally burned on last Tuesday. It seems that the girl, in company with her little brother, was playing with or near a stove to which had access her father was at work, when in some way her clothes caught fire, and before her father, who rushed to her assistance, could extinguish the flames, the child was so badly burned that she soon died. Mr. Scott and his family have our heartfelt sympathy in the loss of their child.

If you want a nice piece ground spoken for by Carpenter & Bartholomew.

Notice—sealed proposals will be received by the school board of District No. 1 Village of Charlevoix, until Saturday, Dec. 8th 1877, 12 o'clock m., for the furnishing of 60 cords of sawed body maple wood 20 inches long, to be delivered at the school house in said Village, on or before the 1st day of March 1878. Said proposals may be left at the office of the Director or at the store of Byron Sec. Assessor, and the right is reserved to reject any or all bids. By order of the Board.

J. Mrs Eliza Trustee.

For Sale.—The east half of the south west fractional quarter of section 29, Town 33 north, Range 7 West, 80 acres, known as the Kelly farm. Price $8.00 per acre. Address Superintendents of the Poor, Clarinouth, Mich.

The Canadians had best their claim against this country, on the frivolous pretext of the Washington treaty, at about the amount of the award to the United States in the case of the Alabama claims. They evidently hoped to get even on that way. But they only received about one third, the Commission awarding them $5,500,000. The verdict is a surprise to Americans, an enormous award of cash half, but it will be acquiesced in and cheerfully complied with.

The Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle says: The timber used in the Comstock mines is $27,000 a day; the firewood mostly consumed by the steam engines, $6,000; candles burned in the mines, $10,000; the quicksilver lost, $2,000, and the ice needed to cool the water for drinking in the hot mines, $2,000, a day. The Consolidated Virginia alone uses ice daily worth $180."

The Philadelphia Times in Commissioner Sawyer Edmunds, to prevent such evils in the future, proposes to make postage stamps and stamped envelopes payable only to Deputy Postmaster, or other persons appointed by the United States, the Post Office Department, or the Postmaster General, with postage stamps or stamped envelopes, shall sell or dispose of the same otherwise than in the regular course of official business, at three per cent advance for cash on delivery. It also proposes that any Postmaster or other person who shall receive the credit for the proceeding section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. In addition, the bill requires the following affidavit to be executed and attached by Postmasters and Deputy Postmasters to each of the quarterly returns of the following form:

I, ——, Postmaster (or Deputy Postmaster) at ——, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have not, directly or indirectly, by myself or through any other person, in any manner, used any of the postage stamps or stamped envelopes received by me as Postmaster (or Deputy Postmaster) for the purpose of paying any debt or demand against myself or any other person, or for the purpose of exchanging the same for money, or for any other purpose than the payment of postage thereon, and that I have not, directly or indirectly, sold or disposed of any of said postage stamps or stamped envelopes, except in the regular course of official business.

Subscribed and attested

Traverse City Herald

Is for sale on Dec. 1, 1877

[illegible]

Those are not very lively jobs, but that attorney very well, and we would ask the privilege to do the work if they move, and have our being. Our new school house is completed, with the exception of a few seats, and will commence our school in it. It will be opened for the winter term by schools Mr. Young, who will have charge of the school for the winter. Has just moved into a house near the school house. If parents can conveniently, young ones to attend on Monday, the 3d. We will have a large school in his work.

Mr. L. Wick has had his corn ground his own house. It is very tasty and neat in all its fittings.

Mr. James Cornwell has been doing some logging this fall and is drawing out a good lot of logs.

The roads have been rather sloppy for the time of year, but other fall work is backward.

The Grange met a full meeting at Mr. Bates last Saturday evening. The grade system commences in the school at Barnard. An library and organ was held at the same place on the evening preceding. It was largely attended and all seemed lively and social. Music was furnished by Hopkins's Band, and of course it was excellent. More anon.

Yours truly, B E P.

The people of Charlevoix, Mich., in town meeting assembled, passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, Our esteemed fellow citizen, Hon. Wm. L. Webber, has been appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the Grand Rapids District, and

Whereas, We, the citizens of Charlevoix, Mich., desire to express our appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by his appointment to said office, and our confidence in his ability to discharge the duties thereof with fidelity and honor to himself and the country; therefore

Resolved, That we tender to our fellow citizen our congratulations upon his appointment to said office, and assure him of our confidence in his ability to discharge the duties thereof with fidelity and honor to himself and the country.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to Hon. Wm. L. Webber, and that they be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel.

Carried unanimously.

The Cadillac News had fixed their claim against this country, on the Alabama question, at one fifth of the Washington treaty, although the amount of the award to the United States in the case of the Alabama claims. They will ably hoped to get even in that way, but they only received about one ninth, the Commission refusing them $8,500,000. The verdict is a surprise to Americans, as enormous award has been made, but it will be accepted and cheerfully complied with.

The Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle says: "The timber used in the Comstock mines cost $17,000 a day; the hoisting, mostly consumed by the steam engines, $6,000; candles burned in the mines, $10,000; the quicksilver lost, $2,000, and the ice needed to cool the water for drinking in the hot levels, $700 a day. The Commissioner's wages alone are daily worth $180."

The talismanic word on Saturday in Saint Edmunds, to prevent access to the select postage stamps and stamped envelopes, received by the United States Post Office Department, or the Postmaster General by the United States, the Post Office Department, or the Postmaster General, with postage stamps or stamped envelopes, shall sell or dispose of the same otherwise than in the regular course of official business, at their face value and for cash on delivery. It also provides that any Postmaster or other person who shall violate the provisions of the preceding section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. It concludes by the bill requires the bonding officials to be ordered bail and attached by Postmasters and Deputy Postmasters to enable them to the quarterly returns of their business to accurate and satisfactory. I have read the bill carefully, and I consider it a very good one.

The Board of Canvassers of the Grand Lodge of Michigan, I. O. O. F., met in Detroit, Tuesday, 20th, and canvassed the vote cast for grand officers at the June meeting of the Grand Lodge. The count showed that the following officers were elected:

G. M.—E. H. Thompson, Flint.
D. G. M.—J. M. Sevens, Marshall.
G. W. S.—D. H. Holden, Grand Rapids.
G. Sec'y.—E. H. Whitney, Ionia.
G. Treas.—E. H. Morrison, Sturgis.
Grand Rep.—D. B. Ivey, Detroit.

The Khedive of Egypt has decided that hereafter the cat-o'-nine-tails will be used in that country.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 50 cents. For sale by druggists. W. CHESTER.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Parker, against Joseph H. Hall, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 3,[illegible] dated August 21, 1874, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 32, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Thomas Hall, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. [illegible], dated Feb. 18, 1874, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 32, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. [illegible], dated August 21 1874, upon the S. ½ of section 31, Township 31 North, R 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. [illegible], dated August 21 1874, upon the S. ½ of section 31, Township 31 North, R 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. [illegible], dated August 21 1874, upon the S. ½ of section 31, Township 31 North, R 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

[illegible]

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

[illegible]

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH.

L A V
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich
—
Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.
—
Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.
—
Collections a Speciality
—
Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.
—
From thousands of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low rates. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intervale and Pine Lake—and are included in school District, and located on good roads.
For terms and descriptions apply to or address
E. H. GREEN
Box Lake Agency
Antrim Co. Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed and delivered on the seventeenth day of November A. D. 1875, by Elijah Hyde, of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Mortimer S. Mann as of said county and state, and recorded in the office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876, at 9 o'clock p. m. in Liber [illegible] of Mortgages on page [illegible], on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, by virtue of which default and the statute in such case made and provided, the power to sell contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no suit or proceedings at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, has been taken or instituted.
Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877, at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the costs, charges and attorney fee as provided for in said mortgage, will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the west door of the County House in the township of Charlevoix, that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was held for said County within which said premises to be sold are situated.
Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and are known and described as follows: The Northwest quarter of Section Twenty in Township Thirty-three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to United States survey.
Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.
MORTIMER J. STRONG, Mortgagee.
E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
Traverse City, Mich. Printer's fee $17.15.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Charles Smith, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. [illegible], dated April 15, 1875, upon the east ½ of section 28, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Charles Smith, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. [illegible], dated April 15, 1875, upon the east ½ of section 28, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Charles Smith, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. [illegible], dated April 15, 1875, upon the east ½ of section 28, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

In short notice. All kinds of pattern forms of all sizes kept.
MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, Jan. 14, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Domestic Canned Goods.
68 Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(dmtw)

Order of Publication.
STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.
Peter Teegoh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Aldrich and Mary S. Alison, defendants.

Said pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the office of Complainant, on county, on the 9th day of May A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants, Robert Aldrich and Mary S. Alison are not residents of this State, but reside in the City of Milwaukee, in the State of Wisconsin, on motion of Complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that the appearance of the said defendants be entered within four months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer or demur to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy thereof, or on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said defendants, and that in case of their appearance as aforesaid, they cause their answer or demurrer to be duly published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, once in each week for four successive weeks in succession or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.
H. HARRIS,
Circuit Judge.
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
Dated [illegible]

NOTICE.
U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Parker, against Ezekiel Briggs, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. [illegible], dated [illegible], upon the S. ½ of section 31, Township 31 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, and the undersigned, the Register and Receiver of said office, will be present at said office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of hearing testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop
—
All kinds of
Light and Heavy HARNESS,
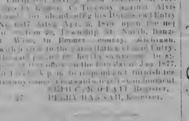
—
REPAIRING
—
Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.
—
Upholstering a Specialty
—
Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Bear & Buttars' store.
JAS. B. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

W. Y. ROSWELL. C. S. BAKEWELL.
ROSWELL & BAKEWELL,
Commission Merchants,
Dealers in
Wood Bark Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.
THE
Sentinel


JOB PRINTING
Office,
Is the place to get all kinds of neat
JOB WORK
EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.
Address all orders to W. A. SMITH.

SASH
AND DOOR
FACTORY.
J. E. Grielick & Co.,
Traverse City, - Mich.
Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, Etc.
Our stock is handled with these large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.
Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.
Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 33. CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Dec. 11. 1877. Whole No., 448

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—
OFFICE: Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street
—
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
75c FOR SIX MONTHS.
—
JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	3 m.	6 m.	1 yr.
One sq.	$ 50	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$3.00	$5.00
2 sqs.	1.25	1.75	2.50	4.00	7.00	10.00
3 "	1.75	2.25	3.00	5.00	7.50	12.00
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.50	10.00	14.00
8 column,	3.25	4.00	5.00	10.25	14.00	20.00
¼ "	3.50	5.50	8.50	17.00	26.00	37.00
½ "	5.50	10.00	13.00	26.00	37.00	50.00

Cards in Business Directory, $5 per line per year.
Local advertisements 10 cents per line.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLOUD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court also open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. B. CUMMINGHAM, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Carriage Maker, Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Ek Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Dentist will be located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month for the purpose of meeting all outside engagements and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession. tf

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY MICH.
H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. FAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
Insurance in Chancery and Notary Public. Will practice in all the courts of this State. Office in Gidley's Block, Petoskey, Mich.

S. J. FARMER,
BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.
Has opened his shop in J. F. Wm's business [illegible] and will do the [illegible] Repairing. Coarse of fine boots made to order and

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making
I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do
DRESS FITTING AND MAKING
in the most approved styles. Have also on hand
LADIES HATS
of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT
CROUTER'S
Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Why? Because he sells strictly pure goods, and can supply the people of Charlevoix and surrounding country with anything they wish in the line. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest, and best assortment of
STOVES
Hardware & Tinware
To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of
M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.
TIME TABLE.
A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:
LEAVE PETOSKEY—7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.
Leave CHARLEVOIX 1:30 p. m. arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.
Every Monday a range must be the comfort of passengers will be made, and the fare will be reasonable. Also, any package or express will be delivered at as low rates as possible
H. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER.
Glazing, Kalsomining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.
A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash For particulars inquire of
W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Lorin M. Barrett, against James Jones, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7742, dated June 20, 1876, upon the se section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver.
27.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW, N. G.
GEO. W. CROUTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.
A. H. URQUHART, Sec'y. W. A. SMITH, W. M.

L. O. L.
Purity Harbor Lodge No. 111 L. O. L. meets at Charlevoix, Mich., on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 7 o'clock p. m. All visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.
HENRY BENSON, Sec'y. WM. H. BENSON, W. M.
GEO. BARBER, Sec'y.

Old Stage Line
Daily between Traverse City and Elk Rapids Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays between Elk Rapids and Charlevoix. Passengers carried comfortably, and freight at very low rates.
Dec. 12, 1877. C. POWERS.

THE SENTINEL.
WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.
Charlevoix Postoffice.
SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.
SOUTH—Mails arrive daily, at 12 M., depart at 1 P. M.
SOUTH AIM mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.
W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.
Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 60
Oats, per bushel	30
Corn, per bushel	50
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	30
Buckwheat, per bushel	50
Peas, per bushel	50
Fresh dressed hogs, per pound	6 @ 7
Eggs, per dozen	25
Butter, per pound	20
Chickens, dressed, per pound	10
Beans, per bushel	$1 50 to $1 75
Beef, per bushel	50
Beef hides, per pound	4½
Beef, per pound, by the quarter	5 @ 6

KEEP your cattle up or they will be impounded.

THE Jennie Sutton will be housed in this winter.

J. H. Kilborne has started up a handle factory at Big Rapids.

P. S. Brown is doing a fine job of grading on his place on Main street.

REGULAR meeting of Charlevoix Lodge F. & A. M. on Tuesday evening Dec. 18.

A new invoice of clothing just received at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

ANOTHER GIFT.—Father Inwood has presented the Charlevoix M. E. Church with a fine Cabinet organ.

Over 500 pounds of fish, supposed to be salmon, were taken in a pound net a few days since, near Traverse City.

Go to Carpenter & Bartholomew for your holiday presents.

AREA Campbell came over from the Beavers Saturday in a small boat, making the run in two hours and a half. He will remain during the winter.

THE tug Minnie Warren has been running regularly upon Pine Lake and South Arm since the St. Mary left, but will doubtless soon lay up.

THE schooner Evening Star missed the piers and went on the beach at Manitou last week, but was got off without much damage.

"Nimble Nickels" free at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

REV. J. L. Mailes of Jackson has received a call to preach to the Congregational Church of Traverse City, with a view to become their pastor.

AN OLD AFFAIR SETTLED.—The old unsettled account between this county and old mother Emmet, was paid up on the 27th of last month. The account dates from Oct 6, 1873, and was originally $270. It took $345 60 to settle it.

OLD ENGLAND.
Father Inwood's Visit to the Land of His Nativity.
SECOND LETTER.

The rent of hop ground is very high One piece I saw rented for £5 per acre. The next highest rents I heard of were for pasture lands—£3; for general farming purposes £1 10 shillings, and 10 shillings for the poor chalk downs.

The County of Hampshire has the most chalk lands as far as I could learn, which extended to the borders of the adjoining county east a short distance. These chalk lands are very rolling, the hillsides often being so steep as to render it difficult to walk up them, and in many places it is not capable of being plowed, but it is left for grass and called downs. It is upon these downs that the sheep called Hampshire Downs are reared. There is another kind called South Downs, which are smaller, very fine boned, and the best mutton. The black faced or Hampshire Downs take second rank. The long wooled sheep are very large indeed, some at the Bath Fair were so large that it would seem fabulous were I to describe them.

These chalk lands are very well adapted to sheep raising, as it is dry, and sheep being a general feeder will eat almost any kind of plant, and the growth upon these downs is mostly plants, which sheep eat readily. In America the land would be utterly useless for any purpose.

On the more level surface above the chalk is covered with from six to twelve inches of clay, and is fair farming land Railroads penetrate the country in all directions, following the course of the streams were practicable, but often crossing from one valley to another, and are then obliged to cut through these chalk hills. In these deep cuts I noticed that everywhere the chalk is divided into layers of different thickness by layers of flint stones, which are all of equal thickness, though so close do they lie together that they nearly touch. The layers are perfectly horizontal, the distance between growing less as the surface it approached.

Now chalk, under the microscope, shows itself to be marine shells, very small mostly, although I saw one specimen composed of shells two inches in length. The fact that the layers of flint are now horizontal shows that when the waters receded the strata was left undisturbed.

The country being so very hilly shows the chalk to have been very soft, allowing the water to cut channels in every direction. But then, if this is the case, these layers of flint that were carried down by the flood would have been deposited in beds somewhere below, (for in these deep cuts the flints crop out as the hill lowers) and this is the case everywhere. At the foot of the chalk hills are found flints—the fields below being so full of them that farmers have to use a different kind of share to plow with—being very long and cutting only six inches wide, grinding continually on the flints.

It is this flinty bottom land that is the most productive, having the greatest depth of soil, and being made warmer, it is thought, by the flints. It is thus earlier by one or two weeks to harvest than the upper chalk or the lower main lands, which are lighter color, without flint, and tenacious of water, growing as heavy crops, but so late that in exceptional years shocks of corn have stood out until Christmas. These lower lands are so full of flint that immense beds of it are found in places. One of these is on the celebrated Tichbourn estate—so poor that it is not cultivated.

If we go out on the railroad six miles east of Andover, we come to one of the deepest cuts in the Kingdom. Standing on the track and looking up the sloping sides, we see the long lines of flints, as far as the eye can reach, parallel with each other, and increasing in distance from the top down.

How did it happen that only at certain intervals there should be flints, and then on that inland sea a perfect blanket of them should be formed on the layers of shells? I have asked the question of the learned geologist, but his answer is unsatisfactory.

Go with me now cast to the little valley, and here all this chalk cutting is in part into an embankment fifty feet high or more. Thus the road is alternately far below or above the surrounding country. On now a few miles we come to a rolling mede ey Lord Pertsmouth. While his men were digging on the side hill they broke through into one of the homes of the ancient cave dwellers. Here were the ashes and coals in the center, and the chimney had once an opening in the top, probably surrounded by something wood to hide its locality. There was a low passage leading down the hill, both openings being so long since closed that no knowledge of the cave remained.

Now go back across the brook to the hill near the deep cut, and we find a number of veritable flint tools which were used by the cave-dwellers

Just below this collection of flints lies to the valley the little village of St. Mary Bourne. How many of these "bournes" (springs) there are at the foot of these chalk hills, where the water percolating through borats forth. Thus Holybourne bursts out beside the church, Oxenbourne, Selbourne, etc. All the villages and towns are beside some stream. Some are forts as Alresford, Guildsford, etc. From these circumstances an idea can be formed of the tremendous rolling nature of the country. From the tops of these thousand hills bursts upon the view lanscapes of every conceivable variety and of great beauty. So with our glass we go from hill to hill and never tire. Here is seen gentlemen's parks and mansions, and out according to the varied tastes of the owners mind, and a church invariably erected within a stone's throw.

Wherever the English are now, their forefathers were religious, and their character has descended in many cases to their children In connection with these parks and mansions are also seen the cottages of the peasants, who were of old obliged to fight as well as work for their lords. They are not in that condition now, but still in many places are very cringing in nobility. So much power belongs to them now that they are really the bone and sinew of the Nation in time of war.

I should have stated that in Marylebourne is an old yew tree which I measured and found to be nineteen feet in circumference. It is at least a thousand years old, and was there when the cave-dwellers were making "yew-benders" for hunting. Could we unfold the past what strange visions would we see.

JAMES INWOOD.

SCHOOL.—The Intermediate Department of our Village school commenced yesterday, under the charge of Miss Jennie Marine. The Department embraces the lowest grade in Mr. Seaman's room and the highest of Mrs. McClanathan's. The school now numbers about 120 pupils

PERSONAL.—Wm. E. McLennan, of this village, left yesterday for a visit to his former home in Canada.

—J. A. Cameron and Wm. McKay left town yesterday for Texas.

—Capt. Way and wife left yesterday for Cadillac.

CAPT. A. G. Aldrich and B. W. Miller, returned from Elk Rapids on Tuesday, and will spend the winter here

A good accordeon of violins and flutes at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE BAPTIST RETREAT.—The joint Committee of Michigan and Indiana Baptists recently asked our Committee for a definite proposition, embracing the requirements upon which the property would be transfered to them, and on Monday evening a public meeting was called which was quite generally attended and resulted in fixing upon the proposition to be made The corporation to which this land is to be turned over are to use said land as a "Summer Resort, and for no other purpose. They are to expend the first season $4000, or $500 the first year and a like amount during each of the five following years in beautifying and adorning the grounds. The conditions are mostly easy to be complied with, and will no doubt meet the favorable consideration of the "patrons of the second part."

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS—EXTRA SESSION.

AMONG the bills introduced in the Senate, on the 20th was one to provide for cheap transportation of freight between lake and ocean over the Allantic Ocean and the Mississippi Valley. The bill to enable Indiana to be represented in the Electoral Commission proposed in the bill of December, The Vice-President appointed Messrs. Davis, West Virginia; Beck, Allison, Ingalls and Cameron (Pennsylvania) as the Special Committee to examine the books and accounts of the Treasury Department in regard to the alleged discrepancies, etc. In the House, the Paris Exposition bill was reported from Committee of the Whole and passed—192 to 124; it provides for representation on the part of the United States in said exhibition, and appropriates $750,000 therefor. A bill was passed to set free all moneys at the Philadelphia National Bank, and from certain Freedmen's Saving and Trust Company, against the unlimited circulation of silver coin.

SEVERAL private bills were passed, in the Senate, on the 21st. Consideration was resumed of a resolution, by Mr. Bateman, to discharge the Committee on Privileges and Elections from further consideration of the credentials of M. C. Butler as Senator from South Carolina, and a motion was made by Mr. Edmunds to amend the resolution so as to discharge the Committee from the further consideration of the credentials of Mr. Kellogg from Louisiana, instead of those of Mr. Spofford. Mr. Edmunds's motion was carried—yeas, 30; nays, 29—and the resolution, as amended, was rejected—30 to 32—as was also a motion to discharge the Committee in regard to the case of Messrs. Kellogg and Spofford, and that memorial of South Carolina be referred. A resolution was then made and rejected—30 to 32—to amend the previous motion and discharge the Committee from further consideration of the credentials of Messrs. Kellogg, Spofford, Butler and Gordon. A motion to adjourn to the 25th was put to a vote and carried—34 to 28—and when the Vice-President voted in the affirmative, and the adjournment was carried. Bills were introduced in the House—authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds for the value of all silver coin issued by Treasury officials since May 31, 1865; to amend the statutes in relation to the Territory of Oklahoma; creating postal savings banks. A resolution was adopted—183 to 83—declaring the Constitution not to allow elections to be held by the 20th on the Congressional case of Louisiana, and in case of failure to report that the Committee be discharged from the consideration of the matter. The Deficiency bill was then taken up and passed, the House refusing to agree to the Senate amendment, and a long (day) argument in favor of the repeal.

THE Senate was not in session on the 22d. In the House, the amendments offered to the bill for the repeal of the Resumption act were disposed of, all being rejected except the one offered by Mr. Platt, which was agreed to—the bill as so amended passing by a party vote—183 to 130. It repeals all that part of the Resumption act which forbids the Secretary of the Treasury to dispose of United States bonds except for the 4½ per cent. Greenback currency. Adjourned to the 27th.

DOMESTIC.

GEN. SHERMAN has issued a General Order from the Headquarters of the Army, in which he says: "The President is now so much concerned in final before him, for action, the proceedings of Courts-Martial in several cases where officers have been tried in violation of the Thirty-eighth Article of War, which provides that any officer found drunk on duty shall be dismissed from the service. The President desires it to be made known to the Army that he is pained to be compelled to contemplate the magnitude of the evil which the crime assumed to be, is likely to produce in the public service, and to persons addicted to it can expect to be intrusted with any responsible duty, and a person who cannot be trusted but better not be continued in office. It must, therefore, be understood that any clemency which may have been heretofore extended by mitigation or commutation of sentence, cannot hereafter be relied upon as a basis of action favorable to the accused. After this solemn warning, a rigorous execution of sentences imposed in disapproved Courts-Martial may be expected."

THE Receiver of the suspended Fidelity Savings Bank of Chicago began the payment of a 10 per cent. dividend to depositors, on the 19th.

ON the 20th, a two-year-old son of Charles Cadwalk, of Philadelphia, who had been blind since birth, was restored to sight by a Spitz dog, died of hydrophobia. The disease is a terrible one, and there was no reason to believe that imagination played any part in the matter.

THE Third National Bank of Chicago suspended on the 21st, a resolution being adopted by the Directors not to open the doors on the morning of the 22d, but that proper steps should be immediately taken for the purpose of putting the bank into liquidation. The President, Mr. J. Irving Pearce, is reported as stating that the institution would eventually pay depositors in full. The amount due depositors is over $1,100,000.

THE bank of W. W. Smith, of Hamburg, Fremont County, Iowa, suspended on the 20th. Liabilities, $100,000; assets, $85,000.

A WASHINGTON dispatch of the 20th says both official and unofficial advices from Mexico show that President Diaz was desirous of not only treating the United States with respect, but of preserving peace, and with this view only had recently ordered a large force to the Texan and Mexican border. It did not appear, on inquiry at the War Department, that Gen. Ord had, as published, applied for additional force to meet any anticipated collision with the Mexican troops.

THE question of the liability of the "first blush" of whisky conspirators to pay civil damages to the Government, notwithstanding if a promise of immunity when they "squealed," has been under consideration by the United States District Court, in which on the afternoon of the 20th the matter was given to the jury to decide the question of fact, and the next morning they reported to the Court that they could not agree and were discharged.

THE Central National Bank of Chicago closed its doors on the morning of the 20th, the Directors voting to go into liquidation. The assets are stated at $475,000 and the liabilities at $344,850. The statement is made that depositors will be paid in full.

THE United States must-of-war vessel Huron was wrecked on the North Carolina coast on the 24th, and completely destroyed. Of the 185 officers and men on board the vessel only about forty were known to have been saved up to the evening of the 26th. Among the officers lost were: Commander P. Ryan, from Massachusetts; Lieut.-S. A. Simonds, from New York City; Lieut. L. A. Palmer, from Washington; Ensign Danner, from Alabama; Paymaster Sanders, from Philadelphia. The wrecked vessel was of iron, and was built in 1855, and is said to have been one of the best vessels of her class in the service. She was a third-rate screw steamer, of 541 tons, and carried four guns. The disaster occurred at Nags-head between two life-saving stations, distant respectively two and nine miles. The vessel was considerably out of her course, having lost her reckoning. On the 25th, the surf-boat of the wrecking steamer D. A. J. Baker, which had gone to the assistance of the wreck, to render assistance to the imperilled seamen, was swamped, while attempting to land, with nine men on board, five of whom lost their lives, Capt. J. J. Guthrie, Paymaster of the Life-Saving Service, being among the number.

AT the session of the National Grange at Cincinnati on the 20th, the Constitution was changed, by abolishing the Court of Appeals and constituting the Master and Executive Committee such Court instead. The membership fees were fixed at three dollars for males and one dollar for females.

DESTRUCTIVE floods occurred in Virginia, Maryland and other sections of the South, on the 24th. Great damage was caused to property along the different streams. A passenger train was precipitated into South Fork Creek, in South Carolina, owing to the undermining of the trestlework by the freshets, and the passengers narrowly escaped being killed or drowned. Fortunately, only one person was killed, and others received but slight injuries.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE official returns of the vote for Governor at the late election in Wisconsin give the following totals: Kellogg (Rep.), 75,795; Mallory (Dem.), 70,402; Ailts (Greenback), 30,168; Smith's (Prohibition), 3,572.

THE National Grange met at Cincinnati on the 21st. Delegates were present from all the States in the Union. In his annual address, the Master recommends a modification of the present rate, so as to allow persons or societies engaged in industrial pursuits to become stockholders. The Executive Committee advise the discontinuance of general agencies, and that the Grange remain wholesale and retail storeroom on the co-operative principle.

JUDGE GEORGE GRENNELL, Member of Congress from 1828 to 1839, died at Greenfield, Mass., a few nights ago, aged ninety-one years.

THE President has accepted the resignation of Assistant-Secretary McCormick.

A COMMITTEE of the Workingmen's party of the United States has been called to meet at Newark, N. J., commencing Dec. 25. There are eighty-four associations belonging to the party scattered throughout the country, and it is expected that each will send one or more delegates to the general Congress.

THE official returns in New Jersey give McClellan (Dem.), for Governor, a plurality of 13,740, and a majority of 6,963. McClellan received 97,830 votes; Newell (Rep.), 83,132; Brower (Greenback), 4,676; Bingham (Temperance), 1,461.

THE United States Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections resolved, on the 24th by a vote of 4 to 3, to report that Wm. P. Kellogg is, upon the merits of the case, lawfully entitled to a seat in the Senate from Louisiana, and that Henry M. Spofford is not entitled to such seat.

THE complete vote in New York State gives Beach (Dem.), for Secretary of State, 260,021; Churchill (Rep.), 257,341; Jacobs (Workingman), 20,067; Hayes (Pro.), 8,196; Greenback vote, 2,760. Beach over Churchill, 11,280.

FOREIGN.

ACCORDING to official reports of the 24th, there had been severe fighting on the Lom on the preceding day. The Turkish account says the Heights of Merdika, near Pirgoo, were captured, and 1,000 Russians killed. The Russian account says the Heights were temporarily occupied and Pirgoo burned, but that the Turks were finally driven out with great slaughter.

ON the 21st, the Roumannian troops captured Ishnova after an engagement lasting three days. The Turks fell to Widdin, while the Roumanians chase pursuit.

CAPT. HOBATH has received a letter from Capt. Tyson, in command of the Florence, the advance vessel of the American Arctic Expedition, under date of Sept. 29, in which he reports his safe arrival at Nunivak Harbor, Onal-eland Gulf. He proposed to move to the head of the gulf in a few days, to go into winter quarters and carry out all instructions in reference to the collection of marine material.

A BUCHAREST dispatch of the 22d says the operations near Rustchuk indicated a disposition on the part of the Turks to repel Mehemet Ali's tactics, by threatening the Army of the Czarowitz and the crossing of the Danube.

IT was reported in London, on the 23d, that Mukhtar Pasha, fearing that no sight be surrounded, had fallen back to a position twenty miles west of Erzeroum.

THE Greek Cabinet tendered their resignations on the 23d, but the King refused to accept them. Since the Russian victories the war party has become demonstrative and the violent speeches in Parliament led the Ministers to believe that they were not in accord with public sentiment in their policy of neutrality as respects the Turco-Russian war.

THE Turkish Ambassador at Vienna has asked the Austrian Premier to mediate between Russia and Turkey. Count Andrassy replied that mediation now was inopportune and would prove disadvantageous to Turkey.

THE French Ministry has been definitely reconstructed with Gen. Rochebeouet as Minister of War and President of the Council. The Republican press censure the composition of the Ministry to contemptuous terms.

A ROME (Italy) dispatch of the 23d says an attempt to cap the Pope had failed and caused a determination of honors to the effect. A council of Cardinals had been called to consult concerning the general business of the Papacy, and consider the propriety of the appointment of a Council of Regency.

ACCORDING to London dispatches of the 23d, a great battle was in progress on Tuesday.

On the 23d, Mehemet Ali telegraphed to Constantinople, announcing the capture of a Russian regiment of infantry, and one of cavalry at Nevoselo. Of the latter, all but six men were destroyed.

A REPORT, apparently well authenticated, prevailed at Glurgevo, on the 23d, that Osman Pasha had opened negotiations for the surrender of Plevna.

BERLIN dispatches of the 23d say that the German and United States (consular) had begun negotiations for a mutual Naturalization treaty, to take the place of existing treaties with the separate German States.

A HALIFAX special of the 23d announces that the Commission organized for the purpose of settling the fishery disputes between Great Britain and the United States, and decided that the former Government was entitled to $5,500,000, to be paid by the latter. The members of the Court instead. The members of the Court instead. The members of the Court instead

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,

Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY DECEMBER 11, 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York Dec 7, 1877.

As the Thanksgiving has come and gone. All the various phenomena have been exhausted when, time out of mind have not appeared the festival, still there presentments remain the impenetrable mysteries which have ever hung over the day. The most profound and sanguinals which have been held on this by the Venerable Eagle Tavern, and the powers upon the questions which Ishmaelitic possibly proposed, and have failed to solve, infinite and ingeniously to arrive at satisfactory solutions thereof.

The problems to which I have referred are, briefly, these. Why is it that national gratitude in this republic is inseparably connected with the fowl of the barnyard? What is the hidden reason for the undeniable fact that the spirit of annual thanksgiving resolutely sets its face against all of the excellent and nutritious viands which on every day of the year, this one November Thursday excepted, are welcome occupants of the table?

Why should the king of meats, the time honored roast beef, the noblest but economical contest beef and cabbage, and even the sumptuous roast turkey, be so shortly banished from the Thanksgiving board in the interests of the despot turkey? And even conceding, without further investigation, the supremacy of the sylph-like gobbler, the grateful gander and the venerable spring chicken, we are at once confronted with another and no less knotty problem, to wit, why is it that the American citizen, openly with his wife, his sons, his daughters, his cousins, his cousins, and even his mother-in-law, feels it quite out of the question to bring himself into a frame of mind favorable to a substantial acknowledgement of benefits received without gorging himself to the extreme limit of his capacity. Is there really some subtle connection between indigestion and gratitude, the instinctive recognition of which prompts the average man to stuff himself as tightly as the brown and every host is stuffed which he yearly dismembers in the presence of his hilarious and expectant family? If not, how are we to get around the perplexing question as to why the day we celebrate should be held sacred to the substantive boy eating pumpkin pie, an achievement of American cookery in at allaring to the taste, but more laughable with confessed nightmare than was Pandora's box with assorted evils?

But possibly the consideration of these abstruse points may not be particularly interesting to your readers and as I can hardly hope to grapple successfully with the difficulties they present, I will dismiss the subject for a year, at the end of which time, if I am yet in the land of the living, I presume that the inevitable recurrence of the internal discomfort which I am at this moment enduring, may provoke me to something further in the same line.

The observance of the day in the city's public and charitable institutions was of the customary character. In four of the principal ones over two thousand children were regaled with the traditional fare, beside a thousand or so grown people who were destitute. In the prisons the usual gloom of a rainy day was much lessened by Thanksgiving fare. Friends of prisoners on Blackwell's Island were permitted to supply them with delicacies, and they and the inmates of the charity institutions there and on the adjacent islands were plentifully fed on poultry. The turkeys by the city for the purpose numbered 14,000. No visitors were admitted to the City Prison, but the inmates had Thanksgiving food.

Thanksgiving, however, is not the only occasion which has lent luster to the week just past. We have had, in fact we are still having, a grand and unparalleled baby show, an exhibit of grunting humanity beautiful to behold. Four hundred of these little "well springs of pleasure"—and nocturnal music—are congregated in a hall on Fifth Avenue appropriately named for the occasion "Midget Hall," and here the proud and anxious mothers keep watch and ward over enough "future Presidents" to govern all the Republics [illegible] will be competed to [illegible] This is not only an exhibition competitive as well. A number of prizes are to be given, the recipient to be determined by popular ballot. Every visitor has a ballot to his ticket, a coupon with printed instructions as to what qualities are to be voted for. Those "Handsome as mother," "prettiest baby," "most original costume," "greatest cry baby," and the most honest mother who are at present. Each child and mother has a painted card with a number, which is the voting, having made his selection ascertains and sends upon his coupon, depositing the same in a box afterwards. The most honest mother is to have a prize of a gold watch and chain, and many prizes ranging from $100 down are to go to the successful babies. As for other qualities not mentioned in the coupon, they are to be decided by a selected committee of unbiased persons.

On the 26th occurred almost if not quite the last celebration of Evacuation Day by the few veterans of 1812 who yet linger upon the shores of time. Each company in its numbers here was depleted. For several years it has been the custom of Messrs. Leonard, on the Stuyvesant House to give the old veterans a dinner on the 25th of November which the old gentlemen seem heartily to appreciate. But it is clear that the Islands patriotic hospitality will be taxed but few times more. Last year twenty-six sat down to the repast, while on last Monday only only two of the little and white haired old warriors gathered in Broadway to the reviving notes of the fife and drum, waving two faded and tattered flags, and anticipating with childish delight the convivial pleasures of their reunion. All but one of this superannuated corps were born in the last century, the other being ninety years of age; and many were the lists that were filled at the said banquet moved slowly up the street. Another year and the hospital may be reduced to an infirmary, or even to a memory.

The Evening Mail of this city has just changed hands, and by this transfer has passed under the control of Clark Bell, Esq., a well-known lawyer and influential politician. Whose management already begins to make itself manifest by the firmer tone and improved appearance of what has been from its commencement one of the most genial and readable of our evening papers.

RADIX.

This is what the Detroit Post and Tribune says concerning that part of the President's Message which refers to Southern affairs:

"That part of the President's message which relates to Southern affairs and to Southern policy will not meet with very hearty approval from the Republican party of the country. Its views of what has been accomplished in the south will not be generally accepted. The coveted friendship and attachment to the Union in the South are not very apparent. Expressions of concord in that section are usually coupled with the understanding, very plainly expressed, that concord can only be obtained by depriving a very large class of citizens of their vested rights. The expressions of attachment to the Union are accompanied by a too apparent desire to rule the Union, and to make the attachment profitable in the way of eligibles, and the payment of doubtful claims. It is true that "total collapse" has not been frequent of late, but that is because a large mass of citizens have put themselves, or been put, out of the way of collisions. They have relinquished their rights, and do not dare to risk the chances of collision with the men who now rule by main force, or by intimidation. There is peace, but it is the peace of subjugation. The elections are quiet, but it is because thousands of electors dare not attempt to vote. How, under the new system, the Negro is protected in the rights of citizenship, is shown in the Legislative vote in Charleston, where Hayes lost full half 6,000 votes lost where in the recent Legislative election, only 16 Republican votes were cast."

A dispatch announces that Osman Pasha has entered upon negotiations for the surrender of Plevna and its defenders, and the Russian authorities have in consequence ordered the immediate forwarding for a vast quantity of food to be sold out to the Turkish prisoners.

Ask Your Neighbors These Questions,

Are you a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Sinking Spells, Fluttering about the Heart, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Back, Dizziness, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Fear, Nightmare, Blotches on the Face, Disagreeable Breath, Nervous Prostration, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Cold Feet, Drowsiness after Meals, Wakefulness at Night, Blues, Sleeplessness, Cold Sweats, Frightful Dreams, Melancholy, Horrible Forebodings, Extreme Nervousness, Trembling Sensations, Dizziness when Rising Suddenly, Specks before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Loss of Memory, Universal Weariness, Timidity, Want of Confidence, Lack of Energy, Hopelessness, Sensation of Being Left Behind, Slow Fever, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Poor Circulation, Weak Kidneys, Sick Headache, Have you a Cough, Have Spells Coming upon you like your Death, Are All of these and more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Kidney Disease, and if Promptly Attended to Secure Immediate Relief and Cure in the Use of Hop Bitters. Many have been changed from sickly, suffering, miserable objects to the picture of health by the use of a few bottles. Hop Bitters is not a vile drunken drink, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made, the "Invalid's Friend and Hope," and no person or family can safely be without them. Druggists and dealers say they are the best selling medicine they have ever handled. Ask your neighbor what they think of Hop Bitters before you use them, and then use them and be convinced. Sold by all druggists. Send for our Treatise. Address HOP BITTERS CO., Rochester, N. Y.

Dec 11 1877

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Containing at least three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road

Known as the Cooper Farm,

[illegible] Will [illegible] on [illegible] Terms. Address ROBERT SAXTON, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] and are [illegible] to [illegible] market

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a [illegible] of State [illegible] to [illegible] which [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] Michigan.

The [illegible] Railroad runs through [illegible] in which these lands are situated.

Not a Wilderness by any Means

[illegible] Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

[illegible] Send for our [illegible] Pamphlet.

Address WM. BUTTERFIELD, Commissioner, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and adjacent can obtain samples of any of the various stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and on [illegible] to and satisfactory. Don't [illegible] to send us a trial order.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F. R. & B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unprecedented fact. That we offer this year as fine a [illegible] varied assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our custom shall find in our store every article belonging to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS in their large stock of Dress Goods for suits, dresses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market. Black Mourning, Black Alpaca, Black Cashmere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of.

In time [illegible] when every [illegible] may go to [illegible] and see our [illegible] stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and the [illegible] they have not the

LARGEST

[illegible] stock of [illegible] and [illegible] Carpets in [illegible]

Woven Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver Cloths, Kentucky Jeans and Socks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, cloth for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

GREAT EXCITEMENT!!

—AT—

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN EXAMINING THEIR IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS JUST RECEIVED! THEY DON'T QUOTE PRICES ON A FEW CHEAP GOODS, BUT SELL

Everything AT BOTTOM RATES!

Remember the Place!

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Charlevoix, Nov 20, 1877.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB.

JEWELLER

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

[illegible] Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles, Etc. [illegible] Repairing [illegible] Warranted.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and [illegible] Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. Due for best machine, and [illegible] for most complete of sorts. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine construction. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. S. PURNHAM,

Manager,

63 Madison, St.

Toledo O

16 1y11

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES.

Which we propose to sell very low for Cash or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, Nov 13th, 1877.

J. Mile Eaton.

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission

Wild land and Improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crozier's Drug store, Charlevoix, Mich.

16 1y11

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolies

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

'Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 48, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for $500 or $1000 &c., filled promptly at the lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(921) 6, 1-y.

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Fifty Manuals of Social Etiquette—Forms—$1.00.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1,000 pages—$5.

Family Bibles, $3 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. HALLOCK, Traverse, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite [illegible] and will [illegible] store, and will [illegible] supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Two daily from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

in which Steam navigation of Grand Traverse Bay can be reached free of charge

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks. All Warranted of Superior Quality. No cheap Inks of better grades of Inks made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO. MANUFACTURERS.

(Formerly of Lansing, Michigan)

184 & 186 MONROE St., CHICAGO And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

How Cats and Boarders are Esteemed by the People of the Bermuda Islands.

As we entered the edge of the town (Hamilton, Bermuda Islands) that Sunday afternoon, we stopped at a cottage to get a drink of water. The proprietor, a middle-aged man with a good face, asked us to sit down and rest. His dame brought chairs, and we grouped ourselves in the shade of the trees by the door. Mr. Smith—that was not his name, but it will answer—questioned us about ourselves and our country, and we answered him tratefully, as a general thing, and questioned him in return. It was all very simple, and pleasant, and sociable. Rural, too; for there was a pig and a small donkey and a hen anchored out, close at hand, by cords to their legs, on a spot that purported to be grass. Presently a woman passed along, and although she coldly said nothing she changed the drift of our talk. Said Smith:

"She didn't look like we'es, you noticed? Well, she is our next neighbor on one side, and there's another family that's our next neighbors on the other side; but there's a general coolness all around now, and we don't speak. Yet those three families, one generation and another, have lived there side by side and been as friendly as weevers for 150 years, till about a year ago."

"Why, what calamity could have been powerful enough to break up so old a friendship?"

"Well, it was too bad, but it couldn't be helped. It happened like this: About a year or more ago, the rats got to pestering my place a good deal, and I set up a steel-trap in the back yard. Both of those neighbors run considerable to cats, and so I warned them about the trap, because their cats were pretty sociable around here nights, and they might get into trouble without my intending it. Well, they shut up their cats for a while, but you know how it is with people; they got careless, and sure enough one night the trap took Mrs. Jones' principal cat into camp, and finished him up. In the morning Mrs. Jones comes here with the corpse in her arms, and cries and takes on the same as if it was a child. It was a cat by the name of Yelverton—Hector G. Yelverton—a troublesome old rip, with no more principle than an Injun, though you couldn't make her believe it. I said all a man could to comfort her; but no, nothing would do but I must pay for him. Finally, I said I wasn't investing in cats now as much as I was, and with that she walked off in a huff, carrying the remains with her. That closed our intercourse with the Joneses. Mrs. Jones joined another church and took her tribe with her. She said she would not hold fellowship with assassins. Well, by and by comes Mrs. Brown's turn—she that went by here a minute ago. She had a disgraceful old yellow cat that she thought as much of as if he was twins, and one night he tried that trap on his neck, and it fitted him so, and was so sort of satisfactory, that his head was cut and curled up, and stayed with it. Such was the end of Sir John Rodwin."

"Was that the name of the cat?"

"The same. There's cats around here with names that would surprise you, Mister" (to his wife) "—what was that cat's name that eat a keg of ratsbane by mistake over at Hooper's and started home and got struck by lightning and took the blind staggers and fell in the well and was most drowned before they could fish him out?"

"That was that colored Deacon Jackson's cat. I only remember the last end of his name, which was 'To-Be-Or-Not-To-Be-That-Is-The-Question Jackson.'"

"Shot that ain't the one. That's the one that ate up an entire box of Seidlitz powders, and then hadn't any more judgment than to go and take a drink. He was considered to be a great loss, but I never could see it. Well, no matter about the names. Mrs. Brown wanted to be reasonable, but Mrs. Jones wouldn't let her. She put her up to going to law for damages. So to law she went, and led the face to claim seven shillings and sixpence. It made a great stir. All the neighbors went to court. Everybody took sides. It got hotter and hotter, and broke up all the friendships for 300 yards around—friendships that had lasted for generations and generations.

"Well, I proved by eleven witnesses that the cat was of a low character and very ornery, and warn't worth a concealed postage-stamp, an way, taking the average of cats per, but I lost the case. What could I expect? The system is all wrong here, and is bound to make revolution and bloodshed some day. You see, they give the Magistrate a poor little starvation salary, and then turn him loose on the public to gouge for fees and costs to live on. What is the natural result? Why, he never looks into the justice of a case—never once. All he looks at is which client has got the money. So this one pilled the fees and costs and everything on to me. I could pay specie, don't you see? and he knew mighty well that if he put the verdict on to Mrs. Brown, where it belonged, he'd have to take his swag in currency."

"Currency? Why, has Bermuda a currency?"

"Yes—onions. And they were 40 per cent. discount, too, then, because the season had been over as much as three months. So I lost my case, and had to pay for that cat. But the general trouble the case made was the worst thing about it. Broke up so much good feeling. The neighbors don't speak to each other now. Mrs. Brown had named a child after me, but she changed its name right away. She is a Baptist. Well, in the course of baptizing it over again, it got drowned. I was hoping we might get to be friendly again, some time or other, but of course this drowning the child knocked that all out of the question. It would have saved a world of heart-break and ill-blood if she had named it dry."

I knew by the sigh that this was honest. All this trouble and all this destruction of confidence in the purity of the beach on account of a seven-shilling lawsuit about a cat! Somehow, it seemed to "close" the country.

At this point we observed that an English flag had just been pinned at half-mast on a building a hundred yards away. I and my friends were busy in an instant trying to imagine whose death, among the island dignitaries, could command such a mark of respect as this; then 3 shocks struck them and me at the same moment, and I knew that we had jumped to one and the same conclusion: "The Governor has gone to England: it is for the British Admiral!"

At this moment Mr. Smith noticed the flag. He said with emotion:

"That's on a boarding-house. I judge there's a boarder dead."

A dozen other flags within view went to half-mast.

"It's a boarder, sure," said Smith.

"But would they half-mast the flags here for a boarder, Mr. Smith?"

"Why, certainly they would, if he was dead!"

That seemed to size the country again.—Mark Twain, in Atlantic for December.

Value of Scarce Coins.

Of all the decimal United States coins the most valuable is the silver dollar of 1804, which is excessively rare. Specimens are worth from $600 to $1,000 each, according to the nearness with which they approach perfection. The coinage of this year was very limited, and there were no more dollars coined until 1836. "Proofs" of the last-named year are worth $10 and good examples $5. There was nothing done in dollars in 1837, and the issues of 1838 and 1839 are rare enough to raise the quotation for good specimens to $40 each. From that date forward to 1873, when the trade-dollar came in, there's no break in the line of dollars, but from 1850 to 1856, inclusive, they are quoted as "rare" or "scarce," those of 1851 and 1852 being worth $35 or $40 each. Previous to 1804 the value of a "good" specimen varies from $1.75 for 1799 to $5 for 1798 and $4 for 1801, save that the first date of all (1794), which is very rare, brings $50. Some of the early dates are made peculiarly valuable by reason of variation in the number and style of stars, etc., there being three varieties of 1798 and five of 1795.

Of the silver half dollars, those of 1796 and 1797 are the most valuable, various examples of these dates being worth from $15 to $20. Good ones of other years previous to 1806 will bring from $2 to $4, the date of this class of 1815 is quoted at $2.50, and then they are of little rarity until 1836, when a specimen with reeded edge and head of 1837 is valued at $3 or $4. The last issue of this year is worth $1. The next dates of note are 1839, 1851 and 1852, valued at $1.50, $2.50 and $3 respectively. More recent dates are only valuable to collectors when in perfect condition, "proofs" of later issues only being desired, and they range in worth from $1.25 to $8.

Quarter dollars are likewise a speculative issue, and therefore favorites with dealers, particularly the dates 1823 and 1827, which are excessively rare, and command from $45 to $75 each. The 1853 issue without arrows is of much sought after, fair specimens bringing from $6 to $8. The only other dates worth over $2 for "good" examples are 1824, $1.50; 1825, $2; 1819, $1.75; 1815, $2; 1807, $2; 1806, $2; 1805, $1.50; 1804, $4; and 1796, $4. Quarter dimes are still more valuable as a class than the quarters, their smaller size and more general circulation having made good specimens rather scarce in all the earlier dates. From 1838 back to 1796 they range in worth from $1 to $7, except in the first instance. The high rates are: 1824, $2.50; 1822, $5; 1811, $2.50; 1809, $5; 1807, $2; 1805, $3; 1802, $6; 1804, $5, 1803, $7; 1798, $5; 1797, $5, and 1796, $3. An 1840, with a draped figure of Liberty like 1841, is worth $1, as is a good issue of 1846.

Of all the minor coins, however, an 1802 half dime is the chief in cost, the price ranging from $75 to $200, according to quality. A good specimen of many other dates is, nevertheless, a handy thing to have, as will be noted by the following quotations: 1794, $4; 1796, $4; 1797, $2; 1800, $1.25; 1801, $6; 1803, $4; 1804, $4; 1840 (with dragery), $1; 1846, $1.75. From that date until 1873, when the coinage closed, no unusual worth attaches to this class. A first-class specimen of the last-named date is worth fifty cents, however.

For the three-cent silver pieces there is but little speculative call, as their period only reaches from 1851 to 1873, including both these years. By far the most valuable of all of them is the 1855, a perfect specimen of which is rated $2. From 1863 to 1869 an uncirculated one is worth fifty cents. All the other dates are of small value.—Boston Post.

The Mobile Register says that the Southern women were not nervous during the war; that at Vicksburg and Petersburg, when the shells went through the houses, they would go down into the cellar and get dinner ready as usual.

The Mule of Sumter.

When Dahlgren's iron-clads began operations in Charleston Harbor, the Tenth Army Corps made a sudden dash and drove in the thin line of pickets which the Confederates had posted on the eastern end of Morris Island. When daylight came, every gun which Beauregard could bring to bear upon the new work began to rain shot and shell, and from daylight till noon there were lively times in and about Charleston Bay. Shortly after noon Fort Sumter opened furiously, and I was feared that no attempt was about to be made by the enemy to advance. There were enough men there, it was thought, to hold it, but there was a deficiency of ammunition, and so a mule-driver was ordered to deliver the ammunition. The only road was the smooth and sandy beach along the bay, and the distance between the two points a mile and a half. Half that distance was within easy range of Fort Sumter, and Battery Wagner's guns covered all the way to the sand hills, behind which was the Federal camp.

I am describing this incident as it appeared from the shipping in the bay, and what called attention to it was the sudden waking up of every gun on the southeast angle of Sumter. Looking to see the cause of the furious cannonading, everybody was surprised to see a mule-team tearing up the beach in the direction of the new work. The driver was laying the lash on, and that mule had his ears laid straight back and was making his legs go. Occasionally a shell would touch the beach, bound up and explode, and the mule would then hesitate and start to turn back. But the driver would lay the cowhide on with renewed vigor; then the mule would put on another spurt; until, at last, it became entirely demoralized by the explosion of a ten-inch shell almost under its belly. Every glass in the squadron was leveled at the spectacle. The driver got off his seat, took the animal by the head, whirled it around once or twice until dizzy, and then bent over more Fort Sumter flashed and flamed. Battery Wagner belched and thundered, and still that daring driver urged his mule along, though the way was swept by at least thirty guns.

At last he reached his destination, but did not stay there, and in a moment he was turned around, and exhorting that animal to shits level best. The mule did some good speed on the return out, for in its rear there was roar and racket, and about its ears were dying sand and scrap-iron, which seemed to inspire its driver with fear. Down that hard beach flew the mule, the light cart bobbing and swaying, and the driver's arms rising and falling as he dealt out lash after lash. At last they neared the friendly shelter of the sand hills. In another minute they would be safe, but just as they near the place to turn aside, a shell came screaming down the beach. Everybody could see the huge mass of iron as it roared through the air. It struck the beach directly in the rear of the mule, and with a bound it overtook it and exploded with terrible violence. A general exclamation of horror went up from the flag-ship, where the Admiral and his staff were earnestly gazing at the adventurous mule and his daring driver. Fort Sumter's ramparts were black with men, too, willing witnesses of Yankee pluck. Along the line of Morris Island, and everywhere, even elevation, could be seen the Union soldiers, who stood with bated breath, anxious and full of suspense, and every eye intently taking in the scene. When the shell exploded a circle of smoke hid the mule for a moment, but when the smoke cleared away Mr. Mule had his ears laid back, and, with head down and legs lashing wildly out, he was making kindling-wood of the cart, which had been badly demoralized by a fragment of the shell. Presently the driver was seen limping to the mule; then around the mule was free from harness, and, with the driver on his back, and a farewell whisk of his tail, disappeared behind the sand hills.

The thousands of boys in blue united in a long and hearty hurrah; the sailors waved their hats and shouted themselves hoarse, and, Ark! the Confederates caught the infection and were cheering too.—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

Vitality of Ants.

The proceedings of the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia contain some interesting observations of the Rev. H. C. Mcook on the power of enduring heat and cold possessed by ants. A nest of ants (F. Pennsylvanica) established on an oak-bough was exposed to the cold of a mountain winter without destroying the inmates. A number of the little creatures were dropped upon ice, and were found alive at the end of forty-eight hours—the body of each having made a slight depression in the ice by its warmth. The species F. rufa was active in its formicary with the thermometer at 24 deg. F., and sluggish at 30 deg. The F. Pennsylvanica did not suffer from the heat of the stones walling a camp-fire, to which they had been driven from their position in a burning stump.

The late Dr. Lincecum, who made many original observations upon the Agricultural Ants (M. molefaciens) in Texas, relates that a fire was built, for heating wagon-tires, upon one of their mounds. Before the fire was extinct the ants were at work clearing away the entrance to their city. They quickly exhibited an entire knowledge of the situation, and worked among the dying embers without injury.

Mr. McCook once detected a mass of Mason Ants (F. rufa) which had been accidentally flooded with inches of water. Their bodies floated about on the fluid, apparently lifeless, for several hours; but were finally almost all restored to animation. Dr. Lincecum observed that the Agricultural Ants were often seen floating, clinging in masses as large as an orange on the surface of wells. After remaining in this situation a day or two, on being drawn up by a bucket, all proved to be alive. Ants will drown after a submergence of six minutes in water, and the insects composing these masses must have kept alive by the ball revolving continually with the struggles of the individuals, or by an instinctive and orderly movement of the outer tier.

Bismarck and Family.

While we sat in dinner in the open air before the inn door, a carriage passed, in which was seated a lady and gentleman. Before we noticed a flutter in the little group about the door and a rasing of fists, to which the gentleman in the carriage gracefully responded, we had already recognized Bismarck, so exactly like his photographs is he himself and so exactly like the pallor of his face, perhaps, giving an appearance of greater refinement to his massive features than the camera has known how to. Several other carriages followed with members of the family and suite, all on their way to Gastein. We have since seen them here so often that their faces have grown quite familiar. The Princess von Bismarck is the plainest lady of the women, so unlike the traditional idea of a Princess that one involuntarily speaks of her as Mrs. Bismarck; but she has a very sensible face, anxious and worried in its expression, and a dignified, modest bearing. The daughter is a strong, healthy young girl, with no beauty but that of youth and health. They both dress with the greatest possible simplicity; indeed, an entire lack of ornamentation seems to be the striking characteristic of the family; their servants do not wear livery. We passed Bismarck himself on the Kurweg, a favorite promenade, walking meditatended except by a great black dog, and his rosy cheeks shone bright until he stepped up into the wet, grassy bank to let us pass, and lifted his hat in his usually courteous manner. He is a tall, powerful-looking man, walking a little lame but wonderfully vigorous for his years (he must be getting near 70), and he stepped out, for in its rear there was roar and racket, and about its ears were dying sand and scrap-iron, which seemed to inspire its driver with fear. Down that hard beach flew the mule, the light cart bobbing and swaying, and the driver's arms rising and falling as he dealt out lash after lash. At last they neared the friendly shelter of the sand hills. In another minute they would be safe, but just as they near the place to turn aside, a shell came screaming down the beach. Everybody could see the huge mass of iron as it roared through the air. It struck the beach directly in the rear of the mule, and with a bound it overtook it and exploded with terrible violence. A general exclamation of horror went up from the flag-ship, where the Admiral and his staff were earnestly gazing at the adventurous mule and his daring driver. Fort Sumter's ramparts were black with men, too, willing witnesses of Yankee pluck. Along the line of Morris Island, and everywhere, even elevation, could be seen the Union soldiers, who stood with bated breath, anxious and full of suspense, and every eye intently taking in the scene. When the shell exploded a circle of smoke hid the mule for a moment, but when the smoke cleared away Mr. Mule had his ears laid back, and, with head down and legs lashing wildly out, he was making kindling-wood of the cart, which had been badly demoralized by a fragment of the shell. Presently the driver was seen limping to the mule; then around the mule was free from harness, and, with the driver on his back, and a farewell whisk of his tail, disappeared behind the sand hills.

The thousands of boys in blue united in a long and hearty hurrah; the sailors waved their hats and shouted themselves hoarse, and, Ark! the Confederates caught the infection and were cheering too.—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

Vitality of Ants.

The proceedings of the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia contain some interesting observations of the Rev. H. C. Mcook on the power of enduring heat and cold possessed by ants. A nest of ants (F. Pennsylvanica) established on an oak-bough was exposed to the cold of a mountain winter without destroying the inmates. A number of the little creatures were dropped upon ice, and were found alive at the end of forty-eight hours—the body of each having made a slight depression in the ice by its warmth. The species F. rufa was active in its formicary with the thermometer at 24 deg. F., and sluggish at 30 deg. The F. Pennsylvanica did not suffer from the heat of the stones walling a camp-fire, to which they had been driven from their position in a burning stump.

The late Dr. Lincecum, who made many original observations upon the Agricultural Ants (M. molefaciens) in Texas, relates that a fire was built, for heating wagon-tires, upon one of their mounds. Before the fire was extinct the ants were at work clearing away the entrance to their city. They quickly exhibited an entire knowledge of the situation, and worked among the dying embers without injury.

Mr. McCook once detected a mass of Mason Ants (F. rufa) which had been

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—A Texas dog which was taken to Missouri, traveled all the way back, and through his wonderful sagacity found his master's home, having traveled 800 miles.

—A man in California has a large rock crystal weighing about three pounds, taken from a hillside in the mountains of Nevada. The hillside was on one side of a canyon, and opposite a hill covered with green trees. The crystal was projecting from a bowlder, and by some process known only to nature, the whole scene, colors and all, has been lithographed in the face of the crystal and looks very natural.

—The Concord (N. H.) Monitor says: "The other night at Henry A. Drew, of Stratford, was calmly slumbering, a large wildcat entered his house and began an attack upon him. Mr. Drew managed to escape from the room, procured a stick of wood, and returned to the attack. After smashing the stick into kindling-wood, demolishing a chair, he finally managed, with the help of his dog, to kill the animal. The wildcat measured the length of the room from its the side of the outer door by the breaking of a pane of glass."

—Mr. Zimmerman, residing in Springfield, Ill., was told of the presence of burglars in his house, a few mornings ago, by a cat. It was in this wise: In retiring the family had put the cat out of the house, as they usually do, and she was awakened by the purring of the puss in his bosom. At the same moment he felt the dragging by the women, so unlike the traditional idea of a Princess that one involuntarily speaks of her as Mrs. Bismarck; but she has a very sensible face, anxious and worried in its expression, and a dignified, modest bearing. The daughter is a strong, healthy young girl, with no beauty but that of youth and health. They both dress with the greatest possible simplicity; indeed, an entire lack of ornamentation seems to be the striking characteristic of the family; their servants do not wear livery. We passed Bismarck himself on the Kurweg, a favorite promenade, walking meditatended except by a great black dog, and his rosy cheeks shone bright until he stepped up into the wet, grassy bank to let us pass, and lifted his hat in his usually courteous manner. He is a tall, powerful-looking man, walking a little lame but wonderfully vigorous for his years (he must be getting near 70), and he stepped out, for in its rear there was roar and racket, and about its ears were dying sand and scrap-iron, which seemed to inspire its driver with fear. Down that hard beach flew the mule, the light cart bobbing and swaying, and the driver's arms rising and falling as he dealt out lash after lash. At last they neared the friendly shelter of the sand hills. In another minute they would be safe, but just as they near the place to turn aside, a shell came screaming down the beach. Everybody could see the huge mass of iron as it roared through the air. It struck the beach directly in the rear of the mule, and with a bound it overtook it and exploded with terrible violence. A general exclamation of horror went up from the flag-ship, where the Admiral and his staff were earnestly gazing at the adventurous mule and his daring driver. Fort Sumter's ramparts were black with men, too, willing witnesses of Yankee pluck. Along the line of Morris Island, and everywhere, even elevation, could be seen the Union soldiers, who stood with bated breath, anxious and full of suspense, and every eye intently taking in the scene. When the shell exploded a circle of smoke hid the mule for a moment, but when the smoke cleared away Mr. Mule had his ears laid back, and, with head down and legs lashing wildly out, he was making kindling-wood of the cart, which had been badly demoralized by a fragment of the shell. Presently the driver was seen limping to the mule; then around the mule was free from harness, and, with the driver on his back, and a farewell whisk of his tail, disappeared behind the sand hills.

The thousands of boys in blue united in a long and hearty hurrah; the sailors waved their hats and shouted themselves hoarse, and, Ark! the Confederates caught the infection and were cheering too.—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

Vitality of Ants.

The proceedings of the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia contain some interesting observations of the Rev. H. C. Mcook on the power of enduring heat and cold possessed by ants. A nest of ants (F. Pennsylvanica) established on an oak-bough was exposed to the cold of a mountain winter without destroying the inmates. A number of the little creatures were dropped upon ice, and were found alive at the end of forty-eight hours—the body of each having made a slight depression in the ice by its warmth. The species F. rufa was active in its formicary with the thermometer at 24 deg. F., and sluggish at 30 deg. The F. Pennsylvanica did not suffer from the heat of the stones walling a camp-fire, to which they had been driven from their position in a burning stump.

The late Dr. Lincecum, who made many original observations upon the Agricultural Ants (M. molefaciens) in Texas, relates that a fire was built, for heating wagon-tires, upon one of their mounds. Before the fire was extinct the ants were at work clearing away the entrance to their city. They quickly exhibited an entire knowledge of the situation, and worked among the dying embers without injury.

Mr. McCook once detected a mass of Mason Ants (F. rufa) which had been

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The father of Charley Ross having expended his fortune—some $60,000—in search of his lost boy, is at present earning a living as traveling salesman for an Eastern house.

—The Centennial poet, Sidney Lanier, has written an "Ode to Wagner," of which the St. Louis Republican remarks: "This makes Wagner's visit to America a certainty. He will come to no other purpose than to kill Lanier."

—Mr. Voorhees, the new Senator from Indiana, has a low hair and a heavy red moustache and imperial. He has a rosy face and a large body more than six feet high, which has given him the title of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash."

—Senator Blaine's daughter Alice, who was quite confirmed by the accidental discharge of a small pistol recently, will be disfigured for life when the ball is extracted, as it lies between the eye and the junction of the nose and forehead.

—The name of Senator-Morton's family was originally Throckmorton, and their ancestry is traced to the Earl of Throckmorton in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The Senator's father dropped the first syllable of his surname, and his son followed his example.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—The assertion that ex-Gov. Conuron, of Maine, is the largest landowner in the United States is disputed in favor of Wilson Waddingham, of New York, who owns 600,000 acres in one lot, on the Canadian River, in New Mexico, and enough more in other parts of the same Territory to make a total of 1,956,000 acres—more than twice as many as are claimed for Mr. Coburn.

—Mr. Conger, the witty Congressman from Michigan, has a love history which is quite remarkable. His present wife was his first love, but they quarreled and each married. Twenty years afterward, he a widower, was in Congress, and she, a widow, sat in the gallery and listened to him speaking. It was the first time they had met since they had their lovers' quarrel. She sent her card and invited him to call on her, which he promised to do if he might visit her as he used in the days of their youth. Her consent was easily obtained, the old love revived, and they were soon married.—Chicago Tribune.

RHODE ISLAND JOHNNY-CAKE.—A quart of Indian meal; if unbolted, sift into a six-quart bowl. Have a kettle of boiling water ready and pour on to the meal sufficient water to moisten it thoroughly, stirring it with a spoon; salt to taste; add half a pint or a pint of cold milk. The mixture, before cooking, should be considerably stiffer than ordinary griddle-cake batter. Bake on the griddle, rather less than half an inch thick, for half an hour. The excellence of these cakes depends on the meal being fresh and well scalded.

ATHENS, with 200 other Christian cities, was, in 1455, united to the Ottoman Empire by Mahomet II.

DOMESTIC BREVITIES.

—Very clear apple jelly can be made from the cores and parings of nice apples; cover with cold water and stew gently; strain, and add a pound of white sugar to a pint of liquid; boil half an hour.

—Macaroni and Cheese.—Put one quarter pound macaroni (broken in pieces) in salted boiling water; boil till quite tender; place the macaroni in a buttered baking-dish; pour over one-half cupful milk, and put small pieces of butter on the top, and cover thickly with grated cheese. Bake in the oven until the milk is absorbed, and the top is brown.

—Liebig suggested many years ago that the use of cod-liver oil would have a tendency to produce a distaste for alcoholic stimulants. A well-known man of science, Mr. Charles Napier, has tested this assertion, and in twenty-seven instances found it, within limits, to be true. The discovery is an important one, and ought to commend itself to victims of inebriety.

—A lady who has been troubled with the mice in her cellar, used a bag of hot oats at night, as a pillow. She says: "Beat the oats in a kettle over the fire, or in a pan in the oven. I have never been troubled with neuralgia any place but in my head, so I cannot say how beneficial it would be for neuralgia in other parts of the body. Another cure is drinking hot lemonade."

—Spice Balls.—One-half cupful good butter and one cupful sugar, creamed; one well-beaten egg, half cupful molasses, half cupful sweet milk, one cupful chopped raisins, teaspoonful of ground cloves; one grated nutmeg, teaspoonful of soda; mix with sifted flour enough to roll out; cut up in pieces and roll up in a ball; do not let them touch each other in the pan; when baked, frost; flavor the frosting with lemon.

—Clam Soup.—Take three quarts of cold water add sixty clams, chopped fine; boil one hour with a little salt and pepper, and two large white onions; then add one half-pound of butter, blended with one half-pint of flour; boil fifteen minutes. Toast bread, cut in round squares; take out the onions; season and pour the soup over the bread in tureen. The flavor of the soup may be varied by using several stock of celery, in place of the onions.

—Rice Waffles.—Put three pints of flour and one pint of rice, boiled soft, into a large bowl. Add the yolks of four eggs into it with a little salt; put to this one quart of new milk; beat all very thoroughly till the rice and flour are well mixed and free from lumps; then add half a pint more of milk to thin it. Beat the whites of four eggs till very stiff, then add to the batter and beat all well together till perfectly light; then bake.

—To Color Green.—For four pounds of goods, one ounce sugar of lead, two ounces bichromate of potash. Dissolve the sugar of lead in a tin or brass pan and the potash in a separate dish; dip from one to the other until a bright yellow is obtained, then, in another vessel, in which two ounces of prussiate of lime are dissolved, dip till suited. Two ounces of prussian blue and one ounce of oxalic acid will make a permanent blue. Dip from the blue to the acid.

Corn and Corn Cribs.

The severe and prolonged rains over a large area of the corn zone of the West is very seriously injuring the crop standing in the fields. The excessive and continued saturation of the soil, together with the sweeping wind storms that have prevailed, have caused much corn to fall. It has also prevented its drying off properly, so that the corn already cribbed remains damp, and unless hard freezing weather occurs early it will, very serious loss will ensue.

As a means of cheapening the cost of storing corn on the large farms, it is usual in the West, to make cribs eight, ten and even twelve feet wide. When each is put in such order through dry and well covered from rain, it keeps well enough. Many who have smaller areas to gather, store it in square cribs, made of ten or twelve feet rails, broadening the crib at the top, so that there the entire length of the rails are used. If well covered, those pens will keep corn intact, unless the season be of unusual severity, or unless the corn is put in early and wet. The difficulty is, not one farmer in ten properly covers these cribs. Many leave them entirely exposed to the weather at top, contenting themselves with rounding corn up more or less. In such temporary cribs the corn should be piled on as long as it will lie, being brought to as sharp a cone as possible. Then, beginning at the sides by straight corn stalks all around; over these, as others, as in placing shingles. When covered to the top tie securely, and no rain will enter.

It is objected that this will form a harbor for rats and mice. Rats, however, are seldom found permanently in the body of corn, and mice may as well be in the top as through the body of the corn.

To save corn in the most perfect manner in such cribs, set rails small, also in the middle of each crib, in the shape of a sharp cone, tying at the top, and you have one of the most perfect ventilators known. A better way is to slit eight-inch boards, leaving each piece running to a point, then, by reversing, alternately, as they are set on, and bracing at the middle, leaving the spaces close enough so the corn will not pass through, you have a perfect ventilator to each crib.

With the long board cribs in general use the means of ventilation is still more easy. All that is necessary is to arrange a number of A-shaped strips, upon which to nail fence-boards. The distance apart at which the boards are nailed need not be more than six inches, since very little corn will pass through in shoveling into the crib. These ventilators must be wider or narrower in correspond with the width of the crib; for a twelve-foot crib about four feet wide and five feet high. These are placed along the center of the crib and give excellent ventilation. The writer once saved a large crop of corn by this simple means, and the lumber was not injured for other purposes. The present season would seem to be so adverse to the drying of corn that much danger of injury in the cribs is likely to result. Hence these hints in relation to a cheap and economical means of arranging the cribs in ordinary use.—Prairie Farmer.

Underdrainage.

This is principally needed on land that floods in the spring and then lasts hard and dry in the summer, and the object of underdraining in this case is simply to keep the soil in ease of drought thus to remove the surplus water in spring. It is a fact, well established by experiment, that underdrained lands suffer more readily from drought than those thoroughly drained. The former, in a dry time, do not absorb the moisture from the atmosphere, owing to their baked and compact state, while a well-pulverized soil receives and absorbs the dew and vapor in the air. This deep or subsoil plowing is now employed in connection with underdraining with great advantage. The hardness of the soil, which will not allow water to penetrate, also keeps near the surface all fertilizing substances, and thus waste by evaporation and rain. Crops are sometimes spoken of as "water-killed;" this can happen only when ground, which has frozen while saturated, and when the frost comes out of the ground the soil is so broken up that the roots of the grass and winter grain are thrown out and the plants destroyed. Draining and subsoiling allow the moisture to sink below the reach of frost, and there is left too dry to be injured by the heaving of spring. Wet lands not only fail to produce large crops, but reach a point on them [illegible] poor quality of [illegible] to disease than those raised upon drier soil. Actual experiment has proved that the free passage of rainwater through a cold soil its temperature may be raised ten degrees above under drained land of the same quality in an adjoining field. This produces the effect of a warmer climate, not only because of the warmth extended for a longer period, but by preparing the soil for cultivation earlier in the spring. Cattle and sheep pastured upon such lands are subject to many diseases from which those in dry fields are free, besides being much troubled by the swarms of gnats and mosquitoes common to wet soils. It is not only the farmer's stock that suffers from a marshy field. Man's health is hampered all his life by the ill-health of his family, the cause of which is perhaps lying in the drinking water. Fevers and ague and consumption are engendered by marshy lands and stagnant pools.

Mere surface draining is insufficient. Open ditches will convey away the surface water, but cannot reach the cold stagnating repositories beneath the soil; they are useful on the lowest grounds as brooks to carry off the surplus water into them by underground drains coming down a hillside. Tiles are now used extensively for drains, having been found to answer the purpose much better than any sort of ditching. There must be sufficient slope to prevent sediment accumulating. They should be laid at least three feet below the surface, and, in many instances, four feet will be found better, as they must be out of reach of the frost as well as the subsoil plow. The cost of laying tiles may be greatly lessened by doing as much work as possible with horse plows and subsoil ditchers. Spring is the most economical season in which to undertake this work. Then the subsoil is moist. The distance apart of the tiles must depend upon the nature of the land. In compact soil they may be set within twenty feet of each other. If the subsoil is very porous they may be placed forty feet apart. A fall of one foot in 200 is advisable, and one in 400 is the least fall admitted by the best authorities. The least expense per acre for proper drains properly constructed, is from $35 to $45.

A free use of clover enables the farmer to do without with many of the under drains that would otherwise be necessary. The deep roots of the clover penetrate so far in the subsoil as to make a sort of natural under drainage through the crevices of their roots. Farmers need not be frightened when they tread of the costly work necessary in market gardening. A few under drains will be sufficient to make the soil dry enough in ordinary fields for most farm crops. In stiff clay soils the operation which appears so difficult is greatly facilitated by the very nature of the soil, which causes it to shrink and open in cracks when passing from a wet to a dry state. N. Y. Herald.

WINTER BONNETS appear in the received coronet shape. The cottage is very high in the center and close at the sides. Some of these have the face trimming formed exclusively of chicdenne beads laid on in close rows of gimp and dropping fringes. There are less flowers seen as the season advances. In their place are waxy plumes, birds, aigrettes, beads and fringes.

NATURE'S REMEDY.
VEGETINE
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
RECOMMEND IT HEARTILY.
BOSTON, MASS. Nov. 24, 1877.
MR. STETSON:
Dear Sir—I have taken several bottles of your VEGETINE, and am convinced it is a valuable remedy for the disease for which it is recommended. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from the above complaint.
Yours truly,
MRS. MUNROE PARKER.
Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.
THE GREAT REGULATOR.
SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
PURELY VEGETABLE.
An Effectual Specific for Malarious Fevers, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Bowel Complaints, Dysentery, Sick Headache, Constipation and Biliousness.
Nausea, Colic, Heartburn,
ASK the recommend of physicians, Nilsson surgeons, clergymen of every denomination, and the general patient, how they recommend Simmons' Liver Regulator as a family medicine—they will tell you by using it Universal Liver Regulator.
"The jointly celebrated medicine Regulator is the liver, stomach, bowels, kidneys, and purifies the system against malarial diseases."
Extract of a letter from Hon. Alexander H. Stevens: "I have personally used, when my condition required a cathartic medicine, with good effect. It is mild, and acts no better than more active remedies."
CONSTIPATION!
TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF GEORGIA—I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for constipation of my bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, it relieves me promptly. I have also used it in my family for various complaints, and it has been my personal experience in the use of it, with the best results.
JOSIAH HENRY, Chief Justice of Georgia.
Original and Only Genuine,
MANUFACTURED ONLY BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

An Excellent Text-Book.
A new school history of the United States, by Prof. J. C. Hilpath, has awakened fresh interest in the subject, even among those to whom ordinary school-books with a similar object have become distasteful. Teachers and scholars speak of its prominent features with enthusiasm, and evidently believe that no measure of commendation is too good for it. A hasty examination demonstrates to us that it contains more genuine and really desirable information about the country than any work of the kind we have seen.
The prominent characteristics are completeness of narrative, ready helps in maps, diagrams, charts and illustrations, perspicuous arrangement and terseness; failure's sufficient to exclude the interest of youth, which many school histories fail to do. A thoughtful examination will prove conclusively that we have not overstated the merits of the volume, and it should therefore attract the prompt attention of all friends of our common school system. JONES BROTHERS & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Queen of the Oven.
A breakfast-biscuit or tea-cell made with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER is the delight and queen of the oven—so light, white and delicious. Yet it is entirely safe to use in open gastry, spread it daintily with fresh, sweet butter, waiting for no grandpapa. After breakfasting on biscuits made with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, that man would contemplate suicide, or grass bale because his wife asked him for money!

The Universal Soother!
For burns, bruises, cuts, sprains, etc., PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is the most popular remedy. It soothes the pain, produces a healthy healing action, and restores the proper harmony to the parts. There is no killing when accidents will occur, and it is well to have a bottle of it.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.—Kingsford's Oswego Starch has become so popular on account of its great strength and purity that another enlargement to the mammoth factory has been made, containing, in its completion, four [illegible] acres of flooring, and producing over 35 tons daily of the best starch made in the world.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.
"Durang's Rheumatic Remedy," the great Internal Medicine, will positively cure any case of rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine, Durang & Co., Philadelphia, Pa. U. S. A.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.
Don't fail to procure MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for all diseases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and, by giving relief and health to the mother, rests to the infant.

THE MARKETS.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	NEW YORK,	Nov. 24,	1877.
	Steers	$ 6 00	@ 6 30
	Sheep	4 00	@ 5 25
	Hogs	4 75	@ 5 00
FLOUR—Good to Choice		5 80	@ 6 30
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago		1 35	@ 1 35
CORN—Western Mixed		54	@ 54½
OATS—Mixed Western		37½	@ 37¾
RYE—Western		74½	@ 75
PORK—Mess		10 00	@ 10 25
LARD—Steam		8 87½	@ 8 95
BUTTER		22	@ 27
WOOL—Domestic Fleece		32	@ 37
	CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Extra		$6 25	@ $6 50
	Good	5 75	@ 6 00
	Medium	4 75	@ 5 40
	Common	4 25	@ 4 40
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice		4 40	@ 4 60
SHEEP—Good to Choice		3 75	@ 4 00
BUTTER—Dairy		20	@ 25
	Creamery	30	@ 35
EGGS—Fresh		23	@ 25
FLOUR—Spring Extras

How Cats and Roarders are Esteeme by the People of the Bermuda Islands.

As we entered the edge of the town (Hamilton, Bermuda Islands) that Sunday afternoon, we stopped at a cottage to get a drink of water. The proprietor, a middle-aged man with a good face, asked us to sit down and rest. His dame brought chairs, and we grouped ourselves in the shade of the trees by the door. Mr. Smith—that was not his name, but it will answer—questioned us about ourselves and our country, and we answered him truthfully, as a general thing, and questioned him in return. It was all very simple, and pleasant, and sociable. Rural, too; for there was a pig and a small donkey and a hen sunbirded out, close at hand, by cords to their legs, on a spot that purported to be grassy. Presently a woman passed along, and although she nodily and nothing else changed the drift of our talk. Said Smith:

"She didn't look this way, you noticed? Well, she is our next neighbor on one side, and there's another family that's our next neighbors on the other side; but there's a general coolness all around now, and we don't speak. Yet these three families, one generation and another, have lived there side by side and been as friendly as sinners for 150 years, till about a year ago."

"Why, what calamity could have been powerful enough to break up so old a friendship?"

"Well, it was too bad, but it couldn't be helped. It happened like this. Almost a year or more ago, the rats got to pestering my place a good deal, and I set up a steel-trap in the back yard. Both of those neighbors run considerable stock, and as I warned them about the trap, because their cats were pretty sociable around here nights, and they might get into trouble without my intending it. Well, they shut up their cats for a while, but you know how it is with people; they got careless, and sure enough one night the trap took Mrs. Jones' principal cat into camp, and finished him up. In the morning Mrs. Jones comes here with the corpse in her arms, and cries and takes on the same as if it was a child. It was a cat by the name of Yelverton Lecter G. Yelverton—a troublesome old rip, with no more principle than an Injun, though you wouldn't make any ladies of it. I said all a man could to comfort her; but no, nothing would do but I must pay for him. Finally, I said I wasn't investing in cats now as much as I was, and with that she walked off in a huff, carrying the remains with her. That closed our intercourse with the Joneses. Mrs. Jones joined another church and took her tribe with her. She said she would not hold fellowship with anybody. Well, by and by comes Mrs. Brown's turn—she that went by lease a minute ago. She had a disgraceful old yellow cat that she thought as much of as if he was twins, and one night he tried that trap on his neck, and it fitted him so, and was so sort of satisfactory, that he laid down, and curled up, and stayed with it. Such was the end of Sir John Baldwin."

"Was that the name of the cat?"

"The same. Where's cats around here with names that would surprise you, Maria' (to his wife), "what was that cat's name that was a keg of ratsbane by mistake over at Hooper's and started home and got struck by lightning and took the blind staggers and fell in the well and was most drowned before they could fish him out?"

"That was that colored Deacon Jackson's cat. I only remember the last end of its name, which was Tobit-Or-Not-To-Be-That-Is-The-Question Jackson."

"Sho! that ain't the one. That's the one that eat up an entire box of Soldiltz powders, and then hadn't any more judgment than to go and take a drink. He was considered to be a great loss, but I never could see it. Well, no matter about the names. Mrs. Brown wanted to be reasonable, but Mrs. Jones wouldn't let her. She put her up to going to law for damages. So to law she went, and had the face to claim seven shillings and sixpence. It made a great stir. All the neighbors want to court. Everybody took sides. It got hotter and hotter, and broke up all the friendships for half a yards around—friendships that had lasted for generations and generations.

"Well, I proved by eleven witnesses that the cat was of a low character and very ornery, and warn't worth a canceled postage-stamp, any way, taking the average of cats here; but I lost the case. What could I expect? The system is all wrong here, and is bound to make revolution and bloodshed some day. You see, they give Magistrate a poor little starvation salary, and then turn him loose on the public to gouge for fees and costs to live on. What is the natural result? Why, he never looks into the justice of a case—never once. All he looks at, is which client has got the money. So this one piled the fees and costs and everything on to me. I could pay speeie, don't you see? and he knew mighty well that if he put the verdict on to Mrs. Brown, where it belonged, he'd have to take his swag in currency."

"Currency? Why, has Permuda a currency?"

"Yes—onions. And they were 40 per cent. discount, too; then, because the season had been over as much as three months. So I lost my case. I had to pay for that cat. But the general trouble the case made was the worst thing about it. Broke up so much good feeling. The neighbors don't speak to each other now. Mrs. Brown had named a child after me. But she changed its name right away. She is a Baptist. Well, in the course of baptizing it over again, it got drowned. I was hoping we might get to be friendly again, some time or other, but of course this drowning the child knocked that all out of the question. It would have saved a world of heart-break and ill-blood if she had named it dry."

I knew by the sigh that this was honest. All this trouble and all this destruction of conscience in the purity of the bench on account of a seven-shilling lawsuit about a cat! Somehow, it seemed to "edge" the country.

At this point we observed that an English flag had just been placed at half-mast on a building a hundred yards or away. I and my friends were busy in an instant trying to imagine whose death, among the Island dignitaries, could command such a mark of respect as this. Then a shudder shook them and me at the same moment, and I knew that we had jumped to one and the same conclusion: "The Governor has gone to England; it is for the British Admiral!"

At this moment Mr. Smith noticed the flag. He said with emotion:

"That's on a boarding-house. I judge there's a boarder dead."

A dozen other flags within view went to half-mass.

"It's a boarder, sure," said Smith.

"But would they half-mast the flags here for a boarder, Mr. Smith?"

"Why, certainly they would, if he was dead."

That seemed to size the country again.—Mark Twain, in Atlantic for December.

Value of Scarce Coins.

Of all the decimal United States coins the most valuable is the silver dollar of 1804, which is excessively rare. Specimens are worth from $500 to $1,000 each, according to the nearness with which they approach perfection. The coinage of this year was very limited, and there were no more dollars coined until 1836. "Proofs" of the last-named year are worth $10 and good examples $5. There was nothing done in dollars in 1857, and the issues of 1838 and 1839 are rare enough to raise the quotation for good specimens to $40 each. From that date forward to 1873, when the trade-dollar came in, there is no break in the line of dollars, but from 1850 to 1873, inclusive, they are quoted as "rare" or "scarce," those of 1851 and 1852 being worth $35 or $40 each. Previous to 1804 the value of a "good" specimen varies from $1.75 for 1799 to $5 for 1798 and $4 for 1801, save that the first date of all (1794), which is very rare, brings $50. Some of the early dates are made peculiarly valuable by reason of variation in the number and style of stars, etc., there being three varieties of 1798 and five of 1795.

Of the silver half dollars, those of 1796 and 1797 are the most valuable, choice examples of these dates being worth from $15 to $20. Good ones of other years previous to 1806 will bring from $2 to $4. One of this class of 1815 is quoted at $2.50, and then they are of little rarity until 1836, when a specimen with reeded edge and head of Liberty like 1841, is worth $1.25 and is a good issue of 1846.

Of all the minor coins, however, an 1802 half dime is the chief in cost, the price ranging from $75 to $200, according to quality. A good specimen of many other dates is, nevertheless, a handy thing to have, as will be noted by the following quotations: 1794, $4; 1795, $4; 1797, $2; 1800, $4.25; 1801, $6; 1803, $4; 1804, $4; 1840 (with drapery), $1; 1846, $1.75. From that date until 1873, when the coinage closed, no unusual worth attaches to dig class. A first-class specimen of the last-named date is worth fifty cents, however.

For the three-cent silver pieces there is but little speculative cell, as their period only reaches from 1851 to 1873, including both these years. By far the most valuable of all of them is the 1855, a perfect specimen of which is worth $2. From 1863 to 1869 all are nominated one is worth fifty cents. All the other dates are of small value.—Boston Post.

THE Mobile Register says that the Southern women were not nervous during the war; that at Vicksburg and Petersburg, when the shells went through the house they would go down into the cellar and get dinner ready as usual.

The Mule of Sumter.

When Dahlgren's iron-clads began operations in Charleston Harbor, the Tenth Army Corps made a sudden dash and drove in the thin line of pickets which the Confederates had posted on the eastern end of Morris Island. When daylight came, every gun which Beauregard could bring to bear upon the new work began to rain shot and shell, and from daylight till noon there were lively times in and about Charleston Bay. Shortly after noon Fort Sumter opened furiously, and it was feared that an attempt was about to be made by the enemy to advance. There were enough men there, it was thought, to hold it, but there was a deficiency of ammunition, and so a mule-driver volunteered to deliver the ammunition. The only road was the smooth and sandy beach along the bay, and the distance between the two points a mile and a half. Half that distance was within easy range of Fort Sumter, and Battery Wagner's guns covered all the way to the sand hills, behind which was the Federal camp.

I am describing this incident as it appeared from the shipping in the bay, and what outlined itself to me was the sudden waking up of every gun on the southeast angle of Sumter. Looking to see the cause of the furious cannonading, everybody was surprised to see a mule-team tearing up the beach in the direction of the new work. The driver was the lashing the mule, and that mule had his ears laid straight back and was making his legs go. Occasionally a shell would touch the beach, bound up and explode, and the mule would then hesitate and try to turn back. But the driver would lay the cowhide on with renewed vigor; then the mule would put on another spurt; until, at last, it became entirely demoralized by the explosion of a ten-inch shell almost under its belly. Every glass in the squadron was leveled at the spectacle. The driver got off his seat, took the animal by the head, whirled it around once or twice and started it up the beach once more. Fort Sumter flashed and thanked, Battery Wagner howled and thundered, and still that daring driver urged his mule along, though the way was swept by at least thirty guns.

At last he reached his destination, but he could not stay there, and in a moment he was turned around, and exhibited the same daring to the level head. The mule did not need to be told to step out, for in his rear there was roar and rocket, and about the same time up sailed the explosion, which seemed to stimulate its fleetness. Down that hard beach flew the mule, the light wagon bobbing and swaying, and the driver's arm rising and falling as he dealt out lash after lash. At last they neared their brother of the army mule. In another minute they would be safe, but just as they near the place to turn aside, a shell came screaming from Sumter. Everybody could see the huge mass of iron as it reared through the air. It struck the beach directly in the rear of the mule, and with a bound it overtook it and exploded with terrific violence. A general exclamation was heard from Dahlgren's flag-ship, where the admiral and his staff were earnestly gazing at the adventurous mule and his daring driver. Fort Sumter's ramparts were lined with men, they, too, willing witnesses of Yankee pluck. Along the swell of Morris Island, and covering every elevation, could be seen the Union soldiers, who stood with bated breath, anxious and full of suspense, and every eye intently taking in the scene. When the shell exploded a circle of smoke hid the mule for a moment, but when the smoke cleared away Mr. Mule had his ears laid back, and with head down and legs lashing wildly out, he was making kindling-wood of the cart, which had been badly demoralized by a fragment of the shell. Presently the driver was seen limping to the mule, in a second the mule was free from the cart, and, with the driver on his back, and a farewell whisk of his tail, disappeared behind the cover of the hills.

The distance of team in mule united in a long and hearty hurrah; the sailors waved their hats and shouted themselves hoarse, and, lark! the Confederates caught the infection and were cheering too.—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

Vitality of Ants.

The proceedings of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia contain some interesting observations of the Rev. H. C. McCook on the power of enduring heat and cold possessed by ants. A nest of ants (F. Pennsylvanica) established on an oak-bough was exposed to the cold of a mountain winter without destroying the inmates. A number of the little creatures were dropped upon ice, and were found alive at the end of forty-eight hours—the body of each having made a slight depression in the ice by its heat. The species F. rufa was native to the country with the thermometer at 34 deg. F., and sluggish at 30 deg. The F. Pennsylvanica did not suffer from the heat of the stones wafting a camp-fire, to which they had been driven from their position in a burning stump.

The late Dr. Lincecum, who made many original observations upon the Agricultural Ants (M. molefaciens) in Texas, relates that a fire was built for heating wagon-tires, upon one of their mounds. Before the fire was extinct, the ants were at work clearing away the entrance to their city. They quickly exhibited an entire knowledge of the situation, and worked among the dying embers without injury.

Mr. McCook once noted a mass of Mason Ants (F. rufa) which had been accidentally flooded with inches of water. Their bodies floated about on the fluid, apparently lifeless, for several hours, but were finally almost all restored to animation. Dr. Lincecum observed that the Agricultural Ants were often seen floating, clinging in masses as large as an orange, on the surface of wells. After remaining in this situation a day or two, on being drawn up in a bucket, all proved to be alive. Ants will drown after a submergence of six minutes in water, and these lumps composing these insects must have kept alive by the ball revolving continually with the struggles of the individuals, or by an instinctive and orderly movement of the outer tier.

Bismarck and Family.

While we sat at dinner in the open air before the first door, a carriage passed, in which was seated a lady and gentleman. Before we noticed a flutter in the little group about the door and a raising of hats, in which the gentleman in the carriage gracefully replied, we had already recognized Bismarck, so exactly like his photographs is he, though not so heavy looking, the pallor of his face, perhaps, giving an appearance of greater refinement to his massive features than the camera has known how to. Several other carriages followed with members of the family and suite, all on their way to Gastein. We have since seen them here so often that their faces have grown quite familiar. The Princess von Bismarck is the plainest looking of women, so unlike the traditional idea of a Princess that one involuntarily speaks of her as Mrs. Bismarck; but she has a very sensible face, anxious and worried in its expression, and a dignified, modest bearing. The daughter is a strong, healthy young girl, with no beauty but that of youth and health. They both dress with the greatest possible simplicity; indeed, an entire lack of ostentation seems to be the striking characteristic of the family; their servants do not wear livery. We passed Bismarck himself on the "Kurserweg," a favorite promenade, walking meditatively and alone by a great thicket, and did not recognize him until he stepped up into the wet, grassy bank to let us pass, and lifted his hat in his usually courteous manner. He is a tall, powerful-looking man, walking a little lame but wonderfully vigorous for his years and his physique for the man born to do the mighty work he has to destroy and create empires.—Unsten Cor. Boston Post.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The father of Charley Ross having expended his fortune—some $60,000—in search of his lost boy, is at present earning a living as a traveling salesman for an Eastern house.

—The Centennial poet, Sidney Lanier, has written an "Ode to Wagner," which reads like Lowell. Lanier Republican remarks: "This makes Wagner's visit to America a certainty. He will come if for no other purpose than to kill Lanier."

—Mr. Voorhees, the new Senator from Indiana, has yellow hair and a heavy red mustache and imperial. He has a rose face and a large body more than six feet high, which has given him the title of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash."

—Senator Blaine's daughter Alice, who was shot in the forehead by the accidental discharge of a small pistol recently, will be disfigured for life when the ball is extracted, as it lies between the eyes at the junction of the nose and forehead.

—The name of Senator Morton's family was originally Throckmorton, and their ancestry is traced to the Earl of Throckmorton in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The Senator's father dropped the first syllable of his surname, and his son followed his example.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—The assertion that ex-Gov. Coburn, of Maine, is the largest land-owner in the United States is disputed in favor of Wilson Waddingham, of New York, who owns 665,000 acres in one lot on the Canadian River, in New Mexico, and enough acres in other parts of the same Territory to make a total of 1,226,000 acres, or more than twice as many as are owned by Mr. Coburn.

—Mr. Conger, the witty Congressman from Michigan, has a fine history which is quite remarkable. His present wife was his first love, but they quarreled and each married. Twenty years afterward, he a widower, was in Congress, and she, a widow, sat in the gallery and listened to him speaking. It was the first time they had met since they had their lovers' quarrel. She sent her card and invited him to call on her, which he promised to do if he might visit her as he used in the days of their youth. Her consent was easily obtained, the old love revived, and they were soon married.—Chicago Tribune.

RHODE ISLAND JOHNNY-CAKE.—A quart of Indian meal; if unsifted, sift into a six-quart bowl. Have a kettle of boiling water ready and pour on to the meal sufficient water to moisten it thoroughly, stirring it with a spoon; salt to taste; add half a pint or a pint of milk. The mixture, before cooking, should be considerably stiffer than ordinary griddle-cake batter. Bake on the griddle, rather less than half an inch thick, for half an hour. The excellence of these cakes depends on the meal being fresh and well scalded.

ATHENS, with 280 other Christian cities, was, in 1455, united to the Ottoman Empire by Mahomet II.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—A Texas dog which was taken to Missouri, traveled all the way back, and through his wonderful sagacity found his master's home, having traveled 800 miles.

—A man in California has a large rock crystal weighing about three pounds, taken from a hillside in the mountains of Nevada. The hillside was on one side of a canyon, and opposite a hill covered with green trees. The crystal was projecting from a bowlder, and by some process known only to nature, the whole scene, colors and all, has been lithographed in the face of the crystal and looks very natural.

—The Concord (N. H.) Monitor says "The other night as Henry A. Drew, of Stratford, was calmly slumbering, a large wildcat entered his house and began an attack upon him. Mr. Drew managed to escape from the room, procured a stick of wood, and returned to the attack. After smashing the stick to pieces and demolishing a chair, he finally managed, with the help of his wife, to kill the animal. The wildcat entered the house through a hole left in the side of the outer door by the breaking of a pane of glass."

—Mr. Zimmerman, residing in Springfield, Ill., was told of the presence of burglars in his house, a few mornings ago, by a rat. It was in this wise: In going into the bath room, the latter cut out of the house, and at early morn Mr. Z. was awakened by the purring of the feline favorite. At the same moment he felt the draught from the front door and knew burglars were in the house. The burglars had already captured several napkins and a bit of plunder from the larder, but were pressed so closely by the awakened family that they dropped a meat-axe and other provender, and at once entered upon a lively foot-race.

—Two young lovers in Vermont, who would wed without their friends' knowledge, started for Westport the other day, but found afterward that they could not complete the journey until the next day. They couldn't go home unmarried, so they drove to Paston and asked the Rev. Mr. Brooks to unite them. He could not perform the ceremony without a license from the proper town official. That was unobtainable, as they were far from home. The bridegroom then upon the idea of evading the law by going out of the State. So the three, with two witnesses, got into a boat and went rowing out into Lake Champlain, where the knot was satisfactorily tied.

—The Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise relates the following as an account of recent veritable occurrences: "About a week or ten days since, a man in this city dreamed that he saw his mother-in-law, who had been dead from the mine in which he worked. He told his wife of the dream next morning, and during the day they talked a good deal about it. On the second day, the man who had experienced the dream looked from the window and saw the neighbor on his own door-step, about to leave for the mine. He said to his wife: 'I have a great mind to go and beg that man not to go to work, my dream haunts me so.' The lady answered that it was a foolish thought, which would only annoy the man, and was not worth mentioning, as it was the neighbor's last day in the mine. Within two hours from that moment, the neighbor's body, crushed out of shape and quite dead, was brought home."

A man with a large hole in his head and another in his waistcoat pocket, but $800 the other day passing along Treasure street, Boston. He had crammed a roll of bills into his pocket, and it had slipped through and fallen to the sidewalk without his knowledge. Now it happened that a shabbily-dressed girl, poor but honest, was walking behind him, and saw the greenbacks fall at his feet. She picked them up, caught up with the gentleman, and asked him if he had lost anything. His fingers were in his torn pocket and his heart in his mouth as he answered: "Yes, I have—$800." The girl handed him the roll of bills. He counted them, glanced at her, and offered her twenty cents. With a look of disdain, she brushed him aside and went on her way. The man with the microscopic soul was not cast-down, he had saved his twenty cents as well as his $800.

John Dumont and Dave Long, a couple of Texas boys, were loping their horses up the road a few evenings since, and at the same time shooting at objects along the road with their pistols. As they approached a tree, the branches of which extended over the road, John wagered that he could hit the limb, and, drawing his pistol, fired. The bark flew from the limb, which went to show the accuracy of the shot. Instantly after the report of the pistol Dave checked his horse, exclaiming: "I am shot! I am killed!" John replied: "I guess not, or you could not 'racket' that way." "Well, if I ain't dead, I'm dying," said Dave. By this time John was by Dave's side, and sure enough he was shot. The ball that John shot at the limb hit the same spot on Dave's back and struck Dave in the mouth, knocking out four of his front teeth, two upper and two lower. The upper teeth and ball could not be found; John, however, thinks Dave swallowed them. Strange to say, not either of the lips was scratched.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S crown is composed of 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds and 147 table diamonds, one large ruby, seventeen sapphires, eleven emeralds, four small rubies and 722 pearls, all set in silver and gold.

DOMESTIC BREVITIES.

—Very clear apple jelly can be made from the cores and parings of nice apples; cover with cold water and stew gently; strain, and add a pound of white sugar to a pint of liquid; boil half an hour.

—Macaroni and Cheese.—Put one quarter pound macaroni (broken in pieces) in salted boiling water; boil till quite tender; place the macaroni in a buttered baking-dish; pour over one-half cupful milk, and put small pieces butter on the top, and cover thickly with grated cheese. Bake in the oven until the milk is absorbed, and the top is brown.

Liebig suggested many years ago that the use of cod-liver oil would have a tendency to promote a disease for alcoholic stimulants. A well-known man of science, Mr. Charles Napier, has tested this assertion, and in twenty-seven instances found it, within limits, to be true. The discovery is an important one, and ought to commend itself to victims of inebriety.

A lady who has been troubled with the neuralgia in her head, used a bag of hot oats at night, as a pillow. She says: "I have used the bag filled with the fire, or in a pan in your oven. I have never been troubled with neuralgia any place but in my head, so I cannot say how beneficial it would be for neuralgia in other parts of the body. Another cure is drinking hot lemonade."

—Spice Balls.—One-half cupful good butter and one cupful sugar, creamed, one well-beaten egg, half cupful molasses, half cupful sweet milk, one cupful chopped raisins, teaspoonful of ground cloves; one grated nutmeg; teaspoonful of soda; mix with sifted flour enough to roll out; cut up in pieces and roll up in a ball; do not let them touch each other in the pan; when baked, frost, flavor the frosting with lemon.

—Clam Soup.—To three quarts of cold water add sixty clams, chopped fine; boil one hour with a little salt and pepper, and two large potato onions; then add one half-pound of butter, blended with one half-pint of flour; boil fifteen minutes. Toast bread cut in small squares; take out the whole onions, and pour the soup over the bread in tureen. The flavor of the soup may be varied by using several stocks of celery, in place of the onions.

—Rice Waffles.—Put three pints of flour and one pint of rice, boiled soft, into a large bowl; add the yolks of four eggs into it, with a little salt; put to this one quart of new milk; beat all very thoroughly till the rice and flour are well mixed and free from lumps; then add half a pint more of milk to thin it. Beat the whites of four eggs till very stiff, then add to the batter, and beat all well together till perfectly light; then bake.

—To Color Green.—For four pounds of goods, one ounce sugar of lead, two ounces bichromate of potash. Dissolve the sugar of lead in a tin or brass dish, and the potash in a separate dish; dip from one to the other until a bright yellow is obtained, then, in another vessel, in which two ounces of prussian blue are dissolved, dip till quite green. Two ounces of prussian blue and one ounce of oxalic acid will make a permanent blue. Dip from the blue to the acid.

Corn and Corn Cribs.

The severe and prolonged rains over a large area of the corn zone of the West is very seriously injuring the crop standing in the fields. The excessive and continued saturation of the soil, together with the sweeping wind storms that have prevailed, have caused much corn to fall. It has also prevented its drying off properly, so that the corn already gathered remains damp, and unless hard freezing weather ocenrs to dry it out, very serious loss will ensue.

As a means of cheapening the cost of storing corn on the large farms, it is customary in the West, to make cribs eighteen and even twelve feet wide. When corn is put in such cribs thoroughly dry, and well covered from rain, it keeps well enough. Many who have smaller areas to gather, store it in square cribs, made of ten or twelve feet wide, broadening the crib at the top so that there the entire length of the rails are used. If well covered, these pens will keep corn almost indefinitely, unless in very unfavorable, or unless the corn is put in early and wet. The difficulty is, too one farmer in ten properly covers these cribs. Many leave them entirely exposed to the weather at top, contenting themselves with roofing the corn in the center. This is temporary; rains run down and soak the corn, and the sides are not protected. The dark lines from the limb, which went to show the accuracy of the shot. Instantly after the report of the pistol Dave checked his horse, exclaiming: "I am shot! I am killed!" John replied: "I guess not, or you could not 'racket' that way." "Well, if I ain't dead, I'm dying," said Dave. By this time John was by Dave's side, and sure enough he was shot. The ball that John shot at the limb hit the same spot on Dave's back and struck Dave in the mouth, knocking out four of his front teeth, two upper and two lower. The upper teeth and ball could not be found; John, however, thinks Dave swallowed them. Strange to say, not either of the lips was scratched.

Underdrainage.

This is principally needed on land that floods in the spring and then bakes hard and dry in the summer, and the only way of underdraining in this case is more to moisten the soil in time of drought than to remove the surplus water in spring. It is a fact, well established, that underdrained lands suffer more readily from drought than those thoroughly drained. The former, in dry time, do not absorb the moisture from the atmosphere, owing to their baked and compact state, while a well-pulverized soil receives and absorbs the dew and vapor in the air. Thus deep or subsoil plowing is employed in connection with underdraining with great advantage. The hardness of the soil, which will not allow water to penetrate, also keeps near the surface all fertilizing substances, and these waste by evaporation and rain. Crops are sometimes spoken of as "water-killed;" this can happen only when ground, which has been already saturated, and when the frost comes out of the ground the soil is so broken up that the roots of the grass and winter grain are thrown out and the plants destroyed. Draining and subsoiling allow the moisture to sink below the reach of frost, and the soil is left too dry to be injured by the thaws of spring. Wet lands not only fail to produce large crops, but such crops as are grown are more of poorer quality and more subject to disease than those raised upon drier soil. Actual experiment has proved that by giving water a free passage through a cold soil its temperature may be raised ten degrees above underdraining, and the temperature of the adjoining field. This produces the effect of a warmer climate, not only because the soil is warmed, but because the season of growth is extended for a longer period, but by preparing the soil for cultivation earlier in the spring. Cattle and sheep pastured upon wet lands are subject to many diseases from which those in dry fields are free, besides being annoyed and worried by the swarms of gnats and mosquitoes common to wet soils. It is not only the farmer's stock that suffers from marshy field. Many a one is hampered all his life by the ill-health of his family, the cause of which is perhaps lying at his very dooryard. Fever and ague and consumption are engendered by the many landed stagnant pools.

Mere surface draining is insufficient. Open ditches will convey away the surface water, but cannot reach the cold stagnating upbottoms beneath the soil; they are useful on the lowest grounds as brooks to carry off the water emptied into them by underground drains coming down a hillside. Tiles are now used extensively for drains, having been found to answer the purpose much better than any sort of ditching. They must be sufficient slope to prevent sediment accumulating. They should be laid at least three feet below the surface, and, in many instances, four feet will be found better, as they must be out of reach of the frost as well as the subsoil plow. The cost of laying tiles may be greatly lessened by doing as much work as possible with horse plows and subsoil plows. Any one in the unemployed season in which to undertake this work, when the subsoil is dry, and before the rains set in, the requisite depth upon the nature of the land. In compact soil they may lay set within twenty feet of each other. If the subsoil is very porous they may be placed forty feet apart. A fall of one in 200 is advisable, and one in 500 is the least admissible. Among the best authorities, the best expense per acre for proper drains properly constructed, is from $35 to $45.

A free use of clover enables the farmer to dispense with many of the under drains that would otherwise be necessary. The deep roots of the clover penetrate so far in the subsoil as to make a sort of natural under drainage through the crevices of their roots. Farmers need not be frightened when they read of the costly work necessary in market gardening. A few under drains will be sufficient to make this soil dry enough in ordinary fields for most farm crops. In stiff clay soils the operation which appears so difficult is really simplified by the very effects. It is solid, and quite as better than more active remedies.

CONSTIPATION!

TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF GEORGIA.—I have used Dr. Benj. Hedges' Yeast Cure for constipation of my bowels, caused by a disarrangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it is a good medicine for the derangement of the liver—at least, such has been my personal experience in the use of it.

BENJ. HARVEY, Chief-Justice of Georgia.

Original and Only Genuine.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

An Excellent Text-Book.

A new school history of the United States, by Prof. J. C. Hepburn, has awakened fresh interest in the subject, even among those to whom ordinary school-books with a stellar object have become distasteful. Teachers and scholars speak of its prominent features with enthusiasm, and evidently believe that nomenclature of commendation is too good for it. A handy examination demonstrates to us that it contains more genuine and really desirable information about the Country than any work of the kind we have seen.

Its prominent characteristics are completeness of narrative, ready helps in maps, diagrams, charts and illustrations, perspicuous arrangement and terseness; features sufficient to enchain the interest of youth, which many school histories fail to do. A thoughtful examination will prove completely that we have not overstated the merits of the volume, and it should therefore attract the prompt attention of all friends of our common school system. JONES BROTHERS & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Queen of the Oven.

A brand-new result—of no-oil made with BOOKER'S YEAST POWDER is certainly the queen of the cream-no light, white and delicate. You will be delighted with it; get a trial, spread it daintily with fresh, sweet butter, adding to be gracious. After broadcasting on biscuits made with BOOKER'S YEAST POWDER, what man would complain? Ask your grocer because his wife asked him for money!

The Universal Soother!

For burns, bruises, cuts, sprains, etc., PERRY DAVIS' "Pain Killer" is the most popular remedy. It soothes the pain, produces a healthy reaction, and, in fact, is the greatest of economy to the parts. There is no telling when accidents will occur, and it is well to have a bottle of it.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.—Kingsford's Oswego Starch has become so popular as a general fit for general strength and purity, that another enlargement to the mammoth factory has been made, containing, in its completion, over 10 acres of flooring, and employing over 125 hands daily of the best starch made in the world.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"Durang's Rheumatic Remedy," the great Infallible Effects, will positively cure any case of rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine & Bentley, Washington, D. C.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for all diseases of teething. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and, by giving relief and health to the child, gives rest to the mother.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24, 1877.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$ 2.25	@ $10.75
Sheep	4.00	@ 5.25
Hogs	4.75	@ 5.00
FLOUR—Good to Choice	5.80	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1.03	@ 1.03
CORN—Western Mixed	.50	@ .50½
OATS—Mixed Western and State	.33	@ .40
RYE—Western	.74	@ .75
PORK—Mess	14.00	@ 14.50
LARD—Steam	8.37½	@ 8.45
BUTTER	.22	@ .30
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	.32	@ .47
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Extra	$5.25	@ $6.00
Fair to Choice	4.50	@ 5.20
Good	4.15	@ 4.45
Stockers	3.00	@ 4.00
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	4.80	@ 5.05
SHEEP—Fair to Choice and Rate	3.00	@ 4.50
FLOUR—Fresh	$5.10	@ $5.50
Spring Wheat	5.75	@ 6.75
Winter	5.00	@ 6.00
GRAIN—Wheat, No. 2 Spring	1.08½	@ 1.09
No. 3	.98	@ 1.00
Corn, No. 2	.50	@ .50½
Oats, No. 2	.35	@ .35½
Rye, No. 2	.74	@ .75
Barley, No. 2	.56	@ .56½
BROOM CORN—Hurl	3.00	@ 4.00
Self-Working	2.50	@ 3.00
Crooked	2.00	@ 2.50
PORK	13.50	@ 13.75
LARD	8.00	@ 8.12½
LUMBER—Common and Fence	8.00	@ 12.00
Shingles	2.50	@ 2.60
Lath	1.75	@ 2.00
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.75
Medium	3.00	@ 4.00
HOGS—Good	4.50	@ 4.75
SHEEP—Good	3.75	@ 4.00
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.25
Medium	4.00	@ 4.50
HOGS—Yorkers	4.85	@ 4.90
Philadelphias	4.40	@ 4.50
SHEEP—Best	4.25	@ 4.50
Common	3.00	@ 4.00

NATURE'S REMEDY.

VEGETINE

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

RECOMMEND IT HEARTILY.

SOUTH BOSTON.

MR. STETSON:

DEAR SIR—I have taken several bottles of your VEGETINE, and am satisfied it is a valuable remedy, for Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaint, and General Debility of the System. I have recommended it to all enquirers.

Yours truly, MRS. MINNIE PARKER.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

THE GREAT REGULATOR.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE,

An Effectual Specific for Malarious Fevers, Jaundice, Bowel Complaints, Dyspepsia, Mental Depression, Sick Headache, Constipation and Biliousness.

Nausea, Colic,

ASK the renowned dyspeptic, Bilious sufferers, victims of fever and ague, the nervous and diseased patient, how they feel after using Simmons Liver Regulator, and their answer will be, "All right now." Ask your druggist if he has it, and if he says he has not, tell him to get it for you. Take no other. Be sure you get the genuine, with our Trade-Mark, Red Z, on the wrapper. Price $1.00 per package. Prepared only by J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, Philadelphia, Pa.

Extract of a letter from Hon. Alexander H. Stevens: "I certainly know, when my nerves are built up, my digestion improved, my liver regulated, I feel the effects. It is mild, and suits me better than more active remedies."

CONSTIPATION!

TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF GEORGIA.—I have used Dr. Benj. Hedges' Yeast Cure for constipation of my bowels, caused by a disarrangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it is a good medicine for the derangement of the liver—at least, such has been my personal experience in the use of it.

BENJ. HARVEY, Chief-Justice of Georgia

Original and Only Genuine.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

The Wilson Adjustable Chair

AND SELF-PROPELLING WHEEL CHAIRS.

The best Invalid and Easy Chairs in the country.

Plain and Folding Iron Bedsteads.

NATIONAL WIRE MATTRESS, the best and cheapest Spring Bottom. Mattresses not to sag.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue and Price List to

MATHIAS KLEIN,

225 to 229 Twelfth St., Chicago, Ill.

1823. SEND FOR THE 1878.

NEW YORK OBSERVER.

THE OLDEST AND THE BEST

FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

$3.15 a Year, Postpaid.

37 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

SAMPLE COPIES FREE.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having received from an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send the recipe, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using, by return mail (free), with the history of the disease. Sent by addressing, with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N.Y.

1878—TWELFTH YEAR.—$1.60

THE NURSERY,

Illustrated Magazine for Children.

12th Vol. 19 Cents for a Sample Number and Premium List. Subscribe NOW (Nos. 1877) and get the remaining numbers of the year FREE.

JOHN L. SHOREY,

36 Bromfield Street, Boston.

IF YOU WANT

A First-Class Magazine,

Subscribe for the ATLANTIC MONTHLY for 1878 now, and you will receive the November and December numbers FREE. Price $4.00. For One Dollar extra you can obtain a beautiful life-size portrait of either of the world-famous poets, Whittier, Bryant, and Longfellow, by mail, postage free.

Mark Twain is a constant contributor to the ATLANTIC, and the best authors, poets and story-tellers in the country write for its pages. Address: H. O. HOUGHTON & CO., Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat,

Requires immediate attention, as neglect often results in some incurable Lung disease. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, and will almost invariably give immediate relief.

SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS and dealer in medicines.

22x36 Oil Paintings Free! Want Agents. Print your New Years and Calling Cards with our Rubber Name Stamps. S. M. Thorne

Your name in the above type, or in a nice Gothic Type, a bottle of Indelible Inking Composition, pair Pads, package brass, 25 Fine Tarr Cards, 25 Visiting Cards, in case, with directions. Mail

OUR EXPORTS.

Comparative Statement of the Shipping Commerce of the Pine Lake Region for the Past Season.

Notwithstanding the serious depression in trade during the latter half of last season, the traffic of this region took a great stride over the business of the year previous. From the records in the office of the Deputy Collector of Customs of the port of Charlevoix we take the following figures:

There were 201 clearances from the Port of Charlevoix during the season of navigation of 1877; excess over those of previous year, 34. Total of tonnage for season of 1877, 35,867; excess over that of previous season, 4,574.

The following shows the exports of the season, and compares the export of the three leading articles with the same of this year previous:

	1876.	1877.	Excess
Wood, cords	6,329	11,756	5,427
Bark, cords	6,459	9,943	3,484
Lumber, feet, B. M.	253,000	383,000	130,000
Barrel hoops,		112,000
Cedar Posts,		8,000
Pointers, bushels,		1,462

Total average value, in market, of exports for season of 1877, $35,867.

Let it be borne in mind that we have not included in our statement the considerable amount of various articles shipped by means which have not come within the authority of the Deputy Collector, and the 2,500 cords of wood sold as fuel to passing steamers by A. Fox & Co., which justly constituted a good portion of our commerce. This will swell the aggregate value of material shipped from this port this year to over $100,000.

The steady increase of our trade has been accomplished under many impediments, which, however, are rapidly being removed, and, the present transient depression in trade removed, the prospects are good for even still greater increase in the future.

FRESH OYSTERS at Fox, Rose & Buttars'.

THE HARBOR APPROPRIATION.—The Chief of Engineers has asked Congress to appropriate $30,000 to carry on the work of improving Charlevoix harbor.

No appropriation for harbor improvement was ever asked for that was better deserved, or more needed.

The statement of exports in another column of this page shows what the effect has been of even the limited improvement already accomplished, and clearly demonstrates the ratio of increase which follows such improvement.

We point with satisfaction to the fact that the usual loss of a certain percentage of work by storms is not attached to harbor work here. Every dollar properly expended is a permanent improvement.

The feeling of Congress on the question of harbor appropriation cannot be foretold, but we are sanguine that if the bill passes as made up, we shall get the whole amount asked for.

One thing seems to be in favor of harbor appropriations, and that is that no appropriations were made last year.

All kinds of produce, (including cash) taken in exchange for goods at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

MICHIGAN INDIANS AND THE POPE.—There is on exhibition in a store on Broadway, New York, a curious collection of Indian presents to the Pope. They were collected by the Rev Edward Jacker, of St. Ignace, Mackinaw county, from the Ottawa converts in that Catholic mission and he is now on his way to Rome with them. From the Herald's description of them we take the following: "There are among the collection several implements of war, such as clubs, which very much resemble a policeman's club, with a wooden ball glued to them, and portions of old stone tomahawks. One of the hunting knives was made by Mr. Nadwedessa, who had his name attached to the weapon. Another very interesting article is a calumet, or peace pipe, of white stone and very heavy. The bowl, instead of being circular, was cut square, so that it presents four sides to view, on each of which is rudely carved a human face, a regular double Janus the four faces being typical of the four seasons when a smoke is enjoyable. Among the other curiosities are bows and arrows, flint arrowheads, little birch canoes, specimens of baskets and pails, a little cradle (for the Pope), miniature snow shoes, about five inches long, and a pair of moccasins, which are just large enough to wear on the thumb. All these articles are beautifully embroidered, and many of them have attached the names of the makers. This Miss Margaret Ogima Amable sent a specimen of each article which the Indians use to cover their tents with. Several instruments and coffee urns were also contributed by this estimable lady. One of the richest has in its small frame of birch bark, on which is written in English, in a plain hand, the words, 'An Indian maiden asks your blessing, holy father,' with the signature, 'Jane Lasley.'"

SEE & WASHBURN have just received a general assortment of Holiday goods.

OYSTERS at W. C. Newman's.

INDIAN HOUSEBANDS.—Indian Agent Ley, who, in company with an agent of the General Land Office was here a short time ago, looking into the matter of advertising Indian homelands, wrote in March last to the Commissioner of Indian affairs, acting with that he had for some considerable time been investigating the matter of complaints against the Indians for abandonment of their home steads, and charging that the complaints were made in bad faith and for speculative purposes, and that they were therefore being deprived of their lands wrongfully by unprincipled speculators. He asked that proceedings against the entries of the Indians might be suspended to give him an opportunity to further investigate the matter and make a detailed report. Mr. Ley's visit here was to investigate certain cases here. What the result will be, we are unable to say.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. A. Crouter.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

DR. A. TRASK'S

MAGNETIC OINTMENT

FOR THE CURE OF

INFLAMMATORY DISEASES.

Dr. Trask was engaged for twenty years in a course of experiments upon the medical properties and juices of vegetables, separate and combined. The fruits of seventy years' labor rested in presenting to the world, as the result of his experiments, a combination of Vegetable extracts the power of which in removing diseases is unequaled in the annals of Medicine. His discovery consists in a combination of those powerful Vegetable Extracts with Electricity or Magnetism in the form of an Ointment.

Certain, it is, that the most remarkable and unprecedented success which has attended its application to the cure of diseases, stamps it at once as the greatest discovery of the age, and calls for a full and close investigation of its properties.

It never fails, while there remains sufficient life to restore a natural and healthy action to the capillary vessels of the body, and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this action it is enabled to gain a victory over the most malignant forms of disease, which cannot be obtained from any other source.

Such is the power of this combination, that it penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone and muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible of its purifying and healing influence. Hence it cures as readily with internal as external disease.

Numerous instances are on record where this remedy has restored health to persons so near the grave that the most powerful internal remedies failed to produce any effect. Such has frequently been the case in inflammation of the bowels.

No patient ever used this with any disease where the Magnetic Ointment can be obtained.

For inflammatory Rheumatism this Ointment is the most complete remedy ever prepared. For Diphtheria or Putrid sore Throat it is unrivaled.

In ninety-nine cases out of 5 hundred, it will effect entire relief to the worst case of Nervous Headache in thirty minutes.

For Nervous Diseases this medicine is of immense value.

Affection of the Spine, Rheumatism, Ague, Ulcerated sore Throat, Bronchitis, Dysentery, Croup, Colds, Chapped Mothers, Eruptions of the Face or Breast, Burns, Scald Head, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Inflamed Eyes, Fever Sores, Boils, Felons, etc., will be immediately relieved by the use of Dr. Trask's Magnetic Ointment.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Ink! all warranted of superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Successors of Ivor Johnson, Boyd and) 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO. And 13 Hartley Street, New York.

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 20, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram Pardee, against James H. Ross, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5777, dated Nov. 15, 1875, upon the following described tract in Township 32 N., R 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 24th day of Jan. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

27

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES will do well to call at our lumber yard on Round Lake. Bills filled on short notice.

UPRIGHT & WAY,
Owners of Schr. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix June 12, 1877.

NOTICE.—Whereas, my wife, Ann Whalen has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, I therefore forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting.

J. P. WHALEN.

Wilson, Oct. 24.

FARM FOR SALE In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 83 acres on section 30 in Eveline, 2 acres improvement, good house and log house, good well and orchard of 50 bearing trees. Good fences. On main traveled road. School house quarter of a mile, grist-mill two miles and a half.

Charles Hitler,
Antrim Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 23, Town 32 N. R 8 West, Seven Wall, 80 acres Twenty-five acres improvements, 200 fruit trees, 35 bushels of apples last year. Will be sold for $700 cash.

ANTOINE SIMMON,
Elk Rapids
Mich.

W. F. CASWELL. C. S. BARSSER.

CASWELL & BARSSER,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood. Bark. Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.,

ROOM NO. 10, MARINE BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.

THE

SentineL

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT,

Address all orders to W. A. Smith.

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 20, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene C. Tredway against Alvin Eagle, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6611, dated Aug. 2, 1876, upon the south ½ of section 26, Township 34, North, Range 4 West, in Antrim county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 24th day of Jan. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

27

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 20, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Ezekiel Riggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry no. 6353, dated August 21 1874, upon the S. of, and section 34, Township 33 North, R. 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day o. Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 20, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Ezekiel Riggs, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6353, dated August 21 1874, upon the S½ of, and section 34, Township 33 North, R. 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day o. Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.

J.E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair-railing, etc.

Our stock in hands is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

LAW —AND— Real Estate Office —OF— Edw. H. Green, Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm AND Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farm ing Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Ingersoll creek and Pine Lake, and are included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

1101y

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the seventh day of November A. D. 1876 by Asaph Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Morris J. Strickman of said county and State, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876 at 2 o'clock p. m. in Liber "Two" of Mortgages on page 141, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the recovery of the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted:

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage (or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principal, interest, costs and an Attorney fee of Twenty dollars, as provided for in said mortgage) will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the Township of Charlevoix, (that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county within which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and are known and described as follows to-wit:—The North-west quarter of the Northeast quarter of Section Twenty in Township Thirty-three (33) Northof Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to United States Survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
(18-13m.) Printers fee, $12.15.

NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich. Oct 31, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May all, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6451, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ section 34, Township 34, North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day o. Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

66, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.

(3m4w.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegosh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In the cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Miles Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer or demur to complainant's bill and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof that said bill be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days from service of this order a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
15-6in.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings against Eli Pease, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 7443, dated April 25, 1876, upon the E½ of section 28, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 24th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

19

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7006, dated April 25, 1876, upon the W½ of section 28, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 24th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Sept. 24, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Moore, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6333, dated Dec. 3, 1874 upon the S½ of, and of north Section 6, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix, Antrim county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 34 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Dec. 18. 1877. Whole No., 449

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street

TERMS of Subscription:
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance,
75c FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space,	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	6 m'ths	1 yr.
One sq.,	$ 00	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$5.00	$8.00
Two's	1.25	1.75	2.00	3.00	5.00	10.00
3 "	1.75	2.25	3.00	5.00	7.50	12.00
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.25	10.00	14.00
1 column,	3.25	4.00	5.00	10.25	14.00	20.00
¼ "	5.00	6.50	8.50	17.00	26.00	37.00
½ "	8.00	10.00	12.00	20.00	47.00	75.00

Cardsin Business Directory, $1 per line per year.

Legal advertisements at Statutory rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LEROY H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. B. UPRIGHT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Ek Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Is constantly located at Petoskey, all visits Charlevoix one week in each month—for the purpose of transacting professional business and will perform all operations pertaining to the dental profession. 48tf

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H.D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
PETOSKEY, MICH.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located his shop in J. P. Whalen's harness shop, in Charlevoix and solicits the patronage of old friends. Custom work and repairing made to order and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. LENA J. HAWES.

LADIES HATS

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT

CROUTER's

Ring Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Why? Because he sells at low prices, pure goods, and can supply the people of Charlevoix and entire northern county with anything they wish in his line. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVEs

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Leave Petoskey—7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m. arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Every necessary arrangement for the comfort of passengers will be made, and fare will be reasonable. Also, any freights or express will be delivered at as low rates as possible

B. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office Traverse City Mich., Nov. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Lorin M. Barnes against James Jones, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7747, dated June 25, 1876, upon the southeast ¼ of section 30, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver.

27.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

L. P. BATHOLOMEW, N. G.
GEO. W. THOMPSON, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 262 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. B. UPRIGHT, Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Purple Hill Lodge No. 144 L. O. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 8 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

HANNAH BURNS, W. M.
GEO. BARNES, Sec'y

Old Stage Line

DAILY between Traverse City and Elk Rapids; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays between Elk Rapids and Charlevoix. Passengers carried comfortably, and freight at very lowest rates.

C. POWERS.

Dec. 12, 1877.

NOTICE.—My wife, Adelphia Deets, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation. I therefore forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting.

JOSEPH E. DEETS.

Wilson, Dec. 16, 1877.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.

NORTH—Mails arrive daily, at 12 M., depart at 1 P. M.

SOUTH ARM mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Oats, per bushel	30
Corn, per bushel	50
Barley per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	30
Buckwheat, per bushel	50
Peas, per bushel	50
Fresh dressed hogs, per pound	5 @ 7c
Eggs, per dozen	15
Butter, per pound	25
Chickens, dressed, per pound	10
Beans, per bushel	$1 50 to $1 75
Hay, per bushel	50
Beef hides, per pound	4
Beef, per pound, by the quarter,	5 @ 6

PETOSKEY has a Dramatic Club.

AND a Methodist Camp Ground.

ALSO a—saloon, as usual.

AND now they are sighing for a wooden railroad from town to Crooked Lake.

ELK RAPIDS is to have a co operative cheese factory

A new supply of mail paper at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE weather was on the M. E. Church spire has laid its back broken.

Good many deer killed round about this vicinity last week.

AND a good many bear creatures have enjoyed the late pleasant weather in equestrian exercises

We have a large stock of Holiday goods to please the old and young come and see them at See & Washburn's.

MR. BACON, of Pine Lake, tells us that he will get out about 700 cords of shipping wood this win er.

OYSTERS.—We know by experience that those oysters of Newman's are fresh and eminently palatable.

CHARLEVOIX Postoffice, since July 1st, 1874, has issued 2630 Money Orders, representing about $70,000.

We have a large stock of candies, nuts and raisins. See & Washburn.

ON Christmas the Charlevoix Postoffice will be open only from 10:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., and from six to seven p. m.

HENRY MORGAN, Esq., is at Boyne Falls, getting out several car-loads of cedar posts from the swamp land he owns in that vicinity.

JOHN WARREN is re building his dock at Cross Village.

The schooner W. A. Smith is stripped and laid up in the river.

The tug Minnie Warren is running on Pine Lake yet.

Washboards for ten cents each at See & Washburn's

ANOTHER of Father Inwood's interesting letters on England next week.

CROUTER has a very fine assortment of Confectionery, ordered especially for the Holidays.

Gen W. P. Innes, of Grand Rapids, has been appointed Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Michigan, vice E. I. Gardfield resigned.

Some very nice fresh oysters at See & Washburn's that we will sell for just enough to cover expences.

No better country exchange comes to our table than the Grand Traverse Herald, and it grows better all the time

Go to Mrs. Carpenter and buy something useful for holiday presents.

CONGRESSMAN Cox has introduced a bill which provides that keepers of Life Saving Stations shall receive $300 per annum.

The Hon. Sumner Howard, United States Attorney in Utah, will resume the practice of law at Pontiac next month.

MRS. F. O. Fisher, of this village, left town Saturday for Ohio, where she will spend a few months for the benefit of her failing health.

Fox, Rose & Buttars are in receipt of a case of the finest quality of fresh oysters yet received here. Call and get some.

At just this particular time the SENTINEL needs every dime that is due it, and our friends who are in arrears can all help us a great deal by each doing a little. Now please pony up.

ANOTHER THIF.—Capt. Smith stripped and laid up the schooner Fleetwing last week, but the fine weather brought her out again, and she left Sunday evening for Beaver Harbor with a load of hoops.

PERSONAL.—MRS. L. D. Bartholomew leaves town to-day for a brief sojourn among friends in Southern Michigan.

—Capt. A. G. Aldrich and his son Henry also leave to-day for Grand Rapids.

Our stock of Dry Goods, Fancy Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, and everything else, too numerous to mention was never more complete. FOX, Rose & Buttars.

THE Grand Rapids Eagle thinks that the parties who helped Lamphear out of the Charlevoix jail were "probably taxpayers bent on getting rid of paying his board, but their little game didn't work."

A fine assortment of fancy note paper and envelopes at See & Washburn's.

POOR FARM.—The Superintendents of the Poor of Charlevoix County have purchased the N. E ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of Lot 2, and E. ½ of S. E. ¼ of Section 14, 33—8, in Marion, for a Poor Farm. Consideration $1,000. The property was purchased of Capt. W. Clifford, and consists of 175 acres lying on the south side of Nowland's lake. It has about twenty-five acres of clearing and a frame barn. It may be considered a good bargain.

THE WEATHER.—Verily, December's as pleasant as May." During the greater part of last week, and up to the time of our writing, the skies are clear, the weather warm and pleasant, and but for the lack of vegetation, one could almost imagine that he had slept away a winter, and now suddenly found himself in the embrace of balmy spring. Farmers are plowing, the little girls are swinging in the grapes lamdscaped, the bees are scratching, and—so are we.

Do you know that oil cloth is a nice thing to put over your stove to protect your carpet. Carpenter & Bartholomew keep it.

For the Sentinel.

Underbrush.

Hard Cases.—The following I have rarely known equalled. I have never seen it in print. I give it in my own language, substantially:

A traveler, wending his way along the highway, saw a woman standing in the door of a dwelling, hard by the roadside, and heard her call, evidently to her absent urchins, and nobling some street genius, and supposing them to be the wanted truant-bad stock, and thinking to make himself useful, said to them:

"Boys, your mother is calling you."

A young hopeful looked up, like a young wise-acre, and exclaimed:

"He's not calling we; us don't belong to she."

Wonderful Memory.—A certain reporter observed some children playing in a dooryard. They were trying to see how far back each could remember. One little girl could remember when she was "so high," (marking the air to indicate,) and she had "a little play house, and a little wee doll baby."

It was about ditto with all the other young feminines. The youngest of the romping group was a bright four-year old boy, and his turn was last. He boldly affirmed, as though determined not to be outdone,

"I can 'member jist free weeks before I was born, and I cried all the time for fear I should be a girl."

Our appreciative eaves dropper thought that was the climax.

A. T. GRAY.

Large stock of fancy goods suitable for Christmas presents, just received at our store. Fox, Rose & Buttars.

From South Arm.

SOUTH ARM, Dec. 15, 1877.

FRIEND SMITH—

Please accept a few items for your paper.

We are having spring like weather, and have had all the fall, and what is better, the Lord has sent His springtime to the hearts of his people.

Rev. A. M. Parmenter, of New Haven, Mich., has been here preaching the Word to us in power. Many have been deeply moved, a goodly number received, and about fifteen converted. Twelve have been baptized into the Baptist Church. We are expecting Brother Parmenter to settle here, and preach here and at Norwood. We have put our meeting house in good order for winter, and expect to do more permanent work for the Master in the future.

One of our bachelors—A. M. Murphy—has embarked on the Sea of Matrimony to the land of double blessedness. He took as first mate Miss Sarah Gregg. A prosperous voyage to them.

Yours truly,
H. C. SCOFIELD.
Pastor Bap. Church.

Children sleds at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

MR. FULLER, the jupiter fanning-mill man, drove out of the road one evening a day last week at quite a lively gait. A wire clothes line was stretched somewhere in that vicinity, and Fuller found it—found it suddenly—and vaulted his high rent. He never had seen anything of that kind before, and he got out to examine it. Fuller is not a profane man, but he is an awful good singer, and the way "I would not live always" rang out on the evening air was astonishing to the residents of the south side of Round Lake.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

EXTRA SESSION

The dead-lock in the Senate continued all night, on the 28th, and up to three o'clock on the afternoon of the 29th. A great portion of the time was taken up by the reading and comment thereon, by Republicans, of the instructions relative to the Louisiana returning-board. Mr. Butler's connection therewith, taken by the Committee which visited South Carolina for that purpose. Several motions for adjournment were defeated by the Democrats. At 1 o'clock Mr. Howe, who occupied the chair in the temporary absence of the Vice-President, decided that the legislative day would continue without change of date until an adjournment should be had. Speeches were made on the Democratic side denying that any intimidation had been used to influence the election in South Carolina as charged in the testimony read by the Republicans. A vote was finally taken on the resolution of Mr. Thurman, to discharge the Committee on Privileges and Elections from the further consideration of the credentials of Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, and the resolution was carried—29 to 28—Mr. Patterson and Conover voting with the Democrats in the affirmative. Several Speakers were noted as speaking from Mr. Howe, who occupied the chair in the temporary absence of the Vice-President, decided that the legislative day would continue without change of date until an adjournment should be had. Speeches were made on the Democratic side denying that any intimidation had been used to influence the election in South Carolina as charged in the testimony read by the Republicans. A vote was finally taken on the resolution of Mr. Thurman, to discharge the Committee on Privileges and Elections from the further consideration of the credentials of Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, and the resolution was carried—29 to 28—Messrs. Patterson and Conover voting with the Democrats in the affirmative. Several Speakers were noted as speaking from the Democratic side during the night hours. In the House bills were introduced for the free importation through the mails, for Members of Congress, of documents printed by order of Congress, relating to the pension-rolls the names of all soldiers stricken off on account of disability preceding the act prohibiting payment, by any officer, in any person not known to have been supported by the pension bill from. A resolution was adopted—129 to 47—requiring the President to state what bona fide applications, if any, existed to prevent him from executing the laws in relation to the Civil Service Bill refused and its branches. Adjourned to the 30th.

IMMEDIATELY after the reading of the Journal in the Senate on the 30th, Mr. Wadleigh moved to proceed to the consideration of the resolution for the admission of Mr. Kellogg as a Senator from Louisiana. Mr. Thurman objecting after discussion, the Vice-President directed the subject was a question of the highest importance, and could be considered in the morning hour notwithstanding the objections. Mr. Thurman appealed from this decision, and the Vice-President was sustained—29 to 28—Mr. Patterson voting with the Democrats in the affirmative, and Mr. Conover with the Republicans in the affirmative. Mr. Davis, of Illinois, not voting. A tie vote, 29 to 29—was then had on the question of reconsidering the decision of the Chair, which prevailed in the affirmative—Messrs. Conover and Patterson voting with the Democrats,

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 18, - - 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Dec. 14, 1877.

The words "Rapid Transit" in connection with the needs of the city have been bandied about in the newspapers and in the public mouth so long and with so little result that they are worn threadbare. Year after year the subject has been agitated and re-agitated. A hundred imaginary plans have been penned and heralded only to vanish into thin air before a practical blow was struck toward their carrying out. Thus far the one short and inconveniently located line of New York Elevated Railway is the lonely result of the endless clamor for cheap, safe and swift communication between the upper and lower ends of this island.

Some of the plans for the accomplishment of rapid transit which have from time to time found serious advocates have been of the most remarkable nature. I don't know that any one has lately urged the adoption of a plan which I remember seeing illustrated in a New York comic paper some fifteen or twenty years ago, but some have been seriously proposed which are scarcely better worthy of consideration. The odd plan just referred to—and which I guess was the pioneer suggestion on this subject—was shown by the engraving to consist of putting enormous hollow globes of wrought iron into a gigantic mortar and then shooting them off after the manner subsequently enlarged and improved upon by Jules Verne in "From the Earth to the Moon." I was a credulous and unsophisticated youngster when I saw this remarkable woodcut, and was thereby filled with extreme awe and admiration for the big city where there could be such wonderful doings on. The engraving represents the moment just after the touching off of the big mortar from whose tremendous mouth shot vast volumes of fire and smoke, while sailing through the air at a rate which would satisfy the most earnest yearner after rapid transit, were two shells, apparently about ten feet in diameter, coupled together like cars, and provided with several windows apiece, through which could be seen sundry weary citizens comfortably seated and calmly perusing the evening papers.

As before remarked, nothing so far as I know, has revived the claims of this peaceful application of artillery practice, although pretty nearly every other scheme which the imagination could devise has found some supporters. One of these was to build a railroad over the tops of houses. Another proposed to avoid the objection to a road through the open street by the simple expedient of cutting right through the middle of the blocks of buildings and spanning the intervening streets by arched and tunneled bridges. Others still proposed to burrow underground one way and another. One of these methods I outlined in my correspondence a year or more ago. It consisted of building a large brick tube under the road bed of the streets desired to be traversed, through which a car should be "sucked" at a high rate of speed by pumping away the air in front of it. A short section of this tube was actually built and still exists under Broadway near the Postoffice.

The plan which, among all these rejected ones, came nearest to adoption was, I think, that of a regular underground railroad similar to those which have long been in successful operation in London. This was long urged, and it was even reported that Wm. H. Vanderbilt was committed to its support; but as this report was proved to be unfounded, and the cost of cutting such a road through the rocky bed of the island was estimated at about two millions of dollars per mile, the scheme fell through, like all its predecessors (with the exception of the raised street road) and people were left to toil up and down town in the horse cars as before.

But despite this apparently discouraging state of things, the crying needs of the people have in reality not been so entirely ignored during this long period of seeming practical inaction as circumstances would make it appear. Capital, ever ready to supply a manifest want when it can see a prospect of suitable remuneration, has long been striving against the prejudice and selfishness of the few whose nefarious thefts (they call it "selling a lot") by the carrying out of the only feasible plan by which this great public benefit is attainable, is alone responsible for the fact that the average New Yorker is now an hour or more from his office instead of from twenty to thirty minutes only as he should be.

Until very lately the heavy hand of legal injunction has been laid upon the would-be outliers of aerial roads, but the latter having been invariably successful in the many suits brought by private individuals to hamper their action, nearly almost all these intangible but insurmountable obstacles have been removed, and work is rapidly progressing on the part of both the New York Elevated Railroad, and the Gilbert Elevated Railroad, who are thus far the only companies in the field. The projects now under way in the hands of these two corporations contemplate a magnificent system of steam inter-communication throughout the city, and well, if carried out, give us more in the way of rapid transit than the most sanguine lover ever dared to hope for.

At present there is, as most of your readers are doubtless aware, but one line of elevated road in operation. This starts at the Battery, and running across that public park entitled Greenwich street on the west side of town, and following that ancient thoroughfare to Ninth Avenue proceeds to Fifty-ninth street (the southern boundary of Central Park) which is its present terminus; the former one having been at Forty-second street, nearly a mile lower down.

The proposed new routes and extensions are substantially as follows: The present line is to be extended northward partly in the air and partly on the surface to the extreme northern end of the island. Then there is to be a brand new trunk line built by the Gilbert Co. from Bowling Green (adjoining the Battery) along the west side of town running a few blocks inside Broadway (near the existing elevated road), till Sixth Avenue is reached, when that street will be followed to Central Park. Beside these it is intended to build two main lines winding deviously along the east side, one of them taking Chatham street, Chatham square, the Bowery and Third Avenue, up to One Hundred and Tenth street, at which point it will send off branch lines including one to accommodate the vicinity of the Post-Office and City Hall square.

When all these are completed—if that ever comes to pass—New York will be as well (if not better) provided with internal travelling facilities as any other city in the world; and we shall see more done towards reclaiming the northern portion of Manhattan from its present barren and uninviting condition, sparsely dotted with shanties and pig sties than would have seemed possible twenty years ago. And we are now encouraged to believe that these needed improvements are really on the programme, because in addition to the promises of the parties concerned, which have always been freely given, work is actually progressing on a considerable portion of the new lines with surprising rapidity. Some details of the construction and methods of travel of the road now in operation might be of considerable interest, but those I must reserve for another letter.

RADIX.

The Albany Journal, noticing the remark of the Springfield Republican to the effect that "Mr. Patterson's justification of his own course by the President's policy cannot be gainsaid," says "If it be true that Patterson's support of Butler—to say nothing of the base manner and motives of the whole proceeding—is in harmony with the President's policy, and is justified and required by it, then the President's must be condemned and repudiated. If the course of Patterson and Conover is to be associated with the President's action, and logically sustained by it, then this is the worst blow his policy has yet received—and it is fatal."

Besides voting to support a Democratic newspaper, the Democratic caucus the other night appointed a committee to look after absentees who endanger the party's supremacy in the House. The danger, it is said, will be greatly increased if the rule prohibiting the sale of liquor in the capitol is enforced, because the Congressmen will then be half a mile away getting refreshment and cannot be quickly summoned to a vote.

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Nervous restlessness, [illegible] Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c. &c. All of these and much more are the direct results of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,000,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first class Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

30 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if desired.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are scattered with beech and maple, also hemlock and pine, and are in the best market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State peopled by the wealth, and enterprise, and intelligence of the great Empire section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The land in Michigan to which these lands are found in

Not a Wilderness by any Means

It contains a population of [illegible] and every thousand acres of it is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a piece of such as when it can be had cheap.

[illegible] Send for our Pamphlet and Map.

Address W. H. HIGLEY,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,
Carpeting,
Oil Cloths,
Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval and an order, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unprecedented fact. That we offer the people and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in this county. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market; Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashimere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices are low, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Cotton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

GREAT EXCITEMENT!!

AT

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

"EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN EXAMINING THEIR IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS JUST RECEIVED" THEY DONT QUOTE PRICES ON A FEW CHEAP GOODS, BUT SELL

Everything AT BOTTOM RATES!

Remember the Place!

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Charlevoix, Nov 20, 1877

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich.

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry promptly attended to at reasonable rates.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tension.

It is beautiful in style and [illegible] Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best [illegible] of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. C. PURNAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not would tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods,
Clothing,
Hats, Caps
And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counseller at Law.

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished

Unusual facilities for Making Collections

Office opposite Crocker's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1,,:

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolie

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

TEAS, SYRUPS, FOREIGN CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH,

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for CANNED FRUITS &c., filled promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

1871 (6,12,1)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$2.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1350 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $6 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH,
Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

MOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged and [illegible] with a view to the comfort of the [illegible] public. Two miles from herein

Jordan and Boyne Rivers.

In which are [illegible] Speckled Trout. Bigness [illegible] cheese.

for Printers.

[illegible] S. 186 [illegible] ST., CHICAGO
And 13 Rapelje Street, New York.

Signal-Service Report.

The Chief Signal Officer of the Army in his annual report recommends legislation for a more complete organization of the Signal Service. With duties now so extensive, so important and reaching more directly the interests of the people of the United States than those of any other bureau of the War Department, it exists, he says, without laws by which to fix permanent rank, count out the grades of the officers, or the promotion of its enlisted men. This condition is found to exert a influence on the work of the office. The subject of such organization received best zeal and the most careful consideration, and was favorably recommended by the President on numerous. The experience of the year has demonstrated the need of it. If the service is to continue to prove successful it can not be too safely guarded against possible tampering, or offer too certain rewards for faithful service.

The result of the ever given for enemy accounts. It has been marked by the fact that it has in its incidents existed into action every one of the particular duties of the Signal Service, as provided both for peace and war. The useful preannouncement of meteoric changes is admitted as established by now seven years' continuous practice. Its use in connection each year improved accuracy, and with each year the paths for improvement; the evidences of success have become more visible. The work has gained in simplicity and extent. The co-operation of true scientists has resulted both at home and abroad. The uses of the service and the results to be hoped from it future developments have been reproduced. The popular support and the support of the press have been steady and considerate. The service advances, not always by smooth paths, but by a certain success.

Steps have been taken to extend the river reports of the Ohio, the rivers of California and Oregon, the rapid rise and fall of which involve sometimes large grazing interests, as well as those of agriculture and commerce. A series of canal reports announcing temperature probable to affect canal commerce were issued during the season, of the closing of navigation at the commencement of the winter for the uses of canal commerce and the interests depending thereon. The different reports of the office of which mention has thus been made have been favorably received in the communities for which they have been furnished, and their uses have been acknowledged by communications from commercial associations and by other official action.

In the great diffusion given the reports of the office through the press, the display of the different office bulletins and forms of report, the maps and regular publications, it is estimated that the statements, based upon the information gathered upon the lines of the office and issued daily for the public use, reach daily, and less than one-third of all the households in the United States. The regular daily publication of the reports by the press, now continued for seven years without a week in the United States, is considered as an evidence of their usefulness, and of the favor with which they are received by the communities for which they are intended. The office is encouraged by success in reference to its duties with Committees appointed for the purpose by the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the principal cities in the Union, and also with a large number of agricultural societies. A number of sets of the maps, with the advance bulletins, accompanying them, of this character is prominent citizens of the United States, covering a period of six years, are making favorable action in its behalf, several passed the last annual report. These maps and forms were officially submitted to congress at its last session. Its renewal during the present year has been requested by action of the Boards of Trade, committees, bureaus and report monthly to the office upon the accuracy and utility of the service in their vicinities. The Boards, in this way, are co-operating with the office, and show responsibility for its success.

The office exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition and Monthly Weather Reports have been regularly issued during the year. A number of valuable charts have been prepared. The data for the charts have been very numerous. By the change of system of observations formerly under the direction of the Smithsonian Institution, and those furnished by the Medical Department of the Army and Navy, together with the reports of the Signal Service stations, a total of 161 daily weather observations from as many different places are entered upon the files daily as the regular system of observation at the office. A number of observations taken on vessels at sea, to complement the simultaneous reports of the service, and at the request of the Department, have been received upon the forms, provided for the purpose. Their utility is evident in the study of storms approaching our coasts or which endanger vessels sailing from our ports. The co-operation of the Navy of the United States in the taking of observations simultaneously with the system adopted by this office wherever there are naval vessels of the United States, as assured by the General Order of the Secretary of the Navy, dated Dec. 25, 1876, has largely increased the data of this class. The people of the United States are thus the first Nation whose Army and Navy co-operate, as all armies and navies should, under official orders, in the taking of all the barometric observations wherever the force may be. The enforced the signal Service at the different ports and parts of the United States, and upon the sea coast, offer every facility for the comparison of instruments, the use of duly or other modes in their power to the uses of every Nation which owns our waters for commerce or shelter.

The proposition adopted at the congress of persons charged with meteorological duties which was assembled at Vienna in 1873, and to the effect that it is desirable, with a view to their exchange, that a uniform and simultaneous observation of such character as is suited for the preparation of synoptic charts be taken and recorded daily and simultaneously throughout the world, has continued to have practical effect. In answer of the War Department, and with the cordial co-operation of scientists and chiefs of meteorological services, representing the different countries, a record of observations taken daily simultaneously with the observations taken throughout the United States and to present issues, exchanged supplementary. These reports are now for the terrestrial extent of Africa, Great Britain, Ohio, Central America, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, East Indies, Italy, Japan, Mexico, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, British North America, the United States, Sandwich Islands, West Indies and South America.

A Jolly Jewish Funeral.

"Those days since, a very much soiled and somewhat decayed corpse was found in a New York cellar. It had a Hebrew cast of countenance that was unmistakable, and when the body was removed to the Morgue for exposure and identification, this fact was published. Now, Isaac Samuels had been missing for three months. He had wandered off from home, as he had sometimes done before, and stayed longer than usual. In the meantime his family had neither seen nor heard anything from him or of him. A son of Isaac Samuels, Louis Samuels by name, went to the Morgue to see the unknown corpse, and instantly and unhesitatingly identified it and made affidavit that the corpse in question was that of his father Isaac Samuels and further, that his father had been in the habit of drinking for several years, had lost everything he owned through the habit, and that he had often been absent from home for several weeks at a time. He had been at such times months this time, and had not been seen by any of his relatives nor had he applied to any of them for aid. A brother-in-law of Samuels also identified the corpse as that of Isaac Samuels, without any hesitation. Under these circumstances the corpse was given up to the Samuels family and they announced the funeral and made all the preparations for that solemn event. The corpse was in the coffin and the grave was dug, and the family and friends were assembling in the funeral room. But Louis Samuels was not there. He had gone out in the morning on some errand of preparation for the last scene. He had a very strange adventure. He saw a man approaching him on the street who looked like his father. The apparition was so much like Isaac Samuels as the Ghost in "Hamlet" is like the dead King of Denmark, and it proved to be much more natural than the dead Dane. Louis was left no time to doubt. His father shook hands heartily with him, was very glad to see him, and plied him with many anxious questions about family affairs. He was flesh and blood, and intelligence, and in a much better state of mind than usual. He was very much alive. The father and son went to the little four-pound saddlers at a time, in the plant-shelves or in the cages. Once he crept under a cage into which one had run, and, showing himself, placed his hand upon the cord over which it must pass to escape. Money seemed lavished by the movement, stopped, warbled, and held as he re-treat in the cage. These singing mice were very fearless, yet would not allow themselves to be caught. The observer supposes they learned their song, which was a fon, sweet warble, of the canaries; but M. Brierre-state expresses it that no canaries had ever been kept by the owners of the old cupboard in which he observed the singing-mice.

Singing-Mice.

Two observations upon singing-mice have been lately noted in France, and reported in Nature. The first was recorded in La Nature, and the second was presented to the French Society of Acclimation, by M. Brierre, who testified to having heard mice sing in 1851-1852. The singing proceeded from an old cupboard, and generally began at sunset. The joints and wood of the cupboard were soaped so that it could be opened suddenly, and, this being done one evening, a number of mice surprised in the midst of its roundelay. For about the space of a minute the mouse was under motion, and the movements of its throat plainly visible. It held its nose up in the air like a dog that is howling, and the song it emitted was like that of a wren. The mouse was seized, but contrived to escape. Its singing was resumed the same night and on others following.

A recent number of Forest and Stream also contains an observation upon these interesting musical quadrupeds. The conservatory in a gentleman's residence near New York City opened with folding-lanterns into the library, and was suspended from its ceiling were several cages of canaries, which were secured by cords running through pulleys and fastened near one of the plant-shelves. One evening, a few years ago, the gentleman of the house was sitting alone in the library, when his attention was attracted to a low warbling, like that of a young canary, which proceeded from the conservatory. He presently saw that the notes were emitted by a mouse running about at the bottom of one of the cages, while the bird was on its perch above asleep. Subsequently he several times saw two or three of the little four-footed warblers at a time, in the plant-shelves or in the cages. Once he crept under a cage into which one had run, and, showing himself, placed his hand upon the cord over which it must pass to escape. Money seemed lavished by the movement, stopped, warbled, and held as he re-treat in the cage. These singing mice were very fearless, yet would not allow themselves to be caught. The observer supposes they learned their song, which was a fon, sweet warble, of the canaries; but M. Brierre-state expresses it that no canaries had ever been kept by the owners of the old cupboard in which he observed the singing-mice.

Mortality.

THE Springfield (Mass.) Republican says: "The State valuation falls off this year $101,000,000, being about $70,000,000 on real estate and $30,000,000 on personal. This is the largest reduction of any year yet and overdoes in some measure the inflation of years like 1.73, when an increase of $200,000,000 was reported. The valuation of the State, as now reduced, and without the corporations and the savings-bank deposits, stands at $1,668,226,000. The depreciation at Boston, this year, was over $62,000,000. The reduction in taxation last year was nearly $3,000,000, but this year only $861,000, showing that most municipalities made in 1876 about all the reduction possible in their expenditure. The cities below Boston, however, have retrenched more sharply during the current year."

DURING the past year the consumption of cotton reached the highest point ever attained in this country, while the value of our cotton fabrics exported has, despite low prices, increased $7,-000,000 within two years, or from $3,660,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1875, to $10,180,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1877.

The Famous Horses of Venice.

But one of the most wonderful things about Venice is that, with the exception of those I intend to tell you about, there are no horses there. How charming it must be, you think, when you want to visit a friend, to run down the marble steps of some old palace, step into a gondola, and glide swiftly and noiselessly away, instead of jolting and rumbling along over the cobble-stones! And then to come back by moonlight, and hear the low plash of the oar in the water, and the distant voices of the boatmen singing some lovesick song—oh, it's as good as a play!

Of course there are no carts in Venice; and the fish-man, the vegetable-man, the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, all glide softly up in their boats to the kitchen door with their vendibles, and chaffer and haggle with the cook for half an hour, after the manner of market-men the world over.

So you see the little black-eyed Venetian boys and girls gaze on the brazen horses in St. Mark's Square with as much wonder and curiosity as ours when we look upon a griffin or a unicorn.

These horses—there are four of them—have quite a history of their own They once formed part of a group made by a celebrated sculptor of antiquity, named Lysippus. He was of such wonderful merit that he was one of the three employed to make Alexander's statue, which gave to Apelles the sole right of painting his portrait, to Lysippus that of sculpturing his form in any style, and to Pyrgoteles that of engraving it upon precious stones.

Lysippus executed a group of twenty-five equestrian statues of the Macedonian heroes that fell at the passage of the Granicus, and of this group the horses now at Venice formed a part. They were carried from Alexandria to Rome by Augustus, who placed them on his triumphal arch. Afterward Nero, Domitian and Trajan successively transferred them to arches of their own.

When Constantine removed the capital of the Roman Empire to the ancient Byzantium, he sought to beautify it by carrying to it the finest works of art of every kind. In this spirit for this purpose he removed a great number of works of art from Rome to Constantinople, and among them these bronze horses of Lysippus.

In the early part of the thirteenth century the nobles of France and Germany, who were going on the fourth crusade, arrived at Venice, and stipulated with the Venetians for means of transportation. This was done, but, instead of proceeding to Jerusalem, they were diverted from their original intention by the under the leadership of the blind old Doge, Dandolo. They captured the City of Constantinople. The fall of the city was followed by an almost total destruction of the works of art with which it had been adorned, for the Latins disgraced themselves by a more ruthless vandalism than that of the Vandals themselves.

But out of the wreck the four bronze horses were saved and carried in triumph to Venice, where they were placed over the principal arch of St. Mark's Cathedral. There they stood until Napoleon Bonaparte, in 1797, removed them, with other trophies, to Paris; but after his downfall they were restored, and, as Byron says in "Childe Harold":

> "Before St. Mark, still glow his steeds of brass,
> Their gilded collars glittering in the sun."

Mary Lloyd, in St. Nicholas for December.

The Joys of Riches.

The impression has somehow become general that Flood, Sanford, Mills, Reese, Luning, Latham and others whose names I might mention, are the wealthiest men in California.

This is an error, although I do not wish to injure their credit; but the fact is, they are among our poorest men. They are compelled to daily toil and for it receive but their daily bread.

They are all of them under a salary. Reese and Luning are at work for their board and clothes; Stanford, Latham and Mills are on additional compensation, provided with comfortable houses, and furnished with pictures and works of art.

He rides and drives among the elegant residences of San Mateo. The park is his own, the greenhouse, the conservatory. The police guard him, the military protect him. His labor is a pleasure, his life is a psalm of thanksgiving. He enjoys no man, loves his wife and is content. He travels in foreign lands, reads books, has abundant leisure, enjoys art, goes fishing and duck-shooting, hunts in the hills, and thanks God for his health and freedom. He belongs to no party, has no hope of increase of salary; they cannot get out of the country to travel; they have no leisure to read, and very little time for social intercourse.

Their condition in this world is a painful and laborious one, and they are entirely cut off from the hope of a glorious immortality through their utter inability to wriggle through the eye of a needle.

Yet they seem happy, and we presume they are. Content, doubtless, to fill to the best of their ability the humble spheres to which they have been assigned.

Gov. Stanford is proud of his position as President of the Central Pacific Railroad, and ambitions to own two continuous lines of roads across the continent, from San Francisco to New York—from Golden Gate to Hell Gate.

When he has accomplished this, he will desire to combine all the lateral roads, monopolize the Mississippi River, the Gulf of Mexico, the Northern Lakes, the Erie Canal, have a toll-gate at the entrance of New York and San Francisco harbors, number that in that better develop the resources of the country and promote its general welfare by transporting all the people and all their goods.

When Mr. Latham has completed his North Coast Railroad to the Pole, monopolized all the ice-fields, fur-islands and fisheries, secured all the forests and saw-mills, he will extend his enterprise southward, to Patagonia.

When Flood is wealthier than Rothschild, and has more money than Monte Christo. When Mills has made the Bank of California to outrank the Bank of England. When Reese and Luning have sweated the last ducats. When Lux & Miller have acquired all the pastures that the Devil pointed out to Christ, and all the cattle upon a thousand hills. When Baggin shall have absorbed the dry land, and Sharon the waters of the earth. When they shall have accomplished all of these things—

Then—well then!

They will crawl humbly away into their little tombs, over them will be said, each in some short prose, and over them (paid out of their own earnings) we will erect a monumental shaft of marble, bronze, or granite, and it will inscribe their "praises," and this the only reward for a life of toil.

I sometimes think we are not sufficiently grateful to these, our servants, for their faithful and unpaid labors.

I am surprised that they reasonable man should envy them.

In conversation with a wealthy friend, the other day—one of those chose money-machines that deal in bullion and exchange, that can transfer your funds from San Jose to Bagdad, convert corn of Indiana, cotton in Georgia, wine in California, wool in Australia into coin and lay it down in Moscow or Madrid I asked him why he did not own a town or a country house, yacht and carriage; why he did not enjoy himself?

"I do enjoy life," was the reply. "Mine is the joy to make money, mine the pleasure to accumulate. I delight in the chase, in the game, in a game with all the world. I calculate human passions for the chances of a war. I watch the prospects of crops. I forecast the policy of Kings. I study the conditions in France. I regard the prosperity of countries that I may know where to invest my money. I watch the wheat and the corn. Nations borrow and whose bankers lend. I study the movements of armies, may, who were going on the fourth crusade, arrived at Venice, and stipulated with the Venetians for means of transportation. This was done, but, instead of proceeding to Jerusalem, they were diverted from their original intention by the under the leadership of the blind old Doge, Dandolo. They captured the City of Constantinople. The fall of the city was followed by an almost total destruction of the works of art with which it had been adorned, for the Latins disgraced themselves by a more ruthless vandalism than that of the Vandals themselves.

But out of the wreck the four bronze horses were saved and carried in triumph to Venice, where they were placed over the central portal of St. Mark's Cathedral. There they stood until Napoleon Bonaparte, in 1797, removed them, with other trophies, to Paris; but after his downfall they were restored, and, as Byron says in "Childe Harold":

> "Before St. Mark, still glow his steeds of brass,
> Their gilded collars glittering in the sun."

Mary Lloyd, in St. Nicholas for December.

The Joys of Riches.

The impression has somehow become general that Flood, Sanford, Mills, Reese, Luning, Latham and others whose names I might mention, are the wealthiest men in California.

This is an error, although I do not wish to injure their credit; but the fact is, they are among our poorest men. They are compelled to daily toil and for it receive but their daily bread.

They are all of them under a salary. Reese and Luning are at work for their board and clothes; Stanford, Latham and Mills are on additional compensation, provided with comfortable houses, and furnished with pictures and works of art.

He rides and drives among the elegant residences of San Mateo. The park is his own, the greenhouse, the conservatory. The police guard him, the military protect him. His labor is a pleasure, his life is a psalm of thanksgiving. He enjoys no man, loves his wife and is content. He travels in foreign lands, reads books, has abundant leisure, enjoys art, goes fishing and duck-shooting, hunts in the hills, and thanks God for his health and freedom. He belongs to no party, has no hope of increase of salary; they cannot get out of the country to travel; they have no leisure to read, and very little time for social intercourse.

Their condition in this world is a painful and laborious one, and they are entirely cut off from the hope of a glorious immortality through their utter inability to wriggle through the eye of a needle.

Yet they seem happy, and we presume they are. Content, doubtless, to fill to the best of their ability the humble spheres to which they have been assigned.

Gov. Stanford is proud of his position as President of the Central Pacific Railroad, and ambitions to own two continuous lines of roads across the continent, from San Francisco to New York—from Golden Gate to Hell Gate.

When he has accomplished this, he will desire to combine all the lateral roads, monopolize the Mississippi River, the Gulf of Mexico, the Northern

Who Taught Them.

In the autumn time we cannot walk along our garden paths without brushing through the webs which spiders have spun across, but perhaps we never think of the beautiful little specimen of weaving we have damaged so greatly.

When the spider begins her web she makes her foundation of one or two threads doubled and redoubled, then she draws threads in every direction and crosses them again with others until the work is completed. Then she makes her den a little apartment lined with the same silky stuff which she spins into her web, and from here she darts out to secure any luckless little fly who is caught.

It is not easy to get the small body of the captive away without tearing the web, but the spider manages so as to injure it as little as possible. For this purpose she cuts her web just round where the poor fly is caught, and afterwards it is beautifully mended.

Delicate, indeed, is the cordage of this web; what, then, are the instruments used in spinning it? These are only the claws of the spider's feet; with these it guides and arranges the glittering threads as they are drawn from the spinners.

The number of fibers of which a single thread is formed contributes greatly to its strength. Responsible reasonables this process: and, the end of a thread, by being spread out, is made to grasp more firmly the object to which it is attached.

Spider's thread may often be observed floating in the air, and stretched across a road or brook. It is produced by the gossamer spider, for, having no wings wherewith to fly, nor the power of darting like some other insects, a consideration treasure, this little creature is enabled to form a balloon, with which it rises to a great height. In this aerial navigation, the little creature floats, with its back downward and its legs folded; and thus reposing at its ease, supreme by streamers of silken threads, it commits itself to the upper air. The naturalist states that when in the chase for a high tower he saw these insects above him.

Some species show great skillin building. They flatten out cells, then bore galleries; they make vaults: they build, as it were, bridges; they construct entrances to their habitations. They even build a wall to surround a carnivorous which work beautifully on a hinge. On looking within, we find extreme neatness, and that in which these dwellings are found may be humid, but no water can enter them. The walls are nicely covered with a tapestry of silk, having the color of satin and of a dazzling whiteness.

Another spider chooses a kind of rest for herself and family. This is a hammock of the finest silk. The wall of the tube is covered with a kind of smooth mortar. This coat is very thin and soft to the touch, but before the spider makes it she covers the earthen plaster work with a coarse web, on which she places her silken tapestry.

Who taught these despised insects how to build for themselves such wonderful houses and to spread such beautiful nets over the ground and stretch them from tree to tree? Naturalists say that it is instinct, but this came from God, and in their works we see the hand of a wonder-working God. Well may the Psalmist exclaim, "O Lord! how wonderful are Thy works! in wisdom hast Thou made them all; the earth is full of Thy riches." N. Y. Observer.

The Rich Man's Son.

In the City of Glasgow once lived a worthy merchant, whose children I know. As God had blessed him in his buying and selling, he became a rich man. And having a great love for country life, he took his riches and bought some fields on which he had played and gathered flowers when a child, and also the mansion in which the old laird of the place was wont to live. There was just one thing he forgot to do: he forgot to make his will, and so to secure the mansion and the fields should go when he died. So by-and-by, when he died, no will could be found. Now, he left behind his wife, four daughters and an only son. But as no will had been made, the mansion, and the fields, and a great part of all his riches, came to this only son. He was in London when the news came that his father had died, and that he was now a rich man. Just at that moment money would have been very needful to him, for he was a young merchant beginning life, and no one might have blamed him if he had said "The money is welcome, and with it I shall push my new business on." But God saw fit to give him a gentler hint. He left London as soon after he got the news as he could get a train. And although it was late in the day when he arrived at his native city, the first thing he did was to go to the house of a friend who draws out deeds. And, at his request, made out a deed by which the mansion and the fields were made over to his mother-all her days—and all the rest, both land and money which his father had left, was divided share-and-share alike between her, his sisters and himself. And when that was all fixed, he went to his home and barked his father. Sometoody said to him afterwards, "But why did you go that very night and have your deed made out?" He said, "I that night saw it was my duty to do it. If I had left it till next day, my duty might not have seemed so clear."—Sunday Magazine.

THE London Times has sent, in all, thirty-seven correspondents to report the Eastern War.

Vegetine!

An Excellent Medicine.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 28, 1877.
This is to certify that I have used VEGETINE during the past year, and have found it a valuable medicine. I was troubled with Dyspepsia, Costiveness and General Prostration of the system, and was entirely cured by the use of VEGETINE. I recommend VEGETINE as a good medicine for any one troubled with Dyspepsia.
YOURS VERY TRULY,
W. VANDEBURGH.
Mr. Vandeburgh, of the firm of Vandeburgh & Hoffman, is a well known business man in this place, being one of the largest stove manufacturers in Springfield, O.

Our Minister's Wife.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: LOUISVILLE, KY., Feb. 16, 1877.
DEAR SIR: Three years ago I was suffering terribly with Scrofula, and was induced by my Minister's wife to use VEGETINE. After taking a few bottles I was entirely relieved. This year, having a relapse of the disease, I again commenced taking it, and am being benefited greatly. It also greatly improves my digestion.
Respectfully,
REV. A. BALLARD.
1011 West Jefferson Street.

Safe and Sure.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:
DEAR SIR: I have used VEGETINE with perfect success in my family for Scrofula, and can recommend it as safe and sure to do all it is recommended to do. At the time I was suffering from general debility, and VEGETINE gave me new life and strength. Its great blood purifying and strengthening and curative properties seemed to affect my whole system from first to last, and I have no hesitation in saying that I regard it as the best blood purifier and strengthener I have ever used, and would recommend it to all who are in need of such a medicine.
Yours truly, W. H. CLARK,
120 Mowry Street, Allegheny, Pa.

VEGETINE.

The following letter from Rev. O. W. Mansfield, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Hollis Park, and at present settled in Lowell, must convince every one who reads his letter of the wonderful curative properties of VEGETINE as a thorough cleanser and purifier of the blood:
HIGH PARK, MASS., Feb. 15, 1876.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—About ten years ago my health failed through the depleting effects of dyspepsia; nearly a year later I was attacked by typhoid fever in its worst form, and reduced to the verge of the grave. For a long time my life hung by a single thread, which was almost broken in gathering. I had two excellent physicians, who did all in their power for me, but without success. Then I suffered great pain at times, and was constantly weakened by a profuse discharge. I also had attacks of bleeding at different times.
Two years ago, about seven years after my illness, I was a firm personal acquaintance of your VEGETINE, and I was by your kindness induced to commence using it. Before using the second bottle I had a decidedly favorable change in my condition, and by the time I had taken the fifth bottle I was conscious that the seat of disease was being reached. Before using the fifth

THE CHURCH — It seems a shame that although our people were so anxious to have a commodiously finished church edifice in which to conduct religious services, instead of the narrow confines of a school room. The nest seats arrived last week, and the contract for putting in the seats has been let to Mr. D. C. Nettleton. The basement has been prepared, and another large furnace stove has been ordered—one not being deemed sufficient to heat the building. The plan adopted for heating the building is not the usual furnace "register," but the floor will be perforated in each slip, and there being no escape for the volume of heat which necessarily must be generated by the two large stoves below, it will force itself into the auditorium and furnish a uniform warmth through out the room. The Committee think they will have money enough to carpet the rostrum, furnish matting for the aisles, and purchase two chandeliers. The building is expected to be fully ready for occupation by Feb. 1st.

Carpenter & Bartholomew have a good supply of yarn and zephyr.

The suit which App Smith commenced against the Manistee Agriculture Society for a copy of the Times and Standard, offered as a premium by the editor, S. W. Fowler, for the best specimen of preserved fruit, was decided in favor of Smith. The preserves were identified and offered in evidence, and the court took them home and ate them before rendering a decision. In the first place Fowler refused to exchange with Smith on account of a bitter newspaper controversy between them, and Smith took the above means of getting the exchange. Fowler got no ex one of the judges at the fair, and reported that Smith exhibited jellies instead of preserves; therefore smith brought suit.

Young man buy one of those Hand some boxes of Sne stationery and make your sweetheart a Christmas present, some just recived at our store.

Fox, Rose & Rattan.

An old Indian in Newaygo county made 80 pounds of maple sugar during the month of November.

Congressman Hubbell has introduced a bill to create a new judicial district of the Upper Peninsula, to be called the Northern District of Michigan.

Senator Conkling has triumphed over the administration. The President's New York appointments have a second time been rejected by the Senate.

In reply to a letter from the Post Office Department, making inquiry as to the legal status of the old copper one-cent piece of ante bellum days, the United States Treasurer states that the coin named is not and never was, a legal tender for any amount whatever. Postmasters are not required by law to receive it in payment of postal dues.

The Turks, having exhausted all supplies, made an attempt to break out of Plevna, on the 11th, but were badly defeated, and Osman Pasha was compelled to surrender his entire army. The Russians took 40,000 prisoners, and 100 guns. This must prove the decisive battle of the war.

The President regards his Southern policy as no longer an experiment but an accomplished fact—and points to the quiet submission of the Republicans of the South, to their vanishing out as proof that it is cause for congratulation. Thomas Nast was ahead in that announcement, in that picture in Harper's, some time since, where he exhibited the Democratic Lion bearing a wonderfully self-satisfied look of pleasure on his countenance, and in his mouth a card inscribed, "For Republican Lamb, Inquire Within."

The outcry of the President and his most vociferous supporters against Congressional dictation in regard to appointments would have more effect if the practice in the matter was more uniform. Gordon and Jim Hill were allowed to dictate the appointments of a new United States Marshal in Georgia, but the solid Republican delegation from New York, backed by the best merchants and business men in the city, could not prevent the President making a second attempt to turn out one of the best collectors the port ever had. Democratic influence seems to be stronger at the White House than Republican, and Evarts' persistence seems to have more weight than the good of the service and the petitions of leading Republicans combined.

Gen Grant has written a letter from Paris to a Washington friend which takes a very hopeful view of President Hayes' future conduct. It is probably based upon a leaf from Grant's own experience. He said President Hayes would very soon find out who his friends are, and whom he could depend upon. As soon as the Democrats begin showing their hands in the game they are playing the Republican party will find President Hayes with it, heart and soul." What tries the hearts and souls" of many Republicans is their belief that they can see the "game" the Democrats are playing that President Hayes is helping them play it.

The appointment of Mr. Alfred E. Lee, Consul General to Frankfort, whose name the President has sent in for the second time, is another of those which contradict and defy the President's civil service reform. Mr. Lee was President Hayes' private secretary while governor of Ohio. He has edited a country paper in Ohio, and been a member of the Legislature He does not understand German. His commercial experience is very limited. He in no way complies with the appointed qualifications.

Michigan's elegant new Capitol is almost completed, ready for use, and the contractors reject to have their work done by July 1, 1878. The Lansing Republican gives some interesting facts concerning this fine building The stone work of the exterior is all finished with the exception of the south portico. The foundation and plinth course has been laid, and the rest of the work of this foundation will be finished next spring. Mason work for the season was closed November 16. The main or east portico is finished, with the exception of fluting the columns, of the second story, and the cutting of openings in the balustrade. Those features, together with the dome, which is now 198 feet high, and greatly in the beauty of the building There are sixty-seven feet yet to be added to the dome, which will make its full hight 265 feet.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any one, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sent at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS.

Bristol Clothes Washer

SAVES THOUSANDS OF LIVES ANNUALLY.

Patented Nov. 16, 1869.

The only machine in the world that washes flannels and woolens without fulling. It is simple; has but two rollers; cannot possibly get out of order; and fits into any tub. Clothes cannot become entangled, and it will wash a bed-quilt or a wrist-band perfectly. It is noiseless, and does not wear or tear the clothes.

Sells at the Low Price of $7.50.

A child can work it easily. It washes four Shirts at once. Also Skirts, Collars, and Wrist-bands clean. It is the favorite everywhere. All who see this machine in operation exclaim

Joy to the World! Relief has Come!!

Everybody buying is satisfied with the Bristol Washer.

If not for sale in your place, send us $7.50 and we will send you a Washer by express, or, if you prefer, will send one C.O.D.

Agents wanted everywhere. For terms and illustrasen circular address

BRISTOL WASHER CO.,

32 S. Water St., Chicago.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. Smith.

NOTICE. U. S. Land office,
Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 20, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by George Sauber against James B Hoyt, for abandoning his homestead entry No 3572, dated Sept. 10, 1875, upon the ne ¼ of sec Section 26, Township 33 N., R 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of Dec. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land office,
Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 26, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene C Tenbusy against Alex Basch for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 3647 dated Apr. 3, 1875 upon the nw ¼ of section 26, Township 30, North, Range 4 West, in Emmet county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 8th day of Jan. 1877, at 1 o'clock p m to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call at our lumber yard on Round Lake. Bills filled on short notice.

PURDY & WAY,
Owners of Schr. W. A. Smith.
Charlevoix June 17, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres on section 36 in Eveline, 26 acres improvement, good barn, and log house, good well, and orchard of 74 thrifty trees. Said farm is on main traveled road. School house quarter of a mile, grist-mill two miles and a half.

Charles Heller,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec 29, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres in all—the usual improvements, 200 fruit trees 25 bushels of apples last year. Will be sold for $600 cash. Address

ANDREW SHARROW,
Elk Rapids
Mich

W. W. CASWELL. C. S. BAESSLER.

CASSWELL & BAESSLER

Commission Merchants,

Fourth Side of

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM 89, 18, MILWAUKEE, WIS.
ENGINE SIDE.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct 31, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 4451, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the W. ½ of section 34, Township 32, North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., June 20, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Ezekiel Bliges, for abandoning his Homestead Entry no. 6273, dated August 21 1874, upon the E ½ of sec. section 24, Township 34 North, R. 4 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 7th day of Aug. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

L A W

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm

AND

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Cranbrook, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in school Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

1101y

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the seventh day of November A. D. 1876 by Abijah Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Morris J. Stockman of said county and State, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876 at 2 o'clock p m. in Liber "Four" of Mortgages on page 132, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the recovery of the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted.

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage (or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principle interest, costs and an Attorney fee of Thirty dollars, as provided for in said mortgage,) will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the Township of Charlevoix, (that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county which which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and are known and described as follows, to-wit:—The North-west quarter of the North-east quarter of Section Two, (2) in Township Thirty-three (33) North of Range Seven (7) West containing forty, (40) acres according to United States Survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
128-13dec

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct 31, 1877
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5656, dated April 15, 1876, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5656, dated April 15, 1876, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Oct., 1877, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 23, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 6333, dated Oct. 3, 1874, upon the sw¼ of sec. 1 and se¼ of sec. 2 Section 2, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH

AND DOOR

FACTORY,

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, stair railing, &c.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public. In regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch

Our new price-list sent on application Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(4mir.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.
Peter Tegorh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin, On motion of J. Mills Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance

E. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge
J. MILLS EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
13-6in.

NOTICE.
U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Nicholas Benson against Eli Peters for abandoning his homestead entry, No 2215, dated Oct 15, 1875, upon the se¼ of section 32, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Oct., 1877 at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

—

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars store.

JAS. E. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 35. CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Dec. 25. 1877. Whole No., 450

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Hedge Street

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
75c FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	6 mo.	1 yr.
One sq.	$ 80	$1 25	$1 75	$2 50	$6 00	$ 10
2 spa	1 25	1 75	2 00	4 50	7 00	10 00
3 "	1 75	2 25	3 00	5 00	7 50	12 00
4 "	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	10 00	14 00
1 column.	3 25	4 00	5 00	10 00	15 00	20 00
4 "	5 00	6 50	8 50	17 00	25 00	37 00
1 "	8 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00

Cards in Business Directory, $5 per line per year.
Legal Advertisements at Statutorate.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan

BARON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVELL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILLS EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Probate will be held on the first Monday of each month. Others will be open for the transaction of business at all times

A. B. UPRIGHT, County Clerk and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Resident on Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Charlevoix, Mich. Particular attention paid to horse shoeing

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will call promptly to all professional business entrusted to him. Office and residence on Mitchell street.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. J. PAULTHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
PETOSKEY, MICH

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has been at this shop for J. F. Wing's for many years, in Charlevoix and solicits the continuance of the work he has formerly done for his friends, or orders and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles Miss be found at my residence on Main street EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines

DYE STUFFS,

Stationery & Confectionery

IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Where he sells at the lowest prices consistent to supply the people of Charlevoix and surrounding country with pure drugs and medicines at all time. Prescriptions carefully put up day or night.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The largest, and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, which will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:
Leave Charlevoix—7 a. m. Arrive at Conkling at 12 m.
Leave Conkling at 1:30 p. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 4 p. m.
Every necessary attendance for the comfort of passengers will be given, and the fare will be reasonable. Also, packages or express will be delivered at any time upon reasonable

D. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,

House Sign and Carriage

PAINTER.

Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also the choice of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 6, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 2, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Lorin R. Barnes of James Jones for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7107, dated June 20, 1876, upon the se¼ of sec 30, Township 34 North, Range 5 W. in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Lodge No. 220 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

L. H. GAGE, Secretary. N. G.
GEO. W. CROUTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 222 F. & A. M. Regular Communications of the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.
W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. B. UPRIGHT, Sec'y.

L. O. T.

Petoskey Lodge No. 144, L. O. T. meets at Central Lake Hall, in the Hedges Block, every Saturday evening. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.
GEO. HEDGES, W. M.
GEO. TOWNSEND, Sec'y.

Treasurer's Notice.—The following is a statement of taxes collected by me on the following described lands, which were returned delinquent for non-payment of taxes for the year 1877.

Alexander J. M. Lund, Lot 4, Section 1, Township 33 North, Range 6 West, Charlevoix County, Michigan, $ 25 00

BARON SEE, Treasurer.

State of Michigan, }
County of Charlevoix, } ss.

I, Baron See, Treasurer of said County, being duly sworn, on my oath say that the above and foregoing is a true statement of the taxes of the lands, lots and parcels of land returned by me as delinquent for taxes for the year 1877.

BARON SEE, Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of Dec. 1877.
ROBERT MILLER, J. P.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice,

Mails arrive and close as follows, (Eastern time.)

	Arrive.	Close.
Mail from Petoskey and Traverse City, Thursday and Saturday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Boyne City, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Mackinaw, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Charlevoix, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Elk Rapids, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Antrim, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Bellaire, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Grand Rapids, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Cadillac, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Kalkaska, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Grand Traverse, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Manistee, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Big Rapids, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Traverse City, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p. m.	10 a. m.	2 p. m.
Mail from Petoskey, Monday, Wednesday and Fri

THE SENTINEL.
WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

THE Senate was not in session on the 4th. Among the bills introduced in the House were—leaving a tax on income, to substitute greenbacks for the issue of National Banking Associations, dividing Michigan into three Judicial Districts, providing for general amnesty. Bills were passed—remitting the tax upon alcohol used by scientific universities and colleges in preserving specimens; repealing the iron-clad oath to officer, repealing the law disqualifying jurors who have voluntarily taken up arms against the Government, or given aid or comfort to those in rebellion. A resolution was adopted instructing the officers of the House to inform the Joint rule prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Capitol building.

THE Senate was not in session on the 5th. A resolution was offered, in the House, for adjournment from the 20th of December until the 20th of January. A bill was passed repealing the existing statutes for the renewal of patents, and declaring it unlawful for the Commissioner of Patents to renew or extend any patent for any design whatever.

BILLS were introduced in the Senate, on the 6th, to regulate the Secretary of Legislature, and for other purposes; to extend the time for presenting claims for collecting, drilling or organizing volunteers in the War of the Rebellion. A motion was made and agreed to—fix to 10 o'clock, the House bill to enforce the free coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character the same as for the 12th. A preamble and concurrent resolution were submitted by Mr. Hallgren, declaring that, at the date of the passage, in 1870, of the act authorizing the refunding of the National debt (by the terms of which act all United States bonds, principal and interest, were declared to be redeemable in coin of the then present standard value) there was in circulation in excluded silver dollars of the weight of 412½ grains each, and declaring that all such bonds are, therefore, payable, at the option of the Government, in such silver dollars, and that to refuse such coinage is legislation in payment of such bonds is not in violation of public faith, nor in derogation of the rights of public creditors. A resolution was adopted calling upon the President for information as to what legal impediments, if any, existed which prevented him from executing the laws in relation to the Pacific Railroads, and also for information in the House, the Post-Route bill was made, from the Committee on Elections, in the Colorado case. Gomer declared Chilcott entitled to the seat, and the latter being in favor of Belford for Senator. Seven of the Committee, headed by Judge Tarsney, favored Patterson, three Republicans indorsed Chilcott's claim of right to the seat, the latter on the ground that there was no valid election.

IN the Senate, on the 7th, the House bill for the relief of the sufferers in the wreck of the steamer Huron was amended and passed. A resolution was agreed to calling on the Attorney-General for a list of all the criminal prosecutions commenced in the Courts of the United States in the Territory of Utah, the number of jurors who have voluntarily taken up arms against the Government, or given aid or comfort to those in rebellion. A resolution was adopted instructing the officers of the House to inform the Joint rule prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Capitol building.

THE Senate was not in session on the 8th. A resolution was offered, in the House, for adjournment from the 20th of December until the 20th of January. A bill was passed repealing the existing statutes for the renewal of patents, and declaring it unlawful for the Commissioner of Patents to renew or extend any patent for any design whatever.

BILLS were introduced in the Senate, on the 6th, to regulate the Secretary of Legislature, and for other purposes; to extend the time for presenting claims for collecting, drilling or organizing volunteers in the War of the Rebellion. A motion was made and agreed to—fix to 10 o'clock, the House bill to enforce the free coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character the same as for the 12th. A preamble and concurrent resolution were submitted by Mr. Hallgren, declaring that, at the date of the passage, in 1870, of the act authorizing the refunding of the National debt (by the terms of which act all United States bonds, principal and interest, were declared to be redeemable in coin of the then present standard value) there was in circulation in excluded silver dollars of the weight of 412½ grains each, and declaring that all such bonds are, therefore, payable, at the option of the Government, in such silver dollars, and that to refuse such coinage is legal tender in payment of such bonds is not in violation of public faith, nor in derogation of the rights of public creditors. A resolution was adopted calling upon the President for information as to what legal impediments, if any, existed which prevented him from executing the laws in relation to the Pacific Railroads, and also for information in the House, the Post-Route bill was made, from the Committee on Elections, in the Colorado case. Gomer declared Chilcott entitled to the seat, and the latter being in favor of Belford for Senator. Seven of the Committee, headed by Judge Tarsney, favored Patterson, three Republicans indorsed Chilcott's claim of right to the seat, the latter on the ground that there was no valid election.

IN the Senate, on the 7th, the House bill for the relief of the sufferers in the wreck of the steamer Huron was amended and passed. A resolution was agreed to calling on the Attorney-General for a list of all the criminal prosecutions commenced in the Courts of the United States in the Territory of Utah, the number of jurors who have voluntarily taken up arms against the Government, or given aid or comfort to those in rebellion. A resolution was adopted instructing the officers of the House to inform the Joint rule prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Capitol building.

THE Senate was not in session on the 5

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1877

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Dec. 21, 1877.

Dear Four pet sensations during the last week or ten days has been the culmination of the troubles of the saloon keepers of this city who have been in hot water for months owing to defective laws on the subject of their privileges, which resulted in a conflict between the Board of Excise and the Police. Most of the liquor sellers have been unable to get licenses that would hold, and being unwilling to relinquish their business have been going on selling, in more or less fear of the troubles which have now come upon them. As there are some 8, 500 of them within the city limits the work of the police in enforcing any general order against them is a formidable one; but the latter went at it brave ly on Thursday afternoon under orders from headquarters and so zealous were they that by evening over 500 arrests were made. Many of the unfortunate ones were men of money and high stand ing in ward politics, and hot was their indignation, therefore, at being hustled as most of them were, into crowded cells where they passed the night. The next morning the Police Courts were crowded to witness the examination and bailing out of this heavy grist of alcoholic worthies. This operation the judges went through lustily and perfunctorily, accepting anybody's name on the nominal bail bonds, and only pausing occasionally to pass a little dignified "chaff" with some one of the irate culprits. In one encounter of this nature, Justice got decidedly the worst of it. A certain Murphy being called up to the railing for the usual formalities, His Honor asked with facetious nearness: "Haven't I seen you before somewhere, Mr. Murphy?" To which the unabashed drinkmixer promptly replied, "Yis, indade, yer worship. While I was bartender at the—Hotel, yer Honor used to drop in on me quite frequently." At this the motley audience yelled with laughter, and the justice lastly responding "Well, well, we won't go into that now," proceeded to business.

Many more arrests have since been made until the retail liquor business of the city is practically suspended except so far as it can be done on the sly—which by the way amounts to considerable, for when the average citizen wants his drink, he generally wants it very much, and efforts on the part of the authorities to prevent his getting it seem only to render him more thirsty. So all sorts of stratagems are resorted to, either to avoid the eye of the law or to evade its effect. For example there is no restriction, in the present difficulties, upon selling in quantities, and this fact gives rise to the practice of the old and favorite "wholesale" dodge. A regular customer steps into the bar which he usually patronizes, and shedding a wink upon the proprietor, informs the latter that he desires to buy a barrel of whiskey. The proprietor solemnly replies that he has several barrels of very fine whiskey in his wholesale department and that if the gentleman will step with him into the back room he will be glad to have him sample it. The customer readily accedes to this very fair proposition, but after tasting a good liberal sample invariably declines to buy. Oddly enough, however, the would be seller doesn't seem half as much surprised and chagrined at this adverse decision as might be expected. There is an unobtrusive jingling of silver, one more wink apiece and then the two separate, apparently on as good terms as though their "wholesale" negotiations had been entirely successful.

Both the wholesale and retail liquor men are now aroused and are holding frequent meetings to devise a plan for forcing the authorities to extricate all concerned from the legal muddle in which they are involved.

And not only in the unregenerate New Yorker in trouble about his cocktail. His difficulties are even extending to his cigar. The great cigar strike has now been over two months in progress, and the effect is already noticeable in the market. Talking to day with a member of the Cigarmaker's Union, I was informed that the cessation of the labor of 9,000 cigarmakers during the period mentioned, had reduced the aggregate production over 50,000,000 cigars in his opinion the resulting scarcity will soon force the manufacturers to accede to the demands of the strikers, who, he said, were determined to resist to the last. Meanwhile, several hands of these strikers have taken factories and gone to work on the co-operative plan.

And now they tell a new story about James Gordon Bennett, the eccentric young man who owns the New York Herald, and is the patron saint of extravagant sports. I call him a young man because in the eyes of the public he will always remain such; partly because he had a distinguished father, and partly because his own actions are mostly such as men associate with reckless and dissipated youth. In point of fact he must be verging on forty and is growing prematurely old. As your readers are probably aware he has been in voluntary banishment for about a year on account of a duel with the brother of his ex-fiancee. He divides his time between the onerous duties of riding with the hounds at his "shooting box," as the English call it, somewhere in the interior of England, and attending to the gayeties of the French capital, where he is as well known a character as in this city.

Well, the tale is now that this pattern journalist, unable by all the ordinary methods of expenditure to get rid of the income of the great paper which he is prevented from selling by the terms of the elder Bennett's will, meditates emulating the example of A. T. Stewart by building a new town. And apparently that the best site for such an enterprise is a barren and sandy plain, he is reported to have selected such a location in unsightly-haunted New Jersey, some twenty-five miles from this city. It is certain that he has bought an immense tract of land in the locality indicated, and is trying to increase it by buying up the surrounding lands; but whether he will go on with his alleged scheme to cause this desert to blossom with palatial buildings it is too early to assert definitely, in view of the uncertain character of its projector.

Among the prominent recent arrivals in the city is reported that of our new State Senator from Buffalo, Dr. R. V. Pierce, who was returned at the last election by a majority of nearly 3,000, after a stiff campaign in which his opponent was Judge Clinton, a well known and prominent citizen of that District. Such a popular verdict is a recognition of Dr. Pierce's enterprise and ability which have contributed so much to the growth of that city. Two of the finest structures therein contained are the new factory of the American Grape Sugar Company, of which he is president, and his own new mammoth hotel for tourists and invalids, both of which have been recently completed. Dr. Pierce will carry to the State Legislature a high grade of judgment and executive ability which will be as valuable to the community as they have proved in his vast private business.

Mr. B. L. Farjeon, the talented young English novelist, is also among us, and commenced a series of lectures, or rather readings from his best known works, which are attracting much interest. Mr. Farjeon and Joe Jefferson, by the way, had a magnificent banquet given them a week or more ago, which was an unusually brilliant affair. Mr. Jefferson has just closed what was, I believe, the most successful season he has ever had in New York.

RADIX.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Geo. W. CROSTER.

HORSE FOR SALE.

I will sell my bay pony cheap will give time if desired.

tf. A. BUTTARS

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a despondent sufferer from Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart? Have you Dizziness of the Head? Is your Nervous System depressed? Does your Blood circulate badly? Have you a Cough? Low Spirits? Coming up of the food after eating? &c., &c. All of these and much more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Green's August Flower is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,400,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will satisfy any person of its wonderful quality in curing all forms of indigestion. Sample bottles 10 cts. Regular size 75 cts. Sold positive by all first-class Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres at least three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

25 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BYTHE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, elm and other wood, and are accessible to local market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great fruit raising section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The best of Michigan, in which these lands are found is

Not a Wilderness, by any Means

It contains a population of TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND SOULS and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

☞ Send for our Illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. HUBBART,
Commissioner,
Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods,
Carpeting,
Oil Cloths,
Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CREAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an order by either by mail or telegraph will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

1877. F. R. & B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market. Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashimere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Socks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

GREAT EXCITEMENT!!

—AT—

Carpenter & Bartholomew's

EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN EXAMINING THEIR IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS JUST RECEIVED! THEY DON'T QUOTE PRICES ON A FEW CHEAP GOODS, BUT SELL

Everything AT BOTTOM RATES!

Remember the Place!

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Charlevoix, Nov. 20, 1877.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks & jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and has Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best exhibition of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods,
Clothing,
Hats, Caps
And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crozier's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

tf-1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

IF THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolo

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers. 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for TEAS, SYRUPS &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(92) 6, 1y

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$5.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$6.

Family Bibles, $3 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH,
Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle, hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tuggs from here to in which can arrive at Speckled Trout. Baggage moved free of charge.

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. Also agents for better grades of Ink made by the

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS,
183 & 185 MONROE ST., CHICAGO
And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

The Surrender of Plevna.

A London cable telegram of the morning of the 11th, to the Chicago Tribune, says:

Plevna has fallen, not by assault nor storm, but by starvation and surrender. That the condition of Osman Pasha's Army was known to Constantinople is now certain, and hence the recent effort of Suleiman Pasha to create a diversion to enable him to break out of Plevna. Almost simultaneous with Suleiman Pasha's brilliant movement toward Tirnova, Osman Pasha made various struggles to break the fiercest line in the direction of Wadilla, which Mehemet Ali was expected to make a direct attempt to relieve him; but not only did the former have little effect in the withdrawal of the Russian troops from before Plevna, but Mehemet Ali wholly failed, it now appears, and his other has been or is to be immediately relieved of his command.

On Saturday, after Osman Pasha had found his escape impossible, his army starving and pursuing with cold, and no hope of succor, he sent a parlementaire to the Russian head quarters, with a special letter addressed personally to the Grand Duke Nicholas as chief of the Army investing Plevna. The tenour of the letter could not be learned here or to receive the parlementaire, and directed him to be conducted to the headquarters of Prince Charles as the commander-in-chief of the allied armies besieging Plevna. The purport of the letter was a request for favorable terms of capitulation, and in compliance with Osman Pasha's desire he allowed to surrender his sword to the brutal Duke Nicholas. This being impossible, the parlementaire returned. On Sunday another desperate assault was made on the Russian right, in which Osman Pasha himself was wounded, and about 9,000 Turks put hors de combat. Nothing remained but unconditional surrender, and Russia closed one of the bravest defences on Sunday night.

At four o'clock on Sunday the Turkish bugles sounded the retreat. Firing ceased on both sides, and the message of Russian triumph was recognized on both sides to be at hand. So far the wounded have not been given cruelly to Turk and Russian while the negotiations were in progress, and by four o'clock the surrender was complete.

To-day a brief special informs me that the Russians are engaged in sweeping the forts and batteries, and garrisoning Plevna.

Sulieman Pasha, having spent Sunday in inspecting the Fortresses of Rustchuk and Varna, has returned to Adrianli, and has ordered all correspondents to the rear. It is, therefore, believed that he does, or did contemplate, another active aggressive movement; but the news of Plevna's fall may cause him to fall back toward Adrianople. The release of 120,000 men under Prince Charles and the Grand Duke Nicholas for active field operations will make his position very critical for already it is possible that Prince Carl's Division will be cut off or forced to make a disastrous retreat through Ekeni Pass in the Balkans.

Mehemet Ali is belogged to an extent which seems to prevent any movement whatever. Even Montenegro is gaining considerable territories from the Turks, and the surrender of Antivari is hourly looked for; and at Scutari the local Albanian authorities are think ing seriously of making the independence or annexation of Italy.

Speaking of the situation, the London Times says: "The Turks refused to accept the conditions which Europe, including ourselves, offered to continue our full recognition of their Empire, and they must be left to take the consequences. Those consequences must sooner or later be the forfeiture of some of their authority, if not of their territory, in Europe. No European Power, and this concerns at least all, will interfere to prevent the consequence."

How a Girl Was Provided With a New Scalp.

An interesting surgical operation has been successfully completed in St. Catherine's Hospital, Williamsburg, by Dr. Samuel J. Brady, the President of its faculty. By it, Dora Conrad, a young girl of fifteen years, was supplied with a new scalp from the arms of the Sisters of St. Dominick, who have charge of the hospital. Dora, who was a helper in the press room of Waterbury & Co.'s Bagging Factory, in Bushwick, allowed her long hair to hang loose while at work, notwithstanding the warnings of her workmates. On the 4th of August, 1876, Dora's hair caught in one of the spindles, which was making some 1,800 revolutions per minute, and in an instant she was thrown to the floor, senseless, and her scalp on the left side of her head was torn off, the skull being entirely denuded over a space eight inches by four. She was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, where at first no hope was entertained of her recovery.

Dr. Brady saw her on the third day, and, on making a close examination, found that the periosteum was not totally destroyed. He therefore thought a recovery possible by transplantation of skin. He ordered carbolized oil dressing to be used until sufficient granulation had begun to make feasible the starting of the grafting process. Sisters Dubarosa and Johanna allowed the skin needed to be taken from their arms. Sister Dubarosa especially was frequently called upon to endure this operation during the seven months that Dora remained in the hospital under Dr. Brady's care.

The girl was in excellent health at the time of the accident, and the flesh granulated rapidly, especially on the arms and there on the fragments of the periosteum small particles of flesh reminded, which, fed by the venous system of that membrane, took root and granulated also. The first grafts were made from the patient's own arm. The pieces of skin cut out were divided into small particles and then carefully laid in a line parallel with the lower edge of the wound and a quarter inch from it. A quarter of an inch space separated each graft. They were then secured with narrow strips of plaster and in a few days they sent out ramified fibers in all directions. Those from each graft and from the sound skin, uniting and growing, bridged over the intervening spaces, and thus formed a perfect new skin. The Sisters' arms were then called on, and the operation was continued until the entire denuded space was covered with a new and sound scalp.

Every graft took root, the periosteum growing with it until it also covered the skull, save in one or two spots, and here no death of bone in the skull took place through the care of the doctor and the nurses in keeping the dressing perfect. The girl is to-day in good health, and has resumed her work in the factory.—N. Y. Sun.

The Egyptian Love of Something Big.

The notion of bigness seems to have held a closer grip over the despotic Egyptian mind than over any other psychological specimen with which we are acquainted. It does not need a journey up the Nile to show us their fondness for the immense; half an hour at the British Museum is quite sufficient. Now, why did the Egyptians so revel in enormous works of art? This question is usually answered by saying that their absolute rulers loved thus to show the vastness of their power; and doubtless the answer is very true as far as it goes, and quite falls in with our theory given above. But it does not always happen that despotic monarchs build pyramids or Memnons, and the further question suggests itself—why was there in the circumstances of Egypt which determined this special and exceptional display of architectural extravagance? As we cast about for an answer, an analogy strikes us at once. Taking the world as a whole, I think it will be seen that the greatest architectural achievements are to be found in the great plain countries, and that mountain districts are comparatively barren of large edifices. The plain of Lombardy, the plain of the Low Countries, the plain of Chartres, the lower Rhine Valley, the Eastern countries—these are the spots where our great European cathedrals are to be found; and if we pass over to Asia, we shall similarly discover the country for pagodas, mosques and temples in the broad basins of the Euphrates, the Ganges, the Indus, the Hoang-Ho and the Yang-tze-kiang. No doubt castles and fortresses are to be found everywhere, but fights for purposes of defense; but purely ornamental architecture is most flourishing in level expanses of land. Now, there is no level expanses of land in the world habitable by man so utterly unbroken and continuous as the Valley of the Nile. Herein, doubtless, we have a clue to the special Egyptian love for colossal undertakings of every sort.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Strange Hallucination.

Miss Esther Brown, a lady of color, expired yesterday at No. 353 East One Hundred and Twentieth street. What she died of was a mystery, but her friends had a suspicion that she was the victim of a snake, frog or some semi-amphibious creature, which had for months loomed in her vitals. The deceased herself was under the impression that there was a darting in her stomach which was supposed to be restless, and which, when other food was wanting, preyed upon her. This she told to several friends of hers, and she succumbed for the strange intrusion to this way. At a not very remote date Miss Brown was in the country, and one day while roaming through the fields and woods she came upon a brook near a spring and exceedingly refreshing. Miss Brown thirsted, and she at once quaffed a draught of the brook water. But, alas! Miss Brown never recovered from the effects of that drink. A serpent or a toad—which she never learned, but she was positive it was either one or the other—happened to be in the water, and slipped down her throat, and from that day her stomach was the abode of the reptile. She felt its movements within her, and consulted physicians without number. The consensus then, prescribed she swallowed, but singularly enough the nostrums lived on; gastric juice was powerless so far as it was concerned, and the strongest emetics failed to move it. At length Miss Brown sickened and died, and Coroner Woltman was notified of her demise. Yesterday his deputy visited the home of the deceased to make an autopsy. To him the mother of Miss Brown stated that the dead woman was the only one of nine children who had ever been sick. In her youth she had the small-pox, and later on in life she began to complain of pains in her stomach for which no physician could account. She remembered, however, having drank the water of a brook which was known to contain a number of snakes and lizards. A couple of these creatures, it was supposed, were swallowed, and they at once began to consume portions of Miss Brown's stomach. Old Mrs. Brown was positive about the snakes. She said that when pork, pickles or other victuals for which they had no relish were eaten by her daughter the lizard tried to crawl away and the snakes wriggled about, thereby causing the woman intense torture. It was a dreadful shock to the old colored woman to learn that poor Esther had no such inmates as were supposed to be located in her stomach, and that consumption, Bright's disease of the kidneys and dyspepsia were the causes of her death, and not snakes or lizards.—N. Y. Herald.

"I AM convinced that the world is growing better," remarked a reverend gentleman to a brother clergyman. "My congregation is constantly increasing." "Yes," interrupted the brother, who happened to be a Pennsylvania chaplain, "and so is mine." And there the discussion on the arrival of the millennium dropped.

STATISTICS show that, while the Hebrews form 10 per cent. of the population of New York, they contribute less than 1 per cent. to the criminal classes.

THE population of the City of Mexico has remained almost stationary since the fall of Maximilian.

The Farm Boy.

There are so many bright spots in the life of a farm boy, that I sometimes think I should like to live it over again; I should almost be willing to be a girl if it were not for the chores. There is a great comfort to a boy in the amount of work he can get rid of doing. It is sometimes astonishing how slow he can go on an errand—he who leads the school in races. The world is new and interesting to him, and there is so much to take his attention off when he is sent to do anything. Perhaps he couldn't explain himself, why, when he is sent to the neighbors after yeast, he stops to stone the frogs; he is not exactly cruel, but he wants to see if he can hit 'em. No other living thing can go so slow as a boy sent on an errand. His legs seem to be lead, unless he happens to see a woodchuck in the adjoining lot, when he gives chase to it like a deer; and it is a curious fact about boys, that two will be a great deal slower in doing anything than one, and that the more you have to help on a piece of work the less is accomplished. Boys have a great power of helping each other to do nothing; and they are so innocent about it, and unconscious. "I went as quick as ever I could," says the boy; his father asks him why he didn't stay all night, when he has been about three hours on a ten-minute errand. The sarcasm has no effect on the boy. Going after the cows was a serious thing in my day. I had to climb a hill which was covered with wild strawberries in the season. Could any boy pass by those ripe berries? Attitude, in the fragrant hill pasture there were beds of wintergreen with red berries, tufts of columbine, roots of sassafras to be dug, and dozens of things good to eat or to smell, that I could not resist. It sometimes even lay in my way to climb a tree to look for a crow's nest, or to swing in the top, and to try if I could see the steeple of the village church. It became very important sometimes for me to see that steeple, and in the midst of my investigations the tin horn would blow a great blast from the farmhouse, which would send a cold chill down my back in the hottest days. I knew what it meant. It had a frightfully impatient quaver in it, and I shall die with the sound called us to dinner from the hay field. It said, "Why on earth doesn't that boy come home; it is almost dark, and he is constantly milked?" And that was the time the cows had to start into a brisk pace and make up for lost time. I wonder if any boy ever drove the cows home late who did not say that the cows were in the further end of the pasture, and that "Old Brindle" was hidden in the woods and he couldn't find her for ever so long! The brindle was to the boy's scapegoat many a time.

No other boy knows how to appreciate a holiday as the farm boy does. All the best ones are in particular his. Going fishing is, of course, one sort. The excitement of rigging up the tackle, digging the bait and the anticipation of great luck—these are delightful pleasures, enjoyed because they are rare. Boys who can go fishing any time are not likely to fish. Training all day through bush and briar, fighting flies and mosquitoes and branches that tangle the line, in no sense can break the hook and returning home late and hungry with wet feet, and a string of speckled trout on a willow twig, and having the family crowd out at the kitchen door to look at 'em and say, "Pretty well done for you, lads; did you catch that big one yourself?"—this is also pure happiness, the like of which the boy will never have again, not if he comes to be Solomon and deacon and to "keep store."

But the holidays I recall with delight were the two days in spring and fall when we went to the distant pasture land, in a neighboring town, maybe, to drive thither the young cattle and colts and to bring them back again. It was a wild and rocky upland where our great pasture was, many miles from home, the road to it running by a brawling river and up a dashing brook-side among great hills. What a day's adventure it was! It was like a journey to Europe. The night before I could scarcely sleep for thinking of it, and there was no trouble about getting me up at sunrise that morning. The breakfast was eaten, the luncheon was packed in a large basket, with bottles of root beer and a jug of sckticket, which packing I superintended with the greatest interest; and then the calves were to be collected for the march, and the horses hitched up. Did I shirk any duty? Was I slow? I think not. I was willing to run my legs off after the frisky steers, who seemed to have an idea they were going on a lark and frolicked about, dashing into all gates and through all bars except the right ones, and how cheerfully I did yell at them; it was a glorious chance to "holler," and I have never since heard any public speaker on the stump or at a training-day show could make more noise. I have often thought it fortunate that the amount of noise in a boy does not increase in proportion to his size; if it did, the world could not contain it.

The whole day was full of excitement and of freedom. We were away from the farm, which in a boy's case of the best parts of farming. We saw other farms and other people at work. I had the pleasure of marching along and swinging my whip past boys whom I knew who were picking up stones. Every turn of the road, every bend and rapid of the river, the great bowlder by the waside, the watering trough, the giant pine that had been struck by lightning, the mysterious covered bridge over the river where it was most swift and rocky and foamy, the chance eagle in the blue sky, the sense of going somewhere—why, as I recall all these things I feel that even the Prince Imperial, who used to dash on horseback through the Bois de Boulogne, with fifty mounted hussars clattering at his heels, and crowds of people cheering, could not have been as happy as was I, a boy in short jacket and shorter pantaloons, trudging in the dust that day behind the sheep and colts, cracking my blackstock whip.

I wish the journey would never end, but at last, by noon, we reach the pastures and turn in the herd; and after making the tour of the lots to make sure there are no breaks in the fences, we take our luncheon from the wagon and eat it under the trees by the spring. This is the supreme moment of the day. This is the way to live; this is like the "Swiss Family Robinson" and all the rest of my delightful acquaintances in romance. Baked beans, pork and Indian bread (moist, remember), doughnuts and cheese, pie and root beer. What richness! You may live to dine at Delmonico's, or, if there, order the best to eat and each other up, at Philippe's, in the Rue Montorgueil in Paris, where the dear old Thackeray used to go, but you will get there neither doughnuts, nor pie, nor root beer, nor anything so good as that luncheon at noon in the old pasture high among the Massachusetts hills. Nor will you ever, if you live to be the oldest boy in the world, have any holiday equal to the one I have described. But I always regretted that I did not take advantage of my boy days to "improve" the hours we passed. I know there were trout there.—Dudley Warner.

Saved by Feigning Death.

There are on the foothills in Gunnison County, at this season of the year, great numbers of bear and deer, and many mountain lions and bear. William Yale and brother left Mr. Preston's ranch on the Gunnison, a few days ago, to hunt for deer and elk. A wagon drawn by two mulmals, guns, ammunition and provisions, completed their outfit. They traveled all day and reached the hills about nightfall and encamped. Seeing the next morning a great deal of signs of game, they proceeded to remain at least one day, and try their luck. Early in the morning they started in different directions, with guns, powder and ball, of course. After going about five miles from camp and seeing no game, William Yale concluded to turn back. He had proceeded but a short distance before he heard, as he thought, the rustling of the dry leaves. Looking up, he saw, only about thirty yards from him, a huge bear, coming directly toward him, with open mouth, growling and giving other evidences of a thirst for blood. Yale waited until the brute came within a few paces of him, when he took deliberate aim, but unfortunately his gun missed fire.

The ferocious beast ran directly against the hunter, knocking him down, and as quick as thought Yale turned over on his face and feigned to be dead. The bear bit him severely in four places, disabling one arm and one leg. After the lapse of a few minutes, neither seeing nor hearing the beast, Yale cautiously raised his head and saw his antagonist about thirty yards off, apparently scenting something on the grass, seeing a tree near him, he made up his mind to reach it and get up it if possible, even though seriously wounded. So off he crawled through the snow, keeping an eye attentively on the bear and the tree. Reaching the tree, he started to climb it, and the bear started from his retreat directly toward him, growling and gnashing his teeth. He soon reached the tree. Yale had gone up only a few feet—just high enough for his own safety, but not too high for the bottoms of his feet to be touched by the nose of the beast. He again attempted to use his gun, but in vain. The animal whined, growled and gnawed at the tree. After a while he returned to what appeared to be a large pile of grass, and commenced again to work as though he was concealing something.

Yale, though suffering much from cold and his wounds, resolved to make a last effort to save his life. So descending cautiously to the ground while the bear was at work, he crawled a few steps till he got a low, leafy tree between him and the bear, watching the animal closely in the meantime. He could not travel more than a hundred yards at a time without resting. At last he reached the camp, completely exhausted.

The next day Col. Cashion, James Preston, F. T. Stevens and John M. Smith armed themselves and went to the scene of the fight, and when within about thirty-five or forty yards of a large pile of straw, they saw a large bear emerge therefrom and make toward them, evidently with the intention to fight; but he did not proceed far before he fell, pierced with ten balls. He weighed 800 pounds green, and was neither a grizzly nor a cinnamon, but a cross between the two, called silver-tip or range bear, a malignant and ferocious beast. Covered up in his bed was found a large dead deer, which, it was supposed, a mountain-lion had killed and the bear had stolen.—Dur. Denver (Col.) News.

THERE are 5,000 distilleries in the United States—more than in England, France and Germany combined. This explains why, when other Nations are so often at war, we are so still.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

NIAGARA FALLS are haunted by witnesses since the horse-shoe fell down.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Gen. Sherman is grubbing along on a paltry $18,000 a year, and here is a hard winter coming right on.

—Only two of Ralph Waldo Emerson's classmates survive, and he feels like one who treads alone.

—In Congress the predominating color of hair is brown or black, there being but a few light-haired members and only two red-headed.

—Senator Withers, of Virginia, has ten unmarried daughters. Another daughter was married to a gentleman from Boston a few days ago.

—Charles Sumner had no interest in games, although sports of pretty women. He preferred men, and it was in vain for the freshest and liveliest girl to seek to engage his attention.

—Gen Burlan is the third lawyer who has risen from the Bar directly to the United States Supreme Court Bench, Justice Bradley and ex-Justice Davis having enjoyed the same distinction.

—A family of the name of Ayres, in Niantic, Conn., have had a Bible for 250 years. It was printed in London, in 1599, and has the family chronology since 1660.

—An exchange recommends that as a sleep-producer bed-wetting "will very would become a misfortune without trouble of any sort, lend somebody $100 for 100 years at 1 per cent. At the expiration of that time the interest will amount to $1,380,960. If you don't want to live to collect the debt, sell it to somebody that does."

—Mark Pattison, the scholarly Rector of Lincoln, Eng., accounts curiously for the fact that people read books: "It is that we may escape," he says, "from the terrible ennui of society that we have recourse to a book. We go to read, not from craving for excitement, but as a refuge from the taedium vitæ, the irksomeness of herding with uninteresting fellow-mortals."

—Richard Grant White, in an article in the New York Times, says: "It is, perhaps, as hopeless to check the providence of 'on the street' as that of laissez faire. The proper phrase, however, both logically and by good usage, is 'in the street.' A house ever, although it fronts on a street, is in a street, and a man is in the street, people walk in the street, not on the street. A street is not a surface; it is a passage-way in or through which people go."

—Beef Soup—From a Canadian cook: The Yankees don't think much of soups, and in fact, I guess, don't know how to make them, although they calculate as how they are a smart people. We are fond of soups, and think they are healthy, cheap and respectable. For a common soup secure a beef soup bone or shank, and add to it the bones of your waste beef left over, and boil for hours—all meats for soup to be put in cold water. We take two potatoes, one carrot, one turnip, one onion, one piece of cabbage, chop fine, and add these about one hour before dishing up. We add half teacupful rice, with the cramped the buggy back, and turned round as neatly as though guided by a skilful driver, and jerked back to the hitching-post. Here he waited about five minutes, and then started toward Main street, going through several kinds of paces. Near the corner he stopped and turned round as skillfully as before, and frightened boy who had started to stop him, almost out of his wits, by pursuing said boy with open mouth and bent-back ears, as though his usual habit was to eat every small boy that he came across. He then continued his antics until he had reached the straight, when he left town left, and when Dr. Wilson came out he was standing at the hitching-post, as demurely as though he had never thought of leaving it."

EUROPE has, as near as can be calculated, 500,000 miles of railroad. North America 225,000; India has 14,000 or 15,000, and Australia 12,000.

—Of the new styles of Organs introduced by Jno. Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., this season (No. 240), it is deservedly rich and attractive case, of new style. It is of solid black walnut, having sunken panels and raised surfaces of jet-black, not to be distinguished from highly-polished ebony, and ornamented with beaded and graceful designs in gold bronze; it is also studded with black and gold-bronze ornaments. It has nine stops, including the VOIX CELESTE, SERAPHONE, VIOLA-DOLCE, etc. The price is extraordinarily low for so superb an instrument.

Mothers who have Delicate Children Who are Subjectto Croup, Read This.

ALLCOCK'S Lung Protectors should always be kept in your house, and be given immediately when the first symptoms appear, which will remove the mucous collected in the throat and save the life of your dear child

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"Dunegal's Rheumatic Remedy," the great Internal Medicine, will positively cure any case of Rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine & Bentley, Washington, D. C.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for all diseases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and by giving relief and health to the child, gives rest to its mother.

THE "POULTRY WORLD," Hartford, Conn., is the leading magazine of the kind. $1.25 a year; 12 apers Canvassers mailed for only 75c. additional. All Poultry-keepers should have a Subscribe now for 1878. It is best and cheapest. Ins. sample No.

THE elegant Royal Casket sent out by the Franklin Jewelry Company, of 703 Bennett street, Philadelphia, fully justifies the representation in their advertisement, and as this Company is perfectly responsible, no one need hesitate to send them money.—Herald.

To Dyspeptics and Invalids.

Biscuits, rolls, bread, cake or pastry, made with Cleveland's Perfection Baking Powder, will impartly and relished by the most sensitive dyspeptics as healthy and nutritious.

NATURE'S REMEDY. VEGETINE THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I have received from the use of Vegetine induces me to give my testimony in favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive against disease in the spring and summer seasons.

I would not be without it for ten times its cost.

REUBEN TYLER.

Attorney and General Agent for Massachusetts of the Continental Life Assurance Company, No. 49 Devonshire Building, Boston, Mass.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

THE GREAT REGULATOR.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

An Effectual Specific for

Biliousness, Jaundice, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation and Biliousness, Nausea, Colic, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Lowness of Spirits, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Limbs, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Fever, Ague, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera.

ARE the recovered dyspeptics, Bilious sufferers, victims of Fever and Ague, the unwearied nursing mothers, who they recovered health, physical spirits and good appetite by using SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR.

This justly-celebrated medicine Regulates the Liver, promotes digestion, and fortifies the system against malarial diseases.

Extract of a letter from Hon. Alexander H. Stevens: "I can especially use, when my condition requires it, Simmons Liver Regulator. It is mild, and suits me better than most active remedies."

CONTINUATION!

TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF-JUSTICE OF GEORGIA.—I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for nearly all of my bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it a good medicine for the derangement for which it is used, such has been my personal experience.

HIRAM WARNER, Chief-Justice of Georgia.

Original and Only Genuine,

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

PHILADELPHIA, PA

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

Clarence W. Nichols & Co., MANUFACTURERS

Fluted Split Feather Dusters,

149 Lake St., Chicago.

Will pay cash for dry picked Turkey Tail Feathers, and all those pertaining to the tail of the turkey. Do not tie the feathers in bundles, or ship them in boxes or barrels, but in bales as we want a pack tightly in bales.

HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

—Zack Chandler advises parents to keep their boys out of politics and on the farm.

—To remove stains from silver or gold plating: Immerse for some time in a solution of one-half ounce cyanide of potassium to one pint of rain water, and brush off with prepared chalk.

—Dr. Salmon, an eminent veterinary surgeon, terms "hollow horn" the "offspring of ignorance and quackery," and says: "If an animal loses its appetite, and has horns alternately hot and cold—symptoms which accompany every serious disease—these are considered sufficient indications for boring the horns, blowing salt and pepper into them, slicing the tail, and inserting another piece of salt and pepper."

—If the stable is comfortable, no horse should be blanketed at night. Much unbedded is done by keeping animals too warm and thus bringing them out of doors into a keen whizzer atmosphere. The coat is greatly thickened as cold weather comes on, and nature also is made by Nature for the change of season. Don't fail, however, to give your animals good ventilation. A temperature of 40 deg. is more healthy in the stable than one of 60 deg.—American Cultivator.

—Now is the time to stop leaks in the barn. A board here and there; a good glazed window in place of a broken shutter; warm, dry litter, in place of a foul wet bed; a tight roof and a plastered or double-boarded ceiling, all these are actually worth more than an extra portion of food to an animal, because, although when cold and chilled it eats the more, yet it thrives poorly, waste if well housed, it will keep sleek and thrifty upon comparatively moderate feeding.—American Agriculturist.

—It is well-known that the far-famed canvas-back duck of the Chesapeake derives its delicate and peculiar savor from the valisneria, or wild celery, on which it feeds in those waters. An intelligent agriculturist has turned this knowledge to useful account by cooping and feeding the common domestic duck upon the tops and roots of the garden celery for a week or two before killing them, which is said to greatly improve their flavor, and altogether destroy the rankness which is usually observable in the barn-yard fowl. The plan is worthy of a trial by bon vivants.—Rochester (N. Y.) Express.

—Beef Soup—From a Canadian cook: The Yankees don't think much of soups, and in fact, I guess, don't know how to make them, although they calculate as how they are a smart people. We are fond of soups, and think they are healthy, cheap and respectable. For a common soup secure a beef soup bone or shank, and add to it the bones of your waste beef left over, and boil for hours—all meats for soup to be put in cold water. We take two potatoes, one carrot, one turnip, one onion, one piece of cabbage, chop fine, and add these about one hour before dishing up. We add half teacupful rice, with the cramped the buggy back, and turned round as neatly as though guided by a skilful driver, and jerked back to the hitching-post. Here he waited about five minutes, and then started toward Main street, going through several kinds of paces. Near the corner he stopped and turned round as skillfully as before, and frightened boy who had started to stop him, almost out of his wits, by pursuing said boy with open mouth and bent-back ears, as though his usual habit was to eat every small boy that he came across. He then continued his antics until he had reached the straight, when he left town left, and when Dr. Wilson came out he was standing at the hitching-post, as demurely as though he had never thought of leaving it."

—Cheapest and Best.

The thorough pulverization of the soil the surest preventive and cure for success with barley. Farmers who have given their corn extra culture, to destroy quack, thistles or other weeds, should sow barley. Going through corn with a cultivator, just before it tassels, is a great advantage. It may or may not help the corn, but the extra working which it gives the soil is more than paid for in next year's barley. For the same reason, barley does better after a potato crop than after corn. The potatoes have to be dug, and this gives the soil another working. Late potatoes are better for after crops than early ones. They are worked later in the season; their tops cover the ground better and more completely, and as their roots spread more, they require a more thorough turning of the soil in digging the crop. Early Rose and Early Vermont potatoes are often left without any culture after the 1st of July. The result is that weeds start between the rows and in the hills, and as the potato tops die, weeds completely cover the field, ripening luxuriantly the seeds, which will fill the ground with weeds for years after. I have seen, this year, potato fields which had to be mowed before the crop could be dug. As the early potatoes mostly grow in a heap around the stalks, they require little stirring of the soil in digging. After harvest, the weeds grow without further molestation, and completely mat the ground before winter. It is impossible for such fields to bring a good barley crop. Quite a new stamp of plant, and will run the race with weeds much better than will barley. The least that can be done for fields in this condition is to cut the weeds as soon as possible, get them partially dry, and burn, so as to destroy the seeds, and then plow the ground. In this way something may be done to clean the soil of foul weeds.

Fall plowing is of especial advantage for barley. In a freshly-dug potato field, free from weeds, plowing may not be necessary, but if we expect to sow corn stubble with barley, it is usually best to plow it. The frost pulverizes the soil more thoroughly where it is newly plowed, and the furrow ridges are unbroken. In the spring, cultivating or plowing the soil three or four inches deep is all that is necessary. Barley roots do not spread far, and hence this grain does not need as deep a seed-bed as some others. From the fact that its roots do not run far, barley needs a richer soil than oats, and is especially benefited by having fertilizers drilled in with the seed, to give every plant a vigorous growth from the first.

Early sowing is important. At the best, barley comes to maturity quicker than most grains. The old Jersey first crop of barley, gave his mate for the seed for three months, and harvested and threshed the crop in time to pay the rent, has often been proved to be possible. To have a large crop of barley mature in ninety days, presupposes a very rich soil, and that the crop cannot be early enhanced it. This, we find, is the fact with barley. It takes less from the soil than the same quantity of oats or wheat, and is undoubtedly the best spring grain to seed with. Indeed, the chief difficulty in getting a fair catch of clover after barley is in not seeding soon enough. As this is removed by fall plowing, and putting in the barley as soon after the frost leaves the soil as is possible.—Our Country Gentleman.

Merry Christmas.

There is an old-fashioned heartiness in the words "Merry Christmas" that is wanting in the more modern "Christmas Day there comes an old-fashioned warmth of heart that is always inviting. Christmas is a memorable day in the austere, because of the revelations in the way of hidden tenderness in their hearts memorable to the prosy, because of the surprises they are liable to in the way of romantic schemes and poetical plannings; memorable to the simple and pure in heart, because of the delight they experience in the fresh fields of mystical and harmless intrigue, the concealing surprises; memorable to the lovers of the wonderful in the mystery there is about it, the tremendous exhectancy it precipitates then, and shoots them out of memorable because of the great happiness it brings.

Americans are proverbially stiff mended on this subject of holidays. They rarely yield in a whole-souled way to the influence, rarely give themselves up to the spirit of the time. They hang back in a shame-faced or reprehensible way, and hesitate when they should go forward, and go ahead when they should dash forward with enthusiasm. Fortunately they are less stubborn, less shame-faced and more hearty in the observance of Christmas than any other holiday. We keep near the old-fashioned mark, and we have changed our gait somewhat. We unbend, but not always gracefully; we forget business, but not always cheerfully; we forget, in the rush of the season, to remember the poor, but too often in a spirit carried by duty rather than encouraged by pleasure. We more reward the spiritual Christmas Eve with our minds intent on giving our sons and presents, but we put too little heart in the performance. We sup too stiffly for the spirit of the hour, we guard too carefully the tenderness in the heart, we are too much afraid of expressing all we feel. Let us relax. Surely the natural man may claim one day in which kindness, tenderness and a forgiving spirit may all be seasoned with the highest type of manliness. We keep the old-fashioned way. Why not go one step further and yield entirely to the spirit of the day, and act in all things with old-fashioned heartiness? Let the children see our pleasure. We pave the way for their enjoyment, and they take it without stint. They gave the way for these that are older, and men and women, seeing successes where the children see mystery, thanking Providence when the boys and girls exult over Santa Claus, should join in Christmas observances and festivities with the same heartiness. For one day even may cease to be politicians, and remember only that they are men with homes and families and neighbors. For one day human nature should be at its kindliest and should preserve it best.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Watching a Rifle Ball's Flight.

Three gentlemen, members of the Amateur Rifle Club, yesterday afternoon were in the Town of Brighton target-shooting. The distance was 200 yards; all three were shooting Creedmore rifles. From the firing point to the target the ground gradually ascended, so that a small telescope, but a good one, firmly fixed in true bounds on a tree, at a distance of perhaps thirty feet, made a fine point for observation. One of the shooters, while looking through a glass to mark a shot of one of his companions, exclaimed that he saw the ball as it sped on its mission. The announcement was received with incredulity; but one of the other shooters went to the glass, and he also saw the ball almost as it left the gun, and through its whole flight, nearly the whole line of its trajectory, until it struck the target. So interesting and beautiful was the sight that every shot was watched by one or the other of the gentlemen; and it is an actual fact that the point at which the ball would strike the target could be seen before the ball struck. It was even insisted upon that the rotary motion of the ball could be observed.—Rochester (N. Y.) Herald.

THE farmer who is breeding with a view to making money will, all things considered, find the greatest profit in the general-purpose horse.—Chatham Courier.

How a Horse Kept Warm.

The Meriden (Conn.) Republican tells this story: "One cold morning last week Dr Wilson drove up to a house on Brown street, and, left his horse without hitching it. The horse waited a few moments, and, his master not returning, he began to dance a double shuffle, presumable to get his feet warm. Finding this rather monotonous he started on toward Olive street, keeping up a kind of Kentucky breakdown. When he had gone several rods, he cramped the buggy back, and turned round as neatly as though guided by a skilful driver, and jerked back to the hitching-post. Here he waited about five minutes, and then started toward Main street, going through several kinds of paces. Near the corner he stopped and turned round as skillfully as before, and frightened boy who had started to stop him, almost out of his wits, by pursuing said boy with open mouth and bent-back ears, as though his usual habit was to eat every small boy that he came across. He then continued his antics until he had reached the straight, when he left town left, and when Dr. Wilson came out he was standing at the hitching-post, as demurely as though he had never thought of leaving it."

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat,

Requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung disease. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, and will almost invariably give immediate relief.

SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS and dealers in medicines.

FOR HOLIDAY PRESENTS!

The BOYS' WINTER EVENING LIBRARY, CONTAINING

1. Tour of the World in Eighty Days. 3 Illus
2. Dropped from the Clouds. 9 Illus
3. A Gentleman of Leisure.
4. The Secret of the Island. 8 Illus
5. The Mysterious Island. Three Illus. 25 Illus.
6. Round the Horn. 20 Illus.
7. Dr. Ox's Experiment. 21 Illus.
8. Survivors of the Chancellor. 24 Illus.
9. To the South Pole. 71 Illus.
10. The First Year. 20 Illus.
11. The Fur Country. 11 25 Illus.
12. The Giant Raft. 2 Illus. 16 Illus
13. Michael Strogoff. 25 Illus.
14. Journey to the Center of the Earth. 26 Illus
15. The Begum's Fortune. 20 Illus.

Any of the above sent by mail, postpaid, for 25c. each; any 3 for 50c.; any 7 for $1.00; the whole 15 for $2.00. Address, J. S. OGILVIE & CO., Publishers, Chicago.

ROEBUCK'S Weather-Strips! FOR DOORS AND WINDOWS

Send for Circular to S. Roebuck & Co., Pole Manufacturers, 18 Pearl-st., Chicago, Ill.

1878—TWELFTH YEAR.—$1.60

THE NURSERY,

Illustrated Magazine for Children.

Send 10 Cents for a Specific Number and Premium List. Subscribe NOW. Only $1.60 per year, for the remaining months of the year 1878.

JOHN L. SHOREY,

30 Bromfield Street, Boston.

KUNKEL'S AMERICAN CITHERN.

The Most Popular Novelty of the Day. Perfect in tone and easy to play. Has the regular German Cithern, worth $20 in full. An instrument for musical or home amusements in the world. Price, $5, sent to any address on receipt of price, with book of instructions. Agents wanted. KUNKEL & BENTZ, 295 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. Trade supplied by Lyon, Healy & Co., and S. E. Shaw, Wholesale Agents.

THE IMPROVED ARMOUR Family Knitting-Machine

KNITS A COMPLETE STOCKING,

Heel and Toe, Leg and Foot, in Two Minutes.

Double-Stitched MITTENS and a Great Variety of FANCY KNITTING.

Price $40.

Has 2 needles only, but does the work of 24 ordinary needles. Knits 3 times as fast as any other machine. Will knit a pair of Stockings in 30 minutes. Will knit 1,000 stitches per minute. Will knit a pair of Mittens in 10 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Bosom in 5 minutes. Will knit a Scarf in 3 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Sleeve in 5 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Wristband in 2 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Collar in 2 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Bosom, Sleeve, Wristband and Collar in 12 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Bosom, Sleeve, Wristband and Collar in 12 minutes. Will knit a Shirt Bosom, Sleeve, Wristband and Collar in 12 minutes.

Two Sample Machines only $19 Each.

The number will be limited, as each one will be sold at less than cost of construction in their advertisement, and as this Company is perfectly responsible, no one need hesitate to send them money.—Herald.

AGENTS Wanted to operate Machines and introduce them in every County. Full instructions for operating accompany machine. The ordering of two machines secures County Agency

Address ARMOUR KNITTING MACHINE CO., Watertown, New

OLD ENGLAND.

Father Inwood's Visit to the Land of His Nativity.

THIRD LETTER.

One of the purposes of travelers in Europe is to see the antiquities, ancient monuments, churches, and works of art. Time, that great destroyer of good, with its last withering mark on the old mansions and castles, still has a few remain tenanted. Some are restored so far as to modernize their surroundings, and but little of interest is left in them. There is no doubt that the surrounding grounds are now much more beautiful than formerly, and the market families are surrounded with beautiful scenery that at no anterior date has been at all approached, and for the elegance of refined luxury absolutely surpasses all antiquity.

Do one and our lords we visited the most ancient monument of native work that we know of, viz., Stone Hedge. This piece of Druid worship is on a high chalk hill, treeless and almost heathless—so looking a wide range of country, about sixteen miles from the town of Salisbury, passing on the way Old Sarum, a conical hill on which was situated an ancient fortress, of which nothing now remains but a high ditch surrounding the line of the outer walls.

Arriving at Stone Hedge we found that this hill was formerly surrounded by a ditch, plainly marked, inclosing perhaps over 100 acres. In the center are the ruins. Not having with me any means of measuring, I estimated the outer row of stones as perfect circle to be from three feet six inches to four feet thick, from seven to eight feet wide, and from sixteen to eighteen feet high, nearly equi-distant, but connected originally by caps nearly four feet square, imposts. The upright stones are remarkable with mortices corresponding in the caps. The cap stones of only three or four piers are remaining, and many of the rest are gone. The next row of stones are about two feet six inches square, and distant some five or six feet from the outer row, as near as I can remember. The next was a row circling a ring not more than twenty five feet in diameter. These were much higher than the outer row, and also have caps. Only one pair remains upright, and these show that the whole might have been covered by a roof of timber, leaving the center open for the escape of smoke. The whole being enclosed with wicker work and plastered over with mud would have made a tenant comfortable. But the stone piles now only remain. What use the cups were but to place the rafters upon I know not, and the three and smaller circle seem to be too much for the foundation pillars of a gallery. Taking this view of these immense stones, their use is obvious as certainly any temple in the humid climate of England would need to be covered, and as its chimneys were built there must have been space left for the smoke of their sacrifices to escape. This temple was a duplicate of their every house.

Of one and our lords we visited the most ancient monument of native work that we know of, viz., Stone Hedge. This piece of Druid worship is on a high chalk hill, treeless and almost heathless—so looking a wide range of country, about sixteen miles from the town of Salisbury, passing on the way Old Sarum, a conical hill on which was situated an ancient fortress, of which nothing now remains but a high ditch surrounding the line of the outer walls.

Arriving at Stone Hedge we found that this hill was formerly surrounded by a ditch, plainly marked, inclosing perhaps over 100 acres. In the center are the ruins. Not having with me any means of measuring, I estimated the outer row of stones as perfect circle to be from three feet six inches to four feet thick, from seven to eight feet wide, and from sixteen to eighteen feet high, nearly equi-distant, but connected originally by caps nearly four feet square, imposts. The upright stones are remarkable with mortices corresponding in the caps. The cap stones of only three or four piers are remaining, and many of the rest are gone. The next row of stones are about two feet six inches square, and distant some five or six feet from the outer row, as near as I can remember. The next was a row circling a ring not more than twenty five feet in diameter. These were much higher than the outer row, and also have caps. Only one pair remains upright, and these show that the whole might have been covered by a roof of timber, leaving the center open for the escape of smoke. The whole being enclosed with wicker work and plastered over with mud would have made a tenant comfortable. But the stone piles now only remain. What use the cups were but to place the rafters upon I know not, and the three and smaller circle seem to be too much for the foundation pillars of a gallery. Taking this view of these immense stones, their use is obvious as certainly any temple in the humid climate of England would need to be covered, and as its chimneys were built there must have been space left for the smoke of their sacrifices to escape. This temple was a duplicate of their every house.

How long before Cesar's invasion this was built no one can tell; and now did these people get those stones from the quarry—at the least forty miles away. One of them is said to be lying in the bottom of a stream sixteen miles distant—probably breaking down their bridge in moving it. But this wonderful monument of antiquity remains shrouded in its profound mystery.

The Cathedral or Salisbury is the only one that to the eye presents a picture of architectural symmetry. Generally they cover too much ground for their height. This is the case with Winchester Cathedral — an immense structure, and very massive it looks as though it had sunk into the earth. Those of Gothic style were of course not older than the 14th century, but very many show the Norman, but some a mixed architecture—perhaps from being repaired in more modern days. All are aware that the churches are built east and west, in the form of a cross, with the back end, in chancel fashion. The front and central parts is called Nave. On each side are pillars supporting the central roofing. On the outside, against the walls are buttresses to sustain the pressure. So did these hit, the whole building would come down. The main entrance always fronts west. On entering the door a long vista is presented to the eye, embracing the nave, transept and chancel, and this generally splendid stained window in the east end. On the sides of the nave, right and left, are the aisles of the church. The priest is at the east end of the transept having all of the crowd end to address. At the transept the body plan, to which he gives his private and their families, or some enrolled of the locality, are ranged. This end is closed up with screens, which are occupied by the choir at their daily prayers, or if attended to a college, by the students. Between the columns in the old Cathedrals, such as Winchester, there are figures of the Worthies of Wykeham—that is, at the time of standing and several of royal or knightly parentage. These are encased with wall and iron railing, having room for the purpose of prayer, as many [illegible] entombed are raised and salved, and in olden times people prayed to them as intercessors [illegible] than the door of Wykeham's tomb was based. I suppose [illegible] to him now. These [illegible] very much with the view of the exterior, breaking up the effect of the immense area.

Generally the columns of the sides of the aisles are long, slender clusters, giving [illegible] and [illegible] to the [illegible] but in Winchester it is a square, oblong form. [illegible] the whole a most [illegible] in [illegible] with Salisbury and [illegible]

[illegible]

James Inwood.

SENATOR CONKLING of New York, and Chancellor Gumbleton of Canada, on the floor of the Senate Chamber, and the plain spoken Conkling came very near getting the [illegible]

A Charlotte funeral procession was accompanied the other day by a relative of the deceased, who were until the arrival of [illegible] [illegible] to carry his body home in a certain carriage. The [illegible] didn't like to want to ride in that.

Anderson Prince County, Arkansas, contains the [illegible] of 13, that Union soldiers, 268 of whom were from Michigan. Also there are 3,500 Michigan soldiers buried at Gettysburg, Pa. More Michigan troops having been killed there in proportion to her population than that of any other state in the Union.

$777 [illegible] easily earned in three months by [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

A RESOLUTION was agreed to, in the Senate, on the 13th, authorizing a select committee to take into consideration the state of the law respecting the ascertaining and declaration of the results of elections of President and Vice-President of the United States, and also to consider and report on the best manner of electing those officers, and as to the duration of their terms of office. Senate bills were passed to regulate expenditures on the Navy; authorizing a general sequent of the advances for Naval appropriations. The Senate amendments to the Deficiency Appropriation bill were insisted upon, and a Committee of Conference was appointed. Mr. Claffin offered a substitute for the Matthews Silver resolution, declaring that all bonds of the United States issued or authorized under the acts of Congress heretofore created are payable, principal and interest, at the option of the Government, in coin or gold or silver of the standard value when such bonds were issued, and that to restore to its coinage such silver coin, as a legal-tender equal in all public dues, and as a full tender for public faith, nor in derogation of the rights of public creditors, Mr. Merrimon then read a lengthy legal argument in favor of Mr. Matthews' resolution. Mr. Christiancy followed him, in opposition thereto in the House, Mr. Morrison called in question the action of the Speaker to fill vacancies on committees caused by the resignation of members who had not been excused by the House. The Speaker stated that it had been the uniform practice to accept gentlemen who did not wish to serve. A bill was introduced and referred, repealing the iron-clad oath which has to be taken by applicants for pensions. Mr. Cox (Ohio), of the Election Committee, submitted a third report on the Colorado election case, declaring that Mr. Teller had no valid election. Arguments were presented in favor of the minority and majority reports respectively submitted. A Conference Committee was appointed on the Deficiency bill.

A PETITION was presented and referred in the Senate, on the 15th, from Mr. Corbin, of South Carolina, asking that his claim to a seat from that State be inquired into and decided upon its merits. A bill was introduced and referred to authorize and equip an expedition to the Arctic Sea. The Annual Post-Route bill was reported from committee, with several amendments. A resolution was agreed to calling on the Secretary of War for information in regard to the organization, arming and equipping of the militia of the several States. Mr. Matthews' resolution to refund to the New York Customs officers by a vote of 31 to 25. The Republican Senators who stood by the President's veto message were: Burnside, Christiancy, Conover, Dawes, Hoar and Matthews.

BOTH houses of the California Legislature have adopted resolutions asking Congress to levy a per capita tax of $250 on Chinese immigrants.

THE STATE Grange of Michigan assembled at Lansing on the 11th. About 300 delegates were present, comprising some of the most prominent agriculturists of the State. According to the Master's address and the Secretary's report, the Granges throughout the State are in a healthy, growing condition, and harmonious in their work.

REV. MR. HARRIS, Rector of St. James Church, in Chicago, has been elected Bishop of the New Episcopal Diocese of Quincy, Ill.

MR. PATTERSON, the Democratic claimant, was, on the 13th, admitted to a seat in the National House of Representatives as Congressman from Colorado. The vote stood —130 to 110.

SEVERAL nominations by the President were confirmed by the United States Senate, in Executive session, on the 13th.

THE citizens of Chicago, in favor of the remonetization of silver, assembled in mass meeting at the Tabernacle, on the evening of the 13th. The meeting was largely composed of the leading business men of the city, and was presided over by the Hon. Chas. B. Lawrence, ex-Chief-Justice of Illinois. After speeches by prominent citizens, a series of resolutions was adopted, denouncing the alleged secret and unfair manner in which the Demonetizing act was passed in Congress, and demanding that the present Congress restore silver coin to its former place, as a legal-tender, on an equality with gold.

SHERMAN BRODAWELL, President of the Chatham Savings Bank, of New York City, was arrested, on the night of the 14th, on an indictment of fraud against him by the Grand Jury for fraud.

THE firm of J. D. Easter & Co., of Chicago, manufacturers of agricultural implements, has failed, with liabilities of over $1,000,000. Bailiff Peyton, Co. of Canton, Ohio, reaper, mower, sawshafe and spring manufacturers, have also failed, in consequence, it is said, of their intimate business relations with the first-named firm.

THE President, on the 14th, nominated to the Senate the Hon. Richard C. McCormick, late Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to be United States Councilor-General at the Paris Exposition, of next year. The nomination was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

THE Legislature of Wyoming adjourned on the 9th.

FOREIGN.

HON. JOHN WELSH, the United States Minister to the Court of St. James, reached Liverpool on the 11th. He was received with distinguished honors.

THE fall of Plevna was officially announced at Constantinople, on the 11th, and great excitement was caused. Half a dozen ecthouse came to the front and demanded each a different line of policy. There was believed to be imminent danger of local revolutions, and it was reported that the British fleet had been telegraphed for to protect the Christians from the threatened uprising of the fanatical Mussulmen.

AN attempt was recently made to assassinate the Prince of Montenegro. The house he occupied as headquarters, near Antivari, owned by a Mahommedan Bey, was blown up, and one of his body-guard killed and six injured. The Prince was out of the house at the time.

THE news of the fall of Plevna occasioned great rejoicing at St. Petersburg and other Russian cities. A solemn Te Deum was sung at Barbaroux.

ACCORDING to Athens (Greece) telegrams of the 12th, the fall of Plevna had revived the warlike demonstrations of the Greeks, and the Cabinet were deliberating upon the proper course to be pursued for redressing the alleged grievances she had against Turkey.

ACCORDING to Vienna dispatches of the 12th, the Porte was greatly astounded at the fall of Plevna, as it was hoped to the last that Suleiman Pasha would be able to relieve Osman Pasha. There was some talk of unfurling the green flag of the Prophet, but it was believed at Vienna that cooler counsels would prevail, and that an attempt would speedily be made to negotiate a peace direct with the Czar, without the intervention or mediation of any European Power.

THE Russian losses in the battle preceding the capture of Plevna are officially stated to have been 191 killed and 1,269 wounded. The Turks lost 4,000 killed and wounded.

THE further reinforcement of the Russian Army in Bulgaria has been counteracted, the Czar believing that he has men enough to complete the conquest of Turkey.

HALIL RIFAT Bey, ex-Governor of the 15th say the Russians had just achieved another brilliant success in the vicinity of Elena. Over 12,000 Turks are reported captured. Details were wanting.

THE troubles in France over the selection of a Cabinet have ended for the present. The President has abandoned the policy of resistance to the popular will, and consented to the formation of a Ministry under the Presidency of M. Dufaure. There was still some trouble about the Budget, on the 13th, but it was thought not to be serious.

A LONDON dispatch of the 13th says the Russian authorities had announced the following as the conditions of peace with Turkey: The independence of Roumania and Servia; the autonomy of Bulgaria under a foreign Prince; the free passage of the Dardanelles; the surrender of the Turkish fleet as a war indemnity, and the cession of a large portion of Armenia. It was believed that, should Russia insist upon these conditions, England would send a fleet to Constantinople and occupy Gallipoli. A manof-war had already been sent to Besika Bay.

ANOTHER insurrection has broken out in the Island of Crete, and troops have been sent by the Governor to suppress it. The Turkish families have taken refuge in the fortress.

ACCORDING to a Bucharest telegram of the 14th, it had been found necessary to amputate three legs of Osman Pasha.

A BERLIN dispatch of the 14th says the estimates for 1878 show a deficiency of over $9,000,000.

ON the 14th, the Servian Government, at Belgrade, declared formally, issued a proclamation of war, and announced that the Servian Army had been ordered to cross the Turkish frontier. A state of siege was declared, and Prince Milan took up his quarters at Alexinatz. The Servian Agent at Constantinople delivered the formal declaration to the Porte and left for home.

IN anticipation of an influential attack, the British Consulate has been removed from Erzeroum.

ACCORDING to a London dispatch of the 14th, the Porte had issued a circular, addressed to the various European Powers, asking their mediation to moderate the demands of Russia and stop the effusion of blood. At the same time the circular states that Turkey is not yet at the end of her resources, and is ready to sacrifice all to maintain her independence and territorial integrity.

ACCORDING to a Constantinople telegram of the 16th, the Porte had been officially informed that Russia desired to treat with Turkey directly, and that mediation would only make the terms of settlement harder.

THE correspondent of the London Times telegraphed, on the 16th, that the Turkish powers of endurance were altogether exhausted and that the Porte would gladly make peace on any reasonable terms.

THE Servians, on the 16th, occupied, with artillery, the Heights of Topolintza and Lesaika.

A RUMOR prevailed in Constantinople, on the 16th, that Osman Pasha had resigned himself, being compelled thereto by the Mohammedan dread of amputation.

THERE was great discontent at Stamboul and other points in Turkey, on the 16th, and fears were entertained of violent outbreaks on the part of the populace.

THE Italian Ministry resigned on the 16th.

THE steamer Mexicani, which sailed from Port Royal S. C., on the 15th of September, for Liverpool, had not been heard from at the latter port up to the last, and it was feared that she had foundered with all on board.

SEMI-medical students in one of the colleges of Cincinnati, dissecting a female subject a few days ago, found what was called in doctors' parlance a "cornet liver." When light-loving has been practiced through several years, a permanent dent or hollow is produced in the liver, which may be seen very plainly after the woman is dead, and her liver dissected out. This kind of liver occurs so frequently in women that physicians have given it the name of "corset liver." In the subject mentioned the hollow in the liver was large enough for the wrist of a grown man to be laid in it.

A CHILD of Mr. MERRIES had been married forty-three years when his wife died, last week. He didn't appear to miss her very much until bed-time, when he sat down and stuck out his foot for somebody to come and pull off his boot. And then, when his son-in-law coolly handed him the boot-jack, the full weight of the irreparable loss he had sustained broke upon the old man and he gave way to a flood of tears. As for the boot-jack, it had been so long since he had seen one, he didn't know how to use it.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

AN English poacher was seen to take aim at a bird, his gun was seen to go off, and the bird was picked up dead, but the poacher was cleared because it was not proved that his gun was loaded.—Detroit Free Press.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

THE Association of Agricultural Societies of Michigan will hold its annual meeting at Marshall, Calhoun County, Dec. 20.

THE winter meeting of the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society will be held at the Russell House, in Detroit, on the 7th of January next.

TIMOTHY STATEN, of Saginaw, died recently from the effects of a strain received while practicing on a horizontal bar.

SOME enterprising East Saginaw thief lately sought to replenish an exhausted exchequer by appropriating the head-stone of a child's grave.

WAGES for men in the pine woods of Western Michigan this winter range from $10 to $26 per month.

HIRO. DENNINGTON was killed at a roll-way at Steele's lumber camp, on the Tittabawassee River, twenty miles from Sanford, the other evening, while skidding logs.

A FIRE in Otsego, recently, destroyed property worth $14,000.

PETER MICHELFELDT, residing in the Township of Bridgeport, in Saginaw County, was killed, on the 11th, by a falling tree.

MR. C. W. POTTER, the executor of the late Capt. E. B. Ward's estate, in Michigan, reports the balance of the estate now in his hands, as per inventory, at $4,433,144.

THE Detroit City Council have voted to repeal the charter of the Detroit Mutual Gas Company, on account of various infractions of the instrument.

HENRY WILLIS, of Battle Creek, has received a letter from Joy. Cresswell in reply to a communication relative to the Michigan Ship Canal, in which the Governor strongly favors the project, but thinks that the State cannot undertake the enterprise, and that whatever may be done will have to be done by the National Government.

A FIRE broke out in the drying kiln of the Phoenix Furniture Company, at Grand Rapids, on the morning of the 11th, and destroyed $1,500 worth of black walnut lumber before it was extinguished.

W. G. KIRBY'S house, in the Township of Ross, was entirely destroyed by fire, a few nights ago. The family barely escaped with their lives.

P. HERRICK'S shingle-mill at Midland was burned, on the night of the 10th. Loss, $3,000.

OVER 6,000 children draw school money in Gratiot County.

THE new Bay County Pow-Wegan will be completed and opened with a dinner and dance for the Supervisors on or about January 1st.

THERE are 7,814 children in Shiawassee County who are entitled to draw public money, while there are 117 school buildings, of which five are brick, 107 frame and five log structures. The aggregate value of the school buildings, sites and furniture in the county is $157,565.50.

ELLEN, wife of James McCormick, committed suicide, at Detroit, on the 12th, by taking strychnine. Despondency.

P. M. GOODRICH & CO., running stores in Grand Rapids and Petoskey, made an assignment, on the 10th. Liabilities and assets not known.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury the 1 was $470,854.14; receipts during the week ending Dec. 8 were $51,182.09; payments during same time were $24,726.04; balance in Treasury, Dec. 8, 1877, $497,309.01; increase for the week, $26,456.05.

The president of the Calumet and Hecla copper mine, Michigan, for November, was 1,221 tons, and 893 pounds; of the Quincy mine, 250 tons and 153 pounds.

THE Tannery of Houghton, Keweenaw and Barry manufacture about 1,800 barrels of lager beer every month, using some 2,500 bushels of barley in the operation.

THE stabilities gathered so far show that there were 2,830 Michigan soldiers killed in battle during the late War, 1,362 more died of wounds and 19,136 died of disease, a total of 14,330 deaths. The greatest loss in battle was suffered by the Fifth Infantry.

C. O. SAWYER, an East Saginaw furniture dealer, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide, on the 14th, by cutting the veins of his arms. He had nearly bled to death when he was discovered.

JOHN FLETCHER, an old resident of Midland, attempted to commit suicide, on the morning of the 12th, by cutting his throat with a razor. A frightful gash failed to reach the jugular. The motive of the deed was inability to work and his abandonment to his children.

E. G. CURTIS, mail route agent on the Detroit & Milwaukee Railroad, has been arrested on a Special Postoffice Agent for robbing the mails in the charge of money letters. He belongs in Grand Haven.

THE attendance at the University this year, in all departments, is 1,793, thus distributed: Department of Literature, Science and Arts, 362; School of Pharmacy, 67; Department of Law, 556; Department of Medicine and Surgery, 788; College of Dentistry, 120; Department of Dental Surgery, 41. The following class anniversaries are announced: The Class of 72 will hold its second reunion in 1880; the Class of '73, its second reunion in 1878; the Class of '74 will hold its second reunion in 1879; the Class of '75, its second reunion in 1876.

THE oath-race of Dr. Rose have commenced in part to their new testimony before the Circuit Court. Nothing particularly important had been brought out up to the 15th.

AT a club dance at North Lansing, on the night of the 15th, Chas. Wiley was badly shot by Lansing Ward, V. S. C. It seems that Mr. Wiley heard some one in the club-room make some disrespectful remarks about his wife, whereupon he reported the fact to a brother, who at once commenced to club the offender, which caused the Lansingite to interfere and arrest George Wiley. Charles Wiley attempted to make his escape, but was shot by the officer.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.25@1.65; Butter, ₩ lb, 18@23c; Cheese, ₩ lb, 10@ 13½c; Corn, ₩ bu, 44@46c; Flour, White Winter, $5.50@6.50; Amber, $5.75@6.00; Rye, $3.00@3.05; Cattle, ₩ central, $3.25@5.00; Hogs, $4.10@4.75; Sheep, $3.50@4.50; Oats, Mixed, ₩ bu, 30@30½c; White, 32@33c; Pork, Mess, ₩ brl, $12.75@13.00; Rye, 80c, 85@86c; Wheat, White, $1.29@1.30; Amber, $1.16@1.18.

Hydrophobia in England.

Unless our ablest medical men and our most skilled veterinary surgeons are altogether at fault, a malady is raging in the midst of us more terrible than Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, or even the much-dreaded plague of the Middle Ages. Within the last few months deaths from hydrophobia have been alarmingly frequent. It would seem, indeed, as if the disease had assumed an epidemic form. That this should be so is no matter of surprise. It is notorious that at certain periods hydrophobia has ravaged entire districts with an almost unaccountable virulence. In the year 1866 the Registrar-General for England reported no fewer than thirty-six deaths from this fatal malady. In 1867 two parks of hounds—the Quorn and Allerighton—were decimated by the pestilence. There is a mass of evidence to show that, like cholera, or plague, or any other grave disease, hydrophobia recurs at stated intervals, and at this moment, as far as can be made out, we are passing through a period of its recurrence. For some months past hardly a week has gone by without the death from rabies occurring. The Registrar-General, in his reports, has called attention to the prevalence of the scourge. Inquests have been held in various parts of the country, at which evidence of a most painful and distressing character has been given. Indeed, if the general public is not seriously alarmed, we can only say that it has failed to appreciate the gravity and importance of the situation.—London Daily News.

The Composition of the United States Senate.

NOW that Mr. Eustis, of Louisiana, has been admitted, the United States Senate is full, for the first time since 1872. There are, Republicans (in Roman), 39; Democrats (in small caps), 36; Independents (in Italics), 1, as follows:

ALABAMA.		MISSISSIPPI.
Term expires.		Term expires.
1879. GEORGE E. SPENCER.	1879.	1879. JAMES R. ROBB.	1883.
1883. JOHN T. MORGAN.	1883.	1883. L. Q. C. LAMAR.
ARKANSAS.		MISSOURI.
1879. Stephen W. Dorsey.	1879.	1879. DAVID AMERSON.
1883. A. H. Garland.	1883.	1883. FRANCIS M. COCKRELL.
CALIFORNIA.		NEBRASKA.
1879. Aaron A. Sargent.	1879.	1881. A. S. Paddock.
1881. Newton Booth.	1881.	1881. Alvin Saunders.
CONNECTICUT.		NEVADA.
1879. Jeremiah Clemens.	1879.	1879. John P. Jones.
1881. Henry C. Deming.	1881.	1881. William Sharon.
DELAWARE.		NEW HAMPSHIRE.
1879. Eli Saulsbury.	1879.	1879. Wm. Whipple.
1881. Thos. F. Bayard.	1881.	1881. Edward H. Rollins.
FLORIDA.		NEW JERSEY.
1879. Wilkinson Call.	1879.	1877. J. R. Dodge.
1885. Simon B. Conover.	1885.	1883. Theodore F. Randolph.
GEORGIA.		NEW YORK.
1879. Joshua Hill.	1879.	1881. Thomas C. Platt.
1881. Charles W. Jones.	1881.	1881. Lyman Trumbull.
ILLINOIS.		NORTH CAROLINA.
1879. John A. Logan.	1879.	1879. Matthew W. Ransom.
1883. Richard J. Oglesby.	1883.	1883. Augustus S. Merrimon.
INDIANA.		OHIO.
1879. Joseph E. McDonald.	1879.	1879. Stanley Matthews.
1881. Daniel W. Voorhees.	1881.	1881. George H. Pendleton.
IOWA.		OREGON.
1879. James W. Grimes.	1879.	1879. La Fayette Grover.
1883. Wm. B. Allison.	1883.	1883. James H. Slater.
KANSAS.		PENNSYLVANIA.
1879. John J. Ingalls.	1879.	1881. Simon Cameron.
1883. Alexander Caldwell.	1883.	1881. Wm. A. Wallace.
KENTUCKY.		RHODE ISLAND.
1879. J. C. S. Blackburn.	1879.	1883. Ambrose E. Burnside.
1885. Thomas C. McCreery.	1885.	1883. Henry B. Anthony.
LOUISIANA.		SOUTH CAROLINA.
1879. J. Ross Eustis.	1879.	1879. Wade Hampton.
1883. Wade Hampton.	1883.	1885. M. C. Butler.
MAINE.		TENNESSEE.
1877. James G. Blaine.	1877.	1881. James E. Bailey.
1881. Lot M. Morrill.	1881.	1881. David M. Key.
MARYLAND.		TEXAS.
1879. Wm. Pinkney Whyte.	1879.	1883. Samuel B. Maxey.
1881. Geo. R. Dennis.	1881.	1883. Richard Coke.
MASSACHUSETTS.		VERMONT.
1881. Henry L. Dawes.	1881.	1879. Justin S. Morrill.
1883. George F. Hoar.	1883.	1881. Geo. F. Edmunds.
MICHIGAN.		VIRGINIA.
1881. Thos. W. Ferry.	1881.	1881. Henry E. Withers.
1883. Chas. J. Jenkins.	1883.	1883. John W. Johnston.
MINNESOTA.		WEST VIRGINIA.
1883. S. J. R. McMillan.	1883.	1881. Henry G. Davis.
1883. William Windom.	1881.	1883. Frederick M. Blower.
		WISCONSIN.
		1879. Matthew H. Carpenter.
		1881. Angus Cameron.

THE total combined capital invested in all the railways of Great Britain is nearly $3,200,000,000. This is at the rate of $200,000 per mile of railway opened. More than $100,000,000 of capital pay no dividend; $270,000,000 less than 5 per cent., and only $25,000,000 more than 10 per cent.

Ridpath's School History.

Recently, these columns, Inference was made to Ridpath's History of the United States, for schools. Those who have examined it, critically, pronounce it an unexceptionable text-book for the young, and accord it a grade of superiority which no author of a similar work has attained. It is most cordially recommended to the attention of everybody interested in the cause of education. Jones Brothers & Co., Cincinnati, are the publishers.

THE MARKETS.

	New York.	Chicago.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$5.75	$4.10 @
Hogs	4.60	4.25
Sheep	5.00	5.25
FLOUR—Good to Choice	6.25	6.30
WHEAT—No. 2	1.30	1.30
CORN—Western Mixed	.54	.48½
OATS—Western and State	.39	.32
RYE—No. 2	.71	.71
PORK—Mess	11.00	10.50
LARD—Steam	.07½	.06½
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	.38	.34
" Pulled	.36	.34
" Texas	.24	.24
	CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Extra	4.90	5.00
" Good	4.60	4.60
" Fair	4.30	4.30
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	3.50	4.40
SHEEP—Common to Choice	3.00	4.00
BUTTER—Fancy Creamery	.30	.32
" Good to Choice	.25	.28
EGGS—Fresh	.27	.24
FLOUR—Spring Winter	5.50	5.50
" Choice to Fine Spring	6.50	6.00
" Minnesota	6.00	6.00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Spring	1.07	1.06½
" No. 3	.98	.98½
Oats—No. 2	.31	.28½
" No. 3	.30	.26½
Barley—No. 2	.80	.80
BROOM CORN—Hurl	.06	.07
" Brush	.06	.05½
" Crooked	.06	.04½
POTATOES—Early Rose	1.75	1.00
LARD	7.00	7.20
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10.50	12.00
" Shingles	2.50	2.75
" Lath	2.00	2.00
	BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.50
" Medium	4.00	@ 4.90
" Ordinary	3.00	@ 3.75
SHEEP—Good	4.50	@ 5.25
	EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.50
" Medium	4.40	@ 4.75
HOGS—Yorkers	4.10	@ 4.15
" Philadelphias	4.30	@ 4.35
SHEEP—Best	4.60	@ 5.00
" Common	3.50	@ 4.00

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE CLOSING YEAR.

'Tis midnight's holy hour—and silence now
Is brooding, like a gentle spirit, o'er
The still and peaceful world. Hark! on the winds
The bell's deepest tones are swelling 'Tis the knell
Of the departed Year.

No funeral train
Is sweeping past; yet on the dream-and wierd,
With noiseless light, the unconscious rest.
Like a pale, spotless shroud, the air is stirred.
As by a mourner's sigh, and on you cloud,
That floats so still and placidly through heaven,
The spirits of the season seem to stand,
Young Spring, bright Summer, Autumn's solemn form,
And Winter with his aged locks, and breathe
In mournful cadences, that come almost
Like the far sounding winds, their own dirge well.
A melancholy dirge o'er the dead Year,
Gone from the earth forever.

'Tis a time
For memory and for tears. Within the deep,
Still chambers of the heart, a spectre dim,
Whose tones are like the wizard voice of Time,
Heard from the mighty deep, cries out aloud
And solemn finger to the beautiful
And holy visions that have passed away,
And left no shadow of their loveliness
On the dead waste of life. That spectre bids
The earth's full of hope and joy and love,
And, looking sternly on the pale face of the pale
Sweet forms that slumber there, scatters dead
Forever
O'er what has passed to nothingness.

The Year
Has gone, and, with it, many a glowing dream
Of happy dreams. Its mirth is one in each brow,
Its shadow on each heart. In the earth'd course
It waved its sceptre o'er the beautiful,
And they are not. It laid its pale hand
Upon the strong man, and the haughty form
Is fallen and the flashing eye is dim.
It laid the ball of revelry, where thronged
The bright and gay beauties, and the tearful sail
Of stricken ones is heard where erst the song
And recklessness of pleasure rang on high.
The battle-plain, where sword and spear and shield
Flashed in the light of midday—and the strength
Of serried hosts is shivered, and the grass,
Green from the soil of carnage, waves above
The crushed and mouldering skeleton. It came
And faded like a wreath of mist at eve;
Yet, ere it passed in the viewless air,
It breathed its influence to their home
In the dim land of dreams.

Remorseless Time!
Fierce spirit of the glass and scythe! what power
Has stay him in his silent course, or melt
His iron heart to pity? On, still on
He presses, and forever. The proud bird,
The ornder of the Andes, that can soar
Through heaven's bright realms unwearied, unto day,
The fury of the northern hurricane,
And keep his pinions in the blasts, and brave
The battle and the storm; the eagle-bird, and shake
Torrent upon his mountain-crag—but Time
Knows not the weight of sleep or weariness,
And night's deep darkness has no chain to bind
His rushing pinions. Hero-nations rage
Their wrath, and perish. Empires rise and wane,
And sleep in death, and nought can break the bond
Of their enchantment, save the blast of war,
Spring blazing from the ocean, and go back
To their primeval silence, when once more
The earth is at rest. And still he presses on,
To heaven their bald and blackened cliffs, and
Their soft lands to the plain; new empires rise,
Gathering the strength of hundred years,
And rush down like the Alpine avalanche,
Startling the world with fear, and then are not.
His rushing pinions. Heroic nations sweep
Off earth, like the red lightning's vivid path
Athwart the midnight storm, and leave no trace
Of their existence save the sound that goes
Sighing among the caves, and is not.

Still
Time presses on. Nor prayer nor human power
Can stay his course. Earth's greatest ones lie down
And sleep in dust, and nations, in their turn,
Go to the dust, and are forgotten.

Wait,
Thou hoary Destroyer! wait a little while Upon the mighty dead. Stay till the hand
Of History shall have written down
Their deeds for the admiring world to read,
And learn to imitate. Stay till the tongue
Of Fame shall have recorded their renown
For after times to listen to and love.
Wait till the poet's song shall have given
Their names to immortality. Stay till
The marble and the brass shall have received
The semblance of their lineaments, and art
Shall have bestowed its utmost skill to save
Their memory from the touch of oblivion.
Wait, Time! Oh, no! he presses on. Alone
Of all the beings he has created here,
Unmoved by love or pity, or aught else
That touches the heart of man, he presses on.
Nor prayer nor human power can bid him stay
His course one hour. Alone of all the host
Of beings that inherit earth or heaven,
Time knows not rest or sleep. Eternity
Is his, and his career. Oh, wonderful
And awful attribute! Thou only hast
Unlimited dominion. Thou alone
Dost live forever.

Yet, thou Spirit dim!
Thou hast a limit to thy sway. Thy power
Is bounded. Thou shalt cease to be, and when Thou shalt have passed away, and mighty Death
Shall have gone down to his dominion,
The Spirit of the Living God shall fill
Immensity with His presence, and Shall occupy eternity with Himself.

—Willam Cullen Bryant, in St. Nicholas for December.

THE RED LIGHT.

A Story of New Year's Eve.

It was New Year's Eve.

Not one of the ideal New Year's Eves of poetic and romance writers, wherein he moon is always at the full, the snow always a sparkle, like pulverized diamonds, and the air always still and cold and clear; but a stormy twilight, with the snow driving steadily from the east, the wind raw and biting, and the sky—what you could see of it—as black as ink.

But it was New Year's Eve, all the same, and Bertha Draper's cheeks were as red as the bitter-sweet berries in the woods, as she sat, all wrapped up, in he train that was steaming northward, on her way to spend New Year with her Aunt Almira Higgins.

New Year in the country! To Bertha, who had lived all her life in the brick walls and stone pavements of a city, he very words seemed to convey something of sheer and unalloyed delight. And Bertha, as she sat with her eyes closed, and her little gloved hands safely nestled in a grave-quiet muff, behind, a her mind's eye, great fires of logs roaring up, wide-hearthed chimneys, and had half composed a poem on New Year and its associations when the railroad conductor came along for her ticket. "How far are we from Montcourt Station?" she inquired, as she gave up the bit of pasteboard.

"Next but one, miss," said the man, as he hurried on, with his lantern under his arm. "Half an hour yet."

She had never been so far New York in all her life before. The driving rain in which she had left her home had changed, as they progressed northward, into the steady fall of snow, which thickened around them like a white waving shroud. But Bertha Draper cared little for this. Had not Aunt Almira promised to send Zebedee, her youngest son, to the station with the pony to meet her on the arrival of the sixty-four train from New York? And was not Zebedee to have a pattern with a red glass door to it, so that she could identify him at once?

She was very pretty as she sat there in her little black velvet hogue, with its curling plume of cardinal cod, and the wine-red ribbon bow at her throat —pretty with the bloom and freshness of eighteen. She was dark, with large hazel eyes, almond-shaped and long-shaped, a clear rosy bloom on either cheek, and wavy dark hair hanging in silken fringe over her broad, low forehead.

"Mont—court—sta—tion!" bawled the brakeman, putting in a snow-powdered fur cap, and withdrawing it again as quickly as if he had been a magnificent edition of the Jack-in-the-box, wherein children much rejoice at holiday time. And Bertha Hooper knew that she had reached her destination.

Still and ornament for the length of time in which she had been sitting in one position, she took a little three-steel-clasped traveling-bag in one hand, and a dainty silk umbrella in the other, and made her way to the door.

All she could see when she stepped out upon the wet and slippery platform, was a blur of driving snow, through which the lights of the solitary little country depot glimmered feebly; but the next instant something flashed at her vision like a friendly red eye—and beneath the reflector over the station door, she saw a tall, fine-looking young man, in a fur-trimmed overcoat, a seal-skin cap set jauntily on one side of a crop of chestnut curls, and a red-lighted lantern swinging from his left hand, and he stood straining his eyes into the stormy darkness, as if to catch sight of some familiar face in the little crowd.

"Cousin Zebedee!" cried Bertha, aloud, and she made one spring into the arms of this blonde-whiskered young giant. For had not she and Zebedee played dummies and fox and geese together in the days when she wore blue ribbon sashes, and his hair was a closely-shorn mat of curly red? Oh, I'm so glad to see you; and I couldn't see you but grown half so handsome!"

The young man gave a great hug, at the same time holding up her rosebud lips for a kiss.

But, to her infinite amazement, the hero of the scarlet-skin cap seemed a little backward in responding to her cousinly advances.

"I—I beg your pardon," said he, slightly receding, "but I'm afraid there is some mistake. My name is not Zebedee, and the lady for whom I am looking is somebody older than you."

Bertha Hooper stared back, coloring and confused; and, as she did so, a fat comfortable looking old lady came trundling along the platform, in an India shawl and a hen of Russia sable worth its weight in gingerbacks.

"Of course it wasn't!" said Bertha, impatiently. "How was I to know that every lantern at Montcourt had a red glass to it?"

And poor little Bertha cried herself to sleep that night.

The next morning—New Year's Day, all snowed up into glorious drifts everywhere—Mr. Harcourt drove over to the Biggins farmhouse. The young lady had dropped a fur glove on the platform, and Mr. Harcourt felt it his duty to restore it to her. And, moreover—here Mr. Charley Harcourt hesitated a little—he hoped Miss Hooper would excuse him for being so stupid as to allow her to fancy him her cousin.

"I ought to have explained sooner," said he.

"No, you ought not," said Bertha.

"The fault was all mine"

"I don't recognize a fault anywhere," said he. "And if I may be pardoned—"

"Of course you are!" said Bertha, colder and prettier than ever.

"In that case, I am commissioned by my mother to ask your aunt's permission to take your self and her as guests dressing the church in time for morning service. My horse is waiting."

"May I go, Aunt Almira?" said Bertha, with dignity.

"Of course you may," said Aunt Almira.

And so poor Zebedee was left out in the cold.

What was the end of it all? There is but one sequel to stories like this, when your mind bright eyes and human hearts are concerned. The next New Year's Eve Bertha Hooper and Charley Harcourt were married. One of the prettiest sweets in declaring that Bertha did the first of the love making.

And Bertha only laughs.

The Smuggled-Cigar Game.

Veteran smokers are sold by shrewd swindlers, who are fruitful in devices. The commonest of these dodges is the sale of pretended smuggled cigars, and though it has been played times without number, and time out of mind in every seaport city of the globe, users of the weed are swindled by it every week in the year in this big city of sharp people. The modus operandi is simple enough, but it takes a good actor to carry it through.

The victim selected is always an inveterate smoker, who has been particularly marked by the swindler. The latter watches his opportunity, and with a couple of boxes concealed under the pea-jacket which he dons for the occasion, he comes the unsuspecting of the unsuspecting man of business who is in the enjoyment of his third or fourth afternoon cigar.

"Any cigars to-day, Captain?" he asks in a low voice, casting his eyes furtively around, as if he feared that he might be overheard.

"No," is the curt answer.

"But these ain't your common cigars, Cap'n; you can't get none like 'em at the Revere nor Parker House. Superior cigar at random: "I want cost you anything."

This is an appeal the merchant cannot resist. He takes the cigar, looks at it critically, smells of it, lights it. The first puff is enough. The man has sold the trash. Such a cigar is hard to be had anywhere, and he is positive that it is worth even more than $50 a thousand. He can't let such a chance slip, and yet he doesn't feel that he ought to encourage smuggling. So he says, dissemblingly his eagerness:

"That's a fair cigar, certainly; but your price is wild. I'll give you $40 for the two."

"You're rough on a sea-farin' man, Cap'n. Can't you call it forty-five?"

"Forty."

"Forty it is, then: but if my ship wasn't goin' to sail to-night you couldn't have them for twice that. Smugglin' don't pay for such small figures."

The $40 are paid over, and the ownership of the boxes transferred; the seafarer places himself on the other side of the door as soon as possible, and seeks some other locality to repeat his clever operation. When the victim, full of anticipation, seeks his box for a second weed, he finds that he has purchased the vilest kind of a cabbage-leaf article, which would be dear at fifty cents a thousand, the specimen having been a really fine, pure Havana cigar, used expressly as a bait.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

"You have often," said the clergyman, "heard the brethren say 'Amen! amen!' while some one were praying. What did they mean? If any one knows, let him hold up his hand." Up jumped a little fellow, so eager to answer as not to wait for recognition. "I know!" he called out. "It means hurry up and get through." There was an audible smile.

A malicious taxpayer in Wilmington, Del., paid his taxes, amounting to seven dollars, all in copper cents.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Amid all the noise of Paris is heard one American Noyes.

—Senator McDonald, of Indiana, began his working life as a saddler.

—When President Hayes gets irritated beyond all endurance, he says "swan." Boston Globe.

—M. Lasalle, the French baritone, has restored his voice to its wonted purity by drinking milk.

—The book that has had the most extensive sale in this country is Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

—The Rev. Russell Jennings, of Deep River, Conn., has within twelve years given away more than $200,000 for charitable purposes.

—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer describes Lord John Russell as a "little heap of wrinkled humanity."

—Victor Hugo refused to receive a visit from Gen. Grant, because the latter affiliates with the Monarchists in Paris.

—Bertha Von Hillern, the walkist, takes 223,200 steps in walking a hundred miles. She would make a good stepmother.

—It would be the proper thing for Senator Jones to publish a pamphlet entitled "That Mine of Mine." Post, Worcester.

—Dr. Holland is a tall man, with black hair and mustache, and dark complexion. There is a spring in his step, and he doesn't look over forty years of age.

—McCreery, the Kentucky Senator, although wealthy, is very economical, holding that every man in high office should set a wholesome example in this respect.

—It is estimated that Gen. O. E. Babcock, who was the Private Secretary of Gen. Grant, owns property in Washington worth half a million dollars.—N. Y. Post.

—Gaby, the English pedestrian who has lately completed the task of walking 4,000 quarter-miles in 4,000 consecutive periods

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

A RESOLUTION was agreed to, in the Senate, on the 12th, authorizing a select committee to take into consideration the state of the law respecting the ascertaining and declaration of the results of elections of President and Vice-President of the United States, and also to consider and report on the best manner of electing those officers, and as to the duration of their terms of office. Senate bills were passed to regulate expenditures in the Navy; authorizing a general warrant of the admiralty for Naval appropriations. The Senate amendments to the Deficiency Appropriation bill were insisted upon, and a Committee of Conference was appointed. Mr. Chaffee offered a substitute for the Matthews Patent resolution, directing that all books of the United States issued or authorized under the acts of Congress, heretofore passed, and now payable, principal and interest, at the option of the Government, in coin of gold or silver, of the standard value when such bonds were issued, and that to restore to its coinage such silver coin, as a legal tender coequal with gold, is not in violation of public faith, nor in derogation of the rights of public creditors. Mr. Morgan then read a lengthy legal argument in favor of Mr. Matthews' resolution. Mr. Christiancy following him in opposition thereto in the House. Mr. Morrison called in question the right of the Speaker to fill vacancies on committees caused by the resignation of members who had not been excused by the House. The Speaker stated that it had been the uniform practice to excuse gentlemen who did not wish to serve. A ballot was then ordered and referred repealing the iron-clad oath which has to be taken by all persons for pensions. Mr. Ota (Ohio) of the Election Committee, submitted a third report on the Colorado election case, declaring that there had been no valid election, and recommending the seating in favor of the minority and minority reports previously submitted. A Conference Committee was appointed on the Deficiency bill.

A PETITION was presented and referred in the Senate, on the 13th, from Mr. Conkling, of South Carolina, asking that his claim to a seat from that State be considered him and decided upon its merits. A bill was introduced and referred to authorizing and equip an expedition to the Arctic seas. The Annual Fortification bill was reported from committee, with amendments. A resolution was agreed to calling on the Secretary of War for information in regard to the organization, arming, and equipping of the militia of the several States. Mr. Matthews's Silver bill was further debated, Messrs. Bayard, Hill and Dawes opposing, and Messrs. Allison and Beck favoring the measure. In the House, the Colorado contested election case was discussed at considerable length, after which the minority report, declaring that Belford was entitled to the seat, was rejected—yeas 110, nays 128—by a strict party vote. The next vote was on the resolution declaring that Hines had been duly elected on, which was also rejected—yeas, 116; nays, 117—the following Democrats voting with the Republicans, in the affirmative: Cutler, Stenger, Williams (Ill.), Potter and Wilkins (N. Y.). A vote was then taken upon the majority resolution declaring Hines entitled to the seat, and it was agreed to—186 to 119. Mr. Patterson was then sworn in as the Representative from Colorado.

IN the Senate, on the 14th, the House joint resolution relative to new routes to promote the navigation of the Mississippi River was passed. The Committee on Commerce to whom the Deficiency bill was agreed to, and the bill was passed. The Vice-President announced as the committee to inquire into the practicability of promoting commercial intercourse with Mexico, and maintaining peace on the Rio Grande frontier, Messrs. Conkling, Hamlin, Howe, Jones (Nev.), Cameron (Pa.), Eaton and Maxey. The Fortification bill was considered and passed. The House bill relative to the burial of officers and others who perished by the wreck of the steamer Huron was passed. Mr. Matthews's Silver bill was then debated. In the House, a number of bills were introduced and referred. The Senate amendments to the Post-Routes bill were concurred in. Adjourned to Jan. 18.

DOMESTIC.

A LARGE number of salmon-keepers have been arrested in New York city for violating the local license laws, and hundreds of the saloons have been closed.

THERE were received in Chicago, on the 11th, over 55,000 live hogs—the largest day's receipts since Chicago became a live stock market.

THE Newark (N. J.) Savings Institution, the largest in the State, was taken in charge by its Trustees, on the 12th. The assets are nominally $12,000,000 and the deposits $11,000,000.

THE Taunton (Mass.) Savings Bank failed, on the 11th. It was believed that depositors would be paid in full.

THE National Council of the Union League of America met at Philadelphia, on the 12th, and re-elected all its old officers.

AT the meeting of the Base-Ball League, composed of the professional baseball clubs of the country, recently held at Cleveland, it was voted that all League Clubs be prohibited from playing on the Sabbath under penalty of expulsion.

THE German-American Savings Bank, of Chicago, murdered, on the 11th, Cashier Stevens, $175,000. It was believed that depositors would be paid in full.

THE Chinese question was the leading subject of attention at the Cabinet meeting, in Washington, on the 14th, and the views of some of the members seemed to be that some modification of the treaty relations between China and the United States might be made in order to limit the importation of Chinese. It was thought not unlikely that the President would, at some future time, make this question the subject of a special message to one or both houses of Congress.

IT was reported from Galveston, Texas, on the 15th, that a force of Mexican mounted men had crossed the Rio Grande into El Paso County, and fighting was reported to be in progress between Texas State troops and the marauders. The latter outnumbered the former, and the Governor of Texas had telegraphed President Hayes for Government troops. A Washington telegram of the 15th says Government advices from the seat of the disturbance did not warrant the impression that other than local troubles had presented themselves. Directions had been given for the stationing of the forces in Texas in such positions as to give necessary aid to prevent assaults upon American citizens or their property.

A FEW days since, an armed and masked mob took possession of the Town of Osceola, Mo., went to the Court-House and selected and carried away all documents relating to tax matters. The trouble arose from the levy of a special tax to pay judgments for past-due interest on railroad bonds.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

AT the recent election in Boston, Pierce (Rep.) was elected Mayor by 2,151 majority.

THE municipal election in Charleston, S. C., on the 11th, resulted in the success of the Democratic ticket by a heavy majority. W. A. Seal was the Democratic candidate for Mayor, and D. F. Fleming the Independent candidate.

THE President, on the 12th, nominated J. C. Bancroft Davis, of New York, to be Judge of the United States Court of Claims, vice G. E. Loring, resigned, the change to take place Jan. 1.

IN Executive session, on the 12th, the United States Senate rejected two of the President's nominations for the New York Customs offices by a vote of 31 to 25. The Republican Senators who stood by the President were Messrs. Burnside, Christiancy, Conover, Dawes, Hoar and Matthews.

BOTH houses of the California Legislature have adopted resolutions asking Congress to levy a per capita tax of $250 on Chinese immigrants.

THE State Grange of Michigan assembled at Lansing, on the 11th. About 300 delegates were present, comprising some of the most prominent agriculturists of the State. According to the Master's address and the Secretary's report, the Granges throughout the State are in a healthy, growing condition, and harmonious in their work.

REV. MR. HARRIS, Rector of St. James Church, in Church, has been elected Bishop of the New Episcopal Diocese of Quincy, Ill.

MR. PATTERSON, the Democratic claimant, was, on the 12th, admitted to a seat in the National House of Representatives as Congressman from Colorado. The vote stood—116 to 110.

SEVERAL nominations by the President were confirmed by the United States Senate, in Executive session, on the 13th.

THE citizens of Chicago, in favor of the remonetization of silver, assembled in mass meeting at the Tabernacle, on the evening of the 13th. The meeting was largely composed of the leading business men of the city, and was presided over by the Hon. Chas. B. Lawrence, ex-Chief-Justice of Illinois. After speeches by prominent citizens, a series of resolutions was adopted, denouncing the alleged secret and unfair manner in which the Demonetizing act was passed in Congress, and demanding that the present congress restore silver coin to its former place, as a legal tender, on an equality with gold.

SHERMAN BROADWELL, President of the Chatsworth Savings Bank, of New York City, was arrested, on the night of the 14th, on an indictment of fraud against him by the Grand Jury for fraud.

THE firm of J. D. Easter & Co., of Chicago, manufacturers of agricultural implements, has failed, with liabilities of over $1,000,000. Bullard, East & Co., of Canton, Ohio, reaper, mower, sav-knife and spring manufacturers, have also failed, in consequence, it is said, of their intimate business relations with the first-named firm.

THE President, on the 14th, nominated to the Senate the Hon. Richard C. McCormick, late Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to be United States Commissioner-General at the Paris Exposition of next year. The nomination was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

THE Legislature of Wyoming Territory adjourned on the 16th

FOREIGN.

HON. JOHN WELSH, the United States Minister to the Court of St. James, reached Liverpool on the 11th. He was received with distinguished honors.

THE fall of Plevna was officially announced at Constantinople, on the 11th, and great excitement was caused. Half a dozen Cabinet ministers came to the front and demanded each a different line of policy. There was believed to be imminent danger of local revolution, and it was reported that the British fleet had been telegraphed for to protect the Christians from the threatened uprising of the fanatical Mussulmans.

AN attempt was recently made to assassinate the Prince of Montenegro. The house he occupied as headquarters, near Antivari, owned by a Mahommedan Bey, was mined and blown up, and one of the body-guard killed and six injured. The Prince was out of the house at the time.

THE news of the fall of Plevna occasioned great rejoicing at St. Petersburg and other Russian cities. A solemn Te Deum was sung at Bucharest.

ACCORDING to Athens (Greece) telegrams of the 12th, the fall of Plevna had revived the warlike demonstrations of the Greeks, and the Cabinet were deliberating upon the proper course to be pursued for redressing the alleged grievances she had against Turkey.

ACCORDING to Vienna dispatches of the 12th, the Porte was greatly astounded at the fall of Plevna, as it was hoped to the last that Suleiman Pasha would be able to relieve Osman Pasha. There was some talk of unfurling the green flag of the Prophet, but it was believed at Vienna that cooler counsels would prevail, and that an attempt would speedily be made to negotiate a peace direct with the Czar, without the intervention or mediation of any European Power.

THE Russian losses in the battle preceding the capture of Plevna are officially stated to have been 192 killed and 1,262 wounded. The Turks lost 4,000 killed and wounded.

THE further reinforcement of the Russian Army in Bulgaria has been counteracted by the Czar believing that he has men enough to complete the conquest of Turkey.

BUCHAREST dispatches of the 13th say the Roumanian just achieved another brilliant success in the vicinity of Rhia. Over 12,000 Turks are reported captured. Details were wanting.

THE troubles in France over the re-election of a Cabinet have ended for the present. The President has abandoned the policy of resistance to the popular will, and consented to the formation of a Ministry under the Presidency of M. Dufaure. There was still some trouble about the budget, on the 13th, but it was thought not to be serious.

A LONDON dispatch of the 13th says the Russian authorities had announced the following as the conditions of peace with Turkey: The independence of Roumania and Servia; the autonomy of Bulgaria under a foreign Prince; the free passage of the Dardanelles; the surrender of the Turkish fleet as war indemnity, and the cession of a large portion of Armenia. It was believed that should Russia insist upon these conditions, England would send a fleet to Gaul, attempt and occupy Gallipoli. A man-of-war had already been sent to Besika Bay.

ANOTHER insurrection has broken out in the Island of Crete, and troops have been sent by the Governor to suppress it. The Turkish families have taken refuge in the fortress.

ACCORDING to a Bucharest telegram of the 14th, it had been found necessary to amputate Osman Pasha's foot.

A BERLIN dispatch of the 14th says the estimates for 1878 show a deficiency of over $3,000,000.

ON the 14th, the Servian Government, amid salvos of artillery, issued a proclamation of war, and announced that the Servian Army had been called out to join the Russians in Bulgaria. A state of siege was declared, and Prince Milan took up his quarters at Alexinatz. The Servian Agent at Constantinople delivered the formal declaration to the Porte and left for home.

IN anticipation of an immediate attack, the British Consulate has been removed to Gallipoli.

ACCORDING to a London dispatch of the 14th, the Porte had issued a circular, addressed to the various European Powers, asking their mediation to moderate the demands of Russia and stop the effusion of blood. At the same time the circular declared that Turkey is not yet at the end of her resources, and is ready to sacrifice all to maintain her independence and territorial integrity.

ACCORDING to Vienna dispatches of the 15th, the Porte was greatly astounded at the fall of Plevna, as it was hoped to the last that Suleiman Pasha would be able to relieve Osman Pasha. There was some talk of unfurling the green flag of the Prophet, but it was believed at Vienna that cooler counsels would prevail, and that an attempt would speedily be made to negotiate a peace direct with the Czar, without the intervention or mediation of any European Power.

THE Russian losses in the battle preceding the capture of Plevna are officially stated to have been 192 killed and 1,262 wounded. The Turks lost 4,000 killed and wounded.

THE further reinforcement of the Russian Army in Bulgaria has been counteracted by the Czar believing that he has men enough to complete the conquest of Turkey.

BUCHAREST dispatches of the 13th say the Roumanian just achieved another brilliant success in the vicinity of Rhia. Over 12,000 Turks are reported captured. Details were wanting.

THE troubles in France over the re-election of a Cabinet have ended for the present. The President has abandoned the policy of resistance to the popular will, and consented to the formation of a Ministry under the Presidency of M. Dufaure. There was still some trouble about the budget, on the 13th, but it was thought not to be serious.

A LONDON dispatch of the 13th says the Russian authorities had announced the following as the conditions of peace with Turkey: The independence of Roumania and Servia; the autonomy of Bulgaria under a foreign Prince; the free passage of the Dardanelles; the surrender of the Turkish fleet as war indemnity, and the cession of a large portion of Armenia. It was believed that should Russia insist upon these conditions, England would send a fleet to Gaul, attempt and occupy Gallipoli. A man-of-war had already been sent to Besika Bay.

ANOTHER insurrection has broken out in the Island of Crete, and troops have been sent by the Governor to suppress it. The Turkish families have taken refuge in the fortress.

ACCORDING to a Bucharest telegram of the 14th, it had been found necessary to amputate Osman Pasha's foot.

A BERLIN dispatch of the 14th says the estimates for 1878 show a deficiency of over $3,000,000.

ON the 14th, the Servian Government, amid salvos of artillery, issued a proclamation of war, and announced that the Servian Army had been called out to join the Russians in Bulgaria. A state of siege was declared, and Prince Milan took up his quarters at Alexinatz. The Servian Agent at Constantinople delivered the formal declaration to the Porte and left for home.

IN anticipation of an immediate attack, the British Consulate has been removed to Gallipoli.

ACCORDING to a London dispatch of the 14th, the Porte had issued a circular, addressed to the various European Powers, asking their mediation to moderate the demands of Russia and stop the effusion of blood. At the same time the circular declared that Turkey is not yet at the end of her resources, and is ready to sacrifice all to maintain her independence and territorial integrity.

ACCORDING to a Constantinople telegram of the 15th, the Porte had been officially informed that Russia desired to treat with Turkey direct, and that mediation would only make the terms of settlement harder.

A PERA correspondent of the London Times telegraphed, on the 16th, that the Turkish powers of resistance were altogether exhausted and that the Porte would gladly make peace on any reasonable terms.

THE Servians, on the 16th, occupied, with artillery, the Heights of Tzvetchitza and Izanika.

A RUMOR prevailed in Constantinople, on the 16th, that Osman Pasha had joined Suleiman Pasha with his troops by the Mohammedan dread of annotation.

THERE was great discontent at Stamboul and other points in Turkey, on the 16th. Turkish Pashas were sanctioned of violent outbreaks on the part of the populace.

THE Italian Ministry resigned on the 16th.

THE steamer Mexican, which sailed from Port Royal, S. C., on the 15th of September, for Liverpool, had not been heard from at the latter port up to the 16th, and it was feared that she had foundered with all on board.

SOME medical students in one of the colleges of Constantinople, dissecting a female subject a few days ago, found what was called in Turkish parlance a "cursed liver." When right-loving has been practiced through several years, a permanent dent or hollow is produced in the liver, which may be seen very plainly after the woman is dead, and her liver dissected out. This kind of liver occurs so frequently in women that physicians have given it the name of "corset liver." In the subject mentioned the hollow in the liver was large enough for the wrist of a grown man to be laid in it.

OLD MR. MERITES had been married forty-three years when his wife died, last week. He didn't appear to miss her very much until bed time, when he sat down and struck out his foot for somebody to come and pull off his boot. And then, when his son-in-law coldly handed him the bootjack, the full weight of the irreparable loss he had sustained broke upon the old man and he gave way to a flood of tears. As for the bootjack, it had been so long since he had seen one, he didn't know how to use it.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

AN English poacher was seen to take aim at a bird, his gun was seen to go off, and the bird was picked up dead, but the poacher was cleared because it was not proved that his gun was loaded.—Detroit Free Press.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

THE Association of Agricultural Societies of Michigan will hold its annual meeting at Marshall, Calhoun County, Dec. 20.

THE winter meeting of the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society will be held at the Russell House, in Detroit, on the 7th of January next.

TOMMY STETER, of Saginaw, died recently from the effects of a strain received while practicing on a horizontal bar.

SOME enterprising East Saginaw thrift lately sought to replenish an exhausted exchequer by appropriating the headstone of a child's grave.

WAGES for men in the pine woods of Western Michigan this winter range from $16 to $22 per month.

GEO. DENNINGTON was killed at a roll-way at Steele's lumber camp, on the Tittabawassee River, twenty miles from Sanford, the other evening, while skidding logs.

A FIRE at Otsego, recently, destroyed property worth $14,000.

PETER MICHELELLAT, residing in the Township of Bridgeport, in Saginaw County, was killed, on the 14th, by a falling tree.

MR. C. W. POTTER, the executor of the late Lloyd R. Ward's estate, in Michigan, reports the balance of the estate now in his hands, as per inventory, at $4,413,144.

THE Detroit City Council have voted to regard the charter of the Detroit Mutual Gas Company, on account of various infractions of that instrument.

HENRY WILLIS, of Battle Creek, has received a letter from Gov. Croswell in reply to a communication relative to the Michigan Ship Canal, in which the Governor strongly favors the project, and thinks that the State cannot undertake the enterprise, and that whatever may be done will have to be done by the National Government.

A FIRE broke out in the drying kiln of the Phenix Furniture Company at Grand Rapids, on the morning of the 11th, and destroyed $1,500 worth of black walnut lumber before it was extinguished.

W. G. KIDDY'S house, in the Township of Rose, was entirely destroyed by fire, a few nights ago. The family barely escaped with their lives.

P. HERRICK'S shingle mill at Midland was burned, on the night of the 10th. Loss, $3,000.

Over 6,000 children draw school money in Gratiot County.

THE new Bay County Poor House will be completed and opened with a dinner and dance for the Supervisors on or about January 1st.

THERE are 7,841 children in Shiawassee County who are entitled to draw public money, while there are 117 school buildings, of which five are brick, 107 frame and five log structures. The average value of the school buildings, sites and furniture in the county is $157,905.50.

ELLEN, wife of James McCormick, committed suicide, at Detroit, on the 12th, by taking morphine. Cause, ill-health.

P. M. GOODRICH & Co., running stores in Grand Rapids and Petoskey, made an assignment, on the 13th. Liabilities and assets not stated.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury Dec. 1 was $450,854.14; receipts during the week ending Dec. 8 were $51,182.94; payments during the same time, $61,182.94; balance in Treasury, Dec 8, 1877, $407,303.01; increase for the week, $25,644.00.

THE postmaster at Oak Grove and Hecla copper mine, Michigan, for November, was 1,221 letters, and 320 periods; of the Quincy mine, 332 letters and 75 pounds.

THE Counties of Houghton, Keweenaw and Barry manufacture about 1,000 barrels of lager beer every month, using some 2,500 bushels of barley in the operation.

THE statistics gathered so far show that there were 2,830 Michigan soldiers killed in battle during the late War, 1,302 more died of wounds and 16,190 died of disease, a total of 14,860 deaths. The greatest loss in battle was suffered by the Fifth Infantry.

N. B. SUTTON, an East Saginaw furniture dealer, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide, on the 14th, by cutting the veins of his arms. He died nearly died to death when he was discovered.

JOHN FAUDERA, an old resident of Midland, attempted to commit suicide, on the morning of the 13th, by cutting his throat with a razor. A doctor was called in time to prevent the fatal termination of the deed was inability to work and his abandonment by his children.

E. G. CURTIS, mail messenger on the Detroit & Milwaukee Railroad, has been arrested by a special Postoffice Agent for robbing the mails in his charge of money letters. He belongs in Grand Rapids.

THE attendance at the University this year in all departments is 1,193, thus distributed: Department of Literature, Science and Arts, 490; School of Pharmacy, 67; Department of Law, 356; Department of Medicine and Surgery, 280; College of Homœopathy, 48; College of Dental Surgery, 52. Among the alumni anniversaries are announced: The Class of '57 at commencement, 1880; the Class of '58, in 1879; the Class of '59, in 1878. The Class of '74 will hold its second reunion in 1880; the Classof '75, its second reunion in 1879; the Class of '72, its second reunion in 1878.

THE attorneys of Dr. Rose have commenced to put in their testimony before the Circuit Court. Nothing particularly important has been brought out so far to-day.

AT a club dance at North Lansing, on the night of the 15th, Chas. Wiley was badly shot by Constable Robert V. McKeen. It seems that Wiley had become intoxicated and began to make some disrespectful remarks about his wife, whereupon he reported the fact to a brother, who at once commenced to club the offender, which caused the Constable to interfere and arrest George Wiley. Charles Wiley attempted to make his escape, but was shot by the officer.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per central, $1.25@1.60; Butter, ₱ lb, 14@35c; Cheese, ₱ lb, 13@ 13½c; Corn, ₱ bu, 46@48c; Flour, White Winter, $5.50@6.50; Amber, $5.75@6.00; Rye, $3.60@3.85; Cattle, ₱ cental, $3.50@5.00; Hogs, $4.15@4.75; Sheep, $3.50@4.50; Oats, Mixed, ₱ bu, 30@30½c; White, 30@30½c; Pork, Mess, ₱ bbl, $12.75@13.00; Rye, State, 56@60c; Wheat, White, $1.22@1.30; Amber, $1.18@1.25.

Hydrophobia in England.

Unless our oldest medical men and our most skilled veterinary surgeons are altogether at fault, a malady is raging in the midst of us more terrible than Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, or even the much-dreaded plague of the Middle Ages. Within the last few months deaths from hydrophobia have been alarmingly frequent. It would seem, indeed, as if the disease had assumed an epidemic form. That this should be so is no matter of surprise. It is notorious that at certain periods hydrophobia has ravaged entire districts with an almost unaccountable virulence. In the year 1866 the Registrar-General for England reported no fewer than thirty-six deaths from this fatal malady. In 1871 two packs of hounds—the Quorn and Alburghton—were decimated by the pestilence. There is a mass of evidence to show that, like cholera, or plague, or any other grave disease, hydrophobia recurs at stated intervals, and at this moment, as far as can be made out, we are passing through a period of its recurrance. For some months past hardly a week has gone by without a death from hydrophobia. The Registrar-General, in his reports, has called attention to the prevalence of the scourge. Inquests have been held in various parts of the country, at which evidence of a most painful and distressing character has been given. Indeed, if the general public is not seriously alarmed, we can only say that it has failed to appreciate the gravity and importance of the situation.—London Daily News.

The Composition of the United States Senate.

Now that Mr. Eustis, of Louisiana, has been admitted, the United States Senate is full, for the first time since 1872. There are, Republicans (in Roman), 36; Democrats (in small caps), 36; Independents (in Italics), 1, as follows:

ALABAMA.		MISSISSIPPI.
Term expires.		Term expires.
1879. George E. Spencer	1881.	Blanch K. Bruce.
1883. JOHN T. MORGAN	1883.	L. Q. C. LAMAR.
ARKANSAS.		MISSOURI.
1879. SIMON B. BUCKNER	1881.	DAVID R. FRANCIS.
1883. AUG. H. GARLAND.	1881.	FRAS. M. COCKRELL.
CALIFORNIA.		NEBRASKA.
1879. Aaron A. Sargent	1881.	A. S. Paddock.
1883. JOHN P. JONES.		NEVADA.
COLORADO.		1879. John P. Jones.
1879. Henry M. Teller.	1885.	William Sharon.
CONNECTICUT.		NEW HAMPSHIRE.
1879. Wm. H. Barnum	1879.	Lyndon Wolcott.
1885. Thos. C. Platt.	1885.	Jacob H. Hollins.
DELAWARE.		NEW JERSEY.
1881. Thos. F. Bayard.	1883.	Joseph Bancroft.
1881. Eli Saulsbury.	1883.	J. R. McPherson.
GEORGIA.		NEW YORK.
1879. Thomas M. Norwood	1881.	Roscoe Conkling.
1881. Charles J. Jenkins.	1881.	Thos. C. Platt.
IDAHO.		NORTH CAROLINA.
1879. Wm. J. McConnell.	1879.	Matt. W. Ransom.
ILLINOIS.		OHIO.
1879. Richard J. Oglesby.	1881.	Stanley Matthews.
1883. John A. Logan.	1881.	Allen G. Thurman.
INDIANA.		OREGON.
1879. Daniel D. Pratt.	1879.	J. H. Mitchell.
1881. Jas. L. Williams.	1883.	H. Hoores.
IOWA.		PENNSYLVANIA.
1879. Samuel J. Kirkwood	1881.	J. Donald Cameron.
1883. Wm. B. Allison.	1881.	WM. A. WALLACE.
KANSAS.		RHODE ISLAND.
1879. John J. Ingalls.	1883.	A. P. Hopkins.
1883. Preston B. Plumb.	1883.	H. B. Anthony.
KENTUCKY.		SOUTH CAROLINA.
1879. Thos. C. McCreery.	1879.	Wade Hampton.
1883. JOHN S. WILLIAMS.	1879.	John J. Patterson.
LOUISIANA.		TENNESSEE.
1879. Jas. Ruggles.	1881.	Isham G. Harris.
1879. Jas. Eustis.	1881.	HOWELL E. JACKSON.
MAINE.		TEXAS.
1881. Wm. P. Frye.	1881.	Samuel B. Maxey.
1883. Eugene Hale.	1883.	Richard Coke.
MARYLAND.		VERMONT.
1881. A. S. J. Gorman.	1879.	Justin S. Morrill.
1881. Wm. Pinkney Whyte.	1881.	Geo. F. Edmunds.
MASSACHUSETTS.		VIRGINIA.
1883. Geo. F. Hoar.	1881.	John W. Johnston.
1883. Henry L. Dawes.	1881.	Wm. Mahone.
MICHIGAN.		WEST VIRGINIA.
1879. Thos. W. Ferry.	1883.	Henry G. Davis.
1883. Isaac P. Christiancy.	1883.	Johnson N. Camden.
MINNESOTA.		WISCONSIN.
1881. S. J. R. McMillan.	1879.	Timothy O. Howe.
1883. William Windom.	1885.	Angus Cameron.

Hidpath's School History.

Recently, in these columns, reference was made to Hildreth's History of the United States, for schools. There who have examined it, editorially, pronounce it an unexceptionable book for the young, and accord it a grade of superiority which no author of a similar work has attained. It is most cordially recommended to the attention of everybody interested in the choice of schools. James Bayliss & Co., Cincinnati, are the publishers.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$3.50	@ 4.75
Sheep	4.00	@ 6.20
Hogs	4.75	@ 5.00
FLOUR—Good to Choice	5.80	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.93	@ .93½
CORN—Western Mixed	.54	@ .54½
OATS—Western Mixed	.34	@ .35
RYE—Western	.73	@ .74
PORK—Mess	12.70	@ 12.80
LARD—Steam	.07½	@ .7¾
CHICAGO.
WOOL—Domestic Fleece	.38	@ .37
CINCINNATI.
BEEVES—Extra	$5.35	@ $5.50
Fair	4.60	@ 5.00
Good	4.00	@ 4.50
Medium	3.50	@ 3.85
HOGS—Live and Choice	4.85	@ 4.90
FLOUR—Superfine to Choice	4.25	@ 4.35
WHEAT—Fancy Cincinnati	.96	@ .97
Good to Choice	.92	@ .95
HOGS—Prime	4.75	@ 4.80
Light Shipping	4.30	@ 4.50
CORN—Mixed	.45	@ .45½
OATS—White	.36	@ .36½
GRAIN—No. 2 Spring	.90	@ .90½
Corn, No. 2	.44	@ .44½
Corn, No. 3	.43	@ .43½
Rye, No. 2	.56	@ .56½
Barley, No. 2	.76	@ .76½
BROOM CORN—Common Hurl	.05	@ .07
Medium	.06	@ .06½
Hurds and Crooked	.02½	@ .03
Crooked	.02	@ .02½
PORK—Mess	12.75	@ 12.90
LARD	7.00	@ 7.00
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	$9.00	@ $14.00
Siding	2.00	@ 2.75
Flooring	2.00	@ 2.25
BALTIMORE.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.25
Medium	3.00	@ 4.00
HOGS—Good	5.62½	@ 6.25
SHEEP—Good	4.00	@ 5.25
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $5.50
Medium	4.25	@ 4.75
HOGS—Packers	4.40	@ 4.45
Philadelphia	4.30	@ 4.35
SHEEP—Best	4.00	@ 5.00
Common	2.50	@ 4.00

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE CLOSING YEAR.

'Tis midnight's holy hour—and silence now
Is brooding, like a gentle spirit, o'er
The still and peaceful scene.
The lull'd reader tones are swelling 'Tis the knell
Of the departed Year.

No funeral train
Is sweeping past; yet on the stream and wood,
With mellowed light, the moonbeam rest,
Lake a pale, spotless shroud; the air is stirred,
As by a mourner's sigh; and on yon cloud,
That floats so still and placidly through heaven,
The spirits of the unseen seem to stand,
Young Spring, bright Summer, Autumn's solemn form,
And Winter with his aged locks—and breathe
In mournful cadences, that come abroad
Like the far wind-harp's wild and touching wail
A requiem for the dying Year. Thou goest
Gone from the earth forever.

'Tis a time
For memory and for tears. Within the deep,
Still chambers of the heart, a spectre digs
Whose bones are like the wizard's fire—a pile
Heaped from the boards of ages, paints its cold
And solemn finger to the beautiful
And lofty visions that were once so green
And filled up shadow of their loveliness!
On the dead coals it writes—that spectre lifts
The coffin-lid of hope and joy and love,
And bending mournfully above the pale
Sweet forms that slumber there, scatters dead
Or what has passed to nothingness.

The Year
Has gone, and, with it, many a glowing one
Of happy dreams. This clock is on each brow,
Is written in as with a sunbeam. In the midst
Of the cold sepulcher, where kindred and friend
Are laid to slumber, whose soul and spent and should
Flashed in the light of noonday—and the strength
Of sacred beats is shivered, and the grass,
Green from the soil of carnage, waves above
The cypress and the undistinguished race
And faded like a wreath of mist at eve;
Yet, ere it melted in the riven air,
It heralded its pilgrims to their home
In the dim land of dreams.

THE MOCKING-BIRD AND THE DONKEY.

From the Spanish of the Mexican Poet Jose Arcos.

A gentleman in a village
Had a donkey that showed the skill
To imitate the voices
Of animals at will.

And every day in his prison,
Once, at the close of day,
He gave with great precision,
His donkey's hearty bray.

Well pleased, the monkshird's master
Sent to the neighbors round,
And bade them come together
To hear that curious sound.

They came, and all were talking
In praise of what they heard,
And one delighted lady
Would fain have bought the bird.

A donkey listened softly,
And said: "Confess I must
That those are shallow people,
And terribly unjust.

"I'm longer than the monkbird,
And better long than he,
Yet not a soul has uttered
A word in praise of me."

—William Cullen Bryant, in St. Nicholas for December

THE RED LIGHT.

A Story of New Year's Eve.

It was New Year's Eve.

Not one of the ideal New Year's Eves of poets and romance writers, wherein he moon is always at the full, the snow always a sparkle, like pulverized diamonds, and the air always still and cold and clear; but a stormy twilight, with the snow driving steadily from the east, the wind raw and biting, and the sky—what you could see of it—as black as ink.

But it was New Year's Eve, all the same, and Bertha Hooper's cheeks were as red as the bitter-sweet berries in the woods, as she sat, all wrapped up, in a train that was steaming northward, on her way to spend New Year with her Aunt Almira Higginbotham.

Bertha was in the country! To Bertha, who had lived all her life in the brick walls and stone pavements of a city, the very words seemed to convey something of cheer and joy unusual. And Bertha, as she sat with her eyes closed, and her little gloved hands softly nestled in a gray-squirrel muff, beheld, in her mind's eye, great fires of logs roaring up wide-throated chimneys, and had half composed a pleasing New Year and its associations when the ruthless conductor came along for her ticket.

"How far are we from Montcourt Station?" she inquired, as she gave up the bit of pasteboard.

"Next but one, miss," said the man, as he hurried on, with his lantern under his arm. "Half an hour yet."

She had never been so far New York in all her life before. The driving rain in which she had left her home had changed, as they progressed northward, into the wide fall of snow, which thickened around them like a white waving shroud. But Bertha Hooper cared little for this. Had not Aunt Almira promised to send Zebedee, her youngest son, to the station with the pony to meet her on the arrival of the sixty-four train from New York? And was not Zebedee to have a holders with a red glass door to it, so that she could identify him at once?

She was very pretty as she sat there in her little black velvet toque, with its curling plume of cardinal red, and the wine-red ribbon bow at her throat —pretty with the bloom and freshness of eighteen. She was dark, with large hazel eyes, almond-shaped and long-shaped, a clear olive tint on either cheek, and wavy dark hair hanging in silken fringe over her broad, low forehead.

"Stout—court—sta—tion!" bawled the brakesman, putting in a snow-powdered fur cap, and wibbrawing it again as soon as he had been favored with a magnificent edition of the Jack-in-the-box, wherein children much rejoice at holiday time. And Bertha Hooper knew that she had reached her destination.

Still and cramped for the length of time in which she had been sitting in one position, she rose up, with a little steel-clasped traveling-bag in one hand, and a dainty silk umbrella in the other, and made her way to the door.

All she could see when she stepped out upon the wet and slippery platform, was a blur of driving snow, through which the lights of the station-house and the bridgeroom persists in declaring that Bertha did the first of the love making.

And Bertha only laughs.

The Smuggled-Cigar Game.

Veteran smokers are sold by shrewd swindlers, who are fruitful in devices. The commonest of these dodges is the sale of pretended smuggled cigars, and they ought it has been played time without number, and time out of mind in every seaport city of the globe, users of the weed are swindled by it every week in the year in this very city of sharp people. The modus operandi is simple enough, but it takes a good actor to carry it through.

The victim selected is always an inveterate smoker, who has been particularly marked by the swindler. The latter watches his opportunity, and with a couple of boxes concealed under the pea-jacket which he dons for the occasion, he enters the coming-room of the unsuspecting man of business who is in the enjoyment of his third or fourth afternoon cigar.

"Some cigars to-day, Captain?" he asks in a low voice, casting his eyes furtively around, as if he feared that he might be overheard.

"No," is the curt answer.

"But these ain't your common cigars. Cap'n, you can't get none like 'em at the Revere nor Parker House. See here," lowering his voice, "these cigars came from Havana, and there hain't been no duties paid on 'em, neither. One of my own speculations. I had ten boxes, and sold 'em all but these two. They're worth $50 a thousand. I'm beginning to feel a little reeky, and my ship sails to-day, too. Let you have them, if you'll take both boxes, at half price."

"But I want 'em," says the merchant shortly, who is annoyed every hour in the day with all sorts of applications for patronage.

"Just try that, will you?" said the vender, nothing daunted, bursting the paper of one of the boxes, and taking out a cigar at random; "I won't rest you anything."

The ice was nipped the merchant cannot resist. He takes the cigar, looks at it critically, smells of it, lights it. The first puff is enough. The man has to call in the trash. Such a cigar is hard to be had anywhere, and he is conscious that it is worth even more than $50 a thousand. He can't let such a chance slip, and yet he doesn't feel that he ought to encourage smuggling. So he says, dissembling his eagerness:

"That's a fair cigar, certainly; but your price is wild. I'll give you $40 for the two."

"You're rough on a sea-faring man, Cap'n. Can't you call it forty-five?"

"Forty."

"Forty it is, then; but if my ship wasn't goin' to sail to-night, you couldn't have them for twice that. Smugglin' don't pay for such small figures."

The $40 are paid over, and the ownership of the boxes transferred: the swindler places himself on the other side of the door as soon as possible, and seeks some other locality to repeat his clever operation. When the victim, full of anticipation, seeks his box for a second weed, he finds that he has purchased the vilest kind of a cabbage-leaf article, which would be dear at fifty

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher and Proprietor.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1878.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Dec. 25, 1877.

Had we been attended the Senate Gay Forrest committee to blow up the Republic Parliament, the destruction of which just before from the ocean of war and Friday in the country, the results might have been hardly more terrible than those of the explosion which startled New York on Tuesday morning. Nobody knows exactly as yet what day an immense boiler in the factory on Bleecker street, occupied by one of the largest confectionery manufacturing firms in the country, was driven from its base with such awful force and the loss of life that followed. Nearly two hundred operatives were hard at work upon holiday orders, and all was cheerful and orderly activity. Suddenly, without warning, there came an explosion that stunned passing pedestrians and broke windows and unroofed lights for hundreds of feet around. The whole front wall of the factory was driven out into the air, and in another minute a vast mass of iron, brick, machinery, men, women and children crashed downward in a shapeless and terrible confusion. Almost simultaneously with the fall of the building, the roof of sugar which it contained, and which was scattered in the fall caught fire and wrapped the ruins in intolerable clouds of flame. The scene for the next two hours was as imposing as it was terrible. The efforts of the firemen were rendered of little avail by the blinding heat which forced them to confine their attention, after the few minutes when with gallant recklessness they succeeded in saving a few lives, to prevent as far as possible the spread of the fire. The flames from the sugar saturated rubbish mounted high in air and illuminated the sky for miles around turning to sickly faintness the light of the moon which had just risen. Fears were at one time entertained that the conflagration would become general, but the timely fall of the wind which by a rare and lucky chance was for the most of against the fire brigade, confining the latter to just about $100,000 worth of property had been destroyed.

The cause of this shocking disaster was the explosion of a high pressure steam boiler which furnished power to the factory, and was located beneath the sidewalk and front wall of the building. The loss of life has not yet been accurately ascertained, owing to the difficulty of thoroughly searching the lofty rubbish but is variously estimated at from 50 to 100. Beside those killed outright, almost as many more were buried, maimed or maimed in all horrible forms. An immediate investigation will ensue.

In the course of the Vanderbilt will trial this week, the testimony of a prominent architect was introduced by the contestants to show that the Commodore desired to build, and expressed his intention to build, "the tallest monument in the world," to the name of Washington. He caused sketches to be prepared for such a structure to be erected in Central Park, as was particular to require the exact height of the Bunker Hill, the Pillar of Cheops and St. Peter's in Rome, to make sure that his proposed monument should overtop them all. He was told that it would have to be 600 feet high, and would cost him about $750,000 which price did not seem to trouble him in the least.

This evening was reduced to prove the Commodore insane, though just how the insanity consists, it is difficult for the ordinary mind to perceive. Friendly a jury that he changed his mind and failed to carry out this grand scheme.

Some of our prominent churches have been having a novel experience for the last two weeks. Mr. E. B. Kimmell as your readers have doubtless heard by this time is a gentleman who devotes his time, talents and energies to lifting the load of debt from churches by a process which may be most accurately described as "main force." He has worked eastward from San Francisco doing an extraordinary work at various places on the way, and came to this city but of a strange kind of momentum which has produced some marvellous effects and [illegible] Hora by in the case of Dr. Tyng's church at

All forms of [illegible] Questions.

[illegible] Have you a Cough [illegible] Nervous [illegible] Do you bear about [illegible] Have you a Cough [illegible] Coughs [illegible] Dyspepsia [illegible] Liver Complaint [illegible] Dyspepsia [illegible] Do you [illegible] Do you [illegible] Do you

The United States Senate Rejects Certain Nominations Made by the President.

A Washington Associated Press telegram of the 19th gives the following account of the final action of the United States Senate, in Executive session, upon the President's nominations for the Custom-House officers at New York:

The Senate was in Executive session to-day nearly six hours, adjourning only at eight o'clock this evening. The entire session was devoted to the New York Custom-House nominations, two of which, namely, those of Theodore Roosevelt, to be Collector, in place of Arthur, to be removed, and S. Bradford Prince as Naval Officer, one Conrad, to be removed, were reported from the Committee on Commerce unfavorably. The third, namely, that of E. A. Merritt, to be Surveyor of Customs in place of Sharp, whose commission has expired, was rejected with a favorable recommendation. No opposition was manifested to the latter, but the contest was kept up to the last on the proposed removals was extremely animated, and took a wide range, causing a decided show of the rights, powers and duties of the President in regard to removals from office, and the subject of the Civil-Service policy of the general.

Mr. Conkling, Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, opened the debate with a brief statement of the reasons why, in the opinion of the majority of that committee, the nominations should not be confirmed. These were to brief that no charges of either corruption or inefficiency had been made against the present incumbents, but on the contrary they were conceded to be faithful, honest, experienced and able officers.

Mr. Bayard followed in an extended argument maintaining the right of the Executive to make changes which, in his opinion, would be for the benefit of the public service, he being responsible for the execution of the laws, and entitled to select his agents, subject to the confirmation of the Senate, but without being subjected to furnish the Senate a statement of his reasons.

Mr. Logan then delivered a speech, of considerable length, on the same side of the question, defending the action of the President. His remarks were mostly read from manuscript.

Gen. Gordon was the next speaker. He warmly commended the Civil-Service policy of President Hayes, and, in regard to the pending nominations, asserted emphatically that the removals which they contemplated were demanded by a proper regard for the purity of the service. He charged that Cornell and Arthur had disgracefully made use of the power and patronage of their offices for merely partisan and selfish purposes, and he was intimated that it was time for the one man power in New York State to be broken.

The debate then became quite general. Messrs. Hoar and Matthews spoke in favor of sustaining the action of the President in the exercise of his Constitutional power, and of what they agreed was his discretion, also, in removing the Civil Service from the domain of partisan control. Mr. Teller and others spoke briefly in reply, arguing that in the present instance, at least, the President had departed from the principles of Civil-Service reform which he himself had announced, namely, that faithful and efficient servants should protect the officer from removal, etc.

Mr. Conkling closed the debate in a speech of considerable length and great vigor and earnestness. He replied in detail to the various arguments advanced by the supporters of the nominations, and repelled with the utmost emphasis the charges that had been made against the official character and conduct of the officers whom the President proposed to remove. He insisted that they had been faithful. He boasted in every particular personal and challenged proof that a single charge had ever been made against them, either by the responsible agents, or by the subordinates of the Treasury, or the President himself. He also defied assertion that there was to be a young man not yet out of the school-room, and he wells her immediately elect his voting. There is no country which has so few old maids as Russia. The great riddle attached to the title when not borne by a man, has possibly something to do with the unwillingness of ladies to sport it. When a girl has rounded the ages of twenty-five without finding a mate, she generally sets out on what she calls a pilgrimage, Ipsor—on a round of travels, if rich; and in either case she turns up some years later as a widow. Widows are as plentiful as old spinsters are scarce; and widows whose husbands were never seen are more numerous than the rest. Etiquette forbids any allusion to a lady's dead husband in her presence; and this is, perhaps, sometimes convenient.

When a couple are engaged, a betrothal feast is held, and the bridesleet has a lock of her hair cut off in the presence of witnesses and given to the bridegroom, who in turn presents a silver ring, set with a turquoise, an almond cake and a gift of bread and salt. From this moment the two are plighted; nor can the relatives break the match, except with the consent of the parties themselves, which is signified by a return of the ring and lock of hair. So much importance is attached to the ring, at least in the north of Russia, that among poor people who cannot afford silver and a turquoise, the end of a bit of blue ribbon substituted. These betrothal rings are rare as heirlooms, but must not be made to order. When a son is about give his bride the ring which his mother received, for instance; though why this should be so is a mystery which the oldest inhabitant can not explain. On the wedding-day the bride comes to church dressed in white; but among the higher classes, who copy Western fashions, that the bridal costume is entirely white, and that a wreath of orange-flower blossoms is used. Among Russians pure light blue is the nuptial color, and a coronet of silver ribbon stands in place of the wreath. The wedding-ring for the bride is of gold or some yellow metal, but not a plain hoop; it is generally a double ring with enchased stars. The bridegroom has a ring, too, which the bride puts on his finger at the altar after she has received his, and this is mostly a plain one. The clergy make much ado about the rings being of pure metal, and thereby keep the sale of them in their hands, though it would not always be safe to test the purity of the ecclesiastical gold with a touch stone. After the wedding service, which comprises in some of the less civilized districts the breaking of an earthenware vessel in token that the bride renounces her own possession (or is ready to stand all her father's crockery for her husband's sake—explanations differ)—after this there is no adjournment to banquet in which nullified cake (candied fruit and almond-cakes play a great part. Weddings need not be celebrated before noon, but more often they take place in church. In fashionable circles it is the custom to solemnize them in a drawing-room, lighted among by candelabra. There is no departure on a honeymoon tour. The banquet is followed by a ball, then by a supper; and at this last regard, as also in the matter of dress where old customs are observed, a new satin slipper, supposed to be the bride's, is produced and used as a drinking vessel by the bridegroom's friends, who pass it round and drink the bride's health in it till it is soaked through and will hold liquor no longer. In houses where speeches are made, it is not the bridegroom, but the bride's father, on whom thanks when her health is drank, this usage being owing to the fact that a father still retains authority over his child after she is married. He can summon her from her home to send him when he is sick. If he lose his wife he may claim his married daughter's services as a housekeeper during the first three months of his widowhood, and he very often does so. If the daughter's husband die, her father may order her to return to his roof, and he becomes de jure the guardian of her children. None of these privileges are retained by a married woman's mother.

Divorces are not allowed in Russia, but a marriage can be annulled for impotency, and so divorces are pretty frequent. It is only a question of money, like most Russian things.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Giants.

Capt. W. W. Bates, of Ohio, who lacks only half an inch of being eight feet high, was found, yesterday, in his rooms, sitting in front of the stove, chatting with his wife, the Nova Scotia giantess. The Captain is a grave gentleman, who takes life seriously. In his boyhood he enjoyed a good common-school education, which he has since supplemented with wide reading, especially on the subject of physical development. His pet theory is that mental development leads to growth of body and physical development to growth of mind, always provided that the development is normal.

The Captain is satisfied that the race is not degenerating, physically, and that bigger men are produced, now-a-days, than ever before. Goliath, he says, is described as six cubits and a span in stature, but who knows, certainly, how much a cubit or a span was? Beside, the Jews were a small people and would have regarded with wonder a man who, among a taller race, might have attracted no special notice. Seed the big Greek and Roman heroes; in the absence of definite information as to their inches, the Captain waves them aside. When he visited England, in 1871, the year of his marriage, he detected considerable glee in an investigation of the legends of English giants.

"First," he said, "I went to the Tower of London, where I found the suits of armor of the three giants, Og, Gog and Magog. They relieved each other, you know, in guarding the gate of the tower, and were the Captains of the guard that attended at State executions. The largest of the three suits is that of Og. It is composed of steel bands, linked together to give opportunity for motion. It is all in one piece and is buckled together at the back. I was accompanied by Dr. Buckland, Surgeon in Her Majesty's Life Guards. The armor of Og was taken down from its brackets and handed to me. I thrust my legs into their proper places in the suit, and put my head into the helmet. Then I inserted my arms into the sleeves and tried to straighten my body, but I could not do it. The armor was too short for me. But the helmet and the steel-pieces were a little too large. The giant must have been a monstrous fellow in breadth and weight, but not more than seven feet three or four inches in height.

"I next went to the British Museum, where hangs the skeleton of Murphy, the Irish giant. It is suspended by a wire inserted in the top of the skull. I had taken a measuring tape with me. I did not measure the skeleton from the top of the head to the bottom of the feet because of the vertebræ of the spine, separated in life by layers of cartilage, in the skeleton together so close to-gether. But I took the length of the various parts of the body, and especially of the legs, measuring them from the ankle joint to the hip joint. After I had gotten the exact number of feet and inches, but when I compared them with measurements of my corresponding parts of my own body, I found that I was the bigger man of the two. Murphy was only about seven feet seven inches high, though the sterile make him nine feet high. Either the system of measurement must have been changed, or else there was humbugging, as well as giants, in those days.

"I next visited Warwick Castle, and examined the armor worn by Guy, Earl of Warwick. Guy is said to have been nine feet three inches in height. On a measurement of the armor, however, I found that the height was only five feet nine inches shorter than I am. I was shown the Earl's porridge-pot with a capacity of forty gallons, his sword five feet long, his drinking-cup twelve inches deep and twelve inches in circumference, and his two-tined iron fork with a handle as large as a crowbar.'

Having disposed of these ancient giants, the Captain turned his attention to the modern ones.

"One morning," he said, "I sallied from my lodgings in a house belonging to the Duke of Northumberland, Strand, took a train and visited Chong, the Chinese giant, who was then exhibiting in Manchester. When I first entered the hall I noticed that Chong wore a high head-dress and would not take it off even in the presence of royalty, according to Chinese shoes. He was seated, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that he could be induced to stand up. He had been advertised as nearly nine feet high. But on measurement, back to back with me, the Chinaman proved to be about three and one-half inches the shorter of the two.

"Beim, the Frenchman that Barnum had, was only seven feet eight inches high. Beim once got into a fight with Col. Goshen, another of Barnum's giants, in the old Museum in Broadway. The cause was jealousy. They had exchanged a few blows, when Barnum, who happened to be in the Museum at the time, came rushing up stairs. 'Hold on! Hold on!' he shouted. 'If you want to fight, wait until we can announce it. It will be a first-class attraction.' Both giants fell to laughing, and at once made up. Col. Goshen is now in California. He is a very clever, intelligent fellow, but I could flick salt off the top of his head. I have met other so-called giants, but they are slender fellows, saplings that have shot up without proportional development. One of these is Col. Noah Orr, who now keeps a restaurant at Marysville, Ohio, where he is very popular. He is over seven feet high."

The Captain has noticed that the children born in this country, of emigrants from Europe, grow up into larger men and women than their parents. The cause he finds in the climate, and the more general spread of intelligence. The children learn how to take care of themselves.

"In Spain and other countries where I have traveled," said Mrs. Bates, "in which there is great ignorance among the people, the average stature is low."

The Captain is opposed to the use of strong drink, but is not a teetotaler. Mrs. Bates said that she had never known the taste of tea or coffee, or any liquid except water or milk, up to her twentieth year. She is now twenty-three years old and seven feet eleven and a half inches in height, being just as tall as her husband. The Captain is a broad-shouldered, finely-developed man, twenty-seven years of age. He was born in Athensburg, Ky., but was brought up near Cleveland, Ohio, where he rolled logs in winter. He is of English parentage; his wife is of Scotch. They are married in St. Margaret's-in-the-Fields, London.—N. Y. Sun.

WHEN you see a man stumbling along the streets, these days, coughing, sneezing and rubbing his weeping eyes, you may know that just before he left home his wife took out her furs and shook the tobacco, camphor, snuff and moths out of them.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

—President Grant writes that he found the labor of accepting the hospitalities of his English friends more arduous than the cares of State.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—The Des Moines (Ia.) Register contradicts the report that Ex-Sec'y Belknap is a commercial traveler, and says that he is following his profession of the law, building up a good practice, making money and minding his own business.

—A grass tire overtook a man in San Bernardino, Cal., and he had barely time to reach a creek. He rolled over and over in the shallow water, scorched by the flames that swept overhead, and his brackets and beard burned. The terrible heat lasted only a few seconds, but sufficiently long to burn off his hair and char his clothing.

—Miss Eagan, the Fall River mill operative who mysteriously lost her speech a few weeks ago after dreaming that she would lose it, has recovered the faculty in quite as mysterious a manner. She felt a sudden shock the other day, accompanied by a choking sensation, and was forced to utter an exclamation. Since then she has been able to speak with considerable distinctness, though not without some pain in her throat and lungs.

—The family of William McGlothlin, living on East Fork, in this county, went to a neighbor's, leaving no one but a child three or four years old at the house. The door of the premises, as is the case frequently, opens outward, and is fastened by a long latchstring. The child, in playing around the door, in some way got the string looped over its head, and, pushing the heavy door open, it was swung out over the high doorstep, and when the family returned the little one was hanging by the latch-string dead.—Ashland (Ky.) Review.

—Pretty story from New England: "A Canaan farmer recently saw two men attempting to drive a log just his house, but the brute was so obstinate that they finally told the farmer that if he would kill it for them they would give him half of the meat. He accepted the offer with joyful alacrity, and not only killed the hog but dressed it into the bargain, after which the strangers drove away with their load. But when the farmer went at night to feed his own hog he found the pen empty, and it did not take him long to discover that he had killed his own property, receiving half of it for his trouble."

—A Little Compton man has a pluck cat. While lying on the doorstep, the other day, a monster bumblebee swooped down into the yard and seized a fat chicken, which it attempted to carry off. The cat at once leaped upon the intruder and stayed him so lustily that he relinquished his hold and sailed away. In a short time, however, he returned with a formidable companion, and his two sharp stings soon put the cat to flight. The fourteen-year-old went into the shop, and shut the door, and the seven-year-old whom he saw approaching. The inside boy took the gun, while the outside little fellow played burglar and robber at the wide cracks of the door. He put his face to one of the chinks, and this was a good opportunity for the other to "blow wind" in his ear by snapping caps. The first cap missed fire, but the second discharged the gun and tattered the rope entirely in the game of robbers, instantly. There is so more to say. It children will play with fire-arms they must get shot now and then. And there seems to be no help for it. The many fatal accidents go for nothing with the rising generation.—St. Louis Republican.

Fatal Playing With Fire-Arms.

Youngsters will not cease playing with fire-arms. The strain—it ranneth every day," and the children will not come in out of the wet. It has been established by innumerable examples that there never was a gun or pistol so crippled, old or rusty, that it will not go off in the hands of a child, and it is also as well established that the innocent air of a child is deadly. Only two latest reported cases are very much like those that have preceded, and which were fatal. An Ashland (Ohio) boy of twelve years old was left alone for a few minutes with his one-year-old sister. He commenced playing with the baby with a carving knife. The gun went off, the ball entering his sister's chin and passing through her head, killing her instantly. The shrieked boy rallied for help. He said that a man came into the house and shot the child and then ran away. That was a big lie to frighten his father, and confessed that he was playing with the gun, pointing it at his sister, when she, grasping and pulling at the ramrod, the gun went off in his hands. And so she died. The other case occurred at Cooperstown, Md. There was an old gun in a house where a party of fourteen-year-old boy had been in the habit of using to snap caps, for the amusement of the other boys, holding the gun to the face and "blowing wind" in their faces. One day the gun was cleaned and loaded and left in its usual place in the shop while the blacksmith went to dinner. It was one of the boys' days to play with the gun. The fourteen-year-old went into the shop, and shut the door, and the seven-year-old whom he saw approaching. The inside boy took the gun, while the outside little fellow played burglar and robber at the wide cracks of the door. He put his face to one of the chinks, and this was a good opportunity for the other to "blow wind" in his ear by snapping caps. The first cap missed fire, but the second discharged the gun and tattered the rope entirely in the game of robbers, instantly. There is so more to say. If children will play with fire-arms they must get shot now and then. And there seems to be no help for it. The many fatal accidents go for nothing with the rising generation.—St. Louis Republican.

A Fatal Drop.

A passenger from Kingstree, on the line of the Northeastern Railroad, gives the details of a frightful accident which occurred at that place on Wednesday last. A traveling show company had stopped at the town for the purpose of relieving the natives of all their spare change, and in order more successfully to carry out this praiseworthy object had with them a balloon, by means of which one of the company ascended into the air and went through certain gymnastic performances.

This exhibition was free, of course, and drew an immense crowd. When the hour for the balloon ascension arrived, the town and surrounding country were alive with the natives, mostly negroes, who, never having seen a balloon before, looked upon the whole proceeding with a mixture of awe and curiosity. By dint of persuasion two negroes consented to hold the ropes of the balloon while it was being inflated with hot air. When everything was in readiness a man in a pair of red drawers and a nankeen coat came out and was cheered lustily. The balloon swayed violently to and fro, and the aeronaut took his seat upon a small bar which dangled from the air ship, and gave the order to cast loose. The negroes loosed their holds upon the ropes, and the balloon shot upward, like an arrow from a bow. To the consternation of the crowd, however, it was seen that one of the negroes had become entangled in the ropes, and was being hoisted aloft with frightful rapidity. With a wonderful presence of mind, the unfortunate negro grasped the rope with his hands, and, after disengaging his feet from the ropes, climbed up to the bar on which sat the man in red. Instead, however, of remaining upon this comparatively secure perch, he let go his hold and began sliding down the rope again, and upon reaching the end he let go entirely, and was dashed to the earth, having fallen through a space of sixty feet. The crowd were so completely awe-stricken that not one would dare approach the prostrate man. After some little time, however, several gentlemen who were near by went up to the negro and found him bleeding profusely from the mouth and apparently unconscious. At the last accounts the man was still alive, but it is hardly possible for him to recover. The aeronaut succeeded in making a safe landing.—Charleston (S. C.) Courier.

How Much Can a Man Read?

The longest single poem, I believe, extant, is the Italian poem, the "Adone," of Marini, who lived in the time of our James. It contains 45,000 lines. As for Spain, one single author of the seventeenth century, Lopez de Vega, wrote 1,800 plays; his works altogether fill sixty-seven quarto volumes. Alonso Tostado, a Spanish Bishop of the fifteenth century, wrote nearly forty folios, having covered with print nearly three times as many leaves as he had lived days. To come to England: Our William Prynne wrote 200 different works. Chalmers' collected edition of the English poets only comes down to Cowper, who died in 1800, and it fills twenty-one volumes royal 8vo., double columns, small type. The volumes average 700 pages. This gives us a total of 14,700 pages, or 29,400 columns. Now, it takes a grave male the experiment—four minutes to read a column with fair attention. Here is a good year's work in reading over, only once, a selection from the English poets. The amount of reading which a student can get through in a given time hardly admits of being measured by the eli. The rate of reading varies with the subject, the rapid glance with which we skim the columns of a newspaper being at one end of the scale, and the slow sup which is required for a page of, say, Kant's Critique of Pure Reason being at the other. Still, just to get something to go upon, there is a calculation in this way: Suppose a man to be able to read eight hours a day. Now, we can easily sustain ourselves on the latter, in the barnyard, or some convenient inclosure, or against the high fence which now, perhaps, runs on side of the barnyard, build a skeleton shed, by planting crooched sticks (timbers) obtained from the woods. In like manner the other timber sticks strong enough to bear considerable weight. On these lay old rails about a foot apart. You now have your skeleton shed and require the roof, which is made with corn fodder, which is neatly piled on the rails, from six to ten or fifteen feet thick. This makes a most excellent protection, at the same time having the fodder in a convenient place for feeding during the winter. If the fodder has been placed properly, and to shed the rain, but little of it will be damaged.

By making the shed deep and not too high—merely high enough for a man to walk under comfortably at its lowest place—and also built against the south or warm side of the building or fence, the animals will have a comfortable piece to winter under. They can go under at pleasure by having it open in front, and during mild days can be fed in the barnyard, while in stormy weather the fodder and other feed can be fed under the shed. We have seen temporary pig pens thus made, and they answered admirably, being warm and comfortable. We have seen colts wintered under just such sheds, and they came out, in the spring, as strong and hearty as could be wished for.—Our Prentiss Farmer.

Careless Farmers.

It is almost impossible for a careless farmer to be prosperous. How often do we hear of some unexpected failure in the commercial world? We look for the cause of this disaster, and find that the merchant was engaged in unprofitable trade, or perhaps some faithless clerk has robbed his master. The failure is due in any case of a dozen causes which proper oversight might have corrected. When the merchant has realized the exhilarating dreams of his earlier mercantile career, he neglects the habits of business which insured his success, and failure is the result. And it is the same in any business or occupation. But with an unsuccessful farmer, lack of success is still more directly traceable to carelessness of the man himself. Carelessness in farming is manifested in many different ways, each seemingly unimportant.

The careless farmer is careless of his own personal appearance, indifferent to the wants of his family, and negligent of his stock. Personally, he is deficient in spirit and enterprise. As to his family, it satisfies him if his wife does all his hard drudgery and asks few favors of him. His children must take care for education, for society, to leave the farm, or for anything except to work upon his plantation. His crops are planted, cultivated and harvested in a slipshod sort of manner, that leaves only a small margin for profit. His stock is inferior, or he loses a few head from disease every spring. His tools (if he has improved tools) soon decay from exposure to the elements and negligent use. He has less stock, lighter crops and more debts than his more careful neighbor. Such a farmer is poor, does not continue contracting debts and liabilities until he can go no farther and there is an extensive failure involving hundreds of other supposed men, but he buys something that he does not need (perhaps a top-buggy, or a machine) or he hires some one to do work for him himself. He thinks he has not the money to pay down and gives his note, which is as good as cash. However, when the note is due, his creditor must wait a few days, and this is repeated so frequently and always by asking more days of grass, as that last note he makes includes multitudes—it could be most mortgage his stock, and a chattel mortgage is followed by a mortgage on his farm. There are very many other reasons why a farmer should fail. He may have been unfortunate, perhaps he has lost some stock by disease, the failure of his crops may have been light and growing lighter. He may have occasionally sold his stock or crops in an unfavorable market. These are all apparent reasons for his failure, but back of all this is the man himself.—Country Gentleman.

WILL AUSTIN of the Chronicle attempted to teach Patrick Murphy of the game how to play poker. Murphy learned rapidly, and the stakes, from a small beginning of beans, developed into bullion. When the pot had risen between dollars Murphy got impatient. "S'pason a man has two kings?" "Good hand." "S'pason he has two more, is that double?" Austin exaled considerable perspiration. Finally he marked: "Thunder! I throw up my hand. You are a big fool to have told me. You might have won all I had!" Murphy raked in the pot, laid down his hand and started home. Austin picked up the relinquished cards, ran them through, and solaced: "Two pair, full house, and a flush!" "Two pair, full house, and a flush!" "Two pair, full house, and a flush!"

OLD ENGLAND

Farmer Investigates Well in the Land of Hop and Beer.

[Special Letter.]

Speak not such a disparaging word of town—London could help the poor in particular. I could secure [illegible] new matter if I were [illegible] Yet I hope I may [illegible] [illegible] the night was the [illegible] [illegible] stand to be better [illegible] the evening than at other places. The country around, and even the town, is pretty [illegible] lively. The valleys [illegible] are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

DOMESTIC.

AT a meeting of coal-producers held in New York, on the 18th, a combination was formed to regulate the production of the mines, by designating the yards each company might put upon the market, and establishing a penalty of $1.25 per ton for all overshipments. A board of Control was established, each interest being given the right to manage its own sales and make its own prices. A joint exchange for the sale of coal was, however, provided for. A committee was appointed to regulate the quotas of shipment of the different interests.

THE Springfield (Ill.) Savings Bank has suspended. The liabilities are stated to be about $175,000 and the promise made to pay in full.

A TEN-YEAR-OLD boy named Willie Hopkins was abducted from his home at Braddock's Fields, near Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 16th, by a man supposed to be a tramp. He is described as being a pretty boy with full face, light complexion and hair, and rather stout built. His family were in great distress over the loss, his mother being almost unable from grief.

THE proprietors of the Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Newhave been arrested on ten months' imprisonment in the County Jail and fined $700 each for an alleged libel upon the Sheriff of the county. A like sentence was imposed upon the same defendants for libeling a citizen of Wilkesbarre.

DISPATCHES received at Gen. Sheridan's headquarters in Chicago, on the night of the 19th, from Capt. Bigelow, stationed at Fort Bliss, report that the Texas Rangers, at San Elizario, in El Paso County, Tex., surrendered on the morning of the 18th. Judge Howard, agent for the salt mines, Atkinson and McBride were shot, and the rest of the Rangers were disarmed and liberated. The mob had dispersed. It was composed entirely of native-born citizens of Texas, and no help was given them from the Mexican side of the river.

THE recent troubles in El Paso County, Tex., are said to have grown out of a dispute as to the ownership of extensive salt mines in that section, at which the people of the surrounding country have obtained salt from time immemorial, free of cost. A number of American speculators, Judge Howard among them, set up a title to the mines. In attempting to maintain their rights Judge Howard quarreled with the people by the neighborhood, and at last shot and killed a man who espoused the cause of the rancher Mexicans. He then fled the country, but recently returned, and was captured with his adherents, and three of them, including the Judge, were killed, as already announced.

JOHN VAN HUESEN, the alleged ringleader of the railroad rioters at Albany, N. Y., and vicinity, in July last, has been found guilty and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

THOMAS ROONEY's house at West Point, N. Y., was burned, a few days ago, and two children, aged three and five years, perished. They were locked in the house, the parents being absent, and were found clasped in each other's arms, lifeless and charred.

A BOILER in the candy manufactory of Ernest Greenfield, 63 Barclay street, New York, exploded about five o'clock on the afternoon of the 20th, with fearful results. The boiler was under the sidewalk, and when it burst it tore away the entire front of the building and scattered the wreck in all directions. Fire suddenly followed the explosion, and the walls of the building, five stories in height, soon fell in. There were employed in the factory nearly 300 girls and boys, ranging from eight to twenty years of age, a large number of whom lost their lives, many others being badly injured. The money loss would reach about $80,000.

AT Randolph, Mass., a few nights ago, three children of Mrs. Catherine Ryan were suffocated by coal gas, as was also Mary E. Burry, aged fourteen, who was stopping with them. Mrs. Ryan, herself, was not expected to live.

MAJ. J. B. JONES, commanding the Texas State forces, telegraphed to Representative Mills, in Washington, on the 20th, that a Lieutenant, at El Paso, had informed him that 150 of the mob at San Elizario, to whom the Lieutenant was forced to surrender, had unscrupulously killed three of their prisoners, were Mexican citizens, from Mexico.

THE United States Supreme Court adjourned, on the 21st, until Jan. 7.

A NEW YORK dispatch of the 21st says it was believed that fully forty bodies were lying beneath the ruins of the building destroyed by the explosion a few days since the day before. The names of two girls and a boy had been recovered.

THE famous mare Flora Temple, known for many years as the "Queen of the Turf," died at the farm of A. Welch, near Philadelphia, a few days ago. She was over thirty-two years old.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

W. F. ENDICOTT, President of the late Central National Bank of Chicago, is found to be a defaulter and has left for parts unknown. It seems that, like Spencer, he gathered up the cash of the concern, and left his notes secured by his bank stock as collateral in lieu thereof. It was believed, on the 19th, that the depositors would receive little and the stockholders nothing.

PRESIDENT HAYES, on the 19th, signed a pardon for John A. Joyce, of St. Louis, who was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits. The pardon is full and unconditional.

ON the 19th, Rev. Geo. F. Seymour, brother of Horatio Seymour, of New York, was unanimously elected Episcopal Bishop of the new Diocese of Springfield, Ill.

THE National Woman's Suffrage Association is to meet in Washington on the 7th of January.

THE first Indiana Democratic State Convention is to be held at Indianapolis, on the 30th of February next.

THE South Carolina Legislature ratified, by more than a two-thirds vote, the amendment to the State Constitution levying an annual tax of two mills upon all taxable property in the State for the support of free schools.

PRESIDENT HAYES and family arrived in New York City, on the 21st, and met with a grand reception at the parlors of the Union League Club. The Hon. John Jay, President of the Club, greeted the distinguished party with a hearty welcome. The reception was altogether of an informal character, and no speeches were made. A large number of prominent persons were present.

ON the 20th, the jury in the case of T. S. Lambert, President of the American Popular Life Insurance Company, of New York, who was charged with swearing to false reports of the condition of the company, returned a verdict of guilty.

FOREIGN.

ERRONEOUS interpretations having been given to the recent Turkish circular asking the friendship of the great Powers, it is officially explained that Turkey does not ask for interference as a vanquished State, since she had yet two lines of defense which she believed could not be broken. The object of the circular was simply to express the willingness of the Porte to treat on the basis of the proposals made at the Constantinople Conference, and referred to by her before the commencement of hostilities.

PRINCE MILAN has occupied Adlie, the Turks having concluded to abandon the position. The main Servian camp has effected a junction with the Russian forces.

THE National Reform Convention, to advocate and express acknowledgment of God in the Constitution, met at Rochester, N. Y., on the 18th. Two hundred delegates were present.

ACCORDING to London dispatches of the 18th, the British Cabinet was divided on the question of interference in Eastern affairs. It was stated that Disraeli favored an immediate declaration of war against Russia. Parliament had been called to meet on the 17th of January, and would be asked to grant money for increasing the efficiency of the army and navy.

A BERLIN telegram of the 19th says Prince Bismarck is dangerously ill. It had been semi-officially announced that while the German Government desires that the war between Turkey and Russia should cease, it would neither itself advance any obstacle, nor, so far as she could help, permit any other Power to hinder the extinction of Turkey as a European Power.

THE Montenegrin insurgents were defeated, on the 18th, by a Turkish column marching to the relief of Scutari and Antivari.

THE Servians have captured Fort Izvornor, near Skich.

A ROME (Italy) telegram of the morning of the 20th announces the death of Countess Stradore wife of Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy.

THE Porte has instructed its representative at Rome to ask for an explanation of the increasingly intimate relations of Italy with Greece.

ACCORDING to Constantinople telegrams of the 20th, the course of England has produced a bad effect in inspiring hopes that the long-delayed assistance of Great Britain would not be tendered. It was believed that Turkey was less willing to negotiate for peace than during the days immediately following the capture of Plevna.

A ST. PETERSBURG dispatch of the 20th says the calling together of the British Parliament was there considered as equivalent to a declaration of war.

ACCORDING to a Constantinople telegram of the 21st, the Porte had decided upon a fresh levy of 220,000.

A BELGRADE telegram of the 21st announces the peace had ruptured, after a stubborn fight, the Schelcelia bridge, which they at once destroyed, thus cutting the Turkish communications between Nisch and Leskovatz.

THE Russian forces in Asia, under Gen. Komaroff, have captured by assault the Citadel of Ardaunich, near Erzeroum.

A VIENNA telegram of the 21st announces the opening of negotiations for the neutralization of the Danube.

THE cold in Bulgaria, between the 18th and 20th, was intense, and great numbers of men and beasts perished in consequence.

THE Porte, on the 20th, issued a proclamation deposing Prince Milan, of Servia.

THE Russian losses in the present war were 56,412 men, up to Dec. 20.

HENRY M. STANLEY, the African explorer, reached Aden, Arabia, on the 23d, en route for London.

ACCORDING to Constantinople telegrams of the 22d, while the Sultan was personally in favor of making peace with Russia, he was overruled by cliques of warlike Pashas, who, under the ever-present fear of outbreaks, were loudly shouting that the green flag of the Prophet be unfurled and the last ditch fought in the defense of the approaches to Constantinople.

THE Czar has returned to St. Petersburg, where he was royally welcomed.

THE German Government is still trying to chase the potato-bug out of the land of Bismarck with kerosene inscriptions; but we think that by next spring we will see the Colorado beetle adding a little more sense into the heads of the Teutonic agriculturists than all that, and teach them to accept the inevitable without a murmur. —Burlington Hawk-Eye.

PHILADELPHIA wabbles along under a debt of nearly $75,000,000.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

THE Board of Supervisors for Lapeer County have fixed the salaries for the county officers, for the ensuing year, as follows: Treasurer, $1,000; Judge of Probate, $1,000; Prosecuting Attorney, $900; Clerk, $800.

THE first Indiana Democratic State Convention is to be held at Indianapolis, on the 30th of February next.

THE South Carolina Legislature ratified, by more than a two-thirds vote, the amendment to the State Constitution levying an annual tax of two mills upon all taxable property in the State for the support of free schools.

PRESIDENT HAYES and family arrived in New York City, on the 21st, and met with a grand reception at the parlors of the Union League Club. The Hon. John Jay, President of the Club, greeted the distinguished party with a hearty welcome. The reception was altogether of an informal character, and no speeches were made. A large number of prominent persons were present.

ON the 20th, the jury in the case of T. S. Lambert, President of the American Popular Life Insurance Company, of New York, who was charged with swearing to false reports of the condition of the company, returned a verdict of guilty.

FOREIGN.

ERRONEOUS interpretations having been given to the recent Turkish circular asking the friendship of the great Powers, it is officially explained that Turkey does not ask for interference as a vanquished State, since she had yet two lines of defense which she believed could not be broken. The object of the circular was simply to express the willingness of the Porte to treat on the basis of the proposals made at the Constantinople Conference, and referred to by her before the commencement of hostilities.

PRINCE MILAN has occupied Adlie, the Turks having concluded to abandon the position. The main Servian camp has effected a junction with the Russian forces.

THE National Reform Convention, to advocate and express acknowledgment of God in the Constitution, met at Rochester, N. Y., on the 18th. Two hundred delegates were present.

ACCORDING to Constantinople telegrams of the 22d, while the Sultan was personally in favor of making peace with Russia, he was overruled by cliques of warlike Pashas, who, under the ever-present fear of outbreaks, were loudly shouting that the green flag of the Prophet be unfurled and the last ditch fought in the defense of the approaches to Constantinople.

THE Czar has returned to St. Petersburg, where he was royally welcomed.

THE German Government is still trying to chase the potato-bug out of the land of Bismarck with kerosene inscriptions; but we think that by next spring we will see the Colorado beetle adding a little more sense into the heads of the Teutonic agriculturists than all that, and teach them to accept the inevitable without a murmur. —Burlington Hawk-Eye.

THE Montenegrin insurgents were defeated, on the 18th, by a Turkish column marching to the relief of Scutari and Antivari.

THE Servians have captured Fort Izvornor, near Skich.

A ROME (Italy) telegram of the morning of the 20th announces the death of Countess Stradore wife of Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy.

THE Porte has instructed its representative at Rome to ask for an explanation of the increasingly intimate relations of Italy with Greece.

ACCORDING to Constantinople telegrams of the 20th, the course of England has produced a bad effect in inspiring hopes that the long-delayed assistance of Great Britain would not be tendered. It was believed that Turkey was less willing to negotiate for peace than during the days immediately following the capture of Plevna.

A ST. PETERSBURG dispatch of the 20th says the calling together of the British Parliament was there considered as equivalent to a declaration of war.

A GRAND RAPIDS woman saved $800 from her husband's earnings and put it in a Chicago bank, to surprise him. She was surprised herself.

BOSMAN BROS., the largest dry-goods dealers at Grand Rapids, have failed. Liabilities, $95,000.

MRS. MCCOW U. C. DUNCAN, of Detroit, died in that city, on the 13th.

PETER HUENTHER committed suicide, by jumping into the river, at Jackson, on the 18th.

THE 12th Annual Convention of the Superintendents of the Poor will be held at Grand Rapids, beginning Jan. 3 and continuing three days.

THE late unusually warm weather is said to have caused the buds on fruit trees and fruit-growers are anxious about next year's crop.

TWO BREACH-OF-PROMISE cases were before the Ingham Circuit Court lately. Mrs. Sturtsized Andrew Lagenbacher at Leslie, $1,000 for her blighted affections. In the other case, in which Frank M. Howe was sued by Mrs. Sarah Mullin, the jury rendered a verdict for the defendant and the latter Matron of the Reform School, a decision was not reached, though Mrs. Mullin was required to furnish security for costs.

HORACE BIDDLECOM, of Sparta Center, Kent County, took strychnine, on the 21st, and died. He refused to give a reason for the act, but said he had carried the poison in his pocket for a month.

THE eight-fifths sawmills in Saginaw and Bay Counties cut during the season just closed 340,162,231 feet of lumber—which is 66,000,000 feet more than was cut last year. These mills, having a capacity for sawing out of 775,000,000 feet, employed 3,500 men last season.

THE State Pioneer Society holds its annual meeting in Lansing, Feb. 6 and 7.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per cental, $1.25@1.37½; Butter, ₱ lb, 13@16c; Cheese, ₱ lb, 13@14c; Corn, ₱ bu, nominal; Flour, White Winter, $6.00@6.50; Amber, $5.50@6.00; Rye, $3.00@3.75; Cattle, ₱ cental, $3.50@4.75; Hogs, $3.75@4.25; Sheep, $3.00@4.40; Oats, Mixed, ₱ bu, 26@28c; White, 27@28c; Pork, Mess, ₱ bbl, $12.25@12.50; Rye, White, 50@53c; Wheat, White, $1.33@1.39; Amber, $1.17@1.27.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—Few people realize the danger involved in turning over in bed. A Massachusetts man broke his leg in that way a few days ago.

—Indians don't like the Red River country. Some of them hired out to pick cotton. One of the women left her little child, at the end of the row, expecting to find it there when she should return; but what must have been the disappointment of the poor mother when she came back and found that her innocent little babe had been devoured by the bugs. The Indians were so shocked by the sad and horrible affair that they all left the place, and say they will never work on the farm again.

—On the day of the last light of the United States troops with Chief Joseph, his little daughter, ten years old, finding that her father was occupied with his rifle, ran to the ponies and made an heroic effort to head them in. The cavalry, however, cut her off, and, seeing that she would be captured if she remained with the animals, she took to the hills. After the fight with the surrender, Joseph's first question was regarding his child. Every effort was made to find her, but all such reports as trace of her had been found. Chief Joseph believes that she is dead, and is greatly affected by his loss.

—April 10, 1876, a woman threw herself into the Ohio River from the Newport ferryboat. A lad sixteen years old, William A. Shober, jumped into the river and made a heroic effort to save her, but without avail, and came near drowning himself. Kliwining pledge of Mason, of Cincinnati, recognizing this noble boy's act of heroic humanity, voted him a gold medal, and the other evening at the annual banquet the testimonial was presented to the boy by the late Atty-Gen. Taft, a member of the Lodge, in an eloquent and appropriate address. The ceremony was largely attended by prominent Masons of Ohio and other citizens.

—A revolting accident occurred recently on the Bringler Place, nearly opposite Donaldsonville, La., by which a colored woman, Patience London, lost her life. The woman was leaning over the fireplace in a state of intoxication, when she lost her balance and fell forward into the fire. Being so stupefied with liquor as to render futile any exertion she might have made to save herself, the miserable creature was literally cooked to death, her face and breast being burned in a terrible manner. The only other inmates of the cabin were her husband and two children, both too young to comprehend the predicament of their mother or to give an alarm.

—There was an accidental shooting case under unusual circumstances at 418 McIlvain street, Philadelphia, the other afternoon. Lewis Myers, a lorger, had been paying attention to Pauline Streicher, living with her aunt there, but she had forbidden him the house because he always came with a loaded revolver. On the afternoon in question he came again, drunk, with Henry Russell, a glass-blower, but she was not home. They sent her, and, on her arrival, Myers took out the revolver again, but Russell, who was a stranger at the house, called it and took it away. He was seated at the table by the side of the girl, trying to remove the cartridges, when it went off, the ball passing through the girl's heart.

—Miss Mary Ann Collins, about twenty years old, met with a horrible death the other afternoon. She was employed in the engine-room at the Allegheny Valley Paper-Mills at Hutton Station, a few miles above Pittsburgh. Directly underneath the room is the vat into which the rags are thrown through a trap-door to be scoured. The trap-door was open, but the steam coming up prevented the girl from seeing the exact location of it. She had only been employed a few days in the room, and so was not familiar with the location. Another girl called her to help in some work, and in crossing the room Mary Ann walked into the trap and was precipitated into the vat below, which was filled with water and nitrate heated to the boiling point. She was scalded in about three minutes. When taken out life was extinct, and her flesh was discolored to the whiteness of snow.

A Lover Wants His Money Back.

AUGUST MANGEL, a tall, goodlooking young man, who is a cabinet-maker in Hoboken, appeared in the Tombs Police Court, yesterday, as the complainant against Miss Pauline Bierman, a rather handsome and fashionably-dressed young lady, who says she supports an aged father and mother by giving lessons in music. Mangel and both parties burst into tears, the young man blubbering so vehemently that the Court clutched him. He answered Pauline out of obtaining from him about $2,000, in sums of $100 and upward, at different times during four years' courtship, she representing that she was an heiress. Now that she has discarded him, he wants his money back.

Pauline stated, between her sobs, that she met Mangel in the country four years ago, and when she was introduced to him a lady friend said: "What a fool that man is!" She considered that a peculiar remark, however, and said that Mangel used to call on her almost every night and remain until twelve o'clock, when she actually had to tell him to go home, and that he smelt so of liquor that she could not sit beside him. The Court suggested that the better way to settle the business was to resume the courtship. "I won't have him! and would die first!" excitedly cried the young lady, and at this Mangel's sob turned to angry expressions. Miss Bierman testified that the money she had received was simply gifts induced by affection, and if the Court would allow her time she would return the whole of it, principal and interest. —N. Y. Graphic.

ANOTHER HORROR.

A Boiler in a New York Candy Factory Explodes—The Building Demolished, and a Large Number of Human Victims Buried in the Ruins.

New York, Dec. 20.

A few minutes after five o'clock this afternoon a tremendous explosion took place under the sidewalk in front of Greenfield & Sons' wholesale confectionery, at 60 Barclay street, and almost immediately the entire brownstone front of the five-story building crumbled to pieces, letting down the several floors, so that the beams of each formed a V. An instant afterward a blinding sheet of flame flashed up through the entire edifice and across the street, and then came way to a dense smoke, quickly followed by another volume of flame, which continued to burn with unremitting fury.

The fire quickly extended to adjoining buildings, and there is hardly an edifice on the entire block that is not more or less injured.

Various estimates are assigned for the explosion. It is said that one of the boilers was an old one, but the true cause is not known. Every pane of glass for blocks was shattered. In a minute the great candy manufactories were not killed. All the down-town streets were filled with people in the explosion, and for a few minutes elapsed before an intelligent and excited crowd had gathered at the scene of disaster.

Fifty-six wounded and one dead were reported at Chambers-Street Hospital at 6:40 o'clock. A number were also sent to Bellevue and other hospitals. It is estimated that the wounded will reach 125. But few are reported killed. It is probable that these reports are exaggerated, as in the excited state of affairs it is impossible to get at the facts. It is stated that because of the fire in the neighborhood fifty bodies buried in the ruins. The greatest sacrifice of life was among young girls, many of whom, from eight to fifteen years, were employed in selling and assorting candy packages on the first floor. Some of the girls, who escaped, had the hair burned totally off their heads.

The scenes at the Chambers-Street Hospital were heartrending in the extreme. Ambulances were quickly at the fire, and were kept busy in taking the wounded to the hospital. The station-house and Chambers-Street Hospital were besieged with men, women and children, all anxiously inquiring for some missing relative.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.

The removal of the debris, which began at two o'clock this morning, has proceeded so far that the street is clear to the outside of the sidewalk in front of the ruins. On the opposite side walk, lying under a bloodstained tarpaulin, is the body of a dead man and boy, which were taken from the ruins this morning. The boy, it is said, when found the bodies were lying in front of the doorway. Both were evidently struck with the heavy stone capping which still lay across the lower floor, and which it was necessary to lift before the body could be removed. The body was recognized as that of William H. Bradley, Coldwell avenue, Jersey City. The other is probably that of William Bennett, a boy employed in the store. The boy began a newsstand at the Barclay-street ferry, and only this morning, this afternoon, as usual, for the last edition of the evening papers. He did not return, and was, it is now evident, passing the factory at the time of the explosion.

The ruins could not be more complete than they are. Scarcely a fragment of wall is standing, and, indeed, the whole of the ground occupied by the main building, a space of about fifteen square feet,

Early to-day the mothers, fathers, sisters and friends of the missing began to congregate in the porter's room of the New York Hospital, making inquiries for those whom they sought and reading the lists posted there. Three of the wounded have been enveloped in sheets from head to foot. A dozen bandages, and two had their hair burned as close to the scalp as the razor could shave it. The blackened features, they resemble negroes.

Three mothers have been standing at the door since four o'clock this morning, making vain inquiries for missing children. At last, when one of the strikers' creatures was leaving in despair, she encountered her daughter at the door. The meeting was touching. After a long embrace they separated, and the young girl was forward permitted to go up to the male ward, when she imparted the news of the safety of a brother to one of the maimed patients who had worked with her in the shop.

Phillip Hertzbach, the engineer in the factory, has not been seen since the explosion. His wife says that her husband, on his return from work Monday night, laid her out of the tubes of the boiler, or some pipe connecting with it (she was not sure which), and burst. That he then spoken to Mr. Greenfield, saying the break was dangerous and might cause a explosion if it were not repaired, and Mr. Greenfield told him they must try to get along with it as it was until Sunday, owing to the pressure of business. Mrs. Hertzbach said her husband was greatly distressed and depressed on account of this, often referring to it during the week, and saying he was afraid every morning to go to his work. Yesterday morning, when he left home, he told her he never expected to see her again. Hertzbach was thirty-five years old, and lived in Fifty-second street.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22, 1877.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle	$3.80	@ $4.90
Hogs	4.80	@ 4.97
Sheep	3.00	@ 5.75
Medium	3.50	@ 3.85
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	4.80	@ 4.97
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1.32	@ 1.32
No. 2 Red	1.32	@ 1.32
OATS—Western and State	.38	@ .42
RYE—Western	.58	@ .59
PORK—Mess	12.75	@ 12.75
LARD—Prime	7.87	@ 7.87½
CHEESE	.07	@ .12
FLOUR—Extra, Double Extra	5.75	@ 6.50

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Extra	$5.25	@ $5.50
Choice	4.90	@ 5.20
Good	4.60	@ 4.75
Medium	3.90	@ 3.95
HOGS—Live—Good to Choice	4.80	@ 4.90
SHEEP—Common to Choice	3.25	@ 4.00
CATTLE—Stockers	.90	@ 2.25
Good to Choice	2.50	@ 3.25
EGGS—Fresh	.23	@ .25
FLOUR—Choice Winter	6.75	@ 7.25
Spring	6.00	@ 6.75
Patent	7.00	@ 9.00
GRAIN—Red, No. 2 Spring	.85½	@ .85¾
Corn, No. 2	.41½	@ .42
Oats, No. 2	.25½	@ .25¾
Rye, No. 2	.53½	@ .56
Barley, No. 2	.70	@ .72
BROOM CORN—Choice Hurl	.05	@ .07½
Self-working	.04	@ .05
Inside and Crook	.03½	@ .04
Dwarf	.02	@ .03
PORK—Mess	11.25	@ 11.75
LARD	7.75	@ 7.87½
LUMBER—Common and Fencing	10.00	@ 12.00
Shingles	2.00	@ 2.50
Lath	2.00	@ 2.25

BALTIMORE.

CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $6.00
Medium	4.00	@ 4.75
Good	3.25	@ 3.60
Fair	2.75	@ 3.00
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	$5.00	@ $6.00
Medium	4.75	@ 5.00
Common	4.25	@ 4.50
Philadelphia	4.80	@ 4.80
HOGS—Best	4.50	@ 4.60
Common	3.00	@ 4.00
SHEEP—Best	4.00	@ 4.50
Common	3.00	@ 4.00

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

OLD MAN GRAM.

In little Hiram Dodge's liver old man Gram,
The patriarch of the place,
Where children yards not his face,
Eager and greedy, peering about,
As he grows hunting in and out
At a wriggling, rickety purse—
Brisk octogenarian's pace.
He rattles his sack at my knees, and brags,
As he counts shuffling among the bags—
Rings of his riches and lungs of his rags,
Musty work and little pay—
"You see where I am," says old man Gram—
"You see where I am to-day.

"I came to town at twelve years old
With a shilling in this creepie-key;
You should see the shop I could know it!
The town to me was a big, short cloud,
With fortunes locked in the hill, but I guessed
A silver key would unlock it.
My little key would unlock it.
I found in a rag-shop kept by a Jew
A place to sleep and a peddling to do,
And managed to make my shilling two,
And that's not many or less nowadays—
Now see where I am," cries old man Gram—
"Now see where I am to-day!"

In his den atop of the butcher's shop
He lies in his lair of knots,
And counts the cost of his coats and shoes,
And a loose nose and then to pick and gnaw,
With keenly a tooth in the tough old jaw.
Ran a couple of curious tasks—
Ah, get some terrible traps!
Though half blown Court he calls his own,
Here hunting for rags, and here lived alone,
Until, like a hungry wolf, he has grown Cruel and cunning as old man Gram—
"You see where I am," growled old man Gram,
As I looked in fondly.

"I might have a wife to make me bright,
Which would be convenient—rather!
And children to call me father,
But a wife would be after my chink, you see;
And sharings for them are not for me,
I never would have the bother.
They're so awful expensive and bother.
I went to pogue at fifty-four,
But keeping as I was, no hand to the door
To thank of a dozen brats or more!
See where I am," growled old man Gram—
Now see where I am," brags old man Gram—
"Only see where I am to-day!"

I had once a niece, who came to town
As poor as any church mouse;
She washed for me, and I used to say,
Tat! I have no house to keep, go back,
I gave her a dollar, and told her to pack,
At which she made such a house—
You never did see such a house!
Whole rows of houses were mine, she said;
I had more back shares than knew how to count,
And paid like as much iron or lead
All round! I made her stare—
Men see where I am," grins old man Gram—
They see where I am to-day.

"But there is anything I detest,
And for which I'm a confirmed rebeller,
Sir, it's a poor relation.
They're nothing but beauty and always in need;
Take one, and soon you will have to feed
Just about half a dozen.
They'll swarm from all over the Nation!
And I know a fellow, and he's nothing more
Because that I burned from my friend the Jew
His house, who's a poor relation.
The long and short of the old man's errors
Is to keep for his relations and be generous.
The world is a very good world, indeed,
And I'm glad I'm in it to-day!

"Half-six! where I am," shines old man Gram—
Just see where I am to-day!

In miserly guise in the leanest grate
All the rest is dead and cold—
And the fire burned is a bubble.
He sits like some thin, lean shrunken whole,
The muscle all fled to feed
For that mighty fire within him inside,
Which has eaten the flesh and the blackened leather,
They resemble negroes.

Three mothers have been standing at the door since four o'clock this morning making vain inquiries for missing children. At last, when one of the strikers' creatures was leaving in despair, she encountered her daughter at the door. The meeting was touching. After a long embrace they separated, and the young girl was forward permitted to go up to the male ward, when she imparted the news of the safety of a brother to one of the maimed patients who had worked with her in the shop.

Phillip Hertzbach, the engineer in the factory, has not been seen since the explosion. His wife says that her husband, on his return from work Monday night, laid her out of the tubes of the boiler, or some pipe connecting with it (she was not sure which), and burst. That he then spoken to Mr. Greenfield, saying the break was dangerous and might cause a explosion if it were not repaired, and Mr. Greenfield told him they must try to get along with it as it was until Sunday, owing to the pressure of business. Mrs. Hertzbach said her husband was greatly distressed and depressed on account of this, often referring to it during the week, and saying he was afraid every morning to go to his work. Yesterday morning, when he left home, he told her he never expected to see her again. Hertzbach was thirty-five years old, and lived in Fifty-second street.

HULDAH.

Huldah lived in a box—so Dare said
Was a funny name for a girl to wed—
A cover, which could be lifted to let the sunshine through. By the box she meant the queer, four-cornered room away up in an old brown lodging-house —away so far that your feet would tire climbing to it over the rickety stairs. The cupboards in it were not repaired, and Mr. Greenfield told him they must try to get along with it as it was until Sunday, owing to the pressure of business. Mrs. Hertzbach said her husband was greatly distressed and depressed on account of this, often referring to it during the week, and saying he was afraid every morning to go to his work. Yesterday morning, when he left home, he told her he never expected to see her again. Hertzbach was thirty-five years old, and lived in Fifty-second street

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, - - 1878

OUR RAILWAY LETTER.

New York, Dec. 4, 1877.

A week in New York without a description would be, to those dear, exciting times a performance of Hamlet with the omission of the Ghost. We have known that, stale, and unprofitable as ourself seems this time, the every day but capital hosting given us our sovereign of cattle respecting passenger rates. In the case the present Railway has acquired a fresh complexion and formed in the flight of Owen Murphy, treasurer of the Excise board, who receive $60,000 of moneys received by that body, mainly on application for liquor licenses. As I mentioned a couple of weeks ago, but few have been issued of late, receipts for the money having been given to the saloon men pending the investigation of their cases. Now that Murphy has run away with the money, the city raises the question as to whether it is responsible for the amount, which unpaid squabbles which causes a hot among the ill scarred liquor men who look upon the probable imposition upon the reason persecution of whom they have been the objects, as the last straw which, according to tradition, broke the camel's back. The whole liquor matter as it now stands, is a very pretty illustration of what contusion a dozen stupid, time-serving lawmakers and officials can introduce into the city government, and it will be quite interesting to watch and see how they will manage to flounder out of the bog in which their own incompetence has trapped them.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher seems to have rather bad luck with some of his confidences. Not long ago it will be remembered that his nephew by marriage, Wm. C. Gilman, was sent to Sing Sing to wear a striped suit for theft by the state, and now Mr. B again brought in to unpleasant notice through the shooting of his son's sister in law by her husband, which occurrence is now the gossip wonder of Brooklyn. The unhappy young couple who played the chief parts in this tragedy were married only a year ago. They poured incompensal, and died after a few months of suffering the wife returned to her father's house. One night this week the young man went to the house and tried to persuade his wife to return to him, and on her persistent refusal, drew a pistol and shot her, inflicting a wound from the effects of which she still remains in a critical condition.

I suppose most of your readers have by this time either seen or heard of the improvements which the New York Tribune has recently put upon its Weekly, making it a sixteen page, sixty four column paper, filled with specially prepared matter upon every topic, and raising it entirely out of the ranks of city newspaper weeklies. In its present form and character the Weekly Tribune is only comparable to the high class, 32 or 64 page weeklies, all of which it excels in amount of reading matter furnished. Its price remains unchanged however except that there is a slight advance on the club rates.

The changes referred to have necessitated an enormous expenditure for printing and adding new theory of new and greatly improved pattern, nothing similar to which exists either in this country or Europe but as they give the Tribune marked advantage over all competitors, they are well worth all they have cost. Simultaneously with this enlargement of the Weekly, the Tribune company offered as a premium, under certain conditions, Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and it is a significant fact, showing what class of readers the Tribune has, that this premium has proved such an attractive one that the dictionary has had to be furnished in great numbers, sometimes to the extent of several hundreds in a single day.

A foolish story has been started, by the way, to the effect that Whitelaw Reid intends to retire from the editorship of the Tribune. There is not, of course, a word of truth in this.

The ancient and honorable sport of wrestling has of late been revived here, and has become one of the standard amusements of a certain large class of our sporting fraternity. All the prominent athletes have had bout after bout before large audiences, until that people from the entertainment began to pall upon the patrons, when the managers of such affairs had to look about them for some novelty to introduce. The idea of getting up matches between men and beasts was suggested, and has proved quite a success. Several evenings of this kind of entertainment have been given before delighted crowds. Strange to say, the bears seem to understand what is required of them and give and take heavy falls with composure and good nature. Now are these struggles by any means so called affairs, both usually winning about as many bouts as he loses. It is found necessary, however, to muzzle the bears, or they would be very apt to call their feats to their aid in cases where their jaws prove an invaluable defence.

The favorite among these ursine athletes is an immense cinnamon bear belonging to the Hippodrome, and known until recently as "Marshall the Undefeated." He prided my window the other day seated in an open horse-car, in company with Baker, his chief wrestler, with whom he has had many a struggle. Marshall, though looks a trifle unmistakable, what with the jostling of the vehicle and the noisy attention of the mass of men and boys of which his chariot was the nucleus, but he bore his honors meekly and took the picture of docility. Marshall lost his title of "The Undefeated" a few nights ago, after a fierce struggle with Bauer, who, after having most of the breath squeezed out of his body by the bear, and getting his head well curried and championed by the latter's claws, succeeded in landing the invincible brute squarely upon his back.

The "society event of the season" occurred on Thursday evening, when Mrs. Pierre Lorillard gave a ball, the accounts of which read almost like a fairy tale. Seven hundred invitations were issued, and nearly that number of guests were present. Since a certain memorable ball given a quarter of a century ago nothing has been seen in New York to rival the floral decorations of this entertainment. And it is no joke that the ladies last night were themselves beyond precedent adorned with flowers. The entrance to the house was covered with an awning brilliantly lighted with many colored lanterns. A soft Axminster carpet was spread from the gas walk to the richly carved door in the main entrance, where three men servants in livery attended, and a soft rose colored light reflected from the Moorish ceiling gave a picturesque effect to the costumes of the ladies as they entered.

The interior was a veritable flower palace. To the right of the entrance three large drawing rooms were thrown open, which, together with the conservatory in the rear, made practically one grand hall for dancing. In the middle room the orchestra was hidden away in a grotto of flowers, and furnished the dance music. Eight superb chandeliers holding ornamented candles lighted up the fair scene. There also were handsomely ornamented mud draped with festoons of smilax and rose buds. In the conservatory rose colored globes shed a soft radiance over the rare tropical plants and palms, and made a most striking effect. All the windows between the lace curtains were decorated with ferns, azaleas and red and white japonicas. The staircase leading up to the upper rooms was festooned with ivy and flowers. In the recess and corners were statues imbedded in flowers, with a vault of ferns and palms suspended over them. On the second floor, in conformity with an idea first put into practice in London last season, all the chambers were used as supper-rooms, and they were also profusely decorated.

We have had President Hayes and family in the city during a part of the last week. He was the guest of Marshall O. Roberts during a portion of his stay, and took part in the formal opening of the new and magnificent buildings of the American Museum of Natural History, in Central Park, which enterprise I hope to make the subject of a letter at an early date. The President received much attention, and was fairly besieged with visitors while at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

RADIX.

Ask Yourself These Questions.

Are you a sufferer from Sick Headache, Bad Complexion, Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Impure Blood, Piles, Constipation, Kidney Complaint and Indigestion? Does your Head ache and Ache? Have you a Cough, Lung Disease, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Pain in the Chest, Liver Complaint and Indigestion? Are you Nervous, Sleepless, Despondent, Melancholy? Have you a Poor Appetite, Dizziness, Coated Tongue, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Flatulency, Low Spirits, Headache, Backache, Kidney Complaint, Female Weakness, Irregularities, Suppressions, Whites, Ulceration, Displacements, Prolapsus, Leucorrhœa, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Blood Poisoning, Fever and Ague, Chills, Malaria, Dropsy, Gout, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Boils, Carbuncles, Scurvy, Eruptions, Blood Taints, Impurities, Humors, Skin Diseases, Mercurial Diseases, Old Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Tumors, Goitre, Erysipelas, Fever Sores, Scrofula, Rickets, Spinal Complaint, Hip Disease, Weak Joints, Stiff Joints, Wasting of the Flesh, Shaking Fevers, Decay, Debility, Loss of Power, Impotency, Dizziness, Sick Headache, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Hysteria, Paralysis

CALENDAR FOR 1878.

JANUARY.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	31

FEBRUARY.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28

MARCH.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30
31

APRIL.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
	1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12	13
14	15	16	17	18	19	20
21	22	23	24	25	26	27
28	29	30

MAY.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

JUNE.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30

JULY.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
	1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12	13
14	15	16	17	18	19	20
21	22	23	24	25	26	27
28	29	30	31

AUGUST.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

SEPTEMBER.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30

OCTOBER.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	31

NOVEMBER.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

DECEMBER.

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

Romance of a Dust-Barrel.

The honor and fortune of a lady once hung upon the result of a law-suit in one of the New York courts. The most important part of the evidence in her favor was in the contents of three letters. She had put them away in her desk, but when she searched it the letters were not to be found. They had been stolen.

The lady's counsel informed her that unless letters could be produced the case would go against her. The trial came on, and on the morning of the third day the lady did not appear in court. The counsel were surprised, but went on with the cross-examination of the plaintiff, the lady's husband.

Suddenly the woman rushed into the court-room, and excitedly exclaimed to her counsel, so loud that the Court and jury heard her, "I have found them!"

Examining the package she handed to them, the counsel found three old letters, which had been badly torn, but were now skilfully patched together. They were dirty and stained.

"If the Court please," said the counsel, "I now offer in evidence these letters, which, up to this moment, we could not find."

"Let us examine them," said the plaintiff's counsel. They looked at them carefully, and then remarked to the Court:

"We object to the admission of these papers. They purport to be letters written by some person, but they are so patched and pasted that there is no way by which they can be identified as genuine letters."

"We propose, if Your Honor please, to show that they were written by the plaintiff, were lost, and found in a most extraordinary manner," replied the lady's counsel.

The Court examined the letters, amid the silence of the audience and the anxiety of the husband. "You may identify them," at last said the Judge, "and then offer them in evidence."

The plaintiff was again placed on the stand.

"Did you ever see these letters before?"

The witness' hands trembled while he held the letters, and his face grew white.

"It is possible," was his hesitating reply.

"Are they in your handwriting?"

"It looks like my writing."

"Are not the signatures yours?"

"They look like my writing."

"Have you any doubt that they are your signatures?"

He hesitated.

"Answer the question," said the Court.

"I can't say that I have," he stammered out.

"That is all."

The letters were admitted as evidence and the woman's case was saved.

Those letters had been thrown from a waste-basket into a dust-barrel. A rag-picker, while searching the barrel, was attracted by the signatures. He read a few words. They excited his curiosity. He searched for and found all the pieces, and carefully put them together, for he saw money in them.

One day he saw the same name in the papers, and connected with the lawsuit. He sought out the lady. Providence leading him to her rather than to her husband. She paid him a good reward, and instantly hastened to the court-room.

The letters saved her from ruin. Few of those who saw their exhibition in court knew how she found them. But to-day that rag-picker owns a paying stall in one of the city markets, the result of his finding the pieces of three old letters in a dust-barrel.—Youth's Companion.

Released After Twenty-six Years' Imprisonment.

The Times lately called attention to the fact that in Moyamensing Prison was an occupant who had been confined in that institution for nearly twenty-seven years, but who was about to be released. Edward J. Ford, the prisoner, is a colored man, who was sentenced to death on the 31st of May, 1851, for killing his brother-in-law, Owen Took, by stabbing him with a butcher knife. For some reason William F. Johnson, then Governor of the State, failed to sign the death warrant, and no succeeding Governor felt it incumbent upon himself to do anything in the matter. Ford has ever since remained in Prison. Yesterday Supt Perkins received from Gov. Hartranft the long-delayed pardon.

Ford's long confinement has told on him. He left side being partially paralyzed. His hair is gray and very bushy. He wears his beard full, but closely cropped, and as he peered through the bars with his clear, bright eyes he presented a weird appearance. He rarely mentions his crime, and if approached on the subject cleverly turns to another topic. When he was first confined he was very revengeful and threatened the attorneys who had testified against him, but these feelings passed from his mind years ago. As is customary with prisoners who have been long confined he has his hobbies, one of which is an idea that he is a barometer. He also possesses a remarkable hankering for short cake. When questioned as to his health he answered: "I feels well enough, but it's gwine to rain to-morrow, as my old bones begins to ache. I kin always tell. How de do, Mr. Perkins?" (to the Superintendent.) The best favor done him is treasured in his mind, as he reverted to "dat 'possum you gave me; les' see—oh, yes; more'n ten or twelve years ago, Mr. Perkins. Dat was so sweet. You remember, don't—Oh (with a sigh). I'll never forget dat 'possum."

He spent most of his time in reading, and even made particular inquiry about "dat yaller-kivered almanac and Dr. Franklin's almanac with the green back." He has a faint idea about the late war, as expressed in these words: "I didn't know there was a war until I looked out'n my window on the second floah and seed lots of solgers a standin' around on the wall. Spekin' somebody gwine to break in the prison; but when I looked at dem again I saw dey wasn't Philadelfy solgers, as dey was most Boys. Dey was from Ohio, wasn't dey, Mr. Perkins? I thought some of them ought'r be at home with their mommies. And den I heard the big guns bang down at the Navy Yard, and I got down in the cell, 'cause I didn't know but dey was coming to have a battle a yellin, an' a ball mought come scootin' into my cell. Now, if de other side was sharp, why didn't dey build boats and come up de Delaware and take Philadelfy, and then the war was ober? But dey didn't. Yes, all de colored people-am free but this one."

When asked how he would like to be transferred over the river to the almshouse, where he would have more freedom (for one is ignorant of the action of the Prison Inspectors), the tears welled up in his eyes, and, with faltering voice, he said: "Would I like it? Oh! God knows how I would bress de day when I could see de green fields, de rilber and de sky once moah, and feel as though I was free, free, free." Here he broke down utterly, and sobbed as though his heart was breaking. "Does a bird feel happy when it sings in its cage? No! Well, it's de same happiness dat I have felt for twenty-five long years without hope for the future. His stomach, when I was out in de prison yard de first time since I have been a prisoner, I could not speak as I felt de sunlight fall on me without de bars or stone walls to stops its beams. It was de first bright day I had."

When the probability of an early release was made known to him last week the old fellow brightened up wonderfully. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Perkins went into the cell and related the good news.

"Oh! thank de Lord!" said he, bursting into tears, and a few minutes later when he walked out he threw unwonted activity into his thin limbs. He will be detained at the prison until suitable provision is made for his support.—Philadelphia Times.

It is said that lumber will be cheap on the line of the Mississippi next year, for logs will be very plenty, more probably than the mills will be able to saw. The upper waters will furnish 200,000,000 feet to Minneapolis; the St. Croix will furnish 150,000,000 from a cut of 200,000,000 feet of logs; the Chippewa "will slide down the river" 400,000,000 feet, and the Black River at the least will send out 250,000,000 feet—being an aggregate of near upon 1,200,000,000 feet.

"TILL He cometh, till He cometh," is the beginning of a beautiful little song which is sung in a West Side Sunday-School, and there is one young man who gets his best notes on the first words of this particular piece; when he sees his favorite coming in at the door His favorite's name is "Tillie."—Chicago Journal.

Our Young Readers.

PUDDING AS MUCK

A noxxes for tue
Its reed's of be
Begin in the xgz.
Now summer get
Ous.

This dinner for f
O, to just thin ew
The farmer mowded
With hoxes a plow;
And the plantingde
With hoer and rake
Ad opping the ge
In the hot sight nows
In April and May
Ad the sun shall warm,
In June and July
He's watched the corn'

O, the ball grow ous,
All hood and be
O, the head-leaf corn
With its tasseled hose.)

Then one Augusth
The tassel appeal;
And the new husks
And the ear shall
Were ready to eat
And the farmer shall sell,
And get the egs ready
To carry to mart,
Or the hoe at the hou
The chicks shall have
The end of ayer tal
Is the xgz.

As yellow seed!
And a se seeds,
And tes like gold,
Rising pudince and milk!
Ella Farman, in Wide Awake.

FREDDIE IN THE BRIDGE.

"I S'POSE Gd wants people now-a-days to trust His in danger!" said Freddie Allen, his blue eyes looking like big-sized gentian in October as he asked the question.

"Yes," said his mother, who had been telling him a Bible story of God's deliverance of His people from peril.

"But," added Mrs. Allen, remembering that the comet of the dangerous attracted the dring Fred somewhat as an opened cage door interests an imprisoned robin "but"——and Mrs. Allen stopped. "But she went on: "You must not go into danger needlessly. God wants us to keep out of needless danger all we can." Twenty-four hours passed. It was Monday noon.

"That boy! red-de-rick!"

It was Mrs. Allen's cheery voice that called the name in her irrepressible way, and with such sullable rose higher and higher, like a crow-bibly, mounting a ladder as he gets to the top round, and then hurriedly breaks out into a crow!

"Fred-er-rick!"

Fred was going out of the garden into the road his hands in his pockets, his hat on one side, his mouth puckered up in a whistle. It was his mother to hear his whistle. Silence was ominous. It was likely to mean mischief. "What does mother want?" he asked, suddenly bringing his musical performance to a halt. He turned, and looked up to his mother's window. Seeing——

Allen.

"I will, mother, sure," shouted Fred promptly, for he was as ready with his promises as some people in business are with their assurances.

"And don't come home over the bridge, Fred!"

Fred caught the last injunction as he was turning into the street; but if he had not heard it at all, he knew well enough what his mother's reason was about crossing "the bridge." That bridge was a bad place, and I will tell about it further along. Fred quickened up his mouth again for a fresh whistle, and in the thought of a mitting-party, that was coming off, forgot the bridge and mother's command also.

And if there were not the boys of the mitting-party waiting for him at the street corner!

"Hurrah! here is Fred!" shouted Tom Brown. "Now let's be off! Nuts, boys, nuts!"

"Come on!" said Charlie Thomas, throwing his cap into the air while Tim Dwight offered to stand on his head with any other boy. This proposed celebration of Fred's arrival was very wisely not accepted, and Tim remained standing on his feet, which every boy should be content to do.

They all uttered down upon the "stone-bridge crossing "Deep River." Beyond this prison were the frosty fields, where the nut-trees stood. There they were in their yellow foliage, like big Chinese Mandarins under shining silk dresses. At every gust of wind they would role their robes as if shaking out a kind of laughing welcome, and saying, "Come on, boys! You see we're waiting. Lots of fun here. We can stand an amount of shaking, stoning, climbing and rolling. Only leave me a stump piece to begin life with next spring." Tim Dwight, that harum scarum chap, was ready to accept all invitations, and with legs nimble as a squirrel's sprang into a tree. Shaking a branches, he said he would give them a specimen of infantry-fire in life. Pop! pop! pop! came the nuts, ever thicker, then thicker, faster and still from the "Oh's!" and "Ah's!" it "My!" you mind, Fred said therevere a thousand wounded men under tree. The boys visited one tree after another, remembering their motto: it should be said, and not vouch for up into the trees, when at it the village clock was heard calling out. "One—two—three—four."

"Four o'clock," said Charlie Thomas, "and I would start for home at four, 'st go now," and off he started. One of the others thought they would join him and Fred stood at last alone

Fred stitched his head, and began to wonder what he should do, as his leave of peace was a longer one. He started in whistle. He could do that at least the want of further business. It was a wit-failing resource.

A happy thought came to him. He would call up the road and see als cousin, George Ausdien.

George was standing at the kitchen door, enjoying one of the doughnuts his mother had just cooked. He heard the well-known whistle.

"Fred is coming, mother," said George. "I hear his whistle."

Fred quickly appeared, his cheeks puffed out with whistling, about as large as his pockets stuffed with nuts.

"O Fred!" exclaimed George. "Glad you've come. I have the nicest nut-trees to show you in the hollow, back of the barn."

"Nuts? My pockets are full of them, George."

"Nonsense, Fred. Mine will beat those all out of sight. Come behind the barn."

So away they went, scampering through the open barn door, past the great hay-mows and the big-eyed oxen in the stalls, and out again in a door in the rear. There were the trees! What big ones! They were taller Mandarins than the others that Fred had visited, and with such prim, stately robes of yellow!

"My!" exclaimed Fred. "Those do beat ours. Let's try a shake!"

And the previous programme was repeated, the shaking, stoning, climbing, infantry-firing, and so on.

"George, I mean to empty my pockets and fill up with your nice nuts."

"All right, Fred. I'll help you."

But all this took time, and as Fred's sense of time at last he looked toward the west he saw that the sun was so far down behind Mount Tom that only a bit of that bright ball was left, the last red ember of a smoldering fire.

"Why, George," exclaimed Fred, "I am late, sure! Good night," and away he ran if he had been shot out of a pistol, off he went.

"Which bridge?" was the important question now.

There was the "town bridge," a safe old structure with its stout brown beams and its broad coverings like mold-fashioned sunbonnets. Underneath, the cool waters from the slopes of Mount Tom ran, rushed, leaped and tumbled, making a delightful noise, but safely crossing the bridge was frightened. The old bridge would hold, they knew that. The other bridge was the one by which the railroad crossed Deep River. If Fred took this he could reach home twenty minutes sooner. This bridge was about three hundred feet long. It spanned a deep, dark ravine eighty feet down. At the bottom of the ravine was Deep River, here a narrow and hurtful like that of a man who has shouted himself husky trying to call some one to help him out of a bad place. It did make you dizzy to look down from the bridge at the white, foaming waters. It seems to me while I write that I am looking down over the edge of the bridge, down, down, down

The President's Policy.

The political sky continues to wear the lowering appearance and cabinet, and the outlook generally is ominous. Until within a few days, public opinion seemed almost unanimously to the effect that there was a fair chance of the spoils system receiving its death blow at the hands of the present Congress, but the latest indications are that the old system will be fully upheld. Even the Independent, which has hitherto been one of the most outspoken opponents of the spoils system, now declares that the President has the right to remove any officer whose conduct he may deem prejudicial to the public interests, and that he is not bound to give reasons for his action. The Independent says:

> "The President has the right to remove any officer whose conduct he may deem prejudicial to the public interests, and he is not bound to give reasons for his action. He is responsible to the country for the exercise of this power, and the country must judge whether he has used it for the public good or for personal ends. The Senate has the right to refuse to confirm the appointment of any person whom it may deem unfit for the office, and it is responsible to the country for the exercise of this power. The country must judge whether the Senate has used it for the public good or for personal ends. The power of removal is not a judicial power, but a political power, and it is to be exercised by the President and Senate as political questions are usually decided, by the votes of a majority of those who have the right to vote."

The Independent's position is a very peculiar one, and it is difficult to understand how it can reconcile the above with its former utterances. It is now apparent that the President will not withdraw the nominations of Messrs. Cornell and Merritt, and that the Senate will not confirm them. The Senate has the power to reject the nominations, and it is not likely that it will hesitate to exercise it. The President has the power to withdraw the nominations, and it is not likely that he will hesitate to exercise it

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

DOMESTIC.

The child which took the four-year-old prize at the recent baby show in New York City, died recently of scarlet fever.

A Washington telegram of the 24th says there were 232,104 pensioners on the rolls of the United States, with 91,444 claims for pensions pending.

A BABY show was opened at the Tabernacle, in Chicago, on the 22d, and broke up on the 24th, by the disappearance of the manager and his assistant for parts unknown, with all the receipts of the show. When the day for the distribution of the prizes arrived, it was discovered that the affair was a fraud, and much indignation was expressed by the fond mothers who had placed their children on exhibition.

The residence of Thomas Terrill, at Central City, Col., was burned on the morning of the 20th, and Mrs. Terrill, her two sons, Johnnie and William, and Robert Jeffrey perished in the flames. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary in its origin.

The crop reports received at the Department of Agriculture, to Washington, up to the 27th, indicate that the wheat crop of the country for 1877 was about 360,000,000 bushels, or about 50,000,000 bushels in excess of any previous year. The corn crop was about 1,300,000,000 bushels. The crops of oats and potatoes were correspondingly large. It was estimated that 110,000,000 bushels of wheat can be spared for export.

The dwelling of W. H. Roberts, of Rondout, N. Y., was burned a few nights ago, and Mrs. Roberts and daughter and James Brophy perished in the flames.

At Wilkesbarre, Pa., on the 27th, ten men, convicted of riot in interfering with hotting operations here in August, were sentenced to pay fines varying from $400 to $100, and to imprisonment from thirty days to nine months.

Official statements of 179 savings banks in Massachusetts for 1877 show aggregated deposits of $244,309,604, against $243,360,642 the previous year.

In New York City, on the 28th, Recorder Hackett sentenced a number of liquor dealers, prosecuted by the Society for the Suppression of Vice, to pay fines ranging from $25 to $250 each. Nine of those received also additional sentence of imprisonment for sixty days, and another for thirty days, in the Penitentiary.

Among the suspensions announced, on the 28th, was that of the Real-Estate Savings Bank, of St. Louis. The amount due depositors is $250,000, which, it was thought, will be paid in full.

The United States Treasury held, on the 26th ult., $246,917,250 in United States bonds to secure National Bank circulation, and $13,688,001 to secure public deposits. National Bank circulation outstanding: Currency notes, $320,986,388; gold notes, $1,432,000.

A Springfield (Mass.) telegram of the 29th ult. states that the notorious Northampton Bank robbers, Scott and Bunlop, had been sentenced to twenty years' confinement in the State's Prison.

The loss of property on Western rivers during the past year is set down at $5,500,000. Number of lives lost, seventy-seven; two-thirds of which was by explosions and the burning of steamers.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

A CIRCULAR has been recently posted in the Treasury Department at Washington, under the head of "No vacancies," to the effect that persons honorably discharged from the Military or Naval Service by reason of disability of sickness incurred in the line of duty, shall be preferred to appointment for any office, if found to possess the business capacity necessary for the proper discharge of the duties of such office

The banking firm of Netter & Co., 2 Exchange place, New York City, failed on the 26th; causing considerable excitement in Wall street, as they did a large business in loaning money and gold, and selling "puts," "calls," etc.

Hon. W. W. Heaton, Chief-Justice of the Appellate Court of the Northern District of Illinois, died very suddenly in Chicago, on the morning of the 26th, of paralysis of the heart.

The next Indiana Republican State Convention is to be held on the 5th of June.

The suit of Mrs. Mary A. Oliver, a Washington widow, against ex-Senator Simon Cameron, for alleged breach of promise, was, on the 28th, abandoned several months ago, the latter having waived further proceedings in consideration of the sum of $1,000.

It was understood in Washington, on the 28th, that P. S. Grant, Jr., had been appointed a special Assistant United States District Attorney for the preparation of old and delayed customs cases.

At the Cabinet meeting in Washington, on the 28th, Sec'y McCrary submitted telegraphic reports from officers at the scene of the late riot in El Paso County, Tex., which state that a careful investigation shows that at least one-half the party of rioters who killed Judge Howard and others and attacked the militia were citizens of Mexico. A more detailed report was on its way in the mails, and no action would be taken until its arrival at Washington.

Gen. Geo. W. McCook, of Ohio, died in New York City, at the residence of his cousin, Gen. A. C. McCook, on the 28th.

The Vanderbilt will case has been adjourned until the 20th of February.

FOREIGN.

A correspondent of the London Daily News, in a letter published on the 25th, says the Prevna, at the time of the surrender, was one vast charnel-house. He further states that all Russian prisoners were butchered as fast as they were captured.

The Russian bridge across the Danube at Ibrail has been carried away by drifting ice.

A Bucharest dispatch of the 26th announces the capture and occupation of the Turkish positions at Leskoreis and Kurdjunjlie. About 30,000 Servians were investing Nisch.

The Italian Cabinet has been reconstructed, with M. Depretis as President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

According to a Bucharest telegram of the 27th, the bridge across the Danube at Nikopolis had been destroyed by ice, and that at Sistova was in great danger of destruction.

It was said at Bucharest, on the 27th, that the Russian authorities there had decided to try Osman Pasha before a military court for the slaughter of wounded Russians and Russian prisoners taken in the battles of July 31 and Sept. 11. Several hundred prisoners were known to have been taken by the Turks, but not one could be found when the Russians occupied Plevna. The Turkish prisoners say all were immediately slaughtered.

Austria has protested to Servia that she will not allow the latter to extend hostilities to the districts of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The Russian steamer Russland, recently captured a Turkish transport steamer in the Bosphorus, with 600 troops on board.

The French Government has invited Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, to leave the country.

According to the Paris Moniteur of the 27th, Japan had renounced all her commercial treaties, and reserved the right to revise her customs duties at pleasure.

According to a Berlin dispatch of the 27th, the intervention of England in the Turco-Russian war would be followed by the immediate action of the German Government, which would at once dispatch a fleet to Constantinople and station a corps of observation upon the banks of the Dardanelles.

St. Petersburg papers of the 27th say that the Porte's request for mediation would be declined, because, according to international law, mediation is only possible when solicited by both belligerents; otherwise mediation becomes intervention.

A Belgrade dispatch of the 26th ult. says negotiations were pending for the surrender of Nisch. The reported capture of Pirot by the Servians had been confirmed.

It was reported, on the 30th ult., from Constantinople, that the Russians were approaching Sophia, and that all non-combatants had been ordered to leave.

A Bucharest dispatch of the 30th ult. announces the destruction of another bridge at Petrochenl—the last of the Russian bridges across the Danube.

According to London dispatches of the 30th ult., the War party in England was momentarily increasing in numbers and influence, and it was generally believed that war with Russia would be begun early in the coming spring. It was stated that 80,000 native troops and 30,000 regulars in India had been ordered to be in readiness at short notice to proceed to Europe via Suez and Port Said.

The recent circular of the Porte, asking the mediation of European Powers having failed of its purpose, England alone had undertaken to mediate between the belligerents, but it was believed to be certain that how that offer would be received by Russia.

The French Academy of Moral Science has elected Ralph Waldo Emerson as one of its foreign associates.

Geo. Winks & Co., one of the largest dry-goods importing houses of Montreal, Can., failed, on the 26th ult., with liabilities of $300,000; will pay about seventy-five cents on the dollar.

A TERRIBLE STORY.

Sickening Tale of the Condition of Affairs Prevalent In and Around Plevna After Its Surrender to the Russians—Famished Dogs and Vultures Feeding on Dead and Wounded Soldiers.

A London telegram of the 26th to the Chicago Inter-Ocean says:

Mr. Macgahan, the correspondent of the London Daily News at Plevna, sends a terrible story of the state of things prevailing in and around the captured town. Before the recent great storm Plevna was simply a charnel-house. Modern warfare has no parallel for it, and its horrors can only be compared to those which followed in the sacked villages of Khan or Tyrnovo, as their savage Tartar hordes swept over and deserted Asia.

The fortified ditch at which there are always large numbers is every Turkish town, were fuller on the occasion of the dead and the bodies of the still living wounded. The streets were filled with corpses, and when the patrol took of the dead and crushed the bones between their teeth, the cries and groans of the wounded as they vainly struggled with the dogs, might be heard for miles around. Dead and mangled on all sides. Birds were picking at the skulls, hopping from limb to limb, with beaks and plumage besmeared with human blood and screaming with fiendish delight. Huge fought among themselves and bled strangled with filth for the possession of a mass of human flesh, and the most indescribably horrid spectacle.

In one house about thirty-seven dead and fifty-three wounded Turks were found, some of the former in a half-developed and putrid state, and the wounded in a condition that can be more easily imagined than described. Some of the wounded were able to crawl about, and others had at all events lost of food that were found in the hands of the dead, crowding in with beasts avidity; but those made of thin meat were utterly hopeless, and awaited death in terror with a listless fatalism.

One thousand prisoners were huddled together on the bank of the Vid, and the horrors of their position equaled those of the great plague which ravaged Europe in the fourteenth century. Living and dead were piled together promiscuously in heaps like wood, and rotted away. There were only three carts available for the work, and the corpses plague was unbearable.

Osman's bravery is noticed and blackened by his treatment of the Russian wounded that fell into his hands. The Richard correspondent of the Herald says that a fearful rebellion has overtaken a part of Osman's Army, which was caught on the march by fleet-footed messengers. Fate seems to be striking very prone for the daughter of the Hero-as mentioned, whose corpses lie unburied on the hills around Plevna.

Wrecks on British coasts last year, 1,757.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The annual report of the State Salt-Inspector, for the year ending June 1, transmitted to the Governor, on the 7th, shows that 1,690,867 barrels of salt were inspected, against 1,462,570 during 1876.

Jim Wilkes, a lumberman working in a camp near Cadillac, was killed, on the 23d, by a falling tree.

At Detroit, a few days ago, a young woman, named Harriet Smith, was arrested for the larceny of a pair of slippers. On being taken to the station-house she pretended to be a somnambulist, and she was held over examination, and on the 28th detectives found over $2,000 worth of goods in her room, including laces worth $1,000, silks, Paisley and cassimere shawls, curtains, dress goods, etc. When she learned of the discovery she attempted to hang herself within a handkerchief on the bars of her cell, but was discovered in time to save her.

Deputy-Sheriff Bunker, of Bay City, has been bound over for trial on a charge of neglecting to serve a criminal warrant.

B. S. White's planing mill, at Pine Lake, was entirely destroyed by fire early on the morning of the 23d. Loss, $4,000. Supposed incendiarism.

James G. Terry, a prominent lumberman of East Saginaw, died on the 24th.

On the evening of the 23d, D. N. Sunderland, Collector for John Canfield, of Grand Rapids, was attacked by a highwayman, who threw pepper into his eyes, and got away with $300 of his money.

The annual session of the Michigan Sportsmen's Association for the protection of game and fish will be held at Battle Creek, on the 5th and 6th of February.

Eugene Mallory, son of Wm. H. Mallory, a former resident of Ann Arbor, has recently been convicted of murder, at Chatham, Canada, and sentenced to be hanged.

Ex-Senator Aubrey Thomas was caught between the platform and cars as a passenger train on the Detroit & Milwaukee Railroad, which he was trying to board at Ada, on the evening of the 26th, and fatally injured about the head and chest.

The balance of cash in the State Treasury on the 1st was $905,826.50; receipts during the week ending Dec. 22 were $11,469.80; payments during same time were $13,979.66; balance in Treasury Dec. 29, 1877, $903,375.15; decrease for the week, $2,451.37.

Eleven propellers of the Northern Transit Line, running in connection with the Flint & Pere Marquette Railway Company, averaging a tonnage of 4,700 tons, arrived at Ludington during the week ending Dec. 22 from Milwaukee. They each brought 12,000 bushels of wheat, in all 132,000 bushels, besides considerable rolling freight, flour, pork, etc., for shipment to Europe over the Flint & Pere Marquette and Grand Trunk Lines, via Portland, Maine.

There are 250 pupils in attendance at the Institute for the Blind, at Lansing, Mich.

Charles Mason, of Grand Rapids, was killed at Ashland, Sewage County, on the 26th, by the fall of a pile of lumber.

Thomas B. Spencer, a lumber merchant, at East Saginaw, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, on the 26th. Fred W. Carlisle is the assignee. He was a short notice in possession of by M. L. Badgley, of Springville, N. Y., the principal creditor, under a chattel mortgage. Liabilities are mostly in Eastern parties, and are given at $60,000; assets, $30,000.

At Dundee, on the 25th, John Wesley Harwood quarreled with George Vandeventer, and, going home, procured a dagger for the avowed purpose of killing him. On returning he was unable to find Vandeventer, and started home with his cousin, George Harwood. On the way they quarreled about a revolver, and John Wesley Harwood stabbed his cousin, George Harwood, with the dagger, killing him instantly. The murderer fled, and has not yet been arrested.

Martin E. Hoe, a special policeman, was arrested at Muskegon, on the 26th, on a charge of stealing fifty dollars from a prisoner while conveying him to the lockup.

The State Board of Control and the Marquette, Manistique Railroad Company have compromised upon terms of building the road and work will now go forward without delay. The road was to be built by land-grant aid from the State, which required a bond for the performance of the contract, which the company thus far has been unable to give. By the compromise the State waives the bond, and has the appointment of one of the two Trustees appointed to disburse the money arising from the sale of timber lands, each of which will be the engineers as to the progress of the work. John J. Bagley was appointed Trustee in behalf of the State, and Howard B. Crosby, of New York, for the company. All money from the sale of bonds will go into the hands of these Trustees, and will pay into the hands of the company, and no portion of land is to be paid without the consent of the Trustees. At the completion of this arrangement the contract for constructing the road was taken by W. W. Boman, of New York. He took the members of the Board in charge of the locomotive and car, and they had a short time running over the new road by next Christmas.

The Lumbering Bank and H. A. Woodford's private bank at Manistique, were burglarized, on the night of the 24th ult. The bank lost $2,083 in cash and $3,000 in securities. Woodford also lost $600 of jewelry.

On the 28th ult. the Straits were clear of ice, and all the vessels detained are free to go and come as they please.

The other day, Geo. Hermans, working on the log-jam on Rapid River, near the head of Lake Michigan, which is situated in Delta county, was struck on the head by a sudden piece of timber, and instantly killed. He was a native of Belgium, and leaves a wife and family.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—A Stockton (Mo.) woman danced herself to death, lately.

—A cow woke up a sleeper in Louisville, Ky., and he saw the flames. Cathedral Cathedral was on fire and put it out.

—Twenty-three persons were dangerously poisoned at Whitehaven, Pa., the other day, by eating liver puddings which had been boiled in a copper kettle.

—It isn't healthy to ride horses for your health. A young lady in Denver is quite unsparing it got her habit entangled and was thrown under the horse's feet and trampled to death.

—A man in Steuben County, N. Y., convinced the idea that there was a great cave under his farm, and commenced sinking a shaft in the side of a hill. A few days ago, while working in his shaft alone, a stone weighing 2 tons pounds rolled down and crushed him to death. His absence created anxiety, and a search resulted in finding his body beneath the stone.

—One effect of the late earthquake was to break off a lawyer's argument at Memphis, Tenn. Judge Fisher had just taken the floor in the case of the Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific Railroads vs. the Union Pacific, when suddenly the building trembled, chairs and tables rocked, the lawyer sank back into his seat and the spectators, terrified and dizzy, rushed out of the building.

—The following singular occurrences is recorded by a New Orleans paper. A lady placed her baby, aged five months, in bed, and on leaving the room locked up a terrier dog in it. On returning to the room she found her child in an insensible condition and the dog guarding at the unfortunate little creature's foot, which it had already lacerated to a horrible extent. The child's foot was terribly mangled and amputation was thought to be necessary.

—In Pincerville, Cal., recently, a young German named Charley Roth committed a dreadful suicide. Procuring a glass-powder cartridge and two feet of fuse, he retired to his sleeping apartment. In a minute or two there was a loud and sharp explosion, distinctly heard several blocks away, and when people from the street hurried into the room they found him lying on the pallet entirely headless, an immense cavern hollowed out of the upper part of his head, his teeth and fragments of the skull scattered in every direction, and the walls plastered with bits of flesh and brains. From the middle of the neck upward all was blown to atoms, not a vestige of his head or face remaining. The presumption is that he lay down upon his pallet, took the end of the cartridge into his mouth, connected the fuse with the can, and fired it, and deliberately awaited the explosion. He had been suspected of insanity for quite awhile.

Herr Driesbach.

The death of Driesbach, the ventriloquist, at White Plains, Ohio, has previously been noted. His career was somewhat of a remarkable one, and, though he retired from public notice some fifteen years ago, he is well remembered by the middle-aged generation. A reporter of the Telegraph this morning had a little chat with Yankee Robinson about Driesbach. Robinson is an old showman, has delighted the public himself many a time, and tells many amusing incidents of his professional life. He had not heard of the death of Driesbach, but was glad to talk about Driesbach. Said he: "He was a little before my time, but I knew him very well, and remember some of his exploits. He was the showman in the country to enter a cage of lions, and the very first to introduce beasts in spectacular plays upon the stage. He did it at Barnum's old Museum, in New York, and other similar places."

"How did he get into the business?" asked the reporter.

"The usual way in that line," said Robinson. "He engaged to travel with a menagerie when he was a young fellow, probably as canvasman, or, perhaps, to take care of beasts, and drifted into it. He was after long ahead for business, and so never got anything more out of showing except his salary, but he saved enough to buy himself a route home down in Ohio, and has been keeping a hotel there. Before he obtained his great reputation he used to travel with the show of Waring's Menagerie. In those days, when the lion's cage was entered, it used to be done with the performer's back to the audience, and the other animals removed. A rope used to be stretched to keep the people away from the cage, and there, out in the open field, with the people pressing up at all sides, the lion unprecedented and astonishing feat used to be accomplished. By the way, you recollect the old actor, "Raymond went out of the business with a good deal of money, and what do you think he did with it?"

The reporter disclaimed having any idea about it.

"Why," continued Robinson, "he built a female seminary with it in Putnam County, New York."

"There was another thing Driesbach was original in," said Yankee, after getting through with his chuckle over the idea of devoting menagerie money to feminine education; "that was driving a lion in harness. He did that really as an advertisement."

"He was rather smart in advertising, was he not?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, indeed; one of the cleverest in the business. Years ago, when exhibiting in New York, after a fight in a cage with a tiger, he was taken out covered with blood, and apparently dreadfully injured. There were shrieks from the audience and much horror expressed, until a physician announced that his wounds were not dangerous. For a fortnight after Driesbach appeared with his arm in a sling and his face covered with strips of plaster; then it was discovered that the wounds were imaginary—the gore had come from a sponge filled with raw-milk, and the whole performances was nothing but a clever piece of advertising. I saw him myself some years ago at White Plains, and he was getting very old. I suppose his hard life must have brought him down. So he's dead, you tell me; well, well, it's a curtain down for us all, sometime."

—Pittsburgh Telegraph

Two Children Die of Hydrophobia.

About three months ago two of the children of Mrs. Berlin, residing on Jourdan avenue, near the river, were playing in the green near the residence of their parent, and were attacked by a large dog, the property of a colored woman named Mme. Pierre, and severely bitten. One of the two, a little boy, aged two years, was bitten in the arm and face and the girl in the ankle. The dog, at the request of the owner, was killed immediately and the children attended by a physician. A few days after the children were, it was thought, well, and played around the house as usual. One month later the boy complained of being ill, and, after a few days, died of what was declared by the physician to be hydrophobia. Just one month to the day after the death of the little boy, last Saturday, Victorine told her mother that her leg, at the place where she had been bitten, pained her. Hardly had the child been removed to her bed than she complained of violent pains in the stomach and expressed an ardent desire for water; but as soon as the liquid was handed to her she repulsed it. The next day, whenever anyone would approach, she would complain that their breathing was so violent that it annoyed her extremely, and during the night of her illness, whenever any of the dogs of the house would enter her room she would scream and order it taken away. On Wednesday the pains increased considerably, and, after terrible agony, Victorine died at two o'clock Thursday morning. —New Orleans Picayune.

Strange and Unusual Mishap.

One night this week Capt. J. G. Smith, whose fine residence is located on Elm street, was awakened from his slumbers about 4 o'clock a. m., by a negro tramp knocking at his front door. The Captain got up to respond to the tramp's summons, and he met, took the end of the cartridge into his mouth, connected the fuse with the can, and fired it, and deliberately awaited the explosion. He had been suspected of insanity for quite awhile.

—Detroit Free Press.

Two Children Die of Hydrophobia.

About three months ago two of the children of Mrs. Berlin, residing on Jourdan avenue, near the river, were playing in the green near the residence of their parent, and were attacked by a large dog, the property of a colored woman named Mme. Pierre, and severely bitten. One of the two, a little boy, aged two years, was bitten in the arm and face and the girl in the ankle. The dog, at the request of the owner, was killed immediately and the children attended by a physician. A few days after the children were, it was thought, well, and played around the house as usual. One month later the boy complained of being ill, and, after a few days, died of what was declared by the physician to be hydrophobia. Just one month to the day after the death of the little boy, last Saturday, Victorine told her mother that her leg, at the place where she had been bitten, pained her. Hardly had the child been removed to her bed than she complained of violent pains in the stomach and expressed an ardent desire for water; but as soon as the liquid was handed to her she repulsed it. The next day, whenever anyone would approach, she would complain that their breathing was so violent that it annoyed her extremely, and during the night of her illness, whenever any of the dogs of the house would enter her room she would scream and order it taken away. On Wednesday the pains increased considerably, and, after terrible agony, Victorine died at two o'clock Thursday morning. —New Orleans Picayune.

Strange and Unusual Mishap.

One night this week Capt. J. G. Smith, whose fine residence is located on Elm street, was awakened from his slumbers about 4 o'clock a. m., by a negro tramp knocking at his front door. The Captain got up to respond to the tramp's summons, and he met, took the end of the cartridge into his mouth, connected the fuse with the can, and fired it, and deliberately awaited the explosion. He had been suspected of insanity for quite awhile.

—Detroit Free Press.

Herr Driesbach.

The death of Driesbach, the ventriloquist, at White Plains, Ohio, has previously been noted. His career was somewhat of a remarkable one, and, though he retired from public notice some fifteen years ago, he is well remembered by the middle-aged generation. A reporter of the Telegraph this morning had a little chat with Yankee Robinson about Driesbach. Robinson is an old showman, has delighted the public himself many a time, and tells many amusing incidents of his professional life. He had not heard of the death of Driesbach, but was glad to talk about Driesbach. Said he: "He was a little before my time, but I knew him very well, and remember some of his exploits. He was the showman in the country to enter a cage of lions, and the very first to introduce beasts in spectacular plays upon the stage. He did it at Barnum's old Museum, in New York, and other similar places."

"How did he get into the business?" asked the reporter.

"The usual way in that line," said Robinson. "He engaged to travel with a menagerie when he was a young fellow, probably as canvasman, or, perhaps, to take care of beasts, and drifted into it. He was after long ahead for business, and so never got anything more out of showing except his salary, but he saved enough to buy himself a route home down in Ohio, and has been keeping a hotel there. Before he obtained his great reputation he used to travel with the show of Waring's Menagerie. In those days, when the lion's cage was entered, it used to be done with the performer's back to the audience, and the other animals removed. A rope used to be stretched to keep the people away from the cage, and there, out in the open field, with the people pressing up at all sides, the lion unprecedented and astonishing feat used to be accomplished. By the way, you recollect the old actor, "Raymond went out of the business with a good deal of money, and what do you think he did with it?"

The reporter disclaimed having any idea about it.

"Why," continued Robinson, "he built a female seminary with it in Putnam County, New York."

"There was another thing Driesbach was original in," said Yankee, after getting through with his chuckle over the idea of devoting menagerie money to feminine education; "that was driving a lion in harness. He did that really as an advertisement."

"He was rather smart in advertising, was he not?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, indeed; one of the cleverest in the business. Years ago, when exhibiting in New York, after a fight in a cage with a tiger, he was taken out covered with blood, and apparently

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

MY AVIARY.

Through my tenth window, in the wintry weather,
My airy aviaries the river shine—
I watch the seals feed in the frosty feather,
Where live the denizens finned his dripping coat.

The gull, high floating, like a sheep unbidden
Leas the lone water waft him as it will.
The duck, pond-bounded in a rustic maiden,
Paddles and plunges, busy and still.

I see the lumbering seals in council sitting
The wise head bowing, pondering long and
While overhead the lumbered ducks are flitting
And leave the lately conclave in debate.

Those weights ascension in their breasts rendering
Whose deeper meaning science never learns,
Still at some favored riddle look dissolving,
The speechless seals and ducks.

But when along the waves the shrill north-easter
Shrieks along through the labating ocean's
The seals forsake their swamp.
The pale bird, kindling like a thought in flame
When some wild sudden shakes the vitous air,

Flaps from the leaden wave in fierce rejoicing,
Feels heaven's drunk lightning thrill his torpid
Now on the cloud his whistling plumage pruning,
Now whistling shoots in circling curves.

Such is guilt a gentleman of leisure,
Less loathed than feathered, bagged, you'll find
His victor silence; his opulent pleasure;
Not lady look at, and—good gracious!

What of one duck? He has some high instincts—
H. Greet the Canvas-back, My Lord the Beast—
And and Anser—both served up by dozens,
At Reuben's Anchor, half-way to Nahant.

As for himself, he seems alert and thriving—
Grabs up a lying somebody what, who knows)
Under the water's weeds! Look quick! there's one just down—
Flop! Splash! his white breast glistens down he goes!

And while he's under just about a minute
I take advantage of the fact to say
He only moves me as victims in a
The cunning robber's worthless fore to prey.

He knows you!" sportsmen" from suburban alleys,
Knows every lazy, shiftless lout that sallies
Forth to wage battle—he knows us to "beat."

I watch you with a—
Well pleased to discount your proclaimed luck:
For Mercantile Railway Company manager—
ing a tonnage of 4,700 tons, arrived at Ludington during the week ending Dec. 22 from Milwaukee. They each brought 12,000 bushels of wheat, in all 132,000 bushels, besides considerable rolling freight, flour, pork, etc., for shipment to Europe over the Flint & Pere Marquette and Grand Trunk Lines, via Portland, Maine.

Shrewd is our lord; and easy to outwit him!
Sharp is the outlook; time and place and eyes;
Still, he is mortal and a shot may hit him,
Our colored always miss how'll he true.

Look! there's a young one, dreaming out of danger;
Near a flat log come floating down the stream;
Stays unsuspected upon the harmless stranger;
Ah! we all change—he vanishes as they seem!

Ballad: a leaden shower his breast has shattered;
Vainly he flutters, not again to rise;
He only whirls! plumes along the waves are scattered;
Hushed is the song that braved the teamest lies.

Hearts his comrades high above him flying
To seek their nests among the island reeds;
Strong as the strength of all tragic things is silent,
Washed by the crimson wavelets as they bleed.

O Thou who cares for the feathered creatures,
Cared Thou the sickness sufferer's rosy forget?
Or is The dread accomplished's gaze so narrow
He sees no long column nature The creatures dieth?

Poor gentle guest, by nature kindly cherished,
A world grows dark with thy untimely death;
One little gone—the universe has perished,
Wrecked by the idle duel who stole thy breath!

Is this the whole sad story of creation,
Layed in its beating with a fear and error—
One glimpse of day, then black annihilation
A small mound—and the sunshine still.

Give back our faith, ye mystery-solving Sisters!
Bobe to once more in Heaven-conquering sweets!
Hamper was dreaming Eden with her spinning,
The story content with its cross and beads.

How often gazing where a bird rejoices,
Reeling on the sunny, shining, with its tide,
I lose myself in strange, fortunes physics
And lost a sea-foot in a sea-foot's wake.

From rain, hail, snow in feathery mantle matted,
Close-type, strong-limbed, with keenest sense to hear
My mate soft murmuring, who with plumes unruffled
Where'er I wander still is nesting near;

The great blue hollow like a garment over me,
Space all unreserved, unrecorded time;
While seas with inward eye-sweep on before me
Thought's outward train in worthless paste-

—A voice recalls me—from my window turning
I find myself a plumeless biped still;
Nobody, no class, no age—I'm simply specimen-
In fact with nothing birds-like but my quill.

—Lucy Hooper Perkins, in Atlantic Monthly.

MINE HOST'S STORY.

"Well, yes, the Indians did get pretty close to us, but I never heard of more than one being seen here," replied mine host, an intelligent young farmer in the Town of L——, one of the border settlements of Minnesota. "But there has been so much written about that the people don't want to hear any more stories, I fear."

I thought I saw a merry twinkle in his eyes as he looked at his wife, a very pretty little woman, too young to look matronly, but not too young to be the neatest, prettiest little wife in the world.

"Oh, tell it by all means!" I urged, filling my pipe from the plethoric pouch which he offered me.

"Well—I will," said he, after a moment's thought, during which time his real became conveyed in a cloud of blue smoke; but I must be brief. You see, it was a much wilder spot about here than it is now. The village was simply a few straggling huts, yet improving rapidly. This house was just completed, and we were moving in our new furniture, and where you see all those well-cultivated farm-houses was no unbroken waste of land.

"Carringsford—John Carringsford—owned this place then. He came from the East, where fortune had frowned upon him. Comparatively poor in his native city, he was reckoned in these parts, where there was more land than money to buy, a perfect nabob. He was just the least bit proud of his position, putting on considerable style, yet he was a very good sort of a man at heart.

"He had a daughter—a young lady of rare personal beauty and accomplishments. To tell you that Maud Carringsford's hand was sought by nine-tenths of the young men about here, would be repeating what you have already surmised. At first Maud treated her awkward and bashful, yet true-hearted admirers, with unfailing disdain; but as time wore on she became accustomed to her new and wild life, and she gradually lowered her aspirations to a proper level.

"Her father, however, was not so easily influenced. You know the adage about teaching an old dog new tricks. John Carringsford had not quite shaken off the dust of city life, and to marry his daughter to one of those country louts, as he termed them, was not to be thought of for a moment. You can guess he made it quite unpleasant for those young upstarts for Maud's hand. They dropped off one by one, until only Charley Merriman was left. He was not frightened by John Carringsford's dignity. He had seen something of city life, although he never prided himself enough upon the fact to tell it. He had been in the West long enough to get some of the polish rubbed off, but he had not forgotten everything. He was the least objectionable of all Maud's suitors, but he wore cowhide boots and flannel shirts, and all those sort of things, and John Carringsford couldn't get him out.

"Charlie understood all this, but he considered her too valuable a prize to relinquish without some efforts, and John Carringsford grew to like him after awhile for his perseverance. No doubt he would have given Maud to Charlie if a new aspirant had not appeared in the person of a very elegant young man named Silas Wheeler.

"He was newcomer was quite a enviously about here. He was got by regardless of expense, and to hear him talk one would suppose that he was abundantly able to buy the whole of Minnesota and the northern tier of counties in Iowa.

"John Carringsford was taken with him at once, and he was taken with Carringsford. He became a frequent visitor at Carringsford's. It was not hard to guess that Maud was the attraction; neither was it difficult to see that John Carringsford was pleased that it was so. He gave Wheeler every encouragement, while Maud did not repulse him.

"This looked rather blue for Charlie Merriman. His friends pitied him, but he only laughed at them.

"'Don't worry about me,' he would say. 'I am willing to wait.'

"About this time the Indians began to be troublesome. Reports of their outrages were brought in every day or two. Settlers, fleeing from their blockheads, came in singly, or by dozens and scores; and at night the sky to the north and the west of us was lit up by lurid glares, which told too plainly that the red hordes were at their desolating work. We made preparations to defend to the last the homes we had labored so hard to build up.

"John Carringsford was as much alarmed as any one, and our common danger made him one of us. Not so with the suitors, Silas Wheeler.

"'I am not going to stand here to be scalped,' said he to Carringsford one day, when the rumors were more appalling than ever. 'If you want to risk your lives with these bunkins, of course I cannot prevent it, but I protest against endangering Maud's life by such foolhardiness.'

"'What would you do?' asked Carringsford, influenced by Wheeler's words.

"'I would marry, Maud and take her to a place of safety.'

"John Carringsford did not reply immediately. The fear that this child might fall into the hands of the merciless savages had frowned him more than a little, and he had thought of this same plan a hundred times. After some reflection he said:

"'Set the time, Mr. Wheeler.'

"To-morrow evening,' replied Silas. 'I would have liked a more pretentious wedding than this will be, and to have on so short notice, but under the circumstances, it is useless now to think of it.'

"Charlie Merriman overheard this conversation. He was coming to the house to contradict some false rumors of the morning, but hearing Mr. Carringsford and Mr. Wheeler in conversation, he hesitated about interrupting them.

"'So far along as that!' he muttered, when he heard the plan: 'I must see Maud at once.'

"He slipped softly away from the door, and went round to the back of the house. He found Maud, and they talked long and earnestly together. Then Charlie hastened away.

"Short as the time was, when the hour arrived, everything was in readiness for the wedding. To the pressure of a few invited guests, Silas Wheeler led Maud Carringsford to the altar.

"Probably not one person in that room thought of Indians at that moment. All eyes were turned toward the bride and bridegroom, and silence reigned there. Just as the pastor opened his lips to commence the ceremony, a loud shrilling whoop smote the ears of the inmates of that room; and the next instant a hideously-painted savage leaped in through the window screaming and yelling like a thousand demons.

"The little party were taken so completely by surprise, that they fled panic-stricken from the house, supposing that they were surrounded.

"When the men recovered from their momentary fright, they rushed back into the house, but the savage was gone. He had accomplished his object, however: pretty Maud Carringsford was a prisoner. So was Silas Wheeler.

"'God spare her!' prayed the father. 'God save them both!'

"After this outburst of prayer, he turned to the men who stood about him, and shouted, 'To the rescue!'

"At the end of another five minutes, a dozen mounted men were galloping away through the darkness, with John Carringsford at their head.

"They searched all night, but found no trace of the savage, or of the captives. About daylight they rode back to John Carringsford's. Charlie Merriman and Maud stood at the door.

"'I have brought her back to you,' said Charlie.

"Carringsford's joy was too great for utterance, but he wrung Charlie's hand, and then clasped Maud to his breast.

"Charlie was overwhelmed with questions, but he quietly answered:

"'While you were planning I was executing. I had a good mile the start of you. Poor Wheeler! I fear we shall never see him again! I tried to catch up with him, but it was no use.'

"Well, we never did see Wheeler again. I don't think Maud cared much for the loss, however, for she soon married—the Indian."

"'Good heavens!' I exclaimed; "is it possible?"

"Yes," replied mine host, "His name was Charlie Merriman.

The revelation came upon me so unexpectedly, that at first I did not "see the point." It soon crept through my head, however, and I laughed at Charlie's ruse.

"What of Wheeler? I do not quite see that yet."

He fled from the house the moment the supposed Indian appeared, mounting his horse and dashed away. By some strange overnight he took the wrong direction, and he rarely checked him until he felt sure he would not venture back. I have since learned that he reached the settlement without mishap. I have no doubt he believes to this day, he was chased by a real savage."

"And Charley—does he still live about here?" I asked.

"I have been telling you my own story," replied mine host. Allow me to introduce to you Maud Carringsford Merriman, the heroine of the only real Indian scare that Minnesota ever experienced. She married happily."—Cricket on the Hearth.

Destitution and Suffering in New York—A Sad Case.

Perhaps never in the history of New York have the streets presented such a many homeless, ragged wretches who appeal to the passer-by for a little pity. There are 200 people there every night, of all degrees of wretchedness. They all sleep on the bare boards, without mattress, pillows or sheets. I have not tasted food for the last twenty-eight hours.'

"'You seem to be an educated man?'

"'Oh, I am, and can speak French,' and he continued the conversation in very good French. He had acquired the language, he said, at Columbia College, where he was educated, between 1830 and 1835. Old Prof. Anthon, from whose class he graduated, was dead, and so were all his classmates and fellow-students whom he had sought. He had been a school teacher for many years, but since 1852 had been in the painting business in Erie, Pa. Through unfortunate real-estate transactions he was ruined, the Sheriff finally foreclosing a mortgage upon his house, and thus rendering him, his wife and two little girls homeless. While his wife and his children found shelter with her father, who has a little farm, he wandered to New York in the hope of again improving his fortunes. He had found it impossible to procure any employment, although he had walked from one end of the city to the other. Hitherto he had been too proud to write to his father-in-law for aid, for the latter was a very poor man himself, and now his only hope is to return to Erie, Pa., where he may at least be saved from utter starvation. He has no longer strength to walk all the way, as he first contemplated doing, and must depend upon charity to reach his home. N. Y. Herald.

Two young American attorneys were wrangling for a long time before Judge Knox, of Virginia, over a point of law. His Honor rendered his decision, and the "sprig" who had lost impudently remarked, "Your Honor, there is a growing opinion that all the fools are not dead yet." "Certainly," answered the Court, with unruffled good humor; "I quite agree with you, Mr. Blank, and congratulate you upon your healthy appearance."

Lickslingle's Umbrella.

"Low me yer umbrella a minnit!"

Such was the exclamation of Jones as he rushed into the office of Squire Lickslingle, yesterday.

"Certainly, certainly," said the Squire, laying down his newspaper and taking a fresh chew of fine-cut, "glad to accommodate you," and he opened a drawer in his desk and began rummaging through his legal forms and blanks.

Jones darted into the corner, seized the green gingham relic, and was preparing to fly with it.

"Stop, stop, stop!" said the Squire, raising his hand majestically; "not too fast, young man. Wait till I make out the necessary papers."

Jones dropped the umbrella. On his corn, of course. After pumping his lame foot up and down, and tying a hard knot in his countenance, and undoing it again, he echoed:

"The necessary papers?"

"Yes," said the Squire, sternly, "the necessary papers," and he continued his search among the blanks.

The right one found, he filled it out in a jiffy and handed it to Jones to sign.

As J

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, - - 1878.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Jan. 11, 1878.

Anybody who takes an interest in a gun must admit there is less at the head of caps, bugarlies, the chronic wing shot, who has probably shot more snipes than any one else in the business in the country. Will the Captain, having come out victorious in all the ordinary modes of conquering and sighing, like Alexander, for new worlds to conquer, has invented and on Tuesday last completed a novel machine of his skill, by which he gained much applause, a goodly investment of coin and pone, and $1,500 by wager. What he did was of no particular use, if anyone, and it is fair to say to the ordinary inhabitant of the globe, that he'd be willing to pass it any way he chose, by walking a million miles in a million hours, or wandering a hair, or throwing double somersaults over the backs of a dozen elephants, or attempting any other of the thousand and one eccentricities which so delight intoxicated humanity, and so I do not know as I have any reason to grumble.

The match which, I may tell you was "against time," in spinning pigeons, and consisted in Captain Bogardus' most effort, for the wager above named, to break 5,000 glass balls in 500 consecutive minutes. It took place at the Hippodrome, and lasted from a little before 3 in the afternoon till about 11 o'clock at night, during which time the marksman raised his gun proper to his shoulder 5,000 times, and in nearly that number of shots at the rose little blue glass globes that were sprung into the air from traps 50 feet away. Bogardus is a man of enormous lungs and power, but, the task was evidently too much for human endurance, and when the ticking fingers of the 5,000th ball had fallen to the ground, amid the cheers of the audience, he hardly strength enough left to get out of the building. He did it in a wonderful dealing plaster to wounds and bruises, and I presume, the magic in the oil that will soon be ready to do it all over again if any one can be found to put it up the same money.

"As happy as a lord" is not a good figure of speech for New York just at present. A lord, for the most part, is in a state of mind quite the reverse of happy, on account of the sudden marriage and disappearance of the father, Thomas Lord, who is a very young spark of 70 summers and who they now pray to have adjudged insane. Whether the mere fact of the old gentleman's having committed an execrable folly would in itself have been sufficient to cause so much excitement among the second generation, is hardly a profitable inquiry. The governing fact in the present case is, that the venerable Thomas is worth something like a million and a half of dollars, which the young Lords have doubtless been regarding with a lively interest for some years past, and which they now justly imagine that they stand a splendid chance of not getting, if time is given the dashing young widow who has captured their venerable sire to make sensible arrangements for securing it to herself. So all the children, simultaneously inspired with a filial gratitude as beautiful as it is touching, have rushed into court to have their parent torn from the arms of his fond bride and incased in a straight jacket. It is not yet decided whether they will be able to get the proper order of the court for this purpose. If they do, the next thing to do will be to watch their baronial for Thomas has elected to pass his honeymoon in parts unknown, and so far cannot be heard from.

The new year came into this section of country with one of the loveliest days that could be desired for a general holiday. A few of the circuit old maid antiquos whose pride it is to ignore all festivities and work straight along through everything, passed the bright hours behind the shutters of their offices, but the city in general had a deserted appearance so far as traffic is concerned, and was alive with white cravats and new silk hats, symbols of the pursuits to which the day was devoted.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as the seed as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the counter both of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market; Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashmere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In these hard times, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloaks for misses and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Miscellaneous.

Farms for Sale or Trade.

Address the Cooper Farm,

ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

WATER AND RAIL.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

Address W. H. BRIGHAM,
Commissioner.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods.
Carpeting.
Oil Cloths,
Matting, &c.

People who trade in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest jobbing dry Goods and Carpet houses in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

will be forwarded for approval, and an order, either by mail or telegraph will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Not a Wilderness by any Means

Buying a Pew.

"Now that I want," said Mr. Brown, the carpenter, and he walked in.

He fell on them all on a row just as soon as he got his money, and then took off his coat and went to work. He had three of the best chairs out before the people noticed what he was at. Then a tenor singer with a cornet was laid on his shoulder, and in three minutes he knew what he was doing.

"There is here a lawn party," said he, "and I want to get the under the basket factory tree."

"But you can't take it out of here," said Deacon Doolittle.

"Yes, I do. I'll go right out that middle door and I'll rip the back out. We'll swing it round endways and jerk it out through the partition."

Then the back was ripped out of his coat. He was having round endways, and he went jerked out through the partition, and he didn't have change enough to purchase a lemon sandwich after he paid for the damages of that pew.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER & Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY, AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INVITE THE ATTENTION OF

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

TO OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB.

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly executed in workmanlike order.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and ... Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. S. PURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever in all ... a

Very Cheap,

... we will tell you that price. We have on hand a full assortment of

Dry Goods.
Clothing.
Hats, Caps
And Crockery.

Also an assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or ...

Remember the Place.

One door west of the ... Hotel, on the east side of ... street.

See & Washburn.

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and bases for its support the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

... the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

... fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

... the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC., ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers, 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

We carry the largest stock of Goods in the State. Orders for TEAS PER 1/2 lb. &c., filled promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(27) (C.T.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$7 00.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1250 pages—$3.

Family Bibles, $3 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private—at lowest rates.

Address, B. B. BALCH,
Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

Also

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tugs ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which are seen myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers!

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of Superior quality. No Change in the inferior grades of Inks made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly of London, England). 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO And 13 Dorrier Street, New York.

Curious Facts About Worms.

From observations extending over a number of years, M. Heusen is led to the conclusion that infertile undersoil is rendered valuable by the action of worms in two ways, viz., by the opening of passages for the roots into the deeper parts, and by the living of these passages with humus. This will be more fully understood from the following facts regarding the life-habits of the worm (Lumbricus terrestris) given in M. Heusen's paper in the Zeitschrift fur wissenschaftliche Zoologie.

It is known that the adult animals in wet weather come up to the surface by night, and, with their hinder end in their tube, search the ground round about. They then draw whatever vegetable material they can find into their tubes—fallen stems and leaves and small branches. In the morning one then finds little heaps of plant-fragments projecting at various parts of the surface, and each of them penetrating the tube of a worm. On closer examination it is found that the leaves have each been rolled together by the worm, and then drawn into the tube in such a way that the leaf-stalk projects. The portion of the leaf in the tube is moist and softened, and only in this state are plants consumed by the worm. There are distinct indications that the worm gnaws them, and after some days the meal is ended. The food is never drawn deeper down in the ground. In digging the ground at various seasons it was only very rarely that plant remains were found in the subsoil, and probably they got there by accident.

With reference to the structure of the worm-tubes, some interesting facts were established in these researches. In humus their character is difficult to make out, owing to the looseness of the mass; in sand they proceed almost vertically downward, three, four, or even six feet, whereupon they often extend some distance horizontally; more frequently, however, they terminate without bending. At the end of the tube the worm is found with its head upward, while round about him the tube is lined with small stones. On the sandy wall of the tube one observes more or less numerous black protuberances, which make the sand fertile. These are the secretions of the worm, which, after being removed out of a branched tube, are found, next morning, replaced by fresh matter. They are observed, after a few days, when a worm is put in a vessel with clean sand, and allowed to make a tube for itself. Older, abandoned tubes, are pretty regularly lined with the earth formed by the worm, and some passages are densely filled with black earth. The black substance appears to diffuse some, what into the sand.

In about half of the tubes, not quite nearly made, M. Heusen found roots of the plants growing on the surface, the most vigorous developments, running to the end of the tube and giving off fine radicles from the walls, especially beautiful in the case of leafy vegetables and corn. Indeed, such tubes must be very favorable to the growth of roots. There is no other place where roots can run a tube it can, following the direction of gravity, grow on in the moist air of the passage, without meeting with the least resistance, and it finds moist, loose, fertile earth in abundance.

The question whether all roots found in the undersoil have originally grown in the tubes of worms cannot be answered with certainty. It is certain that the roots of some plants penetrate themselves in the sand, but not to great depths. M. Heusen is of the opinion that the roots, and in general such root-forms as grow with a thick point can force a path for themselves, while the fine-and flexible suction-roots keep chiefly to obtaining a path into the depths other than what has been previously made for them. Roots of one year's growth especially can penetrate deep into the subsoil only where there are earth-worms.

A microscopical comparison of the earth deposited by the worm shows that it is like the two-year leaf mold prepared by gardeners for the filling of flower pots. Most of the plant-cells are destroyed; still there are present some cells and shreds of tissue, browned and friable, mixed with many sand grains and brown organic fragments. The chemical composition of the worm-earth shows such a similarity to that of fertile humus ground. Its fertility, therefore, cannot be doubted, though direct experiments with it are wanting.

With regard to the numerical value of this action of the earth-worm, the following observations by St. Heusen afford some information:

Two worms were put into a glass pot one and a half foot in diameter, which was filled with sand to the height of one and a half foot, and the surface covered with a layer of fallen leaves. The worms were quickly at work, and after one and a half month many leaves were down three inches deep into the tubes; the surface was completely covered with humus-casts, which make the sand fertile. These are the secretions of the worm, which, after being removed out of a branched tube, are found, next morning, replaced by fresh matter. They are observed, after a few days, when a worm is put in a vessel with clean sand, and allowed to make a tube for itself. Older, abandoned tubes, are pretty regularly lined with the earth formed by the worm, and some passages are densely filled with black earth. The black substance appears to diffuse some-what into the sand.

In about half of the tubes, not quite nearly made, M. Heusen found roots of the plants growing on the surface, the most vigorous developments, running to the end of the tube and giving off fine radicles from the walls, especially beautiful in the case of leafy vegetables and corn. Indeed, such tubes must be very favorable to the growth of roots. There is no other place where roots can run a tube it can, following the direction of gravity, grow on in the moist air of the passage, without meeting with the least resistance, and it finds moist, loose, fertile earth in abundance.

The question whether all roots found in the undersoil have originally grown in the tubes of worms cannot be answered with certainty. It is certain that the roots of some plants penetrate themselves in the sand, but not to great depths. M. Heusen is of the opinion that the roots, and in general such root-forms as grow with a thick point can force a path for themselves, while the fine-and flexible suction-roots keep chiefly to obtaining a path into the depths other than what has been previously made for them. Roots of one year's growth especially can penetrate deep into the subsoil only where there are earth-worms.

A microscopical comparison of the earth deposited by the worm shows that it is like the two-year leaf mold prepared by gardeners for the filling of flower pots. Most of the plant-cells are destroyed; still there are present some cells and shreds of tissue, browned and friable, mixed with many sand grains and brown organic fragments. The chemical composition of the worm-earth shows such a similarity to that of fertile humus ground. Its fertility, therefore, cannot be doubted, though direct experiments with it are wanting.

With regard to the numerical value of this action of the earth-worm, the following observations by St. Heusen afford some information:

Two worms were put into a glass pot one and a half foot in diameter, which was filled with sand to the height of one and a half foot, and the surface covered with a layer of fallen leaves. The worms were quickly at work, and after one and a half month many leaves were down three inches deep into the tubes; the surface was completely covered with humus-casts, which make the sand fertile. These are the secretions of the worm, which, after being removed out of a branched tube, are found, next morning, replaced by fresh matter. They are observed, after a few days, when a worm is put in a vessel with clean sand, and allowed to make a tube for itself. Older, abandoned tubes, are pretty regularly lined with the earth formed by the worm, and some passages are densely filled with black earth. The black substance appears to diffuse some-what into the sand.

Counting, when an opportunity offered, the open worm-tubes in his garden, M. Heusen found on an average nine in the square foot. In 0.15 square meters two or three worms were found in the deeper layers, each weighing three grammes—thus in the hectar there would be 133,000 worms with 400 kilos. weight. The weight of the secretions of a worm in twenty-four hours was 0.5 grammes. While these numbers are valid only for the locality referred to, they give an idea of the action of this worm in all places where it occurs.

The assertion that the earth-worms gnaw roots is not proved by any facts; roots gnawed by worms were never met with, and the contents of the intestine of the worms never included fresh pieces of plants. The experience of gardeners that the earth-worm injures not plants may be based on the uncovering or mechanical tearing of the roots.

"Let us take a retrospective glance," concludes the author, "over the action of the worm in relation to the fertility of the ground. It is clear that no new manure material can be produced by it, but it utilizes that which is present in various ways. 1. It tends to effect a regular distribution of the natural manure material of fields, inasmuch as it removes leaves and loose plants from the force of the wind and fixes them. 2. It accelerates the transformation of this material. 3. It distributes it through the ground. 4. It opens up the undersoil for the plant-roots. 5. It makes this fertile."—Nature.

Relative Importance of Studies.

Evidently the most useful knowledge, for without it all other knowledge would be worthless, is that which teaches us to escape the perils by which in every side we are constantly beset. Here Nature has done much, and our every-day experience compels us to be constantly learning the lessons of self-preservation. Yet how imperfect our knowledge in this department is, may be judged from the fact that very few of us can be said to be in perfect health. And it is indeed surprising, that many people seem rather to glory in their ignorance. A man who will blush to admit his ignorance on some point of heathen mythology will yet confess that he does not know the functions of the liver or lungs.

Next in order of importance is that knowledge which enables us to earn a livelihood. Here, too, science is of supreme importance; for, do we but shovel dirt, the labors of the chemist, physicist, mathematician, mechanic, and perhaps astronomer, were required in collecting the material, and constructing the instrument with which we work. Hardly is there any occupation of civilized life, that is not directly dependent upon science.

Of third importance, because one only by the two foregoing does it become of value, is the knowledge of the proper way in which to rear the young. If the sciences of psychology and physiology were better, we do not say perfectly, understood, how much better physically, intellectually and morally, would be the condition of future generations!

Of fourth importance is the knowledge of one's duties as a citizen; and to acquire this, a knowledge of the elements of sociology is necessary. This can well be obtained by the study of organized history; not the history that treats of battles and defeats, that is prolific in names and dates, but that which treats of manners, customs, morals.

Of fifth and least importance, comes the knowledge by which we may fill our relaxations and pleasures which fill our leisure time and render life more enjoyable. Under this head comes an acquaintance with language, literature, art, music and the like. But here, too, science is at least essential; for more and more is a thorough knowledge of acoustics becoming necessary to the skilled musician, and the best artist is he who most closely translates Nature. The great poet is of necessity a good psychologist; then, too, what poetry can appeal more strongly to the imagination than that long streak of trap-rock, those parallel scratches on yonder ledge, that handful of siliceous earth, or piece of chalk?—N. Y. School Journal.

The Success of Failure.

Nothing succeeds so well as success; at least that is the common opinion. But those familiar with biographies know that not unfrequently nothing is more successful than failure. An incident in the life of Lord Tenterden, a distinguished English Judge, illustrates this apparent paradox.

In 1776, Charles Abbott, the son of a barber, was a demure, prim lad, attending the King's school in Canterbury. He was quite a favorite with the clergymen of the cathedral, who were his father's customers. Through their influence the boy hoped to receive the appointment of a chorister in the cathedral choir, in which there was a vacant place. The boy who is so lucky as to receive the appointment will be well provided for, and in the course of time his salary will be seventy pounds per annum.

The lad had a thickness of voice at which the choir master, shook his head, adding thereby to the father's nervousness. There was another boy trying for the place, who was said to have an exceedingly sweet-toned voice. Each boy had his friends, and the humble voices of Canterbury were divided as to the merits of the two candidates.

On the third day, Charley chanted before all the clergy of the cathedral the Old Hundredth. Then the other boy sang. He had sucked a new-laid egg and was sustained by self-confidence. He sang with such ease and compass as to delight the judges.

In ten minutes after the trial Charley ran into his father's shop, and, sitting down on the floor, sobbed out the news to his failure.

That failure was his first step in life's success.

Fifty years later, the Chief Justice of England, accompanied by a friend, attended service in Canterbury Cathedral. When the service had ended, he said to his friend:

"Do you see that old man there among the choristers? In him you behold the only person I ever envied. When at school in this town we were candidates together for a chorister's place. He obtained it, and if I had gained my wish, he might have been accompanying you as Chief Justice, and pointing me out as his old school fellow, the singing man."

It was Charley Abbott, the disappointed barber's son, now Lord Tenterden, who thus recalled his early failure. It sent him back to school, and as a "poor scholar" to Oxford. He worked hard, and attained unto honor. —Youth's Companion.

Debts in India.

The Kowray family, patels of Parnez, were of high consideration in the country. Twelve years ago the head of the family burrowed 200 rupees. He paid 336 rupees, was sued for the balance, 385 rupees, and the family estate, about 30 acres, sold, and the works as a laborer. Balaji borrowed 8 rupees and repaid 15 rupees. The creditor objected to this as 15 rupees and sold in execution twelve bullocks and eighty acres of land, buying the properly in himself. Shirpal borrowed a mound of grain (worth at famine prices 4 rupees) and returned it. Was dunned for interest and compelled to pass a bond for 10 rupees, bearing interest. Again dunned, paid 10 rupees in cash and gave a fresh bond for 25 rupees. Then labored for the creditor to the amount of 20 rupees, but was sued on the last bond, and his house and garden sold in execution for 6 rupees. Rooji like Avadji gave a bond for 25 rupees for a balance of shop account, and has since had a few necessaries, but no cash. Has given the sanker one field, eight bullocks and four cows. Has executed successive bonds for 50, 100, 200, 300, 350 rupees, and is now said to owe 500 rupees. Rhuji sent security for Laximon for 8 rupees, the price of clothes bought by the latter, who paid 3 rupees and then left the village. The sanker coming down on Ranji, he was obliged, three years ago, to execute a bond for 22 rupees. Last year he was sued on this, and a decree passed for 58 rupees, inclusive of costs and interest. To avoid execution, has paid 22 rupees in cash and given a new bond for 72 rupees. Jan, a very old widow, borrowed 150 rupees many years ago for the wedding of a son and daughter. Some years ago, for this debt she executed a mortgage bond for 200 rupees, and gave possession of her house. Soon forgeres, with a well. The sanker has had the entire product of the land ever since, and will neither restore the land nor give an account. Twenty years ago Audh borrowed 17 rupees in cash and a mound of grain. Has paid at different times in liquidation 567 rupees, and has executed many bonds, two of which, for 875 rupees, are now outstanding. The inquiries of the commission failed much light on the causes of this lamentable state of things. Foremost is the skilled musician, and the best artist is he who most closely translates Nature. The great poet is of necessity a good psychologist; then, too, what poetry can appeal more strongly to the imagination than that long streak of trap-rock, those parallel scratches on yonder ledge, that handful of siliceous earth, or piece of chalk?—N. Y. School Journal.

The Success of Failure.

Nothing succeeds so well as success; at least that is the common opinion. But those familiar with biographies know that not unfrequently nothing is more successful than failure. An incident in the life of Lord Tenterden, a distinguished English Judge, illustrates this apparent paradox.

In 1776, Charles Abbott, the son of a barber, was a demure, prim lad, attending the King's school in Canterbury. He was quite a favorite with the clergymen of the cathedral, who were his father's customers. Through their influence the boy hoped to receive the appointment of a chorister in the cathedral choir, in which there was a vacant place. The boy who is so lucky as to receive the appointment will be well provided for, and in the course of time his salary will be seventy pounds per annum.

The lad had a thickness of voice at which the choir master, shook his head, adding thereby to the father's nervousness. There was another boy trying for the place, who was said to have an exceedingly sweet-toned voice. Each boy had his friends, and the humble voices of Canterbury were divided as to the merits of the two candidates.

On the third day, Charley chanted before all the clergy of the cathedral the Old Hundredth. Then the other boy sang. He had sucked a new-laid egg and was sustained by self-confidence. He sang with such ease and compass as to delight the judges.

In ten minutes after the trial Charley ran into his father's shop, and, sitting down on the floor, sobbed out the news to his failure.

That failure was his first step in life's success.

Fifty years later, the Chief Justice of England, accompanied by a friend, attended service in Canterbury Cathedral. When the service had ended, he said to his friend:

THE Silverton, Col., smelting-works this season produced 345 tons of bullion, which averaged 260 ounces of silver to the ton.

English Bell-Ringing.

A number of bells hung together is called a "ring," the number generally varying from five to a dozen, which last is the greatest number that has yet been hung in a steeple. When the highest note—the treble bell—is sounded first, and followed by the consecutive notes until the deepest or "tenor" bell is struck, the bells are said to be rang in "rounds."

The fascination which this art has for its followers is shown by the fact that all the great performances in ringing have been undertaken solely for the honor accorded to such feats. When a peal of 5,000 changes is attempted, it is considered of no account unless it is "true." The requirements are strict, what exacting. If the same change should occur twice, through an error of the composer, it is a "false" peal. The ringing must be completed without a stop or hitch; and, as at any time during the three hours that will probably be occupied, a ringer may lose his way, and cause the others to be confused, a "jumble out" will probably ensue, and the conductor may issue a "call," which is required to carry the changes to the length required, or may make oneto many; a man may miss his rope and send his bell round the belfry, or a rope may break. Thus, until the last change of a peal is struck, it is never safe for the ringers to congratulate themselves upon its performance.

Now-a-days long peals are only considered as feats when the same men—only one man to each bell—ring throughout the peal. When a peal of great length is attempted there is, therefore, cause to fear that at the last moment one of the men at the "heavy end," as the bells near the tenor are called, may give out. For instance, in ringing according to Stedman's principle—a very complicated method, on eleven bells—the peal of 7,392 changes rung in 1848 in four hours and fifty-five minutes at St. Martin's, Birmingham, where the tenor bell weighs thirty-five hundredweight, contains "the finest ring yet on record" until 1851, when it was beaten by the College Youths at Ashton-under-Lyne, the established London society of ringers, who rang 7,524 changes in five hours and twenty-four minutes at St. Giles'. Crippleg'te, where the tenor weighs thirty-six hundredweight. The Cumberland Youths, another old London society, thereupon tried to beat this performance by ringing 8,448 changes at St. Michael's, Cornhill, the tenor of which rings forty-one hundred-weight. In the first session they "jumbled out" after ringing nearly six thousand changes; and at a subsequent attempt rang six hours and forty minutes, but were then so used up that they could not finish the peal, and were obliged to stop when 7,146 had rung 7,746 changes. Now, although this was longer than the peal rung by the College Youths, it was an incomplete performance, not being continued until the bells returned to the order of rounds, which they would have done after giving 40,320 changes. The 1848 record at St. Martin's, Birmingham, was at last beaten by a peal of 8,148 changes, rung in 1858, at Dunscroft, in Yorkshire, by ringers of the

The State's Poor.

The annual report of the County Superintendents of the Poor for the year ending October 16,1876, the last report issued, gives the number of poor houses and farms in the State at fifty five, valued, with appurtenances, at $714,049 49; average number of paupers maintained therein, 1,895; whole number of inmates during the year, 5 182, of whom 294 were Idiotic and 363 insane, indigent persons temporarily relieved outside the poor houses, 32,410, whose number who have received assistance during the year, 42,250; cost of maintenance for the year, $220,667 73, an average cost per head per week of $2 33, for temporary relief outside the poor houses $760,965 90, whole amount expended in care and support of the poor, $602,126 06.

From specials to the Chicago papers we gather a few further particulars of the nitro-glycerine explosion at Negaunee. Ira Hinkley, S. A. Wheeler, and his son, twenty years old, who were loading the packages, were blown to atoms, fragments of their bodies being found three fourths of a mile away. The sides of the car were broken into pieces, and a hole fifty feet, in circumference and ten feet deep made in the ground. Capt. Merry, Superintendent of the Jackson mine, who was standing on the hill, looking at the men, was knocked down, but escaped unhurt, while Capt. Thomas, near by, had one of his ears taken off by a flying missle. Several others had narrow escapes from death, and were more or less cut and bruised. Cyr's drug store suffered the most, the large front windows being broken, and nearly all the shelves being emptied of their bottles. This store is three fourths of a mile distant. The house of Senator Breitung, the large High School building, the Iron Herald office, Jackson House, and Iron Cliffe store all suffered, the latter severely, in this particular. Several persons residing in the vicinity were more or less injured—none, it is thought, seriously.

The foreign news is warlike. The view changes a little, like a cloud in the wind, with every dispatch, but it appears now that nothing but the complete backing down of the English ministry can avert a general war. The English note proposing mediation was returned by the Russian Emperor with an open menace. The Czar says he will not consent to mediation, and is armed against intervention." England has the alternative of putting up with the stultied insult, and seeing Turkey beaten and dismembered, and the Turks driven into Asia, or of sending its armies and fleets to prop their falling cause. Whatever urgent political reasons England may have to go to war, every one sees that the progress of later years has greatly lessened her capacity and force as a fighting nation. There are so many industries, such an extensive commerce, so much refinement, luxury and art, so many monetary interests, all of which are to suffer by war, that the national spirit is in a measure paralyzed. The English are naturally combative enough but the old pugnacity has been turned into other channels. The men who would have stormed a town, have been exploring Africa, or Australia, or cruising in perilous seas. Doubtless England will be able to raise a fine army, but she can not turn her whole population into soldiers as Russia does. When the two begins, the part that the other powers will take is only known to the three Emperors, who undoubtedly have a full and mutual understanding.

The state department has just issued the official list of ministers consuls and other foreign agents now in the employ of the government abroad. The following is the share of Michigan in the list with the salaries given them; James Birney, Minister to the Hague, $7,500; A. C. Littlefield, Consul General at Calcutta, $5,000; S. D. Pace Consul at Port Sarnia, $1,500; T. M. Terry, Consul at Santiago, $1,000; J. E. Jackson, Consul at St. Paul de Leando, $1,600; E. A. Van Dyke, Consular clerk at Cairo, $1, 200.

The county seat question will be the absorbing topic of interest at the meeting of the Montcalm county Supervisors this week. On the supposition that the county seat is on wheels, profiles of a location will be made by Langton, Sheridan and Greenville. The offer will include suitable county buildings in a new site the chosen. The utmost that the Montcalm county Board of Supervisors can do is to submit the question to a vote of the people, who are the source of all power and authority.

The King of Spain is to be married on the Bonfires of Atocha, at Madrid, on the 23d of January. The Prince as of Montebo, will arrive at Madrid only one hour before the ceremony. The fetes are to last five days, during which time theatrical representations and bull fights are to be provided for the people free. A banquet is to be given to 1,000 of the poor of Madrid in the Prado, and there are to be historical processions in the Plaza de Toros the nobles of Spain being invited to take part in the cavalcades. All children born on the 23d are to be dowered, and 50 000 pesetas are to be distributed among the poor.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Hoeemaa's Gargaria Salve to test its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor saying commodities, at least to try one bottle, as HUNDREDS have been were sold last year, and no one case failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SALVE cannot be sold by known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents, Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Hoo. W. CROUTER.

To Whom It May Concern.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Corporation—The Carp River Improvement Company—a corporation organized and existing by virtue of a law of the State of Michigan, entitled "An act to authorize the formation of corporations for the purpose of improving the navigation of rivers," approved April 5th, 1865, did, on the 26th day of Dec. 1877, submit to the Board of Control of the St. Mary's Falls Ship Canal, a map or plan of the enclosure of Carp River, being in the county of Mackinac, in the State of Michigan, which the undersigned Corporation proposes to improve, and a plan for the improvement of the same, showing the several points in the stream where the improvements are to be made, and the nature and character of such improvements; which map or plan is now on file with the Clerk of said Board, and to which application to said Board for their approval is hereby made, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 27th day of February next—Wednesday—at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, being the time of a regular meeting of said Board—at which time said Board of Control will proceed to hear and determine the matter of said application, at which hearing all parties interested therein may appear and be heard.

CARP RIVER IMPROVEMENT CO.
E. B. WRIGHT, Sec'y.

Old Stage Line

Daily between Traverse City and Elk Rapids; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays between Elk Rapids and Charlevoix. Passengers carried comfortably, and brought at very low rates.

C. POWERS

Dec. 12, 1877.

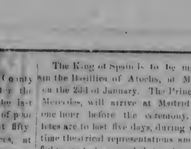
NOTICE — My wife, Adaphia Dyer, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation. I therefore forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting.

JOSEPH E. DYER.

Wilson, Dec. 16, 1877.

Bristol Clothes Washer

SAVES THOUSANDS OF LIVES ANNUALLY.



Patented Nov. 16, 1869.

The only machine in the world that washes flannels and woolens without full. It is simple; has but two rollers; cannot possibly get out of order; and fits into any tub. Clothes cannot become entangled, and it will wash a bed-quilt or a wrist-band perfectly. It is noiseless, and does not wear or tear the clothes.

Sells at the Low Price of $7.50.

A child can work it easily. It washes four Shirts at once. Also Skirts, Collars, and Wrist-bands clean. It is the favorite everywhere. All who see this machine in operation exclaim

Joy to the World! Relief has Come!!

Everybody buying is satisfied with the Bristol Washer.

If not for sale in your place, send us $7.50 and we will send you a Washer by express, or, if you prefer, will send one C.O.D.

Agents wanted everywhere. For terms and illustrated circular address

BRISTOL WASHER CO.,
33 E. Water St., Chicago.

$777 a year easily earned in these times, but it can be made if those desiring will apply at once. Address with stamp, H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 28, 1877. Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene C Trefney against Alvin Hauch, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5,647 dated April 2, 1875 upon the SE ¼ of section 28, Township 34, North, Range 4 West in Emmet county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Jan. 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

27

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to get LUMBER, LATH or SHINGLES, can call on the well to called on short notice.

FORIGHT & WAY,
Owners of sch'r. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres, on section 36, in Eveline, in a state of improvement, good land, and log house, good well, and orchard and 25 thrifty trees. Good location. On main traveled road. School house quarter of a mile. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Address

Charles Briley,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W ½ of NW ¼ Sec. 29, Town 32 North of Range 8 West, 80 acres, 30 improved, house, barn, orchard, 200 fruit trees. Inquire of owner on the premises.

ANTONE SAMPO.

Ellsworth, Mich.

Ek Rapids

W. V. CARWELL. C. S. BASSETT.

CARWELL & BASSETT,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood. Bark. Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 16, WALKER BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT,

Address all orders to W. A. Smith

L A W
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegoes, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file that the defendants do not reside in this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin the nature of. Mills Falls complainants solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they cause to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants, and no further notice of the proceedings in this cause to the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said nonresident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
16-26.

NOTICE

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich. Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Henry Hastings against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 2865, dated April 15, 1876, upon the SE ¼ of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 6 West in Charlevoix county Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Loomi M. Barnes against James Jones for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7742, dated June 20, 1876, upon the sw ¼ Section 36, Township 34 North, Range 6 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Jan. 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

27.

MORTGAGE SALE—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed on the seventh day of November A. D. 1876 by Alonzo Rodd of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Morris J. Stockman of said county and state, and recorded in the Office of Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876, at 2 o'clock p. m. in Liber "Liber" of Mortgages on page 126; on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the recovery of the moneys secured by said mortgage no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted:

Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-eighth day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and premises described in said mortgage (or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount then due, including the principal interest, costs and an Attorney fee of Twenty dollars, as provided for in said mortgage) will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the West door of the County Clerk's office in the Township, of Charlevoix, (that being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden for said county within which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and are known and described as follows: to-wit:—The North-west quarter of the South-west quarter of Section Two (2) in Township Thirty-three (33) Norther Range Seven (7) West containing forty (40) acres according to the U. S. Survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
(Dec 12-26-Jan 2)

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich Oct 31, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Reuben Hastings against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 2865, dated April 15, 1876, upon the SE ¼ of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 6 West in Charlevoix county Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Mathias A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6233, dated Dec. 8, 1874, upon the NE ¼ of sold and not sold, Section 2, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.

J.E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hands at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public. In regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 13, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(4mis.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegoes, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, said county, on the 31st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file that the defendants do not reside in this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin the nature of. Mills Falls complainants solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they cause to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-resident defendants, and no further notice of the proceedings in this cause to the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said nonresident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

R. HATCH Jr.
Circuit Judge
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
16-26.

NOTICE

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich. Aug. 27, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Henry Hastings against Fil Payne, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 2781, dated Oct. 15, 1875, upon the NE ¼ of Section 32, Township 34 North, Range 6 West in Charlevoix county Michigan with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

19

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Mathias A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6233, dated Dec. 8, 1874, upon the NE ¼ of said and not sold, Section 2, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Ross & Butlars' store.

JAS. F. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 39 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Jan. 22. 1878. Whole No. 454

Rebecca Miller

'The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR—

OFFICE in Sheffler Building
On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates;

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 mo.	6 mo.	1 yr.
One sq.	$1 50	$1 75	$2 00	$3 00	$5 00	$8 00
2 sqrs	1 25	2 75	3 00	4 00	7 00	10 00
3 "	1 75	2 50	3 00	5 00	7 50	12 00
4 "	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 00	10 00	14 00
1 col'mn	3 50	4 00	5 00	10 00	15 00	25 00
4 "	6 00	8 00	9 00	15 00	25 00	40 00
8 "	8 50	12 00	15 00	25 00	40 00	70 00

Cards in Business Directory $1 per line per year.

Legal advertisements at statute rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc.

A. J. MCLEOD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON TE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. E. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Register in Chancery, Conveyancer, Commissioner of Deeds, Notary Public, and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in Sheffler Building, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. R. PERRY, County Clerk and Register in Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Will practice in Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Horse Shoer, Particular Attention paid to Interfering Horses.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Ek Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,

Graduate of Medicine and Surgery, will visit Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties once in each month. Office at Dr. Burnett's residence, Ellsworth, Antrim Co., Mich.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. H. PALETHORP,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
PETOSKEY, MICH.

S. J. FARMER,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street.

EMMA J. HAWES.

Everybody is to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store, agent of the Golden Medal Wringer Rollers for sale cheap. Pure cider, and vinegar for preserving purposes and sorghum and cane molasses. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, except Sundays, as follows:

Leave Charlevoix at 6 a. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix at 1:30 p. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 5 p. m.

Every morning on arrival of the morning boat at Petoskey the mail for Charlevoix will be made up, and every effort will be made to make connections with the morning boat for Chicago if possible.

H. C. MOFFATT, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,

House Sign and Carriage

PAINTER.

Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.

26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. D. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Dec 24, 1877

Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm R. Dennison, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6521, dated April 1 1875, upon the NE ¼ of sec. section 36, Township 34 North, R. 5 West in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of March, 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. A cordial brotherly welcome to transient visitors.

L. D. HAYNORSON, N. G.
GEO. W. CHESTER, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. F. PERRY, Sec'y.

I. O. L.

Pacific Hive No. 141, I. O. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday evening preceding the full of the moon in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

DUNCAN BURNS, W. M.
GEO. BOYNTON, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on same days at 1 p.m.

NORTH—Mail arrives daily, at 12 M. depart at 12 M. Mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays; arrive at 8 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Keeping prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Oats, per bushel	30
Corn, per bushel	50
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	30
Ham, sugar cured	10
Shoulders, sugar cured	7
Salt pork	5
Lard, per pound	10
Butter, per pound	22
Eggs, per dozen	20
Chickens, per pound	10
Turkeys, per pound	$1 00 @ $1 75
Geese, per pound	8 @ 10
Beef, by the quarter	6 @ 7
Beef, per pound, by the quarter	4
Beef, per pound, by the single pound	6 @ 10

Louis Pierce, has been appointed Supervisor of Hudson—R. N. Forrester resigned

Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton has been chosen to succeed Stanley Matthews in the United States Senate.

The editor of this paper is absent at Grand Rapids in attendance on the Grand Lodge, F. & A. M. He will visit the Township of Springvale before his return home.

The contract for oiling and varnishing the Church Pews was let to S. M. See for the sum of eight dollars.

A new Post Office has been established in the Jordan Township, named Mt. Bliss, E. M. Webster P. M.

THEATRICAL.—Dick Silver's Vocal and Instrumental Troupe will exhibit at Fox & Ross's Hall in this village on the evenings of January 30, and February 1 see the Bills and Posters for particulars.

A GREENBACK CLUB was organized on the 18th inst. in the Township of Norwood with the following officers, Joseph Harwood President, E. K. Spaulding Vice President, Louis Deline Secretary, H. E. Brown Treasurer—Isaac S. Webster of Hayes honored the meeting with his presence.

THE DOONY CASE.—Justice Miller rendered his decision in the Doony-Holland case on Tuesday, giving the case to Doony as follows: Damages for Doony $250 50 Justice cost, 2 00; Sheriff's fees, 1 65 Total $254 55. Holland has filed notice of appeal with the County Clerk.

A GOOD PIG.—Hugh Miller, of the Township of Charlevoix, butchered a pig of the improved Essex breed lately, 315 days old, which weighed, when dressed, 316 pounds. Can any of our readers beat this.

GOOD BOOKS.—E. R. Boynton, of Evangeline, is canvassing the county for two very readable books—"Noted Guerillas," and "Lee's Confession," being a full history of the Mountain Meadow Massacre, and the confession and execution of Lee. Both these books deal with subjects of deep interest to people of this day and are valuable additions to Town or private libraries. Give your name to Mr. Boynton for one or both of these valuable books.

TWENTY-FIVE of the best men in Traverse City have signed and published a petition pledging themselves to stand by and assist the officers, in every honorable way in the enforcement of the laws for the suppression of crime, vice and intemperance in Traverse City The Illegals certainly have "good back log," and ought to make things lively among the lawless.

CHANGES IN MAIL ROUTE.—A strong movement is on foot to change the mail route between Traverse City and Charlevoix, leaving the State road one and one half mile south of Atwood, branching south through Norwood, and coming out at or near Charlevoix. This leaves Atwood and Barnard off the route, and must of necessity cause the discontinuance of Barnard The petitions have many signers in Charlevoix and Norwood, but strong remonstrances against the change are being forwarded from the State road.

THE CHURCH.—The seats have all been completed and placed in the new Church edifice, and the job of finishing now only remains to be done. The inside of the building now presents the appearance of a fine church auditorium. It has a capacity for seating 350 persons comfortably, and is in all respects an honor to our town, and a monument to the generosity and enterprise of our people

Real Estate transfers, Received for record for the week ending Jan. 18, 1878

E 8 to Wilbur F. Laing 163 acres of Land Town Evangeline.

Elizabeth Fisher to D. H. Weed and wife, 80 acres Town of Norwood Con.—$600.

Auditor General to Oliver A. Gager, 40 acres of Land. Town Boyne Valley. Con—$5.

Auditor General to Byron W. Miller, 400 acres, in the Town of Evelne, Hayes and Marion. Con.—$55.

Byron W. Miller to P. J. Meech, undivided ½ of 463 acres, in Norwood Con—$100.

United States to Wm. H. Ohle, 160 acres, in Hayes.

A. J. Streeul to Sylvester R. Cook, 160 acres, Town Hayes. Con—$640.

John Pay haw mow sie, to Wm. H Wallace, 80 acres, in Hayes. Con.—$200

IH ehe sTy ara ne eat olie? Da nDU sCha nLe vO ixF oIh ne IE aSTM OsE Yc AnE efo USD aTo ons To eE pO, NRo sE & nU TIA aS.

A recent dispatch from Salt Lake City says, This morning at 8 o'clock the Mormons began going into Endowment House, and by 10 o'clock the place was so crowded that the doors had to be closed. Up to 3 o'clock sixty five polygamous marriages had been solemnized, and as many more impatient couples sent off to await their turn to morrow and Saturday.

Highest market price paid for furs at the cheap ready pay store of Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

Bob Ingersoll recently visited North ern Michigan, and went away with a poor impression of it, a waggish engineer on the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad having told him that north of Grand Rapids the land was so poor that people manured the graveyards to make the dead come up on resurrection day.

The possibility that the United States may become a great tea producing country is set forth in a pamphlet about to be issued in the form of a supplementary report by the Commissioner of Agriculture. In the opinion of General Leduc, certain of the States possess a climate and quality of soil corresponding so closely with those of China, Japan and Assam as to justify the anticipation that the successful culture of the tea plant will get be accomplished in those States.

For a complete stock of all kind of goods such as clothing, hats and caps, dry goods, boots and shoes, crockery, groceries, flour, feed, pork and every thing else to numerous to mention Call and look through our stock and convince yourselves that we can give good satisfaction to our customers.

Fox, Ross & Butlars.

From South Arm.

SOUTH ARM, Jan. 16, 1878.

EDITOR SENTINEL.

Nothing of importance from here. The people are getting out some shingling wood; price $1 50 per cord delivered on docks, with poor prospect of snow to move it on. Everybody is waiting for snow here as elsewhere. The head of the lake is frozen enough for foot parties only.

We have nothing to announce as occurring last week A traveling phrenologist went through, and his cranium was taxed to the utmost finding explanations for the lumps of south arm heads.

A Baptist Minister from abroad is in this vicinity, and will preach to the heathen people.

The P. M. of South Arm was presented with some letters a short time since by a neighboring P. M with a request to register them, prepaid, fee and all. He did it without fee, without price but not without an inward notion to say something he hadn't ought to.

YOURS, X.

PERSONAL.—R. Knight and H. W. Beach, of Banks, have been in town during the past week.

—MRS. L. D. Bartholomew and children arrived from Albion on Thursday.

It is said that there is not an unclean street in all Paris; they are all swept every day. The street cleaners are stationed out a short distance apart through all the boulevards and principal streets, where they remain throughout the day. If anything is dropped by passing teams to mar the street, it is immediately swept up. Most of the streets are macadamized, having Stigian stone pavement extending a yard or two out from the curbstone.

Frank Payne, of Niles, before retiring to bed in a Kalamazoo hotel the other night, thoughtfully blew out the gas, and came near forgetting to wake up next morning. Vigorous medical efforts saved his life.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's assortment of school books is complete.

The Cape does not seem inclined to give up life yet. He is now better than he has been for weeks, and the consensus has been indefinitely postponed May the old man long live to occupy the chair of the Papacy. His death will simply be the signal for raucorous quarreling.

The aggregate value of the cattle, hogs and sheep received at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago, for the year 1877, is $99,000,000.

The people of California are to vote at the next general election upon the question of continuing or prohibiting Chinese immigration.

Carpenter & Bartholomew will receive a fresh assortment of dry goods this week.

A Louisiana man claims to have invented an apparatus that will destroy the largest iron clad ever built; that it can be attached to a merchant vessel in 12 hours, and that, if she could run thirty miles an hour, she would not run as fast as the invention could destroy everything she would pass. The invention inside a fort would make 20 men equal to 20,000 outside; and the invention outside would destroy the fort and make all things equal. He proposes to bring it to the attention of the Government.

Bronze guns are supplanting iron artillery in Europe.

Hon J. A. Hubbell, Representative in Congress from this District, is making himself heard on the question of finance. On the 15th of November last, he made a lengthy speech on the proposed repeal of the Resumption law, and on the 20th of the same month he made an exhaustive speech on the remonetization of silver as an aid to resumption. He favors the restoration of the silver dollar, and proposes to make it pay debts the same as gold Upon this point, as upon all other important questions, his "head is level."

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

DOMESTIC.

WELLS, FARGO & CO.'S statement of the production of the precious metals in the States and Territories west of the Missouri River, including British Columbia and the west coast of Mexico, during 1877, shows an aggregate yield of $58,300,000 against $57,500,000 more than in 1876, the greatest previous annual yield. California gives $18,250,000 in gold and $7,750,000 in silver, Nevada, $12,000,000 in gold and $4,333,000 in silver, the so-called silver bullion being, it is said, about 15 per cent. gold. California also gives $1,750,000 in base bullion, and Nevada $6,750,000 of the same, 25 per cent. of which is gold. Arizona gives for the year $2,333,000, of which $767,000 was gold and $566,000 silver bullion, the balance being ore and base bullion.

THE publics debt statement issued, on the 31, indicates the following: Total debt, including interest, $2,253,882,622; cash in Treasury, $48,765,247; debt, less cash in Treasury, $2,205,050,442. Decrease during December, $7,571,. Decrease since June 30, 1876, $14,930,780.

AMONG the suspensions announced on the morning of the 31 was that of the State Savings Bank of Indianapolis, Ind. A statement by the special Bank Examiner shows deposits to the amount of $81,506.78, and assets $86,313.68. It was thought depositors would be paid in full within six months.

WHILE a box-car on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway was being loaded with nitro-glycerine at the Jackson station, near Negaunee, Mich., on the 31, the mass exploded, instantly killing seven men and completely demolishing the car. The locomotive to which the car was attached was lifted and thrown bodily a distance of fifty feet, stripped of all the most and ornamental work, and landed in a confused heap. Not a vestige of the car remained.

AT Bethlehem, Pa., on the 24, John Haddock murdered his sweetheart, Miss Lizzie Davis, and then killed himself.

FIFTY-TWO colored emigrants sailed, a few days ago, from New York for Liberia.

A LARGE body of unemployed workingmen, in San Francisco, marched to the Mayor's office, on the 30, and a committee waited upon that officer and demanded work or bread, suggesting that the city set a work on the streets or other public improvements. The Mayor stated his inability to take the action demanded, and counseled application where necessary, to the various benevolent organizations. The crowd, to the number of several thousand, was subsequently addressed by agitators, the speeches being to the effect that they must help themselves by force if other means failed.

THE Aldermanic Committee of New York City appointed to investigate the Tweed Ring robberies presented an extensive report, on the 4th, to the effect that there were no legal obstacles in the way of a vigorous prosecution of such Ring thieves as were still living there in the enjoyment of their stolen goods. Some of them, whom the committee name, had made no restitution whatever. The report was accepted and in consideration of the portion of it which treated of Tweed's false and boo barels in comparison with the unwarrantable leniency extended his associates, the Council voted—17 to 7—in favor of the release, on condition that he surrender his property, as agreed, and hold himself ready as a witness. The total amount of the robberies is estimated at $50,000,000, only $1,000,000 of which had been recovered.

THERE were 7,120 marriages, 25,569 births and 20,104 deaths in New York City during the past year. The number of deaths of children under five years of age was 12,344, against 14,310 in 1876.

THE number of deaths in Chicago in 1877 was 8,630, being a decrease, compared with the previous year, of 567.

ON the 6th, the United States Treasury held $36,097,250 in United States bonds to secure the National Bank circulation, and $19,986,000 to secure public deposits. National Bank circulation outstanding: Currency notes, $330,170,430; gold notes, $1,432,130.

THE Grand Jury, of Chicago, have found indictments against A. W. Edwards, John Reid, L. L. Hubbard, J. H. Kellogg, Martin Ryan and R. R. Woods for conspiracy and obtaining money under false pretences, in connection with the Protection Life Insurance Company. Mr. Kellogg, as agent of that corporation, is accused of representing the company already to have its house have known to the century. Mr. Woods is the State Examiner. The other parties were officers of the insurance company.

THE Solicitor of the United States Treasury has decided that goods manufactured in bonded manufacturing warehouses may be transported to and exported from other ports than those at which said warehouses are located, provided that the transportation to ports of actual exportation is done by regularly licensed carriers.

THE debt of New York City is recently stated to be $117,741,050. That of Boston is $42,315,411.

UP to the evening of the 7th, fourteen dead bodies had been recovered from the ruins of the building lately demolished by an explosion in Barclay street, New York City. It was believed that the bodies of all the victims had been recovered.

ON the coast of Maine, on the morning of the 7th, the thermometer marked 42 degs. below zero.

VERY cold weather was experienced in many sections of the South, on the 7th, the thermometer in some portions of Virginia ranging below zero. At Memphis the mercury was 11 degs. above zero.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE Maine Legislature was organized, on the 2d, by the election of Hon. Warren B. Vinton as President of the Senate, and Hon. Henry Lord as Speaker of the House.

THE New York Legislature was organized, on the 1st, by the election of Hon. Wm. H. Robertson as President pro tem. of the Senate, and Hon. James W. Husted as Speaker of the House. The message of the Governor pertains mainly to State affairs.

THE Pennsylvania State Legislature was organized, on the 1st, by the election of Hon. Thomas V. Cooper as Speaker pro tem. of the House. This is an adjourned session.

JACOB BUSS, the well-known Springfield (Ill.) banker, made an assignment on the 28th. His liabilities aggregate about $300,000; assets not stated.

COL. F. W. HOLLIDAY was inaugurated Governor of Virginia, on the 1st, with all the pomp and display which distinguished similar occasions in ante-bellum times. In his message the Governor took strong grounds for the maintenance of the State credit.

THE Massachusetts Legislature met on the 3d. In his message, Gov. Rice recommends Constitutional amendments to prolong the terms of the Executive and Legislative offices of the State, and also favors biennial sessions of the Legislature. The State debt, on the 1st, was $6,529,649, a reduction during 1877 of $309,000.

GOV. CONNOR, of Maine, was inaugurated, on the 3d. In his inaugural address, he deprecates the passage of the Silver bill. The ordinary expenses of the State have decreased $250,000 during December, $37,251. Decrease since June 30, 1876, $184

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY JANUARY 29 1878

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Jan 18 1878

The yearly report of the Commissioners of Immigration lead to interesting reflections upon the position of this country in relation to land and labor. In order to institute an efficient comparison with most of European countries, let the long period which culminated in 1873 in every country be made to exactly as "the Status" and immigrants fairly swarmed into the port of New York, the number landing at Castle Garden in the latter year being more than 300,000. Given that time low wages and scarce work has told heavily upon these figures, since in 1877 they were reduced to little over 140,000. This decrease might be regarded as a retardation of the development of country, but I believe it to be wholesome and in every way ideal progress. During the years of largest immigration the ignorant alien element poured in faster than it could be assimilated and properly taken care of so much so that Dave Shea was threatened with a dual reign of political indigestion. The attendance of the stream came more to seem. In fact it is more than probable that we should be the gainers were the decrease of the migration to go on for several years to come.

The Comptroller's report for the past year shows a reduction of the city's debt for the first time within the memory of man. To be sure, the reduction was only two millions, while the funded debt is over sixty times that amount, but still the wing proves that it is possible to check to be put upon the fearful accumulation of debt to been which has been going on for a year, and Mr Kelly has won the public gratitude accordingly.

The aldermanic committee, which has been investigating the 1871 Ring, and Tilden, has also made a report, in which it is shown that what some thirty millions were stolen or squandered by that ferocious organization, only $876,000 have been recovered. The committee urge further and more vigorous prosecutions of the culprits within reach. The aldermen have passed a vote recommending the release of Tweed.

The annual sale of pews in Plymouth church came off on Tuesday evening, and netted a little short of $7,000. As this amount is smaller than the results of previous years, Mr. Beecher has voluntarily relinquished one fourth of his $20,000 salary for this year and will therefore have to preach at the starvation wages of about $200 per Sunday, including the ten or a dozen Sabbaths of his regular vacation. As he is seen, however, of a good income from his lecture tours, he hopes to escape the sufferings of want.

Mr. Beecher's well known "Life of Christ," which was partially published at the time of the failure of J. B. Ford & Co., his publishers, has since been at a stand still, and was generally thought to have been abandoned. At the recent sale by auction of the effects of the bankrupt firm, however, one of the lots offered was the original contract which Mr. Beecher made with the publishers to write the book, and this was bought for $1,000 by a merchant of this city, who says he shall hold the author to the terms of the contract, and expects, after all, to make money out of the work. So the "Life" will probably be completed and placed on the market after all.

Taking one's own life is a matter of such ordinary occurrence in this great city, that the inherent strangeness of a state of mind which can form its possessor to take the mysterious leap in the dark, is quite lost sight of, and suicide in general attracts hardly more attention than petty larceny. One such incident this week, however, has excited considerable wonder and speculation. In this case, a young man, the nephew and protege of a rich Brooklynite, took a Hudson River ferry boat on the morning of his wedding day, and when the boat was in mid-stream stepped to the stern, took out a revolver, shot himself through the head, and dropped a corpse the river. Nothing more apparently causeless was ever reported. Here was a young fellow, well connected, prosperous, temperate, and without any appearance of eccentricity, deliberately but

Ask Yourself these Questions.

Are you a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation of the Bowels, Pain in the Side, Torpid Liver, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the food after eating, &c., &c. All of these and many more are the direct result of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. That DISEASE, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is now acknowledged by all Druggists to be a positive cure. 2,000,000 bottles were given away in the U. S. through Druggists to the people as a trial. Two doses will relieve, any person of its wonderful quality in curing all Forms of Indigestion. Sample bottles free. Regular size 25 cts. Send postage by all Illustrated Druggists in U. S.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

For terms of land Three miles east of Evansport, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

It is well improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Well suited for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

BY THE

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These favorable tracts are offered with much confidence that they will prove profitable investments to settlers.

WATER AND RAIL.

Not a Wilderness by any Means

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grand have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a piece of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

For Maps and an Illustrated pamphlet, Address

W. A. BUCHEIT, Commissioner,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest Stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the state by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval and on orders, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F. R. & B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact. That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most fashionable styles and colors to be found in the market; Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashmere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and buckles of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, look over their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER & Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY, AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INVITE THE ATTENTION OF

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

TO OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry promptly attended to at reasonable rates.

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If you are not you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods.

Clothing.

Hats, Caps

And Crockery.

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS, bought for the best

BOTTOM PRICES

which are impossible to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the corner of Bridge street.

Scott & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and ... Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM, Manager,

63 Madison St.

Toledo O

19yr.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission

Wildland and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crozier's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

19yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and lives for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC, ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A SMITH, Publisher

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stephens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SUGARS, CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers. 47, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, DETROIT.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for CASH, BY THE PIECE &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(27) 46,1:24.

BOOKS, BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1230 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BEACH, Benzonia, Mich.

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX, MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

A180

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will constantly supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for 1st cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tu reply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which stream myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks; all warranted of Superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly of London, England), 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO And 73 Barclay Street, New York.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

The people of Wales are pleased with our new Minister to England because he's Welsh.

The wife of Gilman, the New York forger, has recovered her reason and gone to visit her husband.

Gen. Grant left much at home with Mount Vernon, both being the most distinguished smokers of their respective continents.

Elegant Mrs. Hooper, of New York, who stole diamonds from her society friends, has gone to the Penitentiary to be entertained for five years.

Fanny Davenport fell and bumped her nose at the Detroit Opera-House recently, and a sorrowing country stands ready to offer its consolation and camphor bottle.—Boston Post.

Hon. Pitt speaks of the Vermont Senator as "the captious and querulous Senator Edmunds, who failed of admission to the Episcopal Church, because he moved 356 amendments to thirty-nine articles."

Judge Bere. Black not only chewspling tobacco, but he is the habit of spitting all around him and caring not whom he hits. When he is out calling, and wants to be "real nice," he takes his hat along and spits in that.—Detroit Free Press.

Dr. Dio Lewis is now astride a new hobby-horse. In feeding pillows the doctor has discovered the Herod of our modern civilization. He attributes the majority of deaths among young children to overheated brains, the result of lying on feather pillows.

Nearly all the distinguished Californians of the day are said to be self-educated men. Senator Sargent is one example, Gov. Irwin another, Mayor Bryant, of San Francisco, another, and Messrs. Flood, Mackey, Fair, Jones and Sharon may be added to the list.

—This was the way in which Mark Twain introduced William D. Howells to a Hartford audience Wednesday night: "The gentleman is going to rise to address you is the editor of the Atlantic Monthly. He has a reputation in the literary world which I need not say anything about. I am only here to back up his moral character."—Boston Globe.

—Mark Twain's success on the platform is said to be much greater since he did away with his manuscript. From the written lectures he came down to copious notes; from these to a little card with printed heads, which he put in his waistcoat pocket. He dispensed with this by substituting a few marks on the back of his finger nails, and then he went it alone.

—Dr. Sanford B. Hunt says, in the Newark Advertiser, concerning the editor of St. Nicholas: "By some means she inspires the contributors to St. Nicholas to extraordinary efforts; and, instead of finding Longfellow, Whittier, Bryant, Proctor, George MacDonald, and the other writing as if under a strain—as is the case with most authors when they depart from accustomed paths—in St. Nicholas we find them talking to the children as they would if all the dear boys and girls were clustered about their knees, with the firelight playing strange tricks of coloring over the golden, the brown, and the gray heads."

Her Active Mind.

"You are going to die, William," remarked a lady of energetic nature to her poor little husband. "The doctor says you can't live two hours."

"Very well," responded William, in a weak voice, but with a great sigh of relief. "Call down an' brew up the servants at once."

"Wh-what?" said the agitated woman, bending over him.

"Free your mind, Nancy, free your mind," he gasped, feebly. "I shall be as quiet about it as possible, but I shall try your patience. Blow enough to make you cheerful a couple of hours, and by that time I shall be out of the way. I shall never have another opportunity, and I want to die in peace."

"He wanders," said the lady to herself, scowling through the habit of spitting all around him and caring not whom he hits. When he is out calling, and wants to be "real nice," he takes his hat along and spits in that.—Detroit Free Press.

"I should like to comfort you," interrupted the rapidly-failing man with a faint smile of apology; "but the truth is, I've got so much of my own dying on hand that I can't find the time. Bear up, my dear. I'll call around and make a complaint to-morrow rather I'll send my ghost."

"William," ejaculated the grief-stricken woman, "don't talk like you. Always too easy and shiftless. Always putting off till to-morrow what should be done to-day. My mother warned me of it before I married. If there's anything I hate, it's procrastination! If there's anything I abominate, it's a shiftless man."

"Go down and give it to the servants," said the dying man, huskily.

"He wanders," resumed the agitated woman, rising hastily to make frantic passes at a fly resting in the sunshine on the wall. "This house is overrun with vermin from cellar to garret. It makes no difference how much I boil, and delve, and drudge, and work my fingers to the bone and wear old clothes and look like a fright, William! if you don't get me some exterminator to-morrow"

"It's unnecessary," interrupted the gentleman addressed, with a sad, sweet smile. "I—I guess I'll—I'll manage to—to go off without it."

His head fell back, and there was a strange look in his eyes.

"He's dead!" shrieked the widow, throwing herself upon the lifeless form and weeping violently. "I had forgotten that he was dying—I have so much to think of! Nothing goes right in this house. My poor, patient husband!"

There was the sound of approaching feet. "Go away!" she screamed. "Leave me alone with my dead!" A moment of silence intervened. "Stay," she added. "Go straight to the undertaker's, Susan, and tell him to come at once, and if he shirs this job as he has others I've heard of, I'll never give him another as long as I live. Undertakers is so shiftless."

A gleam of sunlight stole into the room and rested for a moment on the dead man's face. "I declare!" exclaimed the heartbroken woman, "I told Susan to shut the blind tight, and she hasn't done it. We shall be all covered with dust. I shall discharge that girl at once."

She put her handkerchief to her eyes, and, heaving found the requisite time, wept bitterly.—Rochester, N. Y. Democrat.

Death in Life.

A remarkable case of death in life is reported in a late number of Hygie's Archiv, by Dr. Strumpell. It came under the notice of the writer at a medical clinique at Leipsic, and the sufferer was a youth of sixteen. The skin of the patient was utterly dead to every sensation; even a burning taper held to it induced no consciousness. The mucous membrane of the body, so far as could be ascertained, was alike insensible to touch or feeling. When his eyes were closed, the patient could be carried about, and bave his limbs placed in the most uncomfortable position, without the slightest conscious ness of the fact. Even the feeling of muscular exhaustion was lost. Gradually the sense of taste and smell departed with the rest, and simultaneously of the left eye and deafness of the right ear supervened.

In short (says Dr. Strumpell), there was an individual whose only connection with the outer world was limited to two doors of sense. To his one (right) eye and his one (left) ear. Moreover, both these remaining doors could at any time be easily closed, and in this way it was possible to investigate the consequences of completely isolating the brain from all external stimulation through the senses. I have frequently made the following experiment, and often showed it to others: If th patient's seeing eye was unplugged and his hearing ear was stopped, after a few (usually from two to three) minutes the expression of surprise and the uneasy movements which at first showed themselves ceased, the respiration became quiet and regular. in fact, the patient was sunk in deep sleep. Therefore, the possibility of artificially inducing sleep at any time to a person, simply by withholding from the brain all stimulation by means of the senses, was realized.

The awakening of the patient was as interesting as the sending him to sleep. He could be awakened by an auditory stimulation—as, for example, by calling into his hearing ear; or by visual stimulation—by allowing the stimulus of light to fall upon his seeing eye; but he could not be waked by any pushing or shaking. If he was left to himself, he did eventually wake of his own accord in course of the day, after the interval had lasted many hours—the awakening being due, it might be, to intrinsic stimuli started in the brain, or it might be to slight external mavoidable stimuli acting through his still functional sense of organs, and making themselves felt in consequence of the sensitiveness of the brain being increased during the repose of the sleep.

Horrible Death.

A horrible death recently occurred at the blast furnace in South Stockton, Eng. The hopper of a furnace was charged by a man named James Higgins and other workmen with ironstone, etc., and in order to allow the material to fall into the furnace an attempt was made to lower the bell—a large conical-shaped apparatus fitting into the bottom of the hopper—about two feet into a broader space. The bell had become jammed into the upper part of the ring, and could not be stirred. After several ineffectual attempts to free it, Higgins procured a large hammer, leaped on to the bell, and struck it a blow. The apparatus immediately sank into the broader space, and Higgins went with it. A groan was heard, but nothing could be seen of the poor fellow as he passed swiftly with the materials he could prove his innocence; contrary to the English maxim of law, that a man is to be presumed innocent until he is proved guilty. In this, however, the Chinese practice is not very different from that which exists at this day in enlightened a country as France.

In one case two men were accused of robbery with violence—a capital offense—but by the Chinese law no man can be punished with death unless he confesses his crime; hence every means is employed to lead a criminal to acknowledge his guilt. Of course in a case of life and death he will deny it as long as he can. But if he will not confess, the Court proceeds to take stringent measures to seek him confess for which purpose these two men were now put to the torture. The mode of torture was this: There were two round

The Clock of Clocks.

In Meugel's Building is now on exhibition in all probability the most wonderful clock in the world. It was built by Stephen B. Engle, a watchmaker, at Hazleton. He is about forty-five years of age, and was about twenty years in perfecting the clock. Mr. Reid paid Engle $8,500 for it. Engle never saw the Strasburg clock. In fact, he has not traveled more than 200 miles from home at any time. This clock stands eleven feet high. At its base it is almost four feet wide and at the top about two. It is about three feet deep at the base, gradually less toward the top. Its sides are dark-brown and gold. The Strasburg clock is thirty feet high, yet its mechanism is not so intricate, nor has it as many figures as the Hazleton clock. The Strasburg clock's figures are about three feet high, and the American clock about two feet. Three minutes before the hour a pipe-organ inside the clock plays an anthem. It has five tunes. Before the anthem and when the hour is struck double doors in an alcove open and a figure of Jesus appears. Double doors to the left then open, and the Apostles appear slowly, one by one, in procession. As they appear and pass Jesus they turn toward him. Jesus bows, the Apostle turns again and proceeds through the double doors in an alcove on the right. As Peter approaches, Satan looks out of a window above and tempts him. Five times the Devil appears, and when Peter passes, denying Christ, the cock flaps its wings and crows. When Judas appears Satan comes down from his window and follows Judas out in the procession, and then goes back up to his place to watch Judas, appearing on both sides. As the procession has passed, Judas and the three Marys disappear and the doors are closed. The scene can be repeated seven times in an hour if necessary, and the natural motion of the clock produces it four times per hour, whereas the Strasburg procession is made but once a day, at twelve o'clock noon. Above the face of the main dial, about thirteen inches in diameter, is a figure of Time with an hour-glass. Above this is a window, at which appear figures representing Youth, Manhood and Old Age. To the left of the dial is a skeleton representing Death. When the hour-hand approaches the first quarter Time reverses his hour-glass and strikes one on a bell with his scythe, when another bell inside responds, then Childhood appears instantly. When the hour-hand approaches the second quarter in the hour, there are heard the strokes of two bells. Then Youth appears and the organ plays a hymn. Time then gives strikes two and reverses his hour-glass, when two bells respond inside. The same performance is gone through with at the third quarter, three strokes and three bells being heard, when a folding-door opens in the upper porch and one at the right of the court, when the Savior comes walking out. The rest of the Apostles appear in procession. The clock also tells of the moon's changes, the tides, the seasons, the days of the week, the months, etc., and the signs of the zodiac; and on top a soldier in armor is constantly on guard, walking back and forward. As the hours advance, Mahlbrod, Old Age and Death take part in the panorama.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Chinese Law—A Court Scene in the City of Canton.

A correspondent of the New York Evangelist, in a very interesting letter recently published, thus describes a visit to a court in Canton, China:

The court-room was very plain. A couple of Judges sat behind tables, before whom a number of prisoners were brought in. The mode of proceeding was very foreign to American or European ideas. There was neither jury nor witnesses. This simplified matters exceedingly. There is no trial by jury in China. While we haggle and haggle about impaneling juries and getting testimony, and thus trials drag on for weeks, in China no such obstacle is allowed to impede the rapid course of justice, and, what is more, there are no lawyers to perplex the Court with their arguments, but the Judge has it all his own way. He is simply confronted with the accused and they have it all between them

While we stood here a number of prisoners were brought in some were carried in baskets (as they are borne to execution), and dumped on the stone pavement like so many bundles of potatoes; others were led in with chains around their necks. As each one's name was called, he came forward and fell on his knees before the Judge, and lifted up his hands to beg for mercy. He was then told of the crime of which he was accused, and given opportunity if he had anything to say in his own defense. There was no apparent harshness or cruelty to be seen, except that he was presumed to be guilty, unless he could prove his innocence; contrary to the English maxim of law, that a man is to be presumed innocent until he is proved guilty. In this, however, the Chinese practice is not very different from that which exists at this day in enlightened a country as France.

In one case two men were accused of robbery with violence—a capital offense—but by the Chinese law no man can be punished with death unless he confesses his crime; hence every means is employed to lead a criminal to acknowledge his guilt. Of course in a case of life and death he will deny it as long as he can. But if he will not confess, the Court proceeds to take stringent measures to seek him confess for which purpose these two men were now put to the torture. The mode of torture was this: There were two round pillars in the hall. Each man was on his knees, with his feet confined behind him, so that he could not stir. He was then placed with his back to one of these columns, and small cords were fastened around his thumbs and great toes, and drawn back tightly to the pillar behind. This soon produced intense suffering. Their breasts heaved, the veins on their foreheads stood out like whipcords, and every feature betrayed the most excruciating agony. Every few minutes an officer of the court asked if they were ready to confess, and as often they answered "No; never would they confess that they had committed such a crime." They were told if they did not confess, they would be subjected to still greater torture. But still they held out, though every moment seemed an hour of pain.

While these poor wretches were thus writhing in agony, I turned to the Judge to see how he bore the spectacle of such suffering. He sat at his table quite unmoved, yet he did not seem like a brutal man, but like a man of education, such as one might see on the bench in England or America. He seemed to look upon it as in the ordinary course of proceedings, and a necessary step in the conviction of a criminal.

He used no bravado, and offered no taunt or insult. But the cries of the sufferers did not move him, nor prevent his taking his accustomed ease. He sat fanning himself and smoking his pipe, as if he could not stand it as long as they could. The sight was too painful to witness more than a few moments, and I turned away, leaving the men still hanging to the pillars and torture. I confess I felt a relief when I went back the next day, to hear that they had not yielded, but held out unflinchingly to the last.

Nez-Perces at Worship.

On Sunday a reporter visited the camp of the Nez-Perces. He found that the army-tents that had at first been put up for the accommodation of the captives had been taken down at the request of the Indians, and in their places were a number of tepees, or lodges, made of skins stretched about long poles. The lodges are circular in form and of conical shape. The skins which form the wall are sewed together securely with buckskin strips. They are weatherproof on the outside, and do not appear at all untidy, except on the top, where the skins have been blackened by the smoke. In some of these lodges were furs of the finest description, owned by the more wealthy families of the tribe. On entering a lodge-poles are forks with hanging boards, to which the children or papooses are strapped, hanging in much the same style as a hammock would hang pictures on a wall. Near each lodge was stacked a huge pile of wood, and there stacks being carefully kept to keep them dry. The number of people who visited the camp during the day did not fall short of 4,000.

The reporter visited the quarters occupied by Chief Joseph, which consist of a comfortable army-tent with a floor and stove. The place is always thronged with a multitude of people who were eager to get a glance at the famous Chieftain. The next point of attraction was one of the large hospital tents, where it was given out that there would be a "medicine-dance." This was a religious ceremonial, and had been performed in the morning, were of a strictly religious character, and the dance talked of was the afternoon service. The reporter found about 100 men and women ranged in two lines near the walls, and in a sitting position. They were engaged in singing some of the chants peculiar to the tribe, and paid no marked attention to the entrance of the visitor, each one seeming to be deeply interested. Others began to arrive, and within a short time fully 150 occupied the tent. The chief exhorter then took his place in the center of the group and began the first of the general service by a few remarks. He then rang a small bell which he held in his hand, and the entire party began a chant which was perfect as to time and harmony, and was not devoid of music. Both male and female held in their hands some kind of a plume, either a single feather or a bunch as large as a horse-tail plume, which were waved back and forth much in the manner our music-teachers wave their batons.

Three men in the center of the apartment held instruments which resemble tambourines, which they, at the proper intervals, vigorously pounded with sticks, making a sound not unlike a drum. After the first general song was finished, one of the braves made a few remarks in his native tongue, which was followed by another chant, which was concluded, as were the remainder of the songs, by a long, low, wailing sound, each one raising the right hand toward heaven.

The second who spoke was a woman. She related her experience to the medicine-man, and he repeated it in a loud voice to the congregation. This was followed by another chant and a dance which was kept up for a long time.

George, who during the services seemed to be the most interested, on being asked if he was a Catholic, said: "Yes, me Catholic, but no Chief. You white man; another black man; me Indian, but all same heart, and good heart; all feel same to Him," and pointed upward. The services lasted until a late hour in the evening. The looker-on could not fail to see the resemblance in certain parts of the proceedings to the Bassy in the Catholic Church.—Leavenworth (Kan.) Times.

When a mother goes on a whaling expedition she rarely fails to get all the blubber she wants.

Necrological.

The Detroit News furnishes the following chronological summary of the more conspicuous persons who have "gone over to the majority" during the last year:

JANUARY.

4. Cora Vandeleit, the Railroad King.
6. Henri Mueller, French artist and author.
7. Herman Brockhaus, German Orientalist.
7. Winthrop, great Danish poet.
9. Lucille Western, American actress.
11. Alexander Bain, English author and scientist.
11. François Bibor, founder of the Revue des Deux Mondes.
11. Thomas Page, English architect.
24. Christian Puggendorf, eminent German physicist.
27. The Rev. G. H. Jocelyn, President of Alleu College.
— Joseph Smith, Rear-Admiral, U. S. N.
— Sam Ring, German bass propounded.
— Signor Blitz, well-known ventriloquist, celebrated.
2. Leon Joseph Batayes, musician and critic, Paris.
5. James Alden, Rear-Admiral U. S. N.
6. John Mahoney, well-known Wesleyan leader.
8. Charles Wilkes, Rear-Admiral U. S. N.
10. Theodorus Bailey, Rear-Admiral U. S. N.
11. Sir William Fergusson, surgeon to Queen Victoria.
14. Changarnier, French general.
14. Amadee Pichot, French author.
16. Ludwig von Gerlach, prominent Prussian Conservative.
18. Herr Mosenthal, German dramatist.
23. Charles Henry Davis, Rear-Admiral U. S. N.
29. Louis M Goldsborough, Rear Admiral U. S. N.
30. John Overford, prominent English critic.
25. Alexander Dumas, the distinguished French traveler.

MARCH.

2. Joel T. Hart, American sculptor.
5. Marquis de Compegien, the distinguished African traveler.
6. Joseph Autier, French poet and dramatist.
6. Gordon Buck, distinguished American surgeon.
7. Johann Jacoby, great German Social Democrat.
7. Walter Bagehot, English politician and financial writer.
8. Matilda Heron, American actress.
9. Emory Washburne, ex-Governor of Massachusetts.
7. George Odger, English workman's agitator.

APRIL.

1. Marechal, great French painter.
3. Bodon, noted Belgian painter.
5. Julius Rite, great German song-writer.
7. Dr. W. C. Rives, Confederate author of "I Would Not Live Alway."
20. Edward Becker, well-known English Admiral, famous for his Arctic explorations.
29. Alexander Brann, German botanist, geologist and paleontologist.
29. The notorious Parson Brownlow, of Tennessee.

MAY.

2. John Forsyth, Southern editor, etc.
3. Countess Guiccioli, of Italy.
11. The Rev. Dr. Taylor Lewis, Professor at Union College, Schenectady, and a well known philologist, essayist, etc.
11. Gustav von Manstein, German General.
15. Lestie Combe, Prince Imperial's adjutant and statesman.
17. Edmund Quincy, author, Massachusetts.
22. Mathew Digby Wyatt, English architect and designer of Crystal Palace.

JUNE.

2. S. Lothrop Motley, the American historian.
20. Henry Harper, one of the original firm of Harper Brothers.
— Henry Perkins, English sculptor.

JULY.

3. Sophia Frederica Matilda, Queen of Holland.
15. Lady Stirling Maxwell (Lady Norton).
15. Mary Carpenter, English authoress and philanthropist.
16. Sir George Bell, veteran British General.
22. Samuel Warren, English novelist, author of "Ten Thousand a Year," etc.
29. George Ward Hunt, First Lord of the Admiralty, England.

AUGUST.

4. Field-Marshal von Steinmetz, celebrated Prussian General.
9. Dr. A. D. Gregory, Professor at Bellevue Hospital, New York.
15. William Longman, well-known publisher, of London.
16. Dr. Asa D. Smith, President of Dartmouth College.
19. Henri Conneau, French surgeon and physician for many years to Emperor Napoleon.
20. Henry Rogers, English writer, author of "The Eclipse of Faith," etc.
28. Rev Dellar, the American "Falstaff."
29. Reigham Young, President of the Mormon Church.
30. Admiral Semmes, of Confederate fame.!
31. Wilkinson, ex-Governor of Kansas.

SEPTEMBER.

1. F. L. Davenport, American actor.
8. Louis Adolphe Thiers, French statesman and historian, and ex-President of the French Republic.
14. Constantine Canaris, Greek statesman.
19. Cyril Coffin, well-known attitudinary apostle, and officer of the underground railroad.
20. Louis V. Bogy, United States Senator from Missouri.
22. W. H. F. Talbot, one of the pioneers in photography.
23. Lewarter, celebrated French astronomer.
29. Henry Metzger, American railroad builder in Peru.

OCTOBER.

3. Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore.
3. Mme. Titiens, the great singer.
24. Geo. L. Fox, American comedian.
28. Joseph Durham, English sculptor.
29. John Adams, American actor.
30. Hon. Forrest, Confederate chieftain.
31. Baron Prokesch von Arnegg, Field Marshal of the Prussian Army.

NOVEMBER.

1. O. P. Morton, U. S. Senator, Indiana's "War Governor," etc.
1. Pierre Lanfrey, French jurist.
4. Duverrier, French jurist.
6. Gustav Bruon, French painter.
6. Zinella, Dowager Queen of Saxony.
9. Jose Olozga, Spanish Progressionist leader.
14. Julia Kavanagh, English authoress.
23. Sauveur Henri Victor Bouvier, the well-known French physician and medical writer.
24. Jesse H. Grinnell, New York merchant, and baron of Polar regards.

DECEMBER.

7. Benj. Huger, Confederate General.
11. Sidney Smith, English artist.
15. Lord Percy, Orleans's Boy-ish Army.
17. D'amelle de Lafayette, French General.
25. G. W. McCook, general, U. S. A., and of the "fighting" McCook family.

THE SILVER QUESTION.—Solid or plated.

HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

Corn is cheap. Fatten and sell all your and old cows, and get better ones for breeding and for milk.—Iowa State Register.

—One way for the farmer to make the agricultural columns of his paper permanent value to himself is to prepare a scrap-book into which may be transferred those bits of experience, statements of fact and suggestive paragraphs which seem to meet his own peculiar wants.—Chatham Courier.

Josh Billings, or some one else, said: "No man will ever get to Heaven riding a scrub-backed horse." But, for all this, I observe a great many such horses, go where I will. There is a cheap, simple and effectual way to cure sore backs and old sores of any kind. Take white oak bark, peel the rose or outside off, add water, and boil it down till it is as thick as ink. When cool, add to a gallon of the bark extract two ounces alum. Wash the affected part two or three times a day, until cured.—A. M. Lang, Cordale Farm, Ky.

—The old prejudice against "book and paper farming" has given place to the examination of facts and experience as valuable in home and domestic matters as in everything else. The old farmer who would try to enforce methods and practices in reference to plowing, harvesting, plutting and threshing when Peter passes, denying Christ, the cock flaps its wings and crows. When Judas appears Satan comes down from his window and follows Judas out in the procession, and then goes back up to his place to watch Judas, appearing on both sides. As the procession has passed, Judas and the three Marys disappear and the doors are closed. The scene can be repeated seven times in an hour if necessary, and the natural motion of the clock produces it four times per hour, whereas the Strasburg procession is made but once a day, at twelve o'clock noon. Above the face of the main dial, about thirteen inches in diameter, is a figure of Time with an hour-glass. Above this is a window, at which appear figures representing Youth, Manhood and Old Age. To the left of the dial is a skeleton representing Death. When the hour-hand approaches the first quarter Time reverses his hour-glass and strikes one on a bell with his scythe, when another bell inside responds, then Childhood appears instantly. When the hour-hand approaches the second quarter in the hour, there are heard the strokes of two bells. Then Youth appears and the organ plays a hymn. Time then gives strikes two and reverses his hour-glass, when two bells respond inside. The same performance is gone through with at the third quarter, three strokes and three bells being heard, when a folding-door opens in the upper porch and one at the right of the court, when the Savior comes walking out. The rest of the Apostles appear in procession. The clock also tells of the moon's changes, the tides, the seasons, the days of the week, the months, etc., and the signs of the zodiac; and on top a soldier in armor is constantly on guard, walking back and forward. As the hours advance, Mahlbrod, Old Age and Death take part in the panorama.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Chinese Law—A Court Scene in the City of Canton.

A correspondent of the New York Evangelist, in a very interesting letter recently published, thus describes a visit to a court in Canton, China:

The court-room was very plain. A couple of Judges sat behind tables, before whom a number of prisoners were brought in. The mode of proceeding was very foreign to American or European ideas. There was neither jury nor witnesses. This simplified matters exceedingly. There is no trial by jury in China. While we haggle and haggle about impaneling juries and getting testimony, and thus trials drag on for weeks, in China no such obstacle is allowed to impede the rapid course of justice, and, what is more, there are no lawyers to perplex the Court with their arguments, but the Judge has it all his own way. He is simply confronted with the accused and they have it all between them

While we stood here a number of prisoners were brought in some were carried in baskets (as they are borne to execution), and dumped on the stone pavement like so many bundles of potatoes; others were led in with chains around their necks. As each one's name was called, he came forward and fell on his knees before the Judge, and lifted up his hands to beg for mercy. He was then told of the crime of which he was accused, and given opportunity if he had anything to say in his own defense. There was no apparent harshness or cruelty to be seen, except that he was presumed to be guilty, unless he could prove his innocence; contrary to the English maxim of law, that a man is to be presumed innocent until he is proved guilty. In this, however, the Chinese practice is not very different from that which exists at this day in enlightened a country as France.

In one case two men were accused of robbery with violence—a capital offense—but by the Chinese law no man can be punished with death unless he confesses his crime; hence every means is employed to lead a criminal to acknowledge his guilt. Of course in a case of life and death he will deny it as long as he can. But if he will not confess, the Court proceeds to take stringent measures to seek him confess for which purpose these two men were now put to the torture. The mode of torture was this: There were two round

Where is the Money in Farming?

In a little conversation with a young farmer the other day we caught a glimpse into the life of a farmer who is making money. He is the envy of the farmers in his neighborhood, and is considered a man of wonderful knack in getting money out of his land. He has not lost a week's time in the past five years. His uniform practice is to raise early and work late. He knows when it is absolutely necessary, and buys what he considers the necessaries of life, and little beside. His wife, like himself, works early and late; is a constant attendant upon her own affairs, and is never seen among the these years of prosperity there has been a steady addition to the premises in the way of embellishment, but on the other hand every acre of soil is made remunerative, while it does not in the least deteriorate in value. With the same practice for twenty years there will be no improvement of the soil. It pays better to sell wood than to leave timber standing, so his farm is entirely denuded of its timber. Not a stump is left in the field because there is no money in it. To the question, "Would it not be pleasanter for your cattle during the warm days to have a bit of shade to rest beneath?" he replies: "My experience is that you can get just as much milk and beef without the trees as with them, and when you come to cultivate the fields the trees are not only a nuisance but an drain the soil that nothing can be raised in the vicinity." The remark was made.

"I should think you would have some evergreens and ornamental trees growing about your premises—you have such a fine site for your house, if there were some trees about, it would be positively beautiful." "Stranger," was the reply, "my farm is my workshop; it is in my hands to make money out of, and I do not propose to waste as much of it—you do not see a manufacturer hanging pictures on his walls, or decorating his shops with busts of Pallas. Neither do I wish to spend my time nor my land in anything that will not contribute to my purpose of making money out of my farm. It is said that farming is not a business at which a man can make money. It is all false. A man can make money if he only manages right."

"How much land have you?"

"Eighty acres, and every foot can be plowed."

"How much is it worth?"

"It is worth for my purpose $6,000. Do you make 10 per cent. interest on $6,000?"

"I clear from $700 to $1,000 a year and my family live in good comfort. That is, counting my family as so much help, to whom I pay a sum necessary for food, clothes and furnish them in spending money. I have a net profit at the end of each year of what I told you—an average of about $600 a year."

After the above conversation, we passed along, musing as to whether in this instance, taking into consideration the hardship, the lack of culture, the want of society, this kind of farming was so profitable after all, when our attention was called to another level, nicely tilled, apparently rich farm.

"Who lives here?" we asked.

"The father of that young man with whom you have just been conversing."

Upon inquiry we found this man was worth $80,000, all made in legitimate farming, and although old and gray he was still working, working—and he took no comfort or satisfaction in anything else but hard work and accumulating property. Not all his money came from nothing about the premises but dedicated real comfort, but for the making of money he had a magnificent farm.

In these two men we saw what is lacking in a majority of farmers, who do not make their farms pay, and that is the ability to so manipulate the work on the farm and methodize the cropping of the land as to get money out of the soil and still leave it in as good thriving condition as before, and we do not hesitate to say that this is the most important problem in connection with successful agriculture.

The question arises: In the accomplishment of this very desirable object is it necessary that the farmer and his family so convert themselves into slaves to their occupation as to lose all desire for anything but work and money?

We leave the picture and the question with our readers. It is important because in the answer we say whether or not there is truth in the oft-repeated reason given why so many young people leave the farm for business that not only gives more remuneration, but enlightens the mind and heart.—Detroit Free Press.

Insect Ravages—Report of the Locust Commission.

A recent Washington dispatch says: The United States Commission which was organized for the purpose of investigating the subject of insect ravages in the West, and of devising a remedy for the evil, has finished its field-labors for the year. Its members will soon assemble in this city to complete their annual report to Congress. This report will make a volume of about 500 pages. It will be ready for distribution in February or March.

Among other interesting questions to be treated of in the report, the migratory habits of the locust will be described, showing that, like many species of birds, these insects journey at certain times and seasons southward, and at certain other seasons return to the place of their origin. These migrations being foreseen, steps may be taken to protect from their ravages the fields which lie under their line of flight. Many methods of accomplishing this are suggested, some of the most effective of which are the direct fruit of the researches and experiments made by this Commission. It is shown that the destructive propensities of these pests can, by timely precautions, be practically neutralized. The definite limits, beyond which the locusts have not ventured, are carefully fixed, and the crops which are most liable to destruction, and the best methods of procedure with regard to the protection of each, are specifically given. The insects' feeding habits are treated of at great length, and form an interesting feature of the report. The examination of the stomachs of more than ninety species and 600 specimens were made with special reference to this subject, and the value hitherto placed on these aids by entomologists is fully sustained by the results now arrived at.

Among the discoveries made by the Commission, those relating to the habits of the silky mite and of the blister beetles, will be of interest to entomologists. The former is an eight-legged creature which feeds on the locust eggs. It is proved to be the mature form of the little six-legged mite, which is parasitic to the locust. Of the larval habits of the blister beetle nothing has heretofore been known, notwithstanding that the attention of scientists has been directed to the matter for many years, both on account of its value in connection with the pests of the Spanish fly, and of the injury it causes to potatoes and some other plants. Many facts of interest with regard to the origin and habits of this insect have been discovered and will be made the subject of a chapter in the report.

Low-Voiced Women.

People are agreed as to the desirability of a low voice in woman. There was a time when the demand was greater than the supply, but such is not the case now. In the primitive age of the West, when girls called the cows or conversed with their neighbors across seven fields, and in that mystical period when wolves scuttled along the streets of Chicago, there was a demand for good strong voices, and the conversational key-note was naturally a little high. Civilization of the Eurosaxon standard had a terrific struggle with the gushing laughter and clear toned voices of the girls of the succeeding period. It was not much of a trick to pump a girl out of home-spun simplicity into fashionable finery, but it was like pulling teeth to tone down her laugh and her voice.

But the pure sing of the charm of a low voice in woman, and society decreed that a low voice was prima facie evidence of refinement. Stronger than this was woman's innate sense of the eternal fitness of things, and her intuitive knowledge of the proprieties. The reform was inaugurated, and a low voice became as fashionable as any popular style of dress.

Fashion is naturally progressive, and often runs to extreme. The young woman of to-day is never satisfied with half-way measures or with incomplete results. Having, as stated, consented, to lead in any particular direction, drive her to the accomplishment of grand results and to great extremes of folly. It is possible that the propelling forces are pushing the well-developed, low-voiced woman to dangerous ground. One young woman finds another admired because of her soft tones. Ambitious to excel, and determined to outdo, she lets her naturally sweet voice down in the scale to a key on which there is little room for modulation or inflection. She leaves the natural key, cuts off the upper octaves, suppresses the jingles, cripples the graceful movement, and talks in a distressed monotone. She pats a fervor that everyone admires—a voice having in it not the remotest suggestion of vulgarity, but, on the contrary, full of beautiful surprises and sweet intonations—she puts this galloping, dancing, musical voice into a straight jacket, and marches it at a small pace along the dead level of an exasperating monotone. There is no opportunity for delicate shading, no room for expression, no room for expression. There is no charm in this sort of a low voice.

If this young woman is a society leader, she will have imitators, and among these will be she who will not hesitate to give the screw another turn, and bring the voice down still lower. They will hold in the natural volume with studious care, and talk, if not in a whisper, in a languid air, in a tone more like a hoarse whisper, or a cramped, squeezed, effeminate falsetto than it is like the natural voice of woman.

Such women cannot converse, because conversation involves modulation, emphasis and an ability to express every shade of meaning and sentiment. A woman's words to be attractive must be understood, and a woman's voice to be charming must have all the elements that attract and please. Men may listen to the rasping monotone, or the hoarse whisper, of a woman on sufferance, but they will leave her presence exasperated and depressed.

Peculiar influences often cause graceful styles of dress to degenerate into whimsical follies. Exaggerated sentimentalism often brings good, true sentiment into disrepute. So mistaken notions as to what constitutes a low voice may cause the charm of a low voice in woman to be less appreciated. The fashion is to-day the least, unfortunate. Women's voices are attuned naturally to the atmosphere of home. They carry in them, or should carry, all the associations of refined homes, and should suggest all the graces of womanly minds.

As well might the people tolerate affectation and erratic exaggeration in music as false notions as to beauty in a woman's voice. If there is a tendency among young women to abandon the rules that made their mothers good conversationalists, it should be checked. That there is such a tendency, one evening's experience at a church sociable, or at a sociable gathering of any kind, will endorse the most skeptical.

There is no danger that a low voice in woman will lose its charm, unless it be through this abuse in the name of refinement. Young girls should be made to see the difference between the voice of a cultured woman and the voice of an affected one; between the graces of the one and the distortions of the other; between the presence of modulation, emphasis and tone, and the absence of all.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Insect Ravages.

AN English traveler writes: "It is a mistake to suppose that Americans are loquacious and inquisitive. They do not like their heads at a railway station; they often go through a meal without saying a word; a buzz of conversation is seldom heard; their silence is really oppressive; they are the quietest and most orderly people on the face of the earth."

HEREAFTER the "young-man-who-didn't-know-it-was-loaded" should be incarcerated in the Penitentiary with the kindly sentiment of "didn't-think-you'd-mind-it."—Capital.

Stop that terrible cough, and thus avoid a consumptive's grave, by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. As a cough remedy it is unsurpassed. Sold by druggists.

THREE SEEDS' years have elapsed since the introduction of Perry Davis Pain-Killer to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to" are acknowledged, and appreciated, and as a Pain Killer its fame is limited to no country, sect or race, but is equally known and esteemed in Europe or America. It is sold by all medicine dealers.

Wives Know That the Brow of Care is often soothed by a delicious supper, to which perfect bread, rolls, biscuit, etc., are so important. To have these delicate products of baking always reliable, the use of Hecker's Prize Flour is very necessary. This article is among the most established of the day in its sterling excellence. It is put up in packages of 5 pounds each.

Mothers, Mothers, Mothers.

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for all cases of teething in children. It relieves the child from pain, cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and, by giving relief and health to the child gives rest to the mother.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"Hurana's Rheumatic Remedy," the great Infernal Medicine, will positively cure any case of rheumatism on the face of the earth. Price $1 a bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Send for circular to Helphenstine & Bentley, Washington, D. C.

THE "POULTRY WORLD," Hartford, Conn., is the leading magazine of its class. $1.25 a year; 12 superb Chromos mailed for only 75c additional. All fowl breeders should have it. Subscribe now for 1878. Its best and cheapest. Its sample free.

SUTTERLY'S cured by Better Appliances. Send for description to Brimjam & Co., Box 5076, N. Y.

NATURE'S REMEDY
VEGETINE
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
RECOMMEND IT HEARTILY.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir:—I have taken several bottles of your VEGETINE, and can recommend it as a valuable blood purifier, kidney invigorator, and general tonic. I was troubled with Kidney Complaint, and Vegetine has done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. Yours truly,
MRS. HENRIETTE PARKER,
No. 44 Myrtle Street, Boston.

ASK the renowned dyspeptics, bilious sufferers, victims of sour and sick stomach, the mercurial diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerfulness and good appetite; they will tell you by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator.

The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

For Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Malaria, Sick Headache, Chills, Depression of Spirits, Bad Blood, Fevers, Debility, etc.

"This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted to do all that is claimed for it, and we believe it will do it. It is the best and purest medicine we have ever used in our practice, and we have been practicing physicians for a quarter of a century. We have tried many of the so-called 'Vegetable Remedies' of the day, but none have given such entire satisfaction as Simmons' Liver Regulator. We have never known it to fail in a single instance, and we have used it in our families for many years. We know of no medicine that will do the work of this valuable remedy."—Rev. R. M. Boyd, Pastor Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ga.

"We have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dysp

THE COAL QUESTION.—Apropos of the late arrival of mining experts from Pennsylvania to test the outward indications on the Wood place, we publish an extract bearing upon the subject from the report of Prof. Winchell, late State Geologist:

"The bituminous character of most of the strata of this group, and especially of that portion known as the 'Black Bituminous Shales' has given rise to numerous misapprehensions in regard to their geological relations, and has been the occasion of the practice of a great amount of geological quackery. The popular opinion is, that coal must exist somewhere in the vicinity of the black shales. The opportunity has been very many times presented for discovering the error into which we have been led. Experimentations were instituted or undertaken, under the influence of this illusion to large tracts of land have been secretly taken up, with the view of securing slightly situated coal fields. The miseries so rife among the Indians and their missionaries of the occurrence of coal in the neighborhood of Grand Traverse Bay, are undoubtedly traceable to the same illusory shale. There is not the remotest probability of the occurrence of coal within a hundred miles of Grand Traverse Bay. This statement stands in full recollection of the alleged discovery of a seam of coal, which proved to be a worthless coal that was said to have been detected in that region. One of the localities, at Indian Cemetery, is at the southern extremity of Mosquito Lake, south of Little Traverse Bay. The Indians report that they have often resorted thereto for fuel, and that they have burned coal in their camp fires—a statement perfectly credible if we substitute shale for coal."

We hope the investigations may prove Prof. Winchell incorrect and knock the bottom out of scientific humbug concerning the geological formation of our State. But we are of the opinion that the pauper lands will be the same as at other points in Michigan where these shale drift has created such fond hopes of future wealth.

Ground feed at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

If England should declare war against Russia, Germany against England, and France against Germany, and Austria against Italy, and Greece against Turkey, and China against the whole Asiatic Orient, and Ireland strike for liberty—wouldn't there be a shaking up of the old dry bones?

Two Chinese Masonic lodges are reported to be flourishing at Portland Oregon.

The eldest son of President Hayes has commenced the practice of law in New York city. His name is Herchard Hayes

---

The mourning color of the Turks is blue, and blue must be in pretty lively demand in that country about these days.

The Protestant orthodox clergymen of Philadelphia met last week and resolved—That we put on record, as the sense of this body, that the orthodox doctrine of future and endless punishment of the finally impenitent is finally held by all the evangelical churches of this day within our limits

---

The tax payer of the Western city is dropping something into the eastern man's money box all the time. Their account bonds and county mortgages without end. Eastward the star of interest takes its way.

Last Fall, the Military Cemetery at Andersonville, which was owned by sixteen States, was formally transferred to the Federal Government, the United States assuming the ownership and assuming a debt of $15,000 on the monument which was erected there some years ago. The Secretary of War will make a report on the subject to Congress, and ask an appropriation of this amount to lift the debt.

P. T. Barnum has commenced to compile another show for next Summer, and has sent his agent to Europe to hope in foreign attractions.

Over forty females, whose characters were not at all doubtful, were recently banished from Syracuse.

Printing type is made of hardened glass in Paris. The glass types are said to last longer than the metallic.

John B. Gough has delivered 7,000 speeches and lectures, which have delighted millions of people and made him a rich man.

Turkish soldiers recover from their wounds in a marvelous manner in many instances, owing to their strictly temperate living.

Londoners say cawn for carn, aunt for a tunch, and weal for wheel.

Hon. Ames Rodgers is the only colored member in the Georgia House of Representatives. He must be lonesome "down thar."

There must be wealth in the Black Hills, four mines there were sold to a California company for $400,000.

Sitting Bull has come back from the queen's Canadian dominions and is encamped with a large force of Sioux and Ner Perces in the Bear Paw mountains.

When the school Congress opens in Washington this week will it be Krarts or Science who will ask "Can I go out?"

There is now an establishment in New York devoted solely to the business of hiring out dress coats. A very convenient institution for men who want to "dress up" on special occasions.

"German Syrup."

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German Syrup. In three years two million bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge to Druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, Severe Coughs, Pneumonia and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs, giving the American people indisputable proof that German Syrup will cure them. The result has been that Druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your Druggist, and ask what they know about it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

To Whom It May Concern.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Corporation Tax Carp River Improvement Company is organized and existing by virtue of a law of the State of Michigan, entitled. "An Act to authorize the formation of corporations for the purpose of improving the low flatten of Carp River, approved April 18th, 1859, did, on the 30th day of Dec., 1875, submit to the Board of County of the County of Emmet and State of Michigan, a certain ship Canal a map or plan of the sections of Carp River, being in the county of Mackinaw, in the State of Michigan which the undersigned Corporation proposes to improve, and a profile of the same, showing the size and depth of the said improvements, also a copy of the notice given with the Clerk of said County, the names of the owners of the several parcels of land affected, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 28th day of February next, as the day of hearing before them of objections to said proposed improvements, and ordered that the time of such hearing be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and published in said County of Emmet, for four successive weeks previous to the said 28th day of February next, and that a copy of said order be mailed to each of the owners of the several parcels of land affected, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 28th day of February next, as the day of hearing before them of objections to said proposed improvements, and ordered that the time of such hearing be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and published in said County of Emmet, for four successive weeks previous to the said 28th day of February next, and that a copy of said order be mailed to each of the owners of the several parcels of land affected, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

Cadillac, Mich., Dec. 19, 1877.

Ground feed at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

If England should declare war against Russia, Germany against England, and France against Germany, and Austria against Italy, and Greece against Turkey, and China against the whole Asiatic Orient, and Ireland strike for liberty—wouldn't there be a shaking up of the old dry bones?

Two Chinese Masonic lodges are reported to be flourishing at Portland Oregon.

The eldest son of President Hayes has commenced the practice of law in New York city. His name is Herchard Hayes

---

The mourning color of the Turks is blue, and blue must be in pretty lively demand in that country about these days.

The Protestant orthodox clergymen of Philadelphia met last week and resolved—That we put on record, as the sense of this body, that the orthodox doctrine of future and endless punishment of the finally impenitent is finally held by all the evangelical churches of this day within our limits

---

The tax payer of the Western city is dropping something into the eastern man's money box all the time. Their account bonds and county mortgages without end. Eastward the star of interest takes its way.

Last Fall, the Military Cemetery at Andersonville, which was owned by sixteen States, was formally transferred to the Federal Government, the United States assuming the ownership and assuming a debt of $15,000 on the monument which was erected there some years ago. The Secretary of War will make a report on the subject to Congress, and ask an appropriation of this amount to lift the debt.

P. T. Barnum has commenced to compile another show for next Summer, and has sent his agent to Europe to hope in foreign attractions.

Over forty females, whose characters were not at all doubtful, were recently banished from Syracuse.

Printing type is made of hardened glass in Paris. The glass types are said to last longer than the metallic.

John B. Gough has delivered 7,000 speeches and lectures, which have delighted millions of people and made him a rich man.

Turkish soldiers recover from their wounds in a marvelous manner in many instances, owing to their strictly temperate living.

Londoners say cawn for carn, aunt for a tunch, and weal for wheel.

Hon. Ames Rodgers is the only colored member in the Georgia House of Representatives. He must be lonesome "down thar."

There must be wealth in the Black Hills, four mines there were sold to a California company for $400,000.

Sitting Bull has come back from the queen's Canadian dominions and is encamped with a large force of Sioux and Ner Perces in the Bear Paw mountains.

When the school Congress opens in Washington this week will it be Krarts or Science who will ask "Can I go out?"

There is now an establishment in New York devoted solely to the business of hiring out dress coats. A very convenient institution for men who want to "dress up" on special occasions.

$777 a Month and expenses guaranteed to agents everywhere. Outfit free. Address P. O. VICKERY, Augusta, Maine.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office, Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 26, 1877. Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene F. Peters against Alonzo Aiken, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 3,016, dated April 15, 1875, upon the east ½ of section 29, Township 32 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

These parties having leased LEMUEL LAPH'S saw-mill and are now doing, will be sold to consumers at the following rates: Rough Lumber, $8 per thousand feet.

LEMUEL LAPH.
DEMOCRAT & SENTINEL
Charlevoix June 17, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline,

I offer my farm for sale. It contains 80 acres, 30 of which are improved, and has on it a good house, barn, orchard and other buildings, and is situated on the road between Charlevoix and Petoskey. Terms easy. Enquire of

Chas. Hosier,
Charlevoix Mich.

FARM FOR SALE
IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of N½ Sec. 20, Town 32 North of Range 8 West, 80 acres. Twenty-five acres improved. Good house and barn. Apply to the undersigned on the premises. Will sell cheap for cash.

ANTONIA SAUER.
Ellsworth, Mich.

W. V. CAMPBELL. C. S. RATHBUN.

CAMPBELL & RATHBUN,

Commission Merchants,

And the Sale of

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 36, MARINE BLOCK. MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.
THE Sentinel

JOB PRINTING
Office,
Is the place to get all kinds of neat
JOB WORK
EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. Smith

LAW
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Pine land for sale in Antrim, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale on very low terms. Most of these lands are situated on the South Arm, Lake Charlevoix and Pine Lake and are included in school districts, and situated on the roads.

For terms and description apply to or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix, Mich.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(Sept. 6, 1877—1y.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Legeal, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Alexander, Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Cheboygan, in Chancery, at the city of Cheboygan, on the 23rd day of July, A.D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but reside in Wisconsin, on the motion of Mills Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered here within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer the bill of complaint filed herein, or serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill, and in default thereof that said bill be taken as confessed by said non-residents. And that in the event of their appearance herein they be required to give security for costs. And that a notice of this order be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks, in succession, or that a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-residents defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. PATCH, JR.
Circuit Judge.

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Comp'l, and P.O. Address.
13-5w.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Mills Eaton against Le Roy Fairchild, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 3,216, dated Oct 15, 1875, upon the north ½ of sec. 32, Township 32 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 25, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Pardee for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 2,907, dated April 15, 1876, upon the north ½ of the south ½ of section 19, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 21, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Matilda A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 2,982, dated Oct. 6, 1875, upon the south ½ of the south ½ of section 7, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 24th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH
AND DOOR
FACTORY.
J. E. Grielick & Co.,
Traverse City. - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular size AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price list sent on application Orders by mail or lost will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop

All kinds of Light and Heavy
HARNESS.

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholsterng a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Butlers' store.

JAS. F. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

Bristol Clothes Washer
SAVES THOUSANDS OF LIVES ANNUALLY

Patented Nov. 15, 1869.

The only machine in the world that makes flannels and woolens without full ing. It is simple; has but two rollers; cannot possibly get out of order; and fits into any tub. Clothes cannot become entangled, and it will wash a bed quilt or a wrist-band perfectly. It is noiseless, and does not wear or tear the clothes.

Sold at the Low Price of $7.50.

A child can work it easily. It washes four Skirts at once. Also Skirts, Collars, and Wrist-bands clean. It is the favorite everywhere. All who see this machine in operation exclaim

Joy to the World! Relief has Come!!

Everybody buying is satisfied with the Bristol Washer.

If not for sale in your place, send us $7.50 and we will send you a Washer by express, or, if you prefer, will send one C.O.D.

Agents wanted everywhere. For terms and illustrated circular address

BRISTOL WASHER CO.,
33 S. Water St., Chicago.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 40 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Jan. 29. 1878. Whole No., 455

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—
OFFICE Postoffice Building
Up Higbie Street

Terms of Subscription.
$1.50 per Annum, in Advance.
To Free six months

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 mo.	2 mo.	3 mo.	6 mo.	1 yr.
One in.	$ 2.00	$ 3.00	$ 4.00	$ 5.00	$ 8.00	$ 10.00	$ 15.00	$ 25.00
2 "	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	15.00	25.00	40.00
3 "	4.00	5.00	6.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	50.00
4 "	5.00	6.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00	40.00	60.00
1 col.	8.00	10.00	12.00	20.00	30.00	40.00	60.00	100.00
2 "	12.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	45.00	60.00	100.00	175.00
3 "	15.00	20.00	25.00	40.00	60.00	80.00	125.00	200.00
4 "	20.00	25.00	30.00	50.00	75.00	100.00	175.00	300.00

Outside Business Locals 15 cents per line per week.

Local advertisements in alternate issues.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. MILLER, Surveyor and Civil Engineer, Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. MOFFATT, Charlevoix City, Michigan.

LOVELL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Little River, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Charlevoix, Mich. Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, Notary Public, and Collection Agent.

A. E. PRESCOTT, Circuit Court and Real Estate Agent, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Repairer, Mich. Particular attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Ek Rapids, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,
Physician, Surgeon & Obstetrician
Office and residence on Bridge street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Thos. Campbell & Sons,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. J. PAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
CHEBOYGAN, MICH.

S. J. FARMER,

POST AND SHIP MASTER,

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS-FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street.

EMMA J. HAWES.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

D. BEN W. CUTTLE, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. holds stated Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
ARI PERRY, Sec'y.

I. O. L.

Pine Shell Lodge No. 314 I. O. L. meets at Crooked Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 2 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive hearty attendance.

PEDRANT BRASS, W. M.
GEO. DAWSON, Sec'y.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan. County of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate Office, in the Village of Charlevoix, on Friday the 28th day of January A. D. 1878. Present, J. Milo Eaton, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Nathaniel F. Vermette deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Newton Youmans praying that a certain instrument now on file in this County purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that letters may be granted to the executor therein named. Thereupon, it is ordered, that Saturday, the 23d day of February next at ten o'clock forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the office in the Village of Charlevoix, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be printed in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate.
A true copy.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

SOUTH—Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays at 11 a. m.; depart on the same days at 1 p. m.

NORTH—Mails arrive at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Fridays; depart at 6 p. m. on the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Flour, per barrel	5 00
Oats, per bushel	30
Barley, per bushel	50
Corn, per bushel	30
Buckwheat, per bushel	50
Peas, per bushel	75
Potatoes, per bushel	25 to 30
Eggs, per dozen	15
Lard, per pound	10
Chickens, dressed, per pound	10
Pork, per barrel	$4 50 to $5 75
Hay, per ton	5 00
Beef hides, per pound	4½
Beef, per pound, by the quarter	4 to 6

SEE & WASHBURN are progressing finely with their dock.

Trains have been [illegible] in Crooked Lake, recently, while crossing on the ice.

The editor has just returned from a ten days' tour, and will give particulars in next issue.

JUDGE EATON went to Petoskey yesterday.

Use Carter's ink and writing fluid—the best there is. Carpenter & Bartholomew keep it.

OWING to the absence of the Editor, no editorial appears in this issue of the SENTINEL.

WE have had a few very gentle showers of snow since our last issue, but not sufficient to make first rate sledding

A GREENBACK CLUB was organized in this village last Friday night with Joseph M. Clark for President, Orlando Blair vice President, Nelson Abelle secretary, and John Woods as Treasurer

ROUND LAKE is nearly frozen over, but not long enough to make it safe for the skaters.

SAM SEE and Bert Brown have received the deeds to their homesteads in Hayes township.

FOX, Rose & Butlers have a supply of excellent fresh oysters.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT
CROUTER'S

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Why be content to be satisfied, poor goods, and cut by the people of Charlevoix and surrounding country with anything but that which is the best, prescriptions compounded night or day, cheap.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Leave Charlevoix at 7 a. m., Arrive at Petoskey at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m., arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Every necessary attachment for the comfort of passengers will be made, and the locals will be reasonable. Also, no freights or express will be delivered at as low prices as possible

H. C. MILH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, of 2 rods front by 10 rods deep, all in the Village of CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the north side of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE. U.S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. M. Dennison, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6614, dated April 1, 1875, upon the E½ of sec. 4, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Jasper Priest, Homestead No. 6614, for the E½ of sec. 4, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wm. M. Dennison, Jasper Priest, Wm. Priest, Jr., Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. M. Dennison, Homestead No. 6615, for the W½ of sec. 4, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. Priest, Jr., Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6616, for the E½ of sec. 5, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6617, for the W½ of sec. 5, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6618, for the E½ of sec. 6, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6619, for the W½ of sec. 6, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6620, for the E½ of sec. 7, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6621, for the W½ of sec. 7, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6622, for the E½ of sec. 8, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6623, for the W½ of sec. 8, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6624, for the E½ of sec. 9, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6625, for the W½ of sec. 9, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6626, for the E½ of sec. 10, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6627, for the W½ of sec. 10, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6628, for the E½ of sec. 11, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6629, for the W½ of sec. 11, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Sr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Sr., Homestead No. 6630, for the E½ of sec. 12, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Jasper Priest, Wm. M. Dennison, Wm. Priest, Jr., all of Charlevoix, Mich.

ERWIN C. MOFFATT, Register.

Notice for Publication.

LAND OFFICE AT TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Dec. 26, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday, February 23, 1878, viz:

Wm. Priest, Jr., Homestead No. 6631, for the W½ of sec. 12, Township 33 North, Range 8 West.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

CONGRESS reassembled, on the 10th. In the Senate bills were introduced to regulate Chinese immigration; to admit women, duly qualified, to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States; to improve the navigation of the Mississippi River. A joint resolution was submitted and referred proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting States from making appropriations for sectarian purposes. Mr. Sargent prescribes a preamble and resolution in favor of a session of the Senate, on the 18th, at which representatives from all parts of the country who favor a Constitutional amendment securing to women the right of suffrage might be heard in behalf of such measure. After debate, the resolution was rejected—yeas, 12; nays, 31. The Matthews resolution declaring the right of the Government to pass the mails in the original and interested hands in silver coin was further discussed. Adjourned to the 11th. ....In the House, Mr. Wood's resolutions directing investigations into the management of several departments of the Government, was considered. Referred to the Ways and Means Committee. Mr. Wade, another Ohio Democrat, was attended some to provide that when any controller shall exercise executive power and authority for any investigation, etc., not pertaining to or over the duties of the officer or officers charged with improper or unlawful conduct, and specify the nature of the charge proposed to be investigated. The resolution as amended was then agreed to by a unanimous vote. Bills were introduced—to prohibit the employment of Chinese or mongolians on any public works of the United States; to prevent the naturalization of Chinese or Mongolians; to which it had proved the practice of polygamy in the United States; to amend the Revised Statutes in relation to pleas, and the discontinuance of in-court and bail or upon recognizance.

SENATE not in session on the 11th. ....In the House, bills were introduced and referred—to provide for the payment of arrears and the funding of the National debt; to give construction to the act for the resumption of specie payments, authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue coupon bonds of the denominations of $5, $25, $50 and $100 for the investment of savings banks. The previous question was moved and resolved—yeas 111, on the Wood investigation resolution, to amend the previous day in connection of the Woods, and the original resolution as subsequently adopted—111 to 127. A resolution was offered and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, asking the President to communicate his reasons for refusing to recognize the present Government of Mexico, under Lerdo Diaz, with such orders, correspondence and other documents as he may decide to that subject. Adjourned to the 16th.

In the Senate, on the 14th, Mr. Davis, of Illinois, presented the petition of 60 bankers and business men of Chicago in favor of retaining gold as the single standard of value, and against the repeal of the Specie Resumption act; also, the proceedings of a meeting held at Bloomington, Ill., in favor of the re-election of the Secretary of the Treasury. Several other petitions and memorials were presented and referred. Mr. Edmunds submitted a long report in favor of maintaining the right of the Government to pay the bonds in silver, and the bill was ordered printed. Mr. Bailey spoke in favor of the Southern claims bill. ....In the House, a large number of bills were introduced and referred, among which were the following: Providing for a Commission on the expediency of constructing a ship canal around the several falls on which to make dockage for the removal of the lumber and timber from the Upper Mississippi and its tributaries, and to furnish additional facilities to the lumbering and milling interests and trust companies. A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of War for information in regard to the Indian depredations on the Rio Grande. Mr. Wood, of New York, introduced a resolution declaring the right of the Government to pay the bonds and coupons

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH.

E. B. BAKER LEADER

NAVY No. 1.

"Hermida's Syrup."

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Situated on the Cooper Farm,

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

OF

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

WATER AND RAIL.

Just a Wilderness by any Means

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

Dry Goods.

Carpeting.

Oil Cloths.

Matting, &c.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, &c.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter

GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods, as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market. Black Mohairs, Brocade Alpacas, Black Cashmeres, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when every one is expecting cheap goods, we would say to the customers of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, that we have taken advantage of the panic, and have purchased our Fall and Winter Goods, and can positively say we have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix for the money, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Rodins, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Wood Goods, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER

&

Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INTEND TO GIVE

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix Mich.

She Stands at The Head!

His easiest adjusted tensions

It is beautiful in style and ... Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. Our for best machines and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machines. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. FURNHAM,

Manager,

63 Madison St.

Toledo O

Stop and Consider!

Very Cheap,

Dry Goods,

Clothing,

Hats, Caps

And Groceries,

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Crockery Goods

BOTTOM PRICES.

Remember the Place,

See & Washburn,

J. Mile Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law.

ALSO

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wildland and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken in good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crockery Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10-1y.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and hopes for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

...the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopolie

THE LOCAL DEP'T

In this crowding feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A SMITH, Publisher

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stphens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

TEAS, BUTTER, PEANUTS, CANNED GOODS, FRESH FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers. 15, 17 & 19 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

We carry the largest stock of Green Tea in the business. Orders for Japan Teas A Specialty. Prompt attention given orders.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. S. STEPHENS.

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5.50

Gunn's New Family Physician—1,700 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $3 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private—at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. HALEH, Bennett's, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

A180

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been rebuilt, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug ply from hereto

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which season spreads at Speckled Trout. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

News, Book and Job Inks all warranted of superior quality. No cheaper inferior grades of ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS.

184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

Terrible Death in a Mine.

Michael Comerford, a Virginia (Nev.) miner, met a terrible death a few days ago by falling into the hot water below the shaft of the Dale & Norcross mine. He was missed about half-past two o'clock, and search was made for him along the incline below the 1,900 level. At a point forty-five feet above the 2,000 level a mark was found on one of the rollers on which the pump-rod moves, which indicated that his foot had slipped there, dust below were marks where his hands had grasped the slimy sides of the rock and slipped away again. The marks of his struggles were traced down to the water below the 2,000 level. Here a timber was found protruding from the slum, which also bore the prints of his hands. As the miners held their lanterns over this cauldron of hot water, they shuddered to think of the tearful death which had overtaken their comrade. The body was not in sight, and the surface of the pool was still, except where the gases broke in bubbles, and the water, heated at 152 degrees Fahrenheit, sent up continual volumes of steam. After it became certain that Comerford must have fallen into the water, a long iron rod, with a hook at the end, was procured and the pool explored for the body. After rummaging, the work the rod struck against something movable about twelve or fifteen feet below the surface. The hook caught and it was slowly drawn up. The miners bent breathless over the spot, and as the body came above the surface they were horrified at the ghastly spectacle which the swollen and cooked corpse presented. The body was almost double its natural size, being puffed up with the intense heat, and in many places the skin of the face and chest, which was as white as snow, had burst open. A bruise in the forehead showed that the unfortunate miner had struck something in his fall and was doubtless stunned. The body was wrapped up in a piece of canvas, and then strapped to a board and placed upon the cage, where it was held upright by three or four of the miners and slowly hoisted to the surface, and the brother of the deceased, who works in the Savage mine, and who had been sent for, met the remains at the mouth of the shaft, and was nearly crazed with grief.—Virginia City (Nev.) Chronicle.

Revision of English Spelling.

At the annual meeting of the American Philological Society, held, recently, at the Cooper Union, the Rev. D. P. Lindsley gave an address on the present aspect of the spelling reform, of which the following is an abstract:

The speaker assumed that such a reform was in progress, and needed no longer any defense. The need of some amendment of the irregularities of our spelling is generally conceded. These irregularities are in the way of the education of our youth. They rob our children of three or four years of the best part of their life, hinder the education of the illiterate classes, and impose an unnecessary burden upon all. They embarrass missionary operations, and hinder the spread of the English language throughout the world. The most learned linguists both of England and America are now ready for reform. The only questions are, is a reform feasible, and if so, in what way can it be best brought about?

Both questions may be resolved into one, for it is feasible if properly attempted, though confessedly impracticable on the old phonetic theory of the last generation. Any change must be for a time inconvenient, but the pressing necessity of the reform outweighs the transient inconveniences of the transition period.

The reform, he said, must be gradual. No perfected scheme can be introduced, for the old spelling and the new must be used side by side, for at least a generation, if they must be near enough together to be intelligible to all. The young must be able to read the old books, and the old must find the new literature readable without special study. The principal schemes of revision that have been offered were then classified and discussed at length—the new letter and digraphic schemes being those most prominent. These, though attempting the same end, differed so, both contain excellent features and can be merged into one practical system of spelling, upon which all could unite. We need not be afraid of conflicting views. All the theories put forth are useful, as they tend to throw light upon the questions involved. The labors of all are needed, and all can work together, no matter what special theories they may have on the subject. The plan of revision, however, which is the most practical, is that followed by the revisers of our translation of the Bible. As they make the present translation the basis, and correct its errors, so we must make our present orthography the basis, and amend and improve it, instead of endeavoring to make a new orthography.—N. Y. Observer.

An Actor's Narrow Escape.

Somebody having written a blood thirsty drama, entitled the "Wainwright Tragedy" (founded upon a very horrible murder that took place a short time since, in which a man was discovered carrying in a sack a lot of parcels containing fragments of the body of the poor woman he had scarified of and then put out of the world), it was being acted at a traveling theater at a country-town in Leicestershire. The play had proceeded all right, the audience, of course, enjoying the horrors immensely, when, in the final scene, the hero was brought up, duly pinioned, to be hanged. The rope was adjusted about his neck, and the curtain was about to fall upon the last dying agonies, when somehow the stool on which the actor's feet should really have rested got pushed aside, and the man was all but hanged in earnest. He was promptly cut down, of course, when his struggles and gasping lugs for breath were perceived, but he was quite black in the face, poor fellow! Doubtless, after this pleasing incident the play, unless suppressed by the police, will draw better than ever.—London Letter to San Francisco Chronicle.

Fun Among the Members of the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange.

The first half-dozen or so of the members of the Commercial Exchange who reached the Board yesterday morning constituted themselves a committee on reception. Armed with tin horns and three inflated bladders with which clown so numerically pommels luckless Pantaloon, on the stage, they swatted fresh arrivals. As the members reached the top of the stairs they were received with a deafening flourish from the horns. This compliment, as a rule, was acknowledged with a profound bow, which was the signal for the opening of hostilities. The committee would draw the bladders from beneath their coat-tails, and the first blow, given with a hearty good-will, would light on the new-comer's hat and send it scurrying across the floor. Away he would go after it, only to catch it on every side from his relentless pursuers, who would send it away at him until the cry of "fresh fish" from the outposts would announce another victim. When the last man had regained his wind he would curoll himself in the ranks, and mete out to the next unfortunate, with redoubled vigor, the punishment bestowed on him. Hats, especially high ones, were the objective point of attack and when Stephen S. Winslow, editor of the Commercial List, entered the hall in search of a few items, with a brand-new tile perched upon his head, a mighty shout of "bounce him" went up as he was in the midst of his enemies. Mr. Winslow speeded around the hall once or twice, in a vain effort to escape from his assailants. His time was good, but there was just so much latent force held in reserve for the newspaper man, and he got the full benefit of it. As he flew down the stairs in escape, three steps at a time, as if to add insult to injury, a gentleman who had been there, innocently inquired: "Steve, have you been up-stairs?" "Have I?" he indignantly shouted, "look at that," and, showing his damaged two-dollar head-cover into his tormentor's face, he rapidly continued toward his office, with vengeance clouding his brow.

Toward noon the fun became rougher. Bags of flour were thrown and bursted until the floor looked as if the Exchange had been out in a snow-storm, with no rout to cover it, and, to cap the climax, some one hurled a full-sized foot-ball into the center of the room. For two long hours the members kicked, pushed and scrambled, and upset each other, to their fear or favor, until they were completely exhausted and were forced to sit down for repairs.—Philadelphia Times.

A Bear-Bearing Tree.

We have received a communication from a correspondent of Pendleton, Umatilla County, Ore., recording a recent exploit of Mr. John McCracken, an Illinoisan, who is now herding sheep in the wilds "where rolls the Oregon." McCracken left his sheep one day for a ramble in the Blue Mountain, with his trusty gun on his shoulder. He had not gone far when he was faced by a very large gray she-bear. The bear was so "unaccustomed with man," that she made for McCracken without hesitation, but soon reconsidered the motion when she discovered that the man didn't scare. McCracken cracked away at her. She retraced her steps and commenced climbing a tree near by. Another shot brought her down all in a heap at the foot of the tree. McCracken reloaded and crept up softly to see if the bear was quite dead. He heard a noise overhead, looked up and saw another big bear coming lumbering down the tree for business. He waited for a dead shot and fired both barrels for a sure thing. The second bear came down with accelerated velocity and fell all in a heap at the foot of the tree. Another noise overhead. Eyes up. Another big bear was scratching bark, coming down to see what was the matter with the others. McCracken had no more loads—had no time to load, and he ran away from under that bearbearing tree. He made rapid tracks to camp, and, reloading, mounted his horse and rode back to the slaughter of bears. The other fellow was still around, and having ascertained the fate of his fellows—and observing the reinforcement of the enemy—he took to the tree. McCracken drew a bead on him, fired and the third bear fell all in a heap at the foot of the tree. There were no more bears to come down, but there were three dead bears lying all in a heap under that bear-bearing tree. John McCracken did it with his trusty gun, and our correspondent, S. Richardson, vouches for the exploit. He desires that McCracken's friends in Illinois should know that John McCracken has received due honors as the champion bear-killer of Oregon. The sheep herder of the Blue Mountains was living on the fat of the land at last accounts. This was about the middle of December. Has anybody got a better bear record? If so, let them speak or forever hereafter content themselves with bagging smaller game.—Missouri Republican.

How a French Boy Objected to Being Named After Assassins.

Louis Jacopin, a boy of fifteen, was been on trial at the Court of Assizes of the Seine, Paris, for the murder of his brother, a lad of fourteen. The murder occurred on the 6th of May last, and is certainly a truly French curiosity of crime.

The two boys worked in common in a cabinet-maker's shop. One morning, in the course of certain jocular exchanges of conversation, Alexander Jacopin, the murdered boy, called his brother "Billoir and Magnax."

"Why do you name me after those infamous assassins?" insisted Louis.

"Because I choose," returned his brother, laughing. "You are not foolish enough to get angry, are you?"

"But there is Clemence (their employer's daughter) laughing at me," demanded Louis.

"Pshaw! who would not laugh?" returned Alexander. "You are a goose. Go on with your work."

Louis complied, muttering and grumbling constantly.

"Magnax and Billoir, eh! Oh, I am to be called an assassin, am I? Then I will be one. One might as well be a murderer as have people call one so."

The next morning, while Alexander was planing down a plank, Louis came up to him and asked sharply:

"What if I am called?"

"Billoir and Magnax," answered his brother.

"Then I will be them!" yelled the young assassin, and before his brother could defend himself he plunged a long knife into his abdomen with such force as to literally disembowel him.

Alexander rolled on the floor and the murderous boy again and again drove the knife into his body until, when aid arrived, his victim was at the last gasp.

The precocious assassin gave no reason for his crime other than that noted above.

"He called me Billoir and Magnax," he said, "and made Clemence laugh at me. So I might as well have the crime as the reputation."

After a long trial he was acquitted on the ground of insanity.

"Living By Their Wits."

The prevalence of tramps is causing deep anxiety throughout the country. Every State in the Union, and almost every city and town, appear to be employed and apparently indolent men, who wander from place to place and live on the savings of the industrious. We say "apparently" indolent, because many of these men are victims of circumstances and undoubtedly started on their wanderings with the honest purpose of accepting the first remunerative work that offered. Wandering begets indolence, sleeping out and living by beggary and other precarious methods generates a feeling of recklessness in regard to life or property, which at last disinclines the wanderer to settle down, and makes him a permanent tramp.

The question, what to do with tramps temporarily, is not a difficult one. They should be arrested wherever they make their appearance, and put immediately at work in the service of the State—breaking stones, building walls, opening roads and erecting public institutions of all kinds. The question how to abolish the evil by preventing meritorious boys and industrious men from becoming tramps is a much more serious problem. The industrial theories and customs of this country seem calculated to increase the army of vagabonds. The root of the evil seems to lie in the American custom of bringing up boys to "live by their wits." This country has abounded in opportunities for profitable labor; it is rich in resources, and, relying on these, whole generations of boys have grown up to be men without a trade or any manual skill, and have made a respectable figure in life. This improvidence is not fatal in "flush" times, when money and work are plenty, when immigration is active, mines are being opened, new Territories organized, and speculative enterprises are spreading in every direction; but when the panic comes and long financial stringency prevails, it is sure to turn out a crop of men who cannot support themselves. No other country with half our material privileges is so cursed with vagrants as this is, because our boys have been taught that it is not necessary for them to learn a trade or become skilled in any department of art. They have been told that they can "live by their wits," that is, by cunning, barter and the various intrigues which enter into speculations.

A very radical cure would be for every American father to give his boys a thorough trade, and to warn them to relinquish the foolish notion of "living by their wits." They ought to be taught not only that they must live by hard work, but that even a willingness to work hard at whatever turns up will not avail them, but that unless they have skilled labor of some kind at their fingers' ends they will not be likely to remain above want. "As lessons cannot be too earnestly enforced. Nothing surprises a foreigner in this country so much as to see such crowds of thousands of boys and young men coming into life with the impression that a high degree of skill in anything is unnecessary, and that shrewdness and tact can be made to take the place of industry that is in demand. The fact is that even this country, with all its riches, has no remunerative wages for anything but skilled labor—meaning by "skilled labor" the ability to do some one thing, whether it be in mechanics, manufactures, mining or farming, better than it can be done by one who has not spent some time in acquiring the art. The reason why hundreds of thousands of men are out of work to-day is not so much because they are naturally indolent, as because they do not know how to do anything for which the world is willing to pay.

Of course there are tens of thousands of skilled laborers out of work to-day, and other tens of thousands living on meager wages; but this is the inevitable result of hard times, and it does not at all affect the fact that of our entire population the skilled laborers are best off, and that the army of houseless nomads is not recruited from their ranks. The first industrial lesson which every prudent father should teach his son is, "Do not try to live by your wits, for they will probably fail you when the pinch comes; but learn to do some one thing that the world is willing to pay for, and to do it well."—N. Y. Graphic.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Mr. Bryant frequently speaks in a caressing manner of Walt Whitman's young man Whittier.—Rochester Chronicle.

The Chicago Tribune has come to the conclusion that the spelling of the English language in this country has become perfectly lawless.

—Frazer's Magazine acknowledges that Londoners say cawn for corn, pawk for pork, lauder for lard, which for which and weal for wheel.

—Manton Marble is living happily in New York, devoting his time mainly to studies in political economy. He says he is glad to get out of journalism, and will never return to it.

—Mr. Redfield says that no man living is able to write at the rate of a column an hour—the rate prescribed by Mr. Forbes as necessary for a successful war correspondent.

—Mr. Lawrence Barrett says, in the Gateway, concerning Charlotte Cushman, that to those who were permitted to know her well, there was a sweetness, a gentleness, a soft womanliness about her which the world never suspected, which judged her only by her public performances.

—This story about the Hon E. M. Stoughton is from the Philadelphia Bulletin: He was recently introduced to a prominent gentleman of the West, interested in pork-packing, very stout and very wealthy. Said the latter gentleman: "Delighted to meet you, Mr. Stoughton. I have seen you name in print, often enough. I use your bitters myself."

The expenses of Stanley's great African journeys, just concluded, have been about $115,000, borne equally by the New York Herald and London Telegraph—more than any previous African expedition, private or governmental, but the results, for that reason, more complete and important results than any other.

—Blind Tom, though his name is Thomas Greene Bethune, never gets it right in the middle. So there is one black man who is not a servile imitator of the whites. It is very easy for Thomas to call himself "T. Greene Bethune," and even to prefix the trademark of genius, "Prof.," but he refrains.—Exchange.

George Barnard was a highly-respected school teacher in Litchfield Com. The other day he gave himself up to the police and confessed that he had ruined his two aunts by forged orders upon savings banks. He had the entire confidence of three two women, who had given him his education. He was sentenced to four years in the Penitentiary.

An American Dish.

An amusing story is told, of which it is averred that no less a personage than the late George Peabody, the celebrated American banker, was the hero. It appears that Mr. Peabody had invited three Englishmen to meet two Americans at dinner, and on this occasion, having received as a gift ten ears of green corn, determined to renew the recollections of his youth, astonish his English and please his American guests by having it served up in the well-known American style. Accordingly, at a proper time, plates of butter and salt were placed before each guest, and the banker, with something of an air of mystery, announced that he was about to treat his guests to a well-known and delicious American dish of food, peculiar to the American manner. It would be no novelty to his American guests, but the Englishmen must watch how it was disposed of by them, and follow their example and manner in disposing of it. Then, at a signal, entered a stately butler bearing a large covered dish, which he deposited solemnly before Mr. Peabody. It is a moment more, in obedience to the banker's nod, he whisked off the cover, and there before the astonished guests, was displayed a pile of ten boiled corncobs! The banker gazed for an instant in mute horror and dismay, and then found voice to demand an explanation, which was finally received when the cook was summoned—a fellow who had never before seen an ear of Indian corn in his life. He replied that he had followed his master's directions to "strip off all the outside before boiling, which he had done most faithfully, not only the husks, as was intended, but kernels also, so that the banker had only what is, in America, the plate evidence of the feast to indicate what were his good intentions to his guests.—Philadelphia Herald.

THE Napa Valley (Cal.) wine-makers have shipped 80,000 gallons of last year's vintage which commands a higher price than the previous year.

What is an engagement?

The Boston Courier, in discussing what constitutes an engagement, says:

What really constitutes a sacred obligation in those matters, and how far a gentleman should consider himself bound, is too nice a subject to be briefly expressed. But a matrimonial engagement does not consist of any of the civilities and courtesies of life which a gentleman may extend to a lady. It is not unfrequently the case, however, that these are mistaken for declarations, and the announcement is made at once that such persons are engaged. Such is the impudence of friends, and frequently of the lady herself, that the common politeness and attention which are ever due between the sexes are construed into proposals of matrimony, and a man hears the report of his engagement, while, as yet, not even a dream of the thing has passed through his mind. If a man escort a lady to the theater, if he walk with her in the streets, if he occasionally visit her for the sake of her good society, the report is not infrequently set on foot by some indiscreet friend that the parties are engaged. Neither does an engagement consist of any politeness or social intercourse which a lady may extend to a gentleman. There are young gentlemen, however, of such consummate vanity as to suppose that such treatment is nothing less than the strongest intimation of personal attachment. If a lady so much as look at them, they fancy that it must be a love-affair. A smile, a pleasant look, a social interview, is set down by such conceited small souls as the most unequivocal declaration of love. They tell of the conquest they have made with an air of triumph, and never know their mistake till they learn it in that reserved and neglect which their conduct so richly deserves. Neither does an engagement consist in any of those preliminary steps which are so important, in order to a just estimate of the character and qualifications of the person with whom you would be united for life. Many persons, however, imagine that every such step is a step of committal. While the individual is only beginning to form acquaintance and making those judicious investigations which every one is bound to make in this matter by a regard to his own happiness and that of others, he is considered as fairly committed without the possibility of honorable retreat. But this is all wrong, whether it be the sentiment of individuals, or public sentiment. Without such investigation a man might as well consult his interest in this matter to-a lady whom he never beheld. He might as well be betrothed, before they children by their parents, without his consent, as to any other. He might as well blindfold himself, and rush into a crowd of females and select a companion for life, as to do this. Persons suppose their daughters little less than angels, if they expect to betroth them to any respectable young ladies are so superficial in character and accomplishments as not to admit of such honorable and wise scrutiny, they had better look to their ideas of marriage life, and become nuns at once

Neither does an engagement consist in the mutual confession of love on the part of either the gentleman or the lady. This may all be, yet no engagement of marriage be considered formed. And yet there are those who suppose that such declarations of tenderness impose an obligation on their friend which cannot be dissolved or violated. It is true such a disclosure on the part of the gentleman imposes certain duties on the part of the female. If her circumstances are such as to render an engagement impossible, she is bound by every principle to acquaint him immediately with the fact, and keep the transaction a secret. If her circumstances are such as to render it proper for her to enter into a matrimonial engagement, it is proper then that she make this proposal a matter of mutual and serious consideration. If she is satisfied with his character, and entertains the requisite amount of affection to make their union happy, she has nothing left but to make known to him her acceptance of his proposal. But if, after due consideration, and inquiry, and deliberation, she is conducted to a contrary conviction, she is bound in honor to inform him of the fact, in a way least likely to wound his sensibilities or mortify his pride. She will consider it, too, both a dictate of modesty and prudence and honor to disclose the circumstance to no living being. There are many men who make a point of paying particular attentions indiscriminately to several ladies, and when their marked observances have exposed them to misrepresentation and calumny, wonder how such could be the result, not meaning any harm, and only intending to amuse themselves. There are those whose minds are so strangely constituted that they take no pleasure but in mischief, and delight in carrying the things of a husband or father by singling out their female connections as the object of their public homage, and who care not about the misconstruction to which they subject their helpless victim, provided they can gratify their whims and malevolence. From whatever cause it proceeds, the effects are the same, and the person who exposes a woman to unmerited disgrace is as contemptible as he is depraved and foolish. The character of a female coquette is sufficiently odious and repulsive, but when the gentlemen think proper to imitate the weaknesses and vices of the ladies, they become altogether disgusting.

—You can get a month of agony out of the sting of one weak bumble-bee.

VEGETINE
WILL CURE RHEUMATISM.

MR. ALBERT CROCKER, the well-known druggist and apothecary, of Stillwater, Me., always advises every one troubled with Rheumatism to try VEGETINE.

Read His Statement:

STILLWATER, ME., Oct. 12, 1878.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Fifteen years ago last fall I was taken sick with rheumatism, was unable to move until the next April. From that time until three years ago this fall I suffered everything with rheumatism. Sometimes I would be weeks at a time [illegible] could not step one step; these times I was confined to my bed. I suffered everything that a man could. Over three years ago last spring I commenced taking Vegetine, and followed it up until I had taken seven bottles. I have had no rheumatism since that time. I always advise every one that is troubled with rheumatism to try Vegetine and not suffer for years as I have done. This statement is gratuitous as far as Mr. Stevens is concerned.

Yours, etc.,

ALBERT CROCKER,
Firm of A. Crocker & Co., Druggists and Apothecaries.

VEGETINE
HAS ENTIRELY CURED ME.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: BOSTON, October, 1870.

Dear Sir—For many years I suffered from a severe attack of bleeding lungs, was left in a feeble state of health, after which I was troubled with a humor in the blood. For the last three years it settled in my limbs, and I have been a cripple. I have been under the care of the best physicians, but got no relief. I was induced to try your Vegetine, and am happy to say I have taken seven bottles, and am entirely restored to health. I have taken several bottles of other blood medicines, but found no relief. I have recommended it to many of my friends, and they have used it with the same good results. It is a great blessing to suffering humanity. You are at liberty to use this letter, as I feel grateful for the benefit I have received from your valuable medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it.

JAMES MORSE, 981 Albany street.

Rheumatism is a Disease of the Blood.

The blood, in this disease, is found to contain an excess of fibrin. All attempts to overcome the blood disease must continue to be unsatisfactory, except those that remove the fibrin, which is one of the principal elements of the blood. VEGETINE has proved to be the best remedy for this complaint. One bottle of VEGETINE will give relief; but, to effect a permanent cure, it should be taken every day, and may be a very short time, especially in cases of long standing. VEGETINE is sold in all druggists. It, and your system will be found the same as that of thousands before you, who say "I never found so much relief as from the use of VEGETINE," which is composed of chalmaya of sorsa, yellow dock and herbs.

"VEGETINE" was a leading physician. "Has no equal as a blood purifier. Beyond all its claims as internal cures, after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory and examined many of its peculiar ingredients. It is even a boon to those who seek and herbs, each of which is being a curative, and I give our compounded in such a manner as to produce admirable results."

VEGETINE.

Nothing Equal to It.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: BOSTON, Nov. 11, 1875.

Dear Sir—[illegible] Scrofula, Canker and Liver Complaint, and I have been entirely cured by the use of VEGETINE. I have not seen a sick day since I commenced taking it, and can recommend it to all who are afflicted with any of the above complaints, as the only sure remedy.

Yours truly, MRS. C. F. RICHARDSON.

VEGETINE Dotmedia [illegible] Sore Eyes, Blood in the [illegible] Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworm, Tetter, Salt Rheum, and Diseases of the Skin, and all Humors of the Blood and System.

VEGETINE.

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

THE INDEPENDENT.

LARGEST, BEST, CHEAPEST RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD.

REV. JOSEPH COOK'S famous BOSTON MONDAY LECTURES.

Published Weekly each week.

Lectures on "Theology" and "Transcendentalism" delivered each year in Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., and published in THE INDEPENDENT. Also Sermons by Henry Ward Beecher, Dr. Talmage and other eminent divines.

Many other special features offered.

Price, $3 per year; $1.50 for six months; $1 for four months. Postage free. Specimen copies sent free.

Address "The Independent," New York.

AN ASTONISHING OFFER!

WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY

Subscribe for one year for THE INDEPENDENT at $3 per year. THE INDEPENDENT is the largest, best and cheapest religious newspaper in the world. Regular subscription price, $3 per year; to subscribers, with Dictionary, for one year, $4.50. Dictionary sent free.

Address "The Independent," New York.

PENSIONS Are Paid

Every Soldier of the late war, Every Soldier's Widow, Every Soldier's Child, Every Soldier's Parent, Every Soldier's Brother, Every Soldier's Sister, Every Soldier's Guardian, Every Soldier's Attorney, Every Soldier's Heir, Every Soldier's Next Friend, Every Soldier's Administrator, Every Soldier's Executor, Every Soldier's Claim Agent, Every Soldier's Pension Agent, Every Soldier's Pension Attorney, Every Soldier's Pension Claim, Every Soldier's Pension Case, Every Soldier's Pension Application, Every Soldier's Pension Certificate, Every Soldier's Pension Voucher, Every Soldier's Pension Money, Every Soldier's Pension Check, Every Soldier's Pension Draft, Every Soldier's Pension Order, Every Soldier's Pension Receipt, Every Soldier's Pension Bond, Every Soldier's Pension Mortgage, Every Soldier's Pension Deed, Every Soldier's Pension Lease, Every Soldier's Pension Contract, Every Soldier's Pension Agreement, Every Soldier's Pension Power of Attorney, Every Soldier's Pension Letter, Every Soldier's Pension Envelope, Every Soldier's Pension Stamp, Every Soldier's Pension Seal, Every Soldier's Pension Ribbon, Every Soldier's Pension Medal, Every Soldier's Pension Badge, Every Soldier's Pension Button, Every Soldier's Pension Flag, Every Soldier's Pension Banner, Every Soldier's Pension Uniform, Every Soldier's Pension Hat, Every Soldier's Pension Coat, Every Soldier's Pension Vest, Every Soldier's Pension Pants, Every Soldier's Pension Shoes, Every Soldier's Pension Boots, Every Soldier's Pension Socks, Every Soldier's Pension Shirt, Every Soldier's Pension Drawers, Every Soldier's Pension Underwear, Every Soldier's Pension Handkerchief, Every Soldier's Pension Necktie, Every Soldier's Pension Collar, Every Soldier's Pension Cuff, Every Soldier's Pension Glove, Every Soldier's Pension Mitten, Every Soldier's Pension Scarf, Every Soldier's Pension Belt, Every Soldier's Pension Buckle, Every Soldier's Pension Suspender, Every Soldier's Pension Garter, Every Soldier's Pension Sock, Every Soldier's Pension Shoe, Every Soldier's Pension Boot, Every Soldier's Pension Hat, Every Soldier's Pension Coat, Every Soldier's Pension Vest, Every Soldier's Pension Pants

The editor of the Lansing Republican recently addressed the State Teachers' Association at East Saginaw, the subject being an "Outside View of the School." The address showed that the branches of learning apparently most neglected in our public and high schools are spelling, punctuation, grammar, &c. He examined 40 term-essays of pupils in the State Normal School, and but two of them were well enough written, spelled and punctuated to permit being published without correction by the compositor. "Seventeen were passable—that is to say, they could be printed with aid from an intelligent compositor and proof-reader; the other 30 were so erroneous in capital letters, punctuation, and spelling as to require many alterations, and about 20 of them were wretched. He noted a number of cases of bad spelling by college graduates and men who proudly wrote "D. D." and "L. L. D." after their names; and said that of 17 candidates for admission to West Point only six had a perfectly written examination paper. At the State Agricultural College the mistakes in spelling of candidates for admission were so numerous that the faculty ceased to make good spelling a requisite of admission.

THE Ypsilanti Sentinel is responsible for the following:

"The only things in the way of the Michigan ship canal is, that it would be dry in the summer and frozen up in the winter. This, however, is no objection to Congress allowing Don. Henderson and other parties to squander twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars in 'preliminary surveys.' In fact, the absence of water on the route would make the survey a very pleasant summer job."

THE Fish Commission expect to be able to stock for the inland waters of the State, during the winter and spring, the fry of whitefish, lake trout, and, to a limited extent, California salmon, brook trout and, possibly, eels and grayling. Parties who desire to stock water and who will become personally responsible for the plant, should address the superintendent, Geo. H. Jerome, Niles, Mich., and particularly state the name of lake or stream, size and depth of water, and township and county where located, also, plainly write their names, postoffice address, and railroad station at which they will receive the fry.

The commission will necessarily buy to us their best judgment, and charge discriminate as to kind and quality of fry furnished, as the supply of some of the before-named varieties is quite limited. Persons complying with the above requirements will be seasonably notified by the superintendent of the day as the train when the cans of fry will reach the station, and are expected to be on hand to receive them, without fail, when the train arrives.

THE time for payment of taxes to the Township Treasurers has been extended in some of the Townships in the County.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the disease resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Hoofland's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist Geo. W. Crouter, will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sample bottles for trial, 10c; regular size, 75c.

To Whom it May Concern,

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Corporations-The Carp River Improvement Company-is in operation organized and acting by virtue of a law of the state of Michigan, entitled, "An act to authorize the formation of corporations for the purpose of improving the navigation of rivers," approved April 5th, 1865, and on the 26th day of December, submit to the Board of Control of the St. Mary's Falls Ship Canal a map or plan of the several lines of Carp River, being in the county of Mackinaw, in the State of Michigan, which are undertaken by said Company to improve, and a plan for the improvement of the same, showing the several points in the stream where the improvements are to be made, and the nature and character of said improvements; which map or plan is now on file with the Clerk of said Board, and made copies or duplicates of which have been duly signed, and have been certified, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board of Control will, on the 27th day of February next, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, meet at the office of the Secretary of said Board, at which time and place the said Company is required to hear and consider the matter of said application, and such hearing all persons interested may appear and be heard.

CARP RIVER IMPROVEMENT CO.
E. B. WARNER, Secy.

Old Stage Line

DAILY Stages, Traverse City and Elk Rapids, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Elk Rapids and Charlevoix, Passengers carried accordingly, and baggage at very low rates.

C. TOWERS.

Dec. 12, 1877.

NOTICE.—My wife, A. J. Bera, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation. All persons harboring her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting.

JOSEPH R. BERA.

Wilson, Dec. 16, 1877.

DR. A. TRASK'S

MAGNETIC OINTMENT

FOR THE CURE OF

INFLAMMATORY DISEASES.

Dr. Trask was engaged for twenty years in a course of experiments upon the medical properties and power of vegetable agents and combined. At the age of seventy years he succeeded in presenting to the world, as the result of his experiments, a combination of Vegetable Extracts, the power of which in removing diseases is unequaled in the annals of Medicine.

His discovery consists in a combination of these powerful Vegetable Extracts with Electricity or Magnetism in the form of an Ointment.

Certain, it is, that the remarkable and unprecedented success which has attended its application in the case of cancers, makes it the one as the greatest discovery of the age, and calls for a trial and close investigation of its merits.

It never fails, when there remains sufficient life to sustain a natural and healthy action to the capillary vessels of the body, and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a contracting power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease, which cannot be obtained from any other remedy.

Such is the power of this combination, that it penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone and muscle, nerve and ligament is searched out, and made sensible of its purifying and healing influence; hence it cures as readily with internal as external disease.

Numerous instances are on record where this remedy has restored health to patients so near the grave that the most powerful internal remedies failed to produce any effect. Such has frequently been the case in inflamation of the Bowels.

No patient ever need die with any disease if the Magnetic Ointment can be obtained.

For Inflammatory Rheumatism this Ointment is the most common remedy ever required. For Dysentery or Purid Sore Throat it is unrivaled.

In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it will afford entire relief to the wearied Nervous Invalid in thirty minutes.

For Nervous Diseases this remedy is of immense value.

Affections of the Spine, Rheumatism, Lameness, Diseased Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Croup, Colds, Chicken Pox, Acne in the Face or Bones, Burns, Scald Head, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Inflamed Eyes, Fever Sores, Sores, etc., will be immediately relieved by the use of Dr. Trask's Magnetic Ointment.

DR. TRASK, New Haven, Conn., & Hartford, N. Y.

Bristol Clothes Washer

SAVES THOUSANDS OF LIVES ANNUALLY.

Patented Nov. 16, 1869.

The only machine in the world that washes flannels and woolens without fulling. It is simple; has but two rollers; cannot possibly get out of order; and no two can tangle, and it will wash a bed-quilt or a wrist-band perfectly. It is foolproof, and does not wear or tear the clothes.

Sells at the Low Price of $7.50.

A child can work it easily. It washes four Shirts at once. Also Skirts, Collars, and Wristbands clean. It is the favorite everywhere. All who see this machine in operation exclaim

Joy to the World! Relief has Come!!

Everybody buying is satisfied with the Bristol Washer.

If not for sale in your place, send us $7.50 and we will send you a Washer by express, or, if you prefer, will send C.O.D.

Agents wanted everywhere. For terms and illustrated circular address

BRISTOL WASHER CO.,
32 S. Water St., Chicago.

$777 a month easily earned in Paris [illegible] for sale in each county of all [illegible] to any one of all [illegible] 10 days time of the county who is willing to work steadily in the employment that we furnish. Spare time only to you somewhat. You can give your whole time to the work, more than quadruple your income. No one who engages fails to make money fast. All who engage at once can make money fast. At the present time money cannot be made as easily and rapidly at any other business. Reader, is anything for [illegible] business, terms and [illegible] Address at once, H. BALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. Dec. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene C. Pinkney against Alvin Bond for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6161, dated Aug. 3, 1876, upon the E. ½ of section 34, Township 31, North, Range 4 West, in Emmet county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at my office on the 28th day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SEATH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call at the yard, two miles west of Boyne Falls on the Grand Rapids road.

JPRIGHT & WAY.
Owners of said, W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix, Aug. 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres on section 30, town 33 north, range 7 west, in Eveline. Good improvement, good house, barn and well, with a good orchard 24 yards. Inquire of the subscriber on the premises, or address him at Charlevoix, Mich.

Charles Hall.
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE IN SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 29, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres, [illegible] acres improvements, 200 [illegible] acres of cedar and pine. Will be sold for $600 cash. A bargain.

ANTHONY SAWYER
Elk Rapids,
Mich.

W. V. CASWELL. C. A. BAESSLER.

CASSWELL & BAESSLER,

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 10, MILWAUKEE, WIS.
EXCHANGE BLOCK.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT,

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

L. A. V.
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

—

Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

—

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at CHEAP LOW PRICES. Most of these lands are situated Near the North Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are located in School Districts, and situated in good towns.

For terms and descriptive apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

1161y

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the seventh day of November A.D. 1876 by Abijah Hyde of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Martin J. Sloat of the same county and State, and recorded in the Office or Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan on the 7th day of November A. D. 1876, at 9 o'clock a.m. in Liber "Two" of Mortgages on page 423; on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Forty dollars and fifty cents, principal and interest, for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, no suit or proceedings at law or in equity has been taken or instituted.

Therefore Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the Statutes in such case made and provided, on Wednesday the twenty-seventh day of November A. D. 1877 at one o'clock p. m. the lands and tenements described in said mortgage or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due due including the principle interest, costs and an Attorney fee of [illegible] dollars, as provided for in said mortgage will be sold at public auction to vendee to the highest bidder at the West door of the County Clerks office in the Township, of Charlevoix, (not being the building in which the last term of the Circuit Court was holden) the said county within which said premises to be sold are situated.)

Said mortgaged premises are situated in the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and are known and described as follows to wit: The [illegible] quarter of the Northeast quarter of section Twenty [illegible] in Township Thirty-three according to United States survey.

Dated August 28, A. D. 1877.

MORRIS J. STOCKMAN Mortgagee.
E. H. GREEN Attorney for Mortgagee.
1[illegible]1-1 Printers fee $17.15.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct 31, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles May, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 6451, dated Feb. 15, 1875, upon the W. ½ of section 34, Township 31, North, Range 4 W. in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at my office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p.m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SEATH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 26, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Justin M. Barrett against James Jones for abandoning his homestead entry No. 7742, dated June 26, 1876, upon the se[illegible] Section 34 Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at my office on the 22d day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SEATH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City. - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash, Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions. Brackets, Stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hands at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price list sent on application. Orders by mail or local will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(4m10.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.
Peter Tegesh, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Aitken and Mary S. Aitken defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 21st day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are non-residents of the State of Wisconsin On motion of J. Mills Eaton, complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert A. Aitken and Mary S. Aitken be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-residents or defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HATON Jr.
Circuit Judge.
J. MILLS EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
19-6m.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7668, dated April 15, 1876, upon the ne[illegible] section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Sept., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7668, dated April 15, 1876, upon the ne[illegible] section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of Oct., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 25, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Mathilde A. Bright against James Mason, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6237, dated Dec. 7, 1874, upon the se[illegible] and sw[illegible] Section 2, Township 33 North, Range 4 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 21st day of Nov. 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

—

All kinds of

Light and Heavy HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Speciality

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Batters' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

John C. Miller

Vol. IX. No. 41 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Feb. 5. 1878. Whole No., 456

The Sentinel,
Published Every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR & PROPRIETOR—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
TO FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space	1w.	2w.	3w.	4w.	6 mo.	1 yr.
One inch	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$6.00
Two "	1.50	2.75	3.00	3.50	5.00	8.00
Three "	2.00	3.00	3.50	4.00	6.00	10.00
Four "	2.50	3.50	4.00	4.50	7.00	12.00
Five "	3.00	4.00	4.50	5.00	8.00	14.00
Six "	3.50	4.50	5.00	5.50	9.00	16.00
Eight "	4.50	5.50	6.00	6.50	10.00	18.00
Ten "	5.50	6.50	7.00	7.50	12.00	20.00
Twelve "	6.50	7.50	8.00	8.50	14.00	22.00
Quarter Column	7.50	8.50	9.00	9.50	15.00	25.00
Half "	12.00	15.00	20.00	25.00	30.00	40.00
One "	18.00	25.00	30.00	35.00	50.00	75.00

Business Notices 25 cents per line.
Yearly Advertisements at Reduced Rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public, Prosecuting Attorney, Charlevoix Co., Mich.

A. J. BELFORD, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

S. C. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Treasurer of Charlevoix County, Mich.

LOVEL H. HALL, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILLS EATON, Judge of Probate of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A competent person of liberal means can be found on the 1st Monday of each month at the County Court will be in session for the transaction of business at all times.

A. R. WRIGHT, County Clerk, and Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD H. GREEN, Attorney and counsellor at Law, Conveyancer, Notary Public, Prosecuting Attorney, Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Dentist. Has located in Charlevoix, Mich. Particular attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapid, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,
Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month to the practice of medicine, surgery and midwifery.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop.

C. J. FAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has now in his shop a full stock of [illegible] and is prepared to make to order [illegible] Boots and Shoes in the best manner and at reasonable prices. Repairing done on short notice.

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS FITTING AND MAKING

In the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles. May be found at my residence on Main street.

FANNY HAYES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines
BUY STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT

CROUTER'S

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar 1865. He can be seen at all hours, ready and willing to supply the needful. Their stock and assortment is complete with nothing they wish to buy. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run from Charlevoix to Petoskey as follows:

Leave Petoskey—7 a. m. Arrives at Charlevoix at 12 m.
Leave Charlevoix at 1 p. m. arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Every necessary attachment for the comfort of passengers will be made, and the fare will be reasonable. All [illegible] or express will be delivered at the [illegible]

H. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the north side of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Dec. 24, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Pabst against Wm. M. Bowman, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 1924, dated April 1, 1875, upon the se[illegible] of sec[illegible] section 36, Township 33 North, R 5 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of March, 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Round Lake Lodge No. 252 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Rhenic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

JAMES F. WOOD, N. G.
J. MILLS EATON Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 288 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
L. H. HALL, Sec'y.

L. U. L.
Pine Lake Lodge No. 111, L. U. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 6 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

EDWARD BURNS, W. M.
GEO. TAWNEY, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m. Departs on the same days at 1 p. m.

Mails for Petoskey, Bay View and Mackinaw will leave at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays, arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Reported correctly weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Corn, per bushel	30
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Oats, per bushel	25
Eggs, per dozen	0 [illegible]
Butter, per pound	25
Chickens, per pound	0 [illegible]
Beans, per bushel	$1 00 to $1 25
Pork, per pound	6 to 7
Hay, per ton, pressed	$7 00
Hay, per pound, by the quarter	0 [illegible]

As agent of the Milwaukee Bridge Company has been in town look[illegible] after a contract to build our iron bridge.

OLIVER & STRONG, of Boston's Bay have sold out, and intend to return to Ohio, from whence they came.

Fish bridge letting takes place on Feb. 16. Specifications may be seen with W. C. Newman or D. C. Nettleton.

M. J. STOCKMAN, is going to Bellaire next week to look after his steamer being built there for the Pine Lake trade.

Plenty of fresh eggs and butter at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE Silver bill has passed—that is, Dick Silver's thaw bill. They could afford to pay the Town license, and passed on.

A greenback meeting comes off at the Town Hall in this village on Saturday evening next, and will be addressed by several old greenbackers.

RELIGIOUS—Rev. Mr. Whitman preached Sunday evening on the subject of future punishment. The Elder looks upon the discussions now being indulged in as Beecher vs Christ, and brings the latter authority to prove the existence of an endless punishment for the wicked. He believes that Hell is just what the bible says it is. Well, we will leave Beecher's theology for us. It is pleasanter to take —Services are held regularly at the new M. E. Church.

—The new M. E. Church of this village will be formally dedicated on Sunday, Feb. 17th,—that being the time for holding the 2d Quarterly meeting for this Conference year. Presiding Elder Moore will be present, and the dedicatory sermon will be preached by Rev. W. I. Tilden, our former pastor, of whose energy and superior faculties our little church stands as a monument. The attendance from abroad is expected to be large, and the occasion one of great interest.

—Rev. Mr. Whitman, who has been lately holding revival meetings in the Black neighborhood, in Marion, formed a class there on Sunday of sixteen. He holds meetings in the Dill District, in Eveline, this week.

Use the Robert Mann cast steel axes. Carpenter & Bartholomew keep them.

Our Trip.

On the 19th we transferred our journal and a boxes to other hands, and shook the dust of Charlevoix from our feet. A pleasant trip over the G. R. & I. R. R. brought us to Grand Rapids, and at 6 o'clock in Rhenic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

James F. Wood, N. G.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 288 F. & A. M. Regular Communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.

L. U. L.
Pine Lake Lodge No. 111, L. U. L. meets at Central Lake, Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 6 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

EDWARD BURNS, W. M.
GEO. TAWNEY, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mails arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 a. m. Departs on the same days at 1 p. m.

Mails for Petoskey, Bay View and Mackinaw will leave at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays, arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Reported correctly weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Corn, per bushel	30
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Oats, per bushel	25
Eggs, per dozen	0 [illegible]
Butter, per pound	25
Chickens, per pound	0 [illegible]
Beans, per bushel	$1 00 to $1 25
Pork, per pound	6 to 7
Hay, per ton, pressed	$7 00
Hay, per pound, by the quarter	0 [illegible]

As agent of the Milwaukee Bridge Company has been in town look[illegible] after a contract to build our iron bridge.

OLIVER & STRONG, of Boston's Bay have sold out, and intend to return to Ohio, from whence they came.

Fish bridge letting takes place on Feb. 16. Specifications may be seen with W. C. Newman or D. C. Nettleton.

M. J. STOCKMAN, is going to Bellaire next week to look after his steamer being built there for the Pine Lake trade.

Plenty of fresh eggs and butter at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE Silver bill has passed—that is, Dick Silver's thaw bill. They could afford to pay the Town license, and passed on.

A greenback meeting comes off at the Town Hall in this village on Saturday evening next, and will be addressed by several old greenbackers.

RELIGIOUS—Rev. Mr. Whitman preached Sunday evening on the subject of future punishment. The Elder looks upon the discussions now being indulged in as Beecher vs Christ, and brings the latter authority to prove the existence of an endless punishment for the wicked. He believes that Hell is just what the bible says it is. Well, we will leave Beecher's theology for us. It is pleasanter to take

—Services are held regularly at the new M. E. Church.

—The new M. E. Church of this village will be formally dedicated on Sunday, Feb. 17th,—that being the time for holding the 2d Quarterly meeting for this Conference year. Presiding Elder Moore will be present, and the dedicatory sermon will be preached by Rev. W. I. Tilden, our former pastor, of whose energy and superior faculties our little church stands as a monument. The attendance from abroad is expected to be large, and the occasion one of great interest.

—Rev. Mr. Whitman, who has been lately holding revival meetings in the Black neighborhood, in Marion, formed a class there on Sunday of sixteen. He holds meetings in the Dill District, in Eveline, this week.

Use the Robert Mann cast steel axes. Carpenter & Bartholomew keep them.

Oliolist Report of the Proceedings of the Spelling Bee Farmers Club.

January 26, 1878.

A meeting having been previously announced to be held at the residence of W. C. Niles, on January 26, 1878, for the purpose of organizing A Farmer's club was well attended. After o'clock the meeting was called to order, first was the appointment of John Griffith as Chairman and S. B. Thatcher as Secretary. The chairman after a few explanatory notes and intentions of the mee[illegible] gave way to any suggestions that might be made, or for remarks to be heard from Editors of Charlevoix. Sentinel and Emmet County Democrat being present, Editor Smith was called upon, he making a few pleasant remarks of interest to the meeting which were listened to attentively. Editor Rose, of the DEMOCRAT, was called upon, he feeling himself at home made a few very pleasant and sociable remarks, which was listened to with good attention. W. C. Niles was called upon after a few remarks from his relating to the past condition of the inhabitants with that of the present, and some good advice in regard to the preparing of seed and grains to grow and plant, the following motion was made that there be a committee of three appointed by the voice of the house to draft and draw up a set of bylaws to be accepted or rejected at the next meeting. Mr John Griffith, T. B. Hamilton and S. B. Thatcher were chosen.

A committee of four were appointed to arrange the programme, for the next meeting consisting of the following persons: Mrs. T. B. Hamilton, Mrs. Jud Maynard and Mrs. John Griffith, also William C Niles. After a short time said committee having completed their programme, it was read and accepted and placed on file.

A motion was made that we meet two weeks from to-day, at 11 o'clock, P. M. at the residence of Hiram Bixby—motion carried.

A motion was made that we accept of the two above named efforts as honorary members of this organization motion carried.

A motion was made to adjourn two weeks from to-day—motion carried. Meeting adjourned.

S. B. THATCHER, Secretary.

SKATING has been excellent for the past week, and every body has been on skates. An ice boat has been fitted out and is now playing on Pine Lake.

Spring wheat flour, winter wheat flour, buckwheat flour, graham flour and patent flour, also a good stock of provisions of all descriptions at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS recited for record for the week ending Feb. 1st, 1878:

State of Michigan to Harmon New man; 40 acres in South Arm; $50.

Allen Brown and wife to Willard G. Colton, 40 acres in South Arm; $250.

U. S. to S. M. Sec. 160 acres in Hayes.

U. S. to S. Bailey, 160 acres in Wilson.

A. R. Wright and wife to Geo. H. Chipman, 2 lots in Village of Charlevoix, consideration, $300.

A choice assortment of Summer cloth[illegible] ing at Carpenter & Bartholomew's.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

A NUMBER of bills were introduced in the Senate, on the 18th, among them the following: To authorize the payment of interest on the deferred four percents in the courts of the United States; to provide emigration to the United States; to extend, facilitate and cheapen land and water transportation of freight and passengers, and to promote industry and labor without further appropriation of public property or revenue of the public debt. Mr. Merrill submitted an amendment to Mr. Matthews' River resolution, reciting at length the various acts of Congress plighting the faith of the Government, etc. A resolution of inquiry was adopted relative to the amount of Government lands sold since March 4, 1861. Mr. Voorhees spoke upon the resolution previously submitted to him, declaring it of the highest importance that the financial credit of the Government be maintained. He claimed that every Government bond which did not expressly stipulate payment in coin was legally payable in legal-tender notes, and that knowledge of the intention of the law regarding said bonds was available in National contracts; he favored the repeal of the Resumption act. In the House, bills were introduced and referred for reduction of postage; to prevent frauds on collection of the currency. In Committee of the Whole, Mr. Hyde spoke in favor of the demonetization of the silver dollar.

IN the Senate, on the 16th, a motion to refer the Matthews resolution in regard to paying bonds in silver to the Judiciary Committee was rejected—yeas, 19; nays, 37; and after some discussion the further consideration of the resolution was postponed until the 18th. Senator Cockrell formally announced the death of the late Senator Bogy, of Missouri, and eulogies were pronounced by a number of Senators. In the House, a communication was presented from Elizabeth Thompson, of New York, tendering as a gift to the Government Carpenter's painting of the first reading of the Emancipation Proclamation by President Lincoln; on his (Lincoln's) motion a resolution was adopted accepting the gift and designating Feb. 12 as the day for its formal reception. Bills were passed authorizing holders of mustamped documents to affix the necessary stamps in the presence of the Judge or Clerk of the Court of Record, who shall make a certificate to that effect; appropriating $60,000 for the removal of snags and other obstructions from the Mississippi, between Saint and Arkansas Rivers, and $6,000 to open the navigation of Red River above Fort Towson.

A BILL was introduced and referred to the Senate, on the 19th, to punish the forcible obstruction of interstate commerce by violence. Mr. McDonald submitted resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Senator Morton, and made suitable remarks upon the life and character of the deceased. Eulogies were then pronounced by Messrs. Thurman, Conkling, Bayard, Bruce, Edmunds, Burnside, Booth, Anthony, Wallace, Baldwin and Voorhees. Bills were introduced in the House to restrict Chinese immigration; to extend the provisions of the law investing soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812. Bills were passed to make persons charged with crimes and offenses competent witnesses at their own behalf on the offering of the United States Courts, but their failure to make such request shall not create any presumption against them; directing the Secretary of War to pay to the officers and soldiers engaged in the War with Mexico the three months' extra pay already provided for by act of Congress.

A BILL was introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 20th, reviving and continuing the Court of Commissioners of the Alabama Claims, and for the distribution of the unappropriated moneys of the Geneva award. Several petitions were presented and referred. A message was presented from the President transmitting a report from the Attorney-General to the effect that the President had no legal authority to oblige the Union Pacific Railroad Company to desist from a certain line of road it is now using, nor is he empowered to ascertain whether the use is being violated. These questions are for the courts to determine until the rights of the companies are judicially ascertained it is not advisable to have them debated through any formal proceedings under the act of July 25, 1866. The Matthews River resolution was further debated, Messrs. Merrimon and Maxey speaking in its favor. Adjourned to the 21st. In the House a bill to amend the several acts referred, donating lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the education of females, the Military Academy Appropriation bill ($727,150) was reported and made the special order for the 25th. Minority and minority reports were made in the contested-election case for the Fourth District of California, the former declaring that the Democratic contestant (Piper) is entitled to the seat, and the latter that the Republican (Pedrero) is entitled to the seat. Several private bills were referred to Committee of the Whole. Senate resolutions relating to the death of Senator Morton were adopted and eulogies pronounced. Adjourned to the 21st.

BILLS were introduced and referred in the Senate, on the 21st, to establish a mint for the coinage of gold and silver at Indianapolis, Ind.; authorizing the coinage of a gold and silver dollar, and providing that gold and silver jointly, and not otherwise, shall be a legal tender; the Matthews Silver resolution was taken up, and Messrs. Jones and Cockrell spoke in its favor. Among the bills introduced in the House were the following: authorizing the coinage of the silver dollar, and declaring gold and silver jointly, and not otherwise, to be full legal tender; to incorporate the National Railroad Company, for the purpose of constructing a railway from the Atlantic seaboard to Chicago, St. Louis and Council Bluffs; to prevent further reduction or retirement of United States Treasury notes, and to keep them afloat; for resumption, as the purest currency of the country, to suspend for two years the operation of the law requiring the increase annually of one per cent. of the debt of the United States; for a Constitutional amendment providing for the issuing of bonds to pay the public debt; to provide a bureau for the relief of ardent soldiers on the Pacific Coast; for the payment of the arrears in the Pay Bureau. A joint resolution was introduced by Mr. Conger, of Michigan, that Congress will not adjourn sine die until the Legislature for the removal of the Seat of Government and Capital was enacted into a law and signed by the Governor of the State. A motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill authorizing the payment of pensions during the pendency of appeals was lost—yeas, 94; nays, 96—less than two-thirds not voting.

DOMESTIC.

AN organization of 5,000 colored residents of Florida is said to have appointed Rev. Mr. Starks to inquire into the advantages of Hayti and San Domingo as places for them to emigrate to for the betterment of their condition. Mr. S. has obtained a great deal of information relative thereto, but, still being undecided in the matter, he has called for an interview a few days ago with President Hayes, and had the situation explained to him. The President has responded in a letter, in which he says: "I am not well informed as to the advantages offered by San Domingo to immigrants, but my impression is that your people would not be easy to decide to leave the country. The mere difference in climate is a very serious objection to removal. The first generation in all such removals suffer greatly. It is my opinion, also, that the evils which now affect you are likely, steadily and, I hope, rapidly to diminish. My advice is, therefore, against the proposed emigration."

EX-GOV. WASHBURN has donated his residence and sixty acres of land ("Edgewood"), near Madison, Wis., worth $100,000, to the State of Wisconsin, for the establishment of a Reformatory and Industrial School for Girls.

A HARTFORD (Conn.) dispatch of the 17th says the number of killed in the railroad disaster at Tariffville was fourteen; wounded, forty-five, some severely, but most of them only slightly.

ACCORDING to the annual circular just issued by Dun, Barlow & Co., the number of commercial failures in 1877 were 5,372—220 less than in 1876. The total liabilities for 1877 were $191,169,000, against $191,117,000 in 1876. While the Eastern States the percentage of failures was one in every fifty-eight; in the Middle States, one in every seventy-three; in the Southern States, one in every eighty-five; in the Western States, one in every eighty-four, and in the Pacific States and Territories one in every hundred.

A BOY named James Hennessey, aged twelve years, at Newburyport, Mass., intending to frighten some little girls, the other day, took a loaded gun, was blown out of, instantly killing Rosa Farrell, aged six years, and wounding two others.

A MAN named Elijah Allen died at Shenandoah City, Pa., on the 20th, at hydrophobia, after suffering intensely.

THE Keokuk (Iowa) Northern Packet Company has recently voted to dispense with the scrip of Iowa on all the packets and landings to the line. The law here heretofore yielded a net revenue of $12,000 per year.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

HON. GEO. H. PENDLETON was elected United States Senator by the Ohio Legislature, on the 18th, receiving 91 of the 138 votes in joint ballot. He succeeds Hon. Stanley Matthews in March, 1879.

PRESIDENT HAYES, on the 16th, appointed the following Commissioners to the Paris Exposition: Geo. A. Halsey and Wm. R. Shipson, of New Jersey, and Bronson Bayles and Peter Staub, of Tennessee.

SAMUEL BOWLES, editor and proprietor of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, died in that city, on the night of the 16th.

THE New Hampshire State Democratic Convention met at Concord, on the 20th, and nominated Hon. Person C. Cheney for Governor, and H. R. Fowler, for Railroad Commissioner. Among the resolutions adopted were declaring in favor of a stable currency, honest payment of the public debt, and opposition to all measures by which the public credit may be impaired; approving the refusal of the Forty-fourth Congress to appropriate money for the Army while used in fraud and despotic oppression of citizens of any portion of the Republic; demanding more complete protection for the savings of the industrial classes by stricter supervision and control of savings banks, insurance companies, and other institutions in which the people's money may be invested.

THE Iowa Legislature organized, on the 17th, by electing the Republican nominees —A. T. Hill being elected Secretary of the Senate, and John Y. Stone, Speaker of the House. The Republican members, on the evening of the same day, renominated Hon. Wm. B. Allison for United States Senator.

THE late Senator Morton's unfinished report of the Chinese investigation, conducted by a committee of the United States Senate, having been found among his papers, was submitted to the Senate by Mr. Whyte, on the 17th, and ordered printed. It is said to be very favorable to the Chinese.

A JOINT resolution was unanimously adopted by the National Union Republican delegates, on the 17th, extending thanks to Henry M. Stanley, the African Explorer, for solving the most important geographical problem of the age.

On the 17th, Hon. John H. Gear, the new Governor of Iowa, was formally inaugurated.

THE Kentucky Legislature, on the 17th, elected ex-Gov. John S. Williams to be United States Senator to succeed Hon. Thomas C. McCreery.

THE President, on the 18th, nominated Hon. Geo. Williamson, ex-Minister-Resident at Guatemala, to be Collector of the Port of New Orleans.

"EX-SEC'Y BRISTOW was banqueted, by the citizens of Boston, on the evening of the 18th.

THE members of the Louisiana Returning Board were arraigned on the charge of larceny and altering the returns from Vermilion Parish, on the 21st. They pleaded not guilty, and gave bail for trial.

THE Maryland Legislature, on the 18th, elected Ex-Gov. James B. Groome United States Senator to succeed Mr. Dennis for the term beginning March 4, 1879.

THE Illinois State Grange, at its recent session in Peoria, elected A. G. Appleton Master.

WM. M. TWEED has made application to the Supreme Court of New York for the discharge under the Poor Debtor act, on the ground that he has been in jail since the 26

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1878

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Feb. 1, 1878

Gambling is as favorite an occupation now in this city as it was with gold at 256, and every other man a millionaire. The main difference between '65 and '78 is, that in the latter year of grace there are fewer gentlemen who are possessed of the means necessary to indulge even in this recreation, and that those who can so indulge have to do it on a considerably lower scale. Gambling in New York, as all the world knows, is, generally speaking, of two kinds. One kind is done on a green table behind drawn blinds, and the other with the greatest noise and publicity in and about a series of buildings devoted to the purpose. Perhaps I ought to make a third division to include the lottery and policy business, but the two above referred to are sufficient for present purposes.

As I have just hinted, hard times cause the Wall Street kind of gambling to languish to some extent, and but the heighted morality of the people. The spirit is willing, but the pocket is very feeble; and many a broker of the olden times, who was wont to make his hundred dollars a day commissions, to vent his excess of energies, [illegible] be had occasion to go a block, to have champagne and boned turkey for lunch, and to subsist upon the adipose tissue of the land generally, has now been driven, either to seek some other and more laborious occupation, or to scrape together a shabby living amid the scenes of his former mushroom prosperity.

But while the old original Stock Exchange men suffered by the lowered condition of things, another class of brokers find it their opportunity. According to the rules of the Exchange, the smallest transaction should be for one hundred shares of stock, and the margin required to carry through even this little "deal" is now more than a large proportion of would-be speculators has to risk. So, to hold good the saying that wherever there is a demand there is a supply, a number of brokers have gone into the retail business, so to speak, and opened offices in which the clerk, the mechanic, or the small merchant can operate on as little as five shares, and thus, while enjoying the excitement, the risk, and the exercise of his own sagacity as much perhaps as Gould, Hatch or Keen, stakes only $5 or $10 as the case may be. The Stock Exchange men look with great disfavor upon this class of offices, which they contemptuously style "the primary school;" though why they should feel so is not quite clear. The small offices are really only a nursery for infant speculators. In the language of one of the "primary school" brokers, "There are a good many men who want to speculate and don't exactly know how. They are afraid to risk much, and so don't go in. But they can come here and buy or sell just as small a lot as they want to. They can afford to risk five dollars to learn how. Men will come here, speculate a little, get more and more familiar with stock speculation, and go from here to the larger field in the regular Exchange. In that way we shall benefit the business generally."

The other, and rather less reputable style of gambling, while it has suffered in volume with the general decline, possesses too great charms for its votaries to be entirely dropped by any considerable number of them, and so in its various forms it goes stealily on beneath the very eyes and noses of "the finest police in the world" with only occasional and spasmodic interruptions. It is generally supposed by the innocent public that the faro tiger is exclusively a nocturnal animal whose prowling, like that of his congeners of the Indian jungle, is only done after honest folks are asleep. This, however, is a great mistake. The New York tiger is a wakeful beast, whose chronic hunger demands victims at all hours. During the day, his ground is the hottest between the hours of twelve and two, when the thousands of merchants and clerks are, "out to lunch." Absence from the store or office at this time is not suspicious, and, consequently, those whose tastes incline them to feel the claws of the beast choose this hour for their encounter. I do not mean to be understood as asserting that such are the noonday exercises of the business community as a whole, but it is safe to say that the number of thousand dollars which are monthly thrown into the jaws of the "animile" alluded to, by all classes of the community—church members and all—if our young sons not excepted—would greatly astonish correct society, were all particulars to be made known.

As in stock speculation, however, the stakes ventured now always seem niggardly beside the reckless betting of flush times. Then thousands were frequently put up where now hundreds, or even tens, are the limit of the ventures. There is even a tradition of a game of poker played by four "solid men" of the city, eight or ten years ago, in which bets ran higher and higher till the game was brought to a close by one of the gamblers, a well known newspaper proprietor and politician laying down a check for $500,000, and as no one could cover it, taking the pile. I wonder what President Grant's Minister to England would have thought of that?

Every one who took even casual note of the progress of the last presidential election will remember the campaign accusation brought against Mr. Tilden, to the effect that in 1861 he demanded the Government by letting to pay his income tax. I presume no one imagined that to be anything more than a bit of the election mud that always flies freely during a canvass, and it was therefore with considerable surprise that we saw in the papers the other morning an account of the suit of the U. S. against Tilden, which had just come to a hearing in the Circuit Court in this city. Although the suit has actually been brought into court, it will probably amount to nothing, the judge deciding a preliminary point in Tilden's favor, and with such promptness as to indicate that he will treat the remaining questions in like manner. The controlling fact in this case is that the income tax, although not formally repealed until 1872, was never sought to be collected in 1861, the present suit being the only one ever brought to collect it.

As our readers are, doubtless, aware, there has recently been some talk in Congress about re-imposing this odious tax. How distasteful this act would be to the country is well shown by a petition to Congress, numerously signed, which condemns the measure in vigorous terms, quotes an opinion given by Wm. M. Evarts in 1871 to the effect that the tax is unconstitutional, and concludes with a plain hint that should the bill pass, there will be some such commotion over it as was made by our Massachusetts forefathers about the Parliamentary tax on tea.

RADIX.

The war has ended. Russia has triumphed. The Ottoman power is crushed without British intervention, and peace is substantially concluded upon terms which preclude England's participation in shaping them. Russia has also vindicated the prediction that she would so adjust her policy as to deprive England of opportunity for interference, which Disraeli so eagerly sought. Since Turkey accepts the conditions, it is hardly possible that British sentiment will tolerate any proposition for a single-handed movement by England against Russia to defeat either the freedom of the Dardanelles to the Czar's ships or Russian occupation of Armenia as security for the war indemnity. England can better afford to loan the Porte the money to settle the indemnity than to spend it in war. If British sentiment fails to see sufficient menace to English interests in Russian occupation of Asiatic Turkey to justify that direct appeal to British pockets, it won't see anything worth fighting for at still greater expense. Though at first the Czar's terms of peace seem harsh, the Turks' precipitate acceptance of them indicates that he was how much easier they are than he would have made if himself were victor. The money indemnity is only one-tenth of that exacted by Germany from France. Russia's freedom of the Dardanelles, though apparently exacted from Turkey, is really exacted from England, the only European power having any interest in opposing it. Turkey cares nothing for it herself, and the Porte is doubtless delighted to concede what will annoy the old ally who failed him in his extremity. As England did not fight for the whole treaty of Paris, she will not for this fragment of it. The war is ended

"German Syrup."

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German Syrup. In three years two million bottles, or a third of a million bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge by Druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs, giving the American people undeniable proof that German Syrup will cure them. The result has been that Druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your Druggist, and ask what they know about it. Sample bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on State road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, hemlock and other wood, and are accessible to best market.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great Fruit-raising section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The part of Michigan to which these lands are found in

Not a Wilderness by any Means

It contains a population of two hundred and fifty thousand souls, and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

Send for our Illustrated pamphlet.

Address, WM. HUGHART, Commissioner.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and on orders either by mail or telegraph will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F. R. & B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market, Black Robairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashmere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Grey Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER & Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY, AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INVITE THE ATTENTION OF

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

TO OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place.

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and has received Awarded two at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchasers "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine attachments. Every machine warranted for

GOLD MEDAL

FIVE YEARS.

Agent Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM, Manager,

63 Madison St.

Toledo O

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law, AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10 1yr.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher.

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

'Late John Stephens & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, SPICES, CANNED GOODS FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers. 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for CANNED GOODS &c., filled Promptly at Lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(9)2) (6,17.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5 50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$4.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private—at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH, Beaver Isle, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles' Lath Cheese Box Stuff Broom Handles Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug ply from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which are seen myriads of Speckled Trout. Baggage moved free of charge.

ENGLISH INK for Printers, News, Book and Job Inks; all warrantee of Superior quality. No cheaper inferior grades of Ink made by us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS, (Formerly of London, England), 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

A Bird-Combat.

THAT trim, gentle-looking, dark-backed bird, erroneously called turtle-dove by dwellers in the United States, and generally deemed so utterly inoffensive and pure that to kill it for the table or any other use is branded as inhuman in the extreme, is not so innocent after all. Its moaning, sad-sounding voice is a mockery and it cheats its soft, dark eyes are a sham; its sedate, Quaker garb is calculated to deceive, its timid movements are not to be trusted. When once it has been insulted or injured by one of its kind the dove becomes as cruel and outrageously beartless as any murderer can be. Some years ago I witnessed a fight between two female mourning-doves, which for utter barbarousness could not be exceeded. I was sitting in a crook for sun-perch, half prone on a grassy bank, not far from a shade, with a cigar between my lips, when I happened to see a dove alight on a guarded length of a plank-fence a few yards distant. Immediately it began to coo in that dolefully-plaintive strain so well known to every lover of Nature, and was soon joined by a mate, who perched himself within a foot or two of her, cupied their nest, not yet finished, in the fork of an unleafed tree or bush. The birds made very expressive signs to each other with their heads by a series of bows, nods and sidewise motions, of which I understand enough to know that some intruder was near — perhaps they meant me. The fish were not biting me too well, but the shade was pleasant and the grass fragrant, the sound of the water very soothing, and the flow of the wind steady and cooling, so I did not care to move just to lumber the whim of a pair of lovey-doves. It proved, however, after all, that I was not the cause of alarm. Another female dove presently dropped like a hawk from a dark, dense mass of leaves above the pair, and struck the first on the back with beak and wings. A fight ensued, witnessed with keen interest by myself and the mute dove.

At first the combatants struggled desperately together on the bough, fiercely beating each other with their wings and pinching out the tiny feathers from breast and neck, all the time uttering low, querulous notes, different from anything I had ever before heard. Presently soon they fell off the bough, and came whirling down upon the ground, where they continued the battle with constantly-increasing fury, their eyes fairly flashing fire, and cutting and thrusting with their beaks, like swordsmen. Blood began to show itself about their heads, and in places their necks were quite bare of feathers. When, at last, one of them became so exhausted that further struggle was impossible, the other proceeded to take its stand upon the helpless opponent, and would have quickly made an end of it had I not interfered. The vanquished bird was minus an eye and was unable to fly for some minutes. The cause of the battle was jealousy. The male sat by and watched, in a nonchalant way, until it was all over, when he very leisurely strutted up to the victorious dove, and began cooing in a low, soothing tone. From that day to this I have repudiated the figure "innocent as a dove," and, whenever opportunity offered, have spoiled a mourning-grove full at the breast of the bird, widow or no widow. When properly cooked, by parboiling, stuffing and baking, a dove is a choice bit for the table. Which on this subject I may add in the Southern States of our country, doves often congregate in immeasurable swarms, like pigeons, and do great damage to the pea-fields, yet even there the prejudice against killing them is so great that you rarely see a trap or spring set for them, or a gun leveled at them. — Appletons' Journal for February

Daniel Webster and William Pinckney.

MR. WEBSTER gave Mr. Harvey the following account of a quarrel with William Pinckney, which, he said, was the nearest he ever came to "a downright fight now." After describing Pinckney's position at the Bar of the Supreme Court as one who received the briefs prepared by subordinates, and argued their cases for them, for the lion's share of the fees, he continued:

"I was a lawyer who had my living to get, and I felt that, although I should not argue my cases as well as he could, still, if my clients employed me they should have the best ability I had to give them, and I should do the work myself. I did not propose to practice law in the Supreme Court by proxy. I think I got some profit important cases I had. Mr. Pinckney rather expected that I should fall into the career of the subordinates, and drive cases with him. This I utterly refused to do. In one important case (I was forgetting one which he conducted), Pinckney was employed to argue it for my client myself. I had felt that, on several occasions, his manner was to say the least, very annoying and aggravating. My intercourse with him, so far as I had any, was always marked by good courtesy and deference. I remember to the leader of the American Bar; he had that reputation, and I felt it. He was a very great lawyer, by the consent to which I refer, in various complicated questions arising out of the admiralty cases, the foreign relations of the war contempt. He predicted, as well as he could, that I did not know anything about the case. I knew, I told him, I had spoken of the "contention from New Hampshire." At any rate, it was a thing that everybody in the Court-House, including the Judges, could not fail to observe. Chief-Justice Marshall himself was pained by it. It was very hard for me to restrain my temper and keep cool; but I did so, knowing in what presence I stood. I think he construed my apparent humility into a want of what he would call spirit in resenting, and as a sort of acquiescence in his rule. However, the incident passed, the case was not finished when the hour for adjournment came, and the Court adjourned until the next morning. Mr. Pinckney took his white and gloves, threw his cloak over his arm, and began to saunter away. I went up to him and said, very calmly: 'Can I see you alone in one of the lobbies?' He replied: 'Certainly.' I suppose that he thought I was going to beg his pardon and ask his assistance. We passed into one of the ante-rooms of the Capitol. I looked into one of the Grand Jury rooms, and, finding it better remote from the main court-room. There was no one in it, and we entered. As we did so I looked in the door and found there was a key in the lock, and, unobserved by him, I turned the key and put it in my pocket. Mr. Pinckney seemed to be waiting, with some astonishment. I advanced toward him and said: 'Mr. Pinckney, you grossly insulted me this morning, in the court-room, and not for the first time, either, in deference to your profession, and to the respect in which I hold the Court, I did not answer you, as I was tempted to do, on the spot.' He began to parley. I continued: 'You know you did; don't add another sin to that; don't deny it; you know you did it, and you know it was premeditated.' He inquired: 'Now, now,' responded the hard girl. 'Mr.' said he, 'I thought you were the girl for a brave soldier to do.' Promptness is the first requisite in those who would obey orders."

And then they parted; he to make preparations for the coming event, and she to startle mother and sister with the announcement that there was to be a wedding in the family, and a sad parting. The girl of course did every objection, and set to work to look after her wardrobe, that first requisite for the new life. A traveling dress was purchased, friends were invited, license taken out and clergyman supplied.

Saturday evening found the preparations complete, and the girl of nineteen, who has never before been separated from her mother, has forsaken her old home and friends, and gone to a station with a husband who was but a stranger. The young couple will sail early in January for China, there to remain three years. May every happiness attend them, and may the nuptial union of the queen, be brought on the ruins of the sudden marriage never wear off. Washington Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Red ink for marking or with pen or pencil. Unchemical dissolved manganese makes an excellent red ink.

A MINNESOTA man has named his daughter Minnesota Violet.

Concealing Plunder.

Doubtless there are no two persons living whom the people and press of Western Massachusetts will be more delighted to have crowded out of sight and mind than the Northam upon Bank burglars. But there are a few more things to be said about them before they are finally consigned to the oblivion of a prison workshop. One of the items of their historic career, about which the public has been anxious to know, ever since it was ascertained that the bulk of the stolen securities remained in town awhile after the robbery, has been the local hiding-place of those bonds. Suspicion has long pointed to the Bridge-street school-house, so often mentioned during the trials as containing the safe where the burglars camped while maturing their plans. This was, in fact, the hiding-place of the bonds; but they were not old, lawyer, under the platform, but inside of an inclosed and stationary bench, which was fastened to the wall at the right of the teacher's chair. This bench was made for little children to sit on, and the wall above it is painted black, so that they can stand on the bench and draw. The burglars made a skillful preparation for depositing the plunder while it was yet lying behind the doors of the bank vault. As first cut the nails that fastened down the top of the bench by running a cold-chisel under the top-board so that they could raise the top-board and not be discovered in doing it. Then they covered the general dispatches at North Adams. The passage seldom varied a minute. The guard is now compelled to take trains at the same time, and no train is allowed to enter until the preceding train has made the exit. No equal distance of the road unobstructed and with so uniform speed, nor with so much safety, the track, which caused the derailed. Long patrolled straight. The roof of the tunnel is constructed perfectly safe, not a piece the size of a hand having been detached for a year, and absolute rain-proof. The solid brick arching having been built to sustain all abnormal hostilities, in succession from fire upward. Still, the road is under constant examination by men on top of an elevated carriage, which is propelled along the road. Admittance by visitors is strictly denied. Occasionally the tunnel is so free from foul smells that, standing at the central hole, daylight can be discovered at both portals, showing about ten feet in diameter, but usually light can be discovered in only one direction for that from which the wind comes, the current drives the smoke before it up the shaft, and leaving the other half of the tunnel unobscured and usually clear with smoke and fog. A door composed of oak, fourteen inches thick, let into grooves cut into the rock on a steep incline, prevents any pieces detached from the roof of the shaft from falling on to the track. At the summit of the mountain the opening of the shaft is inclosed by a stone wall twenty-feet high.

Subsidiary to the great Hoosac Tunnel is that of North Adams, nearly two miles west of the former. This work, too, has just been completed. This is described as a skew arch, and the work is spiral; the abutments are parallel, but not at right angles, crossing the road diagonally. The stones are dressed spirally, and three or four patterns to each individual block had to be furnished the cutters, and no two stones are alike. The continuation of the tunnel is sixty-five feet in diameter, twenty-three feet inside of the completed work, with a plain facade of forty feet high and fifty feet long, and immense wing walls; the coping is surmounted with an iron sidewalk and fence seventy-five feet long. This structure is a substitute for the dangerous old Furnace Hill bridge. — Scientific American.

Ben Holladay's Nose.

While traveling in a Washington train recently with a number of acquaintances, old Ben Holladay became unusually communicative. He climbed the Rocky Mountains, waded through the waters of Salt Lake, jumped across the Black Canyon of the Gunnison, danced in the Death Valley, cooked grizzlies in the Yellowstone geysers, scudded the plains of Montana, and told a score of stories so thrilling that the hair of his hearers arose in protest. Some of his yarns was both starting and amusing.

"One night," said he, "long before the Pacific Railroad was built, I was bowling over the plains in one of my overland coaches. My wife was with me. She was sick, and lay asleep on the bottom of the stage on a bed of buffalo skins. The night was fearfully dark, and a drizzling rain was falling. Mrs. Holladay and myself were the only passengers. Several stages had been robbed within two months, and the driver was ripping along as though a gang of guerrillas were after him. Suddenly the horses were thrown on their haunches and the stage stopped. It was heaved forward, but quickly recovered, and found myself gazing at the muzzles of a double-barreled shot-gun. By the dim light of the stage-lamps the barrels looked as big as mail-bags. 'Throw up your hands and don't stir,' shouted the grim voice. Up went my hands, and I began to overhaul myself. I saw that he did not know who I was, and I was afraid that my wife might awake and call me by my name. My rent was buttoned over my bosom, but hardly high enough to hide my diamond shirt-stud that cost me over $8,000 a few weeks before in San Francisco. I hardly breathed through fear that the light might strike the stone, and its flashing might attract the attention of the robber. I had about $40,000 in a money-belt about the size of a saddle-girth, and several hundred dollars in my pocket.

"Suddenly my friend shouted, 'Come, shell out mighty quick, or I'll send the devil a free lunch.'

"I passed out the few hundreds loose in my pockets, and handed him my gold watch and chain. They were hefty. I think the chain alone would weigh five pounds at least.

"'There,' said I, 'there's every cent I've got. Take it and let me go on. My wife is very sick, and I don't know what would happen to her if she knew what was going on.'

"'Keep your hands up,' was the reply, while a second robber received the watch and money. Then a search was made for the Express Company's box, but the double-barreled shot-gun did not move. Its muzzles were within a foot of my nose. For my life I did not dare to stir. My nose began to itch. The still holes of my mustache got up one after another and tickled it until the sensation was intolerable. I could stand it no longer.

"'Stranger,' I cried, 'I must scratch my nose. It itches so that I am almost crazy.'

"'Move your hand,' he shouted, 'and I'll blow a hole through your head big enough for a buck antelope to jump through.' I appealed once more. 'Well,' he answered, 'keep your hands on, and I'll scratch it for you. I have to see a partner suffer.'

"'Did he scratch it?' asked one of Ben's interested listeners.

"'Sure,' said Mr. Holladay.

"'How?' asked the breathless listener.

"'With the muzzle of the cocked gun,' said the great overlander. "He rubbed the end of the gun around my mustache and raked it over the end of my nose until I thanked him and said that it itched no longer."

The robbers soon afterward took their leave, with many apologies, and Ben continued his journey to the Missouri with his big emerald and $20,000. — N. Y. Sun

THE Arizona Miner tells a story of two friends who were recently attacked by Indians in that State. They were both on mules, and the arrows were whistling by them in clouds. The mules were of unequal powers of speed, and the foremost man sang out, "Joe, why don't you come along?" Joe, whose arms and legs were flying in the air like a runaway windmill, replied, in an arrow grazed his ear: "Do I act like a man who is throwing off?"

THE sowing of buckwheat early in the spring is recommended for land infested with Canada thistles. As soon as the buckwheat is in full blossom it is turned under, and reseeding done with the same grain. The last crop is harvested when ripe. — Chicago Times.

Concealing Plunder.

This second, near North Adams, to Mexico, was completed some time ago as far as to admit the passage of trains, was found to need an extension at the east end in order to prevent the downfall of the snow upon the track from the cliff at that end of the tunnel. This facade and buttress have just been completed, and the tunnel and track are pronounced in prime order, and ready for all the business which may seek its passage through the great bore. The artificial facade is constructed of granite, some of the blocks weighing from four to five tons each. The arch extends to a point twenty-five feet, and the facade about sixty feet long by forty feet high.

The Springfield Republican says: "Only one track is laid at present in the tunnel. The trains are run by telegraph, passenger trains being allowed to pass each other at designated points. Three lights, equidistant, are affixed to the sides of the tunnel, dividing the distance into four sections. The lights are for the purpose of enabling the engineers to regulate their speed, and they are required to maintain a uniform rate by which to advance. At the central shaft two lights are displayed, to indicate when the summit is reached and the grade declines, which it does each way to afford drainage, being sixty feet lower at each portal than at the central shaft. As the trains plunge into the impenetrable darkness the time is recorded, and again when they emerge, by operators situated at either point, and the figures conveyed to the general dispatcher at North Adams. The passage seldom varies a minute. The guard is now compelled to take trains at the same time, and no train is allowed to enter until the preceding train has made the exit. No equal distance of the road unobstructed and with so uniform speed, nor with so much safety, the track, which caused the derailed. Long patrolled straight. The roof of the tunnel is constructed perfectly safe, not a piece the size of a hand having been detached for a year, and absolute rain-proof. The solid brick arching having been built to sustain all abnormal hostilities, in succession from fire upward. Still, the road is under constant examination by men on top of an elevated carriage, which is propelled along the road. Admittance by visitors is strictly denied. Occasionally the tunnel is so free from foul smells that, standing at the central hole, daylight can be discovered at both portals, showing about ten feet in diameter, but usually light can be discovered in only one direction for that from which the wind comes, the current drives the smoke before it up the shaft, and leaving the other half of the tunnel unobscured and usually clear with smoke and fog. A door composed of oak, fourteen inches thick, let into grooves cut into the rock on a steep incline, prevents any pieces detached from the roof of the shaft from falling on to the track. At the summit

Colorado Fossils.

Colorado, the Centennial State, is fast becoming noted for its wonderful fossils. There, for instance, is the "Muldoon," which was "discovered" by Mr. Conant, a citizen of this place. Whether the stone man proves to be a genuine petrifaction, and the subject of a great discovery, or simply a job set up for Barnum, or by him, this State must be accorded a place in the front rank of the many which afford the fossil hunter. If this country such a splendid field for the prosecution of his favorite research.

The upper Jurassic of the Rocky Mountains has furnished Yale and other colleges some valuable relics in the way of fossil remains of enormous reptiles — a portion of which is of a new order and been called Stegosaurus. A fossilized giant aquatic animal of this order, discovered in this State by Prof. Lakes and Engineer Beckwith, of the Navy, is now being prepared for exhibition at Yale.

It is related by Prof. Marsh that, while riding through a valley washed out by the waters that once swept over, Prof. Lakes and Beckwith, of these skeletons seven, I believe — of the Mosasaurus, some of which were at least fifty feet in length. It is thought these ancient "sea serpents" existed in great numbers in the inland cretaceous seas, of which "the Rockies" once formed a group of islands.

The latest discovery, and one of the most important, perhaps, in the line of extinct monsters which are supposed to have lorded it over whales and other small fish, is the one just made by Prof. J. H. Kerr, of the Faculty of Colorado College, located at Colorado Springs. The "find" took place in the Garden of the Gods, near the famous gateway, while the Professor was presenting his systematic study of the rocks in that locality. The formation evidently is lower cretaceous, hence the fossil remains of the animal — or, more properly, serpent or lizard are of great antiquity. Prof. Kerr has had several wagon-loads of parts of the fossil brought to town, but several days of hard labor will be required to get the remainder of the huge monster above ground. Upon measurements as cast, as far effected, but by certain calculations, best known to scientific men, it is concluded that the reptile, in the days of its life, attained the startling proportions of 117 feet in length, and, when reared upon its legs, not less than thirty feet in height. The opening of the mouth was nearly twenty feet, and several pasts of teeth are two feet long have been taken out. "There were giants in those days" — among the fishes.

Apparently imbedded in the monster's stomach were several smaller reptiles and fishes, among them a petrifaction that appears to have been the well-known and very destructive weapon of the swordfish. The discovery is one that this sword may have caused the death of its lizardship.

Comparatively a small portion of the huge framework and of the various specimens of reptilia upon which the skeleton of this portion of the portion that has been removed — is actual bone, but there are excellent casts from holdbones.

Prof. Kerr has not decided in what order to place his discovery. A few seem inclined to class it with the Mosasaurus, which is described as having been swimming lizards, and generally of immense size. The discoverer of the great fossil thinks it may have to be placed in a new order.

In examining the rocks and the soil of the plateau upon which is situated Colorado Springs, Prof. Kerr found petrifactions of various kinds of tropical nuts — almonds, Brazil nuts, etc., together with English walnuts. Some of those nuts were of surprising size, being as large as a man's fist.

Very few of the most valuable Colorado fossils have been retained within the State. The most of them have gone to New England, and some to Old England. It is proposed to place the fossil remains of the great Saurian reptile in the Museum of Colorado College, and surround it with other interesting fossils at hand, which would, and 100 years hence, be curious to see a partner suffer."

"But he scratch it?" asked one of Ben's interested listeners.

"Sure," said Mr. Holladay.

"How?" asked the breathless listener.

"With the muzzle of the cocked gun," said the great overlander. "He rubbed the end of the gun around my mustache and raked it over the end of my nose until I thanked him and said that it itched no longer."

The robbers soon afterward took their leave, with many apologies, and Ben continued his journey to the Missouri with his big emerald and $20,000. — N. Y. Sun

THE Arizona Miner tells a story of two friends who were recently attacked by Indians in that State. They were both on mules, and the arrows were whistling by them in clouds. The mules were of unequal powers of speed, and the foremost man sang out, "Joe, why don't you come along?" Joe, whose arms and legs were flying in the air like a runaway windmill, replied, in an arrow grazed his ear: "Do I act like a man who is throwing off?"

THE sowing of buckwheat early in the spring is recommended for land infested with Canada thistles. As soon as the buckwheat is in full blossom it is turned under, and reseeding done with the same grain. The last crop is harvested when ripe. — Chicago Times.

Mrs. Holladay's Nose.

While traveling in a Washington train recently with a number of acquaintances, old Ben Holladay became unusually communicative. He climbed the Rocky Mountains, waded through the waters of Salt Lake, jumped across the Black Canyon of the Gunnison, danced in the Death Valley, cooked grizzlies in the Yellowstone geysers, scudded the plains of Montana, and told a score of stories so thrilling that the hair of his hearers arose in protest. Some of his yarns was both starting and amusing.

"One night," said he, "long before the Pacific Railroad was built, I was bowling over the plains in one of my overland coaches. My wife was with me. She was sick, and lay asleep on the bottom of the stage on a bed of buffalo skins. The night was fearfully dark, and a drizzling rain was falling. Mrs. Holladay and myself were the only passengers. Several stages had been robbed within two months, and the driver was ripping along as though a gang of guerrillas were after him. Suddenly the horses were thrown on their haunches and the stage stopped. It was heaved forward, but quickly recovered, and found myself gazing at the muzzles of a double-barreled shot-gun. By the dim light of the stage-lamps the barrels looked as big as mail-bags. 'Throw up your hands and don't stir,' shouted the grim voice. Up went my hands, and I began to overhaul myself. I saw that he did not know who I was, and I was afraid that my wife might awake and call me by my name. My rent was buttoned over my bosom, but hardly high enough to hide my diamond shirt-stud that cost me over $8,000 a few weeks before in San Francisco. I hardly breathed through fear that the light might strike the stone, and its flashing might attract the attention of the robber. I had about $40,000 in a money-belt about the size of a saddle-girth, and several hundred dollars in my pocket.

"Suddenly my friend shouted, 'Come, shell out mighty quick, or I'll send the devil a free lunch.'

"I passed out the few hundreds loose in my pockets, and handed him my gold watch and chain. They were hefty. I think the chain alone would weigh five pounds at least.

"'There,' said I, 'there's every cent I've got. Take it and let me go on. My wife is very sick, and I don't know what would happen to her if she knew what was going on.'

"'Keep your hands up,' was the reply, while a second robber received the watch and money. Then a search was made for the Express Company's box, but the double-barreled shot-gun did not move. Its muzzles were within a foot of my nose. For my life I did not dare to stir. My nose began to itch. The still holes of my mustache got up one after another and tickled it until the sensation was intolerable. I could stand it no longer.

"'Stranger,' I cried, 'I must scratch my nose. It itches so that I am almost crazy.'

"'Move your hand,' he shouted, 'and I'll blow a hole through your head big enough for a buck antelope to jump through.' I appealed once more. 'Well,' he answered, 'keep your hands on, and I'll scratch it for you. I have to see a partner suffer.'

"'Did he scratch it?' asked one of Ben's interested listeners.

"'Sure,' said Mr. Holladay.

"'How?' asked the breathless listener.

"'With the muzzle of the cocked gun,' said the great overlander. "He rubbed the end of the gun around my mustache and raked it over the end of my nose until I thanked him and said that it itched no longer."

The robbers soon afterward took their leave, with many apologies, and Ben continued his journey to the Missouri with his big emerald and $20,000. — N. Y. Sun

THE Arizona Miner tells a story of two friends who were recently attacked by Indians in that State. They were both on mules, and the arrows were whistling by them in clouds. The mules were of unequal powers of speed, and the foremost man sang out, "Joe, why don't you come along?" Joe, whose arms and legs were flying in the air like a runaway windmill, replied, in an arrow grazed his ear: "Do I act like a man who is throwing off?"

THE sowing of buckwheat early in the spring is recommended for land infested with Canada thistles. As soon as the buckwheat is in full blossom it is turned under, and reseeding done with the same grain. The last crop is harvested when ripe. — Chicago Times.

A Sudden Marriage.

The frequent weddings are all that save the city from social dullness. There was a highly sensational one Saturday evening. By way of premising, it will say that Monday is inspection day at the Marine Barracks. After inspection the officers utilize the band for a dance. Young ladies dote on these informal gayeties and flock to the barracks.

About two months ago Miss Fanny Rose attended one of these dances, and was introduced to Lieut. Franklin, of the Navy. On Thursday last the young gentleman was ordered to report for duty with the squadron at Yokohama. He flew to his inamorata, and stated that he must bear himself away from her presence. "Will you be mine now or wait three years?" he exclaimed. He inquired. "Now, now," responded the fond girl. "All" said he, "I thought you were the girl for a brave soldier to do." Promptness is the first requisite in those who would obey orders."

And then they parted; he to make preparations for the coming event, and she to startle mother and sister with the announcement that there was to be a wedding in the family, and a sad parting. The girl of course did every objection, and set to work to look after her wardrobe, that first requisite for the new life. A traveling dress was purchased, friends were invited, license taken out and clergyman supplied.

Saturday evening found the preparations complete, and the girl of nineteen, who has never before been separated from her mother, has forsaken her old home and friends, and gone to a station with a husband who was but a stranger. The young couple will sail early in January for China, there to remain three years. May every happiness attend them, and may the nuptial union of the queen, be brought on the ruins of the sudden marriage never wear off. Washington Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

IF the farmer will bring all his skill, intelligence and industry into the work, his vocation is a safe and sure one.

SOLUTION to put on cloth for covering hams to keep flies away — Dip in solution of sodium acetate, and, after sewing up, in thin milk of lime.

A good washing fluid is thus made: One pound of soda, one-half pound of unslacked lime, one gallon of water; let it boil and pour off; use one cup to a boiler of clothes.

TO make the hands soft — Take equal portions of glycerine and alcohol; mix well; before retiring at night wash the hands in warm water and rub well with the lotion.

TO make sour sauce, take half a cupful of butter, and stir in a tablespoonful of flour and one pint of boiling water, nearly one cupful of sugar, two spoonfuls good vinegar; spice to taste.

THE following is pointed out as the only real difference between a $5 and a $500 horse: The first can fall through a bridge and not receive the least injury; the second will break his neck by falling over a loose cobble-stone.

SOME one says that a plant or a stand of flowers is a constant source of pleasure in a room. It is a spring of sunshine, and its silent influence makes home cheerful and all the members of the household happier and better.

MILK should be kept in a wooden, clean place, if possible, covered. Expose a pan of it in a strong, smelling stable for twenty minutes, and it will imbibe the flavor so that it cannot be removed; or, in other words, will become poisonously tainted.

BE sure your salt for your butter is all right. Test it thus: Dissolve a little in a glass tumbler; if the brine formed is clear and free from bitter taste, it is good salt; on the other hand, if it presents a milky appearance and leaves a sediment, throw it away.

A farmer remarked the other day that he could not comprehend why he could not get along and make money as fast as his neighbor, Mr. B. It is no mystery. He does not stay at home and work. He is always going to town or other, "they have lied to us," but, as explain, and I: "There is no other course. I have the key in my pocket, and you must apologize or take what I give you." At that he humbled down, and said to me: "You are right, I am sorry; I did intend to bluff you. I regret it, and ask your pardon." "Enough," I promptly replied; "now, one promise before I open the door, and that is that you will to-morrow morning state, in the court, that you have said things which have wounded my feelings, and that you regret it." Pinckney replied: "I will do so." Then I unlocked the door and passed out. The next morning, when the court met, Mr. Pinckney at once rose and stated to the Court that a very unpleasant affair had occurred the morning before, as might have been observed by their Honors; that his friend, Mr. Webster, had felt grieved at something which had dropped from his lips; that his zeal for his client might have led him to say some things which he should not have said, and that he was sorry for having thus spoken. 'From that day, while at the Bar, there was no man,' said Mr. Webster, 'who treated me with so much respect and deference as Mr. William Pinckney.'

Among this number seeking official position are hundreds raised in the country, used to labor, and had they remained and taken the slow but sure methods, would have acquired a competence and been men of influence, and, what is far more to be valued, would have acquired such habits of life and thought as to make life full of blessing here and full of hope hereafter. The last thing on earth a good man should wish for his son is a clerkship in a public office, and it is almost as bad to send him alone into the heart of a great city, and into a like situation. Land is cheap, and almost any energetic, industrious young man can own a few acres by the time he is twenty-five. At thirty-five he can be easy; in fifty he can enjoy independence. And, what is far better, he has his manhood, morally and physically. What if his hands are hard with labor, all these years his sleep has been sweet and refreshing. From the nature of their occupation farmers should be the most thoughtful and intelligent of our citizens. We do not mean the surface culture of society which comes from the polished circles of cities, but that resulting from the substantial food for the mind that is so easily found in the public and private libraries.

With the newspaper to keep him posted in the great world outside, with books forthcoming from the pens of refined and cultured, certainly the highest order of intelligence should flow into the life of the farmer. While we believe that the farming population of the prairies and valleys of the great Northwest are already as intelligent as any of the classes in the world, yet the time has fully come for them to make a long stride forward. The world is progressing, and if they would keep their sons and daughters about them, they must gather about the farm the attractions, the refinements and culture to which they are entitled. Newspapers, magazines, good books, museums, lectures and music should be found in every village surrounded and village as surely as you would lay in the winter supply of comforts. Neglect them, and they will have their feet and hand and will have longings to break away, and seek in the cities what they have failed to receive in their rural homes. Such reasons have driven so many thousands of young men to seek their fortunes in the overcrowded cities, and have filled them with their foes for bread and a position. It is a weariness to contemplate the wrecks of moral and physical manhood that are the streets of our great cities, and go in and out of the busy marts of trade. What shall we do with our boys? We answer: Do not send them to the towns and cities to encounter the uncertainties, and to receive the certainties of the thousands who have preceded them. Settle them about you as best you can in homes of comfort, where there is food for and clothing for the body, and the atmosphere of Colorado, for health — and but only a grave. The influence of the former is more powerful than either Florida or Colorado can afford the consumptive — at best only palliative. The former already formost, they produce yet more serious results by inflaming and burning the nerves and healthy tissues. Consumption requires a remedy that will soothe while it relieves; such medicines but add fuel to the flame that already threatens to consume the system. The Golden Medical Discovery fulfills these conditions, and has been pronounced the best remedy yet discovered to stay and arrest consumption.

THIRTY-SEVEN years have elapsed since the introduction of Dr. Tutt's Pills to the public, and not at the present time is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone, all over the world its beneficial effects is conceded. The "Old Doctor" is an established and appreciated, and as his Pills have proved themselves to be entirely safe and reliable, they never leave a patient worse off than they find him. Sold by all druggists everywhere.

WORTH MORE THAN GOLD. — Any one who is troubled with Sick Headache, Costiveness, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, and all derangements of the Internal Viscera, will find that one dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets will give relief. Sold by druggists.

THE following is pointed out as the only real difference between a $5 and a $500 horse: The first can fall through a bridge and not receive the least injury; the second will break his neck by falling over a loose cobble-stone.

SOME one says that a plant or a stand of flowers is a constant source of pleasure in a room. It is a spring of sunshine, and its silent influence makes home cheerful and all the members of the household happier and better.

MILK should be kept in a wooden, clean place, if possible, covered. Expose a pan of it in a strong, smelling stable for twenty minutes, and it will imbibe the flavor so that it cannot be removed; or, in other words, will become poisonously tainted.

BE sure your salt for your butter is all right. Test it thus: Dissolve a little in a glass tumbler; if the brine formed is clear and free from bitter taste, it is good salt; on the other hand, if it presents a milky appearance and leaves a sediment, throw it away.

A farmer remarked the other day that he could not comprehend why he could not get along and make money as fast as his neighbor, Mr. B. It is no mystery. He does not stay at home and work. He is always going to town or other, "they have lied to us," but, as explain, and I: "There is no other course. I have the key in my pocket, and you must apologize or take what I give you." At that he humbled down, and said to me: "You are right, I am sorry; I did intend to bluff you. I regret it, and ask your pardon." "Enough," I promptly replied; "now, one promise before I open the door, and that is that you will to-morrow morning state, in the court, that you have said things which have wounded my feelings, and that you regret it." Pinckney replied: "I will do so." Then I unlocked the door and passed out. The next morning, when the court met, Mr. Pinckney at once rose and stated to the Court that a very unpleasant affair had occurred the morning before, as might have been observed by their Honors; that his friend, Mr. Webster, had felt grieved at something which had dropped from his lips; that his zeal for his client might have led him to say some things which he should not have said, and that he was sorry for having thus spoken. 'From that day, while at the Bar, there was no man,' said Mr. Webster, 'who treated me with so much respect and deference as Mr. William Pinckney.'

What Shall We Do with the Boys?

The question is asked and pondered over in thousands of homes to-day. "What shall we do with these boys of ours?" It is a question of grave importance to the individual and to the people. The individual is interested in the prospect of employment congenial to his taste, and in the ability to attract the attention of the rabies. A bad shoot $40,000 in a money-belt about the size of a saddle-girth, and several hundred dollars in my pocket.

"Suddenly my friend shouted, 'Come, shell out mighty quick, or I'll send the devil a free lunch.'

"I passed out the few hundreds loose in my pockets, and handed him my gold watch and chain. They were hefty. I think the chain alone would weigh five pounds at least.

"'There,' said I, 'there's every cent I've got. Take it and let me go on. My wife is very sick, and I don't know what would happen to her if she knew what was going on.'

"'Keep your hands up,' was the reply, while a second robber received the watch and money. Then a search was made for the Express Company's box, but the double-barreled shot-gun did not move. Its muzzles were within a foot of my nose. For my life I did not dare to stir. My nose began to itch. The still holes of my mustache got up one after another and tickled it until the sensation was intolerable. I could stand it no longer.

"'Stranger,' I cried, 'I must scratch my nose. It itches so that I am almost crazy.'

"'Move your hand,' he shouted, 'and I'll blow a hole through your head big enough for a buck antelope to jump through.' I appealed once more. 'Well,' he answered, 'keep your hands on, and I'll scratch it for you. I have to see a partner suffer.'

"'Did he scratch it?' asked one of Ben's interested listeners.

"'Sure,' said Mr. Holladay.

"'How?' asked the breathless listener.

"'With the muzzle of the cocked gun,' said the great overlander. "He rubbed the end of the gun around my mustache and raked it over the end of my nose until I thanked him and said that it itched no longer."

The robbers soon afterward took their leave, with many apologies, and Ben continued his journey to the Missouri with his big emerald and $20,000. — N. Y. Sun

THE Arizona Miner tells a story of two friends who were recently attacked by Indians in that State. They were both on mules, and the arrows were whistling by them in clouds. The mules were of unequal powers of speed, and the foremost man sang out, "Joe, why don't you come along?" Joe, whose arms and legs were flying in the air like a runaway windmill, replied, in an arrow grazed his ear: "Do I act like a man who is throwing off?"

THE sowing of buckwheat early in the spring is recommended for land infested with Canada thistles. As soon as the buckwheat is in full blossom it is turned under, and reseeding done with the same grain. The last crop is harvested when ripe. — Chicago Times.

Late Fashion Items.

Large hoop ear-rings are again worn.

Alsatian bows are seen on the newest imported bonnets.

Pale blue brocaded silks are used for full-dress bonnets.

Feather feathers, tipped with jet, are handsome for round hats.

Shaggy beaver hats are most liked in the fashionable promenade.

Marble-paper and envelopes are the latest novelty in stationery.

Evening bonnets are all white, with a border of white ostrich plumes.

Among new piece-trimmings are stamped velvet and thick galloons.

Pale blue and pink are greatly used in combination with silk or satin.

Exquisite card-holders are in the shape of a shell held by a pretty little figure.

Pomadore vests, with Louis XIII. cuffs, are the new extravagances for full-dress.

Babies' clothes are no longer modern the elaborate style that was once universal.

Velvet, when used for cloaks, is almost invariably combined with silk or matelasse.

Long jewelry is again worn by ladies, after being worn a long time by babies only.

New collars and cuffs have colored embroideries in pale tints, with a scolloped edge.

New handkerchiefs have the border in large scallops, finished with small scallops in colors.

Favorite scarf-pins are made of two snakes twined together, and finely wrought in gold.

Habit basques, shaped like gentlemen's frock coats, are among the most importatins for ladies' wear.

Standing collars and narrow cuffs are hard to abolish; they still continue to be favorites with many ladies.

One-third of the left-hand corner of envelopes and visiting cards that are used for second mourning is black.

The handsomest evening dresses are made of plush grenadine in solid colors, such as red blue, rose, pink and green.

Long, graceful loops of ribbon are fastened at the throat in place of the stiff, made-up bows which have been in fashion.

For evening dresses, young ladies in mourning wear plain white muslin with white dasies mingled with small black grapes.

Lace mittens are worn for evening, matching the dress in color. They may be found in all shades. One of the favorite colors is tilbel.

The unique costume for a half-dress consists of a grape-vine, with leaves and bunches of hanging grapes having a most natural appearance. — N. Y. Tribune.

Proverbial Philosophy.

"In a good house all is quickly ready," was the remark of a young lady whom you had called to take to church. She is always a half hour behind time.

Seeing that hath love in his heart hath spurs in his side." This is not true in all cases. There was young Lochinvar, who came out of the West. He hath love in his heart, but he wore his spurs on his boots. It was his steed that had spurs in his side.

"In this measures not himself is measured." This is a very excellent proverb, but it was originally intended for a motto in a tailor's shop.

"When your will is ready your feet are light," unless you happen to be a Louisville girl.

"Good words quench more than a bucket of water," but slapon the water while you send some one to turn in an alarm.

"Neither bribe nor loss thy right," except in working a bill through the Legislature; then search out the two ass. "Love that repels not a part builds all," except in the case of a man who lives in a rented house.

"Bribe not secretly, while never misses," unless he belongs to an amateur rifle club. Then he never hits, and we've got money to bet on it. — Oil City Derrick.

Death in His Favorite Robe.

The mortuary statistics of the whole civilized world show that about one-fifth of all mankind die of consumption alone, and the number of deaths due to consumption bears a greater ratio to the whole number than that of any other three diseases together. Moreover, investigation proves that this ratio is steadily increasing. Its increasing prevalence has led to the popular belief that consumption is incurable. Thousands upon thousands of these sufferers seek, in the sunny retreats of Florida and the fine atmosphere of Colorado, for health — and but only a grave. The influence of the former climate is so powerful that either Florida or Colorado can afford the consumptive — at best only palliative. The cure is not to be found in any such change. The cure is in the use of such remedies as will build up the blood, and thereby restore the wasted tissues, which prevents consumption, and so, the restoration of healthy nutrition. In order to do this, the food is taken into the stomach, digested, assimilated, and finally, healthy blood and all the different tissues built from it. Now, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has never been claimed, by its proprietors, to be a panacea for all the ills that flesh is heir to, but it does claim, and with perfect truth, that it will cure all diseases of a scrofulous nature, from the worst blood-taint or humor to a common pimple, if the use of the "Discovery" is persisted in for a reasonable length of time. Send to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., for their pamphlet on Consumption, which will be sent free.

Graefenberg Vegetable

PILLS

Have been acknowledged for over Thirty Years to be a certain cure for HEADACHE, L

1878. THE 1878

DETROIT

Post and Tribune.

The Metropolitan Republican Journal of Michigan.

The consolidation of The Detroit Post and Tribune and Detroit Tribune has resulted in issuing THE POST AND TRIBUNE the Republican paper of Michigan. Its enormous circulation, its facilities for obtaining news by telegraph and correspondence, its combination of editorial talent, its up-to-date style in the mechanical branch, its superiority in all its departments as any of the large morning dailies. It is pure and uncompromising in tone, and is worthy to take its place at any fireside. At the same time it is bright, racy, fresh and original, and contains all the News of the Day, as accurately and completely as the largest daily in the land, but in condensed form, for rapid and agreeable reading. Having behind it all the resources for the gathering of news by telegraph correspondence, and exchanges of the largest newspaper corporation in the State, its facilities in this respect are unequalled. Special attention is paid to obtaining the latest news from every city and village in Michigan. It Market, Money and Marine News will be thoroughly fresh and reliable, every possible item of information of value to business men being carefully examined and arranged for this columns.

Unlike other county evening papers, too often of the merely sensational order, its editorial columns will compare favorably with any paper in the country for vigor, sound thinking, accurate and useful information, strength, freshness and purity of style, and wide range of topics. This department will always be well worth reading by thinking men of all classes and parties.

TERMS

	per annum.	5 mos.	3mos.
DAILY,	$10.00	$5.00	$2.50
Tri-Weekly,	3.00	2.50	1.25
Weekly,	1.50	.75	.40
Evening Telegh	5.00	2.50	1.25

All Postage Paid.

NOTICE.—There will be a special Township Meeting of the qualified voters of the Township of Charlevoix held on the 13th day of February, 1878, for the purpose of voting on the question of raising by loan the sum of seven hundred dollars to assist in building a bridge across Pine River at Charlevoix.

By order of Town Board,
TYRON SEE, Town Clerk.

The Evening Telegraph,

In addition to their Morning, Tri-Weekly and Weekly editions, The Post and Tribune Co publish THE DETROIT EVENING TELEGRAPH, the cheapest and best afternoon paper published in Michigan, and the only Afternoon Paper in Detroit having the Associated Press despatches. It is as carefully and ably edited in all its departments as any of the large morning dailies. It is pure and uncompromising in tone, and is worthy to take its place at any fireside. At the same time it is bright, racy, fresh and original, and contains all the News of the Day, as accurately and completely as the largest daily in the land, but in condensed form, for rapid and agreeable reading. Having behind it all the resources for the gathering of news by telegraph correspondence, and exchanges of the largest newspaper corporation in the State, its facilities in this respect are unequalled. Special attention is paid to obtaining the latest news from every city and village in Michigan. It Market, Money and Marine News will be thoroughly fresh and reliable, every possible item of information of value to business men being carefully examined and arranged for this columns.

Unlike other county evening papers, too often of the merely sensational order, its editorial columns will compare favorably with any paper in the country for vigor, sound thinking, accurate and useful information, strength, freshness and purity of style, and wide range of topics. This department will always be well worth reading by thinking men of all classes and parties.

TERMS

	per annum.	5 mos.	3mos.
DAILY,	$10.00	$5.00	$2.50
Tri-Weekly,	3.00	2.50	1.25
Weekly,	1.50	.75	.40
Evening Telegh	5.00	2.50	1.25

All Postage Paid.

THE GREENBACK CAMPAIGN.—The greenback element of the County, but more particular of Hayes, and Charlevoix Township, are upon the war path In Hayes their trumpet gives Forth no uncertain sound, and a majority of the electors of the Township is claimed who favor the paper dollar. Their emissaries are holding meetings throughout the county, and preaching their financial faith in eveplent strains. Cant they anticipate greater tidings in the future, seems evident from the repeated duties they make among the people regarding the affairs of the county. It is not true, as they represent, that the Board of Supervisors at their last session raised the salaries of county officers. But they might have done it very properly. So long as the greenbackers cling closely to the tenets of their peculiar doctrine their converts will be honestly misled, but they cannot ride into power in local affairs by any such tactics, as the people we have mentioned. "Truth is mighty," etc

For all its dull times, we continue to live and keep a large stock of everything pertaining to general merchandise.

FOX, ROSE & BUTLER.

For a nice dress pattern call at our store, we have all of the late shades and most desirable styles. FOX, ROSE & BUTLER.

DESERVED PROMOTION.—Most of our readers will remember Chas Vogel, who for a time was engineer on the Steamer Annie Hewes looked upon as possessed much natural ability, and intelligence, and his career since leaving here shows that he has improved his chances, and developed his promising talent. We now hear of him as being attached to the Engineer Department of the steamer Oregon, which plies between New York and San Francisco, and up as far as the Oregon coat. The Oregon is one of the finest ocean steamers afloat. Young Vogel receives $65 per month, cabin fare and uniforms, and has officers' rank. As I understand it, he is respected and intimate with many engineering and naval acquaintances of CHAS. MOFFATT, Register,
27 PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To Whom it May Concern,

Notice is hereby given that it is andersigned Corporation-The Carp River Improvement Company—a corporation organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Michigan, entitled, "An act to authorize the formation of Corporations for the purpose of improving the navigation of streams," approved April 5th, 1865, and the several acts amendatory thereof, intends to apply to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marquette, in the State of Michigan, which the undersigned Corporation proposes to improve, and a plan for the improvement of the same, showing the several points in the stream where the improvements are to be made, and the nature and character of such improvements; which map or plan is now on file with the Clerk of said Board, and made application to said Board for their approval thereof, and their consent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 27th day of February next—Wednesday—at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, as being the time of a regular meeting of said Board—at which time said Board of Control will proceed to hear and determine the matter of said application, at which hearing all parties interested therein may appear and be heard.

CARP RIVER IMPROVEMENT CO.
E. B. WHEAT, Secy.

Old Stage Line

DAILY between Traverse City and Big Rapids; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays between Elk Rapids and Charlevoix. Passengers carried comfortably, and freight at very lowest rates.

Dec. 13, 1877. C. POWERS.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan County of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate Office, in the village of Charlevoix, on Friday the 25th day of January, A. D. 1878. Present, J. Milo Eaton, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Nathaniel P. Youmans, Deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Nelson Youmans, praying that a certain instrument now on file in this County purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that Addie F. Hayes may be appointed executor thereof. Thereupon, it is ordered that saturday, the 23d day of February next at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the Village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be printed in the Charlevoix SENTINEL, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate.
(A true copy.)

Epilepsy or Fits.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and

Counsellor at Law.

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wild land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Effected in first class companies at the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Titles furnished.

Unusual facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Cramton's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

10-1yr

$777 per month easily earned in three months' time by any one of either sex in any part of the country who is willing to work steadily at the employment that we furnish. Nearly $200 can be made in a month by any one who will engage at once. All who engage are surprised at the ease with which they can make money. All the information and everything necessary sent free. Address at once, H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Oct., 29, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Eugene C. Trelway against Milo Leach, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5467, dated Apr. 2, 1877, upon the ne of section 26, Township 30 North, Range 4 West, in Emmet county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said Entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

W. W. CASWELL. C. S. BARSTOW.

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood. Bark. Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

ROOM NO. 15, MILWAUKEE, WIS.
MARINE BLOCK.

REMEMBER.

THE

Sentinel

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

LAW

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm

AND

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Pine Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at very low prices. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lake—and are included in School Districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to, or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent
Charlevoix Mich.

1161y

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call at our lumber yard on Round Lake. Bins filled on short notice.

CUPRIGHT & WAY,
Owners of Sch. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE

In Eveline.

Offer my farm for sale of 80 acres on section 36 in Eveline, 20 acres improvement, good barn, and log house, good well, and orchard of 75 thrifty trees. Good fences. Premises traversed road. School house quarter of a mile great-mill two miles and a half.

Charles Heller,
Advance Mich.

FARM FOR SALE

IN

SOUTH ARM!

The W½ of NW¼ Sec. 20, Town 32 North of Range Seven West, 80 acres. Twenty-five acres improvements, 200 fruit trees, 50 bushels of apples last year. Will be sold for $400 cash. Address

ANTOINE SHAW W.
Elk Rapids
Mich

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich. Oct. 31, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Pardee, against Charles Mosall, for abandoning his Homestead Entry, No. 5241, dated Jan. 15, 1875, upon the S. W. ¼ of section 24, Township 34, North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 28th day of Nov., 1877, at one o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U.S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Lorin M. Barrett against James Jones No. 7742, dated June 20, 1876, upon the se Section 30, Township 34 South, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Jan., 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

27.

SASH

AND

DOOR

FACTORY.

J.E. Grielick& Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, Stair railing, &c.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits and Homecanally Sealed Goods.

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(Sole)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit. In Chancery.

Peter Tegeder, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary E. Allison, Defendant

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix, on the 20th day of July A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are to be found within the United States. On motion of J. Milo Eaton complainant's solicitor, ordered that the appearance of the said defendants Robert Allison and Mary E. Allison residence of whom is unknown to the complainant's solicitor, be entered herein within forty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and a notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel a newspaper printed published and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said defendants at least twenty days previous to the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HAYES Jr.
Circuit Judge.
J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
13-6in.

NOTICE.
U. S. LAND OFFICE,
TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Aug. 27, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Beely L. Spencer, late an assistant Lighthouse keeper at Grand Traverse Light, against Ed Pierce, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7215, dated Oct. 15, 1875, upon the se ¼ of section 32, Township 33 North, Range 9 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

13

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7595, dated April 10, 1876, upon the ne ¼ of section 36, Township 34 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 26th day of Nov., 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 22, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Mathilda A. Bright against James Massey, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 6235, dated Oct. 3, 1874, upon the ne ¼ of section 6, Township 33 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 23d day of Nov. 1877, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

AND

DOOR

FACTORY.

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

HARNESS.

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Butlers' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 42 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Feb., 12. 1878. Whole No., 457

The Sentinel,

Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.—

OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street

Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
75c FOR SIX MONTHS.

JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	3 m.	6 months.
One sq.	$ 50	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$3.50
2 spcs	1.25	1.75	2.00	4.00	7.00
3 "	1.75	2.75	3.00	5.00	7.50
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.25	10.00
1 column	3.25	4.00	5.00	10.00	17.00
4 "	5.00	9.50	8.50	17.00	30.00
1 "	8.50	10.00	12.00	30.00	50.00

Cards in Business Directory $1 per line per year.

Legal advertisements 2½ cts per line.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Mich.

A. J. McBRIDE Sheriff Charlevoix Co. Charlevoix Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. HUFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVELL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate and Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times.

A. H. CRITCHELL, County Clerk and Notary Public and Deputy Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD B. GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at law, Charlevoix Mich. Conveyancing Attorney Abstracts Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Register Blackwell's Electric Motor, Patties in Attention given to Prosecutions.

Roswell Leavitt,

LAWYER AND NOTARY,

Ek Rapisd, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,

Is manently located at Pancake's old visiting dentistry one week in each month. For the purpose of visiting Mich. and will perform all operations appertaining to the dental profession.

The Campbell House.

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.

H.D CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. FAILTHORP.

Attorney and Counselor at Law

PETOSKEY, MICH.

S. J. FARMER.

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

Has located his shop in I. E. Wing & Co's Express shop, in Charlevoix, and solicits the patronage of his friends. Coarse or fine boots or shoes made and

Repairing

Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS-FITTING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street. EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy

Drugs and Medicines

DYE STUFFS,

Stationery & Confectionery

IS AT

CROUTER's

Drug Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Which he now sells at the lowest prices, and will supply the wants of Dealers and Physicians in the country with anything they want in his line. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also

Teeth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVEs

Hardware & Tinware

To be found in this region is at the store of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Leave Petoskey—8 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.

Leave Charlevoix 1:30 p. m. arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.

Every person having anything sent for the conveyance of passengers will be called, and the express will be delivered at as low rates as possible. H. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,

House Sign and Carriage

PAINTER.

Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the Village of CHARLEVOIX. Also 15 acres of choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. D. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE U. S. Land office,
Traverse City Mich., Dec. 24, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Price against Wm. M. Dewerest, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5324, dated April 1, 1876, upon the ne ¼ of sec. section 26, Township 35 North, R. 5 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of March, 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.

Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren will receive a fraternal welcome.

JAMES K. WOOD, N. G.
J. MILO EATON, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M. Regular Communication on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.

W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. P. [illegible] Sec'y.

L. O. L.

Pine Hill Lodge No. 101, L. O. L. meets at Central Lake Mich. on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at Sunbeck p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.

BENJAMIN BURNS, W. M.
GEO. LOCKWOOD, Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mails close and are due as follows:

Going North—Close at 12 M., depart at the same days and are due at Petoskey at 6 P. M.

Going South—Close at 12 M., depart at 1 P. M. Arrive at Petoskey at 6 P. M.

SOUTH AUM—mail leaves at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays, arrive at 6 p. m. of the same days.

W. A. SMITH P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

Buying prices—corrected weekly.

Wheat, per bushel	$1 00
Oats, per bushel	30
Corn, per bushel	50
Barley, per bushel	50
Potatoes, per bushel	25
Dressed hogs, per pound	5
Live hogs, per pound	3@4
Eggs, per dozen	15
Butter, per pound	15
Chickens, dressed, per pound	10
Turkeys, per pound	10
Hay, per ton	7 00@8 00
Straw, per bundle	25@30
Flour, per barrel	6 00@7 00
Beef, per pound	6@7
Pork, per pound	5@6
Lard, per pound	10
Wood, per cord	3 00@4 00

COOPER gives a Ball the 22d

THE Charlevoix Public School numbers 165 scholars and teachers.

THE Traverse Bay Progress announces that a cheese factory has been established in Elk Rapids.

THE Township election on the bridge question takes place to-morrow the 13th, at Town Hall.

Ice for points on the line of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad is being cut, now, at Cadillac.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of the Grand Traverse region will be 75 per cent greater this year than last.

THE Railroad Company are putting the lumber upon the ground for a summer hotel at Melrose, on Bear Lake.

A new invoice of groceries and teas expected at C. & P.'s this week also the Nimble Nickle. Call and get one free

OUR statement last week that Olds & Stroud, of Hortons Bay, had sold out, was no error, due to a misunderstanding on our part.

D. HOLLOWAY, Esq., with his family, have removed from their place in Evangeline to this village, where they will spend the winter, as the guests of their son-in-law, F. M. Loveland.

DIED.—Mr. Jared I. Wood, the aged father of Geo. M. Wood, of Eveline died one day last week. His death was mainly due to old age, but was hastened by a fall he received a short time before DOCK.—The harbor docks of M. J. Stockman and See & Washburn, are approaching completion, and are the most substantial docks yet built on the harbor.

PERSONAL.—A. E. Palmer, Esq., of Kalkaska, paid us a pleasant visit on Saturday.

—"Uncle John" Miller, Treasurer of Evangeline Township, was in town Saturday, making returns to Co. Treasurer See.

—Messrs. Olds & Stroud were in town Saturday.

—Richard Knight, Esq., of Banks, was in town Saturday.

—Mr. J. E. Darrah, of Melrose Township, called on us Friday.

Greenbacks.

We warn all good citizens, and Republicans especially, against receiving as sound doctrine, the greenback falsery now being so loudly heralded through out the county. We regard this particular branch of the movement as a case of "blue-blooderism" from the journalistic saturation of the Demcrsy kind of finances which lays for its chief article of faith the proposition that "the power that makes can unmake." We cannot dispossess our mind of the belief that in this hypothesis lurks a sentiment of once dishonorable and communistic. The government that, in time of national peril plighted its feith that the bonded debt of the nation incurred in the prosecution of a war, should bear gain interest, has the arbitrary power to repudiate not only the letter of the bonds, regarding the payment of interest, but also the bonds. But what about national credit and honor? In 1862 Pomeroy aided and encouraged rebellion, and did what he could to assist rebels to dismember the Union. Now he advocates repudiation and national trickery. But we assert fearlessly that the greenback champions are without any definite idea of how the benefit would come, and cling to the conviction that, in some way or other, they would personally profit by some degree of currency inflation, which, in their home language, "would revive business." The notion is founded on little else than a deep dissatisfaction with the present depression, and a desire to get rid of it by any means. The disease is visible, and the patient, in a singular confusion of ideas, grasps at any remedy that is offered. They ignore the fact that bottom must be reached sooner or later, and that greenback inflation only means a second edition of the feverish and artificial prosperity of war times. If by any argument or sophistry we can be made to believe that cancelling national bonds and issuing in their stead another form of indebtedness is an approach toward permanent national prosperity, then we are a greenbacker. But when it appears that this act can only be accomplished by a violation of the national faith, then neither the Pomeroyan logic or our friend from Hayes, nor the eloquence of the Websterian orator whose posterum adjoins the meat shop, can convince us that their financial doctrine is not pernicious.

If there are any Greenback Presidents outside of Charlevoix Township who feel agrieved by our editorial remarks in this issue, we apologize in advance. We don't mean them.

REAL ESTATE changes for the week ending Feb. 8, 1878:

U. S. to Jared I. Wood, 160 acres in Eveline.

Wm. H. Porter and wife to George S. Smith, lot in village of Advance—$12.

Geo. B. Thompson and wife to L. W. Hull, 40 acres in Evangeline—$400.

U. S. to D. Holliday, 160 acres in Evangeline.

U. S. to Albert Brown, 160 acres in Hayes.

H. W. Sage and wife to John McGraw and wife, 165 acres in Hayes—$1.

We had a reporter at the greenback meeting on Saturday evening, expecting to be absent ourself, and his report is before us, in which he faithfully delineates the inane ravings of the greenback "President." He (the "President") abused everybody, calling Sherman, Hubbell, and the entire Congress a parcel of thieves and robbers, and the American people no better. The notes also speak of the speeches of Bisbee, Doony and others, and draws copiously from the speech of Capt. Webster. The report gives place to our own remarks, not because they are more deserving of attention, but because of their comparative brevity, and a consciousness, as a late hour, that we are devoting too much space to an unimportant matter.

THROUGH THE ICE.—Willie Horton started from Hugh Miller's to come to town on skates one evening last week and broke through the ice to his neck, and could not extricate himself. His lusty cries brought Chas. O. Miller to his rescue and he was pulled out wet but wise.

Late Foreign News.

Death of Pope Pius IX.

A special from Rome states that the news of the Pope's death has already been officially announced, and gives the following particulars: The Pope at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, felt a sudden suffocation. He rallied several times, but said to his physicians, "Death wins this time." He was alternately placid and wandering. His last moments were lucid. He said: "Guard the church I loved so well and sacredly." Cardinals Manning and Howard and many others were present at his death.

—The dispatches seem to confirm the report that the Russians have occupied Constantinople, in consequence of which intense war feeling exists in England.

THE GREENBACK MEETING on Saturday evening at Town Hall turned out disastrously for the greenbackers. The meeting was addressed by Capt. T. S. Webster, of Hayes, and by the President of the Club, Hon. J. M. Clark, the well-known scholarly orator, of whom our village is so justly proud. We arrived at the meeting late, and caught only the closing words of Capt. Webster's speech; consequently we aim no criticism at the speech of that gentleman, only as it was echoed by the subsequent speaker, President Clark. Amorose E. Palmer, of Kalkaska, was present, and was called out. He spoke for nearly one hour, and in the opinion of most of his unprejudiced hearers, completely knocked the props from under the greenbackers. Mr. Palmer has for years been a careful and constant reader and observer, and is thoroughly posted in the financial issues which a e distracting the American people. He dealt in facts and figures, and completely punctured the sugar-coated fallacies of the Pomeroy financiers. The "President" retorted in a flow of eloquence that would have done honor to an O'Connell. Sub rosa: Have any of our readers, in their barn-yard experience, ever noticed the ruffled dignity and frantic crowing of a defeated dung hill rooster minus tail-feathers? We make no insite. This mind picture involuntarily suggests itself, as an impromptu obiter dictum. But the controversy was one in which cool argument and plain fact were pitted against blind assertion and stupid bluster. The first was received with marked and respectful attention, and the latter was met with derision, laughter and contemptuous hoots. One honest-minded citizen, who had signed their constitution, arose and renounced the ways of greenbackers, and openly accused them of misrepresentation and subterfuge. We are of the opinion that greenback shares as political stock in trade in Charlevoix have depreciated in value since Saturday evening. In short, we think Greenbackers, and Greenback Club Presidents in particular, are sick. To the former we prescribe a change of political diet, and to the latter oatmeal porridge; it makes brain.

THE BUNDR.—Bids will be received up to the 16 h for the bridge to be built across Pine River, in Charlevoix. Bids on the substructure should be tendered seperately, the plan and specifications of which, together with that of the superstructure, can be seen at See & Washburn's store. The specifications of the superstructure call for a swing bridge, 127 feet long, with a channel-way 50 feet wide on either side of pivot abutment, with floor 16 above water.

Rev. M. V. Rork of Athens, the beseeched M. E. clergyman, is organizing an independent church at Athens. The people were ready to take this step last fall when Mr. Rork was expelled, but were delayed by his work at other points. At Sherwood 130 converts have been secured, and he is now preaching to crowded houses at Union City.

Now that log tree stories are in order Messrs. Sands & Young, of Cadillac, say they have cut 18 cords of stove-wood from a maple sapling.

Additional local on eighth page.

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

IN the Senate, on the 22d, several petitions were presented and referred. A bill was reported from the Finance Committee to remit taxes on unclaimed savings banks. A bill was introduced and referred to repeal that portion of the national bank act which imposes a tax of 10 per cent. upon the circulation of State banks. The states of Wis., Kan., the first Governor of Maine, and which was contributed by that State to the National Statuary Hall, was accepted, and Messrs. Hoadley, Blaine and others made addresses. ...In the House, the Forfeiture Appropriation bill was reported and referred. A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Banking and Currency to ascertain the amount of gold and silver coin and bullion owned by the United States, the amount of bonds which had been sold by the Secretary of the Treasury for coin, the amount of gold and silver coin, bank notes and legal-tenders held by banking institutions, and such other facts as will tend to inform the House when and in what method it will be practicable and consistent with the public welfare to resume specie payment. In the Senate joint resolutions accepting from the State of Maine a statue of William King was passed.

A LARGE number of petitions were presented in the Senate, on the 23d. Mr. Blaine introduced a bill providing for the coinage of a silver dollar of as many grains as the Director of the Mint shall from time to time prescribe, to be a legal-tender in common with gold coin up to and including five dollars, and for all sums exceeding five dollars the silver shall have the right to tender, and the creditor be compelled to take half of the amount in gold coin and one-half in silver coin. The Matthews Silver resolution was further debated. Mr. Cockrell finishing his remarks in favor of, and Mr. Beck speaking in opposition. In the House, a bill was introduced relieving back deposits from the internal revenue tax. The Senate resolutions in honor of the late Senator Ingalls were concluded, and eulogies were pronounced, after which the resolutions were adopted.

AFTER the transaction of some unimportant business in the Senate, on the 24th, the resolution of Mr. Matthews to pay the interest and principal of Government bonds in silver was again taken up and debated. Mr. Lamar making a lengthy speech in opposition thereto. Mr. Conkling favored and Mr. Thurman opposed an amendment to make the resolution a joint instead of a concurrent one, a joint resolution requiring the sanction of the President as well as both houses of Congress. The bill suspending the laws concerning vessels in the navigation, and the regulation of steam vessels, was considered in the House, and several amendments were disposed of.

IN the Senate, on the 25th, Mr. Blaine made an explanation with regard to the Silver bill introduced by him, on the 23d, to the effect that he had purposely left the number of grains in the dollar blank because he had no desire in voting to vote for a dollar of 412½ grains. He had been erroneously reported as leaving in his bill, the number of grains "the dollar to be determined by the Director of the Mint and the Secretary of the Treasury, when it was the price of silver bullion per ounce he left to be publicly fixed, as near the market value as possible, by such officers. The bill was then referred to Judiciary. The resolution of Mr. Matthews, declaring the right of the Government to pay its bonds in silver, was again taken up and the amendment making the resolution a joint, instead of a concurrent, one was rejected—yeas, 22; nays, 30—after which the Matthews amendment, providing for the payment of bonds in gold or its equivalent, and declaring that no other payment without the consent of the creditor would be in accordance with the public faith, and in derogation of the creditor's rights, was adopted, after considerable debate—yeas, 38; nays, 21. Other proposed amendments were similarly disposed of, and the resolution as amended by the Matthews was agreed to—41 to 22. The pneumatic mail bill was then taken up, and the 44th section of the bill, in regard to the 3d, 3½ and 4 per cents, was rejected, after which the bill, as amended by Mr. Matthews was adopted—41 to 21. The House bill to authorize the free coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal-tender character, was taken up and Mr. Morgill made a lengthy speech in opposition thereto. A large number of bills were presented and referred in the House, among which were one to coin the 412½ grain dollar, one for the issue of gold coin and silver dollar certificates, one to authorize the issue of bonds to pay the principal of National Banks, and to substitute therefor Treasury notes, receivable for all dues to the Government, and to abolish the tax on banking circulation, securing to all the States equal treatment of patronage in the Civil Service of the Government, and for the number of Representatives in Congress at 400. A resolution was introduced declaring that the public debt, as represented by the bonds, or subsidies in money, lands, public property, franchises or in respect of public credit, should be granted or renewed to any railroad corporation, except as a compensating to engage in, and to the extent of expenses that appropriations may be hereafter limited to such amount and purposes only as shall be appropriated annually by the public revenues. The Senate concurrent resolution, known as the Matthews Silver resolution, was taken up and passed 189 to 79.

DOMESTIC.

JACOB AND JOHN HUNTZINGER, late President and Cashier of the Miners' Trust Company, at Pottsville, Pa., have been sentenced each to two years' solitary confinement and to pay a fine of $500, and to refund to Thomas Kerns, prosecutor, the sum of $10,000, with costs. The charge against them was conspiracy to defraud a depositor (Kerns).

A REVOLVER was received at Bismarck, D. T., on the 23d, that Sitting Bull was then encamped on Frenchman Creek, with over a thousand lodges, including the escaped Nez Perces and the remnant of those from the agencies, numbering 280 lodges with 80 warriors. Sitting Bull's own camp numbered 2,80 warriors and 3,500 women and children. They were splendidly mounted and armed. All the principal hostile Chiefs were with them. A southern movement was intended, and probably an attempt upon Fort Keogh. Miles could put only 500 men in the field.

A NEW five-dollar counterfeit note on the Farmers' National Bank, of Virginia, Ill., was discovered at the National Bank Redemption Agency, in Washington, on the 24th. The plate is evidently altered from the one from which the five dollar counterfeit on the Traders' National Bank, of Chicago, was printed. The charter number on the counterfeit discovered is 1,467, while that on the genuine is 1,471.

AT a Baltimore (Md.) theater, on the 24th, just before the beginning of the matinee, the cylinder containing the gas for the calcium light exploded, fatally injuring Charles Street, Charlie Rutter and H. Thompson, attaches of the theater.

ACCORDING to a late report of the Commissioner of Pensions, the United States Government paid to its soldiers and their widows and orphans, during the first century of its existence, an aggregate of $427,880,000 in pensions.

A LATE New York dispatch says it had transpired that the "Colorado Stone Man," which had been claimed to be a petrifaction, was manufactured by the maker of the "Cardiff Giant," planted in Colorado and coincidentally "discovered" there by its owners and constructors. The stone man was peddled and baked at Elkland, Tioga County, Pa.

ON the 26th, the United States Treasury held $360,075,890 in United States bonds to secure the National Bank circulation, and $5,645,000 in bonds to secure public deposits. National Bank circulation outstanding: Gold notes, $1,462,320; currency notes, $319,940,-264.

A CONVENTION of State Agricultural Societies is to be held in Washington, on the third Tuesday in February.

AMONG the failures reported, on the 26th, were those of the Cayuga County Savings Bank of Union City, Pa., and Chas. A. Easton & Co., one of the largest cotton brokerage houses of New York City.

THE total popular subscription to the Government 4 per cent. loan, up to the 26th, amounted to about $2,940,000.

A MR. FITCH, said to have been engaged with Hull in manufacturing the "Cardiff Petrified Man," has given a New York Times interviewer some interesting statements concerning the alleged swindle. He also states that Hull manufactured the famous stone tablets of the Connecticut Valley, on which were supposed, by artificial means, the tracks of supposed prehistoric birds. Hull bought a turkey and used the feet to make the tracks. These relics, it will be remembered caused the wisest scientific men, several years ago, and many learned speculations as to their origin were made in the reviews and monthly magazines.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

THE Iowa Legislature, on the 22d, reelected Hon. Wm. B. Allison United States Senator. The vote in the Senate was: Allison, 32, B. F. Miller, 12. In the House, Allison, 67, Miller, 33, and E. S. Nourse, 3.

THE South Carolina State Supreme Court has decided that Circuit Judges must be elected by ballot, instead of viva voce. This decision cuts all Circuit Judges elected prior to 1877 by the Republican Legislature, and retains the two elected last year by the Democratic Legislature. A Constitutional question involving the construction of the word "ballot," Chief Justice Wolland dissented from the decision.

IN reply to a communication from Mr Glover, Chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, relative to the proposed investigation into alleged abuses in said Department, President Hayes stated, in writing, on the 24th, that he should be glad to have cooperate heartily with the committee in such investigation, and to that end would issue such orders as would enforce the attendance of any other Department as might be required to secure prompt and effective assistance in the conduct of the investigation. He further gave assurance to all subordinate officers that the disclosure of their testifying truly on a call for a committee should not be used to their prejudice.

A STATE Prohibitory Convention held in New Hampshire, on the 24th, nominated Asa S. Kimball for Governor, and adopted strong prohibitory resolutions.

A WASHINGTON telegram of the 24th says there was the best authority for saying that all negotiations for the Panama Canal were finally settled to close the Syndicate from their latest subscription of $10,000,000 at 6 percent. Bonds were executed and delivered, and the Panama Interoceanic Canal Company organized at the Treasury Department at noon, and the Syndicate from its obligations to the transaction.

THE vote and yeas and nays on the final passage, in the United States Senate, of the Matthews resolution declaring the right of the Government to pay its bonds in silver coin were as follows:

Yeas—Aiken, Allen, Armstrong, Bailey, Beck, Bruce, Cameron (Pa.), Cameron (Wis.), Cockrell, Coke, Conover, Davis (Ill.), Davis (W. Va.), Dennis, Dorsey, Eustis, Garland, Gordon, Groome, Hamlin, Hereford, Ingalls, Jones (Fla.), Jones (Nev.), Kernan, Lamar, Maxey, McDonald, McMillan, Mahone, Morgan, McPherson, Oglesby, Pierce, Ransom, Saulsbury, Sharon, Thurman, Voorhees, Walker, Whyte—41.

Nays—Anthony, Barnum, Bayard, Blaine, Burnside, Christiancy, Conkling, Dawes, Edmunds, Frelinghuysen, Grover, Howe, Kellogg, Logan, Morrill, Norwood, Patterson, Ralph, Robbins, Sargent, Stewart, Swann, Vester Weil Warner, Whyte, Wilkinson, Windom—28.

NEW ORLEANS dispatches of the 25th say that the application of the members of the Returning Board for a transfer of their cases to the United States Court had been that day denied by Judge Whitaker, who had, in their absence, forfeited their bail, and issued capias for their arrest. Up to midnight they had not been found, and it was believed they were concealed in the Custom-House. Defendants' counsel gave notice that they had appealed to the United States Judge for a writ of habeas corpus.

HON. JOHN B. KERR, a former member of Congress from Maryland, died at his residence in Washington, on the morning of the 27th.

THE vote in the National House of Representatives on the passage, on the 26th, of the Matthews Silver resolution was as follows:

YEAS—Aiken, Aldrich, Atkins, Baker (Ind.), Banning, Bayne, Bell, Berkshire, Blackburn, Blount, Bonet, Boyd, Bragg, Brentano, Brewer, Bridges, Bright, Brigham, Browne, Buckner, Burchard, Burnes, Butler, Cabell, Cain, Caldwell (Ky.), Caldwell (Tenn.), Calkins, Candler, Cannon, Carlisle, Caswell, Chalmers, Clarke (Ky.), Clark (Mo.), Clark (Iowa), Clymer, Cobb, Collins, Conger, Cox (Ohio), Cox (N. Y.), Craven, Crisp, Crocker, Culbertson, Cummings, Cutler, Davidson, Davis (N. C.), Deering, Dibrell, Dickey, Dingell, Dunham, Elam, Ellis, Ermel, Evans, Ewing, Evins (N. C.), Ewing, Felton, Finley, Forney, Fort, Forney, Franklin, Fuller, Gardner, Garth, Gause, Giddings, Glover, Goode, Hunter, Hanna, Harris (Va.), Harrison, Hartridge, Hartzell, Haskell, Hatcher, Haves, Hazleton, Henderson, Hendrix, Henry, Hewitt (Ala.), Herbert, Hooker, House, Hubbell, Hunter, Hunton, Humphrey, Ilhor, Jones (Ala.), Jones (Ohio), Jordan, Keightley, Kelley, Kenna, Kilgore, Kimmel, Knapp, Knott, Ladd, Lathrop, Ligon, Luttrell, Lynde, Mackey, Manning, Mayo, Martin, Muldrow, Mackenzie, McKinley, McMahon, Metcalfe, Mills, Money, Morgan, Morrison, Muldrow, Neal, Oliver, Pacheco, Page, Paine and N. Y.), Patterson (Col.), Phelps, Pidgeon, Pollard, Powell, Price, Prindle, Rea, Reagan, Reed, Rice, Richardson, Robertson, Robeson, Rogers, Ross, Rudd, Rusk, Ryan, Sapp, Sayler, Scales, Sexton, Shallenberger, Shelley, Simonton, Sinnitt, Smith (Ga.), Sparks, Springer, Steele, Stephens, Stone (Ind.), Stone (Iowa), Stowell, Thompson, Thornburgh, Throckmorton, Tipton, Townsend, Tillman, Turner, Updegraff (Iowa), Turner, Turney, Van Voorhis, Waddell, Walls, Welch, White (Ky.), White (Ind.), Whitthorne, Williams (Ill.), Williams (Ala.), Wills, Wise, Yaple, Wilson, Wren, Wright, Young, Dargan, Rice, Bragg, Bailey, Ryan, Beach, Bagley, Baker (N. Y.), Ballou, Bowen, Bowman, Bradley, Butler, Buttz, Bragg, Campbell, Chittenden, Chalfin, Clarke (N. J.), Cook, Corwin, Crapo, Davis (Ark.), Dennis, Dwight, Farnum, Fairfield, Hammond, Hamilton, Field, Forney, Frye, Gibb, Hale, Hanback, Heigh, Harmer, Harris (Mass.), Hart, Hayden, Hiscock, Hoge, Hungerford, Jones, Jones (N. H.), Jorgensen, Joyce, Ketcham, Landers, Lapham, Longnecker, Lounsbery, Lockwood, Loring, McCook, Mears, Mayler, Noncross, O'Neill, Osmer, Pattee, Potter, Power, Pugh, Quinn, Rainey, Reed, Rice (Mass.), Robinson (Mass.), Rockwell, Rowell, Samuelson, Smith (Pa.), Spencer, Stewart, Swann, Vester Weil Warner, Wheeler, Whiting, Wilson, Wood (Me.), Wood (N. Y.), Woodard, Woodburn, Wright, Wilkins, Wilson (N. Y.), Wood—72.

FOREIGN.

THE Russians have appointed the Greek Archbishop Governor of Adrianople.

THE Greek Ministry has been reorganized, under the leadership of M. Tsamoundas, a distinguished member of the War party.

THE Italian Squadron has been ordered to the Levant.

ALFONSO, King of Spain, and Princess Mercedes, were married, in Madrid, on the 23d. The attendance of foreign representatives was large. Among the presents bestowed was a wedding-ring and diamond rose from the Pope, and 25,000,000 francs from the father of the bride.

A TELEGRAM from Crete, received on the 24th, says the entire country outside of the fortified towns was held by the insurgents, and that the efforts of the Turks at conciliation had proved abortive.

THE London Post of the 27th published the following as an official version of the preliminary conditions of peace:

I. Autonomy for Bulgaria—boundaries not defined, under a Governor to be appointed assentingly by the Powers, and by the Ottoman people Conference; the Turkish military forces to be withdrawn to certain fortified places to be designated upon.

II. The independence of Roumania, with compensation for tercitory near the mouth of the Danube, which falls to Russia.

III. Local autonomy for Bosnia and Herzegovina, with guarantees for the Christian subjects of religious freedom. The reinstatement of the Servian frontier upon the basis of the status quo ante bellum, and the cession to Servia, but in deference to Austria and other Powers, by the question of Novi Bazar.

IV. Agrandissement for Montenegro on the basis of the status quo ante bellum, with the approval of the Powers.

V. The cession of Batoum and the payment of indemnity money, territory, or some equivalent to Russia.

VI. The Sultan to undertake to consider how to meet the requirements of the Christian subjects of Turkey.

On the 26th, the Montenegrins captured, after a furious bombardment, three fortified islands in Lake Scutari.

LONDON dispatches of the 28th say that the Conference had practically finished its deliberations, Servians and Montenegrins were being prosecuted with great vigor, pending the official ratification of peace. The Servians had defeated the Turks at Zlatitza, and had for four days' battle in which several thousand were killed and wounded.

THERE were unsurprised war demonstrations in Athens on the 27th and 28th, and troops were called out to disperse the mobs.

IN the British Parliament, on the evening of the 28th, the representatives of the Government announced that, notwithstanding the Christian massacres in the East, they would ask the supplementary credit, but as a vote of confidence and to enable England to be represented in the conferences at Constantinople, to which the settlement of matters of general European concern must be referred. The announcement created the hostility of the opposition as they decided to accept the conditions and assurances and then proceed to challenge the entire policy of the Cabinet on the Eastern question and accuse an adverse vote, if possible. The sentiment is such that, in the event of their success, the Government, Parliament would be dissolved and an appeal taken to the country.

New Fashions.

The square Richelieu collar is just imported.

Silk skirts are worn by ladies, girls and small boys.

Ladies' leather belts are studded with steel nail-heads.

The newest designs for brocaded silks represent small fans.

Moss green with sky blue is the stylish combination of colors.

Chinchilla is the fashionable fur, and, strange to say, it is not costly.

Beaded trimmings over evening dresses, making them look as if studded with jewels.

Empress dresses are superseding the Princesse style—in the natural line of promotion.

Veils of black tulle are something new, covered with small gold dress or Brazilian bugs.

The latest and most expensive traveling-bags are made of Japanese stamped leather.

The new bows of ribbon worn on the left side of the waist are called clasteline bows.

Princesse dresses, arranged in costly fabrics, are sparingly trimmed. The plain mode is preferred.

Bustles are no longer worn; three flounces on the back breadths of underskirts takes their place.

The newest picture frames are of dark-colored velvet, with shirred satin of delicate shades set in.—N. Y. Tribune.

"He blushed like a schoolboy" used to convey the idea of extreme modesty; the schoolboy of the period never blushes.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

WHILE John Palmer, of Muskegon, was absent from his home, on the 21st, his son Charles killed other sons, plied his father's furniture on and around the stove, fired it, and fled to the woods. The furniture was mostly destroyed, although the fire was extinguished with small damage to the house. The young man has previously shown symptoms of insanity.

THE Detroit evening papers of the 23d declare that Nathan Fallet, of the firm of Fallet Brothers, bought $2,000 worth of goods to carry on the 10th, got warehouse receipts, raised $2,000 on them at banks, and cleared out. It is said he left a note for his brother, stating that the firm is hopelessly due no counterpart other debts of usefulness. Chicago parties are interested in this adventure.

JOHN DONALDSON was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment in the State Prison, on the 23d, at Midland, for the murder of his wife, some months ago.

AT Grand Rapids, on the 24th, Frank Hammond and a companion attempted to cross the river. Their boat was crushed by the floating ice, and Hammond was drowned.

A few evenings ago, Peter Burtlut was found lying on the ice in a culvert on the plank road, three miles south of Bridgeport. He lingered on the 24th, when he died. It is supposed he slipped to rest at the bridge and fell, in a fit, to the ice, twelve feet below, striking on his head.

THE Masonic Grand Lodge, recently in session at Grand Rapids, elected the following officers: J. W. Fisch, of Adrian, M. W. G. M.; D. D. Aitken, of Hastings, D. G. M.; Rufus C. Hathaway, of Ionia, S. & W.; J. W. McGrath, of Detroit, J. W.; Rufus W. Lang, of Kalamazoo, G. T.; John F. Daues, of Grand Rapids, G. S.; W. J. Chaplin, of Kalamazoo, G. C.; David Woodward, of Clinton, S. D.; Geo. W. Neal, of Sault Ste. Marie, J. D.; A. Hamilton, of Buchanan, G. Marshal. The following District Grand Masters were elected: First, C. F. R. Billows, of Ypsilanti; second, Louis Grant, of Monroe; third, James H. Farnham, of Cassopolis; fourth, O. F. Bissel, of Kalamazoo; fifth, A. B. Elbret, of Tecumseh; sixth, L. H. Briggs, of Lansing; seventh, G. W. Robertson, of Mount Clemens; eighth, J. A. Ellison, of Saginaw City; ninth, George Hill, of Portland; tenth, F. B. Osborne, of Calumet. Jackson was selected as the next place of meeting.

THE balance of cash in the State Treasury Jan. 12, 1878, was $355,445.56; receipts during the week ending Jan. 19 were $55,595.53; payments during same time were $25,150.30, balance in Treasury, Jan. 19, 1878, $385,890.81; increase for the week, $10,405.23.

THE dead body of Mrs. Deborah Green was found in her house, seven miles south of Jackson, on the afternoon of the 23d. Her head was split open. She had evidently been murdered for her money.

AT the recent meeting of the University Regents Senator Christiancy resigned his position as counsel on account of his duties at Washington, and Hon. Don M. Dickinson's statement of the History of the University Lecture was read to the Board, and ordered printed.

MORTIMER BLANCHARD was killed on the 25th, at Colon, Saint Joe. Co., by falling on him at Tramp's Mill, where he was employed.

ON the 26th, Daniel McCarville was acquitted at Grand Rapids, of the charge of burglariously entering the residence of Joseph Lyon, and stealing therefrom a gold watch and chain, and other articles.

THE Grand Rapids doctors are pounded over the coals for a little malaria gil in that city, who has been suddenly smitten with diphtheria.

THE dwelling house of Mrs. Dudie Gregory, at Grand Rapids, was burned on the night of the 26th. Loss $1,500.

THE State bonded debt has decreased $237,-000 since Jan. 1. The interest-bearing debt is now $1,139,000.

THE reports of the State Banks to the Treasurer show total liabilities of $2,849,345.50.

THE Mackinaw Lumber Company's log drive on the Straits will be a load of horses, on the 28th. The snow was three inches deep in that region.

THERE is considerable snow in the vicinity of Cadillac, and lumbermen are working a full force.

IN the Saginaw Valley, on the 27th, there was considerable hot weather and temperature on the verge of drought. The logs are nearly all skidded, but the loss judges estimated that not 1,000,000 feet has been banked in the Saginaw district. Last year nearly two-thirds of the product was banked by this time.

MR. BEALS has announced that he will not stand for Canonicity Chancery suit to the Supreme Court under consideration. He means to appeal to the people thru nigh the next Legislature.

THE latest reports from Detroit give the following as the current prices for leading staples: Barley, State, per cental, $1.30@1 65; Butter, 22 lb. tubs, 18@20c.; Cheese, 12 lb. flat, 12@c; Corn, 40 lb. ear, 60@65c.; Flour, White Winter, $5.75@6.00; Amber, $5.50@6.00; Rye, $3.00@3.50; Cattle, 1st cental, $3.25@3.75; Hogs, $3.75@4.25; Sheep, $3.00@3.50; Oats, Mixed, 30 lb., 25@27c; White, 30@32c; Pork, Mess, $9 bbl, $17.50; Lard, 8½@9c; Rye, 56c; Straw, Wheat, White, $1.50@1.75; Barley, $1.17½@1.25.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—MRS. Bowler, a sister of George H Pendleton, was formally received into the Roman Catholic Church at London, on the 10th of December.

—It is reported that See'y Evarts, in recently criticising the course of Senator David Davis, spoke of him as "crazy politicel on the Bench and too judicial in the Senate."

—Oliver P. Dunn, ninety-four years of age, of New Brunswick, N. J., is seeking a person to unite him in marriage with a Mrs. Way, some twenty years his junior.

—So far as Cornelius Vanderbilt has got along with his testimony, it appears that he has borrowed more money and paid back less than any other man in America.—Hawk-Eye.

—Jinggo Jeremiah Black has a great dislike to ordering from a bill of fare when at dinner, and his usual direction to an attendant is, "Bring me anything that is proper for a civilized being to eat."

—The man who graduated first in Charles Sumner's class at Harvard is now a milliner in an obscure village in New Jersey. The next best scholar is a Section Superintendent on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

—Gov. E. Connor, of Me., is only thirty-three years of age, and yet has been elected three times to the Governorship of Maine. He started poor, but remained unspoiled by wealth by practicing E. Conner, Me., with a tig M.—Detroit Free Press.

—Mrs. Hicks behaved in a fondly insistent way at the funeral of her late husband. She sent $6001 to the clergyman, with directions to pay the sexton $50, each of the colored carriers $25, retain $100 for himself, and distribute the remainder among the poor.

—Kellogg, who stole the "Song of the Mikkmaid" from Sidney Duluth, and sold it to Scribner for five dollars, is not receiving very kind notices from the press, and is not likely to try his little game on any solider magazine.—Norristown Herald.

—Dr. Cowes, the naturalist of the Hayden Survey, does not seem to care for economy. In the door of his office at Washington is the inscription: "Notice to Visitors—Blessings brighten as they take their flight." And the wasis are hung with such mottoes as these: "Ecrasez Ommes," "He who rolls me at my time confers the charm of his presence upon me at the expense of science," "Freedom from interruption confers a peace of mind that religion cannot give," "The sincere was deep in wit in visiting," "The simple fact of a door has a certain suggestiveness."

—The Wilmington (N. C.) Star vouches for the following railroad transparency story: "Mr Norment, a well-known politician of Robeson County, was engaged in building a railroad in Lumber River, when a look and line, which by some means he lost overboard a valuable gold ring which he had worn upon one of his fingers. The owner was deep and the bottom of the river was soft and muddy, so of course no attempt was made to recover the lost trinket. Nine weeks afterward he was again fishing in the same locality, when he caught a large trout, which he took home with him, and upon opening the fish preparatory to cooking it, he was astonished to find in its stomach the identical ring he had lost overboard more than two months previously."

—A St. Louis girl shook out her stocking Christmas morning and was bitterly disappointed at finding no presents in it. Her mother, however, who had also hung up her stocking, found a splendid upright piano, which had secreted itself in the extreme end of the stocking. Both girls slander concerning the St. Louis ladies.

POETRY.

I CLASPED her tiny hand to mine I found it cold, for it was from the world's cold storms. She set its problem. The sediment is such that, in the event of their success, the Government, Parliament would be dissolved and an appeal taken to the country.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

We taught music trial for a new dress for his wife, and was surprised to see the dealer slip the cloth into a box and pack it himself, especially if it was near election?) Yes, she would like to look at it, if he will see to the bill.

"Certainly," with the slightest shade of injured innocence in his tone. "I haven't done so all the morning? Beside, the baby will take care of him self, he is big enough."

Mamma is wisely silent, and begins to look over the paper. The young woman, who never thought of bonding more, first to a husband and then to a baby, is now bestowing the tenderness of undiscriminate dashes on a friend whom he has just discovered, and who she is ribbons to murderee to his wife and baby.

Mamma instinctively feels, though she cannot see, that her bonnet is awry, her "crimps" all out, that the marks of baby's smutty fingers are on her ruffles and collar, necktie and bonnet-strings. As for the baby himself—hair all sticky and standing, milk around his mouth, dust on his sleeves, cracker-crumbs in his lap, raisins sticking all over his moist little hands and face, and on every spot on his white dress where he has spilled milk or blue-berries. The baby is a very different little fellow from the sweet-looking baby in his fresh, white dress and brown sack who came into the room in the morning. Mamma is so uncomfortably conscious of the baby's soiled dress and her own dilapidated appearance, and so vexed at John for dragging a stranger to see them, when they are in such a plight, that she is not very entertaining. John is dimly conscious that his family do not appear at their usual good advantage, and wonders where the baby got such a dirty face. The old army friend, being a bachelor, is a little surprised at his comrade's enthusiasm over either wife or baby, but praises the child, more or less, according to the elasticity of his conscience, and does not prolong the interview beyond the demands of politeness.

However, everything must have an end and this journey is no exception. Already passengers are beginning to gather up bags and parcels, and soon our travelers are seated in the coach, which is to carry them up the "big hill" to the pleasant farm-house.

"I am so tired!" gasps the poor mother, and her face confirms the truth of her words. The father feels displeased, but only says:

"I am very sorry; but never mind, we are almost there," while he thinks fiercely about, as if he had given up the chase, and so much as to say he did not care much for duck anyhow. Then suddenly from this listless mood he would bound with electric rapidity. Then he would make a concession of darks, one following the other with the greatest celerity, wheeling and bounding as if he would not allow this duck-ship a moment to recover breath, and so fire him out. After something over an hour of the manœuvring he seemed to tire of the contest, and, pointing himself upon a neighboring tree, sat perfectly motionless. Supposing he had given up in despair, we resumed our sport. But scarcely had we begun, when the same 'whir' filled our ears as at the first, and the duck, refreshed and renewed with ten-fold vigor. He used less strategy now, but more ball-dog tenacity. After about half an hour he determined to "light it out on that line if it took all summer."

The duck had grown bold by the success of his former strategy, and now became actually reckless, waiting until the eagle had his claws nearly upon it before rising to a safe distance. At last, it waited just one instant too long for the eagle struck his sharp talons into its back, and bore it off in triumph.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

—A girl tried to commit suicide in Augusta, Ga., by jumping from a bridge. She was grabbed and held by a man, who was compelled to use considerable violence to restrain her. Afterward she had him arrested on a charge of assault.

—At Toronto, recently, two strangers were looking into the house of Mr. Williams, an undertaker, on Czar street, sat down and ate up the dinner prepared for the persons, whom they overawed with revolvers, and quietly departed.

—As Mrs. C. C. Tracy, of Northampton, Mass., was ascending the stairs from her chamber to the dining-room, a ring on her right hand caught on the brass fixtures pendant in the hall by the side of the stairway, and she was thrown out in the hall, where she hung for seventy minutes by one finger.

—A Bridgeport child left its seat in the Baptist Church at Grand Rapids, Mich., walked up to the pulpit and up the steps, and stood beside Dr. Graves, the pastor, who turned around and, in lisping language, asked the child what it wanted. "What do you want, my little man?" The child innocently replied, "A glass of water." The pastor poured out a glass of water, the child drank it and left the platform. The incident created considerable merriment among the congregation, but entertainment to the pastor was still greater, and, when, after returning to his seat, he rose, and, thinking the people were amused at some mistake of his, he made a bow to the pastor and said, "Thank you, sir," and went to his seat, satisfied that he had not committed an improper act.

—A terrible affair recently occurred in the family of Mrs. Hepburn, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Her husband threw up, on the evening in question, Mrs. Hepburn and two children, a boy aged five, and a girl of three, in an upstairs room and while she went to the kitchen below. She had been gone but a few minutes when she heard the report of a pistol in the room occupied by the children. Hastening thither a terrible sight met her gaze. Her little girl was lying on the floor insensible, its face covered with blood from a pistol-ball wound in the head. The little boy, it appears, seeing a revolver lying on the table, took it up in sport, and in doing so it was discharged, the contents lodging in his sister's head. The child was fatally wounded.

Royal Entertainment in Bavaria.

King Louis, of Bavaria, who, no doubt, will be known in history as the name of the Solitary, has lately given on an original festival, in honor of the Crown Prince of Austria. It was, as usual, the night time that the royal lover of the moon chose to give, in his winter garden, an entertainment to his guest. A method of lighting of the most ingenious character produced all the appearance of a tropical sky. Luminous balloons of all colors gave a soft light to the entire garden, while an immense star shone in the midst of them like a sun. In a kiosk, richly decorated, a table was spread with exquisite viands around which were seated the King, the Crown Prince of Austria and the Princess Gisele and her husband. From this spot the outlook over a mass of lilies embraced the whole extent of the garden, at the extremity of which was a column surmounted by a laurel and standing in the midst of a fountain of sparkling water. Upon the slabs, at the right and left, were paths ornamented with statues, inviting the guests into groves filled with music. A feast given by Louis of Bavaria without music would have been absolutely impossible. There was, therefore, stationed among the trees the quartet of Walter, the double quartet and the chorus of the theater and the band of the Second Regiment of Infantry. All these musical parties performed vigorously, while now and then a flood of electric light added to the enchantments the fantastic character which comes from that kind of illumination.—Berlin Cor. Public Opinion.

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY FEBRUARY 12, - 1878.

OUR RADIX LETTER.

New York, Feb. 8, 1878.

The weather has been this winter even more than usually a favorable subject of conversation. A long succession of mild, bright days, varied occasionally by warm rains, have given the lie to the almanac, and seriously undermined public confidence in its correctness. The buds on bushes and trees—which never will learn wisdom by experience—have begun to swell and to show tinges of the color of spring, and everything has indicated that winter was so preoccupied watching the Eastern War and the progress of the Silver Bill that New York was going to slip through his fingers unobserved. But the present state of things goes to show that the old fellow was only waiting till we should begin to congratulate ourselves on our lucky escape, to give us a concentrated taste of his quality.

The snow fell amounts almost to a blockade, and was accompanied on Thursday by a gale and a high tide that will render the day memorable. The water rose so in the Hudson that some of the ferry houses on the Jersey side were submerged. At Hoboken, in the waiting-room of the ferry, the water rose to the depth of several feet, and a horse falling upon the planked driveway under the ferry shed, was actually drowned before he could be got upon his feet. The severity of the storm extended for an unusual distance along the coast, as is shown by the simultaneous wreck of the steamer Metropolis, off Kitty Hawk, near Cape Hatteras, and of a brig in Long Island Sound. The former disaster, in which a majority of a crew of 250 perished, fastens a terrible reputation upon the region where so lately the Huron went to pieces.

It is the fashion lately for every newspaper man who can get him to talk to interview George Francis Train, who is temporarily quite "numerous" just now, with his lectures, addresses, and various communications to the daily press. For my own part, should never take dreamed of hunting up this eccentric personage for the purpose, in reportorial phrase, of "eliciting his views," but chance having thrown me in his way in a down town office, the other morning, I was favored with a little of his edifying discourse. When I came in Mr Train was pacing up and down the room with a sort of imperial air, which was heightened by a huge fur-lined and fur-trimmed overcoat, upon the lappel of which was pinned a faded button-hole bouquet. Some ten years ago, when I was a boy at school, I took a three days' railroad journey in Mr. Train's company, and on my recalling this circumstance to his mind he became quite affable and communicative, but, as is his custom, did not offer to shake hands. Handshaking, in his opinion, is a pernicious custom, to be shunned and abhorred. He says that a large draft is made upon his "psychological force" every time any one touches his hand, and that he would soon be drained dry would he to conform to the ordinary custom in this respect. While I was there the proprietor of the office came in and insisted upon shaking hands with the "great reformer." Train finally submitted, but afterward said with the utmost seriousness that the operation had shortened his life thirty years. In spite of this terrible calamity, however, he evidently does not anticipate his early demise, for he informed me in the course of our conversation that he had discovered the secret of man's being, and should himself live 200 years. All the reasons for his being so favored he did not disclose, but had great stress on diet as a means to patriarchal longevity. "Never," said he, "did I smoke a cigar or drink a glass of liquor; and never for years have I tasted meat. One ten-cent bowl of oat meal and milk in the morning, and another at night, that's all—all but this," he continued, drawing forth a shelled peanut from his pocket and holding it up impressively before me.

"For the last few summers," said Mr. Train, "I have spent all my time in Madison square, with children for my only companions. In their society I have at last found my level. They, and they alone are my peers." Why," continued the psychologist, warming to his lofty theme, "if I so much as shelled a peanut the wrong way, a little girl would come and twist my nose thus—" suiting the action to the word. "Do you suppose," said he, giving me a threatening glance, "that any one but my peer would do that?" Of course I modestly agreed with him on every point, and he soon started off on finance and politics. "I am now engaged in delivering a series of thirty lectures," said he, "and by the time they are concluded the nation will have become psychologized (his favorite expression), and this whole country will be rocking to and fro like an earthquake." I ventured to inquire how these startling results were to be brought about. "My myself," he burst out, striking himself on the breast; "by George Francis Train, and by this," pointing to a copy of his little paper, the Dictator, which lay on the table, "in six months I shall be the Dictator of this country, with all the people at my feet." At this point I could not conceal a faint smile, which caught the quick eye of our future despot. "You don't believe it," he cried; "very well; just wait and see! Everything has happened as I have predicted thus far, and this is certain. I know it. "Here," he went on without pausing for comments, "I'll explain to you how it is. You go to the Centennial. You go into Machinery Hall and ask to see the steam engines. You are shown one 'How much is this?' 'Ten horse power.' Another 'Twenty horse power.' Another 'A hundred horse power.' Then you come to the great Corliss engine. 'How much is this?' 'Fourteen hundred horse power and drives ten miles of shafting.' There you have it! That's me! I am the Corliss engine in human form. I turn my hand, thus, and men are irresistibly moved, hundreds of miles away. Yes, sir," he concluded, extending and clenching his fat, brown hand, "I hold the power of life and death, and can impart it too, as I will."

It would be utterly impossible, and I have therefore not attempted to convey an idea of the manner in which all this and much more was delivered. There is unquestionably a great amount of magnetism about the man, which, with his natural quickness and keenness of his own unhinged intellect, compels attention to the utterances which, on paper, are seen to be so irremediably absurd, and the mobility of feature and never-ceasing gestures with which his speech is accompanied and the rapid, impressive vehemence of the utterance itself, give him a power over his audience, large or small, which many a surer orator might envy. I well remember on the occasion of the railroad journey to which I have already alluded, a performance of Mr. Train's which I presume no one who heard it has forgotten. We were tearing along over the Nebraskan prairies one evening when he jumped up on his chair in the parlor car which contained our excursion party, some twenty-five in number, and rushing to the end of the saloon turned about and began to recite. "The Charge of the Light Brigade." The effect was peculiar and intense. The strange circumstances, the growing darkness, the rushing train whose rumbling illustrated the "rollers" and "thunders" of the poem seemed to accord with and enhance the exaggerated force and dramatic action of the declaimer. Amid ordinary surroundings his performance would have been painfully overdone, but as it was, when he had shocked the last line, panting and frothing, with wild eye and dishevelled hair, the applause of his little audience drowned the foaming of the wheels.

The impressions of this episode were forcibly recalled during the interview which I have partially recorded, and I come to the decided conclusion that visionary and even ridiculous as is the man in his hallucinations, they who take George Francis Train for a nonentity make a grand mistake.

RADIX.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your house for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggists Geo. W. Crouter, will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sample bottles for trial, 10c.; regular size, 75c.

"German Syrup."

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German Syrup. In three years two million four hundred thousand small bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge by Druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs, giving the American people undeniable proof that German Syrup will cure them. The result has been that Druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your Druggist, and ask what they know about it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. For sale by Geo. W. Crouter.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Eighty acres of land three miles east of Charlevoix, on Silver road,

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property in or near Petoskey. Title perfect, and possession given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR, Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BY THE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple, elm and other woods, and are accessible to best markets.

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great Fruit-raising section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant.

The part of Michigan in which these lands are found is

Not a Wilderenss, by any Means

It contains a population of two millions, and every section and station is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to get a share of such wealth when it can be had cheap.

☞ Send for our Illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. BUCHART, Commissioner.

Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and an orders, either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine and as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies, misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market: Black Mohairs, Black Alpaca, Black Cashmere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all.

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Gray Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods.

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices. Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER & Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY, AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INVITE THE ATTENTION OF

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

TO OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing on watches clocks neatly done, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and ... Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine, and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. S. BURNHAM, Manager,

63 Madison St.

Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will let you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of Dry Goods, ClOthing, Hats, Caps And Cro kery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES,

Which we propopose to sell very low for CASH or its equivilent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY,

J.E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, stair railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,

J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region; and have for its object the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEAD

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A SMITH, Publisher

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Laet John Stephns & Co.'

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, CIGARS CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, FISH.

And all goods sold by grocers. 45, 47 & 46 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We carry the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for CASH, SYRUPS &c., filled Promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(97) (6.1.2.)

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manuel of Social and Business Forms—$7.50.

Gunn's New Family Physician—1230 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. B. BALCH, Benzonia, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD

and

SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix market with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. & J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and furnished with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tug plys from here to in which are mymiads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

ENGLISH INK for Printers.

New Book and Job Inks all warranted of superior quality. No cheap or inferior grades. Ink made by

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO., MANUFACTURERS,

(Formerly of London, England),

184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Barclay Street, New York.

A Curious Phenomenon.

A correspondent recently writing from Hanover, Ohio, to the Cincinnati Gazette says:

About three miles south of McConnelsville, county seat of Morgan County, Mr. T. W. Williamson, while boring for oil, tapped the most extensive reservoir of inflammable gas I have ever seen. Some things connected with it this are interesting.

Mr. Williamson, in the interest of himself and a partner living in Venango County, Pa., began boring this well in a spot quite distant from any territory that had been previously secured and bored for oil. About the middle of August last, at a depth of 500 feet, they struck the gas vein, and such was the upward pressure as to overturn some of the framework and apparatus at the top of the well, and effectually put an end to the proceedings of that week. Only traces of oil, mingled with salt water, have been developed.

"At this date the forces of the gas is quite as great as at first. Subsequent to the giving up of the work two other wells were begun and bored to the depth of 150 or 200 feet, when a weak vein of oil was struck in one of them. A stationary engine, driven by a portion of the gas from the well, now pumps the second and third wells. I visited the premises the other day. Mr. Williamson has fitted to the top of the tubing in the well three gas pipes—three smaller and one large pipe. The large pipe permits the escape of about four-fifths of the gas ascending the tube. For months past has been constantly burning in a broad column of flame, from twenty to thirty feet in height. One of the smaller pipes conveys the gas to the stationary engine, and the other, a three-quarter inch pipe, conveys gas to the dwelling of Mr. W. Within the house this pipe branches, one branch extending to a fireplace in the sitting room, the other to the cooking stove in the kitchen. The extremities of these branch pipes are bent and adjusted lengthwise across the entire front of the fireplace and the cooking stove. Seven or eight apertures in the side of the pipe next the flue complete the apparatus for burning the gas. The gas from these apertures are fired, and spreading, unite and produce a solid, brilliant sheet of flame almost as hot as that produced by the oxyhydrogen blowpipe.

"Mr. W. gave me the following items: A stratum of sandstone forty feet thick was bored through, and then a stratum of most excellent coal from eleven to twelve feet thick, at a depth of 300 feet, and the gas was struck at 500 feet.

"The gas is remarkably pure. The flame at the well is colorless and pure white, and in the house not a trace of the ordinary odor of gas is perceptible."

Bounty Laws.

One hundred dollars bounty is paid to all soldiers, honorably discharged, or their widows, heirs, or legal representatives, who enlisted before August 4, 1861, for three years, and who were mustered in before Aug. 6, 1861. No limited time long or too short within the period; they are entitled to the $100.

Two hundred dollars bounty will be paid to soldiers (or heirs) who enlisted for three years, and were discharged, or died, or were killed in battle before Sept. 1, 1863, for three years, or during the war, or who served the full time, or were mustered out or discharged by reason of wounds, rupture, or any kind of incidental injury (not disease).

One hundred dollars bounty is paid to the wife, children, father, or mother of a soldier who enlisted before September 1863, for three years, and contracted disease in line of duty, was discharged for disease, and died of the disease before July 28, 1866.

Five hundred dollars bounty is paid to all recruits (three years' men) in old regiments between Sept. 25, 1865, and April 1, 1864.

Four hundred dollars bounty is paid to all veterans (or their widows, heirs, or legal representatives) who were mustered out or discharged for wounds, rupture, or injury (not disease).

All men who enlisted under General Order No. 191, if recruits, were entitled to $402; such soldiers as had reenlisted nine months' previous service in the regular army, to $802.

Some men were entitled to $402 and received $302, for the want of being mustered as veterans, and such are now entitled to another $100.

All soldiers enlisting for the large bounty, who were discharged short of their full term of service, for any kind of wound or injury, even for hernia, rupture, or accidental injuries—or who were discharged on Telegraphic Order of May 1, 1865, from the Surgeon General's office, or circular from the War Department of May 4, 1865, and failed to get all the installments of bounty, or the entire balance of the $302, or the $402, can now recover the balance of the bounty; or, if the soldier has died since leaving the service, the heirs, in the order named, can now draw the arrears of the large bounty.

And all soldiers who served at any time in the early part of the war nine months or more, and were honorably discharged, and then reenlisted between Sept. 1862 and April, 1864, are entitled to the $402 bounty. If such soldier has never received it, he can leave his record so changed to show him a veteran, and yet receive the $402 bounty. No bounty is paid to soldiers, who served less than two years, and were discharged by reason of disability (sickness or disease), but if a soldier enlisted for three years, and was discharged before the expiration of term of service, for wounds, rupture, or accidental injuries, he is entitled to receive full bounty for which he enlisted, $200, $302 or $402, owing to the date of his enlistment.

The Bounty act of July 28, 1866, having been extended, there are many who are yet entitled to bounty.—Exchange.

A Story of Turner's Boyhood.

An anecdote has been preserved which gives the very startling point of the boy's artistic. One morning, when "little Billy" was about six years old, the barber of Maiden Lane went to a certain Mr. Tomkinson's, to dress that gentleman's hair. The boy was allowed to accompany his father on this occasion, and one can imagine him trotting along, grand with the responsibility of carrying the barber's scissors or curling-tongs. Mr. Tomkinson was a rich silver-smith, whose house was filled with many objects of beauty. While the father was at work frizzling the wig of his grand patron, the boy was placed on a stool, where he sat in silent awe, gazing, with his great blue eyes, at a huge silver salver on the table at his side, adorned with rampant lions. The barber's work finished, father and son again turn their face toward the dusky little shop in the lane. The boy was silent and thoughtful all that day; he sat upstairs, away from the confusion of the little shop below, brooding over a sheet of paper. At ten-time he appeared, triumphantly proclaiming his sheet of paper, upon which was drawn a lion, a very good imitation of the one mounted on the salver at Mr. Tomkinson's. The litt le barber, unlike ambitious parents whose children have given early indications of artistic talent, was beside himself with delight. His son's vocation was at once settled in his mind. Thenceforth, when old customers, looking from under the glittering razor, would mumble through obstructive lather, "Well, Turner, have you settled yet what William is to be?" the barber would smile proudly, rest the ready razor on a piece of thin brown paper, and reply, "It's all settled, sir; William is going to be a painter." Two or three years later the door of the little barber's shop was ornamented by small watercolor drawings hung around among the wigs and frizzes, framed in spaces varying from one shilling to three. Some were copies or imitations of Paul Sandby, a fashionable drawing-master; others, original sketches made by Boy Turner, as he was then called. His great delight was to get outside of London, into the fields, and, with pencil in hand, spend whole days trying to catch the exquisite effects of color and light and shade, which touched the young artist like a grand poem.—Helen Sumard, in Harper's Magazine for February.

An Indian Girl Seized and Killed by a Cattle-Fish.

Early last August a party of Cape Flattery or Makaw Indians, returning from a visit to their friends (the Songish, of Victoria), encamped the first afternoon out on the beautiful Bay of Neah Bay, in Makaw. The weather being very fine, most of the party went bathing, and among the number remained perhaps eighteen squaws, who had accompanied their husbands on the trip. Bearing seaboard, to the north point away from the other bathers, and, being known as a bold swimmer, is supposed to have taken a header into deep water. However taken, it proved to have been a plunge into the arms of death, for when the

(Concluded on Second Page.)

But the Patric points out that there are other and more solid improvements involved in the new system. The toughened glass, which is now to be made in quite the same way as that used for tumblers and wine glasses, and need not, of course, be so transparent, is naturally much harder than the old metal, and can hardly be relished out of shape by those little accidents which so shorten the life and spoil the beauty of the only type we now employ. It is also capable of being cast into more delicate shapes, so that the difference, for instance, between the thin and the thick strokes can be more clearly defined. Finally, it is now found that the new material can be cast in exactly the same moulds as the old, and that therefore there need be no expense incurred in altering the machines and implements used in the manufacture of type. If the Patric has been well informed, the experiments have been completely successful, and the adaptability of toughened glass to printing and to numerous other purposes is likely ere long to be fully established.—English Paper.

Weakness of Circumstantial Evidence.

Shortly after the Ashtabula accident a Mrs. Webber, of this town, who is a poor woman with two children, appeared in the office of a well-known lawyer, and, stating she had every reason to believe that her husband had been killed in that disaster, requested him to begin a suit against the railroad company on her behalf to recover five thousand dollars which the law allows in such cases. The evidence which she offered in proof of her husband's sad fate was only of a circumstantial nature, as nothing was ever found of the body which was supposed to have been burned. She had been to Ashtabula, and in the debris of the wrecked train she had found a bunch of keys which she positively recognized as having been in the possession of her husband. One of these keys, in further proof, she had ascertained, exactly fitted the clock in her house, and as Auburn man was ready to swear that she made the match with a key for Mr. Webber. Another key fitted exactly a chest which she had, while still mother of the few fitted exactly to the lock on the door. But the crowning proof of all which she had discovered was a piece of cloth which she had recognized as having been a part of her dead husband's coat. The proof by no means stopped here, however. A well-known physician of this city testified that he rode to Buffalo on the same train with the deceased on the fatal 24th of December, while another gentleman testified to seeing him take breakfast in Buffalo which went to ruin at Ashtabula.

With this all but positive proof that the husband was among the victims of the disaster, the suit was begun, the railroad company employing from being supplied by a well-known and much hearted gentleman of this city, she began her journey to Cleveland in search of the necessary evidence, while another gentleman, a resident of Auburn, went to Buffalo to confer with the railroad company's attorneys were confronted with the proofs of the plaintiff's case and offered to compromise by a settlement with her for $1,000 or $1,500 less than she claimed. But she wanted her husband or nothing, and then the railroad company's lawyers considered it for the matter go before the courts. As is well known, the suits of the families of the killed and injured

(Concluded on Second Page.)

Our Young Readers.

SITTING FOR HIS PICTURE.

"Mary's seraphine!
Well, what am I to do? Say for, and told to wait so quiet?
Why can't I move my hands? I want to, and I will!
There there just to see what the pictures again will say.
Ha! ha! ha! I'm not the time be good, this is my Mamma says. Laugh, my baby," but I don't want to laugh;
Don't think it's very funny here. What is a pleasure?
That mamma says. Baby must be good, and pretty soon he'll see
His cunning little photograph." But what is that to me?

I want to scramble up and down; I want to run and play
I'm tired of this old highchair; what was it
Oh, dear, he moves about so!" I don't care if I do.
I want to rub my eyes, and cry; I'm awful sleepy I am.
This thing behind me hurts my head; I don't like it
I mean to be as troublesome and fretful as I can.

There! don't it! good for them to shake that I will not be amused; for my babyrights I'll Because I'm only "Baby" my wishes are no
Well, then, resisting, squirming, crying, ought to Mamma comes and gives me kisses, and tries to
But why doesn't she lift me down, and let me
She doesn't seem to care if a little chap is tired
So I'll struggle, and I like, can't keep still if I am

There, now the picture's taken, and mamma
It isn't good at all!" Well, I don't think that's For I frowned with all my might, just to let those
That a baby has opinions, though a little one
I didn't want my picture; I didn't want to sit,
But I'm glad the picture's spoiled, and I hope they'll
That babies can't keep round until they older

M. D. Brine, in Nursery.

BESSIE'S THEFT.

My grandmother loved to work in the garden among the flowers, and me she wanted some practical result from her labors so she devoted herself to the lettuce, onion and radish beds, delighted in watching the strawberry plants, and was ever happy in watching the thrifty condition of the vegetables and fruits she specially tended.

After the death of my father my mother and I lived with my grandmother. At the time I got into the trouble I am going to relate I was about nine years old. In the spring it was my custom, after school hours, to watch grandmother at her garden work and when she broke me help her pull out the weeds, that would insist upon eating the roots as fast as I wanted, I was only too proud to render her this service.

One afternoon (I shall never forget it) I ran gayly out into the garden, and there found grandma busily gazing at a fresh-hilled bed, that Zack, the gardener, had just finished.

"Ah! Bessie, here you are," Grandma said. "I think I will plant onions in this bed; I have a nice piece for them, and I want you to go to Wilson's store and buy me twelve cents' worth of onion sets. I want the biggest you have, and I will give you a penny for your trouble." I took the money, and with innocent pleasure and two pennies, I hurried off to dummy errand.

On my way I had to pass a candy store, and it seemed to me the window never looked more inviting—ants to step and buy. Above all things, I was fond of peanut candy, and there it was in large sticks, fresh, and, to my mind, never so thick and white and nice. The more I looked the more I longed for some. I walked on a little way, and then turned back to gaze at the long sticks again. "If I only had a penny to get just one stick!" said then the two pennies in my hand seemed days previous to the Ashtabula disaster, and this fact soon brought to light the very important disclosure that a man of his name, answering to his description exactly, and who stated that he had a wife and two children in Rochester, was still alive and safe in that institution, and that he had not been near Ashtabula at the time of the disaster.

In course this kicked the suit against the railroad company in the head the poor woman was left in the lurch, and the kindhearted citizen who had vanced the funds to carry on the suit is out his disbursements, as the woman is too poor to repay him. The case is a most remarkable one, however, from the very fact that no person doubts the entire truthfulness of the witnesses whose evidence formed the basis on which the suit was commenced, but the guilty possessor of the coveted sweet. Never did candy taste so poor. It had a burnt flavor and the nuts were musty.

After eating one stick I gladly gave the other to a schoolmate I met, and went on to get the onion-bulbs. With the ten cents' worth in my basket I hastened on my way home, but when I came to the gate I stood still, strewing the onions all in different directions. Such a task as I had to find and get them in the basket; I was a very anxious, hurried, conscience-stricken little girl when I handed the basket to my grandmother. Beside the scolding for having been so long away, grandmother was dissatisfied with the onions. She "wanted" red ones, and I could just take the ones I had brought and get them exchanged or bring the money back."

Soon I was in Wilson's store again; he did not have red onions so gave me the ten cents. What should I do? How could I account for the missing two pennies? My heart was full of trouble and my feet were heavy as lead, as I slowly returned home. Once at I had not stopped to look at that horrid candy. If I had only shut my eyes and gone right on. If I could die, and become ever know how wicked I had been.

Everything was changed to me, the brightness of the sunshine was painful, the singing of the birds sounded like hateful mockery at my misery. When I reached grandma's gates I sat down and gave vent to my wretched feelings in tears. "What is the matter with my little Bessie?" said a calm, kind voice at my side; and there stood my mother. "Oh, mother! mother!" I cried, and with piteous sobs I told all my sin—all my dread. I could not go to grandma. What should I do? Very gravely, very gentle was the dear face gazing into mine. "You have done a great wrong, and it is impossible for me to shield you from the suffering wrongdoing ever occasions," my mother said. "But believing you are penitent, I will help you all I can. I should be very sorry to have my daughter lose the confidence her grandmother has in her, and trusting that you will ever remember that in doing right is the only way to retain self-respect and happiness, I will lend you two cents that you may restore the money your mother gave you; but, mind, it is only a loan. You must save rags until you have enough to sell to enable you to pay me."

How grand my mother appeared to me then. More painful than all punishments she could inflict was the grieved look she wore, and throughout my life will be treasured the tender resolutions I made then. Again my sin had fled around me. Quietly I gave the money to grandma, meekly listened to her chary reproof for my delay, and then went to my room to think over my wretchedness. "I was as bad as a thief," I had stolen from my grandmother, who was ever good to me; I had made my mother very, very sad, and how must God feel toward me." I did not dare look up to the sky, that night; all the stars appeared like fiery eyes glancing sagrily at me. I felt afraid to go to bed, the darkness seemed so full of reproaches, and my mother came to me and said "that in my need more than ever would God listen to my prayers for forgiveness," did I take comfort and fall asleep.

Then I did save rags for the next month, every bag I saw I gathered and put in a bag, and every penny I got I thought of my sin. If my mother had planned the could not more forcibly have impressed upon me the burning sense of my guilty act. The necessity of paying back the two cents kept ever before me, and when I had been tempted to do, and sorrowed as a child could. When the bag was full of rags I carried it myself to the store, and when it was weighed, and I got my money, I was more proud to render Her duty than I had ever been.

One afternoon (I shall never forget it) I ran gayly out into the garden, and there found grandma busily gazing at a fresh-hilled bed, that Zack, the gardener, had just finished.

"Ah! Bessie, here you are," Grandma said. "I think I will plant onions in this bed; I have a nice piece for them, and I want you to go to Wilson's store and buy me twelve cents' worth of onion sets. I want the biggest you have, and I will give you a penny for your trouble." I took the money, and with innocent pleasure and two pennies, I hurried off to dummy errand.

On my way I had to pass a candy store, and it seemed to me the window never looked more inviting—ants to step and buy. Above all things, I was fond of peanut candy, and there it was in large sticks, fresh, and, to my mind, never so thick and white and nice. The more I looked the more I longed for some. I walked on a little way, and then turned back to gaze at the long sticks again. "If I only had a penny to get just one stick!" said then the two pennies in my hand seemed days previous to the Ashtabula disaster, and this fact soon brought to light the very important disclosure that a man of his name, answering to his description exactly, and who stated that he had a wife and two children in Rochester, was still alive and safe in that institution, and that he had not been near Ashtabula at the time of the disaster.

Of course this kicked the suit against the railroad company in the head the poor woman was left in the lurch, and the kindhearted citizen who had adv

THE Greenback Club held another meeting at Town Hall two weeks from their last Saturday evening meeting, to collect and unite the broken forces. No use? Spaulding's glue won't mend it.

THE WEATHER—The past week has been a continuation of the snowless winter thus far. But as we go to press, a snow-fall seems quite imminent.

Business lively and goods cheap at C. & B's. Greenbacks, silver, gobi and other produce taken in exchange for goods.

Fresh eggs and butter at C. B's.

THE DEDICATION of the new M. E. Church edifice takes place next Sunday. The dedicatory season will be preached by Rev. W. I. Tilden at 10:30, after which the edifice will be formally dedicated by Presiding Elder Moore. Love-feast and Quarterly Meeting will be held in the evening. A very usual supplement to the formal dedication of a church edifice, is the begging of a sum of money to liquidate the church debt. Let it be well understood that no begging will be done at the dedication of our church for the purpose mentioned. The church is paid for, and the unprecedented spectacle of a church edifice formally presented by a Building Committee to the Church Society indebted of 1p one dollar of debt, will greet the eyes of the congregation at the M. E. Church next Sabbath.

Parties arriving in Cheboygan report that the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company is erecting shanties along the proposed line of its road, north of Gaylord, for the purpose of commencing work extending the road in the direction of the Straits.

It would make the world quake to have England, Austria, France and Italy, on one side, fighting Russia and Germany on the other.

THE belief of the leading papers throughout the country that have opposed the passage of the Silver bill, is that it will become a law even should a veto intespose. In accepting the situation, the majority are disposed to come down gracefully, and express the belief that the whole country will not go to everlasting smash, even if everybody should, through the operations of the law, manage to get a pocket full of the "trash."

SITTING BULL'S profession of eternal hatred toward the Americans, and a determination to visit vengeance upon them, was not empty bluster, it is back again to execute a purpose which has become the ruling one of his existence.

The President lately accorded to Senator Gordon, of Georg'a, the privilege of appointing a cadet at large to the West Point Academy. He has in more than fifty instances, refused to extend this favor to Republican Senators and Congressmen. Conciliation, you know.

The Finance Committee of the Senate, have agreed to report favorably a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue small bonds of the denomination of $10, $20, and $50, bearing interest at the rate of 3.65 per cent, per annum. The bill is very nearly the same as that suggested by Secretary Sherman in connection with the popular loan. These bonds are to be in lieu of the same amount of four per cents. bonds authorized by the act of July 14, 1870 and like them, are to be exempt from taxation. New bonds are to be offered for sale at the different sub-treasuries and United States depositories, at par and accrued interest, for coin or for United States legal tender notes at current market valuation, and the proceeds are to be applied to the redemption of any outstanding United States bonds bearing a higher rate of interest.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist Geo. W. Crouter, will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sample bottles for trial, 10cts; regular size, 75c.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Jan. 29, 1878.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Charles Smalley, against Jacob Schiller, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5,741, dated April 12, 1875, upon the nw¼ section 30, Township 30 North, Range 4 West in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of March, 1878, at one o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Feb. 4, 1878.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Martin Kipp, against Sylvester Taylor, for abandoning his homestead entry No. 5,681, dated April 12, 1875, upon the se¼ Section 25, Township 31 North, Range 5 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 1 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.
27.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Jan. 29, 1878.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Philip Fiegel, against William Jones, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5741, dated June 1, 1876, upon the ne¼ of section 2, Township 32, North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.
27.

PROBATE ORDER—State of Michigan
County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate Office, in the village of Charlevoix on the 9th day of February, in the year one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-eight. Present, J. Milo Eaton, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the Estate of James L. Wesel, deceased. On reading and filing the petition duly verified of James Bradley, praying for the appointment of an Administrator of said Estate. Thereupon it is ordered that Saturday, the 9th day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then and there to be holden at the Probate Office in the Village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix SENTINEL, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.
J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate.
(A true copy.)

To Whom It May Concern.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Corporators of Carp River Improvement Company, a corporation organized and existing by virtue of a law of the State of Michigan, entitled, "An Act to authorize the formation of corporations for the purpose of improving the run in certain rivers," approved April 5th, 1867, did, on the 26th day of Dec., 1877, meet at the hotel of Conrad of the St. Mary's Falls Ship Canal Company on the premises of Carp River, being in the county of Chippewa, in the State of Michigan, which the undersigned Corporators propose to improve, and a plan for the improvement of the same, showing the several points in the stream where the improvements are to be made, and the nature and character of such improvements; which map or plan is now on file with the Clerk of said Board, and made application to said Board for their approval thereof, and their consent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 27th day of February inst.—Wednesday—at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day,—being the time of a regular meeting of said Board—at which time said Board of Control will proceed to hear and determine the matter of said application, at which hearing all parties interested therein may appear and be heard.
CARP LAKE IMPROVEMENT CO.
E. B. WEGOT, Sec'y.

J. Milo Eaton,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

AND

Solicitor in Chancery.

NOTARY PUBLIC and

Real Estate Agent.

Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission.

Wildland and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.

Accident and Fire Insurance

Risks taken for the Companies of the lowest rates.

Abstracts of Title furnished.

Counsel facilities for Making Collections.

Office opposite Crouter's big Store, Charlevoix, Mich.

$777

per month easily earned in three months by any one of either sex in any part of the country who will work for us. Capital not required. We will prove it. We have workers now making over $50 per day and the employment will not interfere with other work. All who engage may depend upon making money rapidly and securing at once a permanent paying business. Address at once, H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.

Old Stage Line

Passes between Traverse City and Elk Rapids Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, between Elk Rapids and Charlevoix, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and through to Petoskey every Tuesday and Friday at very Low Rates.

C. POWERS.

Dec. 1, 1877.

W. C. SWETT. C. S. RASSER

SWETT & RASSER

Commission Merchants,

For the Sale of

Wood, Bark, Cedar Posts, Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.

BOARD NO. 18, MAIN DOCK, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.

THE

SentineL

JOB PRINTING

Office,

Is the place to get all kinds of neat

JOB WORK

EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.

Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

L A W

—AND—

Real Estate Office

—OF—

Edw. H. Green,

Charlevoix Mich

Improved Farm

AND

Wild Lands

Bought and sold on commission.

Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.

Collections a Speciality

Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

Four thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at VERY LOW PRICES. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm, Intermediate and Pine Lakes—and are included in school districts, and situated on good roads.

For terms and description apply to or address

E. H. GREEN,
Real Estate Agent,
Charlevoix Mich.

Lumber Yard

Those wishing to buy LUMBER, LATH and SHINGLES very cheap, will do well to call at our lumber yard on Round Lake. Building on short notice.

UPRIGHT & WAY,
Owners of Sch. W. A. Smith.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

FARM FOR SALE
In Eveline.

I offer my farm for sale of 80 acres on section 22 in Eveline, 35 acres improvement, good barn, and log house, good well, and one and 3-4 of a mile from Good Hearts Corners. Good Hearts Corners Church School house within 40 rods, gets mail two miles and a half.

Charles Heller,
3 Avenue Mich.

DR. A. TRASK'S

MAGNETIC OINTMENT

FOR THE CURE OF

INFLAMMATORY DISEASES.

Dr. Trask was engaged forty-seven years in a course of experiments upon the medical properties and power of vegetables, extracts and combinations. At the end of twenty years he succeeded in presenting to the world, as the result of his experiments, a combination of Vegetable extracts, the power of which in connection, disease, is astonished to the acumen of Medicine.

His discovery consists in a combination of these powerful Vegetable Extracts with Glycerine or Magnesium in the form of an Ointment.

Certain, it is, that the remarkable and unprecedented success Trask has attended its application in the cure of diseases, stamps it as one as the greatest discovery of the age, and calls for a trial and cures investigation of its merits.

It never fails, while there remains sufficient life to restore a natural and healthy action to the capillary vessels of the body, and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease, which cannot be obtained from any other remedy.

Such is the power of this combination, that it penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone and tendon, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible of its purifying and healing influence. Hence it cures as readily with internal as external disease.

Numerous instances are on record where this remedy has rescued breath to patients so near the grave that the most powerful internal remedies failed to produce any effect. Such has frequently been the case in Inflammation of the Bowels.

No patient ever need die with this disease where the Magnetic Ointment can be obtained.

For Inflammatory Rheumatism this Ointment is the most complete remedy ever prepared. For Dipthheria or Putrid Sore Throat it is unrivaled.

In thirty-nine cases out of a hundred, it will afford entire relief to the worst cases of Nervous Headache in forty minutes.

For Nervous Diseases this medicine is of immense value.

Affections of the Spine, Rheumatism, Lameness, Diseased Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Coughs, Colds, Cholera Morbus, Agues in the Face or Bones, Burns, Scald Head, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Inflamed Eyes, Fever Sores, Boils, &c., will be immediately relieved by the use of Dr. Trask's Magnetic Ointment.

Dr. Trask's Pain Extractor.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" One answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers health. They are the great blood purifier and a life giving principle a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world was a medicine compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick as every disease, each being free. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS A perfect Purgative, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

To the Ladies.

I beg leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of

Dress and Cloak Making

On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest rates.

Miss M. E. JOHNSON.

Charlevoix, June 12, 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.

Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description, and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Hermetically Sealed Goods,

68, Jefferson Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
(Astor.)

Order of Publication.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, In Chancery.

Ellen Tesch, Complainant,
vs.
Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison defendants.

Said pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, at the village of Charlevoix in said county, on the 31st day of March A. D. 1877. In this cause it appearing from an affidavit on file that the defendants are not residents of this state but are now residents of the State of Wisconsin to the town of J. Milo Eaton complainant's solicitor ordered that the appearance of the said non-residents, Robert Allison and Mary S. Allison be entered herein within three months from the date of this order, and in case of their appearance in this cause, they answer to the bill of complaint filed and serve a copy of said answer on the complainant's solicitor within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by said non-residents defendants. And it is further ordered that within twenty days after the entry of this order, cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed publishes and circulated in said county, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or, that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

E. HAVENER,
Circuit Judge.

J. MILO EATON, Solicitor for Complainant.
15-6m.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 27, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by I. Spencer Beckham against Eli Perry, for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7215, dated Oct. 15, 1875, upon the ne¼ of section 22, Township 34 North, Range 6 West, in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 7330, dated April 15, 1875, upon the sw¼ of section 26, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 28, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Horace Hastings, against Charles Smith for abandoning his homestead entry, No. 7330, dated April 15, 1875, upon the sw¼ of section 26, Township 34 North, Range 4 west in Charlevoix County, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

CHARLEVOIX

Harness Shop

All kinds of

Light and Heavy

Repairing

Done on short notice.

HARNESS,

Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.

REPAIRING

Of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable figures.

Upholstering a Specialty

Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Butters' store.

JAS. E. WOOD.

Charlevoix, June 6, 1878.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 43 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Feb. 19, 1878. Whole No., 458

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR—
OFFICE—Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street
Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
TO FOUR SIX MONTHS.

FOR PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable rates.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1w.	2w.	3w.	1m.	2m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One inch	$	$	$	$	$	$	$	$
2 inches
3 "
4 "
¼ column
½ "
1 "

Local Notices, 15 cts. per line for first insertion; 10 cts. per line for each subsequent insertion.

Yearly advertisements at Stated rates.

Business Directory.

W. [illegible] & Sail Maker, Traverse City, Mich.

A. J. MCLEOD, Clerk of Charlevoix Probate Court, Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON G. [illegible], County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. G. WOLCOTT, Register of Deeds, Charlevoix, Michigan.

L. C. HEALD, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Register of Deeds, Notary Public, Conveyancer, Fire Insurance Agent, Solicitor in Chancery, Real Estate Agent, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. [illegible], Attorney at Law, Notary Public, and Conveyancer, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD GREEN, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Notary Public, Conveyancer, Real Estate Agent, Charlevoix, Mich. Practices in all Courts of Record.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmith and Horse Shoer, Charlevoix, Mich. Repairing promptly attended to.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Elk Rapids, - Mich.

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT,
[illegible]
Charlevoix, Mich.

The Campbell House,
TRAVELLERS ARE
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PALETHORP,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
PETOSKEY

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.

[illegible]

Repairing done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making

I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do

DRESS-MAKING AND MAKING

in the most approved styles. Have also on hand

LADIES HATS

of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street.

LIBBY BAKER.

Wanted!

Produce in trade that the best [illegible] can afford.

Drugs and Medicines

DYE STUFFS,

Stationery & Confectionery

AT

CROUTER'S

Elm Store, sign of the Golden Mortar. Where he is selling at the lowest cash prices for the year and [illegible] and [illegible] the country will [illegible] Store. Don't forget the place.

Yours Enfeebled By Great Pain

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of

STOVES

Hardware & Tinware

[illegible] found anywhere in this region and be sure of

M. J. Stockman

Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.

TIME TABLE.

A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey and will run daily Sundays excepted, as follows:

Leave Petoskey—7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 1 p. m.

Leave Charlevoix—1:30 p. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 7 p. m.

Every necessary attention for the comfort of passengers will be given, and the line will be thoroughly equipped for the accommodation of the public.

H. G. MUIR, Prop'r.

J. A. BAIRTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER.
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
25] CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Great Bargains in Real Estate.

A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX. Also 18 acres of choice land lying on the north-east of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of

W. C. NEWMAN.

Charlevoix, Nov. 8, 1877.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Dec. 21, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. M. Hodgson, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6018, dated April 1, 1875, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony, concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 21, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. M. Hodgson, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6018, dated April 1, 1875, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony, concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City Mich., Dec. 21, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. M. Hodgson, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6018, dated April 1, 1875, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony, concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE U. S. Land Office,
Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 21, 1877.
Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. M. Hodgson, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 6018, dated April 1, 1875, upon the se¼ of section 36, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 25th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony, concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Round Lake Lodge No. 260 I. O. O. F. meets every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Hoosier Hall. A hearty welcome is extended to strangers.
JAMES S. KING, N. G.
J. MILTON, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 299 F. & A. M. Regular communications on Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon in each month.
W. A. SMITH, W. M.
C. PARMENTER, Sec'y.

I. O. I.
Purple Hill Lodge No. 111 I. O. I. meets [illegible] on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will be cordially welcomed.
EDWARD BURNS, W. M.
[illegible], Sec'y.

THE SENTINEL.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE SENTINEL.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Mails are made up at Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., as follows:

[illegible] A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.

Mails are opened on arrival as follows:

[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.

Mails are due as follows:

[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.

Mails are closed as follows:

[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.
[illegible] 10 A. M.

A. SMITH, P. M.

Local News.

Charlevoix Market Report.

[illegible] weekly.

[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]

THE SENTINEL.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Editor and Proprietor.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

General News Summary.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on the 29th, the House joint resolution accepting Garfield's painting of Lincoln and his cabinet, was agreed to 43 to 7. Mr. Jacks called up and advocated the passage of a resolution censuring Commissioner Hoar during a numerous and unexpected to assemble at 10 o'clock next day for the purpose of receiving for $25,000, asked for by the widow of the late Treasury for a suitable monument. House Silver bill was further debated by Mr. Wallace, speaking in favor of, and Messrs. Bayard, Dawes and White against the amendments. Amendments were rejected and ordered printed—providing that the dollar shall consist of 412½ grains of standard silver, providing that it shall be a legal tender for all debts, public and private, according to same except when otherwise provided by law or contract. In the House, a bill was introduced and referred providing any further destruction of legal-tender notes, and making such notes legal tender for customs dues. The bill extending the time for the withdrawal of circulating bond until July 1, was considered, debated, and a substitute was adopted—146 to 112—directing the issue of legal-tender notes.

SEVERAL petitions were presented in the Senate, on the 31st ult. Bills were passed—appropriating $20,000 for the erection of suitable tests for the analysis of the Rio Grande frontier, to define the rights of persons with respect to homestead entries on public domain. The House joint resolution extending the thanks of Congress to Henry M. Stanley, the explorer of Central Africa, was unanimously agreed to. The Silver bill was further considered, and Messrs. Morgan and Booth submitted amendments. After which further consideration of the bill was postponed until the 6th, to which date the Senate adjourned. In the House, a message relative to post was made from the Committee on Elections, in the California contested-election case, seated Mr. Caruero, the sitting member, and in favor of Congdon, the contestant, a minority report being also made, taking opposite grounds. The following additional appropriations to committees were announced by the Speaker: Expenditures in the State Department, Turner and Hamilton; in the Navy Department, Professor and Wilson; in the Department of Justice, Clark, Clark Williams and McMahon; in the War Department, Hemphill, Hall and Hooker; in the Interior Department, Patterson and Pound. The Military Academy Appropriation bill ($1,253,150) was considered in Committee of the Whole.

THE Senate was not in session on the 1st. A bill was introduced and referred in the House, to provide for funding the National debt in home bonds, convertible into currency. Mr. Barker, of Indiana, rising to a question of privilege, recited certain statements made in a letter writing, involving grave if not criminal conduct on the part of the Doorkeeper of the House, which statements had since been put into the shape of affidavits. Mr. Barker offered a resolution stating that John W. Polk, Doorkeeper, has been guilty of corruption and dishonesty in office; that he has required employes to pay to other employes a portion of their salaries, and that he is interested in claims and bills now pending before Congress, and calling on the committee on Rules to inquire into the truth or falsity of such allegations. After a lengthy and excited discussion, the previous question was seconded and the motion was passed. Pending being modified so as to direct the investigation to be made by the Committee on Returning Board and Service. Adjourned to the 6th.

SEVERAL petitions were presented and referred in the Senate, on the 4th, and a number of reports of committees were made on bills previously introduced. Bills were introduced to incorporate the National Pacific Railroad & Telegraph Company; supplementary to the joint resolution in relation to the Paris Exposition, authorizing the President to appoint eighteen additional commissioners. The Silver bill was taken up, and Mr. Beck submitted an amendment authorizing the purchase of silver bullion, after which Mr. Bayard spoke in opposition to the measure. In the House, bills were introduced—authorizing the payment of certain claims; to prevent the issuing of any more bonds hereafter issued by the Government shall be payable, principal and interest, in gold, silver, or legal-tender notes; for the appointment of a permanent commission by the President; for a direct vote of the people in making reserves of railroad corporations; relative to processes and judgments of Courts of the several States brought which said railroads are party; to reorganize the Judiciary. The Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was reported from committee. An affidavit was presented and referred from the House Committee, denying, as stated by Mr. Hiscock, the charges against his official integrity. Mr. Hiscock demanded an investigation on the part of the House.

DOMESTIC.

IT was stated, on the 30th ult., that arrangements had been made by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive, in payment for subscriptions to the 3 per-cent. loan, coin or currency checks drawn on banks or bankers in New York. The currency certificates will be converted into coin at current rates, without expense to the owner, and any excess over the amount due on the subscription will be returned to the subscriber. Similar arrangements would be made, if found necessary, in other cities having Sub-Treasuries.

THE steamship Metropolis, bound from Philadelphia to Brazil, having on board between 300 and 300 engineers and railroad laborers, went ashore, in a terrific storm, and was wrecked, on the North Carolina coast, three miles south of Currituck Light-House, on the evening of the 31st ult., and it was thought, on the morning of the 2d, that at least 200 persons had perished.

THE public-debt statement, as published on the 1st, indicates the following: Total debt (including interest of $22,437,836), $2,315,435,845; cash in Treasury, $171,165, 473; debt less cash in Treasury, $2,044,267, 366. Decrease during January, $1,668,076. Increase since June 30, 1877, $15,870,657.

A WASHINGTON telegram of the 1st states that the Secretary of the Treasury, James Thompson, Jr., and Robert Mitchell, Chief Clerk of the Navy Department, Professor and Wilson, Clerk of the Department of Justice, Clark Williams and McMahon in the War Department, Hemphill, Hall and Hooker in the Interior Department, Patterson and Pound, The Military Academy Appropriation bill ($1,253,150) was considered in Committee of the Whole.

THE Senate was not in session on the 1st. A bill was introduced and referred in the House, to provide for funding the National debt in home bonds, convertible into currency. Mr. Barker, of Indiana, rising to a question of privilege, recited certain statements made in a letter writing, involving grave if not criminal conduct on the part of the Doorkeeper of the House, which statements had since been put into the shape of affidavits. Mr. Barker offered a resolution stating that John W. Polk Doorkeeper, has been guilty of corruption and dishonesty in office; that he has required employes to pay to other employes a portion of their salaries, and that he is interested in claims and bills now pending before Congress, and calling on the committee on Rules to inquire into the truth or falsity of such allegations. After a lengthy and excited discussion, the previous question was seconded and the motion was passed. Pending being modified so as to direct the investigation to be made by the Committee on Returning Board and Service. Adjourned to the 6th.

SEVERAL petitions were presented and referred in the Senate, on the 4th, and a number of reports of committees were made on bills previously introduced. Bills were introduced to incorporate the National Pacific Railroad & Telegraph Company; supplementary to the joint resolution in relation to the Paris Exposition, authorizing the President to appoint eighteen additional commissioners. The Silver bill was taken up, and Mr. Beck submitted an amendment authorizing the purchase of silver bullion, after which Mr. Bayard spoke in opposition to the measure. In the House, bills were introduced—authorizing the payment of certain claims; to prevent the issuing of any more bonds hereafter issued by the Government shall be payable, principal and interest, in gold, silver, or legal-tender notes; for the appointment of a permanent commission by the President; for a direct vote of the people in making reserves of railroad corporations; relative to processes and judgments of Courts of the several States brought which said railroads are party; to reorganize the Judiciary. The Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was reported from committee. An affidavit was presented and referred from the House Committee, denying, as stated by Mr. Hiscock, the charges against his official integrity. Mr. Hiscock demanded an investigation on the part of the House.

DOMESTIC.

IT was stated, on the 30th ult., that arrangements had been made by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive, in payment for subscriptions to the 3 per-cent. loan, coin or currency checks drawn on banks or bankers in New York. The currency certificates will be converted into coin at current rates, without expense to the owner, and any excess over the amount due on the subscription will be returned to the subscriber. Similar arrangements would be made, if found necessary, in other cities having Sub-Treasuries.

THE steamship Metropolis, bound from Philadelphia to Brazil, having on board between 300 and 300 engineers and railroad laborers, went ashore, in a terrific storm, and was wrecked, on the North Carolina coast, three miles south of Currituck Light-House, on the evening of the 31st ult., and it was thought, on the morning of the 2d, that at least 200 persons had perished.

THE public-debt statement, as published on the 1st, indicates the following: Total debt (including interest of $22,437,836), $2,315,435,845; cash in Treasury, $171,165, 473; debt less cash in Treasury, $2,044,267, 366. Decrease during January, $1,668,076. Increase since June 30, 1877, $15,870,657.

A WASHINGTON telegram of the 1st states that the Secretary of the Treasury, James Thompson, Jr., and Robert Mitchell, Chief Clerk of the Navy Department, Professor and Wilson, Clerk of the Department of Justice, Clark Williams and McMahon in the War Department, Hemphill, Hall and Hooker in the Interior Department, Patterson and Pound. The Military Academy Appropriation bill ($1,253,150) was considered in Committee of the Whole.

THE Senate was not in session on the 1st. A bill was introduced and referred in the House, to provide for funding the National debt in home bonds, convertible into currency. Mr. Barker, of Indiana, rising to a question of privilege, recited certain statements made in a letter writing, involving grave if not criminal conduct on the part of the Doorkeeper of the House, which statements had since been put into the shape of affidavits. Mr. Barker offered a resolution stating that John W. Polk Doorkeeper, has been guilty of corruption and dishonesty in office; that he has required employes to pay to other employes a portion of their salaries, and that he is interested in claims and bills now pending before Congress, and calling on the committee on Rules to inquire into the truth or falsity of such allegations. After a lengthy and excited discussion, the previous question was seconded and the motion was passed. Pending being modified so as to direct the investigation to be made by the Committe

THE SENTINEL.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

WILLARD A. SMITH.
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, -- 1878

OUR RAILIX LETTER.

New York, Feb. 16, 1878.

A resolution has passed the Board of Education to cut down the salaries of the overworked and poorly paid teachers in the public schools ten per cent. This measure of zealous economy is particularly praiseworthy in view of the fact that there are now on the city's pay roll 474 officials drawing salaries of $2,000 or over, some as high as $15,000, for doing loafing more or less heavy according to circumstances. A large proportion of these self sacrificing statesmen wear a rich brogue, and know about as much about the duties of the positions whose salaries they draw as might be expected under the circumstances. Feeling the popular pressure for retrenchment, they have nobly determined among themselves that the public demand shall be satisfied even if it becomes necessary to cut down to nothing the pay of these blooted aristocrats—the school teachers—who now enjoy princely revenues of some five or six hundred dollars a year. Of course, it would do to interfere with the salary of Mike who having shown surprising talent as a voter of the "ultimate ticket" and a general election worker, now holds his position as a reward for his services, so they wreak their economy on a class who are of no value whatever at polls or primaries.

In connection with this act, which would be ridiculous if it were not too outrageous, the Evening Telegram has hit upon a neat way of showing up the city's scandalous extravagance in paying its barnacles. It publishes a list of the principle salaries paid by the U. S. Government at Washington, and compares each item with the pay of the nearest corresponding official in the City of New York. I have space for only a few samples. For instance, the President of the United States has $50,000 a year, and the Sheriff and Register of the county of New York each about $60,000. The Vice President gets $8,000, and our Mayor $12,000. The Secretary of the Treasury gets $8,000, and our Comptroller $12,000. The Secretary of War gets $8,000, and our four Police Commissioners get $20,000.

The Attorney General of the U. S and five assistants together get $20,000, and our Corporation Counsel and thirteen assistants together get $76,000. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the U. S gets $10,500, and the Commissioner of Jurors of the City of New York (whose most laborious duty is drawing his pay) gets $15,000. Each Circuit Judge of the U. S. gets $6,000, and the City Judge of this city, $15,000.

I might fill this letter with similar comparisons, all showing this enormous disproportion in favor of the Tammany officials. Comment, as the Telegram says, is entirely unnecessary.

The marriage and disappearance of the octogenerian millionaire, Thomas Lord, to which I referred two or three weeks ago, was a nine days' wonder, interest in which was kept up by the violent agitation of Mr. Lord's expectant heirs, who have been and still are working desperately to have him declared insane, that they may get hold of the property which they fear his young and pretty wife will otherwise possess. Mr. and Mrs. Lord have been supposed to be out of town since they vanished on their wedding day, and have been sought for, high and low, in all the neighboring cities. Now, however, they suddenly emerge from their retirement and it turns out that they have been quietly in their house all the time. Mr. Lord says they secluded themselves mainly on account of the threats of his sons, which extended even to taking the life of his new wife. The old gentleman has now concluded that forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, and has commenced a vigorous defence against the legal assaults of his unnatural offspring, whose meanness he is mercilessly exposing. He has had himself declared sane by two of the most eminent physicians in the city, and proposes to show "cause" that they are not quite equal to the old man yet.

Mr. John Morrissey is still in Florida, his condition being still so uncertain as to permit of his removal north. His disorder is the terrible Bright's disease of the kidneys, which of late years is becoming a scourge in this country, and therefore his recent improvement is likely to be only temporary. Failing in every other mode of treatment, it is intended to send down a physician from here to administer a new item fly called Craig's Kidney Cure, which is very reasonably asserted to be the first and only absolute cure for this and other kindred troubles, for it has certainly saved the lives of many prominent men in New York during the few months that it has been in use. If it proves to be the long sought check upon a class of hitherto incurable diseases of which thousands of Americans live in constant dread, it is the greatest achievement of medical science since the discovery of anesthesia.

On Sunday last Chickering Hall was filled to overflowing, the attraction being a discourse on the much discussed subject of "Hell" by the "Rev." Rob Ingersoll as the illustrious infidel from Illinois has come to be called. This performance, as reported in the papers, was blasphemous, eloquent, shocking and humorous, and in the police governed countries of Europe would have been likely to have insured the reckless speaker a birth in the station house or at least a polite invitation from head quarters to make himself scarce. But free American not only lets him talk, but on this occasion applauded him vociferously. After a long tirade, rubbishing idea of there being a hell, the orator concluded by vowing that he would rather reason himself into the perdition against whose existence he had been arguing than, giving up his reason, to get into Paradise by blind faith.

Two arrests in high life within the past week were not very serious matters but they were enough to make very much men out of Frank Leslie and Mr. Hugh J. Jewett, receiver of the Erie Railroad. Mr. Leslie was passing through Philadelphia on his way from Washington, where he had been the guest of the President, when some one with an old spite to gratify got a warrant against him, and pouncing upon the veteran publisher in the parlor car in which he was traveling, dragged him off to the station house where he had to remain till he could procure a heavy bail bond.

Mr. Jewett was arrested at the instigation of an English bondholder of the road who charges him with perjury. He at once procured $10,000 bail however, and is at liberty again.

The grand Chorley Ball is a matter of annual occurrence at this time of the year, much anticipated by our Flora McFlimsey and their gallant admirers, not to mention a hundred or so of our solid men and their portly dames who regularly indulge in this stately dissipation. This year it chanced to fall upon that terrible Thursday night, when going out of doors was next to martyrdom, and so the attendance was greatly diminished. The company was, however, intensely select, including the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Dufferin, and some thousands of dollars were made for the poor.

During January, 129 failures were reported in this city, being the largest number in any one month since the panic of 1873. The liabilities amount to over $7,000,000 which is really larger than for December, the amount of $3,000,000 for that month, being swelled by the failure of banks and trust companies to the extent of over $4,250,000. There were numerous failures in the drug, grocery, hats, dress goods, boot and shoe, and produce trades. The wonderful process, of which these failures are a result, is a long one, and brings a terrible strain to bear on commercial interests generally. Every little while somebody comes out with the opinion that the bottom has been reached, but the woods are hardly out of his mouth before down comes some old and respected house with a crash that drowns his hopeful utterance.

RADIX.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your house for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist Geo. W. Cronter, will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sample bottles for trial, 10c; regular size, 75c.

"German Syrup."

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German Syrup. In three years two million four hundred thousand small bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge by druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs, giving the American people unlimited proof that German Syrup will cure them. The result has been that Druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your Druggist, and ask what they know about it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. For sale by Geo. W Cronter.

Miscellaneous.

Farm for Sale or Trade.

Forty acres of and three miles east of Charlevoix, on Six-b road.

Known as the Cooper Farm,

20 acres improved, good log house and frame barn, and young orchard. Will trade for property near Petoskey. Title perfect, [illegible] given immediately if required.

Address, ROBERT TAYLOR,
Petoskey, Mich.

FARMING LANDS.

700000 ACRES

—OF—

Splendid Michigan Lands

FOR SALE

—BYTHE—

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. Co.

50,000 Acres In Charlevoix County

These lands are timbered with beech and maple—ash and other wood, and are accessible to best market

WATER AND RAIL.

And are in a part of the State unequaled for health, well watered, and contiguous to the great Fruit raising section of the East shore of Lake Michigan.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad runs through the center of the grant

The soil of Michigan in which these lands are found is

Not a Wilderness, by any Means

It contains a population of TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND souls and is rapidly filling up with settlers from almost every State in the Union.

Over 140,000 acres of the lands of this grant have already been sold.

The wealth of the country is in the soil and now is the time to own a share of such wealth while it can be had cheap.

☞ Send for our illustrated pamphlet.

Address W. O. HUGHART,
Commissioner.
Grand Rapids Mich.

Spring & Co.,

Grand Rapids.

DEALERS IN

Dry Goods, Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Matting, &c.

People who reside in Charlevoix and vicinity can avail themselves of one of the large stocks of Dry Goods and Carpets in the State by writing to us.

SAMPLES

OF

DRESS GOODS, SILKS, CLOTHS, CLOAKINGS, EMBROIDERIES, etc.

Will be forwarded for approval, and as orders either by mail or telegraph, will be promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed

SPRING & CO.

Fox, Rose & Buttars's Columns.

1877. F.R.&B. 1878.

Fall and Winter

GOODS!

Special Announcement

OF

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS

TO

The People of Charlevoix County and Vicinity.

We desire to call your attention to an unquestioned fact: That we offer this year as fine a stock as varied an assortment of goods as has ever been offered in Charlevoix. We intend that our customers shall find in our store every article legitimately pertaining to our trade. SPECIAL BARGAINS may be always found at the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS, in their large stock of Dress Goods for ladies' misses and children's wear, in all the latest and most desirable styles and colors to be found in the market, Black Mohairs, Black Alpacas, Black Cashimere, Black and Colored Trimming Silks, and hundreds of other articles too numerous to mention.

WHAT YOUR EYES SEE

Let Your Minds be Convinced of,

In times like these, when everybody is advertising goods very cheap, we would say, go to the extensive store of FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS. Look through their extensive stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and then judge for yourselves if they have not the

LARGEST

and most desirable stock of goods ever brought to Charlevoix, and where prices suit all, and satisfaction is guaranteed to all

Woolen Blankets, White and Scarlet Flannels, Canton Flannels, Navy Blue and Grey Shirting Flannels, Black Beaver for ladies and children's Cloaks and Sacks, Cloths for misses' and boys' wear, Shawls in great variety, both for ladies and misses' wear. Hosiery and Underwear for gents, ladies and misses.

White Goods,

Toweling and Linen in great variety, all kinds of Domestic Goods in great variety at extremely low prices Laces, Ruches, Ties and Bows; also an extensive assortment of Notions and Fancy Goods, all of which are offered low.

AS IN YEARS PAST, our store will be headquarters for a complete assortment of Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Furniture, and everything pertaining to a General Store. Goods always shown with the greatest of pleasure.

FOX, ROSE & BUTTARS.

Carpenter & Bartholomew's Ad.

CARPENTER & Bartholomew.

1878.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS AT

BOTTOM PRICES

FOR READY PAY, AND READY PAY ONLY. WE INVITE THE ATTENTION OF

ALL CLOSE BUYERS

TO OUR LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, WHICH WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

FARM PRODUCE.

SOUTH END OF BRIDGE STREET.

Miscellaneous.

S. S. LISCOMB,

JEWELER

Charlevoix, Mich

All kinds of repairing of watches, clocks and jewelry, promptly attended to at reasonable rates. (8)

She Stands at The Head!

Has easiest adjusted tensions.

It is beautiful in style and ... Awarded two

GOLD MEDAL

at the Centennial Exhibition. One for best machine and one for best samples of work. Purchase a "NEW AMERICAN" and get the latest improvements in Sewing Machine mechanism. Every machine warranted for

FIVE YEARS.

Agents Wanted.

E. S. FURNHAM,
Manager,
63 Madison St.
Toledo O

Miscellaneous.

Stop and Consider!

Did you ever know that we sell Goods

Very Cheap,

If not we will tell you that we do. We have on hand a fine assortment of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Caps And Crockery,

Also a fine assortment of

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Bought for Cash at

BOTTOM PRICES.

Which we propose to sell very low for CASH or its equivalent.

Remember the Place,

The store with the BROWN FRONT, on the east side of Bridge street.

See & Washburn,

Charlevoix, June 12th, 1877.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY,

J. E. Grielick & Co.,

Traverse City, - Mich.

Manufacturers of, and dealers in Sash Doors, Blinds, Mouldings and Frames of all descriptions, Brackets, stair-railing, etc.

Our stock in hand is at all times large, and selected to meet the wants of the building public in regular sizes AT ONCE, while orders for odd sizes will be filled with dispatch.

Our new price-list sent on application. Orders by mail or boat will receive prompt attention.

Yours truly,
J. E. GRIELICK & CO.

PROSPECTUS.

THIS PAPER now claims to be the largest and most readable paper in the Grand Traverse Region, and bases for its support the development of THE PINE LAKE REGION, the

SENTINEL.

asks the earnest hearty support of every citizen in the County who recognizes value of its services.

Its Labors in the past are on record, and demand a just recognition from the people.

THE "SENTINEL" IS A

County Paper

the fullest sense of the term, and proposes to labor for every section wholly disregarding personal or sectional interests, cliques, rings or monopole

THE LOCAL DEP'T

Is the crowning feature of its attractions, and earnest endeavor is made to render this department of absorbing interest to all.

Job Printing

SUCH AS

BILL HEADS

NOTE HEADS

LETTER HEADS

ETC. ETC.

ADDRESS

WILLARD A. SMITH, Publisher

Miscellaneous.

Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co.,

Late John Stephens & Co.

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in TEAS, SYRUPS, CURED & CANNED GOODS, FRUIT, ETC.

And all goods sold by grocers. 45, 47 & 49 Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

☞ We are the largest stock of Groceries in the State. Orders for TEAS A SPECIALTY filled promptly at lowest prices.

J. BEATTY, P. FITZSIMONS, J. V. MORAN, J. E. STEPHENS.

(923) 46,1-2,1

BOOKS. BOOKS.

Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms—$5.00

Gunn's New Family Physician—1200 pages—$8.

Family Bibles, $5 to $15.

Libraries—Public or Private at lowest rates.

Address, H. R. BALCH,
Bozonda, Mich

JNO. NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX MICH

MANUFACTURER OF

HARD and SOFT

LUMBER

ALSO

Shingles

Lath

Cheese Box Stuff

Broom Handles

Etc.

LUMBER SAWED

BILLS FILLED

TO ORDER

MEAT MARKET.

The undersigned has opened a meat market adjoining Fox, Rose & Buttars' store, and will hereafter supply the Charlevoix people with fresh meats. Cash paid for fat cattle hogs sheep and poultry.

A. J. McLEOD.

Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

RICHARD COOPER, Prop,

Has been re-built, enlarged, and arranged with a view to the comfort of the travelling public. Tagged from here to

Jordan and Boyne Rivers,

In which many myriads of Speckled Trouts. Baggage moved free of charge.

for Printers!

Book, Book and Job Ink, all warranted of superior quality. No chemicals or other poisons of ink under use of us.

EXCELSIOR PRINTING INK CO.'S MANUFACTURERS.

Branches of London, England, 184 & 186 MONROE ST., CHICAGO, And 13 Gardiner Street, New York.

Black Woolen Dresses—Hints on Spring Styles.

The black cashmere or camel's-hair dresses worn in the day-time by young ladies are brightened by vests of cardinal red silk. The coat is a habit basque, with square plaited postilion behind, while the black fronts are sloped away gradually from the throat to the sides, disclosing the red silk vest below. This vest may be sewed in with the basque, or it may be a separate waist-coat with a cambric back and armholes, or else it is shaped like a chevalier-tie, covering the shoulders and extending in a point behind to the belt. The neck is finished with a very high collar of the cashmeres lined with red silk, and it may be there are one or two knife-plaited frills of red silk doubled and placed erect inside the collar. A soldier knot of the cashmere faced with silk is at the throat. The skirt has lengthwise plaitings covering the front gore; these are made on cashmere, but the inside of each plait is also silk. On the side gores are scarf draperies, which have the effect of an over-skirt in the back. Black camel's-hair polonaises are made with velvet sleeves, velvet belt and plastron, and are worn over a silk skirt that has a velvet flounce covering all that part which is visible. Other indoor dresses of cashmere that mean homely and decent of the cannon would probably carry it half a dozen miles away from the firing point. Much sewing and bonnet trimming will be done at home, and also because so many ladies are to be busy-handed, and also because so many ladies are to be busy-handed, and also because so many ladies are to be busy-handed Bill your school board and treasury with $.& $.s.

NEWCOMB ITEMS.—Dutton Cases held a ring-tail social at the east room of Mr Stephens last Wednesday evening and made their pastor Rev H H Hoke the richest by $48.50. Pretty well done for a country school house appointment in these hard times.

The Teacher's meeting will continue with increasing interest and interest. The last held at the residence of E. J. Moore's Esq., our popular Superintendent was taken ill all to all the most successful of the series.

X

Choice butter and fresh eggs in great abundance at our store.

FOX, ROSE BUTTARS.

Every one of Colonel has granted 18 pardons during his first year. Gov Tilden granted 49 during the first two years of his administration.

Rev every thing at the cheap rough prices of Cripe & Fortie's store. pay money, live happy and the respect of.

The Republican State Central Committee met at Lansing and elected George H Hopkins Chairman and George W Hugh, Secretary, both of Detroit.

It is exceedingly whimsical that Pinkney and the republican papers of that city and with which as an inheritance to the church, the force of which will forever, from the influence of same on the preferences.

A Georgia paper recently said: "The South is full of just such trainers as Jeff Davis. Treasure such as the gophers every bush, and they, and the little children are taught to call it patriotism." That's correct upon a different disguise.

A great suggestion: If the Methodist world will take part in New York next month, with a view to reinvigorate the church to its primitive simplicity and consecration. The subjects of fashionable dressing, costly church building, street preaching during will be fully discussed and acted upon. Bishop Simpson is arranging the affirmatives.

Hopeful sons 7 years old, who is really big grammar):—Father, which would you say—nine and seven is fifteen, or nine and seven are fifteen?

Father—I would say nine and seven is fifteen.

Hopeful son—I would too."

Father—"Well, what would you say?"

Hopeful son—"I would say nine and seven is fifteen."

[Father—sent disappears in haste.]

The Democrats of the House have proved their capacity for pig-headed partisanship a second time by giving the unfinished Conference seat to Wigginton, who was not elected. The result of this and the Colorado contest shows what the House can do when the interests of the party are involved. It will not be forgotten, though, that Pacheco, the Republican candidate, was fairly elected, received the Governor's certificate, and had his title to the seat settled in the courts of California before going to Washington

The President is credited with saying that if the Administration does the best it can the people will, at least, give it credit for good intentions. What the people want from the Administration at present is not a supply of paraffement for the infernal regions, but an adequate effort to save the country from disaster and with good government under sound principles. That can not be done by leaving into the hands of the party whose chief distinction is its attempts to destroy the Union.

The jury at New Orleans have rendered a verdict of guilty, according to the cut and dried programme, against Anderson of the Returning Board, charged with altering or having guilty knowledge of altering the returns of Vernon Parish, in canvassing the returns of the election in 1876. It is safe to say that no such conviction upon the testimony there produced could have been procured in any southern court. The jury recommend Anderson to the clemency of the court. He may get it and he may not. The prosecution was instituted for the sole purpose of blackening republicans, and it is barely possible that the presiding Judge and Governor Nicholls may deem the record of the conviction sufficient without inflicting further severe punishment.

ELECTION NOTICE.—
Secretary's Office,
Charlevoix Mich. Feb. 19, 1878.

Notice is hereby given that at the election to be held on the first Monday of April next, the following Amendments to the Constitution of this State, for their adoption or rejection, viz: AN AMENDMENT to Section 12 of Article 6, relative to the appointment or election of the Supreme Court, as provided by Joint Resolution No. 30, Laws of 1877. Section two reads as follows:

"Section 12. The Clerk of each County organized for judicial purposes, shall be the Clerk of the Circuit Court of such county. Until the Supreme Court shall so direct, unless otherwise provided by law.

If the proposed amendment be adopted, the section will read as follows:

Section 12. The Clerk of each County organized for judicial purposes, shall be the Clerk of the Circuit Court of such county, unless otherwise provided by law.

A true transcript of Sec. 7 of Article 6, relative to compilations, as proposed by Joint Resolution No. 30, Laws of 1877. Said section now reads as follows:

Section 7. The members of all corporations and joint stock associations, now existing under laws not conferring powers, may within six months after the adoption of this constitution, by complying with the provisions of its provisions, become severally subject to all the liabilities herein imposed upon like corporations hereafter created, except as to existing liabilities.

If the proposed Amendment be adopted, the section will read as follows:

Section 7. The members of all corporations and joint stock associations shall be severally liable to an amount equal to the par value of their respective shares or stock for all debts or liabilities of the corporation or joint stock association, but shall be exempt from any further personal liability or assessment, except as otherwise provided by law.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of State, at Lansing, this 19th day of February, A. D. 1878.

A. J. ROLLIN,
Secretary of State.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, dated the 4th day of January, A. D. 1876, and executed by Mary Ann Cowan, of Newton, N. Hyde, to Orrin Cook, of Charlevoix County, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the 4th day of January, A. D. 1876, in Liber of Mortgages, on page 65, on which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Two Hundred and Sixteen Dollars and Forty-four cents, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the amount secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage having become operative by reason of such default, and the statute in such case made and provided, Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 18th day of May, A. D. 1878, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with seven per cent interest, and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of thirty dollars provided for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as the south half of the south west quarter of section twenty-five (25), township thirty-three (33) North, of Range Eight (8) West, containing eighty acres, according to the United States survey.

Dated this 19th day of Feb. A. D. 1878.

LYDIA SMITH,
RAMON S. SMITH,
Assignees of Mortgage.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney for Assignees.
[4-13]

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City, Mich. Feb. 6, 1878.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Hiram A. Kipp against Sylvester Taylor for abandoning the homestead entry No 5674, dated April 17, 1875 upon the SE quarter section 25, township 31 North, Range 8 West in Charlevoix County, Michigan, within view to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City, Mich. June 20, 1878.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Charles Bellar against James Williams for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5675, dated June 4, 1875, upon the south west quarter of section 8, Township 35 North, Range 5 West, in Charlevoix county Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the 8th day of February, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight. Present, Miles Estes, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the Estate of Joel L. Wood, deceased: On reading and filing the petition duly verified of James Wood, praying for the appointment of an Administrator of said Estate. Thereupon it is ordered that Saturday, the 9th day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office in the Village of Charlevoix and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. MILO EATON,
Judge of Probate.
A true copy.

J. Milo Eaton,
Attorney and
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Solicitor in Chancery.
NOTARY PUBLIC and
Real Estate Agent.
Real Estate Bought and Sold on Commission
Will land and improved farms for sale on reasonable terms.
Accident and Fire Insurance
Risks taken for good Companies at the lowest rates.
Abstracts of Titles furnished.
Unusual facilities for Making Collections.
Office—Kennedy Crandall's Drug Store, Charlevoix, Mich.
16-1yr.

$777 12 per week guaranteed to those who desire to make money during their spare moments or all the time. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes at the business. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay. Reader, if you want business at which you can make yourself much money, call on us and see for yourself. Address H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Old Stage Line
Runs between Traverse City and Elk Rapids, leaving the latter place every Monday and Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, and arriving at Traverse City the same days.
Fare, $2.00.
C. POWERS.
Dec. 12 1877.

W. V. COWELL. U. S. HASSER.
COWELL & HASSER,
Commission Merchants,
For the sale of
Wood Bark Cedar Posts. Telegraph Poles, R. R. Ties, Hardwood Lumber, &c.
REFER TO MILWAUKEE, WIS.

REMEMBER.
THE Sentinel

JOB PRINTING
Office,
Is the place to get all kinds of neat
JOB WORK
EXECUTED IN STYLE TO SUIT.
Address all orders to W. A. SMITH

L A W
—AND—
Real Estate Office
—OF—
Edw. H. Green,
Charlevoix Mich
Improved Farm
AND
Wild Lands
Bought and sold on commission.
Taxes Paid and Non-Resident Lands Cared For.
Collections a Speciality
Titles Investigated, & Abstracts of Titles Furnished.

For a thousand acres of the choicest Farming Lands in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties for sale at $3.50 to $10.00 per acre. Most of these lands are situated near the South Arm Interlochen and Pine Lake country, and included in School Districts and Roads in good repair.
For terms and description apply to or address
E. H. GREEN
Real Estate Agent.
Charlevoix, Mich.
1769

To Whom It May Concern.
Notice is hereby given that the several Corporations, Tax Corp. Receivers, and Individuals of Antrim County, Michigan, owning lots by virtue of a law of the State of Michigan, entitled, "An Act to authorize the Common and Supervisors on the purpose of improving the bay portion of Traverse," approved April 5th, 1865, did, on the 30th day of May, 1871, submit to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Antrim, a petition praying that the sections of Turtle River lying in the town of Mackinaw, in the State of Michigan, which the undersigned Corporation proposed to improve, and a plan for the improvement of the same, showing the several points to be done in where the improvements are to be made, and the nature and character of said improvements; which map or plan is now on file with the Clerk of said Board, and made application to said Board for their approval thereof, and their assent to said proposed improvements.

That the said Board did designate the 27th day of February next as the time and place at which the foregoing petition should be heard, at which time said Board of Canvassers, or a majority of them, would hear the petition, and hear the objections, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. MILO EATON,
Judge of Probate.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City, Mich. Jan. 30, 1878.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Philip Bonnie against William James, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5675, dated June 4, 1875, upon the south west quarter of section 8, Township 35 North, Range 5 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City, Mich. Jan. 28, 1878.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Elisha Bonnie against William James, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5675, dated June 4, 1875, upon the south west quarter of section 8, Township 35 North, Range 5 West, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 2d day of April, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m. to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

To the Ladies.
The Leave to inform the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do all kinds of
Dress and Cloak Making
On short notice. All kinds of patterns furnished at lowest prices.
MRS. M. E. JOHNSON.
Charlevoix, June 12 1877.

D. D. Mallory & Co.
Packers of Oysters and Canned Goods of every description and Wholesale Dealers in Foreign Fruits, and Domestically Sealed Goods.
68 Jefferson Avenue,
Detroit, Mich.
(6m1s.)

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said County, held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the 8th day of February, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight. Present, Miles Estes, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the Estate of Joel L. Wood, deceased: On reading and filing the petition duly verified of James Wood, praying for the appointment of an Administrator of said Estate. Thereupon it is ordered that Saturday, the 9th day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office in the Village of Charlevoix and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. MILO EATON,
Judge of Probate.

DR. A. THASK'S
MAGNETIC OINTMENT
FOR THE CURE OF
INFLAMMATORY DISEASES.
Dr. Trask was engaged for twenty years in a course of experiments upon the medical properties and power of vegetables, previously combined. At the end of twenty years he succeeded in presenting to the world a remedy of no superior as a curative agent. The diseases the power of which is removing by means is organized in the mouse of Medicine.
His discovery consists in a combination of three powerful Vegetable Extracts with Electricity or Magnetism in the form of an Ointment.
Certain, it is, that the remarkable and unprecedented success when attending the application in the cure of diseases, stamps it as the greatest discovery of the age, and calls for a trial and close investigation of its properties.
It never fails, while there remains sufficient life to receive it, when used healthy action to the capillary vessels of the body, and equalizes the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease, which cannot be obtained from any other remedy.
Such is the power of this combination, that it penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone and muscle, nerve and ligament is searched out and made healthful in its purifying and vitalizing influence it opens as readily with internal as external dosage.
Numerous instances are on record where this remedy has restored health to patients so near the grave that the most powerful internal remedies failed to produce any effect. Such has frequently been the case in hundreds of the Dewess.
No patient ever used Dr. with the disease where the directions were followed, but was benefited.
For Inflammatory Rheumatism this Ointment is the most complete remedy ever prepared. For Dysentery or Painful Sore Throat it is unrivaled.
In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it will afford entire relief in the worst cases of Nervous Headache in thirty minutes.
For Nervous Diseases this medicine is of immense value.
Affections of the Spine, Rheumatism, Lameness, Diseased Bone, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Tumors, Cancer, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Agues in the Face or Breast, Burns, Scald Head, Scrofula, Fish Worms, Erysipelas, Sores of long standing, Fever Sores, Sores, etc., will be immediately relieved by the use of Dr. Trask's Magnetic Ointment.
Dr. Trask, 57 & 59 Fulton St. New York.

CHARLEVOIX
Harness Shop
Full Stock of Light and Heavy
HARNESS.
Both Double and single, manufactured on short notice.
REPAIRING
of all kinds done promptly, in good style and at reasonable prices.
Upholstering a Specialty
Please give me a call—opposite Fox, Rose & Buttars's store.
JAS. E. WOOD.
Charlevoix, June 6, 1876.

THE CHARLEVOIX SENTINEL.

Vol. IX. No. 44 CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Feb., 25. 1878. Whole No., 459

The Sentinel,
Published every Tuesday by
WILLARD A. SMITH
—EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR—
OFFICE Postoffice Building
On Bridge Street
Terms of Subscription
$1.50 per Annum, In Advance.
OR FOR SIX MONTHS.
JOB PRINTING executed in good style and at reasonable charges.

Advertising Rates:

Space.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	6 m.	1 yr.
1 inch sq.,	$ 80	$1.25	$1.75	$2.50	$6.00	$ 10
2 inches	1.25	1.75	2.25	4.00	7.00	10.00
3 "	1.75	2.25	3.00	5.00	7.50	12.00
4 "	2.25	3.00	3.50	6.75	10.00	14.00
1 column,	3.25	4.00	5.00	10.00	12.00	20.00
4 "	5.00	6.75	8.50	17.00	26.00	35.00
8 "	8.50	10.00	12.00	20.00	35.00	50.00

Cards in Business Directory, $1 per line per year.
Legal advertisements at statute rates.

Business Directory.

WILLARD A. SMITH, Notary Public Charlevoix, Michigan.

A. J. McLEIH, Sheriff of Charlevoix Co., Charlevoix, Michigan.

BYRON SEE, County Treasurer, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. U. MOFFATT, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Michigan.

LOVEL H. GAGE, Attorney at Law, Traverse City, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Judge of Probate and Charlevoix County, Charlevoix, Mich. A regular term of Court will be held on the first Monday of each month. Court will be open for the transaction of business at all times

A. H. CHURCH, County Clerk and Reg. ister of Deeds, Charlevoix, Mich.

EDWARD B. BREES, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Prosecuting Attorney Charlevoix Co.

ROBERT MILLER, Custom Blacksmithing, Charlevoix, Mich. Particular Attention paid to horse shoeing.

Roswell Leavitt,
LAWYER AND NOTARY,
Ek Rapisd, - Mich

DR. DEWITT A. BURNETT, Permanently located at Petoskey will visit Charlevoix one week in each month at the purpose of meeting all regular business and will be found at Mitchell's Hotel during the dental sessions.

The Campbell House,
TRAVERSE CITY MICH.
H. D. CAMPBELL, Prop

C. J. PAILTHORP,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
PETOSKEY, MICH.

S. J. FARMER,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER.
Has located his shop in J. E. Wood's harness shop, in Charlevoix and solicits the patronage of this locality. Custom work and repairing done in neatest and

Repairing
Done on short notice.

Millinery & Dress-Making
I would respectfully inform the public of Charlevoix and vicinity that I am prepared to do
DRESS-FITTING AND MAKING
in the most approved styles. Have also on hand
LADIES HATS
of latest styles May be found at my residence on Main street.
EMMA J. HAWES.

Wanted!

Everybody to know that the best place to buy
Drugs and Medicines
DYE STUFFS,
Stationery & Confectionery
IS AT
CROUTER'S
Drug Store, opposite the Rocker House, where he will supply the people of that section and surrounding country with anything they may want in his line. Prescriptions compounded night or day, also Teeth Extracted Without Pain

LOOK!

The largest and best assortment of
STOVES
Hardware & Tinware
To be found anywhere in this region is at the store of
M. J. Stockman
Charlevoix, Mich.

Stage and Mail Line.
TIME TABLE.
A new stage and mail line has been established between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:
Leave Petoskey at 7 a. m. Arrive at Charlevoix at 12 m.
Leave Charlevoix 1.30 p. m. Arrive at Petoskey at 6 p. m.
Every necessary attention will be paid to the safe transportation of passengers and mail, and all reasonable favors will be cheerfully granted. Orders left at the Rocker House, Charlevoix, will be promptly attended to.
H. C. SMITH, Prop.

J. A. BARTRAM,
House Sign and Carriage
PAINTER.
Kalsomining, Graining and Paper-Hanging.
26] CHARLEVOIX, MICH

Great Bargains in Real Estate.
A few choice water lots on Round Lake, and a number of inland lots, all in the VILLAGE OF CHARLEVOIX, for sale. Also choice land lying on the outskirts of the village will be sold very cheap for cash. For particulars inquire of
W. C. NEWMAN.
Charlevoix, Nov 5, 1877

NOTICE. U. S. Land Office
Traverse City Mich., Nov. 24, 1877.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Jasper Priest against Wm. H. Dungey, for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 5574, dated April 1 1875, upon the ¼ of and section 26, Township 34 North, R 8 West, in Charlevoix county, Mich., with a view to the cancellation of said Entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 20th day of March, 1878, at 10 o'clock, a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.
SETH C. MOFFATT, Register.
PERRY HANNAH, Receiver.

Society Directory.

I. O. O. F.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 311 I. O. O. F. meets every Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, in Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren cordially welcome.
JAMES M. CLARK, N. G.
J. MILO EATON, Sec'y.

F. AND A. M.
Charlevoix Lodge No. 284 F. & A. M. holds its communications on the Tuesday evening on or before the full of the moon of each month.
W. A. SMITH, W. M.
A. J. CROUTER, Sec'y.

I. O. F.
Pleasant Home Lodge No. 344, I. O. F. meets at Crooked Lake, Mich., on the Monday preceding the full of the moon in each month at 6 o'clock p. m. Visiting brethren will receive a hearty welcome.
HOWARD DUANE, W. M.
EDSON DUANE, Sec'y.

DR. L. LEWIS, Physician, Surgeon and Druggist, Charlevoix.

DR. C. A. PERRIN,
Physician and Surgeon,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE SENTINEL.
WILLARD A. SMITH, EDITOR.
Charlevoix Postoffice.
MAILS CLOSE AT THE POSTOFFICE AS FOLLOWS:
For Petoskey and Traverse City, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 m.
For Boyne City, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12 m.
For Mackinaw and Cheboygan, daily, at 12 m., departure at 1 P. M.
SOUTHERN MAIL closes at 7 a. m. on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, arrive at 5 p. m. of the same days.
W. A. SMITH, P. M.

Local News.
Charlevoix Market Report.

Flour, per barrel	$4 00
Wheat, per bushel	1 00
Corn, per bushel	40
Oats, per bushel	25
Potatoes, per bushel	20
Butter, per pound	18
Eggs, per dozen	20
Pork, per pound	6 @ 7c
Beef, per pound	6 @ 7c
Lard, per pound	10
Hay, per ton	10 00

Cash professional card of D. L. Lewis, in this issue.

Grant Ager is by the piece or inland at See & Washburn's.

The circulation of the SENTINEL is increasing steadily and substantially.

M. J. STOCKMAN will on Friday for Bellaire, on business connected with the building of his Pine Lake Steamer At last accounts her hull had been planked, and work was rapidly progressing.

Mr. George Wood, of Michigan, is visiting his brother, C. A. Wood, of this place, this week.—Scotland (Ind.) Gazette.

Thus in Gen. M. Wood, of Bellaire, this county

Emmon—In our list of the ministers who participated in the dedication services on the 17th we omitted to mention the name of Rev. Geo. W. Wood, of this place.

The Progress says that efforts are being made by the people of the upper part of Antrim county to build a Masonic Hall. Torch Lake, Eastport and Central Lake are competing for it.

New Dietrich—Dr. C. A. Perrin, of Cheboygan, has located in Charlevoix for the practice of the profession. He comes well recommended. See his card elsewhere.

Orders have been issued transferring the Ionia land office to Reed City. This probably involves a change of officials, and is expected in well informed circles to precede the consolidation of the Ionia and Traverse districts.

FAIR GROUND AND DRIVING PARK.—An informal meeting was held on Thursday evening at Fox's Hall to discuss the question of establishing a driving park near the village. The subscription paper, which now has about $250 pledged, contemplates the establishment of a "Driving Park and Agricultural Fair Ground." The ground which will be selected will probably be twenty acres on the level plain north of this village. About $100 will be necessary to fit the ground for use.

Subsidies of County Officers.

Presumably under the depressing influences of hard times, petitions are in circulation for signatures, asking the Board of Supervisors to reduce the salaries of the County officers.

